You Can Lengthen the Cords and Strengthen the Stakes

W. A. HIGGINS, Associate Secretary
General Conference Publishing Department

If you could visit in mission lands and see how the money you give is being used, you would be well content with its investment. If you could see for yourself the urgent needs and realize how often the workers are handicapped through lack of suitable buildings and equipment, you would be anxious to give even more.

On the island of Java I saw scores of boys sleeping in a barn which was being used as a temporary dormitory. This barn was partitioned into sections by pieces of burlap and canvas, and served as a home for the boys while a dormitory was being built on the campus nearly a mile away. The new building has recently been completed, thanks to your help.

I visited Fulton Missionary College near Suva, Fiji. There was no dining hall in that school and the students ate in their rooms. They carried their food from a small, outdoor kitchen nearly a half mile away from some of the dormitories. The teachers of this training school were doing an outstanding job in training the minds and molding the characters of these young people, but how handicapped they were because of these limited facilities. How grateful they are for the money that has been promised and for the prospect of new buildings.

Our mission program would be very seriously handicapped if it were not for the national workers who are being educated in our own schools. We need a growing army of these young people, trained in their own countries, to carry the gospel to their own people.

Many of these youth must work in school industries to pay their way. The accompanying picture shows a part of the West Indies College press where sixty students, from nine different countries work.

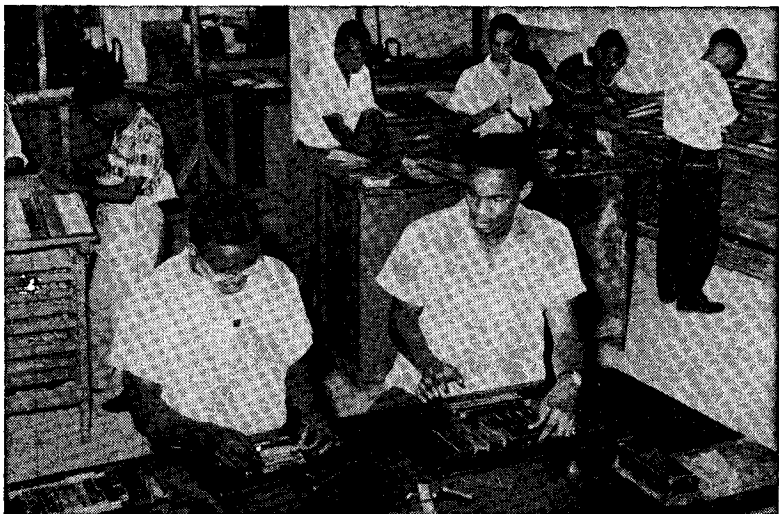

L. D. D'Andrade, manager of the press, says: "The customers like our work. They give us more jobs than we can handle. We could employ twenty more students if we had more machinery. We eagerly look forward to the 1960 Missions Extension Offering to help provide this equipment."

I have visited many mission hospitals where doctors and nurses were literally performing miracles, using equipment that was long outdated in America. Their work would be much more pleasant—their results even more miraculous—if they could have up-to-date equipment. Our health work in mission lands has done much to break down prejudice and prepare the hearts of the people to receive the truth, but in many areas we need to enlarge our hospital facilities, as well as establish new medical centers in new territories.

This year our Missions Extension Offering will help build classrooms and dormitories on the islands of Tonga and New Hebrides, a new school on Okinawa, and a nurses' home in Nicaragua. It will also be used to purchase new equipment for our school in Jamaica. Several schools and colleges on the great and needy continent of Africa hope to benefit from this offering too. Still other projects to benefit from this special offering are the hospital in Sao Paulo, Brazil, and the Polish Ministerial Training College.

As we give of our means, we are indeed "lengthening the cords and strengthening the stakes" of our mission program. What a wonderful opportunity we have, on September 10, to contribute to the Missions Extension Fund, which will bring needed help to so many of our schools, hospitals, and various other mission projects. If you could only see the need firsthand and hear the expressions of appreciation when help is given, you would certainly want to give more now.

meeting of the medical directors at the Fuller Memorial Sanitarium, South Attleboro, Massachusetts.

