

He Knows Us By Name

By LEONARD C. LEE, Pastor
Babylon, New York, Church

A young pastor sat by the deathbed of an old minister who had spent his last years in the community. He took out his Bible and asked: "Is there any special scripture you would like to have me read?"

A smile crossed the old man's face as though some blessed thought had cheered his soul. "Yes," he said, "read the first chapter of I Chronicles."

The young man turned to the desired chapter and began to read. "Adam, Sheth, Enosh." It was hard going for the names that fill the chapter are not easy to pronounce. He struggled through to the last duke of Edom.

As he finished, the dying minister with an almost saintly look on his face said; "Thank you son, that was so comforting."

With a puzzled expression the young man asked: "Would you please tell me why you like that chapter and what is so comforting about it."

A look of perfect peace was on the old man's face as he answered: "Just to think that God knows us all by name."

I once met a man at a street-corner preaching service and talked with him briefly. I did not meet him again for months, and then I was dressed up instead of being in work clothes. I did not dream he would recognize me. But I was amazed when he called me by name. Some people think God does not know what they are doing. How could He keep track of three billion who are living as well as all the dead? But the clear teaching of Scripture is that the God of heaven knows each of us by our names and also by our characters. Names in ancient times often represented character. Adam was named the "Earth-man." Abram's name was changed to Abraham when he developed patriarchal faith. Jacob was well named "Cheater," but when he overcame he had his name changed to "Israel" meaning "Prince with God."

Among the promises to the overcomers in the Book of Revelation is this, "To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna, and will give him a white stone, and in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it" (Rev. 2:17).

The intimate relationship between God and His people should give us courage to live dedicated lives. Adam and Enoch walked with God. They must also have talked with Him. Abraham reasoned and even bargained with God over how many souls it would take to save Sodom if they could be found righteous. Moses had a rendezvous with God and met Him on a mountain top. All through the Sacred Scriptures we have the experiences of those who have had a close and intimate experience with the One we love and worship. If God has not changed, that experience of knowing Him as a personal friend and an intimate wise and loving companion must be available to each of us who is willing to meet the conditions.

To have friends costs something. That is why selfish people have so few friends. To make and keep friends takes time and effort and sometimes money. We must share with them the secrets of our inner lives and share their joys and burdens. But to be a friend of God costs infinitely more. We cannot cling to sin, or any form of selfishness, and be comfortable in God's presence.

But if it costs something to be a friend of God, we lose infinitely more by keeping ourselves from Him. He longs to pour out upon us rich blessings and show us heavenly favors. He longs to see our characters transformed by His love so that He can give us a new name. If we could only see how cheap and tawdry are the trinkets we cling to that keep us from reaching for the infinite wealth of heaven.

He knows us all by name. He is preparing a place for us in the heavenly kingdom. Only friends of God will be there for those who have not accepted His friendship would never dare to enter the pearly gates. He is waiting for us to make up our minds. Do we or do we not want a place in the kingdom?

We Are at War

Tobacco and liquor war against the best interests of American youth, American youth, and particularly Seventh-day Adventist youth, need to war back. As never before, the insidious, subtle, and damaging claims of tobacco and liquor need to be exposed and denied. Our duty to country and fellow man demands this of us. The weapon of war, best calculated to accomplish this, is Listen magazine.

Let one hundred thousand Adventist youth arise and subscribe to Listen for themselves, and each for one friend. This would make two hundred thousand readers, and their influence would in turn compel others to subscribe and read. Wake up, Adventist youth! We are in a war! Defend yourselves and others against the destroyers of health, honor, and home. Read and get others to read Listen! May every society and each youth take part in the "1 + 1 = 200,000" plan now.

Oakwood Is Committed

Oakwood College, a fully accredited Christian college, is committed to the task of preparing young men and women to meet the challenge of the Seventh-day Adventist Church in times like these.

Mrs. E. G. White states very definitely that the Lord led in the establishment of Oakwood College at Huntsville, Alabama. (Testimonies VII, 231.) She also said:

Especially should we reveal a spirit of beneficence at the time the yearly offering for the support of the colored work is taken up.—(Testimonies IX, 225).

The General Conference has made provision that an offering be taken annually in all the churches in North America for the expansion and further development of Oakwood, to meet the needs of a larger number of our Adventist youth.

