No Place to Attend School

Sabbath School Department, Trans-Africa Division

STATISTICS reveal that the Seventh-day Adventist Church now conducts 1,024 schools for African children and youth in the Trans-Africa Division. Of these 1,000 are primary schools (with approximately 84,000 enrollees), 14 are high schools, and the other 10 are ministerial and teacher-training schools.

It is clearly evident that the 14 high schools, with accommodation for about 600 students in the first year, are woefully inadequate to serve the 3,000 and more who complete primary school each year. This situation has resulted in thousands of Seventh-day Adventist boys and girls' being turned away annually.

Recently the Principal of Solusi High School said that he had received 1,800 applications and had places for only 70 of them in the first-year high-school class. Another high school principal had 400 applications from one district in a certain union conference—and had only 40 vacancies!

It is heart breaking for a principal, such as Dr. F. Clarke of Rusangu Secondary School in Zambia, to have 300 Seventh-day Adventist youth recommended by government education authorities, and scores of other personal applications. In the latter group are third- and fourth-generation Adventists. One such case was a fine young girl whose father is an Adventist evangelist and whose mother is a teacher in one of our primary schools. She had to be turned away because there was no more space. Dr. Clarke can admit 70 students to the first year of high school and has more than four times that number of carefully chosen applications. If restrictions limiting the enrollment of students from other provinces were removed he would have about 700 applications from Adventist youth alone. The tragedy is that no other school in the country can offer them further education, for all are FULL!

There are six Adventist teacher-training schools in the Division, graduating approximately 120 primary school teachers a year. This number is insufficient to care for losses in a teaching force of 2,215, and the most advanced of these training schools is offering only two years of professional training after 10 years of academic education. The Trans-Africa Division has no high-school teacher-training center, although this phase of education is the one most emphasized in Africa today. Our constant perplexity centers around finding the high-school teachers who are so vitally important in training thousands of youth. In 1958 a four-year theological training course was begun at Solusi College. To date, 10 persons have been graduated from it. Unfortunately, it has not been possible to expand these college course offerings, beyond the minimum required for theology, to include the academic and professional subjects essential to high-school teaching. Foreign workers may be brought in at great expense, or some of the promising youth may be sent overseas for training, but these are only interim measures. To carry the larger portion of this teaching load, indigenous people must be trained on the spot.

Camping in the Columbia Union

JUNIORS TAKE OVER

By H. W. Bass

MV Secretary, West Virginia Conference

ABOUT THE COVER

"Indian Chief" Don Winger, MV Secretary of the Ohio Conference, demonstrates the use of the bow and arrow to two campers at Camp Mohaven. The authentic teepee and other exhibits of Indian lore took campers back to an era of American history that has almost disappeared.

EDITOR'S NOTE:

A heavy program of junior camps has marked summer activity in the Columbia Union Conference. Hundreds of children attended the camps which were held in every conference.

In addition to the regular camping program, many special camps were held, including some for musicians and for under-privileged children.

NINETY-SEVEN eager, anxious juniors from every section of the West Virginia Conference descended upon Tomlinson Run State Park for a week of junior camp activities. Taxed to the limit were the facilities of this beautiful state-owned group camp in the northern part of the West Virginia panhandle.

One week later and averaging two and a half pounds heavier the juniors returned home filled not only with good food but with memories of a happy time the Christian way.

Sabbath, was a "high" day for all 97 juniors, but especially for 23 campers who responded to the call of Elder E. M. Peterson, Columbia Union Conference MV Secretary, to surrender all to Christ.

Swimming in the spacious pool under the watchful eyes of competent guards and instructors was greatly enjoyed by almost everyone, including the staff.

Campcraft, archery, woodhandicraft, plastics, seascapes, pebblette, and first aid made up the nature and crafts taught to the juniors.

To celebrate the 40th anniversary of Seventh-day Adventist camping, a portion of three campfires was devoted to programs depicting scenes at and events leading up to the first junior camp in Michigan in 1926.

Excellent cooperation prevailed throughout the camp as future Adventist leaders learned to work, to play, and to live together as Christian citizens. Many campers realized as never before that their church is really interested in them.

Ohio Holds Annual Band Camp

Dr. Paul Yoder was for the fourth year guest conductor at the annual Ohio Band Camp, August 7-13. Associated with Dr. Yoder on the teaching staff were: Dr. Melvin Hill, Union College, Lincoln, Nebr.; Adell Haughey, Columbia Union College; Graham Heppel, Andrews University; Lyle Hamel, Pioneer Valley Academy; also Barbara Ehlert and Barbara Favorito, upper division music majors from Union College. Garland Peterson, Mount Vernon Academy band and instrument director, coordinated the camp's activities.

Culminating the week's events was the performance on Saturday night, August 13, of the two bands and various ensembles before a capacity audience of about 300.

Water sports are an important recreational aspect of all junior camps. Gary Graves takes his turn at water skiing at Blue Ridge Youth Camp in the Potomac Conference.

