

"Lord, Teach Us to Pray"

By ORRIS J. MILLS, Pastor
Atlantic Union College Church

The practical results of Jesus' prayer life so impressed the disciples that they pled, "Lord, teach us to pray . . ." (Luke 11:1). Jesus lost Himself in communion with His Father, for prayer to Him was "the opening of the heart to God as to a friend."—Steps to Christ, p. 93.

If there is one thing we hate as friends, it is distance. And when we get together, how much we have to talk about! We do not have to memorize our speeches. We just pour out our hearts to one another. But when an estrangement comes in to separate friends, how the conversation drags.

Prayer bridges the gap of distance between us and our greatest Friend. But there must be no estrangement. Jesus could lose Himself in the fellowship of prayer, because there was no barrier of sin between Him and God. "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (I John 1:9). If we come to Him in humility and in sincerity, we, too, may have an open channel to receive the practical results of opening our hearts "to God as to a friend."

A second element that made Jesus' way of prayer so impressive was His faith. He realized that "prayer is the key in the hand of faith to unlock heaven's storehouse, where are treasured the boundless resources of Omnipotence."—Steps to Christ, pp. 94, 95. When He prayed things happened because He expected them.

A third thing that made Jesus' prayer life different was in His realization that prayer was indispensable. Prayer was to Him the breath of the soul.

Have you ever tried to stop breathing? Oxygen is essential to life. A sufficient supply is mandatory to clear thinking. When the oxygen supply to the brain is inadequate the discriminating centers are affected and we are only half alive. People in poorly ventilated buildings often get so accustomed to such a condition that they do not know something has happened to them.

So it is with the prayer life. If we neglect prayer, real prayer, our souls may die and we be unaware of what has happened. We may believe we are "rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing;" and know not that we are "wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked" (Rev. 3:17).

Jesus also teaches us by His example the appropriate hour to be alone with God. Mark records, "In the morning, rising up a great while before day, he went out, and departed into a solitary place, and there prayed" (Mark 1:35). This was the practice of Jesus. The night before had been crowded with ministry, for it was not until after sunset that "all the city was gathered . . ." "They brought unto him all that were diseased, and them that were possessed of devils," "and he healed many" (Mark 1:33, 32).

Late that night, tired and weary, Jesus fell asleep, but He awoke "a great while before day" to keep His watch with His God. Jesus could not break His appointment with the Father and He arose at His awakening call.

We also observe that Jesus had a place of prayer. So regular was Jesus in visiting His place of prayer that Judas was certain he would find Him there as he led the mob for His arrest. "Judas . . . knew the place: for Jesus oftentimes resorted thither . . ." (John 18:2).

Finally we notice that Jesus knew how to listen in prayer. He said, "The Lord God . . . wakeneth mine ear to hear as the learned" (Isa. 50:4). Jesus understood prayer to be more than just talking to God. He knew prayer also as listening to and conversing with God. Jesus' prayer life included the study of God's Word, listening as He unrolled the scroll. Jesus went to His early morning retreat to seek guidance for the day's tasks and He received the tongue of the learned that He "should know how to speak a word in season to him that is weary."

Our prayer life should include the diligent study of God's Word. We should approach the Bible with reverence, listening to the voice of God as we turn its precious pages. Through the ministry of angels and the presence of His Spirit we receive guidance and shall learn our duty as we receive power to carry out His will.

May God help us to follow the example of Jesus by having a time for private devotions. Let us covenant with David, "My voice shalt thou hear in the morning, O Lord; in the morning will I direct my prayer unto thee, and will look up" (Psalms 5:3).

Let us dedicate a place where we may breathe out our souls to our Friend and by faith may receive the treasures of eternity. Let us have a systematic plan of study that we may hear the voice of God speaking to our souls.

Retreat Scheduled for American Servicemen in Korea

Those men who are serving their country far from its shores know well the loneliness of their situation. For this reason our military chaplains schedule retreats for Seventh-day Adventist personnel that they may get together from their scattered posts in wonderfully appreciated fellowship. Such a gathering is scheduled by Chaplain Glenn Bowen at the Retreat Center in Seoul, Korea, July 27-29.

