Pastor Marries Chinese Couple on Network Telecast

An unusual opening came to a young Christian couple recently to witness for the gospel. Canton-born Rose Yee, a slim Chinese miss who came to the United States to earn a degree in dietetics, married in 20th Century American style on the "Bride and Groom" nation-wide telecast her sweetheart from Borneo, Shim Chung Phing, a candidate for the Doctor of Education degree. Pastor W. A. Fagal of the Faith for Today telecast officiated as the minister.

To earn money for her college expenses, Rose did colporteur work in New York and San Francisco Chinatowns. A story about her experience appeared in a publication in Manila P.I., catching the eye of Shim Chung Phing, who at the time was also canvassing. He determined that when he reached the United States he would find the intrepid Chinese girl.

A year ago they met in San Francisco Chinatown, where he was continuing to canvass for a scholarship. One day he sold a book to a Chinese doctor. A dreamy look came into the physician's eyes as he told of falling in love with a bright young Chinese girl who sold him a book some time before. He had tried without success to locate the girl so that he might propose marriage. Chung Phing soon realized that the doctor was talking about Rose.

When Rose and Chung Phing discussed this development they suddenly realized that they were deeply in love with each other. The "Bride and Groom" became interested in their story and provided them a wedding and a honeymoon. Their choice of a minister was their favorite TV pastor, William A. Fagal.

Rose already has her M.A. in dietetics from the University of California, Faith for Today TV pastor, W. A. Fagal, and Mrs. Fagal greet Rose Yee and Shim Chung Phing before the young Chinese couple were married on NBC's nation-wide "Bride and Groom" telecast.

and when Chung Phing receives his Doctor of Education degree, they plan to return to Malaya to resume mission work.

This story aroused keen interest among NBC guests who were in the TV studio at Rockefeller Center at the time of the telecast, and many reports came in from viewers who appreciated the moving Adventist ceremony. They mentioned also the clear witness given by the young Chinese Adventists in the interview that preceded the wedding.

May God bless this young couple who have dedicated their united lives to mission service in Malaya. And may He also guide into divine truth all who watched them as they spoke the sacred vows.

Does the Bible Forecast Space Travel?

Bored with summer camp, ten-year-old Jack Pearson complains that he wants to take long summer trips as his friend Steve does. When the TV pastor, William A. Fagal, on the Faith for Today Telecast on Sunday, November 24, 1957, at 12:30 p.m. on WABC-TV, channel 7, points out to him that according to the Bible he can actually look forward to space travel, Jack decides that he is not so underprivileged as he imagined.

The TV pastor restricts his sermon summary to five minutes, leaving time for the popular male quartet to sing favorite hymn selections.

New York Conference Workers' Meeting

"This workers' meeting has been one of the most interesting, most revealing, and most soul-searching workers' meetings I have ever attended," said one of the workers at the conclusion of the New York Conference workers' meeting conducted in Syracuse, November 4-7, 1957.

H. J. Capman, conference president, had a well rounded agenda prepared. F. D. Nichol, editor of the Review and Herald, was one of the main speakers, and the topics discussed were the "Sacredness of the 11 o'clock Hour," "Inspiration of the Bible and Mrs. White," and "Observations on the Bible After Six Years of Commentary Editing."

The morning devotional speakers were Elders V. W. Becker of the Atlantic Union Conference, Joseph Capman, and L. E. Esteb of the Atlantic Union Conference.

Many subjects were discussed by local pastors and visiting ministers. L. E. Lenheim, president, and T. R. Gardner, treasurer, of the Atlantic Union Conference, gave valuable assistance and counsel.

On Wednesday evening, Elder L. E. Esteb led out in a panel discussion of the training program for soul-winning by Seventh-day Adventist laymen. This panel brought out the importance of harnessing our laymen with our workers and church officers.

Our church school problems were freely discussed and reports given by Union Springs Academy Principal M. E. Moore and Atlantic Union College President Dr. L. M. Stump.

The caroling program for the conference was thoroughly discussed on the closing morning, and every worker determined, under God's leadership, to do more for Ingathering by our caroling this December. The conference has made eighteen caroling units available. We are confident that we will have a much better report than last year. We hope every member will support the pastors and church officers in this easy method of Ingathering.

Cortland Meetings

Evangelistic-revival meetings were held in the Cortland Seventh-day Adventist church October 25 to November 3. The local doctors, church officers, and young people assisted in this ten-day revival. Special committees were set up, such as prayer, literature, publicity, ushering, and mailing literature.

