C. M. E. and the Denomination

THE School of Medicine of the College of Medical Evangelists is one of seventy-one fully approved schools of medicine in the United States. Many of these schools of medicine are supported by the taxpayers of the states in which they are located. Others are supported by large endowment funds and privately controlled foundations.

Medical education is very expensive. This is due to the extensive background of scientific training that must serve as a foundation for the handling of the many perplexing forms of disease, and also to the large amount of individual and small-group teaching by which the skill of an experienced physician is passed on to the medical student. Scientific physicians are not developed by mass production methods. The process of training physicians is laborious, time-consuming, and costly.

It is a considerable undertaking for our denomination to maintain a school of medicine. As is the case with all approved schools of medicine, the income from tuition offsets only a fraction of the total cost of operation. Our tuition rates have been increased as much as is consistent with the ability of our students and their sponsors to pay. Our tuition is even high as compared with other schools of medicine. The recent percentage increase in operating costs has far exceeded the increase in our income from tuition.

We have recently expanded our student enrollment to ninety-six students in each freshman medical class. In terms of freshman enrollment, we now have the largest school of medicine in the West. In spite of the increased enrollment, however, our costs of operating are about four times as great as the amount of the tuition income. This is the basis on which an appeal is being made to our denominational constituency in the form of a C. M. E. offering day.

The School of Medicine of the College of Medical Evangelists has now been in operation for approximately forty years. During this time, more than 2,200 Adventist physicians have been trained. It is from this group that our foreign medical missionaries have been selected. It is from this group that the physicians have been chosen to staff our hospitals and sanitariums in the United States. Practically all of our full-time faculty members in the School of Medicine have come from this group of alumni. Many also are engaged in self-supporting work and are maintaining such affiliations with our church and conference organizations as to contribute by precept, influence, and funds to the fur-

Encouraging Sabbath School Facts

By J. C. HOLLAND

Sabbath School Secretary, Columbia Union Conference

THE statistical Sabbath school report for the first quarter of this year reveals some very encouraging facts. Every conference in the Union except one made a gain in Sabbath school attendance. The Allegheny, Chesapeake, and West Virginia Conferences made a gain of ten per cent, which is our minimum goal. This is one of the most important gains for which we should work. It is only those who attend Sabbath school who get the blessing.

Increased attendance should always give us an increase in offerings, and we are very glad for the fine financial showing of the Columbia Union in the amount of offerings contributed in the first quarter of this year. We have given $.309 per capita. This is the highest per capita amount of any union conference east of the Mississippi. The Pacific Union is the only union conference in the North American Division that shows a higher amount given per capita than the Columbia Union. They have $.318 per capita.

However, the real test of one's faithfulness to God is whether or not he is giving according to how God "has prospered him." In other words, we should give according to our income. Those who receive the larger amounts should give larger sums; therefore, the General Conference Sabbath School Department strongly recommends that everyone give on the percentage basis, and they recommend that three per cent of every income dollar be given to missions through the Sabbath school. On this basis, everyone will be giving proportionately.

However, many of God's devoted children who are blessed with this world's goods do not stop with only three per cent, but they give large sums from their surplus savings. This is the only way we can reach our minimum goal of thirty-five cents a member.

Let us all consider prayerfully in the light of the great opportunities and needs today just what God would have us to give. Our gifts are the measure of our love for God and lost souls for whom Jesus died.

therance of the gospel program.

There is an ever-increasing demand for the services of consecrated Christian physicians. Our alumni office now has on file more than two thousand listings of locations in various parts of the United States and the world at large where the services of Adventist physicians are requested.

Many of the youth of our denomination are looking forward to the possibility of a medical training. Just now there is a larger number of Seventh-day Adventist students making application for a medical training than can be accommodated in the School of Medicine.

This present situation is the obvious result of the increased number of college students' taking advantage of educational benefits offered to veterans. The faculty of the College of Medical Evangelists will continue to do its best to offer a Christian medical training to the largest possible number of Adventist youth.

