"I Was in Prison..."

By MORTEN JUBERG

Ask Leonard C. Haswell, Nashville, Tennessee, his opinion of These Times, and he will tell you the magazine is a valuable tool in personal evangelism.

His opinion is based on personal experience, because over the past 20 years he has seen 300 individuals give their hearts to Christ, partly with the help of the magazine.

The almost unbelievable saga of Mr. Haswell and his remarkable experiences began two decades ago. He and his wife had just been baptized.

The couple looked for missionary work. Their pastor, seeing their willingness to help, suggested some tasks. "I would like to have you visit some of the shut-ins who do not have a chance to come to church," he told the Haswells. And, as an afterthought, he asked, "Would you take a Sabbath School Lesson Quarterly to a young man in prison?"

Mr. Haswell's idea of visitation did not correspond exactly with those of his pastor. To visit shut-ins seemed like a good idea, but he had reservations about visiting a locked-in person—one who had broken the law and was jailed. Instead of visiting the prisoner, he mailed the Sabbath School Lesson Quarterly.

Gently prodding her husband, Mrs. Haswell suggested a personal contact with the prisoner instead of a proxy visit through the postman. Hesitantly, Mr. Haswell drove to the grim, foreboding Tennessee State Prison.

Even though the first visit was casual, several prisoners asked an unexpected question: "Would you start a weekly worship service?"

From this request came a Sunday morning Bible class with Mr. Haswell as the teacher. The group continued to grow in number. With growth came shifts to larger quarters—the printing room, the library, and finally to a newly constructed prison chapel. This last shift led to another change, the institution of a Sabbath morning service.

Rapidly the years have slipped by, and today Mr. Haswell's prison church has a weekly attendance of from 50 to 60 inmates. But most remarkable has been the effect on the prisoners. Over the two-decade span of the weekly penitentiary visit, about 300 prisoners have been baptized.

Faithfulness is part of the secret of Mr. Haswell's success. In the 20 years of visiting the dismal prison, he has missed only four Sabbaths. It has been no easy task, for his Sabbath day begins early—very early—at 4:30 a.m. when he arises to study. He drives to the prison for Sabbath school at 7:50 a.m. and preaches for the worship service at 8:20 a.m.

Another part of the secret of Mr. Haswell's success has been literature. "I use These Times and Message each week," Mr. Haswell reports. "The magazines are largely responsible for the conversions that have taken place."

One of those who have been baptized is Charles Moore. A smiling, light-hearted young man, he is now a pressman at the Southern Publishing Association. A former prisoner, he now helps print the magazines that aided his decision to follow Christ.

Before this, Charles Moore's life plans and hopes came to a jolting halt when he was convicted of a crime and sentenced to the Tennessee State Penitentiary. In the painfully dull monotony of a prison, almost anything that breaks the routine is a blessing. This applies even to Bible study, an unusual choice for criminals.

"I was looking for a means of escape," says Charles

Moore of his experience. "When you are behind the walls, you watch people and see their characters."

Two inmates made an impression on Moore, and he followed their example by attending the Sabbath morning church services. It was more than a break in the routine to the young prisoner. There was hope. This led to Bible study.

"I got so involved because for the first time I found something that was real," says Moore. This led to his baptism by the prison chaplain.

Following his release on parole from the penitentiary, he was hired by the Southern Publishing Association. With the job came training in a trade, and Charles Moore is now a skilled pressman.

One of the promises of the Scriptures is, "My word . . . shall not return unto me void." The weekly ministry of Mr. Haswell aptly demonstrates the truth of this text. Through the spoken word and in the printed page, God speaks to man.

These Times and Message carry on this ministry of the printed page. Seven years ago a new idea for the two magazines was born. Special center-spread articles were prepared, and reprints of these articles were made available as tracts. These up-to-date reprints have proved to be a valuable tool to the laymen also. In the seven years of using the reprints, nearly 28 million of them have been distributed.

All of the eternity-slanted material has its effect. Letters by the hundreds come to the editorial offices of the Southern Publishing Association expressing appreciation for the magazines.

Many find the journal in doctors' offices or in hospitals. A lady from Mississippi wrote: "Would it be possible for you to send a copy of the May magazine to me? I am enclosing 50¢ and 10¢ postage. I really want to replace the magazine I borrowed from the hospital. It had so many good readings in it. I just had to take it home with me."

A Pennsylvania man found a copy of These Times in a laundromat. "I was so interested in it," he wrote, "I brought the magazine home. Today I read it almost through." He ordered a series of reprints for further study.

For the Christian layman These Times or Message is a tool that fits in almost any kind of witnessing program. Whether it be a Dorcas ministry or a branch Sabbath school, the monthly journal fits the need of the dedicated layman.

Many others sponsor subscriptions to their neighbors, relatives, and business acquaintances. These individual subscriptions are also valuable tools, and the mail ministry is silent and effective.

An interesting letter came to These Times this past summer. A lady wrote of her experience with the granddad of These Times—The Watchman.

"Nearly 50 years ago," she wrote, "someone sent us for a year a very attractive magazine, The Watchman. At this time we lived on a farm and had little good reading. We read every word of it and became so interested in its explanation of the Bible that we subscribed for it ourselves."

After reading the magazine for several years, they found themselves in agreement with its teachings. The family looked in vain for Seventh-day Adventists.