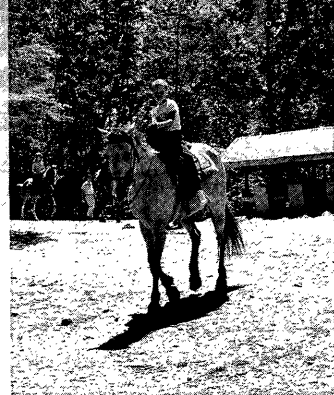

Canoeing down the Mohican River is a pleasant afternoon pastime at the Blue Ridge Youth Camp.

"No, I am very sorry, we are filled to capacity for next week's camp." This was the message conveyed by Elder Otis Graves, MV Secretary of the Potomac Conference. "Standing Room Only" seemed to be the keynote of many of the summer camps as they handled large crowds of eager children.

One of the popular recreation spots at Potomac's Hidden Valley Youth Camp was the corral. Horseback riding was made available to all of the campers.

Before beginning the busy activities of a new day, young men at Camp Mohaven pause for prayer. A spiritual atmosphere pervades all activities at Adventist junior camps.

Gale Gabbert Accepts Call To Oregon Conference

TWELVE years ago Mrs. Gabbert and I came from college to work in the Chesapeake Conference. During these intervening years we have had the privilege of serving as teachers, and later I served as a pastor and, for the past two years, as a departmental secretary.

These have been busy, happy years. God has blessed us with three children, souls for our labor, and many wonderful Christian friends throughout the Chesapeake Conference.

We have now accepted a call to the Oregon Conference to serve as Associate Stewardship Secretary. Our sincere thanks to all of you for your kindness and love. By God's grace we must be faithful, that we may meet in God's eternal kingdom when Jesus returns.

Yours in the blessed hope,
GALE GABBERT

Governor Helps Select Children for Camp

Elder Lyndon DeWitt, pastor of the Dover, Del., Church, and Elder Cyril Miller, Chesapeake Conference President, are shown talking with Governor Terry of Delaware. Governor Terry assisted in selecting 11 boys from Dover to attend the Chesapeake welfare camp at Mt. Aetna, Md. Nearly 80 boys from the states of Maryland and Delaware got their first glimpse of Adventist camping and much good will was generated throughout the home areas by this work on the part of the Adventist Church.

Welfare Center Assists Migrant Workers

The Cambridge, Md., Adventist Health and Welfare Center responded to an appeal from the local newspaper by donating 347 pieces of clothing and 41 pairs of shoes. The clothing was given to children of migrant workers in Snow Hill, Md. Mrs. Elwood White, Welfare Center director, is shown with the supplies at the children's school building. Other activities of the Cambridge Society for the past quarter include 74 hours of Christian help work. More than 100 persons helped. Also food baskets have been distributed and children were sponsored to attend Chesapeake's welfare camp for boys.

Spot News

• "YOUTH at the Helm" was the slogan in the Wilmington churches on Sabbath, August 27. All the Sabbath services, as well as the ushering, etc., were conducted by the juniors and youth. Lewis Percy, a junior at Columbia Union College, made the sermon appeal for Christian homes and Christian education. Pastor Charles Griffin concluded with a brief report on the local church school and took the annual pledges for financing the non-tuition school. Enrollment is up to 45 in the new plant of Wilmington Junior Academy.

• Harold Friesen, Educational Secretary, is home from a summer of graduate study at Andrews University and reports that enrollment is showing its greatest increases in our schools on the eastern shore. The total number of students in Chesapeake's 10 schools will approach 900 this year. An introduction of new teachers will appear in a future issue of the VISITOR.

• THIRTY-FIVE people have been baptized thus far in the series conducted by F. F. Schwindt in the Dundalk-Essex district. Others are sure to follow. Many outstanding victories were won for Christ. Elder Schwindt is scheduled to return to Chesapeake for another series this fall. We thank God for the tremendous soul-winning ministry of this man of God.

• The Holley-Folkenberg-Holley team began an evangelistic series and field school of evangelism in Hagerstown on July 24. Several young ministers from college and the university are assisting. We believe that this will be an unusually productive series.

• A lovely 21-acre plot of ground, right on the Beltway, has been leased for the Barron-Turner series in Baltimore in September. The purpose of the series is to raise up another new congregation in Baltimore.

• Seventy-five thousand copies of the Amazing Facts Information Folders were distributed by the churches in the Chesapeake Conference on Sabbath, July 9. Enrollments are coming in by the scores. Several have already been baptized and others are deeply interested. Why not keep several complete sets of the Information Folders in your automobile so you will have one handy to give a friend on any Bible subject he may bring up?

Cherry Hill and Laurel Springs Fair Exhibit

THE Fair Committee which planned the Cherry Hill county fair exhibit is to be commended for the attractive and impressive arrangement. The booth was manned by qualified personnel and this is always important. An exhibit is as successful as the personalities make it, and the committee from these two churches selected excellent help.

Co-chairmen of the committee were Herbert Jones and Mrs. Charles Fisher. Members of the committee were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klingler and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher of Laurel Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Woehr and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jones of Cherry Hill. The exhibit featured healthful living and the effects of smoking upon the health of the people of our country.

