A report on the Allegheny East and Allegheny West Camp Meetings

A newly acquired airatorium was the location for "Joyland," meeting place for the smaller children at the Allegheny East Camp Meeting.

SINCE the division of the Allegheny Conference into the Allegheny East and West Conferences, the coming of camp meeting has been looked forward to with a great deal of interest.

This would be the first opportunity to assess some of the results of the division of the conferences and to give a prediction of future progress.

Probably the best comment about the division came from Elder Frank L. Peterson, a retired Vice-President of the General Conference, who was one of the speakers at the Allegheny East Camp Meeting.

"This is the first time I have seen anything multiply by dividing," was his apt comment.

To those who attended both camp meetings of the two conferences, the future seems bright for further growth.

The Allegheny East Conference held their camp meeting on the beautiful grounds at Pine Forge, Pennsylvania. Under the direction of Elder W. A. Thompson, President, laymen spent many days previous to the convocation sprucing up the permanent buildings. Liberal quantities of paint were applied.

"What in the world are you folk doing there?" was the surprised query from the paint dealer when Both Mrs. Simons, right, and Mrs. J. Estelle Barnett, left, have been attending camp meetings for over 50 years. Mrs. Simons, who lives in Milton Junction, Wis., is the mother of Elder Donald B. Simons, center, President of Allegheny West Conference. Elder Simons was born in the home of Mrs. Barnett.

Conference Treasurer, Elder Edward Dorsey, came in for a second supply of paint.

In preparation for the expected influx of visitors, 250 tents had been erected. However, applications for accommodations continued to pour in and twenty-five additional tents were provided.

Attendance for the camp meeting was as high as in previous years according to observers. As usual, a strong spiritual tone permeated the camp and the annual session of the Allegheny East Conference goes down into church history as one of the best ever.

The meetings of the Allegheny West Conference were held on the Ohio Camp Grounds at Mount Vernon, Ohio. This was the first camp meeting for this group.

Here, too, a fine spirit was found among the pastors and the members in attendance. Under the leadership of the President, Elder Donald B. Simons, and the Treasurer, Elder Aaron N. Brogden, an excellent program had been prepared.

Strong evangelistic programs are planned by both conferences immediately after camp meeting. Many of the pastors will be pitching tents or renting halls for major campaigns. The spirit of camp meeting will be carried to many others in the weeks to come.

With a dedicated membership and energetic leadership the future of the two Allegheny Conferences is bright.

Among the many choirs performing at the Allegheny East meeting was the Ebenezer Choir from Philadelphia, directed by Irving Glenn.

It is amazing with what rapidity academy seniors in a receiving line can alternately turn on smiles and tears. The 64-member class of 1967 at Mount Vernon Academy proved their emotional agility following the commencement exercises on May 28.

Courage and optimism were the chosen qualities, even in the growing confusion of the world of the late sixties, as the class listened to Dr. W. A. Howe, Associate Secretary of the General Conference Department of Education. His commencement address, based on Isaiah's dedication to service in response to a vision of God, challenged the graduates to be men and women of character to fulfill their motto: "A Thousand Tomorrows, and They Are All Ours."

Elder C. C. Weis, Secretary of the Columbia Union Conference Lay Activities Department, was speaker at the senior consecration service. The baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Elder C. D. Brooks, Field Secretary of the Columbia Union.

The class-night program was entitled "Expo 67," and consisted of various numbers with a far-away flavor, accompanied by a narration which characterized the entire program as an international exposition.

The class sponsors were R. L. Rawson, Academy Treasurer, and L. B. Curtiss, science teacher.

Caryn Fuller of Warren, Ohio, was the valedictorian, and Meredith Hedrick, of Dayton, Ohio, was the salutatorian.

Carolyn Gregoroff of Mount Vernon, Ohio, was honored for a perfect-attendance record for her four years at Mount Vernon Academy.

The Danforth "I Dare You" award, made by the Danforth Foundation to graduates who have shown outstanding character, leadership, and creative qualities, was presented to Julia Scharffenberg of Kettering, Ohio, and David Rawson of Xenia, Ohio.

