"Under a Bushel"

by
M. L. RICE

Jesus warned of four places where men should not put their light, or candle—"under a bushel," "under a vessel," "under a bed," "in a secret place." We will consider at this time, "under a bushel." "Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house." Matt. 5:15.

A bushel is a fit symbol of trade and business. The "candle" represents man's Christian experience, the light of truth that has come to him. Christ warned man against putting his light under a bushel or making it secondary to his business. That warning sounds sensible. A light under a bushel basket could certainly do neither its possessor nor anyone else any good. The light would be entirely lost.

Christ knew that the light under a bushel, of one all absorbed in business and commercial affairs would soon be lost. This warning given some two thousand years ago, is just as timely if not more so today.

The candle under a bushel is a warning against being so absorbed in business and commercialism that the light of Christian experience is covered up. It is a warning against having business come first in a man's thinking and planning, and his religion second.

We live in a highly commercialized world. We touch business of some kind at every turn. As long as we are in the world we must come in contact with business. It becomes a part of every one's life. The temptation will be for it to become first in our thinking. But instead of allowing business, the making of a living, to overshadow or crowd out our Christian experience, we are to put our religion first, and business second.

Instead of losing our religion under a bushel of business, we should use the bushel or business as a candlestick, so that our business may give light to our religious profession. When we put our light on top of the bushel, our business reflects our religion. This puts our business where it bears a definite relation to the truth we profess. People can see that our business dealings are a part of our religion. This is as it should be.

When the candle is on the bushel it shows up our business. The light from our business is shed like bright rays over those with whom we come in contact. A man's business then gives a testimony in favor of the doctrines he professes that is stronger than words. His business becomes a silent preacher of the truth.

When one is so completely engrossed in business, so fully given up to making a living that there is no time left for prayer or the study of the Bible, then he has put his candle under a bushel.

To keep our lights trimmed and burning, to keep oil in our vessels, to maintain our Christian experience takes time. The time for prayer and study must not be crowded out. It is at the altar of prayer that the oil for our lamps is replenished.

The work given the remnant people in the prophecy is to take the last warning message to "every nation, kindred, tongue, and people." We are not to be so absorbed in business or the things of this world, that we lose our vision.

"Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Matt. 5: 16.

Sympathy

"Christ's method alone will give true success in reaching the people. The Saviour mingled with men as one who desired their good. He showed his sympathy for them, ministered to their needs, and won their confidence. Then he bade them 'Follow me.'"—Ministry of Healing, p. 143.

Sympathy is something that is needed very much today. People may argue about our various doctrines but they will never argue with one who offers sympathy or kindness in word and deed to help someone who is in distress. This has been brought to our attention over and over again and it should spur us on to greater deeds of sympathy and loving service for the Master.

Just recently one of our members had an opportunity to put this into practice. In the local paper she saw a picture of a young man who had been killed in Korea. Below his name was the caption, "It will be God's will." This was an excerpt from what he had written his mother, a portion of which follows:

"We are in an attack but everything will turn out all right. If anything should happen to me over here it will be God's will so please don't worry."

When our sister saw the picture, she recognized the fact that she knew the grandmother of this young man and immediately made arrangements to visit her. Having visited and had prayer with the grandmother she felt she should follow up what she had started so went to visit the mother of the boy, also. The mother appreciated the sympathy expressed and when our sister volunteered to have prayer with her she called her husband and the rest of the family together. Altogether they were very favorably impressed. Now, within a week or two following, we find the grandmother has accepted the invitation to attend, not only our evangelistic meetings, but our regular church service, and the mother of the boy, together with the remainder of the family, is also coming out to attend church services, all as the result of an expression of sympathy.

If you watch and pray it may be that the Spirit of God will impress you just where and how you can extend sympathy and kindness, thus becoming a soul-winner for the Master. Truly the harvest is ripe and we are sent forth as reapers in the Lord's harvest.

Silent Messengers

In the wave of prosperity that is now sweeping the land many people are spending their money for that which is not bread. It is gratifying to find, however, that some folk still weigh eternal realities and attempt to invest their spare time and their means wisely. In the choice of reading many people are wasting their hours. On the other hand, some are earnestly seeking to discover the meaning and significance of current events. This more serious attitude is contributing to the remarkable success our colporteurs are having during 1950.

As we think of the thousands of homes into which literature has found entrance, we must recognize that the truths these books contain will have some effect upon the hearts of many who read them.

The silent messengers that are placed in the homes of the people through the work of the canvasser, will strengthen the gospel ministry in every way; for the Holy Spirit will impress minds as they read the books, just as He impresses the minds of those who listen to the preaching of the word. The same ministry of angels attends the books that contain the truth as attends the work of the minister.—Testimonies, VI, 316.