One Saturday the husband went to a neighboring town. As he passed by the courthouse, he heard the strains of gospel music coming from a meeting room. His curiosity led him to investigate, and he found a group of Adventists holding Sabbath school.

This led to Bible studies and the baptism of the husband and wife. Later three daughters, who are now nurses, were also baptized.

In closing the letter, the lady concluded, "I can truly say we have never regretted taking this step, as God has richly blessed."

Such is the influence of These Times or Message. These magazines can be a helpful tool for you. As you plan a program of progressive evangelism, use the tool that fits into every facet of soul-winning—These Times and Message.

Prisoners kneel for prayer during the church service.

Leonard Haswell, right, visits with prison officials in connection with the congregation that meets behind the prison walls each Sabbath.

Leonard Haswell, a dedicated laymen, is searched for weapons at the prison by a guard. This is only a formality, as Mr. Haswell has preached every Sabbath at the Tennessee State Penitentiary for the past 20 years.

Happy Charles Moore enjoys his work as a pressman at the Southern Publishing Association. Moore is only one of three hundred men who have found Jesus Christ as a Saviour from sin through the work of Leonard Haswell at the Tennessee State Penitentiary.

Loma Linda University Has a Unique and Vital Mission

By NEAL C. WILSON, *President
North American Division*

A century and more ago the leaders of an emerging, little-known religious group committed themselves to a new and daring course of action. Though numbering only a few thousand they purposed to use a new emphasis in achieving their church's audacious goal, which was the carrying of the gospel to men and women of every nation on earth. These forward-looking leaders were officers of the recently organized Seventh-day Adventist Church. The new challenge: To identify, understand, and meet health as well as spiritual needs of people everywhere.

This ambitious emphasis seemed to be compatible with their faith in Jesus Christ, who, they said, spent more time healing than preaching. It soon became a vital part of their Christian service—a ministry that was to make them known throughout the world and was to revolutionize health and eating habits of people in many nations.

Seventh-day Adventists continue to carry Christ's gospel to the world. Thousands of ministers, physicians, evangelists, nurses, teachers, administrators, and technicians work in a hundred nations blending professional skills with brotherly love and Christian compassion. They find deep satisfaction and fulfillment working side by side in a healing, redemptive mission.

Loma Linda University is the educational hub for a world-wide complex of healing institutions. Under the guidance of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists it combines the pursuit of knowledge with professional training in an atmosphere of inquiry and service.

Every other year Seventh-day Adventists throughout the North American Division join hands in supporting this fine institution. I hope your gift on April 12 will reflect your true appreciation of its unique and vital role.

Atlantic Union Science Fair

On the week end of March 7-9, South Lancaster Academy was host to the second annual Atlantic Union Science and Mathematics Fair. Students from the four participating academies, Greater Boston Academy, South Lancaster Academy, Pioneer Valley Academy, and Union Springs Academy entered a total of twenty-one projects in the four classes of Biology, Chemistry, Physics, and Miscellaneous. These were carefully evaluated by the three judges: Dr. A. E. Smith and Dr. W. F. Murdoch, from Atlantic Union College, and John Morris, from nearby Nashoba Regional High School.

The first prize in Biology was won by Becky Hamm and Linda Swanson of Greater Boston Academy with their extensive entry on molds. Cheryl Camara, also of Greater Boston Academy, won the first prize in the Chemistry class with her interesting and elaborate display of extracting oil from corn. South Lancaster Academy was represented when a first prize in the Physics class was awarded Glenn Barnett for his rocket project.

Paul Muller, a Pioneer Valley Academy senior from Blue Point, Long Island, won the first prize in the Miscellaneous class with his intriguing binary system electronic computer. He was also awarded the grand prize of a $100 scholarship to Atlantic Union College, provided by the college administration. This was presented by Dr. Smith, dean of the college, at a chapel ceremony at Pioneer Valley Academy on Wednesday, March 12.

Next year, the fair will be held at Union Springs Academy under the direction of Miss Nancy Sutton, mathematics teacher. It will be held the week end of March 6-8. We want to thank the judges and all the teachers, institutions, and students who co-operated in making this worthwhile activity possible. We urge a greater participation next year in this growing science activity in the Atlantic Union.

Businessmen and the VOP Daily Broadcast

A plan appealing to businessmen in different areas of the United States and Canada is that of sponsoring the Voice of Prophecy Daily Broadcast.

The Daily Broadcast is carried on WSRF-FM in Worcester, Massachusetts, every morning at 6:30. Otho Eusey, owner of the Eusey Press of Leominster, is the sponsor for this every-day broadcast as well as for the Sunday broadcast on WEIM, Fitchburg, at 8:30 a.m. The voices of H. M. S. Richards, the King's Herald, and Del Delker, are making an impact on thousands of homes over a 60-mile radius, with a potential listening audience of five million people.

The annual cost for the Daily Broadcast, Mr. Eusey discovered, would ordinarily be $24,000. But after he had made a personal presentation telling of the great good being accomplished by the Voice of Prophecy, the manager of the station volunteered to give a 25 per cent discount on the basis that it was being purchased locally and was a community service. In addition, the station matched the local conference's $1,000 budget to advertise the program in the Boston papers.