Three graduates were given $150 scholarships by Columbia Union College: Judy Burdette, of Mount Vernon, Caryn Fuller of Warren, and Diane Shoemaker of Minford, Ohio.

Awards and scholarships also were given to other students during the commencement program. The following received $200 scholarships for continuing studies at Mount Vernon Academy: Ed Dininger, of Tiffin, Ohio, who will be a senior next year; Polly Fredericks of Canton, Ohio, who will be a junior; and Eric Gallion of Millersburg, who will be a sophomore. The President's Physical Fitness Award was presented to Paul Gebert of Plymouth, Ohio; Julia Hardin of Mount Vernon; and Ann O'Ffill of Elida, Ohio.

In selecting a gift to bear the mark of the Class of 1967, the class requested the privilege of paying for a historical item that is permanently on display in the cafeteria in the new Hiawatha Hall. This is a large reproduction in color of a picture of the old Mount Vernon Sanitarium which stood near the site of Hiawatha Hall.

"Lemme see it, Judy," says Bonnie Burdette to her graduated sister, after the commencement.

Aunt Sue (Mrs. Betty Ahnberg) and Uncle Dan (Stanley Hill) of the Your Story Hour broadcast presented a thrilling story as a simulated broadcast. Hundreds of their boy and girl fans crowded the front rows for the program.

Scotty Teixeira, 6, of Mansfield, dwarfed by his man-sized trumpet, played two numbers during camp meeting. So delighted was the audience that it broke forth in spontaneous applause.

OHIO CAMP MEETING

THE program folder of the 1967 Ohio Camp Meeting announced it as "A nine-day feast of heavenly things." There is little doubt that in the personal experience of most of those who attended the session, it was truly a spiritual festival. There were many different speakers. Attention was given to many phases of church interest and activity, but with fast paced events taking place in the political, social, and religious world pointing to the predicted world climax, there was a clear note of urgent spiritual appeal throughout the camp meeting.

Elder T. E. Unruh, former President of the East Pennsylvania and Indiana Conferences, now of Riverside, Calif., presented a series of devotional services at the early morning hour, entitled "The Road to Certainty."

Elder N. R. Dower, Secretary of the General Conference Ministerial Association, preached in five of the evening meetings on various phases of total commitment of the individual in Christian experience.

Elder M. K. Eckenroth, Director of Religious Activities at Columbia Union College presented a series of five studies on fulfilling prophecies in the last days at the morning sermon hour.

A series of four talks on diet and healthful living were given by Dr. P. S. Nelson, Associate Secretary of the General Conference Medical Department.

Other speakers included: Elder H. M. S. Richards; Elder W. A. Fagal; Elder D. A. Delafeld, of the E. G. White Estate; and Elder Carl Sundin of the Medical Placement Office of Loma Linda University.

Mrs. Paul Horton, of Bellefontaine, tracing a pattern of some of the materials shown in the child evangelism workshop to heighten interest in Sabbath School songs.

ly, Susie, and Julie Scharffenberg (left to right) bicycled the 130 mile trip from their home in Kettering to camp in Mount Vernon. The girls, 15, 16, 17, are daughters of Richard Scharffenberg, bibliographer at Kettering Memorial Hospital. They made the trip in eleven hours.

In the Publishing Department exhibit booth, it is easy to see how attractive to little ones are the color pictures in the children's books offered to the public by the literature evangelists.

Letter Enables Soldiers To Attend Camp Meeting

It is not hard to see that Soldiers Terry Carlisle (left), Bill Fentress (center), and Paul Betlinski are happy for the privilege of attending the Potomac Conference Camp Meeting.

