Civilian Defense Activities—No. 4

Services Adventists Can Render

AIR RAID WARDENS.—This requires men and women with natural leadership ability to inspire confidence. The Air Raid Wardens are, to many people, the personal representatives of Civilian Defense. They are not policemen and do not have police powers, but ordinarily function as part of the police force and with its help. Usually an Air Raid Warden's post is organized to serve a unit of 500 people. It is accessible and plainly marked. Since at least one person is always on duty, four Air Raid Wardens are usually assigned to each post. The duties include: (1) observing lights showing during a blackout and warning occupants of the building; (2) directing persons in the streets to shelters; (3) reporting to the Control Center any fallen bombs; (4) reporting fires to the Control Center and assisting in fighting incendiary bombs as soon as they fall; (5) detecting and reporting to the Control Center the presence of gas; (6) administering elementary first aid; (7) assisting victims in damaged buildings; (8) setting an example of cool efficiency under all conditions. The training course requires 10 hours First Aid, 3 hours Fire Defense, 5 hours Gas Defense, 5 hours General Study, and 2 hours of Drill. The training pamphlets recommended for the course are: "Black-outs," "Protection Against Gas," "Fire Protection," "First Aid in Prevention and Treatment of Chemical Casualties," "A Training Course for Air Raid Wardens," and "A Handbook for Air Raid Wardens."

AUXILIARY FIREMEN.—This requires men who are strong, agile, of good endurance, and courageous. They may be enrolled directly by the Fire Department. Since fire is one of the greatest threats in air attack, augmentation of the regular fire-fighting forces is necessary. A practicable plan, used in Britain and already underway in a number of American cities, is the establishment of three auxiliary fire stations around each existing company. One officer or first-grade fireman is placed in charge of each auxiliary fire station and up to 30 enrolled volunteers, assigned on the platoon system, are allotted to each such station. Their duties are similar to those of the regular fire-fighting forces—laying hose relays, operating small pumpers, and assisting the regular fire forces. They are equipped with suitable protective clothing similar to that of the regular forces. The training course requires 10 hours First Aid, 10 hours Fire Defense, 2 hours Gas Defense, 5 hours General Study, and 5 hours of Drill. Auxiliary Fire Group practice is carried out under the direction of the Fire Chief and graduates. Local schools are coordinated with the work of the regular fire department. The minimum time considered necessary for practice is two hours weekly. The pamphlets recommended for this training are: "Fire Series No. 1," "Protection Against Gas," "Fire Protection," "A Training Course for Auxiliary Firemen," and "Handbook for Auxiliary Firemen."

Excerpts from Letters Received

THE pathos of human sufferings often crowds into our mail. From Indiana a lady writes: "I've just lost my little boy, nine years old. He loved these Bible lessons so. I'm determined to complete this course. Pray for me in my grief."

A recent enrollee is the Senate Chaplain in one of the eastern state legislatures.

Recently we wrote a letter to many of the soldiers on the western seaboard and enclosed two enrollment blanks. One writes: "Before I could get my name on one of the enrollment blanks, two other soldiers signed up for the course. I am as anxious as they are to start the course, but felt that I should let their requests be first. Please send me fifty more enrollment folders."

Another soldier writes from Virginia: "My only regret is that I did not have these lessons eight years ago."

Here is another: "Could I have all the rest of the lessons at once?"

I want to be baptized, yet I feel I want to finish this course first."

From Rhode Island a young lady writes: "In this cruel world today your program is a great consolation. Mother and Dad belong to Jehovah's Witnesses but my sister and I don't. Does your sect have a branch here in Providence so we could attend?"

Another writes: "I will soon be an Adventist and I am so thankful. Without these lessons I would have been lost at Christ's coming." How thankful we should be that she had the opportunity to study. Your prayers and your gifts make this possible.

Some faithful member in Berywyn, Illinois, will be happy to hear this. "Five months ago an old man called at our home and left literature, asking us to listen to the Voice of Prophecy. Every Saturday we sit by the hour and write out our lessons. (Acts 16:13) We are grateful beyond measure for the Voice of Prophecy bringing us wonderful peace and helping us to really know about God."

And the best letter we have ever read came this last week from a couple in Texas: "I have been keeping the Sabbath for eight months, but I am not a member of any church yet. I want to be one but I don't know of any church that keeps the true Sabbath (Saturday) and I want to be a member of God's true Sabbath-keeping Church. The Seventh-day Sabbath is the only day I see in the Bible. There are only two of us at home. We are both about sixty years old, and since my husband began keeping the Sabbath, we gave up our tobacco habits after using it for fifty years. That was the worst habit we had. We gladly gave it up and we are saving thirty-six dollars a year by stopping that habit. I want to give that to the Lord. We also want to give the tenth of our income, but don't know who to give it to. If you can give us any information where to send it, I would be so glad. Please pray and pray that I will keep God's commandments and do His will."

