

Statistical Report of Seventh-day Adventist Conferences, Missions, and Institutions

For the Year Ending December 31, 1910

Compiled by
H. E. Rogers, Statistical Secretary

Issued by the
GENERAL CONFERENCE OF SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS
Takoma Park Station, Washington, D. C.

THE STATISTICAL REPORT FOR 1910

A Year of Progress—A Review of Former Years

BEGINNING a little over sixty years ago, with only a handful of believers and but few laborers, with practically no facilities, and no institutions or organizations of any kind, this cause started on its career. To-day there stands developed a united, organized body of over one hundred thousand believers, supporting 4,346 evangelistic laborers, and contributing annually for evangelistic work over two million dollars; operating 188 colleges, publishing houses, and sanitariums, and 594 primary schools, with total denominational assets of over ten million dollars, and employing 3,918 institutional laborers; selling annually over a million and a half dollars worth of denominational publications, issued in sixty-seven languages; in the form of 1,878 books, pamphlets, or tracts, and 126 periodicals,—these are some of the results for which every believer in this cause has reason to be profoundly grateful. The progress made during 1910, as well as a review of the work of former years, is exhibited in the following pages.

The report this year is presented under three tables, nine summaries, and four diagrams; the tables are arranged as follows: Table No. 1 gives the information regarding the conferences and missions throughout the world, as well as the Sabbath-school, Educational, and Missionary Volunteer departments; Table No. 2 gives the information with references to colleges, publishing houses, and sanitariums, and Table No. 3 presents a summary of the reports from the date of organization of the General Conference in 1863, to the present time, thus making possible annual comparisons.

Summary No. 1

Summary No. 1 presents, in column 2, by unions, the total value of church buildings and primary or church schools, now amounting to $1,896,791.97. Of this amount, $1,721,178.85 (90.74 per cent) is the valuation of the 1,256 church buildings (whose increase in valuation during 1910 was 1.72 per cent), while the remainder, $175,613.12 (9.26 per cent), is the valuation of the buildings and equipment of the 594 church schools (whose increase in valuation during the year was 21.68 per cent). The net gain in value for both churches and schools was $60,514, or 3.30 per cent. In column 3 is indicated the percentage of each union total as related to the total of each group of unions, while the next column gives the percentage which each union total forms of the grand total. The per capita valuation is shown in column 5, the highest valuation being that for the Pacific Union, $32.62, the average for the world being $18.15.

In column 6 is stated the amount of all funds raised in each union. This includes tithes and offerings for all purposes, amounting to $2,223,767.52. The next two columns show, respectively, the percentage of each union total as related to the total for the group and to the grand total. The total contributions per capita are stated in column 9, by which it may be seen that the South African Union takes the lead, by contributing during the year $35.36 per capita. The average for the entire field is $21.27 per capita, a gain of $4.61 per capita during the year. The gain in funds during 1910 was $239,210.37, or 12.05 per cent.

In column 10 is given the number of Sabbath-keepers in each union, with the percentages of the group and of the grand total shown in columns 11 and 12. Thus it is shown that the largest number of Sabbath-keepers is in the Lake Union, constituting 18.18 per cent of the number in the United States, or 11.11 per cent of the grand total. In the United States there are 61.14 per cent of the grand total; in Canada, 2.28 per cent; Australasia, 4.40 per cent; Europe, 21.00 per cent; other fields, 11.18 per cent. The net gain in Sabbath-keepers in the entire field during 1910 was 3,595, or 3.56 per cent. A comparison of columns 4, 8, and 12 indicates the respective relation as to the value of churches, contributions, and communicants in each union and group. Note that in the United States these percentages are, respectively, 83.96, 72.87, and 61.14.

Summary No. 2

In Summary No. 2 is stated, in column 2, the percentage which the population of each union conference sustains to the grand total population of all countries where work is being conducted by the denomination. In column 3 is shown the number of inhabitants in each union for each Seventh-day Adventist in that union. Note, for instance, that in the United States for each Seventh-day Adventist there are 1,439 persons; while outside the United States for each Seventh-day Adventist there are 32,810 persons; that is, if the population were divided into congregations, for each Seventh-day Adventist in the United States there would be a congregation numbering 1,439, while for those living outside the United States the congregation would number twenty-three times as large, or 32,810 persons (some countries numbering very much higher, as in India, 531,197). The ratio, then, between the communicants in the United States and those outside this country in relation to the population of each respective territory, is as 1 to 23. An equal distribution of communicants throughout the world according to population would assign to the United States only 2,779 Seventh-day Adventists.