Our conference administration under Elder Capman and Elder Burchfield here demonstrated the principle of working with the local church and pastor in a definite soul-winning program. A good interest has been aroused as a result of these meetings and we are confident that a baptism will result from them. CARL P. ANDERSON

Dorcas Welfare Plans: Historic Decision Made

At a recent meeting of the Conference Dorcas Welfare Federation officers, some far-reaching, historic, and important decisions were made. It was decided to erect a Dorcas building on the campground and have it ready for next camp meeting. Our Conference Committee has given the green light on this project and the building will be next to the Book and Bible House, of the same construction and facing in the same direction.

We will build the part that will be used for camp meeting purposes, and use the funds available. The churches have raised $6,000 on our $12,000 objective. The conference is giving us $1,250 toward this building this year.

This will make it possible to have our camp meeting building.

We have accepted the offer of the Auburn church to use a certain section of their level and it will have heat, light, and water. We hope to be able to start operating this depot near the first of the year. We would suggest that all Dorcas Societies, in your plans for the poor and needy at Thanksgiving and Christmas time, remember something for the stock pile we will have at the Welfare Depot.

Your Federation officers felt this is a step in the right direction. We will have a building on the campground and our depot at the same time in Auburn.

We will continue on our Welfare Depot Fund project, and when we finish the campaign, we will then make plans for our combination building on the campground.

We appreciate all who are helping on our Welfare program and hope all will continue to help and pray for its continued success.

Auction Sale Held

The Syracuse Sabbath school had a white elephant auction sale, with Elder C. P. Anderson as auctioneer, Saturday night, October 26. Many "odds and ends" seemingly worthless to some, but worth something to someone else, were sold. Proceeds amounting to approximately $100 will be used for Sabbath school investment.

Book and Bible House Notes

We have just received information to the effect that the last volume of the S. D. A. Bible Commentary (Volume 7) is now on the press and should be available for mailing from the Book and Bible House about the middle of December. This notice is given for the benefit of those who may wish to send along their order and remittance immediately that they may have this long-awaited volume for Christmas if possible. Individual notices will not be mailed until the books are actually in our stock. The postpaid prices are $8.20 or $10.20 respectively to those completing their reservations at the $7.95 or $9.95 rate. This will now make all seven volumes available at $12.00 plus $2.25 postage per volume to those who have not ordered them previously.

On Saturday night, December 7, the traveling bookstand will visit the Rochester district. We understand the display will be set up in the Irondequoit Presbyterian church on Culver Road in Rochester. This church is located just north of the Culver Road School. It is planned that the bookstand will open at 6:30 p.m.—the moving picture program will begin at 8:00 p.m.—and the bookstand will be open after the pictures as long as necessary. All members of the Rochester district are invited to come and bring a friend. Those from other districts living near by are also cordially invited to join with us. We will be on hand from 6:30 until about 10:00, so come whenever you can if not for the entire evening.

The Bookstand will be at the church in Ellisburg on Saturday night, November 30. On this occasion it will open at sundown or immediately following the afternoon service, and the pictures will be shown beginning at seven. Then on Wednesday, December 4, the bookstand will be in the Union Springs Academy dining hall from 3:00 to 8:00 p.m. to serve the members of the Auburn and Union Springs churches as well as the faculty and students at the Academy.

Chaplain Powell

Chaplain (Captain) Joseph T. Powell, one of the few Seventh-day Adventist chaplains to serve in the United States armed forces, was discharged from the army on Tuesday, October 29. Before his discharge, he visited the Northeastern Conference and also friends in the New York City area.

Chaplain Powell was commissioned June 18, 1952; and after a period of orientation at Fort Slocum, N. Y., he was sent to the 101st Airborne Division at Camp Breckenridge, Ky. Following this term, he spent most of his time in Korea and Germany.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Powell, members of the Baltimore Berea church, Chaplain Powell was educated entirely in our Seventh-day Adventist institutions. He spent his elementary and high school years at the Baltimore Academy, and graduated from Oakwood College in 1946. After leaving Oakwood College, he went to the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, where he spent several summers and received his Masters degree in 1951. Before entering the armed forces, Chaplain Powell was dean of men, a Bible instructor, and church pastor of the Pine Forge Institute.