It Can Be Done

THIS has been an outstanding year for Ingathering. Not only did the campaign begin early, but church after church reached the goal in record time. At the present time, August 29, the East Pennsylvania Conference has a total of $31,154.10. Forty-one churches have reached the goal. The report also shows that 1,206 Minute-Man pins have been issued.

Of course, many of the people have raised more than one or two Minute-Man goals; nevertheless there are doubtless a large number who have not raised a Minute-Man goal. It is so easy to say, "Well, the church is over the goal so I won't need to get my goal." But there is a need. Our duty to the cause of God cannot be fulfilled by the acts of others. We may consider ourselves incapable of raising that sum, but this is where so many err. All things are possible with God.

An experience came to my attention the other day. A young lady who was just recently baptized wanted to do her share. Although she is physically handicapped, the desire to do her duty was strong. She, of course, is new in the message, so did not know too much about how to do it or where to go. She did what so many of us hesitate to do. The first prospect was her father's landlord. The canvass was brief but to the point. . . .

Yes, the man was glad to help such a worthy cause. He wrote a check and handed the folded check to our sister. When she had retired from the man's presence, she looked at the check. There it was—$50. Now many would say, "Guess this will be more than my share, so I'll just stop." Not so with this sister. It was a signal for her to continue under God's blessings. Thus it was that on Sabbath this new member could report over $56 for the Ingathering. Indeed, Miss Miriam Hinkle of York has set a good example for all of us.

May God help each one to raise the minimum of $12.30 before we stop. During these prosperous times the Lord expects us to have a substantial overflow.

The Time Has Now Come

IT doesn't take a library of books to give one the knowledge of this truth, so instrumental to our salvation. You will need, as a foundation for a panoramic view of the great opportunity to serve God, each book of the "Conflict" set, five books giving the complete story from Creation to the last act in the long struggle between righteousness and error, the coming of Christ to this world and a view into the promised land.

We want you to be more familiar with these words of inspiration and to have them for your friends, daily companions. In each of the following paragraphs you will find a beautiful setting for these five volumes.

"Patriarchs and Prophets," begins with Creation and the entrance of sin, and continues with the apostasy before the flood, and the experiences of the children of Israel in Egypt, in the wilderness, in Canaan, and during the days of the early kings. No other book makes the study of Old Testament history so interesting and helpful.

"Prophets and Kings" goes still further into the story of the chosen people, covering parts of Bible history about which little has been written.

The reign of Solomon, his life and work, the building of the temple, and the national apostasy are covered in the first section. The lives of men like Elijah, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezra, and Nehemiah, and the time to the Saviour's advent occupy the latter part.

The "Desire of Ages," is a beautiful presentation of the life of Christ. His experiences from birth to the close of His earthly ministry; His miraculous ministra-tions in behalf of the sick and the afflicted; His remarkable parables; and the ever-living principles of righteousness that He taught are among the topics to be found in this inspiring volume.

The "Acts of the Apostles" pictures the founding of the early churches. The experiences of Paul and the other apostles, and the growth of Christianity in the face of great persecution and opposition are here related. Deep spiritual lessons of great value to the Christian church are found within the pages of this book.

The "Great Controversy" introduces the Reformation, the growth of Protestantism, and the founding of Methodism as well as other Christian denominations. It describes the closing scenes of earth's history, the last acts of the long struggle between righteousness and error, and the coming of Christ to this world.

Your Book and Bible House has a sincere desire to have all our members avail themselves of this most important set. Each member needs to have these inspired volumes to read and reread in an effort to familiarize himself with most important truths for his salvation. Because of this, we have special prices, and opportunities to obtain these books; prices so good we cannot advertise them, but we earnestly solicit your writing the Bible House for information.

Publisher, Conference, and Bible House are working in a desperate effort to have a complete set of "Testimonies" and "Conflict" books in each home. Write us concerning these books and be assured of an easy-payment plan. Give a set for a Christmas present.

Dedication of Newport News Church

On Sabbath morning, July 18, the Newport News Church was well filled by interested members and visitors who gathered for the dedicatory service.

The present building had been occupied by the church for a number of years, but a comparatively small membership had carried a very heavy financial load. The Newport News Church was purchased in 1922 when the local church organization was only half its present membership. Through the years some alterations were made on the building, the expense of which prolonged the obligation, but these extensive improvements are an asset to the structure today.

