An Easy Way to Sell "Ministry of Healing"

L. A. Hansen

For those who say they "can't canvass" a way is now provided whereby they can have a part in the sale of "Ministry of Healing." A leaflet has been prepared that does the canvassing. It gives a brief description of the book, and sets forth the plan of its sale, telling of its dedication to the sanitarium work.

This leaflet is to be placed in the book, allowing it to project a little so as to attract attention. It is to be signed by the person presenting the book. Calling on the prospective customer, it is only necessary to leave the book, stating that you will call in a few days. Ample time should be allowed for examination of the book, probably leaving it over Sunday.

Copies of the introductory leaflet may be had from your tract society or from the Medical Department of the General Conference, Takoma Park, D. C. The leaflet is free. Get a few, place one in each book, call on a few neighbors, and leave the books. Then, about a week later, call again. You will find the way open for you to say anything that may be in place. Some may be ready to purchase the book without anything more being said. The plan is already being worked, and good success is reported. Try it.

Young People's Day

Matilda Erickson

Friends, the salvation of our youth will depend largely upon their own efforts for others. What are we doing to cooperate with God in helping our young people prepare to do the work for which He has chosen them? Upon every church a divine hand lays the responsibility of doing her utmost to enlist and train her young men and women for christian service; so I trust that nothing will hinder any church, large or small, from observing May 25 as Young People's Day. An excellent program appears in the Review of May 9. Study the work for our youth. Pray for its success. It merits our support. God has marvelously blessed this work in the past, and we cannot doubt its future success; but he is counting on your church to cooperate with him in utilizing to the best advantage the organization which he has called into existence to help save our youth from the world and train them for service in the Macedonian fields at home and abroad. Do not forget May 25. It is a special opportunity to study the Missionary Volunteer work. Make the most of it.

Remember May 25

Elder B. L. House

If you are interested in our army of young people in this conference, then you will be intensely interested in all that is planned for their benefit. If you have a son or daughter, then you must have their welfare at heart, and you should study those things which will better prepare you to help those who are near and dear to you. Should not the entire church of Christ arouse to the great needs and possibilities of our youth? Can Christians afford to sleep on sentinel duty and allow the enemy to creep into our ranks and lure away our noble boys and girls, the very flower of the church? No. Never!

Then what shall we do to bring to the front the work that lies so sadly neglected in many places? Let us study the young people's problems and needs. Why should we as parents devote so much attention to the study of farming, gardening, cattle raising, house-keeping, dressmaking, mechanics, and various professions, often times to the utter neglect of the great question,—How shall we save our children for eternity?

May 25 has been set apart as young people's day. If all the church officers and our conference laborers will help in following out the program given in the Review and Herald of May 9, much good will be accomplished, and it will prove a great uplift to our young people's work in Nebraska. The time of the regular church service should be devoted to this program, and let us show our interest in the young people by our hearty cooperation with them in this their annual Young People's Day.

And if any of our youth and children have not yet pledged themselves to give something to the Missionary Volunteer Investment Fund, let us take advantage of this opportune time and pass out the pink slips already sent to you, and let every young man and young lady and every boy and girl have some part in the work and in the blessing, so that we can be united families in the day of final rewards. Remember we are working for $1,000 for Korea.

I am especially interested in the Nebraska young people, and if we all work together we can be of mutual benefit to each other. I would like very much to have a complete list of the names, ages, and school grades of all our young people in the conference. If the parents and church officers would kindly send these to me, I would appreciate it very much.

My prayer is that you will all with me receive a rich blessing on our Young People's Day. Remember May 25.

Bible Department of Union College

F. M. Burg

We are now nearing the close of another year's work in the Bible Department of Union College. Reviewing the thirty-four weeks which the classes in Bible study have spent together since the opening of school last fall and recalling the many precious hours thus spent in "searching the Scriptures", we have great cause for rejoicing.

While fully aware of our failure to do all that God would have been pleased to see done, or what we ourselves would have wished to do, and with some fears that the students will go out from their classes without the thorough knowledge of the truth which they need to keep them from falling and to fit them for the Master's work, there has been very much along the way, and is now in the closing up of the year's work, to assure us that the Lord's blessing has been upon us all the way.

With a few exceptions, which we sadly recognize, there has been throughout the year manifested a more healthy and genuine interest in the study of the Bible than has been seen since I began my work in Union College.

