Help for Parents and Teachers

I HAVE just finished preparing the copy which will appear in the Department of Education section of the May Church Officers' Gazette, for use in the Home and School Association meetings. I enjoyed the articles so thoroughly myself that I cannot resist telling you about them. I wish that these articles might appear in the Review and Herald, so that every Adventist mother and father might benefit from this excellent material on "Teaching the Value and Use of Money." But then, I do not know that this particular program is any more important or more interesting than the one for March on "Music in Home and School," or that on "Personality and Character" for April.

The thing that really concerns me today is that these good helps are available each month, yet not all our parents are receiving the benefit. Of course, we all know the place of the church school in the Christian training of our children; but I fear many churches are overlooking the benefit they might receive from the Home and School Association, which provides help for every teacher of our children—the teachers in the home as well as those in the classroom.

Some think they have very good excuses for not conducting regular Home and School meetings, but are they valid reasons that will stand in the day when the Judge shall ask, "Where is the flock that was given thee, thy beautiful flock?" Or will those parents bow their heads in grief and shame, answering pitifully, "My children are gone forth of me, and they are not?" Certainly as parents we need every possible help in doing our task better as the days come and go.

Then there is the specific training for parents contained in the Home Education courses prepared by the General Conference Department of Education and distributed by the Home Study Institute. One mother wrote to us recently: "Two of us in this church have experienced the deep grief of one of the family's being side-tracked from the fold, and if we can do something to help other mothers from this sad experience it will be our pleasure to do so." When lay members in their own homes feel the burden to save and train the children and youth of the church, then there is hope of an upward, progressive movement. Will you not join those who are determined to make their homes truly Christian? If you do all in your power to this end, then you can confidently claim the promise of Isaiah 49:25. "I will contend with him that contendeth with thee, and I will save thy children."

If your church has no Home and School Association, and cannot be persuaded to form one, will you not get the Gazette and read these articles for yourself, from month to month?

Circulate Foreign "Signs"

ON February 3 the War Department announced that German nationals and institutions in the United States occupation zone of Germany will be permitted to receive packages of printed matter of 4 pounds, 6 ounces. It is our understanding that the remaining zones of Germany soon will be opened for mail privileges.

One of the greatest missionary opportunities that presents itself to our people at this time is that of getting our foreign Signs of the Times into the homes of the 22,000,000 people in this country who were born in homes where English is not the spoken word, but a foreign language is spoken, as well as to lands across the sea.

The most heart-rending appeals have come to us from our own land, and especially from the war-torn countries of Europe, such as Germany, Austria, Denmark, Italy, South America, and many other lands.

A typical letter from Germany follows: "You have no idea at all how eagerly your papers are read by our friends. We have lost everything we possess — papers, books, everything. It is unfortunate that we cannot secure any here, which papers and books are just as important to me and for the people here, as are food and clothing. We beg of you to help us with the bread of life." We can use many thousands of subscriptions for these needy calls.

Evidences of Foresight

THE members of the Cape May Court House Church have laid plans for one of the finest children's departmental rooms for their Sabbath school in the New Jersey Conference. Already they have gone a long way toward completing these plans in their new church. They are covering the cement floor in the basement with asphalt tile. They have ceiled the room with an attractive ceiling board. The walls are to be decorated with nice pictures and pretty window curtains are to be hung—all designed to inspire the children toward a spirit of true worship.

