Brooks, Cleveland, Ohio.

Reports given by the staff of the Conference indicated the Lord's blessing in the past biennial period.

By L. E. Lenheim

President, Columbia Union Conference

New churches were organized, one new church was dedicated, and the membership increased as a result of an intensive evangelistic crusade.

Biennial statements by the departmental secretaries indicated that there was progress along every line of denominational endeavor.

The proceedings of the Conference took place during a rainy day on the campground. Despite the weather, the spirit of the ministerial staff and laymen was good and the Lord blessed in the activities of the day.

May God richly bless the Allegheny Conference as it faces another biennial period.

"According to All That I Shew Thee"

THE building of the sanctuary to be the dwelling place of God on earth was a very sacred task. The plan for this structure was not left to man, but detailed instruction was given by God Himself concerning it. God is particular regarding things that have to do with His work. When God asks His people to do a sacred task He wants them to carry the work out according to His divine pattern.

Our Sabbath school work was heaven-born. It is vital to the church. God Himself, through His chosen messenger, declares it to be "one of the greatest instrumentalities, and the most effectual, in bringing souls to Christ" (Counsels on Sabbath School Work, p. 10). We must be sure that we clearly understand God's requirements, and we must be diligent in following the blueprint. What a tragedy it would be if we were to fail to follow the instruction God has clearly given us relative to this divine institution of the church.

In a few places there is a new and strange innovation creeping into our Sabbath schools that is definitely not according to the pattern. Some schools, because of crowded conditions, have tried plans of their own human devisings and introduced a one-class system for the adult division of our Sabbath schools. This is foreign to God's plan and is not in the blueprint. How thankful we should be that in our Sabbath school work there has been given to us a very clear and detailed outline of procedure.

In all the counsel given to us in the Spirit of prophecy the multiple-class plan is taken for granted. References to teachers and classes appear on page after page of Mrs. White's book, Counsels on Sabbath School Work. We copy only a few sample statements:

"Teachers and pupils should awake to the importance of manifesting industry and perseverance in the study of God's Word."—Counsels on Sabbath School Work, p. 94.

"Every teacher, before he stands at the head of his class, should have his plans distinctly laid."—Ibid., p. 118 (italics supplied).

"Teachers, meet with your classes. Pray with them."—Ibid., p. 125.

"Every teacher in the Sabbath

By G. R. Nash

Secretary, Sabbath School Department,
General Conference

school should be a follower of Christ."—Ibid., p. 93.

"Those whose duty it is to select teachers should be guarded, and not urge those into the school who are not fitted to exert a good influence."—Ibid., p. 92.

"When Sabbath school teachers have taught the lessons . . . their work is but just begun."—Ibid., p. 37.

"In all true teaching the personal element is essential. Christ in His teaching dealt with men individually. It was by personal contact and association that He trained the 12. It was in private, often to but one listener, that He gave His most precious instruction. . . . The same personal interest, the same attention to individual development, are needed in educational work today."—Ibid., pp. 73, 74.

Someone has written as follows: "Perhaps there are not many people like me in this. I simply cannot stand the terrible jangle of sounds that results when they try to hold classes in the main auditorium."

I would answer that the pattern for our Sabbath school work is of divine origin, and we are only safe as we carefully follow it. Perhaps our large churches should divide and start new churches in order to control the congested condition. Perhaps new facilities should be added. Wherever there is a will, there will be a way to carry out God's plan.

A teacher in a small class can know each individual as a friend. He is down on his level, living in his world, conscious of his problems, alive to his needs, rejoicing in his victories. In a small class the teacher himself also gains from these personal contacts. He may not be the best student or the best qualified person to teach. If he has people in the class who have more ability, education, knowledge, and experience, his personal association with them will be mutually helpful.

People today are in need of the personal touch. None of us is so iron-clad that he can ignore his need of human sympathy and personal contacts. We deceive ourselves when we think we are so tough we can get along without notice and commendation and help of others. A Sabbath school class puts us in a little world of a dozen or so people, each of whom can know and understand and help the others.

One of the best arguments in favor of the small class is the INDIVIDUAL TOUCH. . . . Any system which allows the individual to be lost is failing in the great objective of the personal touch. The great secret of a contagious, inspiring, personal touch belonged in a marked degree to Jesus.

At the time of the Presidents' Council, held October 29-November 2, 1959, a voice was sounded in clear and unmistakable tones. It made me think of the statement found in Testimonies for the Church, Volume 5, page 709:

"God wills that a voice shall be heard arousing His people to action."

Officially, the leadership of this movement have sounded a clarion call. It is a call to those few churches who have departed from the pattern as given to us by God, through His chosen messenger.