According to word from church authorities who deal with Adventist soldiers, the procedure mentioned in the following article is not recommended. It would not create good will among military personnel. We present the story for its news value and interest.—Editor

To Sp.-4 Terry Carlisle big things can happen because of a chance remark. Terry is from Springfield, Ohio, and is presently stationed at Fort Detrick, Md. He and two of his friends, Sp.-4 Bill Fentress of Norfolk, Va., and Sp.-4 Paul Betlinski wanted to attend the Potomac camp meeting, recently held on the campus of Shenandoah Valley Academy. The fact that their terms of service in the U. S. Army are to terminate in July made dim their hopes for leave because of a regulation that prohibits such leaves within 30 days of separation from service.

A statement in a letter Mr. Carlisle wrote to a friend attending Walla Walla College in the state of Washington expressed disappointment at not being able to attend the religious conclave. It seems that obstacles, large or small, do not stop Jean Lemon, who sensed the disappointment of the three soldiers. She decided to tackle the problem where it could best be solved. She wrote a letter to President Lyndon B. Johnson, explaining the desire of the young men for leave to attend the camp meeting and sought his assistance.

One morning Carlisle, Fentress, and Betlinski were called before their commanding officer and asked if they knew a girl by the name of Jean Lemon. He then explained that he had received a call from the Pentagon wanting to know why these soldiers could not obtain leave. They were assured that word had come down through channels that leave was available when application was made. This was in March. Leave was requested and granted.

Because of their army experience, Mr. Fentress and Mr. Betlinski are planning to prepare for medical careers. Mr. Carlisle will prepare for the ministry.

The events that make this story possible prove that men in high places are not too busy to be concerned with the affairs of the average man and that a chance remark may bring about unexpected results. At least Soldiers Carlisle, Fentress, and Betlinski think so.

Langenstrassens Mark Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Langenstrassen were honored parents at a Mother's Day vesper service held in the new Sabbath School Building of the Wheaton Seventh-day Adventist Church, 3132 Bel Pre Road, Wheaton, Maryland.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Langenstrassen

The Langenstrassens, who live at 4401 Chestnut Lane, Rockville, Maryland, with their daughter and son-in-law, Irene and Paul Arkebauer, had marked their golden wedding anniversary May 9.

High lights of their life were reported by Elder R. F. Cottrell after which Mr. and Mrs. Langenstrassen stood to be the first to receive carnations.

The couple was born in Germany and both emigrated with their respective families to Brazil. There as students they met and later married. Before coming to the United States, Brother Landenstrassen worked twenty-eight years as Secretary-Treasurer of various Brazilian missions and also assisted in the Treasurer's office of the Colegio Adventista, Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Besides Irene, the Langenstrassens have a son, Werner, who still lives in Brazil.

The vesper service and the potluck Fellowship Supper which preceded it were the first church events in the Sabbath School Building which was officially opened July 22. Stan Kelly, a member of the social committee, supervised arrangements.

A selection of poems and readings was prepared and presented by Mel Harris. Mrs. Peggy Harris played appropriate background music and accompanied the vocal and instrumental participants. There were Janice Kopko, accordion; Stan Kelly, trumpet; Juana Morales, soprano; Kenneth Pennington and Henry Showalter, vocal duet; Gerald Wilkinson and Barbara Ross, violin duet.

Red, pink, and white carnations were pinned on mothers by Bonnie Showalter, Ann Damazo, Janet Kelly, and Eleanor Walmsley.

Grandmother Gives Gift Bibles

GIFT Bible Evangelism! Within a relatively brief span of time, this dramatic new plan for lay evangelism has swept across the North American Division. Certainly, much of the success of this great soul-winning program lies in its simplicity. Almost any consecrated member of the church with a desire to work for God can take the Gift Bibles to friends and neighbors.

When the Gift Bible Plan was recently launched in Lynchburg, Va., Mrs. Minnie Irby, a quiet, retiring grandmother, was one member who picked up the challenge to work for God through this effective and proven plan. Age and lack of transportation were no obstacles. Packing Bibles into shopping bag, Mrs. Irby carried them to work with her. In her humble, quiet way she began to enroll fellow workers in the Lynchburg factory where she is employed as a seamstress. Each Sabbath at church she turned in her list of new students, and each Sabbath her request was for more Bibles. During the first part of May, her active list of students totaled well over 50. Not satisfied with this fine achievement,

Mrs. Minnie Irby

Mrs. Irby continues to enroll additional students and reports that a large number of them have expressed an interest in further study and reading material.