"All that is required to make the cost deductible as an advertising expense," explains Otho Eusey, "is a statement at the beginning or end of the broadcast, giving the name of the sponsor. This assures full tax advantages and is not subject to the usual five per cent limit for corporations."

Always enthusiastic about the power of radio to proclaim the message of Christ's return, he goes on to say: "There is probably no other way we can reach so many at so little cost. We have a great work to do, with but little time remaining. This could be the means of telling those in any area of our blessed hope."

Another six-days-a-week broadcast is in Boston over WBCN-FM, 104.1 on the dial, Monday through Friday, at 6:00 a.m.; every Saturday at 7:00 a.m. This Daily Broadcast, released every day except Sunday, is sponsored by Benver Tool and Die Company of Lynn, Massachusetts, of which Milton Bent is president.

In another state, the owners of Dakota Bake-N-Serve, manufacturers of Rhodes unbaked bread and rolls which are marketed in six northern states, are doing the same fine work. Mr. and Mrs. Duane R. Wold of Jamestown, North Dakota, are sponsors for the Voice of Prophecy Daily Broadcast, Monday through Friday, over station KEYJ at 11:00 a.m. Their Bake-N-Serve food products can be found in the frozen food section of nearly any supermarket in a wide area.

"For a long time," commented Mr. Wold, "we have wanted to do something special for the Lord to help others to learn this message of a soon-coming Saviour. We are pleased to have this opportunity to sponsor this Voice of Prophecy Daily Broadcast in Jamestown."

Seventh-day Adventist businessmen are urged to give prayerful consideration to this plan which, with the same radio dollar, can both advertise their businesses, and also spread the gospel at the speed of light.

ACTIVITY CAPSULES from the churches

MIDDLETOWN-PORT JERVIS

Evangelism holds center stage in this district. Three were baptized March 1, and four or five will be baptized in the near future, reports Elder C. A. Nelson.

POUGHKEEPSIE

A number of successful Five-Day Plans have been conducted by Elder John Ferraro and Dr. Gordon Brannan, and future ones are scheduled for Poughkeepsie and Amenia. An active youth program is carried on, and a baptism is planned for the near future.

NEWBURGH

A Five-Day Plan held here led to unexpected activities. A Smokers' Dial set up to advertise the Five-Day Plan, was so successful that it was necessary to ask the telephone company for a separate line. Hearing about this interesting telephone venture, the local radio station asked if they might play the recorded message directly over the air. This, in turn, led to a radio interview, and an invitation to conduct a radio worship service. Assistant Pastor Arthur Schumacher reports a number of Bible studies are being conducted, and a Voice of Youth evangelistic series is planned.

PEARL RIVER-PEEKSKILL

A number of Bible studies are being conducted, and five families are definitely interested in the church. A number of laymen are active in soul-winning activities. Several former Adventists have been contacted through the "Concern" program. Two school buses have been purchased, and in a few weeks a new social-center section will be added to the church building. Pastor Bert Benson recently spoke on the beliefs of Seventh-day Adventists in a nearby Episcopal church. Another Five-Day Plan will be held soon in the church itself.

KINGSTON-LIVINGSTON-COXSACKIE

Elder Dan Schiffbauer and his assistant, Lyle Pollett, recently joined the local Ministerial Association. This has already opened an opportunity to preach in a non-Adventist church in the neighborhood. The basement of the Kingston church has been redone to provide facilities for the Saturday night Christ for Youth meetings being held. Neighborhood youngsters enjoy crafts, singing, pictures, and a special Bible Hour.

The Amazing Facts radio program is now being heard each Sunday at 9:00 a.m. and every other day except Saturday at 9:05 a.m., over station WPAZ. This is a popular station with young people. The Code-a-Phone program is still being carried out, and a baptism is planned soon for the brand new baptism.

On February 8, a special Story Hour was begun in Saugerties. Nineteen non-Adventist children attended the first week, and by the first week in March, 42 were in attendance. Some of the parents are already showing a definite interest.

STATEN ISLAND

Community relations are coming in for much attention as Staten Island prepares for its big fall evangelistic campaign featuring Elder Gordon Dalrymple of Faith for Today as speaker. Some 100 to 150 calls per week are coming in over the Code-a-Phone, and the messages now are recorded with Elder Dalrymple's voice. Pastor William Goransson recently was invited to speak in a Catholic school. The church is planning a baptism very soon.

CROSSROADS

Elder Kenneth Harding reports that the missionary committee of his Crossroads church is extremely active. On March 10, two were baptized and four were taken into membership by profession of faith. Sanford Roseman will

Bible Instructors' Training Course Held

Miss Maybelle Vandermark (left), associate director of Health and Welfare Services for the General Conference, held a Bible Instructors' Training Course for the laymen of the Greater New York Conference from January 31 to February 2. The Jackson Heights church of New York City was host for the session. Of the 154 who attended the course, 57 students completed the requirements and were given the Christ-Centered Evangelism certificate. At the right, the Sabbath afternoon group attending the Greater New York Lay Bible Instructors' Training Course.

Many of the ministers of the conference also participated, giving instruction on how to successfully meet people of other religious persuasions. Elder W. E. Peeke, Atlantic Union lay activities director, made a call for lady Bible instructors who would give time each week to hold Bible studies in their districts. Twenty-four signed cards indicating the time they could work. These names are being sent to the ministers of the churches involved. It is hoped to build up a strong lay Bible instructors force that can help reap the harvest in Greater New York.

