A SPECIAL APPEAL

THE spirit of sacrifice is the spirit of this message. It has ever been so, and will be so until the end. To illustrate: One of our sisters in the United States had been planning for months to replace some worn articles of furniture. An appeal for sacrifice to support our work in mission lands reached her ears and touched her heart, and she asked herself the question, Shall I replace my furniture and satisfy my own desires, or shall I devote the money to greater needs in other lands? After praying about it, she gave the money she had saved to mission work, asking the Lord to use it to bless some who were in darkness.

"That spirit of giving is characteristic of many of our people throughout the world. Today war among the nations demands sacrifice in blood and in means. In like manner the contest between the gospel of Christ and the power of Satan also requires the utmost sacrifice. And should not the people of God be willing to sacrifice beyond the conception of the world's giving? . . .

"As a people we believe that the end is near. In harmony with this belief, what is now known as the Week of Sacrifice was instituted eighteen years ago. As the result in North America alone a sum exceeding $1,500,000 has been devoted through this channel to missions. Much of this sum represents genuine sacrifice.

"In Arequipa, Peru, the financial depression had caused the national currency to drop alarmingly. One of our Indian women, a member of the Arequipa Church, was the proprietor of a small shop, and by this she made her living. Through the years she had saved the equivalent of $390, putting it aside coin by coin as she could spare it. Her shop continued to provide for all her needs and she thought she ought not to hoard this money any longer. She believed that Jesus is soon coming and wanted the money used while it could be employed in the work of the "Gather My saints together unto Me; those that have made a covenant with Me by sacrifice." Ps. 50:5.

Lord. So she gave this money to the superintendent of the mission in order that it might be devoted to mission work. It represented the savings of a lifetime. Her gift was indeed a sacrifice; and hers is the attitude of many of our believers who sense the nearness of the Lord's coming.

"Today far-reaching interests are involved. Without question added burdens will be thrown upon our church members in the United States, now a land of liberty in a world of confusion. The wonderful spirit of cooperation that has heretofore been revealed by our workers and church members in the Week of Sacrifice Offering we are confident will be continued until the work is finished. Shall we not give in sacrifice that the work may advance with greater rapidity and the blessing of the Lord rest upon His people?

If all our workers would give a week's income as a sacrifice-offering during the week of November 16-23, and if our people generally would cooperate in this sacrificial giving as God prospers them, many needs which are now desperate would be greatly alleviated, and lives that are confused would be enlightened. We heartily invite our people to reveal that same spirit that has been evident through the years, making the matter of their giving one of earnest prayer, and then we know that the response will be beyond our expectations."

Parents, Boys and Girls, Read This

ONE OF our bookmen tells the following true story which shows how readily our juvenile books sell once they are brought to the attention of those interested in good books for young children. He writes:

"One day some years ago when my boy was about 7 years of age, he and another lad of a similar age decided they wanted to go to the General Conference which was to be held in San Francisco the following year. That evening when he came home from school, he burst into my study and breathlessly asked, 'Daddy, will you take me to the General Conference?' Without looking up from my work, I replied, 'Surely, my boy, I'll be glad to take you.' Before I could qualify my statement, he ran into the parlor and announced to his mother that I had promised to take him to San Francisco to the General Conference. When I explained to him that I only meant to agree to take him along provided he would get the money to pay for a round-trip ticket, which was $90 from where we lived, his countenance fell, and the expression on his face plainly indicated that he was surrendering all hope right then and there of accompanying me on that trip. He seemed very sure that one so young could not possibly earn $90 in the short space of 6 months.