To date, 8,508 Seventh-day Adventists, thirty years of age and older, have been enrolled. This figure constitutes 40 per cent of the total membership and 62 per cent of those thirty years of age and above.

These figures compare favorably with results in the Pacific Union where 38.7 per cent of the total membership has been enrolled.

To date 91 per cent of the churches in the Atlantic Union have completed their survey. The Southern New England Conference heads the list with a response of 1,268 out of 3,700 (88 per cent) of thirty years of age and above, or 57 per cent of the total conference membership.

The time limit for the survey has been extended to September 1 by the American Cancer Society, which should afford sufficient time to complete the study in all the churches.

As Seventh-day Adventists are being included in the American Cancer Society's study of 1,500,000 Americans as a minority group, the members of which do not use alcohol or tobacco, they constitute a "control." It is thus of great importance that everyone be included in the study or the results may be questioned.

Adventist participation was made financially possible by a research grant from the Fuller Memorial Sanitarium Research Department.

Special Telecast on Survival In Case of Atomic Attack

A special program devoted to survival of the individual in case of an atomic attack on the nation will open the fall Faith for Today telecasting season, Sunday, September 18.

This special program will be released on September 18 to all first-run stations throughout North America, and on second-run stations on September 25. Other stations will receive this telecast later in the season.

The program consists of an interview by Pastor and Mrs. Fagal with the Honorable Keith S. McHugh, commissioner of Commerce of New York State, and the chairman of Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller's special study committee on fallout protection. As head of this committee, Mr. McHugh consulted the nation's leading scientific and military experts on problems of survival in case of an enemy nuclear attack. His findings and recommendations are brought out in the Faith for Today TV interview.

Many misconceptions about radiation fallout are cleared up and questions such as these are answered:

- Would there be time to find shelter from radiation fallout after a nuclear blast?
- How long does the immediate danger last?
- Would the air we breathe and the water we drink be contaminated by fallout?
- What are the chances of survival?
- What can the individual do to help assure his survival?

Commissioner McHugh gives some definite suggestions on what each can and should do to prepare for a possible nuclear attack, and every family will want to tune in this telecast when it is used on its local station.

As a further public service, Faith for Today is having the entire interview printed and will send copies to all who write requesting them. In addition, more detailed information about civil defense measures which should be taken by all families will be provided.

The first-run stations on which this vital program can be seen in the Atlantic Union, September 18, are:

- New York, N.Y. Channel 7 WABC
- Rochester, N.Y. Channel 10 WNET
- Syracuse, N.Y. Channel 3 WSYR

The program can be seen September 25 on these second-run stations:

- Binghamton, N.Y. Channel 12 WNBF
- Utica, N.Y. Channel 2 WKTV
- Manchester, N.H. Channel 9 WMUR
- Bangor, Maine Channel 2 WLBZ

Information about release dates for the telecast on remaining TV stations carrying Faith for Today will be given as they become available.

Check your local TV guide for time and day of telecast.

hearts. I am thinking particularly this morning about a thriving, active church in Canada that came into being because of one Great Controversy. A colporteur sold the book to an honest soul, who put it in the trunk and let it lie there unread for thirteen years. Then he took it out, read it, loaned it, and invited interested friends and neighbors in to study the book and the Bible. That church has been a light in that area for many years, and is active today in telling the good news. Perhaps many of the members do not know that Great Controversy is in the background.

There has been a constant demand from all parts of the world for more of the small, missionary edition of Great Controversy. Because of increases in wages, in costs of material, we find it impossible to print this book now and sell it for one dollar. It has too many pages. But many have said, "We are willing to pay more, — give us the books." We have just printed 20,000 Great Controversy in the small, missionary edition and find we can supply them for $1.95 in any quantity as long as they last. A good many of the 20,000 are already ordered, so if you want any of these, order early from your Book and Bible House, enclosing fifteen cents postage for the first book and five cents for each additional book, and also the sales tax.