The large class in the "Life of Christ" or "New Testament History" has been under the able instruction of Mrs. Griggs. Nothing can appeal in a stronger way to these boys and girls from fourteen to eighteen years of age and that the study of the life which was the Light of men. We believe that lasting impressions have been made on the hearts of these dear youth.

In the Academic Bible Doctrines class we have tried to prepare each student to go out from the school ready to give a "reason" for the doctrines which we believe and teach as a people. In the Advanced Doctrines class much more critical work has been done in the study of these great truths. Very encouraging results have followed from the research work of these advanced students. Special attention has been given to the prophetic periods of the Bible to acquaint the student with the historical data which sustains the positions we hold and so to fortify him against the cunning sophistry of these days. There are strong influences at work to undermine faith in that portion of the Bible which sheds light on the times in which we live.

The class in Major and Minor Prophets has spent many profitable hours in a field which is not as much appreciated as it should be. "These things happened unto them for ensamples; and they are written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the world are come." 1 Cor. 10: 11. God says we are to be "hewed" by the prophets. It has been with great profit that this class has studied the messages given to Israel and Judah and the great principles seen in the Lord's dealings with other nations as well as with his own people.

We hope to see the Bible Department of Union College become in the future a much stronger influence for good in the school, and that through the work done many of our young men and women will be aroused to an interest in the work of God for these last days.

In closing I wish to express a hope that a large number of young men will enter school next year with a fixed purpose to prepare for ministerial work and also many young women to take the Bible-workers' course. No class of workers are more needed now to recruit the ranks of gospel heralds than these two.

We look for good things in the Bible Department next year. We hope to see many of the readers of these lines with us.

Hastings Intermediate School

J. W. Christian

The intermediate school, humble though it may be, has grown very dear to a large part of our constituency. It has not only been a place where Christian teaching has been done by a corps of consecrated men and women, but many of our youth have learned here for the first time to love and serve the Lord Jesus. We can not boast of large buildings, or beautiful grounds, but can glory in the thought that, under the Holy Spirit's working, a noble work has been done for those in attendance.

For the last thirteen years the writer has been connected with our educational work, either as teacher or serving on school boards, and has observed with interest the development of the educational work in the church schools and the intermediate schools. It has been an interesting study to see the various phases of the work take shape. I am persuaded that what we need is not more large school plants (we are already top-heavy with them), but a good system of church schools doing a good grade of work, and then one or more smaller intermediate schools in the conference, where those having finished the church school work can do some advanced grade work. Such schools should be made self-supporting, and they can be. Let the students, as far as possible, do the manual work connected with the school. It will save salary bills, and be better for the student. He should be able to do as much work as he makes, aside from the schoolroom. This will make possible a lower tuition, and, consequently, a larger number of our youth in our schools. Our schools are not to be like the fashionable summer resorts, where ease and luxury prevail, but places of hard, earnest, self-sacrificing work, seeking the highest possible attainment.

The Hastings Intermediate School has nearly finished its third year's work. We have had an enrolment of about sixty-five. Of these, all but one has made a start or renewed their covenant for Christian service. We wish that all had been gathered for the kingdom, but, perhaps, it has not been the Lord's time to do this for us.

Financially, the school has been a success. It has met and paid all its bills without any aid from the conference, and bids fair to have a small credit on its books at its close. Professor Blue and his faithful coworkers have toiled in a most creditable manner during the year. We are glad that all have accepted an invitation to stay the coming year. This will give permanency to the work. It was most pleasing to see the smile on the countenances of the students when it was announced that all the teachers have been invited to stay and have accepted.

We are planning to accommodate a few more non-resident students next year. Let our youth begin to plan early to attend the Hastings Intermediate School the coming year. Write to Prof. Irvine Blue at the office address, and you will secure a little announcement of the school. You will find Brother Blue very glad to answer any question you may wish to ask.

Union College Notes

Chancey Premer

We have now entered upon the last week of school work for the year.

W. A. Long went to Hastings to assist in the canvassers' institute which was recently held at that place. Mr. Long reports good interest in the canvassing work in the school there.

Mr. Streeter enjoyed a few days' visit with his father, mother, and brother last week.

Mr. L. E. Reed and two daughters attended the nurses' graduating exercises at Hastings last week. Miss Edna Reed graduated at that time.

