Construction Progress at the New Kettering Memorial Hospital in Dayton

ONSTRUCTION of the Kettering Memorial Hospital continues at a rapid rate. Though there were delays caused by a high water level and unstable soil at the time the foundations were being installed, very few working days have been lost because of winter weather and construction is almost on schedule.

The first-floor walls are in place. About 25 per cent of the main-floor structure has been installed and miles of pipe lines for water supply, waste disposal, and water drainage have been installed.

Equipment purchases have been negotiated for the laundry, the Xray department and for all the sterilizers and water stills. Work is now progressing on the compilation of equipment lists for all departments. This is a monumental task and will require several months to complete. The medical library has been professional journals which have been bound in approximately 300 large volumes. These journals will constitute the nucleus of what we hope will be a high-quality library for the use of the professional staff.

A first meeting has been scheduled with a decorator who will serve as a consultant for the selection of all colors, draperies, and furniture for offices, public areas, and lounges. Decisions already have been made on furniture for the patients' rooms, including an originally designed bedside cabinet containing many conveniences and features for the comfort of the patients. All of the beds will be electrically powered for the positioning of the patient as well as for setting the height of the bed.

Community interest in the hospital remains at a high level. Many inquiries come to our office from (Continued on pages 6, 7)

Meetings at McKeesport

NINETY persons were present at the opening meeting of the Bible Prophecy Crusade conducted by M. E. Fralick at the Carnegie Library Auditorium in McKeesport, Pa. At least 50 were not of our faith. On the third Sunday night of the meetings attendance was still holding up well with 75 present.

On the opening night a Bible was given to each family to use during the meetings. After attending 12. nights the Bible will be theirs to keep. This plan has been very well received. It is thrilling to see the entire congregation following in the Bible as the message is presented.

The laymen have been giving good help during the meetings. Mrs. Harold Lang, Mrs. John Gusky, Mrs. William Buoymaster, Mrs. Homer Morrison, Marie Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Thompson, and Mrs. Einar Johnson have assisted with the visiting. Music has been under the direction of Ethel Palady. H. T. Thompson and John Gusky, respectively, are directing the ushering and operating the projectors.

The meetings will continue on Sunday and Wednesday nights through March and April in the library. April 14, 21, and 28 there will be special Sabbath-afternoon meetings at 4:00 o'clock. On May 2 the meetings will be transferred to the church and continue on Sunday and Wednesday nights until camp meeting. The continued interest and prayers of all our members are greatly appreciated. Who Sent This?

THIS month we had a pleasant surprise. Really, we shouldn't be surprised. It should happen frequently.

One of our church members in Clearfield received a telephone call. A lady in Mineral Springs, Pa., wanted to have a Seventh-day Adventist minister call.

The lady from Mineral Springs had attended several different churches. She wanted to find a church where they believed and obeyed the Bible. One year ago, somebody sent a subscription for These Times to this lady.

These Times carried the message of truth and love. These Times was instrumental in getting her enrolled in the Bible Correspondence School. Now she is up to about Lesson 15. She could wait no longer. She called the one Adventist that she knew and asked for a pastoral visit. It was my pleasure to respond.

Needless to say, I am now holding Bible studies in her home. Furthermore, she is now attending church.

What we want to know is, who sent this subscription? Please send your answer to our Conference Home Missionary Secretary, Elder J. A. Toop, 744 North Negley Avenue, Pittsburgh 6, Pa.

Let us use These Times in like manner to find many other honest souls. This is soul-winning work that you can do. This is the time to do it. WALTER E. KLOSS

Eastern States Federation Meeting Held at Newark

LEO P. CARLIN, Mayor of Newark, N. J., told the youth recently at the Eastern States Federation meeting, representing New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and the District of Columbia, held in the Mt. Calvary Baptist Church, Hawthorne at Seymour: "The world needs consecrated young people whose aim is to make a contribution to society."

Mayor Carlin gave the youth and their supporters a warm welcome to the city of Newark and added, "Newark is on record to meet the threat of juvenile delinquency through every constructive means."

Present also was Elder W. L. Cheatham, President of the Allegheny Conference, which sponsors the Federation; Elder Jacob Justiss, Conference MV Secretary; Elder W. A. Thompson, Secretary-Treasurer of the Conference; Dr. Reed Wendell Mapson, Pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church; and Elder John H. Wagner, Jr., host pastor of Trinity Temple on Hillside Avenue in the city.