Week of Sacrifice, Nov. 16-23. Week of Sacrifice Offering, Sabbath, Nov. 23

"I thought of the little Home Workers Kit we were using that year and assured him that even though he was only a small boy he could easily earn sufficient money to pay his way to the General Conference if he would follow carefully my instruction. Knowing he was too young to give much of a canvass, I explained to him how he could take the little satchel, filled with books, from home to home and let the books speak for themselves. In less than an hour I taught him a simple little canvass and had him practice it on me three or four times. The next morning when he started to school he took the satchel with him, stopping at the dentist's home next door just long enough to say, 'Mrs. —, I have some nice new books you might like for Joan and Jimmy. They are in this case. Daddy says they are the best books in all the world for boys and girls, and my daddy knows 'cause he's a bookman. I am not big enough to tell you much about them, but you can keep the books here and look at them while I go to school this morning. When I come home at noon for lunch, I'll stop and get the sample case. There's an order blank and price sheet inside so you can write down the names of whatever books you want, and I'll get them and bring them to you any time you say between now and Christmas.'

"Immediately after lunch the lad would pick up the kit and take it to another home and make a similar speech, indicating that he would leave the case in that home for the afternoon. When school was out in the evening he would again pick up the case and place it in the third home to be left there until next morning. In that way he covered three homes every day. In some homes he sold quite a large selection of books, and in every home at least one book, if nothing more than one of the 'Bedtime Stories' books.

"At home I marked a map so as to show the automobile trip we had in mind. It covered a number of the National Parks and totaled nearly 9,000 miles. Ninety dollars, I explained, would be the equivalent of about 1 cent a mile. As the lad's orders accumulated he figured the number of miles he could travel each day at a cent a mile and indicated it with red tracing on the map. As those tracings showed progress from night to night his courage and enthusiasm increased by leaps and bounds. In a few days there was no doubt in his mind but what he could complete the trip.

"It is hardly necessary to add that he had his $90 in a surprisingly short time. He canvassed only the homes where there were children. Nearly all the mothers were willing to take the sample kit at the door and promise to look it over. There in the quietness of their own homes they examined those books and, without any pressure on the part of a salesman standing by waiting for them to sign on the dotted line, they wrote up order after order for the books they would like to have for the average child."

Christmas season is here again. And what opportunities it holds out to us to get our good books into the hands of those who live near us. The plan suggested by this father to his son was simple but effective. Doubtless there are many Seventh-day Adventists who could successfully use the above, or some other equally simple plan, during this holiday season, in getting thousands of our good books into the hands of their neighbors and friends. Why not try it?

Our Church Schools

THE FIRST period is in the past for scholars and teachers of the church schools in West Pennsylvania. We are grateful for the reports coming in from the teachers and patrons in regard to the quality of work being done. It is gratifying indeed to note the earnestness and the sacrificing efforts that are being put forth to make this the banner year.

Miss Pauline Flint, of West Virginia, is teaching the church school at Bradford. She taught there last year, and was recalled to teach the school during the present term. The leaders and members of the Bradford Church have sacrificed to provide better facilities for their school, and their sacrifices have not been in vain, for they now have the most up-to-date, air-conditioned school room in the conference. I rejoice with the teacher and the students and join them in expressing deep appreciation and gratitude to those whose sacrifices of time and money made such a contribution to the cause of Christian education possible.

Miss Helen Tomcsanyi, of Duquesne, who completed her Normal course at Washington Missionary College last spring, was invited by the Coudersport school board to take charge of their school. She followed Miss Frances Dingee, who had successfully taught there for five years. According to reports and personal observation during my recent visit, teacher and students are enjoying their work.

Miss Florence Miles taught our Greensburg school last year and was invited to return for the present school term. We are happy to report that she has practically twice as many students as she had when school closed last May. The school board is providing needed equipment.

Pittsburgh Junior Academy was very fortunate in securing the services of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Lawson who have taught successfully in the Potomac and Ohio conferences. We know they will give us the same efficient service. Mrs. Roscoe Bartlett, who taught the grammar grades at Pittsburgh Junior Academy last year, is assisting Mrs. Lawson in the lower grades. She is also the leader of our active Christian Home and School Association.

Due to the untiring and earnest efforts of Elder Krick, the chairman of the board, and the cooperation of the teachers, Pittsburgh Junior Academy has the largest attendance in its history. Rhythm and harmonica bands have been organized in this school.