In summarizing a rather lengthy discussion by the local and union conference presidents and certain officers of the General Conference, Elder R. R. Fighur, President of the General Conference, made the following statement:

"I think one reason people stay away from Sabbath school is that in some places we don't have classes. There are worse things than a little noise in a Sabbath school. One lady who visited one of our Sabbath schools and heard all the teachers expressed it as 'the voice of many waters' and she thought it was wonderful to see and hear all these people joined in the study of the Bible.

"We are all interested in the Sabbath school and we should all be there on Sabbath morning. One of the first things we can do here is to take an action or a vote of some

"Your lessons took longer in arriving than usual and I missed them. I realize I am looking forward to each set and find great happiness in studying them. I am most grateful that this is happening to me. I thank you all, good people, for making these lessons available to us."—New Jersey.

"I am thankful for the lesson you have been sending me. It really has helped me to understand to read the Bible."—Pennsylvania.

kind, expressing our confidence in and appreciation of the Sabbath school, pledging ourselves to a renewed support of the Sabbath school, and take this action or vote back to our Sabbath School Department. I would like to move, Brother Chairman, that as a body of administrators we give our loyal support to the Sabbath school as the 'church at study' and as an effective evangelizing agency, and that we encourage our workers to set a good example to our church members by attending the Sabbath school regularly and faithfully; and, further, that we adhere to the established practice of class group lesson study rather than the entire Sabbath school's comprising one large class."

The above motion was unanimously voted.

In harmony with the above counsel, we appeal to our Sabbath school leadership around the world to carefully follow God's blueprint with respect to the small-class plan. May we all find pleasure in following plans according to the pattern given this people.

Textbooks for Schools

By Ethel A. Johnson

Supervisor of Elementary Education, Columbia Union Conference

BUYING textbooks for church schools is one of the problems confronting the parents and the schools. Sometimes when a change is made in textbooks or new textbooks are added it is difficult to see why it was done. We thought that those confronted with the buying of textbooks would like to know about the selection of these books.

The first consideration in school should be what do our children need for a well-rounded education? Since we as parents and as a church have undertaken to educate our own boys and girls, this is of vital importance. In which of these areas do you think the boys and girls should receive instruction: Bible, reading, spelling, language, or English, arithmetic, handwriting, geography, history, health, science, music, art, physical education, practical arts, or vocation? All boys and girls do not need all these subjects every year, but in the lower grades where some of the subjects are not taught the boys and girls need books and many times, as in science, other equipment.

Through the past few years school books and equipment have steadily gone up in price along with other things. A few years ago it was unheard of for a child's textbook to cost as much as $2.50. Today few can be obtained at that price. In some subjects they are nearing the four-to-six-dollar level.

In the Columbia Union Conference there is a textbook committee composed of representative teachers and principals, the superintendents, the supervisors, and the Secretary of the Department of Education. Others not on the committee are consulted. The textbooks are given close scrutiny and the first questions a book must meet are: "Is it necessary?" "Is it necessary now?" "Is it the best one for our purposes?" No adoption is made without the approval of the committee.

The committee tries to recommend as few changes as possible and tries to make the change gradual over a period of two or three years so schools can get a little further use from old books.

We would all say that it is quite important for boys and girls to study science and health. For six or seven years we have been telling the teachers to use the science and health books the schools had and not buy new ones. In the meantime new schools did not get science and health books because we wanted to use up the old ones and also wait for what we hoped would be good books that would serve our schools for a long time. The committee feels it has found such books this year so science and health books are on the textbook list. A note in the textbook list tells how you can secure these gradually.

Sometimes a new requirement makes a change necessary. This has become true in geography. World geography is coming to be more and more of a requirement in some places in grades seven to nine. We have been able to meet this requirement by changing the teaching of old world geography to grades five and six and teaching world geography in grades seven and eight. This means an unavoidable change of texts and an expensive one. We were able to find a good world geography book, however. It is being brought up to date and will come off the press in September. That means we can use it for several years. Our present series was adopted more than nine years ago. The company has revised it somewhat in the interim, but it is not a world geography.

For four or five years we have been using workbooks in English in grades three to six as we were unable to find a textbook we could use in those grades. This has not been too satisfactory. This year suitable textbooks are available so we are recommending their adoption. The first outlay will be a little higher than purchasing workbooks, but each book can be used several years.