This co-educational institution with its bi-racial faculty of dedicated Christian men and women is academically prepared and spiritually consecrated to the task of training the youth in theology, in education, and in the arts and sciences, that their witness for the truth may make a soul-saving impact upon the world.

The call for help that goes forth now to "lengthen thy stakes" was never more relevant.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank all for their generous gifts in the past and to solicit your continued interest and financial support when the offering for Oakwood College is taken on Sabbath, August 8.

General Conference of S.D.A.

The Magic of Seeing

Perhaps the most unique experiment at the World's Fair in New York, is the emphasis being placed upon religious interests; seven and one-half acres of space being allocated and reserved for denominational representation. Such consideration by the Fair's administration and others speaks well for their noble ideas and far-sightedness.

Of special interest to Seventh-day Adventists is our own exhibit located in the Protestant and Orthodox Center. To God's glory it is good to know that our display continues to draw the largest attendance of any being conducted within the building. As one director of an exhibit said recently: "Your picture is objective, compelling, and has a message. We, too, believe in Christ's soon coming, but you would never know it."

By the tens of thousands visitors have come to see the magnificent painting done in oil, ten feet wide and twenty feet long. The theme of the picture is the certainty of our Lord's return. Events leading up to Advent are spotlighted, and at the end of the three-minute narration describing the signs, the entire picture is lit in full brilliancy as Jesus is seen coming in the clouds of heaven, "with power and great glory."

Two nuns came by to see us and they were cordially welcomed to the Seventh-day Adventist exhibit. One wanted to come in but the other declined. This nun who watched the picture unfold its story decided to see it for the second time. At the end of the showing she said to one of our lady attendants: "How beautiful-how wonderful! You know both of my grandparents are Seventh-day Adventists."

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale expressed deep and sincere satisfaction as he took the time to see the picture story through. Governor and Mrs. Romney of Michigan, both Latter-day Saints, spent some ten minutes with us, and they were quick to tell us of their hopes pertaining to the return of Jesus.

The patriarch of the Greek Orthodox Church in North and South America was another visitor who was greatly pleased with what he saw. Dale Evans, the wife of Roy Rogers, was most enthusiastic. When the climax of the scene came, she said: "Oh look, that's the coming of the dear Lord. How wonderful!"

While we welcome these well-known individuals, there is another class of "distinguished" visitors attending our exhibit and enrolling for the Bible courses. They are the hundreds upon hundreds of senior youth from many parts of the world. What a joy it is to watch their faces, and to see the satisfaction the picture brings to them! When one hears them say: "Thank you so much, it did something to me," then it is clear that the Spirit of the Lord is moving upon their hearts.

Our exhibit is being serviced by workers and laity from both the Atlantic and Columbia conferences. In every instance they have manifested loyalty and devotion to the cause they love so much.

Please pray for us who minister to the throngs, and for those who visit the

An Appeal to All

We are right in the middle of the summer—vacation time for many. But radio never stops—summer or winter—and checks must continue to go to the stations every week. They do not stop billing us in hot weather.

For us, the world-wide field begins right here in North America. In some parts of this continent we have good radio coverage, but in other areas we do not, though many stations are willing to carry the message of Christ. Will you help us to reach millions more, by an extra lift at this time?

To reach Central and South America, Europe, and about half of Africa we have been on WRUL, a 280,000-watt short-wave station—the only one in the United States on which time can be purchased. Its power is soon to be increased about tenfold. We have no funds to stay on it; but we have hung on by faith so far, knowing that if we drop our contract others are waiting to buy the time. Think of the potential audience all over the world that can hear God's gospel message sent out every Sunday by the mighty voice of WRUL's five transmitters!

It is our prayer that this urgent appeal, telling you about our special plans for North America and overseas, will bring back extra offerings to strengthen the radio work of the Lord.

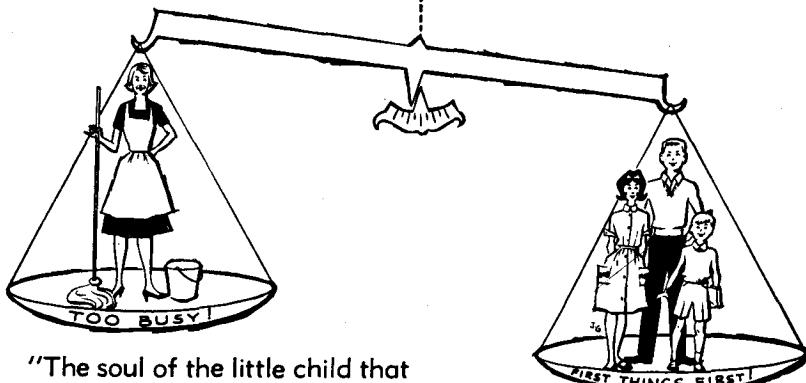

We do thank you for your financial help in the past, and for your prayers. May the Lord bless you all as you give.