Similar plans are also in effect in Trenton, where separate rooms for each of the children's departments are definitely under construction. Not long ago the Jericho Church members added a new and very attractive room to their church—just for the children. Bridgeton is planning considerable changes in their children's room. Asbury Park minds are running in the same direction. Camden has a very unique plan. While they are somewhat handicapped by finding it necessary to meet in the schoolroom, the leaders have gone to a great deal of additional effort to screen a section of the room which each week is set up in a very becoming fashion where the small children come together on the Sabbath. It takes more work, but the leaders believe that it pays dividends in better attention on the part of the children, and a more worshipful spirit in their service. Burlington and Vineland have long had their own room just for the children. What these Sabbath schools have done for their children, every school in New Jersey can do. It is time that we should put more emphasis upon providing for the coming generation of our church.

as a nest egg, the Bridgeton Church, under the leadership of Pastor Thomas P. Ipes and Brother
Elvin Feltman, the missionary

Dorcas Work in Martinsburg

THE Lord has wonderfully blessed the work of the Dorcas society in Martinsburg during the past two years as its members have rallied to the work of helping the needy locally, sending clothes to war-torn Europe, supplying food and fruit baskets to the aged and sick, and raising means to help in the building of a lovely new church.

This work pays large dividends,
for Christ has said, "As ye did it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto me." When we think of these words our hearts cry out, "How little we have accomplished." Are there others we should be helping; are we grasping every opportunity and doing all in our power to alleviate the cruel pain of hunger and need? By lending a helping hand we can reach hearts that can be more easily persuaded to surrender to the One "who is altogether lovely."

I would like to share an experience with you of one who was thus contacted. Last fall as we were returning from a branch Sabbath school we passed an elderly lady carrying a bag over her shoulder.
We stopped and asked her to ride with us, and as we helped her into the car she was so exhausted she could hardly get her breath to speak.

She had been to the store to secure her groceries that welfare funds provided for her. She had no relatives or kind friends to do her errands for her; in fact, she even split her own wood. She is 79 years old. When we arrived at her humble two-room abode (which looked as though it were at one time a wash house or other out-building) we found it very clean and neat, and with a promise to come again we slipped a small amount of money in her hand and said good-bye.

A short time later we took her a bushel basket heaped high with tempting food. Elder Voorhees, Conference Dorcas Secretary, accompanied us this time and he read to her some Scripture and offered prayer. Her heart seemed touched and she said she could not go to church any more, having no means of transportation. We told her we would take her to church
with us some time.

We were remiss in our duty and did not see her for awhile, but when we went back with another basket of food she said, "I've been waiting to go to church." Those were accusing words and we determined that we would take her
the very next Sabbath.

Since this contact she has given up snuff which she had used since she was ten years of age and is anxious to go to church. I believe many more souls would be won in this way if we as Dorcas members would catch the vision of our work.

Sister Laura Haines, president, and Sister Minnie L. Linton, secretary-treasurer, both new members of our church, have led very successfully in the work here. The very hearty support of Elder Met-

"Give and It Shall Be Given Unto You"

WE have every reason to rejoice at the wonderful accomplishments of the Italian Church of Philadelphia towards Italian relief.

In the space of two years this group has sent over one thousand 11½-lb. packages to the needy and half-clad Italian brethren and sisters. One such family is pictured wearing some of the clothing sent.

These packages have been prepared according to the appeals received from overseas. Most of them contained articles of wearing apparel, food, and medicine, as well as denominational books. A portion of the goods was purchased from the Salvation Army, and a good portion has been received as donations from all our brethren for this work of mercy.

Expressions of sincere gratitude should be extended to the members of the Philadelphia Temple, Italian recipients of clothing donations.

as well as to the members of the Italian Church, for the splendid cooperation and Christlike attitude shown in this important program of world relief.

Ohio Soul-Winning Colporteur Ministry

LET's talk awhile; yes, let's talk about the soul-winning colporteur work. Letters are coming in these days which are most encouraging.

Mrs. Marie Miller writes: "In addition to many good experiences, there have been three baptized through my humble efforts, and another is ready for baptism."

Brother Claude Diehl writes: "I am happy to have a part in the soul-winning literature ministry. One young man has been baptized and is now about ready for the colporteur work. We hope a fine family with whom we have worked will soon accept the third angel's message."

Brother J. Alford writes: "The Lord has wonderfully blessed and used me in winning six people to this message. Our good experiences are many."