Lay Activities Secretary

join the Crossroads church as assistant pastor.

BROOKLYN

Two were baptized in January and three in March. Elder Ronald Halverson, newly appointed conference evangelist, will hold an effort in Brooklyn this fall. Pastor Halvard Thomsen reports a growing church school: 33 pupils and two teachers in 1967, 63 pupils and three teachers in 1968. This last year 80 pupils had to be turned away for lack of facilities. In 1969 a four-teacher school is planned.

Assistant Pastor Steve Doyle plans a second Prayer Clinic for the church. Literature distribution is carried on in the church neighborhood each Sabbath, and special attention is given to young married adults. Each Sabbath, all guests at church are invited to stay as dinner guests.

CONGREGATION HEBREW ADVENTIST

A recent Nutrition and Cooking School was well attended. Mrs. Florence Silver and Mrs. Sanford Roseman are carrying on the classes each Sunday. A baptism is planned in the church soon.

YONKERS

Pastor David Copsey is holding a Bible class each Wednesday night, and four have requested baptism. A number of renovations are being carried out in the church, and a new baptistry and stained-glass window have been installed. Elder A. A. Leiske has been invited to hold evangelistic services in May.

GERMAN BROOKLYN

A large portion of the ceiling in the main sanctuary fell some months ago, fortunately causing no serious injury to worshippers. A $24,000 renovation is under way. A lady who was formerly a Seventh-day Adventist located the church by following the sound of singing, and two others attended when they noticed the church while passing by. One Sabbath in May has been set aside for a baptism.

UKRAINIAN-RUSSIAN

A baptism is planned for April 5. Working for these foreign-speaking individuals has its complications. A number call on the Code-a-Phone, but fear because of former political situations prevents identification. Since little literature is available, Elder Miroslaw Roshak selects articles from our publications, translates them, mimeographs them, and sends them on to interests.

GERMAN NEW YORK

Elder Herbert Roehn baptized two on March 1. A Code-a-Phone program is in progress, but once again it is difficult to get people to identify themselves because of former political problems. Each Sabbath nearly 400 pieces of literature are distributed. Church members, in addition to all other offerings, give $150 each Sabbath for Elder F. K. Erlecke's German radio broadcast.

JACKSON HEIGHTS

Elder Nathan L. Sims will be coming as pastor at the end of May. Assistant Pastor John Luppens reports that the church has five very active bands: Literature, Orphanage, Convalescent, Prayer, and Correspondence. The church is utilizing its excellent facilities for a youth recreation program. A goal of one Bible study per member per week has been set before the church. Seven to ten people are expected to be baptized from the present Bible class, and an effort is planned for fall.

BABYLON

At the present time a stewardship program is being developed in the Babylon church. Their school continues to grow, and next year they plan to add a fourth teacher. Elder Jim Ripley baptized four in January, and another baptism will be held in the near future.

PATCHOGUE

Each year every home in Patchogue is contacted with literature. At the present time Pastor Ulysses Diaz is personally visiting every home in the vicinity of his church. A number of Bible studies are in progress.

HUNTINGTON

A new missionary paper reports activities in the Huntington church. Studies are being given and a baptism is planned for the new baptistry. Alcoholics Anonymous meets twice each week in the church, and a Five-Day Plan will be held for this group. At least five church members are giving Bible studies, and a branch Sabbath school is in the planning. John Baldwin is the pastor.

HEMPSTEAD

Elder Ned Maletin has baptized five so far this year. A baptismal class now being held will provide participants for two other baptisms scheduled for the future. The church is nearly filled to capacity each Sabbath.

YUGOSLAVIAN

One person has been baptized this year, and several are preparing for this rite. An extensive rebuilding program is underway which will lengthen the church and provide more windows, a new heating system, and air conditioning. The police challenged the group for working on Sunday. However, after learning that the pastor was also in work clothes and that all the members were working without remuneration, they merely said, "Good luck, and good-bye."

JAMAICA

After years of negotiations, it appears that the Jamaica church will be given permission to build on an excellent piece of property in Old Westbury. Elder C. E. Johnson plans a baptism sometime before May, and hopefully a new church meeting place by September.

Union Springs Academy Industry Program

On Sunday, March 2, the New York Conference Executive Committee, Union Springs Academy Board, the Laymen's Advisory Council, and the conference ministers met for the second time to discuss and make plans for the future of the industries on the campus of Union Springs Academy. Elder A. J. Patzer, conference president, was chairman of the meeting. The first meeting was held November 24, 1968, at the academy at which time a special seven-member Fact-Finding Commission was appointed to bring an in-depth study report and recommendations back to the larger group.

The recommendations of this commission, which met February 9, were accepted by the larger group after appropriate and profitable discussion time was given. Following the close of this meeting in the afternoon, the academy board met and made recommendations to the conference committee for implementation. Far-reaching and significant decisions were made whereby the growing academy institution will continue to play a more important role in the ever-all progressive program in the New York Conference.

The Broomshop is to be enlarged. Another industry is to be started. Other work possibilities were discussed and voted on; thus making it possible for more students to work and earn money toward their educational expenses.