Mr. Alfred Jensen's father is visiting him a few days this week and taking treatment at the Nebraska Sanitarium.

Elder Robinson addressed the students in chapel one day last week. He told us of the life and work of Cecil Rhodes.

Elder Rogers, our missionary from Africa, is visiting our school this week. He is giving some very interesting chapel talks on the work he and his wife are doing in that dark land. He has shown us several curios which he has that are connected with the heathen worship and superstition. He plans to be with us until the close of school.

Greetings from Students of the Hastings Intermediate School

I have greatly enjoyed attending this school this year, and hope to return next fall.

Erna Gardiner.

As a student, I greatly appreciate the advantages I have enjoyed while in school at Hastings. It has been a year of spiritual advancement for all. Surely God has been our Teacher.

William A. Brown.

The past school year has been my first experience in a dormitory, and my second year in our schools. It has proved to be far superior to any public school I have ever attended. My plans are to return and finish the tenth grade next year.

Dora Bryant.

The school has helped me, and will help all who come next year. "Who" means the young people of Nebraska.

Genevieve Hurt.

I am thankful for the opportunities afforded by the Hastings school. I think it is the best school that I have ever attended.

Chester Porter.

Our school at Hastings has been doing good, thorough work this year. We are hoping that all of our students who are now under the tenth grade will be privileged to return next fall.

Gertie Owen.

Our school year is almost over. We must soon bid farewell to beloved teachers and schoolmates. Yet I feel that good seed has been sown, and it is my prayer that it may yield an abundant harvest which all will be proud to own.

Thompson Wammack.

Our school is growing each year. This is my third year; each year brings some improvement, and I think that this next year will see as much improvement as in all of the other three. The Lord is especially blessing the work. It is worth putting forth a hard effort to attend our school.

Howard M. Cook.

I am glad that I came to school this year. It has been a great blessing to me, and I hope to return next fall.

Alice Taylor.

I must say that this school year has been a very profitable one for me, and if God wills, I want to return next year.

Sylvia Nelson.

I have spent many happy and profitable days in school this year. We will feel sorry to say good-bye to our school days.

Anna Osiek.

This year in school has been one of profit to me, and I appreciate it very much. The pleasant days spent together will long be remembered.

Anna Post.

The year 1912 has been a good one. We all look forward to next year as being a still better one, as we are inspired by having the same faculty. Another girl and I are going to canvass for a scholarship this summer that we may return next year.

Emma Mallatt.

We have received many blessings from the present school year. It is our sincerest wish that all the present students, with many others, may be here ready to begin work next September. Let us have a high aim for the next year, and make it the banner year of all our school work. The Lord has blessed us greatly, and will continue to bless us, if we are faithful to him.

Milton E. Whittaker.

I think this is the best school I have ever attended. I came two years ago, and the school is improving every year. I wish that many others might have the privilege of attending.

Edna Jackson.

Dr. Lindsay's Article

The article by Dr. Kate Lindsay on page four of this paper, though a little lengthy, will, we believe, be read with interest. Doctor Lindsay was prominently connected with the Battle Creek Sanitarium for quite a good many years during its early history. She has travelled extensively, and being a diligent student, has kept fully abreast with the latest developments in the field of medical science. Amid all the changes through which the medical work of this denomination passed some years ago, Doctor Lindsay stood then, and has since ever remained true to the principles of the third angel's message. "Beautiful Boulder" of which the Doctor writes is surely a veritable sanitarium of itself.

Commencement Week at the Sanitarium

Geo. A. Williams

The past ten days or two weeks have perhaps been the busiest and the most interesting in the history of the Hastings Sanitarium. The work and excitement incident to the preparation for graduating exercises has kept every one on a strain. The occasion was one of the greatest importance, not only to the senior class, but to the entire sanitarium family, and affected, as well, the many friends and former patients of the members of the class.

Sabbath morning, at the regular hour for church service, Elder E. T. Russell preached the baccalaureate sermon to a large and appreciative audience, taking as a basis for his remarks the words, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." The prominent feature of the discourse was the absolute necessity for faithfulness and continual service. Several who have known Elder Russell for years said he never preached a better sermon.