Madison Food Becomes Subsidiary of Worthington

The Madison Food Company, long associated with Seventh-day Adventist self-supporting work in the South, is operating once more as an Adventist self-supporting enterprise. L. J. Vacation Bible School is effective Sabbath school evangelism. Many thousands of boys and girls have been taught the truths of God's Word through faithful efforts of Sabbath school members working the Vacation Bible School Plan. The company will continue in business as a subsidiary of Worthington Foods, Inc., according to James L. Hagle, president of the Worthington, Ohio, firm. K. J. Stepanske has been appointed general manager of Madison Foods. He assumes this position after fifteen years of experience as production manager for Worthington Foods and for the Eastern Division of the Loma Linda Food Company.

The president and treasurer of the Southern Union Conference will serve on the new board of directors appointed to direct the affairs of the Madison Food Company, which will operate under the corporate name Nutrition International Corporation. The latter corporation was formed to serve as the organization through which the new Infa-Soy product will be produced and marketed. Infa-Soy is the trade name of the new liquid soy milk product presently being introduced to pediatricians and other physicians as an infant food. Willis Miller, engineer for Madison Foods, has been instrumental in setting up the facilities needed to produce the new soy milk product.

Loyal customers of Madison Foods will be pleased to know that the same products which have been produced in the past will continue to be available in the future under the Madison label and brand names used in the past. Wider

Labels for Navajos

Miss Elva Walker, church clerk, (left) and Mrs. Barbara Vogler, Sabbath school teacher, sort some of the 1,616 food labels collected by the members of the Huntington, Long Island, church during the past few years. The church has chosen the second quarter as the time to "cash in" on their collection because their Sabbath school teacher, Miss Angela Vitellaro, is a former missionary worker to the Navajo Indian Mission in Holbrook, Arizona. As a result of 716 Worthington, 111 Battle Creek, and 760 Loma Linda labels, Miss Vitellaro's Indian children should have approximately $23.00 extra with which to build better quarters.

Hartford Baptisms

Pictured are some of the thirty-eight persons baptized on June 6 and June 13 in Hartford, Connecticut. These baptisms were results of an evangelistic series conducted by Elder G. H. Rainey, associate secretary of the Ministerial Department of the Atlantic Union Conference.

From the beginning God blessed in a marked way. We were most fortunate to obtain the use of the new Fred D. Wish public school auditorium. This is a very beautiful school building with an air-conditioned auditorium having a seating capacity of over four hundred.

An excellent corps of workers assisted Elder Rainey in this crusade. C. C. Eaton, pastor of the Hartford church, was campaign director. Miss Magnolia Mapp of the Ephesus church of New York City and Mrs. Lelia Cornelius of New London, Connecticut, were full-time Bible instructors. Mrs. Gloria Eaton, wife of Elder Eaton, served as an associate Bible instructor.

We were very happy to have the services of Mary Lebedoff, a Bible worker from the Southern New England Conference. A large number of persons from her list were baptized in both baptisms.

Samuel Richardson, a member of the Hartford church, served as minister of music. Mrs. J. Simmons and Mrs. Dorothy Richardson served as pianists. Edward Smith, local elder of the church, gave excellent help also.

Before the meetings began the Hartford church membership was 139. The two baptisms have raised the membership to 176. It is expected that before the year ends, it will reach the 200 mark.

Since the present church building will seat only 125 comfortably, plans are being made to obtain a lot for a new building, and a purchaser for the old building has been found.

Hartford is a very fruitful field and in the last two years Elder Eaton, through God's help and the co-operation of his members, has doubled the church membership.

The "Bible in Hand" plan was used with great success in this series. Every person fifteen years of age received a brand new Bible with a red and blue marking pencil. After a certain number of nights attendance the Bibles are given free and allowed to be kept. This plan has done much in indoctrinating the people and settling them in the church.