Our business as workers is not to get ahead of others, but to get ahead of ourselves—to break our own records, to outstrip our yesterdays. "New Steps to New Horizons" must be our motto. These words must burn deep into the heart of every worker. If we are to journey on to "new horizons in '69," we must embark with plans now for an even bigger, better, and more victorious year than we have ever witnessed before.

R. H. Carter, conference secretary, informed the workers that in spite of adjustments made during the year the conference membership totaled 11,396. Seven hundred forty-seven persons were baptized into the churches of the Northeastern Conference during 1968, with 16 taken in on profession of faith. The baptismal goal for 1969 is 1,000.

Some of the pastors who played a leading role in helping to achieve the large total of baptisms during 1968 are listed below:

Baptisms	Church	Pastor
82	Bronx	T. X. Perry
74	Bethel	E. J. Humphrey
69	Mt. Zion	J. F. Guy
60	Hanson Place	W. Alleyne
53	Ephesus	S. A. Hutchins
52	Brooklyn	G. W. Timpson
45	Jefferson Ave.	S. W. Stovall
41	Linden Blvd.	D. B. Reid

Public evangelistic crusades were conducted during the summer by W. D. Felder, in Springfield, Massachusetts; J. T. Grayson, in Springfield Gardens, New York; and J. F. Guy in New Haven, Connecticut.

The conference treasurer, Stennet Brooks, indicated that Northeastern's tithe income for 1968 totaled $1,814,282.35, a gain of $271,691.60 over 1967. If the present trend continues, Northeastern will surpass the two-million-dollar mark in tithe income during 1969. A $20,000 gain in the total amount of Ingathering raised during this year's campaign was also realized.

The workers were made happy when they learned that plans call for holding future workers' meetings in the large motel-like dormitory being constructed on the campground at Victory Lake. This building will be heated and will have an auditorium which will seat nearly 150 persons.

L. H. Davis, public relations secretary of the Atlantic Union Conference, used his slide projector effectively, as he tried to help Northeastern's workers improve their photography technique.

Northeastern Conference Workers' Meeting

The office and field workers of the Northeastern Conference assembled at City Tabernacle on January 21-23 for the initial workers' meeting of 1969. The tone for the three-day meeting was established by President G. R.

Earle in his keynote address to the workers. The following is an excerpt from his talk entitled, "New Steps to New Horizons in '69."

This conference-wide joint meeting of our workers now has a two-fold purpose; to recognize the excellent performance of last year's fulfillment, and to promote plans for further and greater achievements in 1969.

stirring devotional message. He concluded his appearance by showing color slides of Faith for Today's new building and activities.

R. R. Hegstad, editor of the Liberty Magazine, kept the workers on the edge of their seats as he warned them of the inroads that are constantly being made on the religious liberties of the world's Christians.

One of the highlights of this workers' meeting was the presentation made by the Publishing Department under the direction of Silas McClamb. His emphasis was placed not alone on the delivery gains made by the literature evangelists during 1968, but primarily on the soul-winning aspect of the literature ministry.

Joseph Hall, who led Northeastern's colporteurs in both deliveries and soul-winning over the past year thrilled the hearts of each person present as he related some of his experiences in leading souls to Christ through the printed page. One of his converts, Mrs. Joy Carter, who was recently baptized (along with three of her children) by Pastor G. W. Timpson into the Brooklyn Temple gave her testimony to a very attentive audience.

Joseph Hughes, representative from the Department of Social Security, New York City, was invited by the conference treasurer to explain the retirement benefits of Social Security. He showed a film and answered questions relating to new regulations for filing Social Security papers with the federal government.

L. H. Davis, W. E. Peeke, G. H. Rainey, and W. E. Roberson represented the Atlantic Union Conference at each session and gave valuable help.

The meetings were brought to a fitting climax on Thursday evening, as the teachers in the New York City area joined with the other workers and guests of Northeastern Conference in a dinner banquet in the fellowship hall of the City Tabernacle.

Funeral Rites for C. C. Eaton

Mourners in the New York City area gathered at City Tabernacle on Monday, February 17, at 7:00 p.m. to attend the funeral service of the late Charles C. Eaton. He died suddenly in his home in Syracuse, New York, on February 14. Elder Eaton had been a respected member of the ministerial staff of the Northeastern Conference for nearly eighteen years.

Elder G. H. Rainey, associate ministerial secretary of the Atlantic Union Conference, delivered the eulogy. Elder H. D. Singleton, field secretary of the General Conference and former president of Northeastern Conference, made remarks. A. N. Brogden, secretary-treasurer of the Allegheny West Conference, read the Scripture reading. Heading the list of Northeastern Conference workers present were G. R. Earle, president, and Stennett Brooks, treasurer. S. A. Hutchins, president of the Northeastern Conference Ministerial Association, spoke in behalf of the Northeastern ministerial family. G. R. Earle presided over the service.

Charles C. Eaton was born July 4, 1916, in Trenton, New Jersey, the youngest of five children born to George and Pearl Eaton. He grew up in the New York City area and, as a young man, became a member of the Ephesus church where he played an active role in many of its activities and organizations. Under the encouragement and guidance of Elder T. M. Rowe, he led out in the Staten Island Mission for several years.

He was called to military service in 1943 and served in the United States Army until 1946. Following his discharge, he met Gloria E. James and they were married in the City Tabernacle on Christmas Day, 1946. To this happy union were born three children.