Mrs. Avis Carroll writes: "I am thankful for finding a place for my talent in God's needy vineyard. Two ladies who are sisters have been baptized. There are three others whose names I've given to the Bible worker, and they are happy. Two years ago I sold a 'Bible Readings' to a young Catholic woman. Two of her relatives read it and now one of these has been attending our church, and her two children are attending Sabbath school. Four months ago the above relatives and the woman who bought the 'Bible Readings' came to our Sunday night meetings and recently they were taken into the church, including the husband of the Catholic lady. I feel I'm doing the work of the Master."

Sister Edith Hanvey says: "After nearly a year of persuasion, one of my customers decided to attend church with me. Now you couldn't keep her away, and she is so filled with love for this blessed truth that she tells every one she meets what the Lord has done for her. May she remain faithful now that she is a member here in Toledo."

More people stay at home when the weather is stormy. They welcome some one to visit them and will listen to the colporteur evangelist. Won't you, dear reader, join our honored band of soul winners?

Baptisms at Zanesville and Marion

ON February 22 at the 11 o'clock service nine precious souls were buried with Christ in baptism in the Zanesville Church. Six of these candidates were baptized as a result of the Sunday night meetings held in Zanesville. Several others who had planned to be baptized in this class were unable to do so because of illness.

During the sermon of the morning, Elder C. C. Morris, the officiating minister, emphasized the importance of obtaining the "passport to heaven," Christ's righteousness. The candidates were urged to make this their goal. The speaker pointed out it could not be bought, earned, or inherited, but is a gift to every earnest seeker after truth.

C. J. DORNBURG

Pastor, Zanesville district

FOUR precious souls were baptized on Sabbath, November 30, 1946 in the Marion Church as the result of personal work done by the district leader, Elder H. G. Gauker. Two of these joined the Marion Church and two united with the Galion Church.

News Notes

AN encouraging word was received at the office the other day from Elder Harold L. Gray, pastor of the three churches of the Ash-tabula district with a total district membership of 87. He writes as follows:

"I am taking the liberty of passing on to you part of our report for the year 1946. Our combined tithe from this district was $7,035.44. Of this total $3,369.22 was from Ashtabula, $2,449.05 from Rock Creek, and $1,217.17 from Madison. You will remember our district had a per capita of nearly $20 for Ingathering.

Each of our Sabbath schools holds the Special Banner. Truly our people believe in the soon coming of Christ and are going on to greater things that they might see the work finished on this earth. We hope that with the help of the Holy Spirit greater things will be accomplished for the Lord's cause in this year 1947."

News Notes

ON the third Sabbath of February Elder O. G. Carnes conducted a baptismal service in the Christian Church in Lock Haven. The five candidates thus joining the church make Lock Haven the first church in the Conference to win the award of an "E" pennant for a 10-per-cent net gain in membership. Others who planned to take part in the next baptism will bring up the award to a double "E" pennant for the 20-per-cent net increase. We sincerely hope that every church in the Conference will receive a pennant because of its soul-winning activities.

Brethren Stuart Jayne and Glenn Smith opened their hall effort in Huntingdon on Sunday night, March 15, and Elder E. E. Carman, assisted by the Conference office staff and the members of his churches, began an effort in a church out in Wildwood at the same time.

Encouraging reports come from the efforts conducted by G. W. Frederick in Port Allegany and Elder R. B. Hill in New Kensington. Elder Carnes reports that the interest in Clearfield is spreading. Brethren James Hold and Raymond Spencer are assisting in the visiting and are taking care of the Sabbath services.

Brother H. W. Wolcott reports that he has all he can carry in cottage meetings and Bible studies throughout the Greensburg district for early baptism.

Sister Dingee's work in the Conference Bible Correspondence School is steadily growing heavier and we are greatly encouraged as those who are completing the course are taking their stand for the truth.