A good supply of literature was distributed and the film, "One in 20,000," was shown four times.

We appreciate the work of our members in helping tobacco addicts break away from this destructive habit. This is the first attempt for Cherry Hill to have an exhibit but it is the beginning of greater things.

Construction Progress . . .

We are pleased with the definite progress being made in the building of the consolidated school near Chesterfield, N. J. This has been in the planning for many years, but in the next few weeks it will be a reality. The progress from now on will be rapid and we have reason to believe that the boys and girls from the Mt. Holly and Trenton Churches will be in their new school when the term begins this coming fall. This picture was taken July 16, 1966.

The new Cherry Hill Church is past the planning stage. By the time this picture is published, the roof will be on this structure as it appeared on August 8. We are pleased with the excellent progress that is being made, and Pastor James A. Terzo is very busy supervising the project as well as his regular pastoral work. We do appreciate the faithfulness of the lay members who are doing their part in helping to carry the heavy load.

Akron Pathfinders At 4-H Fair

"All systems are 'go' with the Pathfinders!" was the theme used on the silver satellite by the Akron Pathfinder Club at the annual 4-H Fair in Akron, August 10. Stephanie and Kevin Kossick are standing by the satellite and the Judges' Booth Award ribbon. Of the 58 booths at the fair, the Akron Pathfinders received one of the highest awards. The girls displayed their sewing and the boys showed their lamps and extension cords. These lamps were used to light the booth. Many times our Pathfinders can show others the religious way of life and this is the way chosen by the Akron Pathfinders. —Dorothy Ruddock, Press Secretary, Akron Church.

City Erects Sign Pointing To Zanesville Church

Elder and Mrs. Donald Mackintosh pose for a picture after looking over the new sign on Maple Avenue at Taylor that directs to the church in Zanesville. The sign, which is placed with the street markers, was ordered through and erected by a department of the city and can be seen going north or south on Maple Avenue which is also Route 60. The highway official thought the name, "Seventh-day Adventist Church," was too large to put in one line but would be too small to read at a distance if in two lines, so they left off the word "church." The meaning is clear, however, and will be a definite help in directing people to the church. —Mrs. Fred Powell, Press Secretary.

He is shown in the church parking area getting into his car, which he uses to bring people from the bus line to the church, approximately three blocks. His services are especially appreciated by the older members and by young and old during bad weather. Mr. Hinson comes early to Sabbath School and waits in a parking area on the southwest corner of East Broad Street and Napoleon Avenue. The sign in the window of his car, reading "S.D.A. Car," is an invitation to anyone visiting the Columbus Church to get in for the short trip from the bus stop to the church. —Mrs. Philip Dunson, Press Secretary.

A modern "Alice in Wonderland" was brought from Malawi, a country of hills and tropical growth in east-central Africa on a 9,000-mile plane ride through nine "time" zones to Hollywood, where she was unexpectedly confronted with an appearance on the Ralph Edwards television show, "This Is Your Life." It was the first time that a subject on this show had come from outside the United States. Following this rather auspicious presentation to the American public, she was besieged with requests to speak for various organizations and has since talked to many groups in our country. In spite of busy days, she has managed to write her already published autobiography.

Thousands Will Be There!

BRING YOUR FAMILY, TOO!

THE REVIEWER

WHEN Robert H. Pierson wrote the new Pacific Press book, So You Want to Be a Leader! he was president of the Trans-Africa Division. Just one week after release of the new volume, Seventh-day Adventists elected him to their highest post of leadership.

Elder Pierson wrote So You Want to Be a Leader! for the benefit of all leaders and potential leaders within the denomination. An estimated 150,000 people fill leadership positions in the churches alone, and quite possibly you are one of them. If so, then this book was written specifically for you. Or perhaps you are one of the thousands of other leaders who serve local, union, and division conferences, or Seventh-day Adventist institutions. So You Want to Be a Leader! was written for you also.

In this book Elder Pierson achieves two major objectives. First, he explains the fine points of successful executive and promotional work for Seventh-day Adventists. Secondly, he inspires the Christian leader to more dedicated service in reaching new goals for Christ.

In Elder Pierson's own words, "So You Want to Be a Leader! . . . is a spiritual, human relations, and promotional approach to church leadership and administration on all levels—from the local church in Prakashapuram to the General Conference in Washington."

Through the pages of this book Elder Pierson helps you answer many important questions: Why does the church need leaders? Do you truly measure up? How do you get along with people? What kind of committee chairman are you? Can you promote? Do you know how to carry on effective and cordial correspondence? Can you take criticism? Is God your partner?

To answer these and many other questions, Elder Pierson draws on over twenty-five years of experience serving in various lands. "Material for this book has been in the process of collection for well over a quarter of a century . . ." Elder Pierson says.

His years of service include, in addition to Africa, pastoral and administrative posts in the United States, Southern Asia, the West Indies, and the Caribbean.