Sometimes companies revise their books and the old ones are no longer available. That happened this year with the spelling and writing workbooks, but since they are workbooks it makes little difference financially. However, we are glad to announce that the handwriting books are no longer copy books in which the children write. The books can be used several times. We are recommending that children in grades five and six use the sixth-grade book. This means the fifth graders can use the book two years. In grades seven and eight both grades will use the seventh-grade book. In fact, in our smaller schools we would not object if the third and fourth grades used the third-grade book and everybody from grade five and above used the sixth-grade book. The instructions and exercises are so similar that the children can use the same book—just improve the quality of their writing.

The boys and girls in the first grade will have two workbooks called My Something-to-Do Books which will give them a stronger program in phonics, reading, writing, and spelling.

The names of these books and workbooks are on the textbook list with the exception of the world geography for grades seven and eight. That textbook will be the 1960 edition of Our World and Its People from Allyn and Bacon Company.

We now have an excellent textbook list. Changes, if any are made, in the near future will be minor as far as we can foresee the needs.

Evangelism Plans for West Pennsylvania

SEVERAL baptisms in recent weeks have demonstrated again the fruitfulness of evangelism. Many public meetings have been held this spring and now souls are being added to the churches. McKeesport, Washington, Sharon, Clearfield, Lewistown, and Pittsburgh are some of the districts where baptisms have been conducted recently.

Your support of this work by filling the dime banks will be of great help. By sacrificing a few summer wants, each member will be able to fill at least one bank. These will be brought in the first Sabbath of camp meeting at a large evangelistic rally. We invite each of you to plan a liberal gift on that occasion.

Sharon Church School Dedication

ON Sabbath, May 28, the Sharon Seventh-day Adventist Elementary School was dedicated about four years after ground was broken.

Elder E. A. Robertson, Educational Secretary of the Columbia Union Conference, was the guest speaker for the occasion. The dedication ceremony was conducted by Elder Dale

M. Ingersoll, Educational Secretary of the West Pennsylvania Conference. Other guests who had part in the program were Elder F. W. Wernick, President of the West Pennsylvania Conference, and William Bulford, former teacher of the school. The history of the development of the school was read by Edith Bale, Church Clerk. Mrs. Emma Hershelmann, Church Treasurer, climaxed her financial report with the burning of the paid note of indebtedness.

The school was begun under Elder R. E. Knox, former pastor, and carried to completion under the present pastor, Elder W. H. Carey. It is ideally located about two miles from the church on a seven-acre wooded plot with a brook running through the center of the property. The value of the building and equipment is $12,000.

For the past two years, William Horvath has successfully taught an average enrollment of 13 pupils.

We desire to express our gratitude to our heavenly Father, to a generous Conference, to our friends and fellow believers who have sacrificed in their giving to make possible this school which is now free of debt. We pledge ourselves anew to the making of the Sharon Seventh-day Adventist Elementary School a monument to God in this community.

Fiftieth Annual Camp Meeting Closes

JULY 9 marked the end of East Pennsylvania's 50th annual camp meeting at Emmanuel Grove, West-coesville, Pa.

More than 3,000 persons attended the week-end services and filled the existing meeting facilities. The largest crowds in Conference history overflowed the main pavilion, youth tent, junior pavilion, and primary-kindergarten tent.

The 10-day spiritual feast began Thursday night, June 30, and was well attended by members from all parts of Pennsylvania.

The first camp meeting at Emmanuel Grove was held June 22, 1910. President E. M. Heckman directed the meetings that were held in the then rented camp owned by the Methodists. Later the East Pennsylvania Conference purchased the seven-acre site and developed it into a meeting place to accommodate over 3,000. The camp now includes a large pavilion, junior pavilion, Book and Bible House, administration building with a cafeteria, guest rooms, store, Dorcas room, primary room, departmental display, 110 cottages, and 125 family tents.

Many of the cottages have now become antiquated and are destined for destruction in the near future. Plans are underway to replace them as fast as possible. Many of the cottages are over 70 years old.

High lights of the services this year were visits by the Voice of Prophecy radio group and the Faith for Today telecast group. Others participating in the services included Elder F. A. Mote, Field Secretary of the General Conference, Elder J. E. Edwards, Home Missionary Secretary of the General Conference; and Elder G. R. Nash, Sabbath School Secretary of the General Conference; Elder Jack Sager, Japan Union

COLUMBIA UNION VISITOR

E. F. Koch Meetings to Start August 14

Instead of August 7 as previously announced in the "Visitor," the E. F. Koch evangelistic meetings at Chambersburg, Pa., will begin Sunday night, August 14. Complete details will appear next week in the "Visitor."