Mr. C. E. Galley, who did very acceptable work last year, was recalled to the principalship of the Ethnan Temple Academy. He is working untiringly to bring the school to higher ground scholastically and spiritually.

Miss Evelyn Winston has taught at Ethnan Temple and in the West Pennsylvania Conference longer than any other teacher. We are always happy to have our teachers return to their schools year after year. Miss Winston is doing all in her power to help her students to receive a Christian training.

Miss Anna Mae Ebron, who finished her Normal course at Oakwood Junior College this spring, was drafted on a moment's notice to take the place of Mrs. Henry Fordham, who resigned a week before school opened. We greatly appreciated her willing and ready response. Miss Ebron has the largest number of boys and girls in her room of any teacher in the conference.

Elder Fordham, the chairman of the board, and Mr. Galley, the principal, have worked diligently to increase the enrollment of the school. I believe the Lord will crown their efforts by giving them the largest enrollment in their history.

Roger Babson, the world's greatest statistician, says: "The safety of our nation, including all groups, depends on Christian education. Furthermore, at no time in our history has it been more greatly needed."

"Our church schools are ordained by God to prepare the children for this great work." "Testimonies," Vol. V, p. 203. Therefore, the greatest need of every church in West Pennsylvania, where there are six or more children of school age, is a church school.

Wedding

A BEAUTIFUL wedding was solemnized at the Paterson English Church on September 11. Caroline Marie Fisher and Herman Leo Lambertz were united in the holy bonds of marriage.

The church auditorium was well filled with friends and relatives. The entire service was characterized by the beauty of simplicity.

As Mrs. Agnes Van Olst played the Wedding March, the bride, assisted by her uncle, Mr. William Vahrenkamp, slowly walked to the beautifully decorated rostrum. Accompanying the bride and groom were Martha Burdette, maid of honor, and Charles F. Lambertz, best man.

The many friends of this happy couple wish them every blessing of heaven as they go forth unitedly in the service of God.

About the Family Altar

THREE years ago, Elder Wilcox, the Editor of the Review and Herald, organized into book form a most desirable collection of "three-minute sermons." These little talks are arranged with a Bible text of a few verses and then the comment that is most appropriate from the Spirit of prophecy. We believe that the purchase of this fine book will be the first step towards a revival of the family altar in Seventh-day Adventist homes. It contains over 760 pages, and we believe that you get more than your money's worth at the regular price of $2.50, but during the time between now and January 1, 1941, you may have your copy of "Day by Day" for only $2.25. We trust that many of our people in New Jersey will order a copy and begin the new year with family worship. If you are already conducting worship in your home, this book will be a real asset to you.

Why This Is an Oppertune Time to Canvass

1. Time is short. We are certainly in the time of the "rapid movements" foretold in the Spirit of prophecy. There is a great work to be done in reaching the honest in heart, and it must be done quickly.

2. People are stirred. More than one-half the population of the world is at war, and the rest is preparing feverishly. Darkening clouds gather on every horizon. Millions of men in the United States have registered for the first peace-time conscription in American history. Troubled hearts are today, as never before, asking, "What does it all mean? Where can we find the answer? What next?" We know the answer, and it is clearly explained in the literature we have. We must not deprive these anxious minds of this information. Souls are at stake. It demands speed; double speed.

3. Money once more flows freely. Twenty-six billion dollars is to be spent in the U. S. for defense. Great factories again run full force—24 hours a day. This, fellow believers, is our time not just to make money, but to labor for the Master as never before. Time is short; hearts are stirred; and people have the means with which to buy the literature.

4. The experience gained in personal work for others, such as you will get in the colporteur forth in this noble ministry of the printed page and win souls.

Overflow Crowd at Cincinnati Effort

A CAPACITY crowd that filled the main auditorium a half-hour before song service began, and continued to fill every seat in the balcony and gallery of the large Emery Auditorium, attended the opening lecture of the fall campaign which began Sunday night, October 6, in Cincinnati, Ohio. Elder Robert L. Boothby spoke on the "Wonders of the Starry Heavens as Seen Through the World's Largest Telescopes." Additional chairs were placed on the platform, and the orchestra pit and lobby were filled, and many were reported turned away because of lack of standing room.