Whether you now serve in some leadership capacity or aspire to becoming a leader some day, you will find this book makes inspirational and truly valuable reading. It is available now at your Book and Bible House or camp meeting book store for just $2.50, paperback, or $3.95, hard cover.

Fire Training Available For Institutions

THE General Conference Insurance Service is constantly endeavoring to reduce the insurance losses occurring each year in denominational properties. The analysis, measurement, and improvement of the many loss possibilities which exist in the denomination today have brought forth the demand for professionally and technically competent personnel in the Insurance Service.

As one of the means for meeting this demand, Melvin Harris, a Technical Representative of the Insurance Service, attended an intensive fire school, conducted at the test facilities of the Ansul Company in Marinette, Wisconsin. For three fast-moving days the 28-member class fought fires with the various types of fire extinguishers in use today. Emphasis was placed on correct and safe procedures so that the class members would be able to return to their companies and train other employees. The class was made up of personnel from throughout the United States and Canada and included one person from Saudi Arabia.

Although all types of fire extinguishers were used, emphasis was given to fires requiring special techniques and those best controlled by the use of dry chemical extinguishing agents. These consisted of gasoline fires of various sizes and situ-

CUC Employee Called to GC Insurance Service

MANUEL M. CARBALLAL, formerly administrative assistant in charge of student accounts at Columbia Union College, has accepted the call to be chief accountant for the General Conference Insurance Service.

Mr. Carballal was one of 12 students receiving Professional Certificates in Church Management after completing courses and examinations at American University in Washington, D. C. The 12 were the first persons ever to receive such certificates at American University, the only institution in the United States offering such a curriculum.

The addition of Mr. Carballal is in line with the Insurance Service's policy of upgrading its staff with professionally competent people to give counsel to our church administrators.

Mr. Carballal is a graduate of both Antillian College in his native Cuba and Southern Missionary College, where he received a B.S. degree in business administration. He is a candidate for the Master of Business Administration degree at American University.

Before coming to the United States in 1962, Mr. Carballal served first as Business Manager and then President of Antillian College. Zip-Code Directory Is Investment Project

Nor often in the history of our Sabbath School work have there appeared opportunities as notable and outstanding as those now open to us to realize a mammoth return on our Investment projects. The sale of dedicated crops, of special services, of white elephants, and the like have yielded through the years since 1925 an extra 15 million dollars for our needy mission program. But that now appears fiscally small when compared with the mounting dollars now being harvested for the cause.

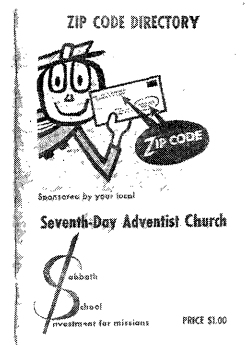

R. R. Andrus, Investment leader of the Buchanan, Mich., Church, has come up with an idea which is meeting with success. He is selling Zip Code directories and using the profits for Investment. The directory retails at a cost of $2.70 through the office of the Superintendent of Documents. But through the Directory Service Company of Algona, Iowa, Mr. Andrus had a quantity of the same books printed, and he is selling them for one dollar. Fifty cents of the sale price goes for Investment. Incidentally, Government authorities are delighted to have this voluntary help with their zip-code campaign.

The cover of the directory identifies the project as one that is sponsored by the local Seventh-day Adventist church. It is specifically labeled as an "Investment for missions." The back cover, which tells how the proceeds will be used, acts as a further appeal for the sale.

Enough additional directories have now been printed by Mr. Andrus so that he can make quantities available to churches that are interested in following his plan.

The Zip Code Directory contains the same Zip Codes as the U. S. Superintendent of Documents Directory of Post Offices, offered by the Superintendent of Documents. It lists over 35,000 Zip Codes, in all 50 states, plus the Caroline Islands, District of Columbia, Guam, Mariana Islands, Marshall Islands, Puerto Rico, and Samoa.

The directory is a practical, usable, convenient-sized reference work. The prices from Mr. Andrus are as follows: Sample copy, $1, retail; 20 to 199 copies, 60 cents each; and over 200 would be 50 cents each. Those who are interested in having their Sabbath School participate in this project should contact R. R. Andrus, P. O. Box 157, Berrien Springs, Mich. 49103.

First-Aid Course Conducted At Roanoke

Mrs. T. H. Lambdon, president of the Potomac Conference Welfare Federation, and a long-time first-aid instructor, watches as J. E. Lynch of the Cave Springs Rescue Squad demonstrates the proper method of heart massage.

EAGER students scored high in a recent first-aid course conducted at the Roanoke Seventh-day Adventist Church. The course was taught by Mrs. T. H. Lambdon, assisted by J. E. Lynch of the Cave Spring Rescue Squad.

Participants from both church and community proved to be one of the highest scoring classes Mrs. Lambdon has taught in the 20 years of her active service of first-aid instruction. Twenty-one enrolled, and of those receiving certificates, one-third were community people.

Highlighting the classes was "Resusci-Ann," a "blonde" dummy designed for training in mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and heart massage. Students reluctantly removed inhibitions and practiced this crucial part of the training on the dummy brought to the class by Mr. Lynch.