Andrews University

A PROGRESS REPORT

Because of the deep and widespread interest among our believers in the work of the Seminary and the Graduate School, this mid-summer report is given through the columns of the ATLANTIC UNION GLEANER.

Change of Name

As announced, the name "Potomac University" has been changed because it seemed inappropriate at the new location. The new name, Andrews University, is in honor of John Nevins Andrews, the first Seventh-day Adventist worker to go out from America for foreign service.

As incorporated in Michigan, Andrews University will initially have three divisions: (1) the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary; (2) the School of Graduate Studies; (3) the undergraduate school (Emmanuel Missionary College). Other divisions may be added later. Official use of the name "Andrews University" began July 1, 1960.

1960 Summer Session

More than two hundred students are enrolled in the 1960 summer session, and the applications for 1960-61 already exceed all expectations. The first commencement under the name "Andrews University" is scheduled at Berrien Springs, Michigan, the evening of August 18, 1960. Approximately sixty degrees will be conferred. H. M. S. Richards of the Voice of Prophecy will be the speaker.

Building Progress

To insure ample acreage for future development, an orchard farm of one hundred sixty-five acres, adjacent to the Emmanuel Missionary College campus, was purchased in 1958. Other smaller plots were added so that the total institutional holdings at Berrien Springs now embrace nearly seven hundred acres. During 1959 seven homes for staff members were constructed and six large brick apartment buildings erected. This Garland Apartment development contains one hundred eighteen modern, fully furnished family apartments which will all be occupied this fall by applicants already accepted. Ten new houses for student use are under construction nearby.

The 1960 building schedule calls for six more ranch-style homes for teachers and the new three-story Theological Seminary building. These will be in use during the 1960-61 school year. During 1961, construction on a new central institutional library is anticipated. Other needed edifices, including an administration building and more student housing, will follow as funds become available.

Summer Evangelistic Campaign

The Department of Applied Theology, under the leadership of E. C. Banks and Bruce Johnston, recently concluded a very successful five-week Field School and evangelistic campaign at Rockford, Illinois. Twenty-one seminary students participated and not fewer than fifty new believers will be baptized as a result. A more extensive report will be given later.

Seminary Courses

Courses offered in the seminary will continue during 1960-61 approximately as heretofore. In addition to the Bachelor of Divinity and Master of Theology degrees as previously offered, a Master's Degree in Christian Heritage will be awarded hereafter in co-operation with the School of Graduate Studies. This curriculum will appeal particularly to prospective Bible teachers and overseas educational workers.

Graduate School Offerings

Education—The Department of Education offers a constantly expanding program for teachers and other educational leaders from and for all parts of the world field. Emphasis is on a distinctly Seventh-day Adventist graduate education which includes all that is best in current educational development. An excellent faculty in education has been secured, including outstanding guest professors from other Adventist colleges.

Three programs in education lead to the Master of Arts degree: the regular program with emphasis on professional education, the Master of Arts in Teaching, with emphasis on a subject-matter field, and the Master of Arts in Religious Education. Curricula are planned to meet the particular needs and objectives of each student. In June, 1961, a doctorate in education has been authorized with four areas of concentration as follows: Foundations of Education, Administration and Guidance, Instruction and Supervision, and Religious Education. Classwork is currently offered in these areas for those already holding the Master's degree who are thus earning credit now toward the final degree.

English—Doors to graduate work in English at Andrews University will open in September. Besides providing more effective preparation in language and literature for teachers of English at all levels in Seventh-day Adventist schools, this advance step is intended to make possible sharpening in powers of communications for those who preach and for those who write. A staff of well-qualified English teachers is assembled to handle this program. It is hoped that our people will be prompt to take advantage of this new opportunity.

Because the need for more competent personnel in these areas is urgent, financial assistance is being offered to worthy applicants. Assistantships, fellowships, and scholarships, ranging up to $550 plus tuition and fees are available. Anyone interested in this aid for the 1960-61 school year must act immediately. Address inquiries regarding advanced work in English to Dr. Paul T. Gibbs, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan.