Those who have relatives or friends serving in the United States Military Forces in Korea should immediately notify them of this forthcoming meeting, so they may make the necessary arrangements to attend.

Have them contact Chaplain (Capt.) Glenn I. Bowen, 121st Evacuation Hospital, APO 20, San Francisco, California. He will be able to supply all details on this meeting. Encourage those to attend who perhaps are not even church members but who have some interest or connection with the church. Then pray that this meeting might be Spirit-filled.

At the forthcoming General Conference session to be held in San Francisco, a food service will again be provided by the Loma Linda Food Company, who will operate the concession stand located on the Larkin Hall side of the auditorium.

We are sure that delegates and others planning to attend the General Conference session will be happy to know that this convenient food service will be available to them.

The Book of Life

My wife and I were asked by the General Conference brethren to come to New York and help out in our eastern welfare depot. On our arrival one of the first things I did was to do a little browsing around. Down in one of the drawers of the office desk I found a book. Not an impressive looking book—it was not written in fancy poetry or eloquent prose. It was a simple record of the hours of free, loving service rendered to the Master by many of His loyal and devoted saints here on earth. Men and women, who after putting in long hard hours in the home, the office, the factory or the shop, had found time, had taken time, to do valiant service for their Lord.

Many of these names appeared on almost every page for years back. They had given much of their life in joyous service to their Lord. In this they had found their joy. I was especially impressed with one name, that of Emilie Wolfe. Her name appeared as much as two or three times on one page. I just thought, wouldn't it be interesting to know how many of God's suffering children around the world had been blessed as the result of the loving service of this sister? Only heaven knows how many in heathen lands saw for the first time the love of Jesus in these neatly folded garments.

Yes, this book told a thrilling story of love, loyalty, and devotion. To me it was a little book of life here on earth. It thrilled my soul to know that in this great money-seeking, pleasure-loving city, God has His seven thousand who have not bowed the knee to Baal. He knows who they are, every one by name. I believe that in His book of life the same names, the same number of hours, appear as appeared in that little book in the office desk. "The book of life contains the good deeds of the saints. . . ."—Early Writings, p. 52.

When I get to heaven I trust that God will grant me the privilege of browsing through His record book. I am sure I will find this the most revealing and inspiring book ever penned. Here I would find the names of many men and women who had never preached a sermon from the pulpit. No, it was the Master's will that they live their sermons on the farm, in the kitchen, at the office, in the factory, beside the bed of the sick and dying. Here would be the names of many others who had longed to step out from the crowd and witness in an outstanding way for their Lord. They had longed to cross the ocean and tell the story of Jesus' love to the waiting millions in heathen lands, but instead they were called upon to minister to the need at their door.

However, our God of love would not want one of His children to be disappointed in life because he could not cross the ocean and tell of Jesus' love. His wisdom would provide a way. The writer of Hebrews puts it well: "God having provided some better thing for us. . . ." In this case that better thing might be your local welfare society.

Here you can go and give the same number of hours you once longed to give in mission lands. Here with willing hands you can fold the love of Jesus into bundles of clean clothing, send it to our New York depot and on to the lands you once wished to go. And here the people you once wished to speak to of Jesus' love can see it in visible, tangible form. Yes, this may be the better thing God has provided for us.

"But," you say, "if welfare work is all I do my name will never appear among the great and mighty. It will never be blazed across the front pages of our press. No bronze statue will ever be erected on a mountain peak or city square to perpetuate my memory. These little deeds of love, the cleaning, mending, boxing, and shipping clothes to the New York depot will never be scrolled on tablets of enduring stone."

You are probably right. They may never even appear in the union paper, much less in the Review or Go magazines, but if they appear in God's book of life, what else matters?

Fiftieth Anniversary of Hungarian Church

The New York City Hungarian church was organized in 1912 by Elders Sivok and Shilling and a membership of twelve. During the intervening years Elders Huenergardt, Varga, and Mozar served this faithful group as pastor and in recent years C. J. Sohlmann has been their aggressive leader. For the past five years the church has been housed in a lovely chapel on the fourth floor of the New York Center.