Sunday night, in the sanitarium parlors, a reception was tendered the graduates by the juniors. Refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake, and home-made candy were served to about seventy-five guests, after which a program was rendered, replete with interesting recitations, readings, and addresses, interspersed with an abundance of wit and humor.

Monday night, at eight o'clock, occurred the graduation exercises proper before a concourse that taxed the capacity of the church, quite a number of the leading citizens of the city being present. The address of the evening was delivered by Elder J. W. Christian, and was pronounced by many the finest and most scholarly ever given in the Hastings church. The leading feature of the sermon, which was emphasized most strongly, was the importance of educating our young people in our denominational schools for the speedy finishing of the work. In no schools in the whole world can there be obtained an all-round education that will fit the student for a place in the last great work of God in the earth, save in our own denominational schools.

The entire exercises of the evening were a credit to the class and to the institution which they represented. The names of those receiving diplomas at this time are: Josie Pearl Barrett, Edna Adelle Reed, Emma Charlotte Hansen, Mary Elizabeth Paustian, and Hazel Belle Gettemy. Miss Barrett and Miss Gettemy leave at once for their homes, where they will rest a while before taking up active work in the field. Miss Reed will visit in College View a few days, returning to Hastings to continue with the sanitarium for a time. The Misses Hansen and Paustian will remain with the sanitarium until October.

The occasion was one of inspiration to the faculty and also to the students. Several who were somewhat discouraged and thought the way long and difficult were caused to say that the end of the course would fully repay them for all the struggle and effort necessary, and then the joy of being fitted to go out as laborers with Christ in the closing message is a thought that makes darkness fade away and the clouds become as shadows that are lost to view.

Boulder City as a Health Resort

Dr. Kate Lindsay

Close to the foothills on the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains is located the beautiful city of Boulder, Colo. To its ten thousand inhabitants it is known as "beautiful Boulder," and well does it merit this qualifying adjective. To the west stretches vast rugged crests of the continental divide, rugged, rocky foothills, and beyond these the mountains peaks rise in a regular graduation until at from fifteen to thirty miles to westward tower the snowclad peaks of the Arapahoes. Dividing this great crest of the continent are the deep canyons of North and South and Middle Boulder Creeks, down whose rocky bottoms rush swiftly flowing mountain streams, now dashing over a steep, rocky precipice in a foaming spray, forming beautiful rainbow-crested falls, when the sun shines on the white mist; again flowing in white-crested cascades over the stony, steep, uneven, rocky bed, onward courses the pure ice-cold water from the Arapahoes to supply the happy Boulder homes with soft water, and also directed at the base of the foothills into many ditches to water the fertile plains lying north, south, and east of Boulder.

By the skillful utilization of these beautiful streams, the cactus and sage brush and prairie dogs are banished, and the barren land has become a fertile plain, and the wilderness been made, in reality, to blossom with roses in the sunshine of Colorado's pleasant springs and summers, where the weary, worn, tired, and ill can come to find rest from the debilitating heat of the south and east during the summer months. Boulder is a favored city. Far away into its mountains one can pass on the railroad in a few hours up into the regions of perpetual snow, or by the donkey train or horseback reach more slowly the cool upper mountain regions, camping by the way and finding recreation to suit each individual taste for those so inclined, fishing in trout-filled streams and hunting in season for the out-of-door sportsman. Inspiration is afforded for the artistically inclined, who will never be able, with the best of snap-shot pictures, ever so carefully executed, to present a correct idea of the beauty both of the Rockies, canyons, streams, and mountains.

The writer, wandering in the far-famed travel resorts of foreign lands, from the Swiss Alps to far north Norway fjords, came home to America satisfied that the Creator had given the home land a rich endowment of yet only partially appreciated, beautiful natural scenery, and there was no need of crossing the ocean to enjoy sunset splendors, mountain grandeurs, or the beauty of leaping, limpid streams, and the quieter loveliness of the fields and gardens of the plains. The business man who feels he must keep in touch with the busy world of commerce can reach the wide-awake railroad center of the west by inter-urban every hour in the day from 6:00 a. m. to 11:30 p. m., only a few short hours from the wild, quiet solitude of the mountains to the busy thoroughfares of Colorado's metropolis, exchanging nature's restful sounds of bird song, bee hum, and whispering breeze for the ear-rasping noise of locomotive and factory whistle, auto horn, and other discordant notes of man's industrial activity.