We are grateful to God for the splendid success Elder Rainey and his group have had in the city of Hartford. We look forward to a proposed meeting for the virgin territory of Providence, Rhode Island.

New Dorcas Federation Meets

On June 20 a Dorcas Health and Welfare program was presented in the Capital City church in Albany, New York. The program was sponsored by the newly organized Hudson Valley Health and Welfare Federation, a subsidiary of Northeastern's Dorcas Health and Welfare Society.

Commencement Exercises for the Linden Boulevard School

The Linden Boulevard Elementary School conducted its second commencement exercises on Sunday, June 21. Pictured is the graduating class and the teacher, Mrs. Gloria Thomas.

There were eight graduates in the class. Ruben Smith was president and Lorna Morre was secretary-treasurer.

The commencement exercise was participated in by the entire student body, with grades 3-8 presenting musical selections. E. A. Lockett, pastor of the Linden Boulevard church, gave the invocation; Emerton C. Whidbee, superintendent of education for the Northeastern Conference, presented the guest speaker; Charles Brooks, superintendent of education for the Allegheny Conference, delivered the commencement address; Miss Frankie Lawton, principal, presented the certificates and awards.

Changes in District Leadership

George E. Rice and his family have accepted a call to the Nevada-Utah Conference, and this has created an opening in the Rochester district.

Clarence E. Johnson, the pastor of the Presque Isle district, will move to the Rochester, New Hampshire, district to fill this opening. He will be in charge of the Rochester and Portsmouth churches and the Laconia company.

Christof Kober, now assistant pastor in Portland, will move to Presque Isle as the district leader. His churches will be Presque Isle, Oakfield, Milltown, and Lubec.

These pastors and their families will move the first week in August. We ask an interest in your prayers that God will bless the leadership of these two dedicated workers for God. We are sure every church officer and member of these two districts will give their new pastor 100 per cent co-operation.

A Gift for

Parkview Memorial Hospital

Parkview Memorial Hospital is soon to have a much-needed Hydrotherapy Department thanks to the late Jesse W. Billings, Clifford Libby, his nephew, and the grandmother of Jesse.

If you knew that Jesse was an elderly man when he made his will, you would naturally wonder how his grandmother could enter into this story. It seems that when Mr. Billings needed help in later years, Clifford Libby, his nephew, was appointed guardian. When the will of Mr. Billings was being prepared, he asked for suggestion as to how he might establish a memorial. The influence of his grandmother who was a Seventh-day Adventist and the influence of the nephew, who is also a Seventh-day Adventist, had instilled a desire in Jesse's heart to do something good for humanity; So his will was drawn to provide that the residue of

Oakwood

OAKWOOD COLLEGE, in the environment of space facilities and just outside Huntsville, the Space Capital of the world, looks to the annual North American offering for Sabbath, August 8, 1964.

The increase of over $21,000 last year is deeply appreciated and will go a long way in helping young men and women get a college education at an institution called by the servant of the Lord: "This is the place." The goal again this year is $100,000.

A fully accredited co-educational college, Oakwood College aims to train workers for denominational service.

Expanded curriculum, stepped-up teaching facilities, audio-visual additions, language laboratory, science enrichment, counseling and physical education is now a must.

Accreditation is a guarded accomplishment which the school must literally bend over backwards to hold.

Your gift to Oakwood on August 8, will give needed strength to the College at a time when that assistance will do the most good.

Our prayerful appeal to give comes only once a year and the program of Christian education to which Oakwood College is tenaciously holding will merit your support.

Reception Held for New Pastor

A reception was held recently for the new pastor of the Norridgewock district, C. Dale Chaffee and his family were greeted by the members of the Norridgewock, Dixfield, and Jay churches. Approximately one hundred persons attended. The reception consisted of a supper followed by entertainment.

Supper was served family style, with a number of ladies waiting on the tables. The supper was planned by Mrs. Cyril Robinson of Norridgewock, assisted by Mrs. Frank Grant of Dixfield, and Mrs. Paul Galusha of Jay.

Church members used their talent during the social hour following the supper. Robert Wilmont presented the program which consisted of singing, piano and auto harp solos, and some beautiful scenes of Maine were shown to conclude the program.

