

The Fruit of the Spirit-2

Joy

By ARNOLD V. WALLENKAMPF, Chairman Division of Theology and Religion, Atlantic Union College

As the love of God abides within, it will manifest itself in different nuances of divine grace, the first of which is joy.

The most unalloyed joy is derived from fellowship—the quiet but exhilarating sensation of mind stimulating and interacting with the mind of another person whom we respect, admire, and love. Just being with such a person imparts a sensation of both physical and emotional comfort and well-being.

Children know and recognize this joy. Thus a boy's greatest joy is to be able to work with his father. What he cherishes most in this opportunity is his father's companionship. As Christians we derive such mental and physical joy and stimulation from our fellowship with God. The apostles called it the communion or the fellowship (koinonía) of the saints, which Christians possess in relation to one another and with God.

As God is not here in body we fellowship with Him in spirit as we let our minds dwell on Him and His plans for us and the world, and as we joyfully perform the work He has assigned to us. We also fellowship with Him by studying His Word, talking to Him in prayer, and joyfully following His directions to us as individuals as we work with and for Him. This joy in God is ours to the fullest only when we know that we are following His every directive to us personally and knowing that we are in the place of God's choice for us and doing the very work He wants us to do just now. God in His love has granted us the privilege of such fellowship with Him "for we are labourers together with God" (I Cor. 3:9).

The very thought that God, the Creator of the universe, grants us fellowship with Himself and entrusts us with the responsibility of work with Him is ennobling, elevating, and joyous. In this way heartfelt joy will always abide within us as we remember our high and holy calling. "Labourers together with God." This awareness will kindle a sacred fire within us that will stimulate our potentialities to the fullest.

The thoughts of the bride about the bridegroom are joyful. So are Christians filled with joyful thoughts about Jesus who, as the bridegroom, will soon come for His bride or the church. If there is no sunshine and joy in our religion we may question its origin. A gloomy and long-faced religion is not from God. The apostle Peter speaks of the Christian as possessing a "joy unspeakable and full of glory" (I Pet. 1:8).

Four-year old Mary looked up into her mother's face and said: "Are you happy, mother?" "Oh yes, I suppose I am," mother answered with a sigh.

"Then, mother, you have forgotten to tell your face about it," observed the little philosopher.

If we are habitually sad and oppressed in spirit we need to learn to know Jesus better. Then happiness will be ours. As children of God we will be joyful despite adversity when we recognize that we have a Friend at the throne of God, and know that He is constantly working out the best plans for our ultimate salvation. In this way "you will ever find with the true Christian a marked cheerfulness, a holy, happy confidence in God, a submission to His providences, that is refreshing to the soul."—Testimonies III, 377.

God Himself takes pleasure in happiness, while He is repelled by pessimism and sorrowful spirits. Jesus came to refresh us and bring us joy, not to sadden us. The gospel of Jesus Christ is joyous, since it is the good news of emancipation from Satan's serfdom. It sets us free, and Jesus is daily sustaining us by His grace. The joy of salvation bubbles within us. It imparts a glow to life.

Christianity is a message of joy. The prophets caught its spirit of joy as they looked forward to it in anticipation. "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; shout, O daughter of Jerusalem: behold thy King cometh unto thee: he is just, and having salvation; lowly, and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass" (Zech. 9:9). "Be glad in the Lord, and rejoice, ye righteous: and shout for joy, all ye that are upright in heart" (Ps. 32:11).

The New Testament writers re-echo the prophetic joy. The apostle Paul exclaims: "Rejoice in the Lord alway: and again I say, Rejoice" (Phil. 4:4). Jesus Himself gives the reason for our joy as He admonishes: "Rejoice, because your names are written in heaven" (Luke 10:20). The converted heart cannot help but rejoice inwardly through its faith in Christ, and this joy manifests itself outwardly in facial expression, words, and actions. It gives elasticity or spring to the step and relaxes the muscles of the neck and face and makes it break into a smile.

There is also a counterfeit joy founded in the flesh, rather than in the Spirit of God who abides within the Christian. This is a fatuous joy that the flesh can feign in tranquil times, but amidst the storms of life and in the fiery furnace it fades away. The genuineness of divinely inspired joy, on the other hand, is most gloriously manifested in adversity.

In the sunshine of prosperity and health, true joy and its counterfeit may appear almost alike. In the valley of the shadow, the genuine joy remains undimmed and retains its lustre, while that of the alloy turns into dead ashes of gloom, doubt, and despair. The apostle Paul possessed genuine joy. Thus even amidst numerous adversities joy ruled in his heart. (II Cor. 6:4-10.)