While at Camp Breckenridge, the denomination requested him to volunteer for duty in Korea because many soldiers were having difficulty getting the Sabbath. He arrived in Japan on November 24, 1952, and immediately went to Korea. He was the first Seventh-day Adventist chaplain in Korea, and served with the 52nd Medical Battalion. His duties kept him constantly in the front lines, where many church services were held within a few hundred yards of the actual battleground. He also worked with servicemen in the 3rd, 7th, and 25th Divisions. When it was possible for the Adventist soldiers to come back from the front lines, he held meetings for them in the Seoul Sanitarium, one of the Seventh-day Adventist mission institutions.

Upon returning to the United States in 1953, he was attached to the 749th AAA Gun Battalion, during which time the denomination requested him to volunteer for duty in Europe. He left for Germany in January 1955 with his wife, the former Alice Pettiford of Marion, Ind. Although Mr. and Mrs. Powell had been married since December 1947, this was her first opportunity to go overseas with her husband.

In Germany, Chaplain Powell was the military representative for the denomination in the European Division and covered that entire territory until Chaplain Carl Holden arrived and took charge of the work in the country of France. Captain Powell's work also included counselling with soldiers of all denominations. Three retreats for the Seventh-day Adventist servicemen also were planned and conducted by him. From all over the continent, servicemen came to these retreats held in Berchtesgaden, located in southern Bavaria.

Some of the countries that Chaplain Powell toured while in Europe and Korea included Alaska, Austria, Belgium, England, France, Greenland, Hawaii, Holland, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Luxemburg, Midway Island, Newfoundland, and Wake.

Chaplain Powell is preparing to take up his duties as pastor of the Durham, N. C., church in the South Atlantic Conference. According to him, his experience has been very enjoyable, but he is happy to be returning to active ministry in the United States.

An Invitation

You are invited to attend a benefit program for the Manhattan Elementary School building, Monday, December 9, at 8:30 p.m. This program, which is a sacred concert, will be presented by the New Believers Choir of the Ephesus S.D.A. church, under the direction of Mrs. Rosa Lee Jones; and will be given at the Hunter College Assembly Hall, 68th and Park Avenue, New York City.

According to L. H. Davis, educational superintendent of Northeastern, there are two reasons why you should attend:

(1) To help strengthen our parochial educational system. "Man forges his chains of destiny from the decisions which he makes day by day, from the school to the grave." "As is the teacher, so is the school; as is the school, so is the education; as is the education, so are one's decisions; as are one's decisions, so is his character; as is his character, so is his destiny."

Because of the influence of education upon the decisions of young people, God gave the following instructions to the church: "When the truth for these last days came to the world in the proclamation of the first, second, and third angels' messages, we were shown that in the education of our children a different order of things must be brought in; but it has taken much time to understand what changes should be made. . . . We are under solemn, sacred covenant to God to bring up our children for Him and not for the world; to teach them not to put their hands into the hand of the world, but to love and fear God and to keep His commandments."—Testimonies, VI, 126-127.

(2) The New Believers Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Rosa Lee Jones, has been practicing for months. I have heard them rehearse, and the music is of a high caliber. The price of $1.00 general admission is within reach of everyone; and I am sure you will enjoy an inspiring and uplifting evening as you listen to the New Believers Choir.

Remember the place: Hunter College Assembly Hall, 68th and Park Avenue, New York City, at 8:30 p.m. Admission: $1.00.

Aristook District Meetings

The week end of November 1-3 saw several wonderful meetings take place in the Aroostook district. An all-day meeting was held in Presque Isle on Sabbath. Members were present from Westfield and Oakfield, also.

On Friday evening, November 1, Elder H. E. Voorhees spoke to the youth at the Missionary Volunteer meeting in Presque Isle.

On Sabbath morning, Elder L. E. Esteb admonished us to "be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed" so that we can hear the voice of God speaking to us, and as individuals hear the voice and answer the call.

Dinner was served in the church basement.

At the 2:00 p.m. meeting, Elder H. E. Voorhees pointed out that each of us was "either a Moses or an Aaron." When called by God, Moses pleaded his slowness of speech as a way of escape. So God sent Aaron with him to speak for them. All present were then divided into teams of two each with a "Moses and Aaron" in each team. Many teams spent the next hour visiting in the neighborhood of the church, enrolling people in the Bible course, passing out literature, telling of our health and welfare service, and praying in the homes. After returning, each team revealed their experiences.