For six weeks in summer, the Chautauqua is in session, and while recuperating after the hard nine or ten months of the school year, the weary teacher can rest and recuperate, both mentally and physically. There are the trips over the Switzerland Trail to Glacier Lake, Ward, Eldora, and the visit to Neiderlands to see the great dam, and wagon trips up the various canyons, besides the one-day trip rides to Estes Park by auto and railroad, by the way of Denver, round the loop, and to the ice caves of Mt. McClellan, on to Colorado Springs and the famous Pike's Peak.

The state university holds out every educational advantage to the student who may contemplate the classic culture of the college professor or the more practical career of medicine, law or that of a trained machinist or artisan. While taking this liberal university course, young America may improve in physical as well as moral health. Last, but not least, are the health advantages of the climate for the invalid, both in the summer and the winter, especially the latter, when the bright, warm, sunny days make a mountain picnic a pleasant recreation, even at Christmas, for the patients of the Boulder-Colorado Sanitarium, an institution well known for its success in the treatment of all chronic disorders, such as indigestion, neurasthenia, anemia and chronic malaria, functional disorders of heart, liver, and kidneys, insomnia, and the many other nervous disorders caused by the wear and tear of the intense American every-day life. All these diseases are benefited by the pure air and bracing climate which reinforces the effects of the many forms of both mechanical, electrical, and other health-restoring agents used with the more effective pure air and water and favorable climate.

Tubercular patients, and all other contagious diseased cases, are not received, but a well-equipped surgical ward, in charge of an experienced surgeon, assisted by a staff of trained nurses, affords the ideal conditions for successful operative work. A patient who has an offending appendix, a tumor, or other morbid growths of any form, coming to this sanitarium may, in having it removed, feel sure that his ease will be safeguarded by all the appliances known to modern medicine. There is hope for those who have considered themselves hopeless, when the healing powers of nature are given an unhampered chance and reinforced in a favorable climate by the use of pure air, food, exercise, rest, and recreation, water, electrical, and mechanical treatments.

Winter and summer, this institution is open to help the sick and suffering back to health and give them a chance for a life-lease of many years of health and vigor. To sleep out of doors and spend the whole twenty-four hours in the open all the year often saves the victim from infection from the great white plague or the office prisoner from an attack of neurasthenia, or other nerve collapse. The chronic malaria patient may get his liver and spleen freed from the dread malaria parasites, and his sallow, yellow skin become ruddy and clear once more, with a corresponding clearing of mental despondency.

Most business men and women would be benefited by a few weeks' treatment at the sanitarium, if the only disorder he is conscious of is being over-tired all the time. Such a wise precaution might save them from years of invalidism and lengthen their lives for many years, and insure a life success and enhance its pleasures. For to fully enjoy life, health is essential. Without it, all else counts for but little, so come to the Boulder-Colorado Sanitarium for a summer or winter vacation, and it will do you a good that will be lasting, without any harmful after effects.

Kansas City Sanitarium Notes

Dr. G. A. Droll

We are glad to report that Elder J. W. Norwood, president of the Arkansas Conference, who is with us at present, is making a rapid recovery from a severe illness with which he was taken about three weeks ago while travelling through some of the flooded districts of his conference. We appreciate much to have this faithful and "always at it" worker with us for the encouragement and uplift it brings to us.

Sister Gibson from New Boston is rapidly improving in health and strength since an operation done two weeks ago. She expects to return home in the near future, feeling that she has a new lease on life.

Miss Minnie Yeoman, head nurse, has returned again to the pleasure of both patients and workers after an absence of a month nursing some special cases at Omaha.

If you know of a woman who wants to have a good place to do general housework tell her to correspond with Mrs. G. A. Droll, 2301 E. 14th St., Kansas City, Mo., or write Mrs. Droll and she will take up the correspondence.

During the three Sunday night temperance meetings held in the Kansas City, Mo., church in March and April, seventeen signed the pledge against tea, coffee, condiments, narcotics and alcohol and seventeen more against all alcoholic beverages. The lectures were given by Doctor Droll from a medical temperance point of view, and were illustrated with stereopticon views and practical experiments.

Hastings Sanitarium Notes

Geo. A. Williams

Miss A. Hendrickson, a graduate of the Boulder Sanitarium, is nursing in Hastings in connection with the city physicians.