God is eager and happy to know that you and I rejoice in our fellowship with Him. This bur joy will express itself in praise of our Lord. "Praise ye the Lord. Praise the Lord, O my soul. While I live will I praise the Lord: I will sing praises unto my God while I have any being? (Ps. 146:1, 2). As the love of God is perfected within us there will be more praise and testimony to God's goodness in our homes and in our churches, and thus there will be more power i our lives for the finishing of the work.

Heaven is full of joy. It resounds with the praises of Him who made so wonderful a sacrifice for the redemption of the human race. Should not the church on earth be full of praise? Should not Christians publish throughout the world the joy of serving Christ? Those who in heaven join with the angelic choir in their anthem of praise must learn on earth the song of heaven, the keynote of which is thanksgiving .-- Testimonies, VII, 244.

"Let the people praise thee, O God; let all the people praise thee" (Ps. 67:5).

What Is the "Israelite"?

Permit us to introduce you to the Israelite. You may ask, "What is the Israelite?" We would like to answer that this is a very special publication which appears quarterly, with a message beamed especially to our Jewish friends and neighbors. The journal is edited by E. L. Odom, under the auspices of the Israelite Heritage Institute, which, in turn, is a subsidiary of the North American Missions Committee of the General Conference. The office of publication is that of the Foreign Language Division of the Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California.

When the gospel commission was given, Christ's followers were told that the good news was to be proclaimedfirst in Judea, then in Samaria, and then into the uttermost parts of the earth.

The Jewish nation was to be the first to hear the good news of the gospel. We are told in the Spirit of Prophecy that in the last days there will be a great awakening among those of the "heritage of Israel." It is to this end — that of bringing about this awakening, that the Israelite journal is dedicated.

On March 20 a special offering will be taken in all the churches of North America. This offering will flow into the treasury of the General Conference and will be used in covering the cost of sending this good news to the Jewish people.

You may have a friend or neighbor who is a descendent of Israel of old. Perhaps you would like to request a subscription through your home missionary secretary. You may do so by handing in the name, along with $1.00, which is the yearly subscription price.

Time is running out! Let us give liberally to this worthy project.

"Project Good Neighbor" Comes Alive in '65

Missionary Volunteer societies across the nation are enthusiastically entering into an excellent Share Your Faith plan of community contact known as "Project Good Neighbor." Whether the MV Society is large or small, this evangelistic plan is workable and effective.

In a nutshell here is the idea: Missionary Volunteers watch the vital statistics columns of the daily newspapers for announcements of marriages and births, and for obituaries. From this list the society selects the names of newlyweds who are contacted with a special congratulations card which includes an invitation for them to worship with the youth at the Seventh-day Adventist church. Likewise, new parents are contacted with a congratulations card and invited to bring their baby to Sabbath school and enjoy the fellowship of the Adventist church. Families of those who have lost loved ones are sent appropriate sympathy cards. With each card sent, a complimentary copy of the 1965 missionary book of the year Life at Its Best is given to the individuals contacted.

New Series Begins in April

In the Review for April 1 a series of six articles will begin written by Siegfried H. Horn, professor of archeology and history of antiquity in the Theological Seminary of Andrews University, on the 1964 archeological excavation of Biblical Shechem. This was the third season in which Dr. Horn has participated with the Drew-McCormick Archeological Expedition to this ancient city, near which Abraham first settled upon his arrival in Palestine. Like Dr. Horn's original reports on the two previous expeditions in 1961 and 1963, this series will appear exclusively in the Review.

Dr. Horn is a recognized authority on archeology and ancient history, and a practicing archeologist as well as a teacher. His Seventh-day Adventist Bible Dictionary (volume 8 of the Commentary Reference Series) has been accepted as the most up-to-date work of its kind in the areas in which he is a specialist. Dr. Horn is also editor of the relatively new Andrews University Seminary Studies, a scholarly journal in the field of Biblical research.

Point by point, archeology is confirming the historical reliability of the Bible narrative. Discoveries made at Shechem in recent years have added much to our knowledge of life in ancient Palestine, and thus to our understanding of the Bible. Now, in his ----BI-UNION YOUTH CONGRESS Atlantic-Columbia Unions Inspiration The entire program of the 1965 Atlantic City Youth Congress is designed around the potential of Seventh-day Adventist young people. Outstanding speakers and musicians have been selected. Many hobby booths will be on display. Youth will describe their soul-winning experiences. Key personnel will lead out in workshops and discussion groups which will meet several times each day, in small groups, to totally involve everyone there and give each a part to play in future soul-winning plans. All of these features will not only bring inspiration to the delegates in attendance but most important will bring inspiration to each home church as the young people return with concrete suggestions and plans for future evangelizing endeavors.