Surely, this is God's set time for the finishing of His work upon earth. The grain is golden and fully ready for harvest. Much has been lost already because we have not put forth the sickle to read. God's promise to pour out His Spirit upon "all flesh" in the last days is even now fulfilled. Everywhere He is stirring up hearts to see His truth. There will probably never be another time like this.

Are you standing ready to be used?
If so, act now!

Giant Youth Rally Planned

Sabbath, November 25, will be a high day in Zion for the youth of the Ephesus church, New York City. The youth of the church on that day will join hands with their elder brothers of the Home Missionary Department for an assault on Harlem. These messengers of the Ephesus church are sending the S. O. S. call to surrounding societies of this area, to come and join in this projected assault for Christ and humanity.

In Gospel Workers, page 67, the servant of the Lord reminds the youth that "God calls for youthful vigor, zeal, and courage. He has chosen the youth to aid in the advancement of His cause. To plan with clear mind and execute with courageous hand demands fresh, uncrippled energies. Young men and women are invited to give God the strength of their youth, that through the exercise of their powers, through keen thought and vigorous action, they may ring glory to Him and salvation to their fellow-men." We can help bring salvation to our fellow-men by joining in the Operation Doorbell, Sabbath, November 25.

From the Autumn Council

You will be interested to know how the meetings are progressing here at the Autumn Council. We have now had four meetings. All of these were revival meetings such as we are conducting in our churches, only in this audience there are mostly the men from the General Conference, the union conference leaders, and the local conference presidents.

Elder Branson, our General Conference president, led out in the first meeting. He presented the subject of the preparation and reception of the Holy Spirit. He told us that throughout the entire Fall Council the meetings will be on that theme, various phases being considered by different speakers.

The Holy Spirit certainly was manifested in this meeting, and there was a deep feeling of the need of a closer walk with God. This morning various groups met in prayer bands; then this afternoon, in fact, all day, we have had studies along the line of the preparation that is needed now for the reception of the Holy Spirit. Elder Roy Anderson, secretary of the Ministerial Association, led out in the first meeting of the day. Again we were made conscious of the fact that we are living in the day when God wants to endue His people with the power from on high. The brethren read to us from the servant of the Lord the statement that we can have this experience now. Elder Branson read from the Review of some years ago that "this very hour this experience can be obtained by God's people." This morning opportunity was given for testimony meeting, and a large number went forward and bore testimony of their own experience and the desire in their hearts to have this higher and holier life manifested through them and also to be ready to meet the Lord when He comes. They also testified that they are ready to put away everything, to lay all upon the altar so that God can use them for the finishing of the work now.

This afternoon Elder M. K. Eckenroth led out, and Elder Glenn Calkins followed. All were called forward for an altar call. These workers who are here are in earnest that nothing shall be left undone as far as their own lives and experience are concerned, but they are ready to give all and make the sacrifice that is needed and have every sin forgiven so that the Holy Spirit can be poured out upon God's church at this time.

These men, of course, are men of God. They have lived for God and they have sacrificed, but they feel that for the sake of God's people, all over the world they should do yet more, as Jesus said in John 17:19, "And for their sakes I sanctify myself that they also might be sanctified through thy truth." And so, the workers here are joining our people who are now having these revival meetings in the churches.

Reports from the various conferences show that our people in the churches are welcoming this revival work and are getting ready for the outpouring of the latter rain. We are expecting a greater and deeper experience than we have ever had before, and we believe that the coming of the Lord is near, nearer than any of us believe. Therefore, let us all join in seeking God and in putting away every difference. We are told in the Spirit of prophecy that our brethren have made many mistakes, but if we have made one we are to confess that one and leave the results of the brethren's experience with the Lord. Will you not, each one in his own heart, resolve now that you will go to God and ask Him to show you wherein you have failed, and make that right, and then let God lead you and guide you for the finishing of His great work. That is my prayer and I ask an interest in your prayers that we as workers with you as laymen may all stand together and be ready for the great Pentecostal movement that God wants to give His people now.

J. J. REISWIG

Dorcas Deeds

Four hundred sixty-five Dorcas ladies were in attendance at our seven Dorcas federations throughout the conference. At six of these federations we were privileged to have Mrs. Cora Thurber from the General Conference Home Missionary Department present. She gave us excellent help. Elder L. E. Esteb was present at the last one held in Syracuse. We appreciated the inspiration that he brought to us.