Schools of medicine operate five and a half days a week. Other schools than that of the College of Medical Evangelists schedule regular class and laboratory assignments until noon on the Sabbath. In view of the large number of applicants to all schools of medicine, most schools do not care to be "bothered" with students who request exemption from classes on the Sabbath. Thus the School of Medicine of the College of Medical Evangelists is now the only school of medicine to which an Adventist student can look with assurance of freedom from class assignments on the Sabbath. It is therefore the more necessary that the denomination carefully sustain its own school of medicine.

Seventh-day Adventist physicians throughout the world have exerted a tremendous influence in furthering the spread of the gospel. Personal contacts made by these physicians have already resulted in a harvest of souls. The denomination needs an even stronger program of medical missionary enterprise.

The youth of our denomination deserve a continued opportunity for medical training. The denomination needs the College of Medical Evangelists, and the College of Medical Evangelists must have the hearty and liberal support of our constituency. Your generous help August 13 (C. M. E. Offering Day) will be a means of insuring the continued success of our denominational school of medicine.

A Good Camp Meeting

THE East Pennsylvania camp meeting closed at noon Sunday, July 10. The attendance at the closing service was the largest in recent history. It was with great reluctance that the hundreds of believers prepared to leave the grounds for their homes. It had been a good camp meeting. God had indeed met with His people and blessed them.

From the opening service throughout the entire period of the encampment the presence of God's Spirit was very much in evidence. Many who had attended similar meetings at Wescosville for years felt this was the best one they had ever enjoyed. This is as it should be. The attendance was unusually large. All the camp facilities were taxed to the limit. On week ends the attendance was estimated to be nearly 2,500.

The daily program provided a continuous round of spiritual refreshment. The early morning devotional services were well attended in both the pavilion and in the M. V. auditorium. The seasons of prayer and testimony in the early morning hours, the pastoral visits to tents and cottages by local workers, the special prayer hour in the early afternoon, the earnest Bible studies, sermons, and the evening evangelistic services brought spiritual help close to every heart.

The daily program provided for children's meetings for all age groups, special meetings for parents, colporteurs, Conference workers, and lay groups. A well-planned program for senior youth was carried on throughout the camping period.

Our ministerial help was unexcelled. Elder D. A. Ochs and his staff of Union workers provided wonderful inspiration. We were most fortunate to have with us Elder and Mrs. T. G. Bunch. His daily studies on "Righteousness by Faith" brought a new revelation to all.

Mrs. Bunch's talks to parents and children will long be remembered. Elder H. F. Brown, Associate Secretary of the General Conference Home Missionary Department, who recently returned from many months in Africa, made missions real to the campers.

Both Sabbaths of the camp meeting were truly "high days." On the first Sabbath Elder Bunch spoke at the morning consecration service. The response to his appeal for consecration was spontaneous.

On Sabbath afternoon the home conference hour was under the direction of the Conference President. All workers and their wives, teachers, and colporteurs participated in this special service. The effectiveness of every line of work in soul winning was demonstrated as the President called for each department to present the results of its soul-winning activities.

As the ministers and Bible instructors stood, a call was made for all to stand who had been baptized during the year. It was an impressive sight.

Then followed the roll call of each of the departments. The secretaries responded by presenting the souls who had been won through their special activities. It was a service that will never be forgotten.

At the close of this special hour Brother John Hoffman was ordained to the gospel ministry in a most solemn service. The ordination prayer was offered by Elder T. G. Bunch, the charge was given by Elder D. A. Ochs, and the writer welcomed Brother Hoffman to the ministry in behalf of the constituency and the ministry of the denomination.

There were other special services that characterized this camp meeting. On Sunday afternoon Dr. Wayne McFarland conducted a health hour. On Wednesday Elder Stewart and Robert Salau thrilled the campers with their mission stories. Elder Stanley Harris, Editor of Our Times, spent several days at the camp and his sermon on "This Atomic Age" moved the congregation mightily.

Beginning Tuesday evening, Elder G. Vandeman gave a series of evangelistic services in the evening meetings and greatly stirred the large audiences. Elder Vandeman also led in the consecration service on the last Sabbath morning. The Holy Spirit was present in a marked degree and the consecration that followed Elder Vandeman's appeal was genuine and deep. At the close of the service an appeal was made for contributions for evangelism which amounted to $3,231.