Baptism in New Bedford

Seven precious souls were united with God's church through the rite of baptism in New Bedford on March 28. Five of them became members of the Portuguese American church. Mrs. Gloria Barrows joined the Cape Cod church, where her husband has been a member for many years; and Robert Nickerson joined the New Bedford English church, where his family attends.

Through the influence of her mother, Miss Lois Augustine made her decision for Christ. Mrs. Rose Melo is the mother of five lovely children. She hopes, and so do we, that soon her whole family will accept Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour and join the remnant church. Mrs. Lily Ashworth has been studying our message for over twenty years. She has eleven diplomas from both the Voice of Prophecy and Faith for Today. She was accepted by profession of faith. Floyd Houtman, after studying our message, came to the conclusion that we have the truth and then expressed the desire to become a member through the rite of baptism. He is praying that soon his family will follow his steps. John Soares has been a member of the Roman Catholic church for over fifty years,

South Lancaster Academy Faculty Members Attend Summer School

Mr. Kinsey states that one more summer should complete the requirements for this coveted degree.

Eugene Christoph, mathematics and science instructor, has received a National Science Foundation scholarship and is attending Holy Cross College. He is taking further work in the field of chemistry.

William Richardson is attending Atlantic Union College, taking full work in order to complete his requirements in the field of education. South Lancaster Academy students will also be happy to know that Elder Richardson was ordained during our last camp meeting.

Mrs. Judith Kendall is taking work in education at the University of Vermont. These hours of further work in the field of education are also being completed to meet certification requirements.

Kenneth Peck, newly selected mathematics and science instructor, is completing requirements for his master's degree in the field of physics at Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island.

L. S. Davis, principal of the academy, recently received his acceptance in the doctoral program at Boston University. His field of specialization is school administration and presently he is attending the summer session at the university.

SLA News

★ The South Lancaster Academy office has employed two secretaries, Patricia Jenkins and Sandra Craig, for the summer to help get ready for the new school year. The two girls have cleaned and reorganized the office and are currently working on the permanent records for the 1964 graduates.

A new permanent record system is being put into use in the office. The permanent record is typed once and put into a loose-leaf notebook. When a transcript is requested, the size and form of the record makes it possible to make a photocopy of the record. This does away with the necessity of typing a new transcript every time a request is received.

The office has purchased two new IBM Selectric typewriters and two typewriter tables. The new typewriters are more efficient and one has a carbon ribbon with which more attractive letters can be typed.

★ Charles Eusey, yearbook editor for 1964-65, is making plans for the 1965 Footsteps this summer. Lynn Craig, 1964-65 newspaper editor, is collecting material for the first issue of the Pioneer. Staff members for both publications will be chosen by the Associated Student Body Council after school starts.

OBITUARIES

GARBER—Paul J. Garber was born May 14, 1881, in Bridgewater, Nova Scotia, and accidentally drowned off of the coast of Cape Cod, at Chatham, Massachusetts, on May 13, 1964.

Mr. Garber had lived in the Worcester-Paxton area for many years, and with other members of his family joined the Worcester church some years ago. He was an avid lover of nature and a keen Bible student, one who loved his Lord. He had often taken part in the various services of the church.

Funeral services were conducted by the writer at the Miles Funeral Home in Holden, Massachusetts, and burial was in Mooreland Cemetery in Paxton, Massachusetts.

He leaves to mourn, his wife, Lillian; five daughters, Helen, wife of Conrad E. Jones; Lillian, wife of Arthur S. Palmer; Phyllis, wife of Veikko C. Mannila, all of Paxton, Massachusetts; Ethel, wife of Werner Koss, of Leicester, Massachusetts; and Doris, wife of Paul W. Tracy, of Smithtown, Long Island, New York; a sister, Mrs. Deborah Ranney of Bridgewater, Nova Scotia; thirteen grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

A. R. SWANSON

ANDERSON—Lloyd E. Anderson was born June 22, 1929, and died at Worcester City Hospital on July 10, 1964, after an extended illness.

Since boyhood, Lloyd has been a member of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. He served in the U.S. Army Medical Corps for fourteen months during the Korean conflict. Though suffering much before his untimely death, his faith and courage remained strong.

Surviving his death are: his wife, Ruby Anderson; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellwood Anderson of Millbury, Massachusetts; his daughters, Beth and Susan; and a sister, Miss Lois Anderson of Millbury, Massachusetts.