Other important skills presented were splinting, bandaging, shock treatment and transportation, preparing the student to give "immediate and temporary care to the victim of an accident or sudden illness until the services of a physician can be obtained" (first-aid textbook).

Mrs. Lambdon began first-aid instruction during World War II, and since then has taught hundreds. She is presently making plans to conduct her fifth school this year.

Alumni Meet at SVA to Help Plan School Future

THE Shenandoah Valley Academy Alumni "Committee of 150" met on the school campus on August 21. The "Committee of 150" is a group composed mainly of faculty and alumni with the assistance of Conference officials and valued friends of the school who are vitally interested in the future of Shenandoah.

A tour of the present campus was conducted by R. W. Bendall, Assistant Principal, in order to acquaint the committee with the Academy plant. Following the tour, a dinner was provided by the Potomac Conference.

After a discussion of the school and its future needs and the role of the alumni and the "Committee of 150," we listened to the counsel of the Potomac Conference President, Elder C. H. Lauda. We came to the unanimous conclusion that the alumni committee can be of valuable assistance in the present planning and later in the actual process of building. Much stress was given to the planning, as it was felt much thought should precede action.

The needs of the school were summed up after the discussion by Principal Loren E. Poole who placed them in four categories: up-to-date campus master planning, new administration building, a representative church on campus, and new student industry.

Action was taken to begin work on developing ideas to suggest to the Special Conference Campus Planning Committee and to assist in securing a new school industry. A preliminary report will be provided at a meeting September 25 on the campus by the Master Plan Committee, a subcommittee of the "Committee of 150."

"They Don't Understand"

"God is my partner" has real meaning to Mrs. Jane Keller, a member of the Norfolk, Va., Church. One year ago when the Stewardship Program was introduced to the Norfolk congregation, Mrs. Keller decided to enter into the "God and I" business relationship.

When she made her sizeable commitment, she accepted the card on which was printed "God and I Are Partners." This card, with its declaration of faith, is seen by all of her customers, for it is conspicuously placed on the mirror into which they look as she works at her trade.

Mrs. Keller is employed in a three-chair beauty salon with two other ladies. She is a constant marvel to them for since she formed her partnership with God by placing a large faith factor in her commitment, her customer list has been growing to a noticeable degree. They don't understand why she is so favored. She is not surprised, for she knows that God keeps His promises. He declared through the Spirit of Prophecy that "when we devote ourselves to the kingdom of God, He will mind our affairs" and "the more we bring to God's house, the more we shall have to bring, for He will open ways before us, increasing our substance." He intends to bless those who take Him at His Word.

When Mrs. Keller counted her blessings at the end of the first year of the Stewardship program, she made an interesting discovery. Her income (salary and commissions) had increased over the previous 12-month period an amount equal to her commitment plus two dollars. Her tips also had increased. Could this be just a coincidence? She does not think so! She knows that this is a fulfilled promise.

God always has blessed, and always will bless, those who are willing to make total commitment to Him. Are you ready to enjoy partnership with God?

Never Too Old to Be Baptized

David Rickard (shown here with Elder Schram) has known Seventh-day Adventists and their message to the world for 60 years, but waited until August 13, 1966, at the age of 80, to give his heart to His Master. As the result of a recent series of evangelistic meetings in the Rileyville Church, Elder Clarence Schram has baptized seven persons and others are to be baptized soon.

Barron-Turner Team to Work Washington Area

Barron-Turner evangelistic team

Six churches in the Washington, D. C., area will combine their forces this fall in an all-out effort to carry the advent message to the capital city's densely populated northwest section.

Committees are swinging into operation for supportive action by members in the Sligo, Hyattsville, Wheaton, Damascus, Beltsville, and Rockville Churches. They are laying the groundwork for a four-week series of evangelistic meetings to be held at the Sligo Church with Richard Barron in the pulpit.

Richard Barron, known to many through the story of his miraculous recovery from a severe illness, will speak each Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday night during the series. He also will hold special services each Sabbath afternoon.

Raymond Turner, with his rich baritone voice, will share the platform through his ministry of music. The two men have worked together for God in many parts of the United States. Most recently they conducted services in Memphis, Tenn., and just prior to the Sligo Church meetings, they held evangelistic services in Baltimore.

One of the most active committees supporting the Barron-Turner effort will be the visiting committee, which will reach out into the communities via visiting teams. Objectives: (1) stir the interest in learning God's message for this hour, and (2) find those already interested and extend a personal invitation for them to attend the evangelistic series, scheduled to begin October 16.

Adventists living in the northwest area of Washington are urged to send to the Sligo Church the names and addresses of people about whom they are concerned, people who still need to know the Saviour.