This large audience was an inspiration to the speaker and the workers, especially since it came after 10 months of evangelism in

Many are Wondering

THE flood of literature placed in the many homes throughout the great Potomac Conference through the years presents many opportunities, which seem very urgent, for workers to enter dark counties and towns with this third angel's message. A letter from an interested individual in our conference reads as follows:

"I know you Seventh-day Adventists have the truth for these times, for I have read a number of your books, such as 'Great Controversy', 'Return of Jesus', 'Bible Readings', 'Steps to Christ', and many tracts.

"I have been wondering why you don't have a church here in Covington. This is a city of 9,000 people, and surely you could raise up a church here. Please send over two of your workers this winter to look over the situation. I do hope you will start an effort here soon.

"I have met several of your book salesmen, and they told me that you people believe in working every city. Now is a good time to work here."

Thus we see the honest in heart calling out for more earnest effort to be put forth before it is everlastingly too late. The seed of truth was sown in this heart by one of our colporteurs. The great call is to "Come over and help us." Seriously and earnestly consider the great need of this field and offer yourself willingly for service. News Notes

BAPTIZED: The effort at Danville has thus far conducted two baptisms, with Elder Johnson officiating. Twenty-eight have united with the church, and there are many interested who are receiving further instruction. The tent has been taken down and the meetings have been transferred to the church.

INVESTIGATED: Elder MacNeil, accompanied by Elder Russell and Brother Kelly, visited Winchester recently to investigate an offer made on the inadequate building which has been the place of service of the Winchester Church. A survey of the city was made to locate suitable property or sites for a church building, and the great need is being given further study.

LYNCHBURG: Congratulations to Brother Womack, the superintendent, and the entire Lynchburg Sabbath School. This school has made the greatest stride in the Potomac Conference this quarter by doubling its Sabbath school offerings. Their rating has been around 10 cents per member, but this third quarter it is 20 cents.

DOWN: The tent in Winchester has been taken down and the believers are meeting in Friendship Fire Hall on East Cork Street. About 75 are present each Sabbath. This energetic group is working on a new church project in addition to the Ingathering program.

TAKOMA PARK: Mrs. Morse, the Investment secretary, remarks that the Junior Department alone has over $200 for its Sabbath school Investment. Good for you, Juniors. We are counting on you.

NEWPORT NEWS COLORED SCHOOL: Under the enthusiastic leadership of Elder Anderson a new school has been opened for the colored young people at Newport News. Miss Mason is leading out in a strong way there.

STARTED: On Sunday night, November 3, Elder Johnson opened a winter effort in the Ephesus Church. These evangelistic meetings will be held each Sunday night and the interest will be carefully followed for a spring baptism.

PURCHASED: Recently Elder MacNeil and Mr. Kelly went to Petersburg to complete the purchase of a dwelling which will be renovated and remodeled into a church home for the colored members in that city.

INCREASING: Our literature sales are increasing and the latest figures from the Book and Bible House show a gain of $7,000 thus far this year over the same period of last year.

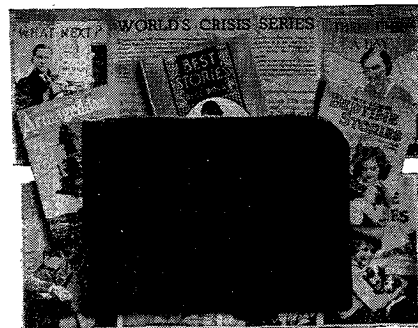

INGATHERING: Elder Edwards just left the office for another Ingathering trip, visiting Chase City, Yale, Petersburg, and Richmond White and Colored churches.

ASSISTING: Brother Thumwood met with the Kilmarnock Church over the week-end of November 2 in the interest of the Ingathering, and Elder Gray went to assist the members of the Yale Church in their Ingathering program. Many reports are coming in of churches almost over that are working to reach their goal by the time the final issue of the Promoter is ready for the press.