In preparation for better service, he entered Oakwood College in Huntsville, Alabama, and was graduated in 1950. Although an accomplished commercial artist, he accepted a call from the Northeastern Conference and used his talent in the enrichment of his ministry and that of others. His first assignment was to the church in Rochester, New York, where he served from 1952 to 1960. Subsequent pastoral assignments included the churches at Bridgeport, Connecticut; Nyack, New York, area; the Hartford, Connecticut-Springfield, Massachusetts, area; Southampton, Bermuda; and Syracuse, New York.

His active and fruitful ministry ended on February 14, 1969, when he closed his eyes for the last sleep; still smiling, even in death. Surviving him are his wife, Gloria; two daughters, Mrs. Donna Richards and Miss Daisy Eaton; one son, Douglas Owen Wayne Eaton; a sister, Mrs. Daisy Knox; a brother, Joseph Eaton; and a host of other relatives.

He awaits the voice of the Life-giver who has promised that "the ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs of everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away" (Isa. 35:10).

Interment took place on Tuesday morning, February 18, at the Long Island National Cemetery. G. H. Rainey was assisted at the graveside ceremony by A. N. Brogden and R. H. Carter.

February 15 Oakwood Alumni Day

On Sabbath, February 15, the New York Chapter of the Oakwood College Alumni Association held its annual Alumni Day program. This year the program was expanded and services were held in three churches of metropolitan New York. Dr. Frank Hale, president of Oakwood College, was guest speaker at City Tabernacle, and Elder Charles Dudley, president of the South Central Conference, spoke at the Ephesus church.

All former students, teachers, and graduates of Oakwood were invited to occupy the front seats at both churches; they were also given alumni ribbons as a means of identification. Mrs. Sylvia Murphy-Bryan, a former Oakwoodite, sang the hymn of meditation at City Tabernacle and Edwin Humphrey, Jr., a future Oakwoodite, gave his message in song at Ephesus. Mrs. Edna Lett Williamson, secretary of the New York Chapter, and A. Samuel Rashford, president of the New York Chapter, gave brief progress reports of the association in the respective churches.

During the early evening hours an alumni rally was held at the Bethel church in Brooklyn. Both Dr. Hale and Elder Dudley spoke to the congregation, expressing the need for higher education in our Christian schools. Dr.

Hale also presented an up-to-date account of the progress at Oakwood and solicited the continued support for the growth of this institution. Music for the evening was under the direction of Satira Perry-Wisdom, a former Oakwood student. Mrs. Wisdom directed her group in three spirited songs and was responsible for having a quartet, the Northeastern Four, and a female quartet, the Templeaires. These groups were accompanied by outstanding musicians in the area of gospel music, Eugene Andrews and Dickie Mitchell.

This program was very enthusiastically received by both members and visitors of the Bethel church.

The Alumni Day was strongly supported by the ministers of Northeastern, departmental men, and Elder G. R. Earle, president of the conference. Mrs. Jessie Bradley, a graduate and strong supporter of Oakwood, journeyed from New Haven, Connecticut, for the activities of the day. The Alumni Association is making plans now for Alumni Day 1970, at which time they hope to extend the program into other areas of the conference.

The New York Chapter of the Oakwood Alumni is most appreciative for the support it is receiving from the constituents of Northeastern. Let us continue to support Oakwood through the Alumni.

through February 15. Meetings were held on Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday evenings from 7:15 to 8:45.

Special features were travelogues on week ends, a story each evening for the children, and nursery for pre-school children.

Laymen of the church had been working with five of those baptized through the Bible in Hand program.

The other five baptized were from the church school. Elder Richardson had given them Bible studies previous to their attending Elder Lindfors' meetings. Certainly much of the credit goes to the church school teacher. Let each one of us be faithful in supporting our church school, as these young people prepare to be leaders in our church.

Others stood at the baptism expressing their desire to be baptized at a later date following further study.

Youth Rally in St. Johnsbury

In the North Congregational church in St. Johnsbury, Vermont, on Sabbath, February 15, approximately three hundred Seventh-day Adventist youth gathered for an all-day youth rally sponsored by the Vermont and Western New Hampshire MV Youth Association.

Sabbath school began at 9:45 a.m. with Mrs. Mayme Moore, the superintendent, leading out. Mrs. Ralph Larson from Atlantic Union College gave the mission story and the Sabbath school lesson was taught by Dr. Howard Sprague.

Guest speaker for the church service was Elder Ralph Larson, instructor in religion at Atlantic Union College. His main theme was: "True Happiness Comes Only When We Obey the Laws of God."

Following lunch a music talent program and a panel discussion were held.

Special feature of the afternoon was inspiring talks on music and singing by students from Atlantic Union College.

Elder E. F. Keslake conducted the vespers at 5:00 p.m.

An evening of games rounded out a full day of spiritual and physical activities for all.

Plans Under Way for New School and Church Buildings

On Sunday night, February 9, the building and finance committee of the Norridgewock church met at the pastor's home to give study to the need for new and more adequate church and school buildings. Elder R. L. Cheney was the chairman of the committee. Even though one of the worst storms of the season was raging outside, only one or two of the committee members were unable to attend.

The committee gave study to the total needs, looking not only to the immediate requirements, but trying to gain a vision of what the long-range program ought to involve. It was noted that the church did purchase a large tract of most desirable property about one and a half years ago which is nearly paid for.