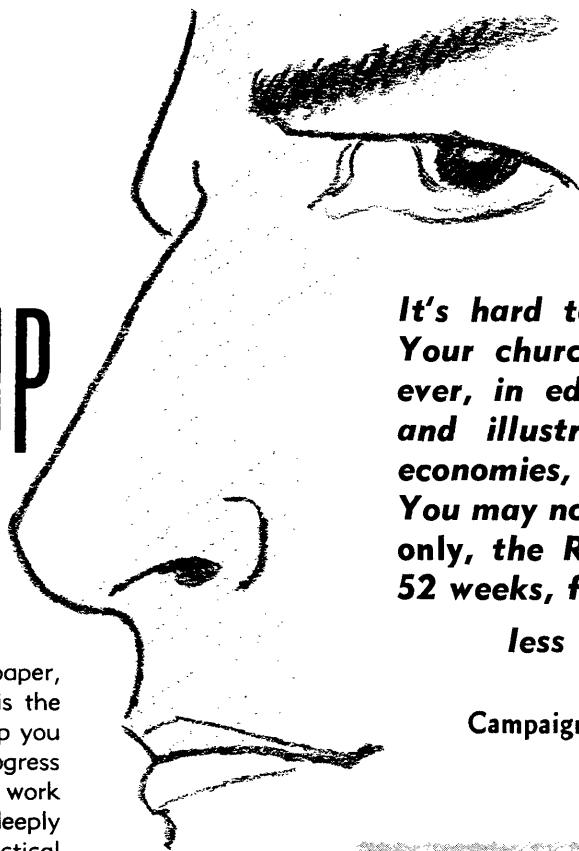

Such persons will be mailed a letter and an invitation to the special meetings. The postal contact will be followed up by the personal visit of one of the visiting teams on the afternoons of October 1 and 8.

A fellowship rally at the Sligo Church at 4:00 o'clock, October 15, will set the pace for the four-week series to follow. Viewers of Sligo's weekly telecast, "Concept," will be introduced to the Barron-Turner evangelists on Sunday morning, October 9, at 9:00 o'clock on Channel 7.

The sermon hour of the evangelistic series will be preceded each evening by a half-hour of films, beginning at 7:00 o'clock. A hymn service will begin at 7:30. Pastor Barron will take the pulpit at 8:00 and conclude the program promptly at 9:00 o'clock.

The subject for the opening meeting of the series will be "Almost Midnight."

Ground Broken for New Cumberland Church

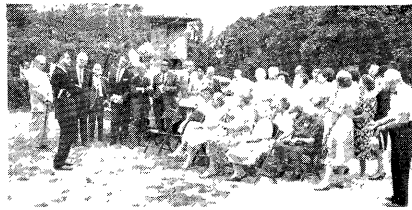

Artist's drawing of the new Cumberland, Md. Church.

THE ground-breaking service for Cumberland's new $85,000 church opened with the members singing "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." A scripture reading and prayer by E. G. Brown, lay elder, preceded the introduction and welcome given by Elder W. F. Hawkes to the members and specifically the Hon. Thomas F. Conlon, Mayor of the city of Cumberland, Md., who wished the members and the project well.

Elder R. W. Moore, President of the West Virginia Conference, then addressed the assembly, congratulating the church members, the building committee, and Pastor Hawkes for their farsightedness and vision in establishing a new church to God's glory. Elder Hawkes challenged the congregation to finish the task, and the closing benediction was given by L. R. Hartman, chairman of the building committee.

Basic construction on the new church will begin this fall and will be erected by the Unified Church Structure Company in Mt. Clements, Mich. The new edifice will be of brick veneer, 82'10" in length and 40'10" in width, with a stone L-shaped entrance, 36 by 18 feet, accommodating the pastor's study and the office for the church's lay activities department.

The new church will have a seating capacity of 250, with a full basement for Sabbath School rooms, Dorcas room, kitchen, rest rooms, and a large fellowship hall. It will be

Student Literature Workers Have Successful Summer

STUDENT colporteurs started their door-to-door missionary program at the beginning of the summer in West Virginia. Of the nine starters three are planning to be or already have been married. They are: Elizabeth Hayner, Joyce Brady, and Larry Christoffel. Elizabeth Hayner was married to William Blackburn and Joyce Brady changed her name to Mrs. Larry Christoffel.

Almost $6,000 worth of gospel literature has been sold by these three students. We wish them God's abundant blessing as they establish their new homes.

God's truth-filled literature has been scattered from one end of the state to the other, including such towns as Princeton, Weirton, Charleston, Buckhannon, Bluefield, Williamson, Logan, and Huntington. Congratulations go to the top salesman of the year, Mitchell Henson, who already has passed the $4,000 mark and is reaching for $5,000 before returning to school. Dave Huber, a young prospective freshman of Andrews University, has passed the $3,000 mark and is striving for a goal of $4,000.

Nazih Magar's car was towed into the West Virginia Conference office by Mr. Rogers recently and finally sold to a car graveyard proprietor for $35. Nazih, a native and missionary from Egypt, is not deterred, but is forging valiantly ahead.

AN informed public will be a tremendous aid in molding and shaping the thinking of Senators and Congressmen. The Allentown, Pa., Church under the leadership of Earl Grube, local religious liberty secretary, and Elder Christy Taylor, the pastor, have been a vital force at the annual fair to guide the thinking and non-thinking public into right channels. Thousands of Liberty magazines were handed out as people stopped to ask the meaning of the booth and special dress worn by the attendants.