Wedding

A BEAUTIFUL wedding took place Wednesday evening, October 16, at the home of the bride's sister in Takoma Park, Maryland, when Miss Kathryn Luella Jensen and Elder N. R. Nelson were united in the bonds of holy wedlock. Relatives and friends from far and near were present to witness the happy event. During the weeks preceding the wedding a number of showers were given in honor of the bride and the many lovely and useful gifts are mementos of fast friends. Miss Jensen has for many years been connected with the Medical Department of the General Conference, and her place there will be difficult to fill. Elder Nelson is the beloved pastor of the St. Paul, Minnesota Church. As these two workers unite their life interests in the cause of God, we wish them unalloyed happiness. The ceremony was performed by Elder A. B. Russell, pastor of the Takoma Park Church.

North Philadelphia Church

"Four Weeks To Victory"

ON AUGUST 31, the North Philadelphia Church knelt before the Lord in prayer and consecration, asking God in a special way to bless our church in its Ingathering endeavors this year. Through the entire week that followed the whole church made the Ingathering work a matter of special prayer. Then on the following Sabbath, September 7, we launched the Ingathering Campaign with a goal of $1,867.75 to be reached. Our church was organized into two divisions of eight bands each. Mrs. Florence Bailey was chosen as the leader of one division and Mr. Edward Stivers lead the other division. Strong leadership was placed at the head of each band, and the time limit for the campaign was placed at seven weeks.

The interest in the plan was intensified by the use of a device consisting of two trains running from Prospect Point to Victory Station, with six stations along the route. Each train represented one of the divisions, one being red and the other blue. The six stations and terminal represented the seven weeks allotted to the campaign.

Great enthusiasm was manifested from the beginning, and at the end of the first week we had a report of $523.38, which was more than one-fourth of our goal. This triumphant first week served to inspire the whole church with the idea that the goal could be reached within a period of four weeks. In all of my experience I have never seen a church unite in such a wholehearted way in a program. The singing bands took an active part in raising our goal. Quite frequently we had as many as five bands working in an evening. One band alone raised about $230. Our young people worked loyally with the church, raising a total of $1,069.26, making a little over one-half of the amount raised. Every member of the church was interested in seeing the task accomplished quickly. The second week of the campaign brought in $437.10. The third week we were made glad by the report of $521.69. We then needed but $385.69 to complete our goal. There was then no question but we would finish within the four weeks. Then on the fourth week, October 5, we were happy to report that our faithful people came in with $525.86, making a total of $2,007.93, or an overflow above our goal of $140.18. What a victory!

An Outstanding Opportunity

AN outstanding opportunity has come for those in the East Pennsylvania Conference who desire to know more about how to win souls for Christ. The Conference has arranged for a missionary convention for magazine workers to be held in Philadelphia November 9-14. I understand this convention is for new workers—those who desire to take up the work.

In our churches everywhere are believers who have been very successful in Harvest Ingathering. They have discovered they have a talent for meeting the public and at the same time have caught a vision of what they might be able to do in spreading the message. This missionary convention will train them in a still more definite way to meet the public and at the same time circulate thousands of our truth-filled periodicals. For those who desire it, actual field training will be given which will be very valuable.

Special help will be in attendance from Washington, including Elder F. D. Nichol, Editor of Life and Health. Lay plans now to attend.

We are living in very unusual times. People everywhere are concerned as to the outcome of world conditions. We have literature that will bring light to their darkened hearts. Let us not withhold this light. "If we do not speak this message to the unconverted, our neglect may prove their ruin. . . . There are many who can help in the work of selling our periodicals. The Lord calls upon all of us to seek to save perishing souls." "Colporteur Evangelist," pp. 102-103.

You should write immediately to the Field Missionary Secretary, 1701 Conlyn Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, declaring your intention to attend. You will then receive information concerning transportation and entertainment.