It is planned for Presque Isle and Westfield to meet jointly at least once each month to carry on this visitation program.

Elder Paul F. Whitlow led out in our third meeting on Sabbath. At 6:45 p.m. we met in the church and Elder Whitlow showed the pictures and played the tape recording of the 50th Anniversary celebration of the Missionary Volunteer Department at Mt. Vernon, Ohio. Afterward he also showed us some pictures of Camp Lawroweld. We then went to the church basement for a social evening.

Many remarked about the very real spiritual tone that marked these various meetings. Spiritual refreshment was enjoyed by all, and we look forward to other such meetings.

PAUL G. SMITH, Pastor

Colporteur Experience

Often the greatest pay that we receive in the colporteur work comes in the home where we least expect it.

As I was delivering books recently, I stopped at a home to bring Bible Readings. They told me of a friend of theirs whom I had met. This lady, who is probably in her sixties, has never taken much interest in spiritual things. For the past three months she has had her leg in a cast because of a broken knee. Although her husband is a great worker, he must take it easy, for he is also very sickly.

About a month previously I had visited in this home. While she could not even take a small paper book, I enrolled the lady in the Bible course and suggested a word of prayer. As I finished praying, she was in tears.

Not until I was delivering did I realize the full importance of that visit. She had told these friends how much that prayer had meant to her, and that she now feels a need of God. I pray that she may find the answer to her need as she studies the Bible course.

Experiences like this one provide the best pay from the canvassing work. Nothing can have greater value than an assurance that you have been used by God to bring hope to someone who needs Jesus.

Teachers Convention

The Southern New England teachers convention was held in the Narragansett Hotel, Providence, Tuesday night, October 29, through Friday noon, November 2. The theme for the convention was "The Guidance Program in the Seventh-day Adventist Schools," and featured as guest speakers were Mrs. Helga Esteb, Pastor G. A. Coffen, Dr. D. W. Ruggles, Elder Merle L. Mills, Dr. Edwin Dunlop, and Mr. Gerald Miles. Some of the outstanding subjects were: "Meeting Children's Emotional Needs," "An Overview of the Guidance Program," "Health Aspects of the Guidance Program," and "Tests as an Aid in the Guidance Program."

Special events during the convention included a visit to the Y.M.C.A. Thursday afternoon, where novel and interesting games were introduced by Millie Urbish, conference supervisor and guidance director.

Thursday evening at a banquet given in honor of the Southern New England Conference teachers, Mr. George Alfke was presented as guest speaker. Also, Elder V. W. Becker presented service pins to the teachers at that time and announced that the average years of service of each teacher in the conference is slightly above ten years.

Following the banquet the pupils of the Providence Junior Academy, under the direction of their teachers, presented a unique program on the life of King Nebuchadnezzar. A number of teachers reported this an outstanding program in many ways, with special mention of the excellent portrayals of King Nebuchadnezzar and Daniel by Richard Coffen and Jim Beckwith.

The Southern New England Book and Bible House had a book display which was appreciated by the teachers.

On Friday, November 2, the teachers completed their days of meeting by attending the county convention in Worcester.

What Man Can Do

In the last few weeks minds have been greatly stirred, not only in the scientific world but among all thoughtful people. Why are minds so agitated? The answers: satellites have been launched and are on their circuit around the earth. Men, no doubt hundreds of men, invested time, effort, mental energy, and plenty of money. Mankind has done the seemingly impossible. There are many things that man has been able to do in getting the satellite in the heavens but he must depend on power other than man-made to take the satellite around the earth. While man is able, under God's blessings, to discover the wonders of the universe, there is one thing that man can not do by himself. That which man needs the most is out of his realm to do. God the Father saw what man could never do for himself, so in His love was willing to give the best that He had for man's benefit. God was even willing to give Jesus to the world. God, so to speak, drew out of the bank of heaven all that He had and made in heaven man's future destiny. He was pleased to do it for mankind. God did not have to do it but He wanted to do it.

Southern New England teachers at banquet in Narragansett Hotel, Providence

Heaven invested all of its riches. The pearl of great price was given for man. There was no asking, "How much do I get out of this?" Or God could have said, "Why take such a risk? I need the Son here with me." He invested the best for man's salvation. When Jesus went to heaven He placed the work of helping to save man in the hands of His followers. Millions have invested their lives in martyrs' graves. Thousands have gone to the mission field, depriving themselves of comforts for the purpose of helping to save sinners. There is one thing that we can each invest; that is prayer. We would not stop there, for we can help to answer those prayers by investing freely the means which God has given to us.