Mission; Elder L. E. Lenheim, President of the Columbia Union Conference; Elder T. R. Gardner, Elders B. M. Wickwire, E. M. Peterson, D. A. Roth, H. K. Halladay, and Neal Wilson of the Columbia Union Conference; and Dr. W. H. Beaven of Washington Missionary College. Elder Arthur Kiesz, President of the East Pennsylvania Conference, directed the convention.

Services were held daily in all divisions. The meetings were well publicized in the newspapers and two 30-minute radio interviews featured F. A. Mote and Jack Sager. Daily news releases were handled by the Associated and United Press of Philadelphia. News coverage was under the direction of Elder D. A. Roth and Elder J. N. Morgan.

The curtain closes on 50 years of spiritual services and one cannot help but think of the many years that have slipped by and still the work is not complete in East Pennsylvania. We request every member of the East Pennsylvania Conference to renew his allegiance to God and activate his every energy to the proclamation of the gospel.

New Jersey

Report of New Jersey Camp Meeting

One of the finest camp-meeting seasons in our history has just closed in New Jersey. The camp season for our children and youth is now fully underway. Following these youth camps there will be a Conference-wide series of Vacation Bible Schools. Indeed this is a wonderful summer program for our churches.

The camp meetings, both the general camp and the Spanish camp, enjoyed record attendance. The attendance at the services, the deep interest in the daily scheduled meetings, indicated a truly sincere desire of our people to reach new heights and attainment in the things of God. The exemplary conduct of our young people, the bulging attendance at all meetings, the hearty participation in daily camp recreational programs, all attest to the wonderful spirit manifested in our camps this year.

The consensus is that our first Spanish camp meeting in the New Jersey Conference and the Columbia Union Conference was a most successful venture. Fully 50 per cent of our Spanish membership attended camp meeting during the week and an overflow attendance marked the closing week end.

The spirit of sacrifice for our work was evident from time to time. Our mission gifts exceeded $1,500. The most outstanding giving by our people was experienced during the appeal for evangelism. More than $8,000 was given and pledged for evangelism through the "League of the 1,000" plan. When all our people in the churches have responded we are confident that we shall go well beyond our goal of $10,000. But more important than the financial support is the dedication of our goal of 1,000 laymen who will pray daily, give out one Bible Correspondence Course enrollment or piece of literature daily, etc., and thus imbued with the spirit of Gideon the message of salvation will surely win its way through.

The Garden State Academy development program took another encouraging step forward with the renewal of pledges, cash, and additional pledges to add to the increasing number of patrons supporting this great venture of faith in the Conference. These pledges, along with the regular "dollar-day G. S. A." offering to be received on the third Sabbath of each month, make each passing day that much nearer to fulfilling our dream of a new academy.

We are deeply indebted to the dedicated leadership in our children's and youth's divisions for their part in directing our most successful youth program. The inclusion of an "early-teen" group meeting in their own tent under the leadership of Elder Gordon Rhodes led to a most successful youth innovation.

The juniors, under the leadership of Elder Rasmussen, experienced an unprecedented achievement in seeing a junior 6:30 A.M. meeting grow daily until it matched the senior meeting in attendance. The senior youth, led by Elder D. K. Smith and Prof. Loren Poole, saw most active senior youth interest in each meeting. Mrs. Appel led the Cradle Roll and Mrs. Kerr and Mrs. Slack were in charge of the Kindergarten and Primary Divisions. Surely the sacrificial services of these workers devoted to our children and youth will find their full reward in the lives of our children and in the new earth.

Now that camp meeting is over, we pray that God will assist us all in the direction of the work for the opening of our schools in September and a greatly accelerated evangelistic program in the remaining months of 1960.

Punctuality Record Set by Church School Students

NEITHER absent nor tardy during the entire 1959-60 school year is the record set by 33 students in the church schools of the Ohio Conference.

These students are to be highly commended for this accomplishment. Promptness and punctuality are one of the first requirements leading to success in any endeavor. I am sure that if the scholarship records of each of the 33 were examined we would find that they had also secured good grades. There is a correlation between achievement and effort.

Parents have also helped to make this record. Their encouragement and high ideals have been a constant aid to their children in the record that has been set. Every day in school counts in the sum total of acquiring skills, knowledge, and procedures that make for success in our complicated world. Neither cold, snow, bad roads, inclement weather, personal feeling, nor any other hindrance has deterred these pupils from meeting their daily church school appointments on time. Roanoke Church Dedicated Free of Debt

ON June 11 the Macedonia Seventh-day Adventist Church in Roanoke, Va., was dedicated free of debt. The ceremony followed a week of services attended by various Protestant churches of the community.