The guest speaker for the occasion was Elder E. E. Cleveland of Washington, D. C., Associate Secretary of the Ministerial Department of the General Conference. The speaker said: "We ought to be able to read the handwriting on the wall. In these times faith is the substance of our life and hope in the eternal. Christian youth around the world must stand up and be counted, being 'the man called for' in these unprecedented experiences."

Youth choirs from Newark and Pine Forge Institute and the Metropolaires from New York all provided inspirational music.

A Message About GSA

To all fellow believers in New Jersey:

The Garden State Academy building progress report for February arrived recently in the mail. As I read it I came to feel that we, the church members of this field, only faintly realize how important it is that our academy move away from the present location.

Living near the Academy, and after having conducted the fall Week of Prayer at the present campus, I am fully persuaded that eternal life will be lost by many of our young people if we continue to operate it in its present city location.

What sacrifice that we may be called upon to make could compare with the loss of any of our youth? What if one of your own children is lost, or what if one of mine should be lost because of reluctance to make Special Attention!

The New Jersey Conference Department of Education is compiling a history of the church schools in New Jersey. The first church school was started in Trenton in 1911. The only record between the years of 1911 and 1921 is a General Conference report for 1916, which states that there were eight schools with an enrollment of 129. Anyone having information concerning the church schools in New Jersey during the years between 1911 and 1921, such as, names of teachers, location of schools, along with any pictures of the first church school or the children, please send to:

real sacrifices, now, for our new academy?

This is a project that we know God can bless, because it is in harmony with His directions that we furnish schools for our children, out in rural areas, away from the city influence.

Let us back up our building program, by sacrificially giving to provide for our young people a school where God, through the written word, and through nature, may speak to them and instruct them in His way.

These ladies responded immediately to assist in loading the welfare van with sheets, pillows, pillow cases, and blankets from the Kingston Disaster and Civil Defense Depot. The New Jersey Conference authorized the purchase of 200 blankets for disaster and relief just a few days before the storm struck the New Jersey coast. We were happy to be able to act immediately and come to their assistance.

Camp Meeting Speaker

For the next few weeks we shall introduce guest ministers who will be attending the East Pennsylvania

Conference Camp Meeting at Wescosville, June 29 through July 7. This week we wish to introduce to you Elder W. R. Beach. Elder Beach is Secretary of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. His office is at 6840 Eastern Avenue, Washington 12, D. C.

Elder Beach was born in North Dakota and his early years of experience were in the field of education. In 1927 he left the United States for foreign-mission service at Gland, Switzerland. For many years his responsibilities increased in mission service until he was made Secretary of the Southern European Division in 1936. In 1946 he became President of the same division and acted in this capacity until 1954 when he became Secretary of the General Conference.

He is married to Gladys Iola Corley of Albany, Ore., and they have three children: Bert B., Principal of the Italian Training School in Florence, Italy; Joyce Cotton, secretary and wife of an Adventist minister in Glendale, Calif.; and Collette, wife of an Adventist doctor.

Dr. Beach is a proficient writer and has authored several books in European languages.

He is well versed on Adventist affairs around the world, and his ex-

• THE Quiet Hour, a radio program under the direction of Pastor J. L. Tucker, an Adventist minister from Redlands, Calif., is now being released over Station WJMJ of Philadelphia.

The program can be heard each Sunday morning at 8:30.

The station has good coverage of Pennsylvania and New Jersey and projects the message with 50,000 watts of power. We invite members of both conferences to listen to Elder Tucker's program and to encourage a listening audience among non-Adventist friends.

• Pastor Leon Ringering of West Chester reports that he recently conducted a series of five-minute devotional broadcasts over Radio Station WCOJ of West Chester. He also was invited to give the Sunday-evening devotional service, a 15-minute program on the same station, March 25. The broadcast is sponsored by the Chester County churches.

Progress is continuing on the new West Chester church building. Services are scheduled to be held for the first time in the completed basement in June.

Grove City Church Opened

OPENING services were conducted in the New Grove City Seventh-day Adventist Church, Sabbath, March 17. The guest speaker was Elder Donald W. Hunter.

The new structure seats 150 persons and is valued at $50,000 dollars. Much of the construction was accomplished by members of the congregation.

Construction was started in the summer of 1961. Now the red-brick, semi-colonial church stands as a monument to God in this growing suburb of Columbus.

Provided in the building, beside the main sanctuary, are four basement classrooms, a mothers' room, the pastor's study, a cloak room, and a baptistry.