The total laborers in the United States, 2,252, related to the population of the United States would give each a congregation of 40,868, while each of the 2,094 laborers outside the United States would have a congregation more than fifteen times as large, or 626,288 persons. The ratio, then, between the workers in the United States and those outside the United States in respect to population of each respective territory, is as 1 to 15. An equal distribution of the laborers throughout the world according to population, would assign to the United States only 288 laborers.

Column 4 gives the total number of evangelistic laborers by unions, while column 5 states the number of Seventh-day Adventists for each evangelistic worker in the respective union. This summary readily indicates such portions of the field as are poorly supplied with laborers, and something as to the relation of laborers to the communicants.

Summaries Nos. 3 to 7 are the result of much painstaking research, requiring the examination of thousands of pages of periodicals, year books, documents, and all other available means for securing the information desired. It is not claimed that the results are perfect; in fact, it is impossible to secure complete returns, for the reason that during the earlier years of this cause few statistical records or reports were filed or printed; and while much historical data may be found, and many historical sketches presented from time to time, yet the information is in many instances too indefinite, statistically, to do much more than use it as a basis for forming estimates. For the earlier years in all these summaries, therefore, the information given is in some instances estimated. To illustrate, while the assets of an institution could be secured for a certain year, for another year it would be impossible to obtain any data, but the next year the thread could be taken up again; for the intervening year it was necessary, therefore, to estimate. But it may safely be considered that for all practical purposes the information contained in these summaries is substantially correct. With the records available (and they are practically everything that has ever appeared), the results stated are perhaps a It was not until 1905 that the value of periodical sales began to be included in these reports. The investigation necessary to compile this summary shows that the amounts reported in Table No. 3, prior to 1905 are far short of what they should be, as they represent generally the value of subscription books, sold principally in the United States, and not the total book and periodical sales of all the publishing houses, as have been reported since 1905.

the best that could be presented. Some of the foot-notes in connection with summaries direct attention to certain discrepancies in earlier years.

The desirability of securing this information has been recognized for a number of years. As the reader looks down the expanding columns of figures representing the growth that has come to the various departments of this cause, he can but the more forcibly realize that the providence of God has worked marvelous changes. This success has been realized in various departments of work, and in many countries of the world. Truly one is led to exclaim, "What hath God wrought!"

The summaries above referred to will now be taken up in detail, thus showing the growth of each department.

Summary No. 3

This is a summary of the Publishing Department. It was in July, 1849, at Middletown, Conn., that the first periodical literature appeared in behalf of this cause. This was the paper entitled Present Truth, the name of which was in 1850 changed to Second Advent Review and Sabbath Herald, which, with slight change of name, is continued at the present time. With this small beginning the work gradually grew until at the present time there are twenty-eight publishing houses, with assets of $1,176,092.39; a net gain in assets during the year, of $33,967.77, or 2.98 per cent. The summary shows that the book and periodical sales for 1910 were $1,560,510.58, a gain of $158,066.58 for the year, or 11.24 per cent. The total employees connected with the publishing houses now number 610. Publications of all kinds are now issued in sixty-seven languages in the form of 363 bound books, 315 pamphlets, 1200 tracts, and 126 periodicals, the total value of one copy of each kind of publication or annual subscription, being $525. The per capita of book and periodical sales for 1910 was $14.93.

Summary No. 4

Summary No. 4 relates to Sanitarium work. It was on the 5th of September, 1866, that the first sanitarium operated by this denomination was formally opened for the reception of patients. This was the Battle Creek Sanitarium, which for many years continued to be the only institution among us. Gradually the number of institutions and their assets increased, as indicated in the summary. The physicians, nurses, and other employees have also increased in like manner. The assets of the seventy-four institutions now amount to $3,368,041.46, a net gain for the year 1910 of $106,860.32, or 3.28 per cent, while the gain in employees has been 15%, or 8.45 per cent.