Within the last few months, while preparing for a city effort, and looking forward to this special dedicatory service, the membership of the Newport News Church purchased an electric organ. This was highly appreciated and it was used to good advantage during the recent effort conducted by the pastor of the church. This newly acquired instrument also became an appreciable part of this special celebration as from the myriad tones there flowed the softest music of a holy Sabbath day, breathing a spirit of reverence on the occasion.

Elder F. H. Robbins and Elder H. J. Detwiler were the special guests of this long-planned celebration. Elder F. H. Robbins, President of the Columbia Union Conference, delivered the dedicatory sermon. It was a message of certainty and a call to service on the part of every member of the church. He emphasized the fact that this movement will forge ahead regardless of obstacles and difficulties. "The work of God cannot be stopped," he said. It cannot even be retarded by the actions of men, for the Father of all is controlling the great clock of the universe and it will move steadily forward until the prophetic utterances meet their entire fulfillment and Jesus returns in power and glory to redeem His waiting people.

Elder Robbins emphasized the solemn responsibility placed upon the members of the church organization. This movement represents an ever-growing and ever-expanding program. To keep pace with it and to be a part of it, one must give freely in service, time, and means. Not one can afford to live apart from its truth so vital to his own salvation. It is a wonderful privilege to be connected with the remnant church.

In the dedicatory prayer Elder Detwiler, President of the Potomac Conference, presented the church as a living memorial to God, and its members as ambassadors of our Lord and as jets of light in Christ's living temple. He sought the blessing of the Lord upon the members of the Newport News Church as their lives were rededicated to the great work of soul saving.

Appreciation

To date the Conference goal of $22,100 in Ingathering has been doubled by the earnest members and workers of the Potomac Conference. For September 6 the amount reported is $44,200, and this will continue to grow.

This "all out" effort of the churches has meant many hours of time and labor on the part of members. They have solicited and sung, telephoned and written letters, for hour after hour. Only a vivid missionary spirit, a sincere belief in a soon-coming Saviour, and a deep sympathetic feeling for unwarned millions could have been their source of inspiration.

This achievement is not only much appreciated by those who have labored so earnestly here, but, accompanied by the prayers of God's people, the funds contributed so generously will go forth to a needy world to help in promoting the gospel of Christ, and to bring physical and spiritual help to the suffering in war-torn lands. Truly there is a sympathy and an understanding among all our members and our churches that bind the people of God to a common cause the world around.

Your record today represents 39 churches as having reached or passed their goals, and fourteen of these are Minute-Man churches. Other churches are very near to the goal and will soon be "over." A total of 2,039 members are now Minute-Men, and the many who are near this achievement will want to do just a little more that they may also have this recognition. The Victory "Promoter" will be issued under date of October 3. May God continue to bless the untiring efforts of our church and our members.

Announcement

THE worker's new Holiday Kit is now ready. It contains books for children and adults that many of our church members may sell to people for holiday presents. Brethren Atherly, Spurgeon, and Warner will be visiting the churches during the next few weeks to exhibit these books and to interest members in the sale of the holiday specials.

If you are interested, or know of someone who you think would like to take advantage of the great demand for holiday gifts, kindly write us for information about these special books. Write to: Field Secretary, Potomac Conference of S. D. A., 411 Cedar Street, Takoma Park, D. C.

Wedding

MISS BONNIE AUGUSTINE MCCOY and Mr. Maxwell Charles Steiker were joined in holy wedlock in the Richmond Church auditorium, which was refreshed by beautiful sprays of fragrant, cut flowers, Tuesday night, August 11, 1942, the writer officiating.

Professor Carl W. Shafer served as best man and Helen Tripp as bridesmaid with Betty Steiker as maid of honor. It was in all a simple but very impressive service, with many friends present.

Youth and Temperance

A SPLENDID Youth's Temperance rally program was conducted at the camp ground in Parkersburg on the last Sabbath afternoon of camp meeting, on August 22. The rally consisted of the opening prayer by Elder C. S. Longacre, Secretary of the American Temperance Society, a very interesting and impressive dialogue given by the Parkersburg Missionary Volunteer society, a recitation by Mary Moore of Chareleston, a temperance lecture by Elder Stephen Paulty of Bluefield, and appropriate songs. Both junior and senior young people signed the Temperance and anti-tobacco pledges.