A camp-wide youth and educational rally highlighted the last Sabbath afternoon. This was under the direction of Elder Arthur Patzer and Professor Tarr, instructor in speech at Washington Missionary College. A large number of youth participated in the program. Professor W. H. Shephard, President of Washington Missionary College, was the main speaker.

Space prevents special mention of the many features and activities that added to the helpfulness of the camp meeting. Mention must be made of the services of Mrs. Leah Griffie and Betty Choy of the Washington Sanitarium who assisted Mrs. Robert Cowdrick, the camp nurse, with the health program.

Elder and Mrs. Franklin Fowler who recently joined the Conference family attended the meeting. Elder Fowler served the camp as publicity director. God marvelously blessed his work with the city newspapers and nearly 200 column inches of news appeared during the camp period.

The camp music committee provided an excellent program of music daily. The Hammond organ secured for us by Brother Alex Deutsch added much to the worship atmosphere of the services.

The new camp facilities recently provided added much to the success of the camp meeting. The new building, while not completely finished, served the camp well. The new, spacious dining room and well-planned kitchen made it possible to serve a larger number of people in a relatively short time. The new self-service store, Dorcas room, departmental room, and auditorium received the enthusiastic approval of all campers.

As usual, our people manifested a wonderful spirit of liberality. A total of $2,518.55 was given to missions, $3,231 for evangelism, $1,147.76 for camp expense, and nearly $2,000 for the new dining hall. Our book sales reached a new high. The Book and Bible House Manager reports that the book sales this year exceeded $5,400.

With the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and an earnest prayer, the 1949 camp meeting closed. God had met with us and our hearts were glad.

Washing of Feet

It was my happy privilege to join the officers of one of our churches last Sabbath in the quarterly service, which was a blessed occasion. One of our members who was entertaining out-of-town guests over the week end invited them to attend church with her. They were very fine appearing, middle-aged people, a husband and his wife.

In the sermon I explained the reason for engaging in the feet-washing ordinance, so these visitors might understand the service, which was new to them. It was brought out that when we are converted we are completely immersed in water by baptism, and are new creatures in Christ. But we are weak, and sometimes through ignorance we step outside the Christian pathway, and our feet become soiled with sin. We did not repudiate Christ and lose our love for the Master, but we did something wrong. We walked on forbidden ground, and we need cleansing. We confess the wrong, and hasten back to our Shepherd. We do not need complete baptism, for we have not completely strayed. But the dust of sin needs to be washed from our straying feet. Under such conditions Jesus said: "He that is washed needeth not save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit." John 13:10.

Jesus said, "If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with Me." John 13:8. It is a most serious thing not to engage in this cleansing service. The disciples had already been baptized. Christ taught baptism as the door to His church, and He set the example. But there must be a cleansing from sins committed after baptism. If the symbol of cleansing from sin at conversion is baptism ("Arise, and be baptized and wash away thy sins," Acts 22:16) for "sins that are past," how reasonable that Christ should give us the ordinance of feet-washing as the symbol of His washing away our sins committed after baptism.

The feet-washing service presents to us a miniature service of the ancient Day of Atonement, when every soul was to come up to the sanctuary, and examine himself and confess his sins. If he refused to do this, he was cut off from God's people.

At the feet-washing service, in the Christian dispensation, every believer is to present himself before the Lord in a self-examination and confession of sin. "Let a man examine himself (before partaking of the bread and wine), for he that eateth and drinketh unworthily (without confessing his sins, after heart-searching), eateth and drinketh damnation to himself. . . . For this cause (because some have not examined themselves and made wrongs right), many are weak and sickly, and many sleep." 1 Corinthians 11:28-30.

The feet-washing service is more than an ordinance of humility; it is a symbol of the cleansing from sin, cleansing which is found in Christ. "If ye know these things happy are ye if ye do them." John 13:17.

When the brethren separated to go to their room for this service, this man who was visiting came with us. He told me that he had never heard of anyone's following this practice, although he remembered reading of it in the Bible. I invited him to join us in the service, but he graciously declined. Just as we were finishing he said he believed he would like to join in the feet washing, and the local elder served him. He then stood and embraced our brother, while the tears ran down his cheeks. He had caught the spirit of the service.