Summary No. 5

This summary gives information regarding the educational work. The first denominational school was opened in Battle Creek, Mich., June 3, 1872, under the supervision of the General Conference Committee, with Prof. G. H. Bell in charge. This school developed into Battle Creek College, which was incorporated March 11, 1874. The summary also indicates that the first primary or church-school was opened in 1880. This was a school conducted in Oakland, Cal. The establishment of such schools, however, was not very general until about fifteen years later. The number of schools conducting work in the primary grades and those conducting work in advanced grades, with the number of teachers, and students enrolled, and the valuation of each class of school, are clearly indicated in the summary. From this it is shown that there are now a total of 680 denominational schools; 1,319 teachers, 42.46 per cent of whom are teaching in schools of advanced grades; 20,526 students enrolled, 34.93 per cent of whom are in schools of advanced grades. The total valuation of these schools is $2,115,806.27, 91.69 per cent of which is the valuation of the eighty-six advanced schools. The net increase in valuation of all schools for the year is $272,412.18, or 11.48 per cent. The enrolment constitutes 19.64 per cent of the total communicants.

The above recapitulation gives the total investment by the denomination in institutions, church buildings, conferences, etc., now amounting to over ten and a half million dollars, or a per capita of $101.73. A few interesting comparisons may be noted, as follows: The assets of the publishing houses constitutes 11.06 per cent of the total investment, while the employees form 7.38 per cent of the total laborers. The investment in sanitariums is 31.67 per cent of the total investment, and such employees are 24.06 per cent of the total. The investment in educational work is 19.90 per cent, the employees forming 15.97 per cent. The investment in churches, conferences, tract societies, etc., is 37.37 per cent (as against 62.63 per cent invested in institutions), while the workers engaged in these lines form 52.59 per cent of the total laborers (as against 47.41 per cent of laborers in institutions). Institutions having an investment of 62.63 per cent of total assets, are operated by 47.41 per cent of total laborers; while conferences, etc., having 37.37 per cent of total assets are employing 52.59 per cent of total laborers engaged in service.

Summary No. 6

Summary No. 6 pertains to the Sabbath-school Department. The year 1878 is selected as the starting point, for the reason that it was on March 4 of that year, during the third special session of the General Conference, that the General Sabbath-school department was organized. Sabbath-schools had been conducted for years prior to that time. The summary indicates, in columns 2 and 3, the number of schools and their membership. In column 4 is indicated the percentage which the Sabbath-school membership sustains to the church membership. The total contributions are listed in column 5, with the amount per capita for the various years in column 6. Donations to missions are shown in column 7, while in column 8 is indicated the percentage of total contributions which has been devoted to mission purposes for the various years. The average for all the years since 1886 (at which time a portion of the Sabbath-school funds were first devoted to mission purposes, so far as any records are obtainable) is 71.04 per cent. That is, during all these years, 71.04 per cent of the total contributions received, has been passed on by the local Sabbath-schools to foreign missions. During the last three years the percentage has steadily mounted upward, so that for the year 1910 the amount devoted to mission purposes constituted 97.67 per cent of the total contributions. At the same time the amount given per capita has steadily increased, and to-day it is the highest in the history of our Sabbath-school work, now amounting annually to $1.36 per member throughout the world. This amount is more than ten times greater than was the per capita when Sabbath-school contributions were first received. The Sabbath-school contributions now constitute 6.20 per cent of total contributions from all sources, and, being devoted almost entirely to foreign missions, form a considerable part of funds for such work. The net gain in total contributions for the year amounts to $17,354.92, or 4.35 per cent. The net increase in donations to missions for the year has been $20,616, or 18.04 per cent.

a Prior to 1900 the percentages in this column are based on church members; from 1900 to 1910, based on Sabbath-keepers. For most of the years from 1887 to about 1900, three or four conflicting reports from original sources may be found. For instance, the official reports in the Sabbath School Worker, the General Conference Bulletin, and the Year Book seldom agree in any particular; and every few years a summary appeared, in which other conflicting figures were noted. No responsibility is assumed for the figures between the dates mentioned, the compiler of this table not attempting to decide between the merits of each set of conflicting reports, but rather choosing those which have been published in summaries most frequently in later years, which in most cases were the highest amounts reported.