A series of evangelistic meetings will climax the Lynchburg Gift Bible Program this Fall. Undoubtedly, many of Mrs. Irby's students will be in attendance and will be led to a fuller knowledge of God's saving truth.

Alonzo Baker Praises New Religious Liberty Book

"Dateline Sunday, written by Attorney Warren L. Johns . . . is the best thing in the field of religious liberty ever written and published by our denomination. It is 'must' reading for every Adventist and for every American who still believes in the Bill of Rights!

"The full dissent of Justice Douglas in the McGowan case is presented in the Dateline Sunday volume; indeed, it constitutes chapter 13 of that book. No

Seventh-day Adventist from the days of Alonzo T. Jones, J. O. Corliss, and C. S. Longacre down to the present day has ever written so convincingly, so logically, and so comprehensively in defense of freedom of religion; none has presented such a devastating and unsparring attack on Sunday legislation as does Justice Douglas in his dissent in the McGowan case in 1961, six years ago. This is a classic in its field. Every Adventist should read and reread chapter 13 of Mr. Johns' book. We should practically commit it to memory, for it will stand us in good stead in the troubled days ahead."

Thus spoke Dr. Alonzo L. Baker at a great Religious-Freedom Rally held in Sacramento, Calif., May 5, 1967.

The book is published simultaneously in two attractive forms—cloth cover with paper jacket, special camp-meeting price, $3.55 (regular, $3.95) and the paperback edition, special camp-meeting price, $1.75 (regular $1.95). Be sure to get your copy soon, and why not get an extra copy or two for some attorney, judge, legislator, or other prominent friend who may be able to help the cause of religious freedom in days to come.

Meetings Held at Luray

A "Bible Speaks" crusade was held in Luray, Va., from April 15 to May 26. C. W. Pine, Pastor of the Staunton Church, was assisted by Clarence Schram, Pastor of the Stanley and Rileyville Churches. Alise Schram, a music major at Columbia Union College, directed the music.

Seven of those baptized were from two families who took "The Bible Speaks" lessons from members of the Stanley Church. Just a little more than a year ago Edward and Louise Blosser enrolled their neighbors in the course, and then followed with a series of illustrated Bible studies. Other members of these families are preparing for baptism.

It has been 30 years since an evangelistic series has been held in Luray, the county seat of Page County. There are a few members in Luray

Potomac Schools Tested

RESULTS of the spring testing program conducted by the Potomac Conference Department of Education show continuing excellence of performance being made by the church schools.

In a report released during the Camp Meeting session, Robert E. Hamilton, Superintendent of Education, stated that every grade level in the schools exceeded the national norms for the test. The rating system is based on percentile rank—the position a student places in a typical group of one hundred students.

According to Elder Hamilton, the national average is the fiftieth percentile. The average placement for the Potomac Conference ranged from the sixty-fifth percentile to the ninety-second percentile. This is from fifteen to forty-two percentiles above the national average.

The accompanying chart compares the fall and spring testing programs. The test used this year was the Iowa Tests of Basic Skills.

Expansion plans will more than double Hadley's capacity within the next three years.

Teaching classes are conducted regularly.

Quiet competence marks nursing station.

Busy Out-Patient department provides an important community service.

With a great deal of satisfaction, Hadley Memorial Hospital, one of metropolitan Boston's smallest hospitals, claims the unique distinction of having provided more out-patient care than one of the major hospitals of the area. Hadley reports a remarkable record of having provided care of 40,610 out-patients during 1966, while the 800-bed Weymouth Hospital Center provided slightly less than 40,000 such services during the same period of time. Hadley Memorial Hospital is one operated by the Columbia Union Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

Since Hadley's opening in 1952, all service departments have shown constantly increasing utilization. Out-patient services jumped from 1,287 in 1952 to 26,802 in 1960 and over the 40,000 mark last year. Admissions rose from 725 to 4,391 during the same 14-year span with the X-ray and laboratory services showing the same phenomenal rise in usage. Five hundred and forty-nine babies were born at Hadley last year.