The dedication sermon was delivered by Elder L. E. Lenheim, President of the Columbia Union Conference. Elder W. L. Cheatham, President of the Allegheny Conference conducted the mortgage-burning ceremony and cornerstone laying.

The dedication brought to a close an interesting phase of the history of the Roanoke congregation. The congregation was organized in 1951 by Elder R. T. Hudson, present Pastor of the Ephesus Seventh-day Adventist Church in New York City, at that time the Allegheny Conference Evangelist. Elder Hudson, assisted by Elder J. J. Johnson, Elder D. L. Davis, Ethel Nell, and Pauline Rainey Howard, conducted a tent effort that resulted in 37 baptisms.

Elder J. J. Johnson was pastor of the congregation for four years, during which time a lot was purchased and a building was erected. Ethel Nell organized the small membership into a working band to raise funds for the church building. The church as it stands today represents an investment of more than $40,000. The second pastor of the congregation was Elder W. L. DeShay, presently doing pastoral work in Akron, Ohio. The third and present pastor of the congregation is Elder J. A. Washington.

Roanoke Church, Roanoke, Va., recently dedicated free of debt. Elder James E. Washington is the pastor.

An evangelistic effort held in the city by Evangelist G. H. Rainey during the summer of 1959 resulted in 114 new members' being added to the church. The present membership is 132.

Thus in less than 10 years a church was born, built, and dedicated free of debt. "This seems no less than a modern-day miracle," stated Ella Miller, currently serving as Bible Instructor of the congregation.

New Law Program Offered By W.M.C., Washington College of Law

A COMBINED degree program in law with Washington Missionary College and the Washington College of Law, Washington, D. C., has been initiated, according to Dr. Winton H. Beaven, W.M.C. Academic Dean. The announcement two weeks ago follows several months of planning by officials of both schools.

Dr. W. H. Beaven

Under the law program, according to Dr. Beaven, students will complete a minimum of 96 hours of academic work required toward completion of the bachelor's degree, the last 30 hours of which must be taken at W.M.C. In addition, law candidates must meet regular admission requirements established by the Washington College of Law.

Following the necessary undergraduate work, the first year of full-time studies in law may complete the student's bachelor's degree requirements at W.M.C. By virtue of this combined program, Dr. Beaven said, the student may then receive a liberal arts degree from W.M.C. provided he has met the stated requirements and has maintained a satisfactory average in law studies.

Totally, six academic years of full-time study are necessary to complete the bachelor's and law requirements.

The Washington College of Law is affiliated with American University, Washington. The law college was established prior to the founding of American University, a Methodist institution, Dr. Beaven said, and the school of law enjoys an esteemed reputation among schools of its kind in the nation.

At a time when a need for conscientious students of law is eminent, believe college administrators, the affiliation program, an idea fostered by Dr. Beaven, will provide Adventist men and women both a highly workable curriculum, which negates Sabbath classes, and a gainful profession.

The first students to begin the plan will register in September. The Dean's office can provide further information.

New Officers Elected for State Dorcas Federation

DORCAS welfare received new recognition at the West Virginia camp meeting in June. For the first time a full slate of state officers was elected. Mrs. Margaret Ancion of Charleston was elected president; Mrs. E. R. Cowling of Bluefield, vice-president; Mrs. Delphia Tedrow of Parkersburg, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Hazel Green of Cumberland, Md., assistant secretary-treasurer. This Dorcas meeting marked the first general session of the state federation. No previous meeting of the State Dorcas Federation has ever been held.

Previous officers were elected two years ago in a special election by officers of the three federations. Mrs. Evelyn Postlewaite of Clarksburg was elected president and Mrs. E. R. Cowling of Bluefield, vice-president. Mrs. Postlewaite's leadership and counsel have been utilized in giving counsel at central federation meetings. She has given excellent leadership and much progress has been made in Dorcas welfare activity under her direction. Her successor and good friend, Mrs. Margaret Ancion, was inspired by Mrs. Postlewaite to keep the flame of Dorcas activity burning in Charleston. Mrs. Postlewaite's contribution to Dorcas activity has been to get things rolling and it has taken a lot of aggressive "push." The present officers will undoubtedly continue to look to her for counsel as the Dorcas work moves forward.

Mrs. Ancion has done a fine work in Charleston, Huntington, and in the Parkersburg area as president of the West Central Federation. Her interest in welfare activity was kindled in a federation meeting in Parkersburg by Mrs. Postlewaite and Maybelle Vandermark. We can count on Mrs. Ancion to re-ignite the Dorcas flame in many other churches in West Virginia as she takes up her duties as president of the state organization.

Give Dorcas welfare work your support through active service.
