The camera lens shows only a portion of the crowd attending church services during the camporee. The hillside was covered with enthusiastic boys and girls and their unit leaders.

A STATE-WIDE camporee officially initiated Ohio's new youth camp on the weekend of August 18-20. Smaller local Pathfinder units have camped at the site, but this was the first full-scale use of the camp.

Cars and buses loaded with enthusiastic children and camping equipment came streaming in early Friday afternoon, August 18. Quickly an orderly camp began to take shape.

As unit tents were pitched, many were identified by their own flags. The United States flag was much in evidence, too. Stones were gathered and fireplaces were made to cook the evening meal.

One hundred seventy-three youth and leaders were present to spend the first night of the three-day camporee. On Sabbath morning others came in from surrounding areas, swelling the group to more than 200 persons for Sabbath services.

There was something different about this camp. Suddenly everyone began to realize: "This is our camp. We are not in rented quarters. This is not borrowed equipment. This is ours and we belong here." With this realization a contented hum of voices was heard about the campground as Pathfinders began to talk about "OUR" camp.

The Ohio Conference has long needed such a place for its youth. Many hours of searching and many more miles of driving were spent before the present campsite was located. Beautifully situated on 429 acres along the Mohican River and just north and west of Brinkhaven, Ohio, the camp is rapidly taking shape.

During the weekend activities the youth were able to visit three of six springs on the property and initiated new trails that have been carefully planned by Elder Warren Wittenberg, George McConnell of the U. S. Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service, and Dr. Clinton Trott of Mount Vernon.

A large area protected by tall walnut trees and near one of the largest springs had been cleared for the camporee. Another beautiful spot had been chosen for church services. Here, not far from the same large spring, a huge rock formed a natural pulpit. A hill faced the pulpit, and this proved to be an excellent amphitheater with acoustics like a cathedral. The beauty spots at the camp are too numerous to mention. When the planned Olympic-size swimming pool is completed and the main lodge building with its kitchen and dining room facilities is constructed, the Ohio Conference will indeed have a first-class youth camp.

Elder Wittenberg informed the campers that the pool will be "L" shaped, 35 feet wide and 75 feet on the long sides of the "L." The main lodge will be built in the form of a "T." A dining room and indoor recreational area with a large porch across the front of the building will form the cross of the "T." Kitchen facilities will form the leg of the "T."

"It is hoped," Elder Wittenberg continued, "that buildings can soon be erected so this will be a place for year-round activities. Several local church groups have asked if they may build a camp cabin on the property. The answer is 'yes.' However, all cabins will be constructed according to specifications provided by the Ohio Conference. These plans are available now. Cabins built on the camp site will become the property of the Conference, but may be used by local churches any time a general camp is not in session."

Although the camp is rapidly taking shape there is much still to be done. Roads must be built or improved. Trails must be properly cleared. Camping areas must be developed, springs must be cleaned and much other work must be accomplished before the camp can be termed a well-developed one. There are all the natural resources needed. Now we need willing hands and money to develop those resources.

How was this wonderful place found, with its one and a half miles of waterfront along the Mohican River, with its many springs, its towering trees, beautiful wild flowers, and ferns? A patient of a Seventh-day Adventist doctor in Mount Vernon mentioned knowing of a large tract of land along the Mohican River that a friend wanted to sell because of her husband's death.

A group was quickly formed among Adventist doctors and others in the Mount Vernon area, and the land was purchased. This group then offered the land to the Conference for a youth camp site. After a survey of the land, Conference officials decided to accept the offer. The group sold the property to the Conference for exactly what they had paid for it. The price was only $13,-500 for the original plot of 269 acres. More land has recently been purchased, bringing the total acreage up to 429 and the total cost to $19,600.

A proposed schedule of development, revealed at the camporee, is as follows: (1) water system (in process); (2) swimming pool (under construction); (3) main lodge building and sanitary buildings; (4) director's cabin; (5) medical cabin; (6) campers' cabins; (7) nature building; and (8) craft building.

Climax of the camporee came Sunday afternoon when every Pathfinder had a motorboat ride and a

Health-Medical Evangelism Seminars Scheduled

IF you are interested in the vital role of health-medical evangelism in the final and dramatic proclamation of the gospel, you will be happy to learn that several three-day seminars will be held for medical - ministerial - educational workers in five conferences of the Columbia Union Conference during the month of October.

Splendid cooperation by the Conference Presidents and their committees promises to make this an outstanding series.