Miss Bessie Christiansen, a former patient, is again at the sanitarium for treatment.

Miss Ellen Lindholm went to Ragan last week to attend the Williams-McIntyre wedding, Miss Edna Reed serving as matron during her absence.

Brother Leon C. Post has connected with the sanitarium as instructor in hydrotherapy and massage. His services are very much appreciated.

Brother Henry Janssen, of Upland, who has visited at a number of sanitariums, is with us, and expects to remain some time, taking treatment for stomach trouble.

The contract is let for our electric elevator, and the city is extending its wires from the power plant to the sanitarium, so we feel that the elevator dream is soon to become a reality.

Out of the list of those who have visited the Hastings Sanitarium of late we are pleased to mention Elders E. T. Russell, J. W. Christian, B. L. House, F. M. Corbaley, and the genial and ever welcome H. A. Hebard.

The sanitarium is fortunate in securing a lease for one of the large houses built some years since by Elder A. T. Robinson and of late the property of Brother C. C. Kenaston. The building will comfortably accommodate all of our young lady students who room outside of the sanitarium.

Among the visitors present to attend the graduating exercises were Miss Engeline Jenssen, of Upland; Brother Reed and daughters, Alice and Blanche, of College View; Mrs. Geo. A. Williams, of Ragan; Brother Roy Streeter, of Wyoming; and the Misses Dunbar, of Superior.

The sanitarium grounds and surroundings were never more beautiful than at present. The spring rains, together with the warm sunshine, have removed all effects of the severe winter, and the trees just coming out into full leaf, with the lovely grass that carpets the earth, make the place a "thing of beauty and a joy forever."

Among the Churches

W. H. Clark

Our conference committee planned that the workers should make a campaign among the churches, helping them in every way possible. This has been a great help and source of encouragement to them, and good results are seen.

The first place I was permitted to visit was Thayer, where I stayed three weeks, holding meetings almost every night, though the weather conditions were very unfavorable. The attendance and interest was good all through, and the place seems ready for a series of meetings, giving the message in full. The church is doing a good work and is highly respected by the outside people.

Next I went to Lawrence, where I spent three weeks, holding meetings in the German Methodist Episcopal church. Though it seemed that the prince of the power of the air did all in his power to prevent it, five adults were taken into the church, a good spirit prevails, and active work is being done by the church.

After this, I went to Kansas City to spend a few days with the church there and at Shawnee, where I found them working under great disadvantages, but of good courage, and determined to stand as witnesses for the truth.

I then spent a few days at Ottawa, holding some meetings with the church and looking after home duties. The meetings conducted there by Elder MacGuire and Brother Yates left the church in a greatly revived condition, and with a number of additions.

Arkansas City was the next place I was asked to go to. However, I stopped at Thayer for a few services, only to be rained out at most every appointment. Since coming to Arkansas City, we have had favorable weather conditions, and every evening finds us in the home of one of the members for services, with a full house of those who love the message, also those who have not embraced it. The company here has been active, and, with the help of Brother Applegate, of Illinois, who has been here the past five months doing missionary work, they have had their numbers increased and are enjoying rich experiences. Here, too, seems to be a demand for a series of meetings on the message.

From here I go to the southwest part of the conference to labor with the churches until the tent season opens up. I ask an interest in your prayers that I may prove true to the trust God has given me and be a soul-winner for Him.

Office Notes

B. M. Emerson

Brethren Neff and Campbell are holding meetings with the church at Independence.

Brother J. W. Allison is still working among the colored people of Oswego.

Elder W. H. Clark spent Sabbath, May 4, with the church at Arkansas City.

Elder D. E. Huffman is spending a few days with the church at Altoona.

Brother E. T. Wilson is holding meetings each Sunday night with the church in Atehison.

Brother W. J. Huffman, Central Union Conference auditor, recently spent a few days in the office auditing the books.

Brother M. P. Manny is conducting an institute at Strode Academy for those who are planning on canvassing this summer.

An order has just been received from Sister Rosa Newman of Kansas City, Kansas, for 200 copies of the May and June numbers of Life and Health.

We just received tithe and offerings from the Kansas City church to the amount of about $145 for the month of April.