Now our young people in West Virginia can do something very definite to defeat the forces of ALCOHOL. They can both read and circulate, and invite others to learn the facts set forth in, the TEMPERANCE number of the Signs of the Times. On the front page is a picture of a soldier and sailor. As young people, let us do everything in our power to keep our fellow youth, who are in the American Army and Navy, from being exploited and weakened by beer and liquor. October 10 is Temperance Rally Day in all our churches. Let all our young men and women help to circulate the TEMPERANCE Signs, and go forth with burning zeal and sanctified judgment for the cause of Temperance and of Truth.

News Notes

THE third Medical Cadet corps in the West Virginia Conference has been organized at Parkersburg. The staff officers were chosen at the time of Elder C. P. Sorensen's visit in Parkersburg on Tuesday evening, September 1. The staff officers are as follows: Glen Bee, Corps Commander; Fred Powell, Adjutant; C. E. Jordan, Finance and Supply Officer; H. E. Voorhees, Chaplain. A Red Cross class in First Aid has also been organized for those men who are members of the corps, but who as yet have not had First Aid training. Mrs. Daisy Vaughan, Secretary of the Parkersburg Sabbath School, is the Red Cross instructor.

Professor J. P. Neff and Elder W. B. Hill were in Charleston on Sabbath, September 5, in the interest of a church school. Elder Hill reports that definite arrangements have been made for a church school in Charleston next year.

Did you know that our camp meeting literature sales were nearly 100 per cent higher than a year ago? We appreciate the interest our people are taking in the circulation of our truth-filled books and pamphlets, and the evidence that they are doing more reading for their own personal benefit. Many of our books contain undiscovered gems of truth. Let us search for them as for a hidden treasure.

Camp Meeting News Items

Attendance

THE attendance was the best in the history of the Chesapeake Conference. On last Sabbath the tabernacle was filled to capacity and it was estimated that 1500 were in attendance. While the camp meeting period was exceedingly rainy, all were comfortable in the commodious tabernacle. Many felt it would have been quite impossible to have had a successful camp meeting this year, because of the rain, had it not been for the convenience of the tabernacle. A general spirit of appreciation pervaded the entire encampment for a nice, dry, comfortable, convenient place to gather for the meetings.

Offerings

The offerings were as follows:
 Total missions and Sabbath school offerings—$1,341.29. There was provided in cash and pledges for the Improvement Fund—$1,545. The Army Camp Literature Offering—$69.02. The Watchman Fund Offering amounted to $75.36, which enables us to place a year's subscription to the Watchman Magazine in every library in the cities of Maryland and Delaware. The evening offerings totaled $358.50, which amount helps materially in balancing the camp meeting budget.

Book and Bible House Sales

The total Book and Bible House sales were $1,588.78. This sum was approximately $500 more than for the preceding year.

Outside Attendance

The outside attendance this year was much better than usual. Several prominent persons in the temperance field from the city were present from time to time.

Time of Spiritual Refreshing

Our camp meeting season was a time of special spiritual refreshing, experienced in every appointment. The good help provided by the General and Union Conferences led us deeper and deeper into spiritual things as the meeting progressed. Victories were gained that will provide a foundation on which may be built a sturdy, spiritual superstructure throughout the ensuing year. Let us all hold steady to our camp meeting resolutions and pledges.

ARE YOU ABLE TO ANSWER

The subtle questions which trouble and confuse thousands of Christians? The doctrine of the "Secret Rapture" causes sincere Bible students to ask:

- Is Jesus Coming Again?
- What Is the Secret Rapture?
- Will We Know When Christ Comes?
- Is the Jewish Nation to Be Restored?
- Will Christ Reign on Earth 1,000 Years?
- Who Is the Antichrist?

Have you a clear understanding of these subtle, erroneous doctrines? Can you explain the errors to others? Why are they NOT Biblical?

Washington Missionary College Opens Doors for Session of 1942-'43

College Marches on Despite War

B. G. WILKINSON

WASHINGTON MISSIONARY COLLEGE is now opening its doors for the session of 1942-43. All the prospects point to a good enrollment this year. In spite of the World War, the college is carrying on. General Chiang Kai-shek, the famous leader of China, wrote to all the Chinese colleges when war first broke out over there. In this communication he stated that he felt that the future of the nation lay in the colleges, and he wanted the faculties and students to remain intact and go forward with their great work. We feel that the same thing is true in our own land.

Here at Washington Missionary College the Board and the Administration have been working very strenuously to keep our school abreast of the times and to make it a first class institution from every standpoint for our young people.

We would like to tell you that during the summer we finished our new $80,000 library building. It is a splendid addition to the institution. Also this summer we have spent about $30,000 on our science building, remodeling the interior, putting in beautiful fluorescent lights, making all plumbing, electrical, and heating adjustments necessary to operate more efficiently our new equipment. In spite of labor troubles owing to the war, all our industries are prospering.