Summary No. 7

This summary gives information pertaining to the Missionary Volunteer Department, by which it is shown that there are now 647 societies, with a membership of 12,408, constituting 12.55 per cent of the total Sabbath-keepers. The total contributions for the year amounted to $18,807.03, or $1.51 per capita, 62.60 per cent of which was spent in foreign work. The careful reader who compares this report with the one for 1909 will observe that there has been a decrease reported in the membership of the conferences in the United States. This decrease is apparent only, and comes from the adoption of the per capita basis of raising funds. Although this plan has been in operation for some time, yet its results have seemed to reach the churches themselves in a way to affect the returns for 1910.

In cases where no reports have been received for 1910, it has been necessary to estimate, and such fact has been noted in the tables. It seems almost impossible to secure returns from every official, despite the earnest endeavor put forth to secure reports from every field. The most difficult feature in the preparation of these reports is attempting, repeatedly, to induce careless, indifferent officials to do their duty in reporting the information called for; and this difficulty is increasing as the work grows.

Financial Summary for 1910.—Summary No. 8

The preceding diagram shows that of the total valuation of church buildings and primary schools, there is in the United States 83.96 per cent, and in other countries, 16.04 per cent.

The above diagram indicates that of the total contributions from all sources, there was raised in the United States 72.87 per cent, and in all other fields 27.13 per cent.

The foregoing diagram illustrates the relation of communicants in the United States and in other fields, showing that in the former there is 61.14 per cent, and in all other countries 38.86 per cent.

The above diagram indicates that the population of the United States constitutes but 6.46 per cent of the total population where denominational work is being conducted, while the population of all other fields forms 93.54 per cent.

Remarks regarding the rapid development of the work, and comments upon various features of this report, might be made at considerable length; but it is unnecessary: the figures speak for themselves, and make plain the whole story.

It will be sufficient, in closing, to allude briefly to a few of the leading facts, which are clearly set forth in Summary No. 9. This shows that during the last forty-five years there has been a gain of 99 conferences (and, in addition, there are now 87 mission fields where in 1865 there was none). There are now 188 institutions, instead of but one in 1865.

The valuation of institutions, etc., has increased over ten million dollars, and the gain in communicants has been over 100,000. The total annual contributions has increased over two million dollars, while the amount contributed annually has increased from $3.00 per capita to $21.27 per capita. That is, to-day there

That which inspires confidence in the ultimate success of a movement is the demonstrated evidence of its growth and development. What greater evidence could one expect than is seen in this cause? Within a single generation its numbers multiplied by twenty-five, and each member contributing for the support of the work over seven times the amount contributed per member a generation ago. Thus the efficiency of each member has increased sevenfold, and the numbers multiplied by twenty-five; in other words, over 175 times more work is being accomplished to-day for the support and extension of this cause than was being done a generation ago; and this relates only to the evangelistic phase, and takes no account of the institutional work now being carried forward as a strong auxiliary factor in the promulgation of this cause. And the end is not yet; for the Lord has set his hand to finish his work in the earth, and in so far as these means and agencies are consecrated to this purpose, he will use them in a wonderful way for the accomplishment of this result.

Foot-Notes for Table No. 1

(a) Since mission fields are not organized in the way conferences are, the dates in column 2 do not refer to the time of their organization, as in the case of conferences, but to the time when the field was entered or when information was first separately given in these reports. The distinction between conferences and mission fields is indicated by the names assigned each in the list.

(b) The population in the United States is according to the 1910 census returns, all divisions according to county lines being figured accurately.

(c) The tithe per capita is based upon the total Sabbath-keepers, and not upon the membership of churches only.

(d) By total laborers in column 19 is meant the total number employed in the conference or mission field in evangelistic work, including not only the four classes named in the preceding columns, but all other persons not thus specified. The totals in column 19 are not always, therefore, the totals of the four preceding columns, but are frequently greater.