Dates for these seminars are:

Potomac and Chesapeake at Takoma Park—October 2-5

East Pennsylvania—October 9-11

- New Jersey at Trenton-October 17-19
- Ohio at Mount Vernon—October 31-November 2

Those participating in these meetings include: Elder V. G. Anderson, General Conference Vice-President; Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Vollmer, beloved and veteran health educators; Elder Carl Sundin, Associate Secretary, General Conference Medical Department; Elder E. J. Folkenberg, Ministerial Association Secretary, Atlantic Union Conference.

In view of national disasters, the threat of nuclear war, and recurring international crises, the importance of these seminars cannot be overemphasized. The messenger of the Lord tells us that the health-medical approach will be one of the most successful patterns for public and community evangelism, as well as for reviving the spirituality of the church.

Developing Good Relations With Local Radio Station

It may be that we neglect our local radio stations. They have an audience. They like to have local news. They are approachable.

At Somerset, W. Pa., we had a good radio contact. Edith Domanyi, press secretary of the local church, was personally acquainted with Robert French, the program director of WVSC.

We contacted Mr. French and told him about some of the personalities coming to our camp meeting. We suggested interviews. The management liked the idea and scheduled one, with the possibility of others.

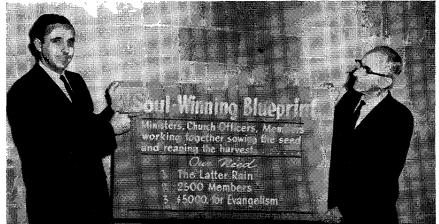

Elder W. H. Hilliard, President of the Southeast Asian Division, was first on the list. He was interviewed by the program director and by Mrs. Yvonne Kaufman in a three-way conversation. Religious, political, and social aspects of life in southeast Asia were involved. Elder Hilliard took the opportunity of thanking the listeners for what they had done (through Ingathering) to aid in our annual campaign to send help to these needy areas.

This program was so successful that we had no problem scheduling another. The next was Dr. E. E. Wareham of the teaching staff of Loma Linda University. His specialty is chest surgery. The interview involved not only open-heart surgery, but much was said concerning lung cancer and its relation to cigarette smoking.

Our third contribution was made by the Voice of Prophecy, Group B. The manager talked with Elder H. M. S. Richards, Jr., about the extent and purpose of the Voice of Prophecy program. Then Elder Richards introduced Brad Braley and Del Delker. The entire program was recorded on tape to be broadcast the next day on the program, "Hymns of All Churches."

After the program, it was interesting to note the request by the program manager, "May I use these hymns on other programs?" and "Do you have recordings of other hymns that I may use?" Needless to say, the answer was "yes" to both questions. Arrangements are being made to supply this need.

Your local radio station would doubtless be interested in securing "Christmas Hymns From Many Lands." This is a program prepared by Seventh-day Adventists. It is a composite from groups in different parts of the world and helps the listeners to develop a favorable attitude toward our caroling program. Each local pastor has complete information so that your radio station may be supplied for only $3.75.

Why not see what can be done to develop good relations with your local radio station?

Public Evangelism Aided by Offerings and Pledges

CAMP meeting has become history for the year 1961, but the blessings that came to us continue. God was near during these meetings and many testified that their lives were enriched by them.

One that will remain in our memories was the soul-winning hour on the first Sabbath afternoon. It was really thrilling to hear stories of conversions and see some of the results of our evangelism. Our youth work, literature evangelism, lay work, and Sabbath schools were all represented. Every department of the church is a soul-winning agency.

The climax came when nearly $3,000 was pledged for public evangelism so that public campaigns can continue to be held to climax the soul-winning efforts of the churches. A large number of churches already have had public efforts this year, and more will be held this fall. We know that you will pray for each of these meetings. When the offering given in the churches on July 29 is added to that pledged at camp meeting, we believe that nearly $4,000 will be available for evangelistic work. If any have not given yet for this purpose, feel free to give now. Mark the offering on the envelope as Conference evangelism.

We solicit your interest and prayers for every phase of the Lord's work in our field. Let us be up and doing the work of the Lord.

Kenhorst Boulevard Church In Reading Dedicated

THE 500-seat, $200,000 Seventh-day Adventist Church at Kenhorst Boulevard and Liggett Street, Reading, Pa., was dedicated on Sabbath, August 26.

Former church pastors now in California and Massachusetts joined Adventist Church administrators from Reading and Washington, D. C., in directing a two-day program starting Friday night and climaxing on Sabbath afternoon.