Laymen's Rallies

Adventist laymen from all over the conference have attended the chain of laymen's rallies held in several different places. Their support and participation, as well as their expressed plans to do something tangible in soul-winning, has been most enthusiastic.

more active in Bible studies, literature distribution, home-to-home visitation, and inviting people to church and evangelistic services.

In the various group discussions nearly everyone felt that there was more need for personal and individual training classes, organization, and friendliness. We would like to urge strongly that our members everywhere get under the load of individual soulwinning in their communities. Rich rewards await not only the individual but the church as well in this type of work.

As time goes on we see less and less door-to-door work done by our people and the exact opposite of this should be happening. From recent personal experience I have learned that there are people in every block who are anxious to learn more about the Bible and are willing to talk to someone who will come to their home. Let us visit the homes in our neighborhood and share with them God's truth. It is our command for Christ said, "Go, ye!"

Saturday Night School

Amid the fragrance of snapdragons, gladioli, and chrysanthemums, school reconvened at 7:30 Saturday night, February 6, at the Syracuse Avery Avenue School. Present were fifty-one pupils and about eighty visitors. The occasion was an open house and Home and School meeting.

Following a worship period conducted by Mrs. Marguerite Attle, teacher at the Fremont Road School, and her seven pupils, three fifteen-minute class periods were used to present classroom demonstrations in each of

Medical Self-Help Course in Rochester

The church board of the Rochester, New Hampshire, church, recently voted to hold a medical self-help course in the church schoolroom as a community project. We believe we are the first church in the Northern New England Conference to do this. Fifty per cent of the class were our church members and the other 50 per cent were friends from surrounding area churches. On March 1, a total of ten were graduated and will receive certificates from the Public Health and Civil Defense departments. Illness prevented other class members from completing the course at this time.

The course was conducted by Mrs. June Story of the Rochester church. Mrs. Story has taught first-aid classes for the American Red Cross for the past twelve years. In addition, she has completed courses in health physics, radiological defense, radiological monitoring, and was sponsored by the Atlantic Union and Northern New England Conference in the attendance of the religious affairs course in civil defense at the Eastern Training Center in Brooklyn, New York. She is presently attending a course for shelter management instructors at the University of New Hampshire, and is serving as radiological defense officer for the Dover, New Hampshire, public fall-out shelters.

Mrs. Story states that every Seventhday Adventist with vision and belief in the Testimonies for the Church, will prepare himself or herself to give not only physical aid but spiritual knowledge and comfort to those who may be wounded or lose loved ones in a possible nuclear accident or exchange.

Book and Bible House Expands

During the past few months the floor space in the Book and Bible House has been expanded from 950 square feet to 2,450 square feet. R. L. Walin, manager of the Book and Bible House, served as builder of the project.

In the past only a part of the long list of publications was displayed due to the lack of space. At the present time the entire line of our denominational books is on display. In addition Sabbath school supplies, phonograph records, tracts, and small books are displayed on either tables or attractive peg boards and one section of the new addition is devoted to visual aids and frozen, packaged, and canned health foods.

During 1964 sales of the Book and Bible House amounted to almost $195,000. As the new year starts literature evangelists sales are up over the previous year indicating that 1965 will be another good year.

Our constituency are invited to visit the Book and Bible House when they are in the vicinity of South Lancaster and take advantage of these new facilities.

JOHANSEN-Karl L. Johansen was born in Fredrikstad, Norway, on March 14, 1887, and passed away at Worcester, Massachusetts, on February 1, 1965. Mr. Johansen had lived in the Worcester area for forty-four years. He had been a member of the Seventh-day Adventist church there throughout most of this time, having served as local elder, treasurer, deacon, and Sabbath school teacher.

He leaves to mourn: his widow, Ellen (Bodin) Johansen; two sons, Emil L. John-son of West Boylston, Massachusetts, and Johan Glosli of Moss, Norway; one daughter, Elsie, wife of Karl Fredericksen of Norway; one brother, Elmer Johnson of Daytona Beach, Florida; six grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

Words of comfort were spoken by the writer at the Johnson Funeral Home in Worcester and burial was in New Swedish Cemetery.

Atlantic Union College Board Meets

A new library for Atlantic Union College is the next building scheduled for construction under the current tenyear, $3,000,000 development program. Architects are drawing plans for the proposed library. This library will be named the G. Hric Jones Library as voted by the Atantic Union College Board in the February 24 meeting.

G. Eric Jones was president of the college from 1936 to 1948. During his administration the college received full accreditation by meeting the standards of both the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York.

The physical plant was enlarged during his administration by Preston Hall, the women's dormitory; the College Press and Bindery; the engineering plant and laundry; Thayer Hall, then the men's dormitory; the gymnasium; numerous facult and student homes, and the initial construction of Haskell Hall and Machan Auditorium.

Also voted in the board meeting were several faculty promotions and appoint-