Later the lady whom he and his wife were visiting told me that about all this man could talk about during the next two days was how different the Adventists are from what he had supposed. He had thought we were cold legalists, but was delighted to find such a manifestation of the Holy Spirit among us.

Their daughter is an Adventist and has been praying a long time for her parents to see this truth. In what unusual ways God answers prayer!

Jesus said: "If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me." John 13:8. We all need the cleansing which Christ can and does impart when we obey His instruction and observe this ordinance properly. He says: "I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you." John 13:15.

We pray: "Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors." We are forgiven AS we forgive. If we want our sins washed away, if we want cleansing ourselves, how necessary it is that AS or BEFORE we engage in feet washing we make sure that everything is made right between us and others! Otherwise, if we eat from the Lord's table in the communion service, we eat and drink "damnation" to our souls. The result is that "many are weak and sickly among you and many sleep."

Why is it that some treat the quarterly communion service with such indifference, when Christ Himself instituted it and commanded us to observe it, and when such great consequences are involved? Is this the reason why there is so much sickness among us, and why many die who might have lived to see Christ come? Let us meditate upon the importance of regularly attending the quarterly service, and of faithfully carrying out Christ's instructions concerning its proper observance. Read "Desire of Ages," pages 646-651, concerning the ordinance of feet washing, and what it means to us.

Camp Meeting Report

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS of the Allegheny Conference camped along the banks of the Manatawny in their largest annual services.

The ten-day session drew members from the states of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Ohio, together with large delegations from the Northeastern, South Atlantic, and Lake Region Conferences, sister conferences all staffed by colored personnel.

The kindergarten and primary children were attracted to their own tent, beautifully decorated and managed by Mrs. Jesse R. Wagner. The youth conducted their services under a new yellow-top tent, stressing evangelism and "share your faith." A. V. Pinkney, young people's leader, assisted by E. I. Watson and a corps of young ministers, brought the youth to the forefront in program after program that demonstrated what youth can do. Adults enjoyed and responded to their services in the big tent, made inviting by the decorating committee of which Mrs. Geneve McDonald of the Ephesus Church in Washington, D. C., was chairman.

Local press interest in the releases reached such a peak that Mr. Shandy Hill, manager of the Pottstown Mercury and News, ac-accompanied by Frank Dostal, feature writer, and George Orlando, photographer, visited the camp grounds and spoke to the audience in the big tent.

Highlighting the extent of mission work among Adventists was Pastor Robert Salau, a native of the South Sea Islands. Pastor Salau told a tense audience how Solomon Islanders in his group had dared Japanese torture to rescue hundreds of American airmen shot out of the sky.

Salau, the son of a cannibal and headhunter, was educated in Adventist schools, embraced Adventism, and has been carrying the good news of salvation to his own people.

Elder Henry F. Brown, having just completed a 28,000-mile trip to Africa, visiting the Congo, Basutoland, Nyasaland, Bechuanaland, and the Union of South Africa, emphasized the need of medical work, pointing out that leprosy, elephantiasis, and various skin diseases are plaguing the people. Elder Brown, who is an Associate Home Missionary Secretary of the General Conference, also said that the Africans' diet consists mainly of starches (ground corn meal and cassava root). He said we are baptizing 10,000 a year from Africa into the Adventist faith.

Miss Anna Knight, returned missionary from India, reported the advance of the work in that field. Missionary Knight said that after years of persistent effort and prayer the cause is meeting with success; even Hindus are being converted. "India," she said, "is a great challenge to Christianity, but God is opening the way and His light is shining into the dark corners, dispelling 'isms.'" The speaker urged continued and renewed missions giving.