History—The School of Graduate Studies also offers a Master of Arts degree in the field of history, with or without thesis. Specific areas of concentration are: the Ancient Middle East, Church history, Recent European history, and American history generally. Courses, readings, and seminars in the History Department are under the direction of experienced, qualified staff members. Library holdings on the campus adequately support this program. Inquiries should be addressed to Dr. E. K. VandeVere, Department of History, Andrews University.

Mathematics—Two graduate degrees will be offered by the Mathematics Department of Andrews University beginning this fall—the Master of Arts with major in mathematics and the Master of Arts in Teaching (mathematics). The Master of Arts in Teaching is designed for those who plan to teach mathematics on the secondary level. The Master of Arts in mathematics is designed to serve as a strong background for those who plan to study for the Ph.D. degree or who need graduate training in mathematics for their work. Financial support is available to graduate students in mathematics in the form of two assistantships which require the recipients to teach undergraduate courses.

The Mathematics Department at Berrien Springs has received several grants for the support of research and teaching. A grant of $42,000 from the National Science Foundation is making possible an eight-week institute for thirty-six secondary-school mathematics teachers this summer. Credit for this study applies toward the Master of Arts in Teaching. Inquiries regarding graduate work in mathematics should be addressed to Dr. E. J. Specht, Department of Mathematics, Andrews University.

Adventists believers everywhere are reminded that for first quality graduate study it is no longer necessary to attend an outside university. Our youth with ambitions for post-graduate training can secure it under carefully selected, outstanding Adventist scholars at Andrews University. The cost at present tuition rates is just about half that at the average tax-supported State University. Prospective graduate students are invited to write for a bulletin and other information.

Finally we solicit the prayers of our believers that this advanced step in Adventist education may be fruitful in the training of workers so as to hasten the work of the gospel.

Three Ministers Ordained

Three young men of the Greater New York Conference were dedicated to the gospel ministry in a special ordination service held Sunday evening, July 3, at Eagle Lake Park.

Lucas M. Diaz is the pastor of the Spanish Bay Shore church on Long Island. Elder Diaz came to the Greater New York Conference from Southern California where he began his ministry and served for nearly three years. He graduated in 1954 from Emanuel Missionary College and received his Master's degree from the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary in 1955. He and his wife, Lucille, have two daughters, Marlene Esther, three and a half, and Yvonne Nannette, one year. Elder Diaz has a brother Fred who is currently a ministerial intern in the Central California Conference.

Earl T. Prest graduated from Atlantic Union College in 1953. He taught school in Babylon, and Pearl River for three years, then he became the pastor of the Port Jervis church. At present he is completing a year of study at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary in Berrien Springs, Michigan. Elder Prest and his wife, Charlotte, have four children, ages two to eight. They expect to return to Greater New York Conference early in September. Elder Prest's brother, David, is a minister in the Ohio Conference.

William King, pastor of the Newburgh and Walden district came to the Greater New York Conference immediately after his graduation from Atlantic Union College in 1953. He first served as pastor-teacher in Middletown and later organized a church school in Port Jervis. For one year he served as assistant pastor for the Washington Avenue church, now the Jackson Heights church. Elder King received his Master's degree from the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary in 1959. His wife, Sylvia Andrews King, is a descendant of J. Nevins Andrews, pioneer Adventist and the denomination's first foreign missionary. The Kings have two sons, William Hugh, five, and Brian Richard, nine months.

The number of clippings sent to the General Conference public relations office is indication of the amount of work put in by faithful laymen co-operating with conference personnel in the publicity field. The display, which will be used at various camp meetings across the land, is testimony to the excellent nationwide coverage of the congress, one of the most widely and thoroughly covered events in the history of the denomination. SHARON E. KIDD

Vacation Bible School at City Tabernacle

July 11 marked the third year for a Vacation Bible School at City Tabernacle. On the opening day, forty-five pupils enrolled. At the close of the school, the records showed an enrollment of ninety-five. Over three-fourths of the boys and girls came from non-Adventist homes. Many of the parents were so favorably impressed with the interest given the children of this community that they offered to help and some gave financial assistance.