All in attendance at the Hungarian fiftieth anniversary were served a typical meal by the Dorcas Society of the Hungarian church.

Fiftieth anniversary service of the organization of the New York Hungarian church. The service was held at the New York Center.

On the fiftieth anniversary of their organization, the Hungarian churches from Perth Amboy, New Jersey; New Brunswick, New Jersey; and Bridgeport, Connecticut, joined the New York Hungarian church at the center to celebrate the anniversary and to rededicate themselves to the promotion of the third angel's message. Gratitude was expressed to God for His protection and care and for the providential leading that had brought many to this land of freedom.

Wesley Amundsen from the General Conference brought the message of the morning to this large assembly of nearly one hundred fifty believers. In the congregation were some who were charter members fifty years ago.

In the afternoon messages were brought by Dr. Henne, pastor of the New Jersey churches, and by the officers of the conference.

Those present were served a delightful meal in the Fellowship Hall by our Hungarian church Dorcas Society. The entire day was one of inspiration and fellowship.

On June 30 the Syracuse, Buffalo, and Rochester churches will gather at the Jefferson Avenue church in Rochester. This meeting will be an outstanding one-day camp meeting experience.

Outstanding music will be heard, a layman's rally will take place and we will have the services of E. E. Cleveland of the General Conference Ministerial Department for the entire day.

There will be a tour of the Niagara frontier, including Niagara Falls on Sunday, July 1, sponsored by the Buffalo church.

Linden Boulevard Elementary School Program

On Sunday, June 3, the Linden Boulevard Elementary School presented its annual fund-raising program in the Andrew Jackson High School, St. Albans, New York. The Brooks Memorial Church Girls' Choir was presented in concert.

The first half of the program was presented in the form of religious worship. The Linden Boulevard children marched in during the processional as the choir sang the processional hymn. The program proceeded in the following manner: The call to worship, the Lord's Prayer, Scripture, chant, the sermon in song, entitled, "It Is No Secret What God Can Do," the invitation, and finally the closing meditation and benediction—taken from Handel's "Judas Maccabeus," entitled "Hallelujah, Amen."

The last half of the program took on a lighter air with secular numbers. Such songs as "It's a Grand Night for Singing," and "You'll Never Walk Alone" were given.

A very interesting march was given by the boys' group and the girls' group of Linden Boulevard. This precision march was quite unusual in that there were such small children participating. The little folk received loud and hearty applause for this good performance.

The girls' choir was under the direction of Attorney Florence V. Lucas; Mrs. Arlein Ford Straw, pianist. The pupils of Linden Boulevard were directed by Miss Frankie Lawton, the principal; Mrs. Gloria Thomas, secretary and teacher; and Mrs. Eva B. Strother, teacher. The program was sponsored by the Home and School Association, Austin Channer, leader; Mrs. Marjorie Smith, treasurer; and E. A. Lockett, pastor.

District Changes

At a recent conference committee meeting the following changes were made in the conference: Upon request, O. A. Troy, who since 1957 has been our Book and Bible House manager, has taken up pastoral duties. Elder Troy will become the assistant pastor of the Ephesus church.

William Alleyne, presently assistant pastor of the Ephesus church, will assume responsibilities at the newly created district of Corona and New York Boulevard churches.

James J. North, who for years has been home missionary and Sabbath school secretary, will become pastor of the West Hudson district consisting of the Nyack, Newburgh, and Ellenville churches. Elder North will also retain his pastorate of the Christian Fellowship church in Brooklyn.

To replace Elder North as home missionary and Sabbath school secretary a call has been extended to H. W. Kibble, Sr., of the Lake Region Conference who will come into the conference very shortly.

R. T. Wilson, who for seven and one-half years has been pastor of the Buffalo church, will now assume the pastorate of the Berea Boston church. E. F. Carter, presently pastor of the Boston church will become the pastor of the Buffalo church.

These changes will become effective after the General Conference session.

Worcester Church Reaches First Objective

On June 9 members and friends of the Worcester church met in a portion of the new church for the first time. The first phase of the construction is actually a part of the Sabbath school division.