The Norridgewock church operates a three-teacher school which covers grades one through ten. This school is known as the Riverview Intermediate School and has a student enrollment of approximately 50 at present. The enrollment has grown steadily over the last few years. The present school building is a converted dwelling and has been quite adequate in the past, but a new building is needed to make room for an expected increased enrollment. A new building would also provide for more modern teaching aids.

The Norridgewock church is a very old building with much church history attached to it. It is reported to be the third oldest of all Adventist churches. But again, there is the need for more room. The present church building provides seating for 125 at the very most. It is felt that we should have accommodations for at least 250 to 300 members.

At the meeting, many ideas were presented and various methods of gaining financial support were discussed. Future meetings will be held to implement these plans.

New Gymnasium Facility Opened

Special services were conducted on Sabbath afternoon, February 22, marking the opening of the new gymnasium of the Cedar Brook Intermediate School at Rehoboth.

Lowell Bock, conference president, presented the dedication sermon and others taking part in the program were: D. J. Russell, secretary-treasurer; F. R. Stephan, conference educational superintendent; L. E. Smart, secretary of the Atlantic Union Education Department; Maynard Yeary, school principal, and Gerald Shampo, school-board chairman.

The $130,000 gymnasium measuring 96' x 98' will greatly enhance the program provided students of the four-district joint school, as well as serve as a meeting place for large district or conference meetings for the southeastern portion of Southern New England.

The new addition of a gymnasium facility (above) will add to the effectiveness of the program at Cedar Brook Intermediate School. The above rear view of the gymnasium, joined to the school, gives a good perspective of the structure.

Conference President Conducts Reaping Series

Elder Lowell Bock, conference president, took time from his heavy administrative program to conduct an evangelistic reaping campaign at the New London church, March 8-16.

As a result, ten persons made decisions for baptism, seven of whom were baptized on March 15. "This has been a week of miracles," Elder Bock said, referring to the wonderful answers to prayer and the victories that had been won. One of those who took her stand was the wife of an Independent minister. When she arrived home from church, her husband told her he knew she had joined the Adventist church, because he dreamed that she was being welcomed into the church by the pastor, Harold Allard.

A sailor who was due to ship out before the meetings were over found that his orders were changed at the last minute. Pastor Allard had assured him that this was going to happen, because they were praying for him.

Another sailor and his wife were present when the call was made for baptism. Elder Bock said he could see the sailor nudging his wife to go forward. She finally came forward. At the door, the sailor said he was going to give thought to serving God and joining his wife in church membership when he returns from sea duty. These and many other experiences were told, and the church as a whole was blessed through this brief series.

Our conference president has led the way in an evangelistic thrust that will reach its zenith next fall and winter as the pastors and departmental staff unite in conducting evangelistic

Greater Boston Academy Celebrates 25th Anniversary

Special services commemorating the 25th anniversary of Greater Boston Academy were celebrated March 14-15 at Stoneham, Massachusetts.

Many alumni and those associated with the school in earlier days, as well as other important well-wishers, joined in the week-end services. Elder John Hayward, former student and pastor in the Southern New England Conference, and now pastor of the Battle Creek Tabernacle, spoke at the vesper service, Friday evening, at the New England Memorial church. The

Each had a part in marking the 25th anniversary of Greater Boston Academy.

Students blend their voices in singing, "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing," during their musical spectacular.

Greater Boston Academy began in a residential dwelling and, after many years of meeting in an older school plant in the city of Boston, the academy now is housed in a new, modern plant on the grounds of the New England Memorial Hospital, in Stoneham, Massachusetts. The current student enrollment is 110.

Alumni Association conducted the worship services on Saturday morning.

Keynote speaker at the Sabbath afternoon 25th anniversary convocation was Elder Theodore Carcich, vice-president of the General Conference. Elder Carcich was chairman of the academy board when he served as president of this conference.

Others taking part in the afternoon program were: Dr. Michael Scarpitto, superintendent of schools for Stoneham; H. D. Lawson, principal of Pioneer Valley Academy; Dr. H. E. Douglass, president of Atlantic Union College; and L. E. Smart, Atlantic Union Education Department secretary. Dr. Douglass presented Elder Richard J. Hammond, principal of Greater Boston Academy, a plaque to honor his 25 years of dedicated service to the academy. Also participating in the service were: Mrs. Esther Smith, who gave a history of the school, Jon As-geirsson, A. C. Larson, Dr. Arni Asgeirsson, David J. Stone, Elder Andrew Musgrave, Beverly Kenny and Cynthia Pelton, who traced their own experiences at the school.

An appropriate capstone to the week-end services was the school's musical spring spectacular, entitled, "And the Seasons Turn." Directed by Elder Hammond, the students excelled in performing before a delighted audience which filled the large school gymnasium. The program of light classical and popular music was performed in costume, and presented on the evenings of March 15 and 16.

During this program, Elder Richard Hammond was cited by academy, conference, and union representatives for his great contribution and influence upon the school. The students presented him with a gold calendar watch and the faculty with an inscribed silver bowl.

Elder Lowell Bock, school-board chairman, presented him with a citation and a check, and Elder L. E. Smart presented Elder Hammond with luggage on behalf of the Atlantic Union Education Department.

Greater Boston Academy stands as a tribute to the dedicated faculty and administrators who have guided it to the position it enjoys today—a school maintaining the highest standards of Seventh-day Adventist education.