Visiting a list of names of Twentieth Century Bible Course graduates, Elder Carnes found that four years had elapsed since one lady in the Clearfield area had completed the course. During that time she had gone over the course again very carefully several times and when the workers called upon her she was overjoyed to learn that meetings were in progress only a few miles from her home. On every side doors are being opened for the proclamation of the message, and people are waiting to be gathered in. Our time to work is short.

Columbia Union Conference Session

ON Friday morning, March 28, a good number of delegates, representing the Allegheny Conference, converged on the Cincinnati Union terminal to attend the Columbia Union Conference session. Taxis were hailed and the delegates were off to the Shiloh Seventh-day Adventist Church where room reservations had been made for them by the pastor, Elder H. D. Warner. After being assigned to a place to stay for the duration of the meeting, the delegates filed down the stairs into a lower room where a delicious breakfast was served to all.

All the conference presidents were seated on the platform with the Union President, Elder F. H. Robbins, when the session opened

Friday afternoon, at 1:30 P.M. Each was introduced according to the conference he represented. Elder J. H. Wagner, our President, gave a brief introduction to the Conference after which the Allegheny Conference was officially received into the sisterhood of the Columbia Union conferences.

The presidents were instructed to call together their delegates in order to select members to form the large committee which would select members for the nominating committee. Elders Wagner, Moran, and Bland were selected as members of the large committee.

When the nominating committee had been formed, Elders Wagner and Moran were members of this important body. Elder Bland served on the plans committee. The nominating committee began work almost immediately and worked all day Sunday, and the following day as well. As a result of their work, the following recommendations were brought to the assembly:

President, D. A. Ochs (former East Pennsylvania Conference President); Secretary - Treasurer, C. H. Kelly; Educational Secretary, G. M. Matthews; Home Missionary and Sabbath School Secretary, J. C. Holland; Publishing Department Secretary, J. F. Kent; Missionary Volunteer Secretary, O. S. Hershberger.

On Sabbath, March 1, we assembled in the Shiloh Seventh-day Adventist Church for worship. The rostrum was filled to overflowing with the ministering brethren. Everyone was introduced according to the church he represented. I wish that every reader of this article could have been present to hear that fine, inspirational sermon that Elder G. E. Peters delivered. It centered around the importance of putting away every "besetting sin," however small, in order to receive the "refreshing" when it comes. The Holy Spirit was certainly felt as each person examined himself and found that he, too, came under the searching scrutiny of an all-seeing, but forgiving heavenly Father.

A most solemn service climaxed the 11 o'clock hour. Brother C. T. Richards, pastor of the Toledo Church, was ordained, as ministers from almost every church in the Conference embraced him and welcomed him into their fold. The charge was long and solemn, impressive in its requirements. It also served to refresh the minds of the listeners of the sacred responsibility that rests upon the shoulders of those ordained of God.

On Sabbath afternoon the ministers and pastors offered a symposium in which each minister spoke of things near his heart. All in all, the delegates and visitors had a high, profitable day in Shiloh.

The ministerial institute should prove a blessing to those who attended. When Elder J. L. Shuler, one of our leading evangelists, spoke the auditorium was filled almost to capacity. Everyone felt benefited after listening to his discourse on successful methods of evangelism.

The Allegheny Conference stands ready to cooperate with the new officers of the Union Conference as faithfully as it did with the former ones.

Excerpt From Letter Received From Bible Course Graduate

"I wish to express my appreciation for your kindness in sending me the Bible lessons. You see, I understand quite well all that is taught in them, and I believe in them, but here is what I am facing. I am a man of 28 years, have a high school education, and plan to enter the university this next quarter. I had an urge to preach, and after coming home from the army, I started preaching. I do not hesitate to confess that I use a lot of what I learned from your Bible lessons, and other books and papers I have received from you. I love my work and want to grow in it, but I was wondering what you would think about me joining a conference church, and if you would send a representative to see me."