George Joseph, who is running for Congress, came to visit the booth and is highly pleased with our denomination's position on religious liberty. He believes and advocates the right and freedom of all people to worship according to the dictates of conscience and believes in the fundamentals of the great American heritage and the Constitution.

Thank you, Allentown members, for your worthy example in alerting your community so well. As other fairs are conducted, why not put your church into action for the cause of liberty? Today is the day of opportunity. Tomorrow may be too late.

Tools Given to Blue Mountain Academy

THROUGH the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ventura of Pittsburgh, Blue Mountain Academy has received a gift of woodworking equipment valued at $8,000-$10,000.

Mr. Ventura is an industrial arts teacher in a high school in Pittsburgh. The school in which he taught decided to stop teaching industrial arts and begin teaching vocational technical courses.

Federal and state aid made it possible for them to purchase new equipment. Knowing of the need of such woodworking equipment at Blue Mountain Academy, Mr. Ventura contacted school officials and was able to purchase the tools at a fraction of their cost. He and Mrs. Ventura paid for them and gave them as a gift to the school.

The equipment includes a 12-inch table saw, a 36-inch band saw, two 12-inch lathes, a 12-inch thickness planer, a 12-inch drill press, two tool grinders, and 36 woodworking tables.

We greatly appreciate this generous gift, as it will give our new Industrial Arts Department a real boost.

Branch Sabbath School Results in Baptism

RICHARD MEIER, Associate Pastor of the Erie, Pa., Church, followed up branch Sabbath School contacts with Geraldine Wygant and Hugh Boring with the result that they were baptized into church fellowship recently.

Another candidate, baptized at the same time, was first contacted in the hospital. As Pastor Meier prayed for a patient whom he was visiting, he prayed for Helen Thompson in the next bed. When Bible studies were offered she gladly accepted and obeyed all the Bible teachings.

Only those who have been instruments in God's hands to bring a person to Christ can appreciate the joy of this young pastor as Elder Ronald Neall baptized these three. Conversions like these are modern miracles.

• Of the 23 baptisms in Pennsylvania for July, one of those baptized by Elder W. H. Carey stands out. Mrs. Jewel Likens sold a magazine to a woman in a tavern and enrolled her in the Bible course. On a later visit to the family, the young daughter also was enrolled. One year later both had received their diplomas.

The mother had stopped drinking, but the father still drank heavily. At this point Mrs. Emily Ventura started giving them Bible studies and then the family moved to McKeesport, Pa. Here Elder Carey conducted a six-week evangelistic series. The father accepted God's message and has been baptized.

Mrs. Likens says: "Truly this convert was a modern miracle. . . . I thought he was an alcoholic and too far gone, but all things are possible with God. Now let us pray for the mother and daughter."

Musician Returns to Japan To Teach

SABBATH, August 13, will long be remembered by the members of the First Philadelphia Church in Haver-town, Pa. For several years it has been their privilege to be host to Sonoko Mimura of Tokyo, Japan. It was truly a privilege. She came to us as a graduate from the University of Tokyo. An exceptional student with a wonderful, God-given gift—the ability to appreciate good music and a great desire to excel in this field—she came to United States on a student visa.

Located in Philadelphia, she was privileged to have one of the country's finest teachers of the flute, Dr. James Kincaid, known to all Philadelphia orchestra lovers. He felt that she had real talent and great capacity and understanding of all that music means. She frequently wrote arrangements of her own, suitable for Sabbath music.

Her flute was used to bring joy to many. Unselfishly she played for area churches, always willing and ready to go with the Sunshine Band on Sabbath to visit old people's homes. Talent such as hers never before came in person—only via radio and TV.

Sonoko was humble in spirit, a fine Christian girl, and faithful in her Sabbath School and church attendance. It was the writer's privilege to have her in her Sabbath School class and to be a "foster mother" to her during her stay in Philadelphia.

Her parents corresponded with the writer, as they were naturally anxious about their daughter. How justifiably proud they can be! She represented her home, her church and her country well. She was faithful to her principles and, even though they called for sacrifices professionally, she never faltered.

On one occasion she had been offered a position as flute soloist with the orchestra in Toronto, Canada. All arrangements were completed. She had explained that she could not play in the concert on Friday evening. They were happy to accept her under these conditions. Then came the unexpected. The orchestra was to play at a very large benefit concert on Friday evening. When they notified her, she wrote to the conductor, explaining that she could not do it, even though it was for a good cause. I am sure that she was disappointed, and yet, after counsel and prayer, she won a great victory.

At the 11:00 o'clock service on Sabbath, August 13, Sonoko was presented with an attaché case in which to carry her flute and music. She will be missed, but her parents and family rejoice that she will be coming home again where she will teach both flute and piano. We look forward to meeting Sonoko on that great reunion day and pray that until that day, God will richly bless her as she dedicates her talents to God.