Elder Lawrence Kagels is the district pastor and William Richardson, assistant pastor, has been largely responsible for the actual building program.

This picture of the New Grove City Church was taken as the building was in its final stage of construction.

The interior of the new Grove City Adventist Church shows the handiwork of master crattsmen in wood. The floors, the framing, the pews, and the pulpit are a pleasure to behold. The pews and the pulpit were supplied by the Central Ohio Church Furniture Company of Westerville, Ohio.

Charleston Junior Academy Improvements Announced

THE Charleston Junior Academy opened its doors to its students with 40 new Amerex Torsion-Top desks. The new desks were part of a $3,000 remodeling and redecorating program undertaken by the Charleston, W. Va., Church. This program included full wall-length book shelves for the three rooms; closets, new ceiling fluorescent lights, repainting of the green chalkboards, and coat racks for the students.

The kitchen was remodeled. A new 40-gallon, glass-lined gas water heater was installed, wall cabinets for dishes, a serving shelf, and a deep freeze. We are still in need of a food grinder, chopper, and mixer.

A new Volkswagen school bus also was purchased. It is driven by Josephine Jones. The Home and School Association, under the able leadership of Mrs. Grescilda Hill and her assistants, has added much to the progress of the school. The Association has been responsible for the following equipment: a ditto machine, chains, and a gasoline heater for the school bus, flags for the schoolrooms, a globe, Spirit of Prophecy books, and payment of the school telephone bill each month.

Variety of Activities Planned for "College Days"

PLANS have been completed for College Days, scheduled for Columbia Union College, April 29, 30, and the morning of May 1.

The first activity is the concert by the National Symphony Orchestra in a special "Music for Young America" concert. Ten metropolitan busses will leave the campus early Sunday evening for this outstanding event. The site of the concert is the new Commerce Department auditorium, where President Kennedy holds press conferences.

A full day of counseling, recreation, class visits, and talent festivities is planned for Monday. The new Morrison Hall, million-dollar men's residence, will house a score of academic displays sponsored by numerous College departments. Here prospective freshmen may get acquainted with members of the faculty and get firsthand information on more than 20 professional and academic fields of study. Among areas on display will be medical technology, biology, psychology, music, speech, and library science.

Final activities will be Tuesday morning when a special worship service is scheduled. Most guests will leave the campus in mid-morning.

Guests will register Sunday afternoon in Columbia Hall between the hours of 1:00 and 6:00. Non-academy persons visiting during College Days are especially invited to join in the two-day event. Arrangements for travel should be made with the district pastors, who in turn will coordinate conference plans with the local education secretary.

Former Assistant Treasurer

Edgar Bradley Appointed Associate Auditor

EDGAR BRADLEY, formerly of the Treasury Department of the Potomac Conference, has been appointed new Associate Auditor of the Columbia Union Conference.

Announcement of the appointment was made this week by Elder L. E. Lenheim, President of the Columbia Union Conference. Mr. Bradley takes the place vacated by Arthur Harms who is now the Secretary-Treasurer of the Southern New England Conference.

For the past six years Mr. Bradley has served as Assistant Treasurer and Auditor of the Potomac Conference, with offices at Staunton, Va.

The new Associate Auditor was born in Savannah, Ga., and early in life moved with his parents to Orlando, Fla., where he attended elementary and secondary schools.

He began his service for the Adventist denomination in March, 1942, when he was appointed Assistant Manager of the Book and Bible House of the Florida Conference.

After serving for a period of three years in Florida, he went north to Philadelphia, Pa., where he became Manager of the Book and Bible House of the East Pennsylvania Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

By D. A. Roth

Public Relations Secretary, Columbia Union Conference

Edgar Bradley

He served first in Philadelphia and later in Reading, when the office was moved, from 1945 to 1956.

He joined the staff of the Potomac Conference in May, 1956.

Mrs. Bradley, born in Brooklyn, N. Y., is a registered nurse. They have one daughter, Shirley, 19, who is a premedical student at Columbia Union College.

In his new post Mr. Bradley will assist the head auditor of the Columbia Union Conference, E. Farrand Willett. They take care of the auditing work of eight local conferences, eight conference associations, nine secondary schools, a college, three hospitals, eight Book and Bible Houses, and the Home Health Education Service of the Columbia Union Conference.

We extend a warm and sincere welcome to the Bradley family as they join the staff of the Columbia Union Conference.