Most important of all, we have a splendid staff of teachers, a good student group, and a deep spiritual atmosphere in the school. An inspector of colleges, highly recognized by leading educators in the United States, having given the college an unofficial inspection, said that he never saw a more efficient faculty for the task we have undertaken and one which works more beautifully and harmoniously together.

Our chiefest concern here, of course, has always been the Theological Department. We have been jealous throughout the years that we should not in any way lessen by one hour—no, not by one minute—the amount of Bible taught in the institution and the quantity of ministerial training necessary to turn out good evangelists and pastors. Since the Theological Department was reorganized fifteen years ago, we have now throughout the world over two hundred workers from this department, of whom about sixty are in the Columbia Union alone. We have taken new steps this summer to strengthen this department, and are assured that it will be more efficient and more fruitful than ever before.

For 1942-43 a good attendance is assured. It is not too late, however, for students to enter. Make up your mind now and come to join us in this our banner year. The campus has never looked more attractive than it does at the present time. COME! COME RIGHT AWAY. WELCOME!

Cash Scholarships Offered Upper Division Students

FOR many years a large majority of the students at Washington Missionary College have been in the lower division or first two years of the college program. The courses in Columbia Junior College, or the first two years, are well attended, but often lead students to immediate employment or to transfer to professional schools of nursing, dentistry, and medicine. Nevertheless, the college has offered for many years a full four-year curriculum, with majors in the various liberal arts fields—such as history, English, mathematics, biology, physics, chemistry, and foreign language. For some time it has been recognized that the upper division or last two years of the college course is not as fully represented nor as large as it should be when compared to the lower division. For many reasons the upper division classes should be larger. Not the least of these reasons is that college ought to prepare more students for secondary teaching positions and other major lines where a four-year college diploma is essential.

Study has been given to this situation recently by the Board of Trustees and the college management, and it has been decided to foster a larger upper division enrollment by making available TO STUDENTS WHO CAN QUALIFY FOR UPPER DIVISION WORK, CASH SCHOLARSHIPS VARYING FROM THE USUAL ENTRANCE FEE OF $66 TO $100 OR MORE, depending upon individual circumstances. By thus strengthening the upper division, a better and more evenly balanced student group and program will result. Also, by this plan many who have dropped out of school at the end of the sophomore year because of lack of funds will be encouraged to continue on for a bachelor's degree.

Washington Missionary College, therefore, is making use of the columns of the VISITOR to extend knowledge of this situation and of the scholarship offer as indicated above. It is not too late to enter school now, provided the prospective student moves promptly. YOUNG PEOPLE WHO HAVE FIFTY SEMESTER HOURS OR MORE, but who have not yet applied for the current year but who would be interested in coming to Washington Missionary College, ARE INVITED TO WRITE PROMPTLY TO THE PRESIDENT for further information, requesting an application blank, LOOKING TOWARD RECEIVING THIS SCHOLARSHIP BENEFIT. Class work will have just begun at the time this notice reaches the readers of the VISITOR. So any who may have hesitated because of uncertainty regarding financial means may yet take advantage of this unusual opportunity. If YOU are interested, write at once so that plans can be laid for you to come to W. M. C. promptly. If you know of promising young people who should be in college, you will do them a favor to call their attention to this unusual opportunity.

B. G. WILKINSON

Alumni to Meet for Library Dedication

THEOFIELD G. WEIS

THE largest gathering of alumni in the history of Washington Missionary College is anticipated for the dedication of the newly completed library building on Tuesday, October 6, 1942. Elaborate plans have been put into operation by the college for a day of "open house," of feasting on the blessings of God, and of renewing old college friendships and making of new ones.

Elder George S. Rapp, president of the Alumni Association, anticipates a representation from every class that has passed through "The Gateway to Service." Records of the secretary of the association reveal the interesting fact that at the last five meetings of the association every class was represented with the exception of two different classes in two different years.

W. M. C. alumni retain their loyalty to their alma mater and have done much to boost its financial success and its scholastic honor. W. M. C. alumni are not clannish, are not overburdened by traditions and prejudices, are not boisterous and overly vocal about the fortunes of their college, but are nonetheless loyal to the institution of which they were once a close and intimate part. Scattered to the four corners of the earth, from the bullet-scarred prisons of Hong Kong to the nothernmost tip of occupied Norway, there is no finer group of devoted, dignified, industrious, and conscientious Christian men and women than the alumni of Washington Missionary College. The achievements of individual members and the high average of achievement of this group constitute convincing testimony of devotion to the principles of right living learned in these halls.