The main speaker at the dedication was Elder Lewis E. Lenheim of Washington, D. C., President of the Columbia Union Conference.

Two former pastors also participated: J. Melvin Clemons, now of South Lancaster, Mass., and J. Branson Chrispens of Englewood, Calif.

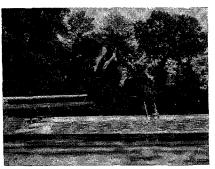

Elder Chrispens spoke at the Friday-night youth hour as senior youth and adults joined together for the special services.

A combined Sabbath school program was held on Sabbath morning. The worship service was under the direction of Elder Arthur Kiesz, President of the East Pennsylvania Conference.

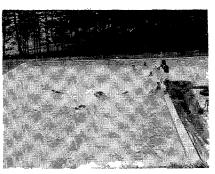

The afternoon dedication rites were under the direction of the present pastor, Harley Schander.

The dedication came as a result of a 10-year program. The congregation was formed on September 8, 1952, as a result of an overflow crowd in the Hampden Boulevard Seventh-day Adventist Church.

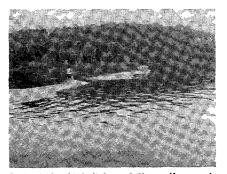

Initial plans for the church were made while Elder Everett D. Calkins, now of Chicago, Ill., was the pastor. Elder Calkins was unable to attend the dedication services.

Carolyn Werley, a teen camper, demonstrates the jack-knife dive from the diving board of Kamp Keystone's newly constructed swimming pool.

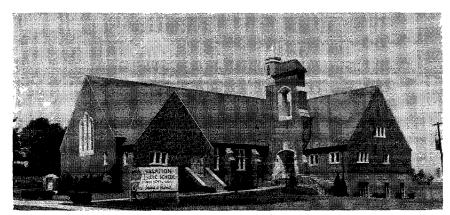

John Kroncke, Red Cross Instructor, Pastor of the Harrisburg district, instructs teenagers in rhythmic swimming in preparation for the water show on the last day of camp.

One of the high lights of Kamp Keystone's water program was the frequent skiing trips on the river nearby. Here one of the teenagers demonstrates the proper method of taking off on water skis.

The new church home is completely free of debt and boasts a 10grade junior academy. Present plans

MV Department Enjoys Successful Camping Season

THE voices of happy children still ring through pleasant memories for those who attended East Pennsylvania's summer camp this year.

From teen-ager to cub camper the happy hours in nature class, the new swimming pool, or the water skiing, the prayer bands, the interesting campfires, and the chalk talks, brought exclamations, "Oh, I wish I could stay another week!"

More than 180 campers enjoyed these hours together in three weeks of action-packed fun and training.

Kamp Keystone's greatest need is for adult qualified counselors and instructors. If you are interested in working with young people, plan now to arrange part of your vacation to coincide with the summer camp program for 1962 and place your application through the MV Department of the East Pennsylvania Conference.

New Pastor for Kilmarnock Church

ELDER Cameron A. Carter is the new Pastor of the Kilmarnock district. He takes the place of Elder Arthur Wetmore, who is now Pastor of the Ilda-Warrenton district.

Elder Carter is in retirement but has taken up this work as his home is in the district and also because of his great love for the work in this area. He was born in Foneswood, Va. For some time he has supervised the branch Sabbath school at Montross.

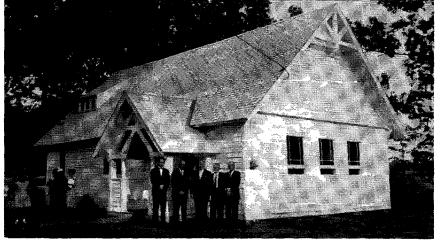

Ordained in 1930 in Hankow, China, while working for the Central China Conference, Elder Carter has spent most of his ministry as a missionary in the Far East. We do not believe that he will object to our using a statement of his.

"We began our work in China in 1922 as teachers in the Shanghai Missionary College; helped move and establish our college at Chiao Loutsen near Nanking where we were raided and our home destroyed in 1927. We were again driven out and our home destroyed by the Japanese in 1937. In 1940-41 I was interned by the Japanese in Hongkong and our home was destroyed. The last seven years in Taiwan were our most precious years in spite of the almost continued exchange of fire between Nationals and Communists."