Participating in the program during the session were the following ministers: Elder G. E. Vandeman of the Ministerial Association of the General Conference; Elder D. A. Ochs, Union Conference President; Elder G. E. Peters, Secretary, North American Colored Department, General Conference; Elder L. H. Bland, President, Northeastern Conference; Elder O. S. Hershberger, Union Conference M. V. Secretary; Elder Harry Singleton, President, South Atlantic Conference; Elder Fitzgerald Jenkins, South Atlantic Conference; Elder John S. Greene, Northeastern Conference; Elder J. G. Dasent, former President, Lake Region Conference; Elder H. F. Brown, Associate Secretary, Home Missionary Department of the General Conference; Dr. J. M. Howell, Educational Secretary of the Columbia Union Conference; Elder T. M. Rowe, Dayton, Ohio; Elder J. H. Laurence, Cleveland, Ohio; Elder R. T. Hudson, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Elder R. L. College Press Addition Nears Completion

THE new Washington Missionary College Press addition will be completed some time in early fall, reports L. G. Small, College engineer, and construction foreman of the addition.

Work has been temporarily halted, Mr. Small said, awaiting the arrival of the steel for the roof. The shipment is expected to arrive during the week of August 1. Work on the partitions is going ahead, he said, but the main work will be the placing of the roof.

The new addition will be a valuable aid to the College Press, reports Jewell Peeke, Manager. The pressroom enlargement will make room for a new press; and a gang stitcher, now being used in the basement, will be moved up to the enlarged bindery room. Two new offices will be available to the office workers. DON ROTH

News From Field

Baptism. On Sabbath, June 18, Elder P. G. Crestakos, pastor of the Danville and Martinsville Churches, baptized four persons. These new people are now members of the Martinsville, Va., Church.

New Churches. We are happy to report that construction has begun on the Petersburg and Richlands, Va., Church buildings. Plans are also under way for new church homes in Arlington and Radford.

A beautiful church edifice was recently purchased in Marion, Va. The church was formerly owned by the Lutherans. Our work in Marion is new and not too well known, and we feel that God has led in the purchase of this little church for our newly organized church there. It is of brick construction, excellently located, and fully equipped with pews, etc., and will make a strong base for evangelistic endeavor in that important section of the field.

Tent Efforts. Elder E. F. Koch is conducting a tent effort in South Richmond. The tent was crowded Sunday night, July 17, at the first service, and the offering was $38. Associated with Elder Koch are the following workers: Brethren R. E. Harris, J. L. Hamrick, Russell Miller, and C. B. Mosher; also Mary Etta Myers.

It is our prayer that as a result of this effort, a new church will be organized in the capital city of the "Old Dominion State."

Another tent effort is being conducted in Big Stone Gap, Va., by Elder W. H. Barringham, pastor of the Appalachia Church and the Horton's Summit company. Brethren N. L. Meager and Payne are associated with Elder Barringham.

Elder J. C. Dean, pastor of the Hillside and Vienna Churches, will hold a tent effort in Loudon County, Va., this summer. Plans for this effort have not yet been completed.

Let us remember these efforts in our daily devotions that as a result of the faithful labors of these earnest workers there will be a rich harvest of souls for God's kingdom.

Change in Personnel. Elder H. T. French, pastor of the Newport News Church, was recently transferred to the Winchester-Ri-leyville district. Elder W. T. Smith, associate pastor of the Capital Memorial Church, Washington, D. C., will take over his duties as pastor of the Newport News Church, beginning September 1.

Elder C. M. Gruesbeck, pastor of the Winchester and Rileyville Churches, is now located in Fredericksburg, Va. Elder Gruesbeck's district comprises the churches in Fredericksburg and Kilmarnock and the new company at Montross.

Elder J. C. Dean, pastor of the Hillside, Vienna, and Kilmarnock Churches, has been released from the pastorate at Kilmarnock so that he can develop the work in Loudon County, Va.

Medical Group Foundation Meeting. Elder H. J. Detwiler and Brother W. H. Jones attended a week-end meeting of the Medical Group Foundation which was held at Wytheville, Va., July 15-17.

Welcome. We extend a cordial welcome to Elder and Mrs. J. G. Conmack who have recently come to labor in this field. Brother Conmack will follow up the interests created through the Twentieth Century Bible Correspondence Course. Many of these interests are in dark counties, and it is our prayer that the work may be greatly strengthened as a result of Brother Conmack's contacts.

The newest member of our Conference family is the baby daughter of Brother and Sister Russell Miller of Richmond, Va.