The local officers of the association are arranging the details of the program. Speakers and guests are expected from the Union Conference, the General Conference, near-by universities and colleges, and the near-by libraries, as well as local and municipal institutions. Special announcements will be sent to every member of the Alumni Association. Look for these in an early mail. If yours does not come within a few days, send a post card to The Secretary, Alumni Association, Washington Missionary College, Takoma Park, D. C., giving your correct address. We aim to reach all of you, but we are human and each year's changes make holes in our mailing lists. Plan to come if it is at all within the tread of your tires or the quota of your gasoline ration card. Come for the dedication in the late afternoon and for the alumni banquet in the evening.

About the Library

For many years one of the earnest and persistent desires of the Board of Trustees has been the erection of a modern library that would be in keeping with the expanding college program. On October 6, when Elder F. H. Robbins, Chairman of the Board, presents the library's keys to President B. G. Wilkinson, this ambition will be proudly realized.

The early history of the library began in a small room in South Hall. Later it was moved to College Hall for several years. After the completion of Columbia Hall in 1918, the library received relatively commodious quarters on the second floor of that hall. By 1935, even with the addition of two more rooms and a portion of a hallway, quarters were congested beyond the possibility of proper functioning. Finally it was decided to remodel the attic of Columbia Hall to provide library stacks, workroom, and office. When the Normal building was finished in 1939, leaving four rooms on the first floor of College Hall available, the library moved in, box and parcel. At last the library, some felt, had sufficient room. But the inadequacy of the new move was soon apparent. This dissatisfaction with library facilities and the growing demands for all the space in College Hall by the Science Department brought forth plans for a separate library building.

Elder H. J. Detwiler, then President of the Board, promptly determined a program of action. He appointed a library building committee and requested the librarian to study the plans of other new college libraries. After months of study and consultation with college specialists and library-efficiency technicians the library building committee presented its report and recommendations to the local Board of Trustees. Prompt action followed. Within three months, about the middle of August, 1941, the footings of the new library building were set and construction was at last underway.

Before the present war all vital materials were on the grounds or in warehouses, with the result that our library, though finished several months after Pearl Harbor, has in it much which would now be considered vital war material.

The new library faces the campus circle between College (or Science) Hall and North Hall. It is semi-colonial in design and built of red, sand-faced brick, trimmed with sandstone. It has two floors and four stack levels, with a floor area of 15,600 square feet and a maximum stack capacity of 85,000 volumes.

Both floor levels are accessible by means of a half-length of stairs from the entrance threshold. The entire building can be controlled from one central point. Considerable study was given to these two features and they were adopted only after a thorough study of more than a score of other libraries. These factors promote economical staffing and operation.

On the first floor is a large lobby for coat racks. To the left is a room devoted exclusively to Seventh-day Adventist literature, with an index to the author, the title, and the subject of articles appearing in the Review and Herald since 1862; the Signs of the Times since 1930; the Youth's Instructor since 1900; the Watchman since 1930; Life and Health since 1913; Ministry since its beginning; Health since its beginning. The index contains over 350,000 cards and took six people five years to compile. While still far from complete, it is one of the most valuable keys to denominational literature possessed by any college, and we feel the years will prove it of inestimable value to all students. The two lower stack levels are accessible from this floor as well as are the book bindery, three large classrooms, and the rest rooms.

To the left on the main floor is a combination Faculty Reading Room and Browsing Room, beautifully paneled with durable red gumwood and floored with squared red oak. The Main Reading Room occupies more than half of this floor area. It has high windows with Venetian blinds, beautifully marbled tile floor, sound-proof ceiling, red gumwood book shelves for reference books, a 300-item display-and-storage combination magazine rack, a 240-tray card catalogue, and most up-to-date anti-shadow lighting equipment. The seating capacity is 150 readers.

Among the ornate things in this room three are outstanding. A portion of the main desk, supplied at a cost of $1,600, was donated as a gift by the class of 1939; a colored aerial photograph of the campus is a gift from the class of 1941; and the Westminster chimes that sound the class hours were presented by the class of 1942.

On this same floor level are the two finished stack levels, the librarian's office, and the cataloguer's office. Service and communications are facilitated by an electric book-lift and a seven-outlet inter-office radio system.

At present the library contains nearly 30,000 books and pamphlets and files over 730 titles of current periodicals and journals. During the past year it has been the fortunate recipient of many generous gifts from fifty-four individuals and many institutions. Among the latter the following deserve our special thanks: The University of New York; the University of Michigan; Bucknell University; the University of Virginia; Catholic University of America; and the University of Maryland.