Funeral services were conducted by the writer at the Lindquist Funeral Home in Worcester and burial was in the New Swedish Cemetery.

Remedial and Enrichment Course Offered at AUC

Twenty-one Atlantic Union College summer school students are practice teaching in the elementary school remedial and enrichment course offered by Browning Memorial June 28-August 7.

One group of student teachers is receiving apprentice teaching credit. These students are secondary education minors who teach in their major or minor fields and rotate to all of the classrooms.

The group of apprentice teachers includes nine students. Wanda Brace and Constance Dunn teach English; Patricia Dow teaches English and is in charge of the preschool room; Nelson Evans is in charge of grades six through eight and is one of three principals; Charles Holmes teaches mathematics and is a principal.

Louis Matthews teaches biology; Richard V. Mills teaches Bible and is the superintendent; Rochelle Queen taught music and French. Dorothy Chase teaches typing in Mrs. Walker's beginning typing class for college and academy students.

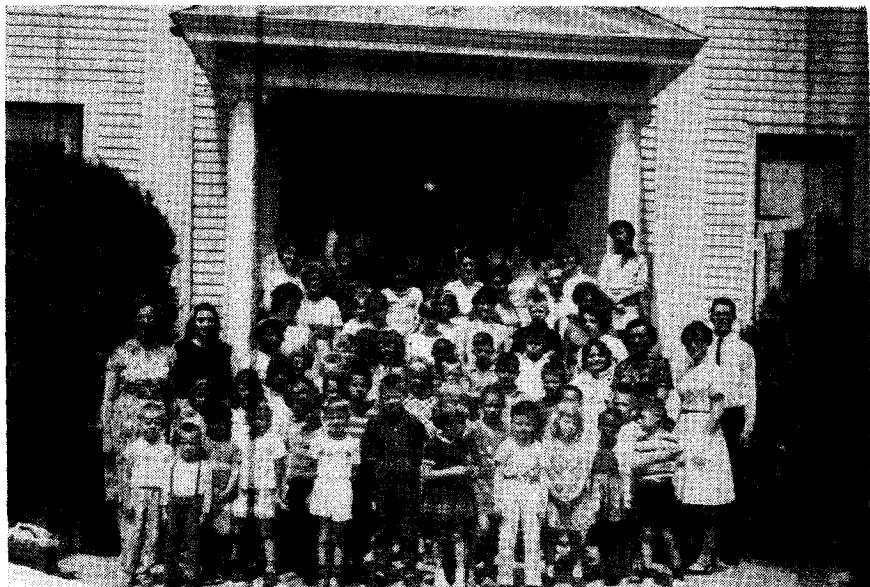

Twelve college students are receiving cadet teaching credit. These students are elementary education majors and they remain in the rooms and do remedial work in reading, spelling, and arithmetic.

The cadet teachers are Dorothea Carter, Janet Chapman, Earle Doughty, Carol Giller, Erna Greene, Ara Kahraman, Virginia Leonard, Linda Quillin, Eva Sheys, Joan Dixon, in charge of grades one through three; Cecilia Foster, in charge of grades four and five; and Victor Vassar, a principal.

A group of seventeen students from the introduction to teaching class observes, participates and helps the elementary pupils with remedial work.

The student teachers may receive a maximum of four hours practice-teaching credit during the six-week summer session.

As part of their homework assignments the student teachers are working on an evaluation scale for student teaching which is being made up under the direction of the education division of the college. The scale will be used by the student for self-evaluation and by the supervisory teacher for his evaluation of the student's teaching.

Elementary pupils and teachers attending summer session at Browning Memorial.

This summer fifty-two preschool-through-eighth-grade pupils are attending the summer session. The program for the elementary pupils includes planned recreation periods and during the Southern New England camp meeting the pupils were taken to their morning meetings. The last day of the session the pupils will present a program for their parents. Included in the program events will be a display of pupils' art.

The program of education courses offered during the Atlantic Union College summer session is planned mainly for teachers who have the summer for study at the college. Several education courses are offered during the session in addition to cadet and apprentice teaching. The courses include introduction to teaching, mathematics for elementary teachers, mathematics for elementary teaching, teaching in the secondary school, psychology of behavior and development, psychology of teaching and learning, and measurements and evaluation.

LaVeta M. Payne, professor of education and chairman of the education division, is co-ordinating the student teaching program at Browning Memorial.