Through the years overseas, Elder Carter has served as Educational and Missionary Volunteer Secretary in the Central China Union; Principal of the South China Training Institute and President of the Taiwan Training Institute. He also has served as a teacher at Takoma Academy.

New Church Building at Cumberland Dedicated

This is the new Cumberland Church which was dedicated September 9. The congregation formerly met in the Guinea Mills Church. On March 25 of this year they moved to the new building at which time a two-week evangelistic series was conducted in the church by Elder William E. Carpenter and Elder Lewis A. Stout. Five persons have been baptized recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Carter

He was married to Mabel Irene Bowen in Takoma Park, Md., in 1921. She has faithfully accompanied him in all his services for the Master. They have a daughter, Lenora Mae Altman, who resides at Fredericksburg, Va.

We consider that the members of the Kilmarnock district have much to be grateful for in having Elder and Mrs. Carter to care for their spiritual needs. Let us pray for them and for all under their charge that God's Spirit might greatly bless in that area.

Baptism at Charlottesville

ON September 2 about 58 believers of the Charlottesville, Amicus, and Orange Churches gathered at a little stream near Orange, Va., to witness the first baptism to be held by the local pastor, Carl Hartman, who was ordained at camp meeting in June. While the crowd watched, six new members received the rite of baptism. The church rejoices to have Florence Littlefield, Dora Barwick, Erika Barwick, Lewis Marion, and Mr. and Mrs. Seither Wyatt in the congregation.

Special music was furnished by a girls' trio from Staunton (Janet Hevener, Joyce Miller, and Genevieve Shull), and personal testimonies were given by Mary Timariu, Bennett Hamm, and others.

As the members left to return to their homes hearts were filled with a warm glow by the scene just witnessed. Each had a burning desire to serve God more effectively. To the writers' family, however, this was a very special day, because their son joined the church.

The Pathfinder Cookettes of Parkersburg, W. Va., have enjoyed the fruits of their labors. The knowledge gained from months of cooking classes was climaxed in a delicious banquet in which the girls served their parents and Pathfinder leaders a wonderful meal. The parents and counselors who occupied the other two tables at the banquet are not shown. The schedule for the week includes: Monday, "Perils Facing America"; Tuesday, "The Blood Bath That Will Bring Deliverance to the Peoples of All Nations"; Wednesday, "What Proofs Are There for Sunday Observance in the New Testament?"; and Thursday, "Segregation, Desegregation—God's Plan for Segregation."

Spot News

• THE beautiful new school at Buckhannon, which is a credit not only to the district but to the Conference, has 26 students enrolled. Elder N. L. Meager, district pastor, and the church members should be complimented for their vision in erecting such a representative and attractive school building. It is located in a beautiful natural setting, separated from the city, the school has an ample playground and hiking area.

• At a recent Conference Committee meeting, the Committee voted the following: Elder D. W. Schiffbauer is to assume the district leadership of the Beckley-Bluefield-Princeton Churches and the Welch Company with Pastor W. J. Wilson assisting, and Elder O. L. Parish will give direction to the Wheeling-Weirton-Cameron district.

Youth Federation Meeting Re-scheduled for October 7

THE Virginia State Youth Federation meeting has been re-scheduled for Sabbath, October 7. It was originally scheduled for Sabbath, September 30.

The meeting will be held at the I. C. Norcom High School, 29 Airline Turnpike, Portsmouth, Va. The main guest speaker will be Elder Jacob Justiss, newly elected MV Secretary of the Allegheny Conference.

All churches in the southern section of the Allegheny Conference are invited to this special event.

Virginia State Dorcas Federation Meets

THE Virginia State Dorcas Federation met in Norfolk, Va., recently, at the Bolling Park Elementary School. Elder D. B. Simons, Conference Home Missionary Secretary, was present and gave the devotional message. Most of the leaders, secretaries, and members were present. They came with reports that showed that they were busy in the Lord's vineyard.

Elder Simons took his text from Isaiah 66:13. This scripture teaches us that God's love will help us to succeed in all that we do for Christ.

A discussion on the importance of having uniforms and how they add to the corps resulted in the decision that all members should get uniforms. Civil Defense, home nursing, and mass feeding also were discussed.

There was a standing committee selected from a member representing each society in the Virginia State Federation, and a $50 scholarship was given to James Reed.

A lunch was served by the leader and members in Norfolk. The hospitality was warm and inviting.

Pray that we shall all work while it is day, for when "the night cometh" "no man can work."

IDA W. STARKES Secretary-Treasurer, Virginia State Dorcas Federation