It is indeed with much pride and joy, with profound gratitude, and sincere appreciation that Washington Missionary College opens her doors to her many friends and loyal patrons on the occasion of the dedication of the newest and most up-to-date of the buildings that face the semi-circle of the campus. Indeed we thank all of you for your loyal support, and we doubly welcome you to our halls on the date of October 6, 1942.

Premedical Students Receive Acceptances

BECAUSE of the unprecedented demand of the war situation for trained doctors, many medical colleges are accelerating the training program so that prospective doctors need spend but three years, instead of four years as heretofore, in medical college.

Our Adventist medical school, the College of Medical Evangelists, has accelerated its program in harmony with the general practice and is already accepting applicants for the entering class of 1943. In this matter the College of Medical Evangelists and Washington Missionary College are moving in full cooperation. A large number of third-year premedical students here at Washington Missionary College have already received notice that they have been accepted, subject to the successful completion of their third year of premedical work here. The great need of trained physicians is emphasized by the fact that the Selective Service Boards are deferring third-year premedical students who have been accepted for medicine another year.

Fortunately, the improvements

Theology Offering Grows in Strength

A. H. RULKOETTER

WITH the opening of another school year at Washington Missionary College, a richer and more expanded offering in the courses in theology will be given. For the past several years the college has developed an unusually strong course and has provided exceptional work, but present world conditions make necessary further strengthening of the course. The present hour is no time to retrench, to weaken or to dilute the offerings of the Bible courses. Evidence everywhere indicates the need of finishing the gospel commission quickly and of preparing our youth thoroughly for the responsibilities that lie before them. No one knows under what trying circumstances the youth will be called upon to witness for God.

Recognizing the value of the minister as a servant of the people, our government grants deferment from selective service to the student of theology, a practice for which the clergy is grateful. Present world conditions do constitute a challenge, however, for more efficient preparation, and in view of this, some enrichment of Bible course offerings has been provided.

A course in Bible Manuscripts will be given to acquaint the student with the providence of God in bringing to this generation the purity of His Word. A course in the Evidences of Christianity will explore the sound principles upon which the plan of salvation is based. A new course in Antiquity, will enable the student to study the history of the ancient past in relation to God's Word.

Both Pastoral Training courses in the Science Department at Washington Missionary College make it possible for this institution to enlarge and improve its science offering for the benefit of premedical students in particular and of all science students in general. The college administration is hopeful that the enrollment in this important department will be materially increased with the current school year. Science students will be pleased to see the changes which have been made, and cannot fail to appreciate the fundamental and thorough rebuilding of College Hall, which will make this department modern and efficient in every respect.

will be expanded in scope. In the first Pastoral Training course the class will continue to study God's counsel to the ministry. In addition, it will study pulpit ethics, sermon organization and delivery, and denominational organization. This year the class will also have the opportunity of studying the technique of large-city evangelism by regularly attending Elder Boothby's meetings to be held in

ELDER R. A. ANDERSON

Constitution Hall, Washington, D. C.

The college is also fortunate in having been able to arrange with the General Conference to secure the services of Elder R. A. Anderson to teach the advanced class in Pastoral Training. It is a part of the work of the Ministerial Association of the General Conference to build up the work of evangelism in all our colleges. Instead of presenting this subject in a short, intensive course, as he has done in our other colleges, Elder Anderson will be able, because of the location of this college here at the General Conference headquarters, to extend this course here throughout the school year. Emphasis will be placed on effective methods of evangelism. Elder Anderson has been unusually successful in conducting large evangelistic efforts in the large cities of Australia, in London, and in other great metropolitan centers. In addition to the class work, there will be extensive field work of conducting public efforts, which students will carry on as in the past.

ELDER ANDREW ROBBINS

interest in and a deep love for foreign missions. He served four years in the West Pennsylvania Conference before going to China. Over-seas he served as Home Missionary and Field Missionary Secretary for the Manchurian Union, principal of the Manchurian Mission, director of the Northern Manchurian Mission, and director of the Sungeni Russian Mission.

Professor H. T. Terry, who for eight years was head of the history

ELDER A. H. RULKOETTER

Still another change in the training given the theological students, made with the idea of strengthening their course for practical purposes, lies in the fact that they are encouraged to elect a second major. For example, history can be chosen for the second major, thereby greatly enlarging the student's understanding of God's dealings with the nations throughout the centuries.

Two other new faculty members will be in the department. Elder A. H. Rulkoetter, recently from Union College, will serve as its new head. He brings with him twenty-seven years of varied experience, pastoral, evangelistic, educational, and administrative. Elder Rulkoetter has long been recognized as a man thoroughly rooted in the fundamentals of this message.