Camp-meeting

D. U. Hale

Many are no doubt watching the OUTLOOK to know what about the camp-meeting. We planned to have had it decided before this, but we could not conveniently get a meeting of the committee earlier. We came together April 30 and considered the matter quite thoroughly.

The Scotts Bluff business men offered us the free use of the Chautauqua grounds and buildings, also free electric lights and water. This gives us a large pavilion in which to meet with a seating capacity of about 700, also buildings for cooking purposes. This will be quite a saving for the conference as well as a great convenience. Elder Berry will at once go to Scotts Bluff with a Bible worker, and hold a series of meetings, and we hope to bind off the interest with the camp-meeting. With these advantages before us we felt that our most opportune place for the camp-meeting this year would be Scotts Bluff.

There will be many of our people from the far north who will be unable to attend, and we planned that if the brethren in the north part of the conference desire it, we may be able to hold a local meeting for them some time this fall.

It will be the duty of every church to see that they have their full quota of delegates present. We wish we could have every member in the conference present but as this will not likely be possible, we hope you will be sure to send delegates. We are anxious that you come and help mould the policy of the conference. Some people stay at home and growl because things are not carried on in a certain way. The time to be active is while the plans are in process of making, so come, brethren, and help us make the plans and then we can unitedly carry them out.

Some, no doubt, will find it more convenient to come with wagon and team. It will cost them less and they can bring conveniences from home that they could not be able to secure on the grounds. We will try to secure pasture at a reasonable charge for those who desire it.

Sister Reeder will be in charge of the dining tent, and will provide good wholesome food that will feed brain and muscle so we can have clear minds and healthy bodies with which to grasp the truths of God and enjoy them. The meals will be five for a dollar.

We will have a limited number of tents to rent at $3.00 each for what time you occupy them. We hope also to be able to supply a few tent floors at a reasonable rate, also to secure a limited amount of furniture in Scotts Bluff. Any one desiring tents will write Asa Smith at once and tell him what you desire. We will do our best to supply it. Be sure to bring plenty of bedding and good warm wraps and straw ticks so we can be comfortable if it turns cool while on the ground.

Elder Reeder will have the superintendency of the grounds and the arranging of the camp. Elder Berry will locate the people and make you as comfortable as he can.

We have not learned positively who our help will be from the outside. We think we are sure that Elder Russell, Elder MacGuire and Professor Van Kirk, the educational secretary of the Central Union Conference, will be present. Elder A. G. Daniells promised me personally that he would be at our meeting. But best of all, the Lord will be there with blessings in abundance for all. So come with your cup clean and right side up, and you will be sure to get it full and running over. Be sure it is clean for if it is soiled with the slime of criticism and fault-finding you may find that when you get home there will not be one drop of blessing in it but only bitterness of soul against some individual or some worker or the conference.

"Honor is the reward of virtue."

Attention.—This issue of the OUTLOOK will go into the home of every Seventh-day Adventist in the Wyoming Conference who is so situated that he cannot attend any church or Sabbath-school so far as we have been able to secure the names. This is done for two reasons: first, that you may learn concerning our camp-meeting; and second, that you may see the importance of taking the paper so that you may be able to keep in touch with the work in our conference. Do not fail to read Elder Hale's article on the camp-meeting.

Mrs. J. A. Cartwright of Bridgeport, Nebr., sustained quite a severe sprain of the foot, and will be compelled to use crutches for many weeks yet.

C. C. Van Horn called at the office while on his way from Oelrichs, S. Dak., to Sidney, Nebr., where he will make his home with his daughter and son-in-law, F. B. Jewell and wife.

Elders Berry and Reeder attended the meeting of the conference committee, April 30. F. H. Hahn was not able to meet with the committee because of his wife's ill health.

Haven Starr, second son of Elder L. F. Starr, Garland, Wyoming, had the misfortune to be thrown from a horse breaking both bones of his left forearm.

Elder Berry reports the organization of a church of twelve members in Meade county, South Dakota, about sixty miles from the railroad. This church will be known as the White Owl church.

Sister Jane Jolly writes from Fairburn, S. Dak., that the state home department of the Sabbath-school will be a great help to herself and daughter in their isolation.

We have been informed that Brother John Baer has sold his ranch near Rushville, Nebr. He and Mrs. Baer expect to visit their son Elder R. T. Baer of Baltimore, Maryland, president of the Chesapeake Conference, and friends at other places, expecting to locate finally in California near their daughter, Mrs. S. F. McCully. Brother McCully was the elder of the Sheridan, Wyo., church about one year ago.