The Vacation Bible School was under the supervision of Lucy Smith and she was assisted by R. Y. Cluff. The division leaders, teachers, and assistants included Mrs. Gladney, Lucy Smith, Ethel Bradford, Murnetta Johnson, Brendarionia Bailey, and Miss Adams in the kindergarten division; Constance Andrews, R. Y. Cluff, Frances Blake, and Ada Foster in the primary division; Katherine Langley, E. V. Martin, Mrs. Rose, and Mrs. B. Ryan in the junior division. Dita Spaulding and Constance Andrews were in charge of the music.

On the closing night, July 25, parents, friends, and members of the church gathered to witness a most interesting program. Certificates and gifts were given at this time. In the lower auditorium, the crafts and arts were placed on exhibit after the program and refreshments were served by Roxanne Ferguson.

MV's Bring Cheer to Patients

For the past several weeks, a group of Missionary Volunteers from the Linden Boulevard church have been bringing joy, hope, cheer, and sunshine to the patients of Queens General Hospital, through the media of song. This group sings for an hour every other Sabbath afternoon for the patients, and at the conclusion distributes truth-filled literature to patients, nurses, attendants, visitors, and other members of the hospital staff.

Many of the church members have been generous in transporting the group to and from the hospital. The leader of this group is Mrs. Ruthe Fordham, and the pianist is Mr. Cassell of the New York Boulevard church. During the recent illness of the leader, Dr. F. Fordham, her husband, has been directing the group at the hospital.

Chilean Relief Report

After the earthquakes in Chile, we kept wondering if word would ever come through regarding the people's needs. News did come finally and that same day word of what was needed was sent out to our pastors, Dorcas Federation officers and leaders throughout the conference. When the need was made known, there was sudden action. Only one appeal had to be sent. We have never seen such wholehearted and full co-operation in a project as was manifested at that time. At least forty-four Dorcas societies participated in this urgent relief program. In fact, so many articles of clothing were being collected that it was finally decided to ask for the use of the conference moving van.

W. T. Skilton and the members of the Framingham district, working with the American Red Cross, energetically collected many tons of clothing, in fact, more than any other district. Bridgeport sent over three tons, Lowell, two and one-fourth tons, and other societies sent a ton or thereabouts.

The date was set for the loading of the moving van. There would be three loading places; South Lancaster, Hartford, and New Haven. The large moving van was placed in front of the conference office where it was loaded. In co-operation with the Red Cross, members of the Marine Corps and other servicemen helped bring several truck loads of clothing from Framingham and Hudson. Many cars and station wagons brought boxes of clothing from other churches. We were told that they had a large amount of clothing in Hartford, Connecticut. When Elder W. W. Menshausen (driver of the van) and I arrived in Hartford, we found this to be true. A number of the church members were there to help us load the boxes of clothing, and we soon saw that we were not going to get all of them in the moving van. It was loaded to the hilt. We had to leave about sixteen boxes in Hartford and could not stop in New Haven to pick up as the van was full. Arrangements were made for this clothing to be picked up by a local trucking firm and delivered to the New York warehouse.

May I say thanks to each pastor, to our Dorcas ladies, and to the brethren for responding so heartily and willingly.

Welfare Federation Officers Elected

This was election year for the Southern New England Conference Dorcas Federation and the following officers were chosen to serve for the next two years: Mrs. Nancy Towers, president; Mrs. Paul Ford, vice-president; Mrs.

Elizabeth Yeaton, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Hazel Crouse, assistant treasurer; and Mrs. Iva Thomas, civil defense secretary.

We wish for these officers God's bountiful blessings. Our Dorcas ladies have done outstandingly well in their labor of love for the Master, and I am sure they will give their full support to the new Federation officers.

The handiwork display in the Dorcas building at camp meeting was very attractive. The sales were the largest that we have known, amounting to more than $1,600. We thank each one who had a part in making the sale a success.

A Word of Thanks and a Further Appeal to Workers

Current Citations Needed to Complete "Life, Death, and Destiny" MS.