Investment Day for the Sabbath schools in the Southern New England Conference is Sabbath, December 7. Surely God can count on us for large investment returns on that day for His cause. Plan to help your Sabbath school to do its part in investing for souls the investment way. V. A. LAGRONE

Sacred Concert

The Lancastrian Chorale and the Minuteman Male Glee Club will be presented in a sacred concert in Machlan Auditorium on Sabbath, November 23, at 3:30 p.m.

This vesper program of good music will be the first appearance of the choral groups in public concert this year.

The voice groups are under the direction of Norman Roy, assistant professor of music at the college. Friends from all over the area have been looking forward to this hour of sacred music.

Music Guild Program

What has been termed by A.U.C. Music Guild president John Edison as "one of the outstanding musical programs of the year" will be presented by the guild Saturday night, November 23, at 7:00 p.m.

A duo concert will feature Eric Herz, harpsichord maker and flutist, and Seymour Hayden, harpsichordist. Mr. Herz will also give a brief lecture on the scientific development and origin of the harpsichord. These two men offered a similar program last year at Harvard University.

Admission for non-guild members will be 50 cents.

Campus Glances

Students from A.U.C. with their sponsor, Dr. Margaret Palmer, presented a program in the Health Series for the patients at the New England Sanitarium and Hospital on November 11. Demonstrations of alcohol as a health problem were given and the play, "We Reach for the Stars," was presented with Mrs. Robert Marshall, Patricia Babick, Lorraine Laing, Ronald Turk, and Robert Reinowski as participants.

Dr. L. M. Stump, president of the college, and Dan W. Palmer, chairman of the Division of Education, will represent Atlantic Union College at the secondary teachers' convention which will be held November 24-27 at the New York Center. Both will present papers on school problems before this annual meeting of the secondary teachers of the Atlantic Union.

The floors of the men's dormitory are now in place. The raising of the slabs was at the rate of about seven feet an hour and the lifting was barely perceptible. Interested spectators have been coming and going for a week observing the progress of the building.

Dean E. Willmore Tarr has been greatly in demand as a speaker for clubs, churches, and service organizations this fall. He will speak to the Rotary Club at the Groton Inn on "The Racial and Political Problems of Africa" for the regular luncheon next week. He has addressed other Rotary clubs, the Woman's Club in Clinton, and organizations in Sterling, Lancaster, Framingham, and many other places. Appreciative audiences have spread the fame of the dean of Atlantic Union College.

Nine college women are now living in the Judy house and enjoying the accommodations so close to the heart of the campus. Professor Ellsworth Judy and his family have moved into their new house on Goss Lane, making their former residence, with its upstairs apartment, available as overflow housing to A.U.C. women.

Teachers from the Browning Memorial School, with Mrs. Helga Esteb, associate professor of education at the college and principal of the elementary school, attended the conference teachers' convention at Providence last week.

Parents and neighbors were invited to the Open House at Browning Memorial School this week. Interesting exhibits planned by the children under the direction of their teachers and the student teachers who are learning to teach at the school were of special interest to the parents who spent an enjoyable evening visiting classes.

Elder and Mrs. M. E. Erickson of the New York Conference were guests at the dormitory last week. Elder Erickson addressed the joint worship service and took some time to meet the young people from New York.

Miss Louise Kleuser of the General Conference Ministerial Association was interviewing ministerial students for the Theological Seminary during several days.

Evangelist E. M. Chalmers of the New York Center was the speaker for vespers on Friday evening and again on Sabbath at the college church. Elder and Mrs. Chalmers, with their staff have been conducting evangelistic services at the Center.

Mrs. Victor Adamson, school nurse, reports that the flu visitation was much lighter at Atlantic Union College than in any of the surrounding areas. Students who did have the flu recovered quickly with few complications. Approximately two-hundred students and members of their families took flu shots in order to prevent a further outbreak of the epidemic here.

Merle Bernard, senior at A.U.C., was called home to Jamaica by the serious illness of her sister.

Dr. Charles J. Stokes, with members of the temperance teams, including Robert Kingman, Ramona Valle, Bernard Haring, and Frank Howes gave temperance programs at Shelbourne Falls and Athol on November 9.