Eddie Meyers, who has been attending Union College the past year, expects to canvass in Laramie County, Wyoming, this summer.

F. H. Pierce, who canvassed in this conference during the summer of 1908, writes that he expects to attend the institute at Hemingford and take up the canvassing work again this summer.

Mrs. R. V. Cheney of Edgemont, S. Dak., enjoys the honor of being the first to send in the stubb of the Missionary Investment blank. We are looking for many more in the near future from all parts of our field.

Miss Edith Ericksen of the Mitchell, (Nebr.) church, writes from Omaha requesting that her address of the Review and the OUTLOOK be changed to 3402 Lincoln Boulevard, Omaha, where she expects to be for some months.

Mrs. Grace Hardy, of Hill City, S. Dak., made the office a pleasant call between trains while on her way to their homestead near Lost Springs, Wyo. Sister Hardy is the only remaining member of the church at Hill City which was one of the first churches organized in the Wyoming Conference territory.

Elder Hale returned April 30 from Sidney, Nebr., for the committee meeting. Following that, he spent two or three days at the office attending to some accumulated correspondence. He left Friday for Hemingford where he will assist Brother Fish in the canvassers' institute.

Mrs. L. B. Hall of Crawford, Nebr., received word that Elder J. J. Nethery and wife would pass through here on Sunday, May 5; en route to Portland, Ore., where they will visit with Mrs. Nethery's parents, A. Hedgecock and wife, who left our conference last fall, and also her sister, Mrs. J. F. Beatty. Brother Beatty is manager of the Pacific Press branch at Portland.

M. J. Rockwell of Berea, Nebr., was in Crawford last week on business, and we were pleased to have him call at the office. Brother Rockwell, it will be remembered, served as principal of the Wyoming Intermediate School for two years.

We acknowledge a pleasant call from Brother R. Palmer of the Whitney church last week.

Service

O. E. Jones

From authority which we all consider good, we have this statement, "We are not to think of reward but of service." As I visited one of our little companies a short time ago, I was pleased to meet some new Sabbath-keepers, who were brought into the truth largely through the efforts of some of our faithful members during the past winter. They had distributed literature and held weekly Bible studies.

This surely is most excellent work, a work that many of our church members can do, and there is great joy in service of love. We have reached the eleventh hour in this world's history. May we not as never before make this little word our motto, "Service."

Office Notes

Elder C. G. Bellah was with us the first days of the canvassers' institute which was recently held at Hastings.

We received up to May 1 two hundred eighty-nine investments on the Foreign Missions Investment Fund.

An order has been received at the office for 1,000 of the June Life and Health for one of the prospective magazine workers from the Union College Periodical Workers' Band.

An order for 1,000 Temperance Instructors was received this week from the missionary secretary at College View. These papers are to be used among the public school children of Lincoln.

We have five copies of the current Year Book left. Are there not that many who would like to possess the information it contains? Twenty-five cents postpaid.

The Hastings Intermediate School will hold their commencement exercises Sunday evening, May 19. A class of two will graduate from the tenth grade this year. Several will also receive eighth grade diplomas.

Mrs. O. A. Owen, the energetic missionary secretary of the Oconto church, called at the office recently. This little church recently ordered 325 Temperance Instructors, and are planning to use a lot more.

The Cortland church has voted to send the Temperance Instructor to 200 of the Nebraska school teachers. See the writeup of this plan in another column, and help the good work along.

Quite a number of the friends and relatives of the nurses at the Hastings Sanitarium were present at the graduating exercises of the first class of that institution, which were held in the church, Monday evening, April 29.

The Oconto missionary secretary recently sent in 26 Investment Fund slips, saying that every resident member but one had taken part in the work. There are about fifty other churches in this conference that could do as well if they would make a corresponding effort and realized the great need of the foreign mission fields.

Many people, far advanced with tubercular trouble, have been entirely cured and are now in robust health, as the result of simply living in the bracing climate of Colorado. Anyone having tendencies toward that dread disease, desiring to purchase a cottage home, with out-door sleeping accommodation and other special features, may receive full information by corresponding with the editor of the OUTLOOK.