Deep appreciation is hereby gratefully expressed to our workers who have been on the alert for pertinent statements from writers discussing the nature and destiny of man. Numerous quotations and references of value have been sent me by workers in different lands, which items have already played a vital part in the development of the MS Life, Death, and Destiny, now coming to modern times in its 2,500-year coverage.

We are soon to climax with contemporary writers who have broken with—or are at least challenging—the traditional positions of the innate immortality of all souls, and the eternal torment of the immortally wicked, which postulates have so long held general sway.

These paragraphs bring you another appeal to keep on the look-out for current book, pamphlet, and periodical article statements, now appearing with increasing frequency, which clearly reflect the widespread revolt against these predominant positions of the past. You may be able to bring to our attention some priceless item that might otherwise be missed.

As indicated, the cumulative results are already impressive. And I repeat that I know of no other means of compassing current literature of all lands for this closing section—hence this appeal. Please report any items, and send in pertinent information coming to your attention. Yours may be the priceless citation.

This information needs to be exact—full name of author, precise title of book, or pamphlet. Notation of the pertinent pages would facilitate matters. Also please give name of publisher, place of publication, and the date of issuance and edition. In the case of periodicals, the name, religious affiliation, and place of publication of the journal, as well as the author and the title of the article are required, and we of course need the exact date, if a weekly, or the month or quarter, as the case may be. Again, many thanks for your anticipated help. The goal is very worth while.

Edmond Cassano, senior elementary education major from Rochester, New York, was recently chosen first place winner in the senior division of the National W.C.T.U. Ada Mohn-Landis Essay Contest for 1960. All of the judges awarded him their highest marking. Cassano, who has been an active member of the A.T.S., has also taken first place prizes in the oratorical, poster and jingle contests.

The Division of Education has established a Curriculum Library in the reading room of Purdon Library. This special section includes a collection of approximately one thousand volumes and will be made available to members of the Education Department and student teachers as well as the teachers of Browning Memorial Elementary School for use in connection with their work and studies.

F. Lars Surdal, manager of the College Bindery, reports that the volume of business this summer has increased 20 per cent over last year, making it necessary to employ additional student help to meet the schedule. There are over fifty students working at the Bindery this summer in addition to the regular full-time workers.

Medical Cadet Training

It is a privilege to announce to the friends of South Lancaster Academy that for the school year 1960-61 we will be able to offer Medical Cadet training. This course is one that has proved to be of real benefit to many of our young men who found it necessary to enter the military service. The General Conference has urged strongly that our academy offer this type of training.

H. D. Kinsey, our new dean of boys, will be the leader and instructor for the corps. He has been a leader of several corps, and has also had officers' training at Camp Doss as well as being on the staff with the rank of first sergeant. Presently his rank is second lieutenant. Mr. Kinsey states that it is his plan this year, if possible, to conduct a girls' Medical Cadet Corps.

Little plans have no magic to stir one's blood. Make big plans, aim high in hope and work." It is time for us to forget the little plans that we have been striving for these many years, and we should go forward with a greater determination to do great things in the name of Jesus. We know that Jesus is the creator of the world, He is the Saviour of mankind, He is the General of the universe so why should we think in a small way? We should never run ahead of God's plans for us, but most of the time, because of our own selfish interest, we are so far behind His plans that we will never catch up.

Let us always keep the following quotations of the Spirit of Prophecy in mind, as we pray and sacrifice for our youth in this conference:

1. "True education . . . is the harmonious development of the physical, the mental, and the spiritual powers. It prepares the student for the joy of service in this world, and for the higher joy of wider service in the world to come."—Education, p. 13.
2. "To restore in man the image of his Maker, to bring him back to the perfection in which he was created, to promote the development of body, mind, and soul, that the divine purpose in his creation might be realized,—this was to be the work of redemption. This is the object of education, the great object of life."—Education, pp. 15, 16.
3. "Higher than the highest human thought can reach is God's ideal for His children. Godliness-godlikeness — is the goal to be reached."—Education, p. 18.

Pioneer Valley Academy is being erected to carry out the instruction found in the Spirit of Prophecy. What have you given to Pioneer Valley Academy? Join the many members of Southern New England who are giving systematically to this wonderful cause.