The Dorcas work in the conference is growing. Several new Dorcas store-rooms have been provided in the different churches. A regular program of gathering in clothing and distributing it is being followed. One of the big projects now is to encourage all members of the church to take the First Aid Course offered by the Red Cross so that we can be of service to our community and to our nation.

While we are carrying on Dorcas activities we should keep in mind, "Whatever one's calling in life, his first interest should be to win souls for Christ." Surely this is uppermost in the minds of our Dorcas ladies as they go out and minister in His name.

"Say it with Dorcas deeds." May this be the slogan of every Dorcas sister in our field.

Union Springs Field Day

"The Lord hath done great things for us; whereof we are glad." Ps. 126:3. Elder Esteb had just completed the Week of Prayer at the Academy. It was very fitting that Brother Bartlett, the principal, could arrange for an Ingathering field day on a Monday to put into actual practice the things that these young people had been told during the week. This was Christianity in action. Brother Bartlett at the very last had to make long-distance telephone calls to get extra cars in which to take these young people out for the field trip.

The Spirit of the Lord certainly had moved upon the hearts of these youth, and they were anxious to go out into the field in service for Him. A number had never been out before. There were eleven students who did not go. One driver failed to appear and that accounted for eight who did not get to go who were sorely disappointed.

If you could have been present at the close of the day's work and received the inspiration that came from these young people, you would have thanked God for our academy. One hundred sixty-eight individuals were enrolled in the 20th Century Bible Course. Over four thousand pieces of literature were distributed. Prayer was offered in many homes. These young people are on fire with the message. This is the spirit that it is going to take to finish the work of God. The returns for the day amounted to over $400. Saturday night a number of the young people went into Auburn and did singing band work. They gathered in $35 for missions. And besides this a rich experience came to all in giving service to the Master.

A considerable portion of the territory worked on Monday had been worked earlier in the spring. This is the first time in several years that the academy has had an Ingathering in the fall. Brother Bartlett with the teachers and our good folk who so kindly gave of the time and the use of their cars for this field day we want to say thanks. May God's bountiful blessings continue to rest upon the teachers and students in our academy in Union Springs. May this same spirit permeate all the churches throughout the field to the finishing of the work of God.

An Important Triad

In a departmental meeting of the Maine State Teachers' Association a few days ago, several hundred teachers sat for two hours during a panel discussion on character education. They recognized the impossibility of building without instruction in religion and sought to bring elements of religion into the school program without violating the principle of separation of church and state. It is significant that their discussions centered around an important triad: the home, the church, and the school. Each must do its part well, they insisted, if the character-building program for youth shall be satisfactory.

Seventh-day Adventists are fortunate in that our program provides for full co-operation of the parts of this important triad. God has given us the homes, the message has given us the church, and the two working together have established the school. How important it is that each shall fulfill its part in the character-building program.

The Home and School Association provides a means for the church, the home, and the school to meet together to study mutual problems. An active Home and School Association is an evidence of a church that is conscious of its needs and is seeking to fulfill its responsibilities. Teachers, parents, and church officers study prepared lessons in child development and child guidance. The results of such a program will be seen in our boys and girls who are loyal to the church and to the home, and are trained for service.

Churches that do not have church schools may organize Christian Home Councils, and carry on a similar study program with comparable results. For further information on either of these forms of organization, contact your conference educational superintendent.

which was held in Lewiston on October 26 and 27. The teachers and superintendents were especially interested to know about the character-building books which were on display.

In addition to the two thousand copies of Life and Health which were given to the teachers, several hundred copies of Listen magazine were distributed as well as other tracts and 20th Century enrollment cards.

Several of the teachers mentioned that their children brought the Uncle Arthur's Bedtime Stories to the school. The teachers appreciate books and stories which contain such impressive lessons.

We were especially fortunate in having with us Grace Clifford Howard. Mrs. Howard is well known in the American Temperance Society as well as in educational circles in Maine.

"Overdependency"

This is the title of the second talk in the series on "Family Relationship" being sponsored by the Springfield Home and School Association.

Dr. Myrtle A. Rice of the New England Sanitarium and Hospital and the Grafton State Hospital will be the speaker. When? Thursday evening, November 16 at 8:00. Where? In the Springfield church, corner of Central and Beech Streets.

The talk given by Dr. Rice will be followed by a film and a discussion period. As the film illustrates the talk, we can tell you that it deals with the case of Jimmy, an attractive young man, whose life is crippled by behavior patterns carried over from a too-dependent childhood. He is sick, but not physically, and in his conference with a doctor his childhood is gradually retraced and he comes to understand the emotional causes of his illness and his own fear, and as a result takes hold of life with new confidence.