Dr. Henry G. Hadley provided the spark which led to the creation of Hadley Memorial Hospital. He also provided the six acres of land, situated scenically on level parkland at the top of a hill overlooking the Potomac River, and the money with which to build. Dr. Hadley, who is a dentist and lawyer as well as a medical doctor, started a clinic in southwest Washington, D. C. in 1912 and it was from this clinic that the first seven patients were transferred when the hospital opened its doors in 1952. Dr. Hadley, now past 70, heads the Cancer Research Foundation located at Hadley Memorial Hospital. All patients from the southwest Washington clinic were transferred to Hadley in 1962 when the clinic was closed due to reconstruction plans for that part of the city.

As Hadley Memorial Hospital has increasingly provided care for the sick its need for expanded facilities has become more and more apparent. In 1962 the interior was done over. In the words of its administrator, the building was "incised, dilated, ligated and sutured." When it was over, and all departments had been moved around to provide a greater efficiency, it was still obvious that more space was needed.

Plans have been approved to expand Hadley's facilities in a three-phase program. It is anticipated that more than three million dollars will be required to complete the presently conceived program. A new structure will be attached to the existing modern, three-floor air-conditioned building. The goal will be to attain a capacity of 200 beds. After construction, a nursing unit of 40 beds will constitute the second phase and the hospital will then be able to develop its third phase capability of 150 beds with an expansion potential to 200 beds. Hadley is situated within one of the major population growth areas of the nation where the population is expected to double within the next ten years.

Elder Loy G. Foll is Hadley's chaplain and worship services are held every morning in praise of God, the Great Physician. Charles O. Eldridge has been the Administrator since January of this year when he replaced H. A. Rudisaile who moved to California to become Administrator of a sister S.D.A. hospital.

Evangelistic Series Near Souderton

A BAPTISM on June 10 climaxed a four-week evangelistic series conducted by Elder Robert W. Taylor in the Cloud Cathedral which was set up near Souderton, Pa.

This was the second "March of Truth Crusade" conducted in the Telford-Orvilla district by Elder Taylor, now the Conference Evangelist. At the close of the first series in Lansdale, Pa., in the spring of 1966, among those baptized was a lady that took her stand for the Lord in spite of the opposition of her Catholic husband.

One year later this husband, Joseph Hobart IV, was baptized. With real happiness on his face he said to Elder Taylor as he entered the baptismal tank, "I really believe it."

There were other miracles wrought and victories gained. Two former members, husband and wife, were reunited with the church. Another husband and wife decided to attend the meeting when they saw the air-auditorium being erected. This couple, who was seeking for truth, attended the meeting and were baptized. One baptism was a direct result of the "Bible Speaks" gift-Bible evangelism program that the members of the Telford Church have been faithfully using during the past year.

The eight that were baptized united with the Telford and the Orvilla Churches. Other decisions were made that will result in baptisms in this district and neighboring districts in the near future. There are others that have requested Bible studies.

West Chester Elementary School Graduation

Dr. T. S. Geraty, Associate Secretary of the General Conference Department of Education, is congratulating Robert Morales, president of the eighth-grade graduating class of the West Chester Elementary School. Speaking to the four graduates at the commencement exercise, Dr. Geraty emphasized the importance of making Christ the center of our lives. Elder C. L. Brooks, Educational Superintendent of the Allegheny East Conference, presented several vocal selections. Louis Canosa, Pennsylvania Conference Educational Superintendent, presented the diplomas, assisted by Vernon Hill, principal.—Louis Canosa, Superintendent.

months in Cairo during the first quarter of the year, holding evangelistic meetings.

As a result of the meetings, about 50 have been baptized. The baptism was characterized by one worker as the "largest baptism in the Middle East since the Day of Pentecost."