Churches Purchase New School Bus

"Here are the keys." Elder E. F. Koch hands them over to Mrs. Helen Morgan, one of the drivers of the new Volkswagen school bus purchased by the Media-Chester Churches. Closely observing is Robin Ridgeway, one of the 11 to 14 students to be added to the other 35 in the West Chester area, making another consolidated church school in Pennsylvania. Charlotte Stief and Luke Price will share in the responsibility as bus drivers.

Charter Member Observes 83rd Birthday

Mrs. George Swearingen, a charter member of the Uniontown, Pa., Church, celebrated her 83rd birthday on August 20. Even though confined to bed with a broken hip, she is a model of faithfulness in tithe, Sabbath School offerings, and building fund. She is eager to see their "New Hilltop Church" that she is helping to build by the giving of her offerings.

Fire Prevention Week

THE week of October 9-15 has been proclaimed by President Lyndon B. Johnson as Fire Prevention Week. As this week of fire emphasis is observed throughout our nation, it is well that each church member review his own relationship to fire hazards in the church, in the home, at work, and in the community.

Of the 12,000 lives that were lost during 1965 by fire, 6,500 were the result of home fires. The majority of these deaths in homes were children.

The following should be rules of behavior for every family:

In case of fire at home:

- Get everyone out of the house at once.
- Call the fire department immediately. (Be sure everyone in your family knows how to call the fire department.)

In case of fire at public gatherings:

- Walk, do not run, to the nearest exit. (Always know where the exits are.)
- Call the fire department immediately.
- Keep calm.

Make every week Fire Prevention Week!

Institute on Mental Health

Seventh-day Adventist ministers in the Columbia Union Conference are invited to attend the twelfth annual Institute on Mental Health, jointly sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary and the Harding Hospital. This year's institute will be conducted at the Harding Hospital in Worthington, Ohio, October 9-12, 1966.

The purpose of this institute is to provide ministers with information and experience in understanding people and their feelings and to aid them in handling the emotional problems that they encounter in their ministry.

The faculty for this year's institute will include Dr. George T. Harding, Medical Director of the Harding Hospital; Dr. Harrison Evans, Professor of Psychiatry, Loma Linda University; Dr. Charles Anderson of Hinsdale Sanitarium; Dr. L. Harold Caviness of Battle Creek Health Center; Elder Charles E. Wittschiebe of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary; and the staff of Harding Hospital. Each minister attending will have opportunity to learn from informal discussions with these well-qualified persons, as well as through participation in the lectures, seminars, and discussion groups.

Ministers interested in attending this year's institute should contact the President of the local conference for an application form as soon as possible, since the enrollment is limited.

Tiny Thinkers

On Sabbath afternoon Ronny enjoyed "reading" pictures in the Little Friend, the Sabbath School Worker, and other papers and in books. But today was not Sabbath, and he was not looking in a Sabbath School book. It was an entirely different book, and he was not expecting to see what he saw on the next page—a picture of Jesus. He gazed at it in astonishment for a moment and then said, "Lord, Jesus, what are you doing in this old catalog?"

WHO WILL GO?

personality profile

"THE call of the hour is answered by the coming of the man. Thus when the divine Voice cries, 'Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?' the response will come, 'Here am I; send me' (Isaiah 6:8"; Counsels to Ministers, p. 13).

Miracles are taking place all over the world, and we should like to call your attention to some that are happening here in your Columbia Union Conference.

By count of the July report, 310 literature evangelists were going from home to home with publications bearing a message of hope, and an appeal for one to accept of God's plan of salvation. We rejoice for the 20 persons baptized during the month of July, thus bringing the total baptisms for the seven months of this year to 93. More than 100,000 pieces of literature were distributed, over 29,000 persons enrolled in the Bible school, and 1,359 "new persons" attending church. Thousands of prayers were offered and 426 former Seventh-day Adventists were contacted. More than $1,200,000 worth of literature was sold and delivered.

The Lord has said, "My son, go work in My vineyard, and whatsoever is right, I will give it thee." God is a good paymaster in more ways than one. We are glad that a literature evangelist is able to derive a comfortable living from his labors.

Please read from the book, Early Writings, pages 13-20. We, as a people, have a tremendous responsibility, for we are on the threshold of eternity. We are obligated to warn every person in each conference in this union conference that Jesus is coming soon, very soon, for His people. There is no escape from the command God has given us. How eager we should be to go forward joyfully in an hour like this!

Each of the seven Publishing Secretaries pictured here is in need of 10 full-time literature evangelists, and many part-time workers, to see to it that each person in his respective conference has a fair opportunity for making an intelligent decision that can decide his eternal destiny.

Your Publishing Secretary is your friend. He wants to help you. He will help you to discover a new world of joy and a new meaning for your life, and will help to train you in a home-to-home search for those who would accept the plan of redemption if they only knew what to do.

Remember, "The call of the hour is answered by the coming of the man." Write or telephone your Publishing Secretary now. You can locate him at your conference address. There is to be a Union-wide Beginners' Training School at the Review and Herald Chapel, October 2-4. Your Publishing Secretary will give you information as to how you might attend this school.