The first phase includes a large assembly room, several classrooms, heating plant, rest rooms, and several small office-type rooms. A large parking area provides for an abundance of off-street parking in a shaded spot.

A. E. Harms, conference treasurer, and M. L. Mills, conference president, greet members and visitors as they leave the Worcester church on opening day.

The total expended thus far has been $30,000 for land and $75,000 for the building and furnishings. John D. Latimer was the architect and the Gifford Brothers were the builders.

Arnold R. Swanson, the pastor, led out in the special services. Guest speakers were Merle L. Mills, W. J. Hackett, and S. A. Yakush. Throughout the day appropriate musical numbers were presented by various individuals and the church choir which is directed by Mrs. Harry Jones.

As one approaches this new building it does not look very impressive. However, on entering the wide hallways and noticing the abundant use of glass, attractive tile, drapes, and well-chosen color scheme one is impressed by the planning and careful work that has gone into making this a very practical, beautiful, and commodious building.

Elder Swanson, the building committee, and the members of the Worcester church have reason to be proud of this first section of their new building. The church is located at Airport Drive and Mill Street. You are cordially invited to worship with the Worcester believers when you are in the vicinity.

May Day Baskets Bring Cheer

Prior to May 1, nine ladies met at the home of Mrs. Emily Barcelow, Amesbury Dorcas leader, to make eighty-two colorful and lovely baskets. Into these baskets were placed homemade cookies that were made by various members of the Amesbury church.

On May 1, Robert Schmidt and his son delivered the baskets to rest homes and shut-ins in Newburyport. The homes in Amesbury were visited by Mrs. Warren Slack and her son, Scott; Mrs. Beverly Linthwaite and her son, Jeffrey; Mrs. Emily Barcelow, and Valerie Monroe. Mrs. Dorothy Gates delivered baskets in Hampton and Groveland.

ing. This notice is being placed in the GLEANER to urge all who are planning to enter South Lancaster Academy this fall to send in your application blank immediately as we are over fifty applications ahead of last year. In order to be sure of enough classroom space and dormitory rooms, we must make plans early so that none will be disappointed.

God richly blessed our school year which was just concluded. An excellent student body was in attendance both scholastically and spiritually. One of our commencement speakers remarked: "I am very much impressed at the seriousness of outlook of this year's graduating class." No school is void of serious youth problems today and this will unfortunately be the case until the Lord comes. Yet, when one sees the goodness and serious purposes of the greater share of our students, he feels that the future of our denomination is in safe and secure hands.

Because of the spiritual and scholastic benefits received this last year, and because of the fine quality of student, the well-qualified and consecrated staff, the prospects for next year look encouraging. One student on our campus recently commented that he thought next year would even be a better year. Yes, it is rewarding to see the Spirit of God work on the hearts and lives of His youth.

You are urged again to send in your application as soon as possible. If you need to secure an application, write to the Principal, South Lancaster Academy, South Lancaster, Massachusetts, and a bulletin which will include an application will be sent immediately. Should you have questions regarding classwork or finances feel free to correspond.

"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom; and the knowledge of the holy is understanding" (Prov. 9:10).

Purchasing Department

Supplies and equipment for the New England Sanitarium and Hospital are ordered through the Purchasing Department. Any supplies that are needed by a department are ordered on a requisition by the head of that department. The requisition is then sent to purchasing where a purchase order is made for the requested goods. When the goods arrive they are checked against a copy of the purchase order and delivered to the respective departments. This same procedure is followed when ordering equipment after the request has been studied by the Budget Equipment Committee, and recommended to the administrator to be approved by the board.

The purchasing agent's duties also includes talking with salesmen, keeping informed on up-to-date hospital supplies, working with the department heads of the gift shop, pharmacy, store, post office and arranging for transportation for nurses to go to classes at other hospitals and for emergency trips for the hospital.

The varied work of the Purchasing Department offers an excellent opportunity for Christian service. Conversations with salesmen are sometimes directed into discussions on healthful living. Literature is available for salesmen waiting their turn in the office (several men have stopped smoking after reading this material). Supplies are obtained by this department that the sick may be healed physically and spiritually.