This promises to be a most interesting session, and we give you a very warm invitation to spend Thursday evening, November 16, with us in Springfield.

News Notes

Sabbath School Investments All our Sabbath schools should be planning for an investment program and offering sometime during the month of November. According to our Sabbath school reports, we are behind last year's figures. Last year at the end of the third quarter they were $2,076, and this year we have only $1,670 reported. This is only a slight decrease, but any decrease is a bad thing, and we are looking forward to every church member and every Sabbath school taking an active part this year, so that we may still rejoice in a successful year. Remember, the Investment program is based on the parable of the talents, and to those who multiply their talents for the cause of God come the words, "Well done thou good and faithful servant."

Review and Herald. Have you subscribed to the Review this year? If you have not, the campaign is now on, and our goal is for every Seventh-day Adventist family to have the Review.

Attleboro Church. Elder W. J. Hackett, our conference temperance secretary, spent Temperance Sabbath in the Pawtucket district, speaking in the Attleboro and Pawtucket churches, and stayed for the evening program sponsored by the Attleboro members. It was no ordinary program, but a carefully planned supper organized to raise funds for the improvement of the church surroundings. Attleboro has a church to be proud of, and the members intend laying out the grounds to give it an attractive setting. As a result of the supper $190 was collected, with only a small amount to be deducted for expenses, and the evening was enjoyed by all.

Seventh Annual Worldwide Bible Reading

The seventh annual Worldwide Bible Reading Program, which is sponsored by the American Bible Society, will start on Thanksgiving Day, November 23, and end on Christmas Day. The theme that has been selected for this year is "The Bible—A Light and Guide."

The reading program may have special significance to many people this year as the program originated during the war, and was an effort to bring together in thought each day the men in the service and their families by the reading of similar portions of Scripture. A selected list of Scripture passages was chosen by the Bible Society and printed in a convenient form that fitted into a Testament or Bible. As the movement spread, millions asked for and used the book-marks published in connection with the reading program.

President Harry S. Truman is honorary chairman of a widely representative national committee of laymen which aid the Bible Society in the observance of the program. Its members include:

Judge Florence E. Allen	R. G. LeTourneau
Faith Baldwin	Kirtley F. Mather
Eugene E. Barnett	Dorothy Maynor
William Rose Benet	Robert A. Millikan
Mary McLeod Bethune	John R. Mott
Karl T. Compton	Adm. C. W. Nimitz

Worldwide Bible Reading has the endorsement of major church bodies, church councils and related agencies, such as the YMCA and the YWCA, labor leaders, business and industrial leaders. Schools, hospitals, and other institutions have taken an active part in the distribution and use of the daily Scripture readings.

The Worldwide Bible Reading Program is also observed in those areas covered by the Bible Society's twelve foreign agencies. It has spread to many lands through missionaries, agents of the American Bible Society, and the usual channels of public information. Thirty-four countries participated in the program last year. Chaplains serving with various branches of the Armed Forces in all parts of the world, and the service men to whom they minister, also have a part in this "worldwide" aspect of the Reading Program.

Week of Sacrifice and Annual Offering

Sabbath, November 18, has been set aside by the General Conference Committee as the Week of Sacrifice and Annual Offering Sabbath. The annual Week of Prayer is always welcomed by the the people of God. It is a time when we should in a very special way search our own hearts to see where we stand in our relation to God and to our fellow men. During this Week of Prayer we should seek the Lord most earnestly for an outpouring of the latter rain, that the work of God might be finished in all parts of the world field. The times in which we live, the uncertainty of life itself, and the deplorable conditions all about us, demand that we as the remnant people seek the Lord as we have never done before.

We can make this the best Week of Prayer in our own experience if we choose to do so. As we read the messages prepared by the leaders may we receive that blessing of which we stand so much in need, and may they help us to sense the need of sacrificing more that the gospel might be proclaimed with power. All about us there are thousands who do not know this message. They must be reached. Through our sacrificial giving we can help in the proclamation of the gospel. The demands were never greater and the opportunities never more promising for real advance work.

Prayer and sacrifice always go together. The more we pray, the more we are willing to give. A praying church is always a giving church. We greatly appreciate the loyalty of all of our believers in supporting the cause of God. This work began in sacrifice and we are told that it will end in sacrifice. Sacrifice is based on whole-hearted consecration. When we are willing to sacrifice self, thus yielding all to God, then no sacrifice of our means will be too great.

May this be a good Week of Prayer in the lives of all our people. And as the Annual Offering is taken, shall we not determine to make a real sacrifice that the work of the Lord may soon be finished?