Elder Andrew Robbins, an alumnus of Washington Missionary College, is the other new member. He has recently returned from the China Division with an active department of Oshawa Missionary College and for the past six years has been connected with the college here, continues his work in the department.

We are pleased to share this encouraging word with the faithful Adventist membership of the Columbia Union, and to assure them that in an ever-strengthening manner Washington Missionary College will continue to serve as the "Gateway to Service" for our youth.

What Time Is It?

HERE is a common question. It is repeated scores of times every day. Friends meet. The question is asked and answered. At once one relaxes his pace and loiters. The other pushes on with a more vigorous step, for he must not fail his appointment. A group of students are at lunch. Someone asks the question. The answer causes the husky youth at the end of the table to rest his fork long enough to say, "Good! I'll have time for dessert." But another boy asks to be excused, rises quickly, and is gone.

What time is it? The weary worker glances at the clock, and as the hands crawl slowly toward five, he redoubles his efforts. He wants a good showing for the day. He knows well that at the whistle, activity and production cease.

Yet to many a youth the noon-day of life seems an aeon away and thus seldom merits a passing thought. Is not the morning long? And the delights so very sweet! Why trouble for decades yet to be? Indeed they exist in fancy only, and their reality to youth is often but the shadowy dream of what may never be.

But ask the busy man in middle life, "What time is it?" and he will scarcely leave off his busy efforts while he answers, "Why, already it is noon and I've not half finished the morning's tasks." And if you will but listen he will tell you that time is precious, that you must make the days count, for "they come not back."

Go, lastly then, and, finding the bent form and whitened hair, once more inquire the hour. "Young man, lose not one hour! I have labored long, but it seems that scarcely has my life begun when twilight hours arrive. And age comes swift behind."

What time is it? Is it not time to break with lesser interests that would steal away the thoughts from a true understanding of life's hour? In times like these should not our own Seventh-day Adventist youth ponder well the problem of Christian education? The opportunities were never better. Washington Missionary College is prepared to give a training that will truly be a "Gateway to Service." We hope that our youth, before deciding this problem, will ponder carefully the personal question, "What time is it?"

OBITUARIES

TANNER: Mrs. Harriet Rambo, was laid to rest at Camden, New Jersey, June 30, 1942. Sister Tanner was baptized in 1890 by Elder D. E. Lindsay and was an active worker in the church until three years ago when she suffered an injury which confined her to her bed until her death. She was 88 years of age. She is survived by four children, Mrs. Harry Sutton, Mrs. Raphael Senseman, Mrs. Riermie Korner, and Percy Tanner. One son, W. J. Tanner, who died in 1914, served as a missionary in the West Indies and later as a conference president in the Columbia Union.

W. C. JEFFREYS

RODGERS: Alverta Durham, was born near Dover, Delaware, November 7, 1883, and died Tuesday, June 16, 1942. As a child, she attended the public schools of Delaware and later, when her family had become Adventists, she attended the church school, and there was instructed, not only in the rudiments of secular education, but in the fundamentals of the third angel's message, which she loved and believed until the end of her life. On January 1, 1906, Alverta Durham and P. G. Rodgers were united in marriage. Sister Rodgers labored faithfully through the years by the side of her evangelist husband. From 1910 to 1918, these faithful workers labored in the Chesapeake Conference. In 1923, they moved to California where the greatest work of their ministry was accomplished. Sister Rodgers was indeed a mother in Israel. She sleeps until the voice of the Life-giver shall call her forth. She fought a good fight; she kept the faith; she was ready to be offered. She leaves to mourn their loss her faithful companion, P. G. Rodgers; her aged mother; two brothers; six sisters; and a host of friends. Words of comfort were spoken by the writer from Revelation 14:13, and she was laid to rest in the little cemetery beside the Cheswold Church.

C. V. LEACH

HAND: Frances Clark, was born in Upper Yardley, New Jersey, January 25, 1861, and died in Baltimore, August 29, 1942. In 1887 she was joined in marriage to Harry P. Hand. They were privileged to live together only eighteen months, when he died. To this union one child was born who died in infancy. In 1898 Sister Hand became a member of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, and remained a consistent member for the past 44 years. She was a member of the Baltimore Number One Church. She leaves to mourn her sister, Mrs. Greiner; and her two daughters, Edith McKey and Dorothy Stowe of Baltimore, Maryland. The testimony of those near to Sister Hand was that she was "prepared to go." She was laid to rest in the beautiful Lorraine Park Cemetery in Baltimore to await the call of the Life-giver on the resurrection morning. Words of comfort and assurance from the Word of God were spoken by the writer.