Press Evangelism—7

Responsibility of All to Help Press Relations Evangelists

[This is the seventh of a series of eight brief articles written by Herbert Ford, Pacific Union public relations secretary, on the press relations evangelism work of the church. We felt that the readers of the GLEANER would benefit from the valuable counsel they contain, and thus we reprint them here with Elder Ford's permission.—R. J. Barnett, Public Relations Secretary.]

Perhaps the greatest help a church member can give the press relations evangelist is to give his fullest co-operation when he himself is the news source.

Often when the press relations evangelist informs a church member that he is doing something which is interesting or important enough to be either straight news or human interest story material, the church member begins to shrink back, pleading, "Oh, I don't want my name in the paper," or "I look so terrible in a picture; get somebody else."

Responsibility of Church Members

It is at precisely this moment that the responsibility of each church member to heed the clear counsel of inspiration regarding use of the public press comes into focus. Co-operation may mean scores or hundreds of persons influenced favorably toward God's work. Lack of co-operation may mean the reverse.

At such times it may be helpful to remember that the press relations evangelist is not trying to make the church member appear important so much as he is trying, through the experience of the church member, to let others see what the grace of God has wrought to and through the church member. Keeping this view in mind often makes co-operation much easier.

Church Officers to Help

Church officials too may play an important part in co-operation with the press relations evangelist. Although the press relations evangelist may be a member of the church board, numerous week-by-week programs are planned by church officers which are not always noted at the church board meeting, and thus may miss the eye of the press relations evangelist.

Every church officer who is charged with planning programs of any type in the church should provide information to the press relations evangelist on each program so its news value may be considered. Again, advance information on programs is the only type that will suffice for the press relations evangelist.

Sabbath school officers, youth activities leaders, welfare society directors, and lay activities leaders are especially valuable news sources to the press relations evangelist because of their more-or-less continual production of programs within the church. A telephone call about two weeks in advance, informing the press relations evangelist what will be happening during the program or event being planned, will be most greatly appreciated.

Social Security Administration Accepts Home Health Service

"Our Home Health Service Department is now accepted by the Social Security Administration as a home health agency," reports Mrs. Sylvia Fish, R.N., director of Home Health Service at

New England Memorial Hospital, Stoneham, Massachusetts.

The primary functions of a home health agency include provision of skilled nursing service and other therapeutic services on a visiting basis to an individual home. The Home Health Service Department has contracted with four surrounding visiting nurse associations in order to provide home nursing service, and it is planned that physical therapy, occupational therapy, and home health aide-home-maker services will be available.

"Patient hospital stays can be reduced in length when the services available at home are used," adds Mrs. Fish.

Some estimates state that as high as 25 per cent of patients discharged from a general hospital need, or could benefit from, home care. It is hoped that by having a home health service here, it will be easier for patients at New England Memorial Hospital to receive these services.

Farewell to the Childs

A vacancy has occurred in our headquarters church in Portland, Maine. Elder Clayton Child and family have moved to the Potomac Conference where Elder Child will be the associate MV secretary for that large conference.

Elder Child is a native of Dixfield, Maine, a graduate of Atlantic Union College and Andrews University. He has been in Northern New England since 1962 and has been in three of our districts.

Elder Child has always had a burden for the youth and this change in work will definitely give him a challenge and opportunity. He will be able to spend full time directing the youth of the Potomac Conference.

We know God will continue to bless Elder Child, his wife, Audrey, and their three children, Fawn, Beth, and Scott. We will miss them and our prayers will follow them.

Tomorrow's Foods Today

Medical researchers are saying you can prevent a heart attack by cutting down on your saturated fats.

Did you know that all Worthington Protein Foods, like Stripples, are high in polyunsaturates and virtually free from cholesterol?

"Medical Researchers studying heart disease are coming reluctantly to a revolutionary conclusion. The Federal Government, they suggest, may have to intervene and decree a radical change in the prevailing American diet. This would involve taking most of the fat out of those marbled steaks and from those billions of gallons of milk..." —Time, January 10, 1969.

"Although some medical men doubt that cholesterol's role in heart attacks is critical, most researchers are convinced that the evidence . . . is overwhelming." —Look, February 4, 1969.

"Heart attacks are not natural, they are man created, and if the knowledge we have now were properly applied, we could halve the number of deaths from coronary attacks; in short, we could probably save 200,000 lives a year." —Dr. William B. Kannel, director of the team that made a 20-year diet-heart study in Framingham, Mass.

Stripples have less than 11 percent fat and this fat comes from corn oil. Corn oil is very high in polyunsaturated fats. This means to you virtually no added cholesterol when you serve Stripples and other Worthington foods to your family.

Actual pork products which resemble Stripples contain as high as 75 percent saturated animal fats. Did you know that?

The American Heart Association warns: "Diet is one of the most important factors contributing to heart attack risk. Eat less animal (saturated) fat. Substitute vegetable oils and other polyunsaturated fats for animal fats wherever possible."

Back in 1902, Ellen White said: "Animals are becoming more and more diseased, and it will not be long until animal food will be discarded by many besides Seventh-day Adventists. Foods that are healthful and life sustaining are to be prepared, so that men and women will not need to eat meat." —Counsels on Diet and Foods, p. 384.