(e) All receipts of Kansas Conference for first eight months of 1910 (at the end of which the conference was divided) were prorated on the basis of membership of the two divisions.

(f) After repeated requests for months, and yet no response, it becomes necessary to use the figures for the preceding year, with such changes as can be gathered in various ways.

(g) A failure to receive returns for 1910 makes necessary the use of the figures for 1909, with such changes as are supposed to be correct.

(h) Under General Conference are included those engaged in general labor, and not accounted for elsewhere.

(i) The total book and periodical sales for 1910 are more accurately given in Table No. 2, section 2, where the sales of the publishing houses themselves are shown to be $1,550,510.58. It is not possible for the conferences to report the entire sales made by the publishing houses, since the houses deal directly with individuals in many cases. Therefore the report of the publishing houses themselves as to the amount of books and periodicals printed and sold by them should be considered as more accurate, and will be noted in the standing summary, Table No. 3, as the sales for the year. The report of conference sales, however, is retained throughout the report, in order that the showing for the various conferences may be referred to by those desiring the information.

Foot-Notes for Table No. 2

Section I

(a) The system of educational work outlined by the Educational Department of the General Conference in 1906, comprising sixteen grades, or years of study, is arranged as follows: Church-schools (information concerning which will be found listed under columns 28 to 32 in Table No. 1), grades 1-3; intermediate schools, grades 7-10; academies, grades 9-12; colleges, grades 13-16.

(b) In compiling the returns, fractions of acres were not included, thus omitting institutions located on small plots, such as city lots.

(c) The "capacity" of schools is the number of students that may be accommodated in classes, and does not refer to

Section 2

(a) The languages in which denominational publications of all kinds were issued at the close of 1910, are the following:—

Arabic, Armenian, Armeno-Turkish, Batak, Bengali, Bohemian, Bulgarian, Burmese, Cantonese (China), Chasu (East Africa), Chitonga (South Africa), Croatian, Danish-Norwegian, Dutch, English, Estonian, Fijian, Finnish, French, German, Greek (Modern), Greco-Turkish, Hawaiian, Hebrew, Hindi, Hungarian, Icelandic, Italian, Japanese, Java-Malay, Kafir (Xosa), Korean, Laplandish, Lettonian, Lithuanian Malay (Singapore), Mandarin (China), Manganja (East Africa), Maori (New Zealand), Marathi, Niue, Polish, Portuguese, Rarotongan, Rumanian, Russian, Samoan, Santal, Servian, Sesuto (South Africa), Slovakian, Soenda (Roman), Spanish, Swahili, Swedish, Tagalog, Tahitian, Tamil (India), Tongan, Turkish, Urdu (Roman), Urdu (Persian), Welsh, Wendic, Wen-li (China), Yiddish, Zulu. Total languages, 67.

Section 3

(a) Operated as treatment-rooms; hence the capacity and number of patients treated, as stated in columns 5 and 7, can not be reported on same basis as for sanitariums; in some cases this information is estimated.

(b) Assets, etc., included in statement of Nashville Agricultural and Normal Institute, under Table 2, Section 1, (b).

(c) Assets included under Washington Sanitarium, above.

(d) Including assets of Sydney Sanitarium and Benevolent Association, amounting to $76,739.47.

(e) Estimated.

(f) Including $114,896.01 as assets of Philanthropic Society.

(g) Including $135,393.14 as assets of Scandinavian Philanthropic Society.

(h) Began early in 1911.

Foot-Notes for Table No. 3

1. Estimated conservatively.
2. By the term "mission" is meant a local field not yet organized into a conference, whether in the United States or elsewhere.

3. In the column showing total laborers are included all persons specified in preceding column as well as all other evangelistic laborers not thus specified. The amount shown in this column is therefore frequently more than the total of the four preceding columns.

4. Beginning with 1900, the report shows the number of Sabbath-keepers, as well as the church-membership. The difference is made up of members of companies and isolated believers. From this date the title per capita is based on the Sabbath-keepers.

5. From 1886 to 1910 the amount given to missions, and included in the preceding column, was $932,379.28, leaving $380,073.49 expended otherwise.