WITMER: Mrs. Ellen Link, was born in Dover, Pennsylvania, December 31, 1872 and died in Takoma Park, Maryland, February 24, 1947. She was married to Mr. Cary Witmer, March 17, 1899, and to this union were born four children, three of whom are still living. Mr. Witmer and his wife moved to Washington, D. C. 34 years ago. Thirty-two years ago, Elder R. E. Harter and Elder Phillips conducted an evangelistic effort in a large tent on 16th and Lamont Streets, in the city of Washington, and Sister Witmer embraced the faith as the result of that effort. Sister Witmer was an active member of the Takoma Park Church missionary society, and of the Sabbath school. Like the Apostle Paul Sister Witmer was ready to depart and quietly fell asleep in Jesus. She leaves behind her a devoted husband, a daughter, Mrs. Kathryn Witmer Edwards; and two sons; Raymond E. and Charles L. Witmer. She also leaves five grandchildren, two sisters and two brothers, and a host of friends.

"Northwest Naturalist"

Our new publication, the Northwest Naturalist, has now completed its first year. Three issues, totaling 104 pages, have been published and mailed to more than 1,000 subscribers. Articles concerning creationism, with various phases of nature study, book reviews, and observations about plants and animals comprise these pages. The editorial staff has received several hundred letters expressing wholehearted approval, and this has been real encouragement to those working hard to make the paper a success.

We started a year ago with a subscription price of 50 cents a year, sincerely hoping that sufficient subscriptions would come in to enable us to continue at that rate. Because of the second-class mailing permit regulations, we must put out four issues this next year. To our 1200 subscribers, and to our would-be subscribers we present our dilemma. Your last issue cost $400—two-thirds ers everywhere is the field guide to the major groups of birds, the orders, and families. The 63 drawings of heads, and characteristic identification points of birds, accompanied by easily followed keys, make this an excellent help for bird lovers, amateur or professional. Of interest also is the article, "A Creationist Looks at Paleontology."

We think you agree that we need a nature magazine. Once the publication reaches a sound financial footing, possibilities are endless for variety in form and interest. Our hopes for the future lie with you! If every subscriber for a two-year period will send another dollar, and if we can secure in the very near future several hundred new subscriptions, we can continue the publication. We want your support, your criticisms, your suggestions.

The Northwest Naturalist is published by the Biology Club of Walla Walla College, and is entirely a non-profit venture. For this reason we feel free to appeal to all of you who of the total subscription money for the year! We have only two alternatives: either we must raise the subscription price to $1 a year, or we must abandon the venture.

We wish to make succeeding numbers of the Northwest Naturalist of equal calibre to the last issue. For those of you who have not yet seen a copy, we would like to say that it contains 44 pages, with 92 illustrations. Plants and animals of the Canadian Rockies are especially featured, as seen by the members of the Walla Walla College Field Nature School. Of interest to read-love God's outdoors to aid in establishing this project. If you are a parent, a teacher, or a preacher you will find material of value to assist you in your work. And if you are a young person interested in helping the juniors, you will find material to broaden your knowledge of nature and enrich your life, as well as the lives of those who may learn from you.

We will be glad to send a copy of the last issue to new subscribers, as long as the supply lasts. May we ask that you tell your friends about this magazine? Send your subscriptions to the Northwest Naturalist, College Place, Washington State.

Not Just "Another Book"

It is "Building Better Sabbath Schools," written by Marion Lawrence. "Our Sabbath schools are not now what they should be." Realizing that God has set a high standard for the institution that He has divinely ordained to be one of the great factors in our work of saving souls, we gladly scan through the pages of a book that will broaden our vision and quicken our efforts in building up every phase of the program.

"Building Better Sabbath Schools" is a great soul-winning challenge to the men and women who are chosen to be leaders and teachers in our Sabbath schools. The book is unique in its simplicity, with plain, practical counsel which has been an outgrowth of years of personal and successful experience in helping teachers and workers do more effectively the delicate work entrusted to them by God.

The chapter, "Ten Commandments for Sabbath School Workers," opens with a challenge for real manhood and womanhood as measured by Heaven's rule. "Men are seeking better methods, but God is seeking better men." Be a man! Be a woman! This is the first commandment. Throughout the remaining nine the challenges are equally vital. They clearly show the price one must pay for success in Christian stewardship.

"The man who is to lead in Christian work must have close fellowship with the Matchless Leader," otherwise leadership is weak and faulty.

From cover to cover, challenge after challenge presents itself until vision, larger faith, a deeper personal consecration, humility, purpose, confidence, sympathy, and sincerity well up within the heart of the man or woman who reads with a purpose and who is desirous of doing more perfectly the important task entrusted to him.

"Building Better Sabbath Schools" is the book chosen for the 1947 Sabbath School Reading Course. The outline of reading appears in the Sabbath School Worker. This, with the general articles published in this periodical, constitutes the full course. Sabbath school worker, read and reread this inspiring book of the year. Price, $1.50 in cloth binding; $1 in paper.

Vienna Church Dedication

TWENTY-SIX years ago, following a tent effort conducted by Elder U. D. Pickard and Joseph Sangster, the Vienna, Virginia Seventh-day Adventist Church was organized with a membership of 18. A spacious and well-located piece of ground was purchased while the tent meetings were still in progress for the erection of a small church building. A church school was also opened at the time with an enrollment of 12 children.

The school was first conducted in the large pavilion tent and then transferred to one of the small living tents. After the cold weather began, the school was continued in the newly erected but incomplete church building. This building was soon completed under the earnest labors of Elder Pickard and his faithful helpers.

The new church building was dedicated free of debt the following year. The dedicatory sermon was preached by Elder R. E. Harter, and the prayer of dedication was offered by Elder F. H. Robbins.

The small church later proved to be altogether inadequate as the work in Vienna and its environs grew to larger dimensions. The present commodious and representative church building was then erected. The members of the church recognized the social needs of the young people and erected an excellent recreation hall which has since been used for all social gatherings of the church, and also as a place for physical recreation. This fine hall was most profitably used during the war years as a meeting place for the Medical Cadet Corps.

The Vienna Church has a present list of 110 members. It is conducting a two-room school which has an enrollment of 40, with Brother and Sister Banks in charge. This active and growing church has proven to be one of the leading churches in the greater Washington area and a strong financial pillar of the cause. Elder F. H. Robbins preached the dedicatory sermon, and the writer offered the prayer of dedication.

It was a joyous occasion to participate in this special service, the dedication of the Vienna Church free of all indebtedness.

News From the Field

Interest at Konnarock. We were happy to receive the following note of interest from Brother and Sister Mondics, our church school teachers at Konnarock:

"We have just finished giving out the 1946 subscription of the Present Truth. Most of the people enjoyed the papers. They even believe in the Sabbath. We are planning to give them Bible studies. My wife and I enjoy this part of our work very much."

New Church Lot. The Fredericksburg Church recently purchased a splendid lot for a new church building. Plans are now going forward for an intensive money-raising campaign.

Economics Department

WASHINGTON MISSIONARY COLLEGE is a liberal arts college. This fact suggests the aims of the college to be a general and liberal training in the various fields of learning with as much specialization in one or two fields as the four-year course permits. The aims of the departments of economics and business are in harmony with the general aims of the liberal arts college and also with many of the specific aims listed in the college catalogue.

A knowledge of business practices and the principles of economics is essential to a mature competence in any walk of life, and a lack of knowledge here will certainly limit the contribution to be made by the college man or woman.

The department of economics seeks to develop business competence and social responsibility and to assist the student in relating practically a sound moral code to modern political economy and business. It is the additional aim of the department to offer a type of education which is at once technical, liberal, and ethical, and basically applicable to the present problems of society, government, and business.