Even before the outbreak of hostilities, Elder Brooks found strong anti-American feelings. "Everyone feels that Americans are rich and have everything they desire, while the rest of the world is starving," he said.

It was his belief that the hostility toward Americans was promoted by the Nasser government.

"The people I met were kind," he remembers. "The Moslems are fine people and they came to our meetings in large numbers. On the opening night we had well over 1,500 in a hall that seated 1,000. People were everywhere!"

Adventists in Egypt have an image of being Jewish, a belief that is promoted by some of the other Protestant groups, according to Elder Brooks. Because of this he preached on the opening night on the topic, "Who Is Jesus Christ?"

"We had to preach differently in Egypt than in America," Elder Brooks said. "First of all, since we preached through an interpreter, our sermons had to be short. Then we had to weed out illustrations and expressions that wouldn't be understood. We preached right to the point. It was good discipline."

Even though Egypt is predominantly Moslem, there is tolerance for Christians. Agents from the national police were present each night in the meetings but they were friendly and kind, according to Elder Brooks.

One memory that he brings back with him from Egypt is that of the tremendous work to be done. "I left Cairo with a feeling of regret. There was so much to do and it was so hard to reach the Mohammedans."

Harrisburg Church Almost Completed

THE cornerstone ceremony took place on June 21 for the beautiful edifice which will seat approximately 500 and cost around $275,000. The projected date for completion is the latter part of July.

Elder Walter E. Haase, District Pastor, states that definite plans are under way for Elder Robert L. Boothby, Evangelist from the Michigan Conference, to conduct a series of meetings at the new church in October.

The church is located at 416 N. Progress Avenue, Harrisburg, Pa.

Wisdom Plus Virtue

"HE is no fool who gives what he cannot keep, to gain what he cannot lose." So said a missionary who has since been martyred.

Apply this principle as you consider the use of your material assets whether they be cash, securities or property. Relate it to your obligations to your Saviour and your loved ones. Have you prepared a legal will? Would you like help from a "specialized ministry" in planning for the immediate and fast moving future? Write to Elder J. A. Toop, Conference Association Secretary, 720 Museum Rd., Reading, Pa. 19603.

"Wisdom is knowing what to do, skill is knowing how to do it, and virtue is doing it."

Williamsport Sanitarium Holds "Open House"

ON Sunday, May 21, 1967, "open house" was held at the Williamsport Sanitarium from 2:00 to 4:00 P.M. Mt. Aetna Academy students presented a musical program, using the theme, "Mothers," and were accompanied by Mrs. LaVone Ray. Elder Joe Ray was master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Marion Hartle honored the oldest mother, Dr. Patience Sisco, 97 years old, with a corsage. Dr. Sisco is a medical doctor and practiced in Baltimore for many years.

Refreshments of punch and cookies were served to the guests, relatives, and friends.

Question Asked by Child Leads to Baptism

Brenda Zarska enjoys having her mother read to her. The lessons she was taught helped her to be a little missionary.

LITTLE Brenda Zarska of Spencerville, Md., is only five years of age, but this has not stopped her from being a little missionary for her God. He used her simple faith to bring blessings to a neighboring family.

Last summer Brenda's mother, Mrs. Kenneth Zarska, read the reports of the General Conference which appeared in the Review and Herald. She was impressed by the call to evangelism sounded by the new General Conference President, Elder Robert Pierson.

She prayed that God would use her life as a witness. She decided to contact her new neighbors next door in the rural area where they lived.

One day she asked her neighbor, Mrs. Day, if she would like to send her children to the Spencerville Vacation Bible School.

The answer was abrupt and to the point: "I don't like people who try to force their religion on someone else." The finality of the response made any further efforts in witnessing rather difficult. But this did not stop the prayers of Mrs. Zarska.

Little Brenda had observed that the Day family attended church on Sunday. She questioned her mother about it. "Why do the Days go to church on Sunday and we go on the Sabbath?"

Mrs. Zarska explained the reasons carefully to her daughter and then concluded, "They don't know about the Sabbath and the only way they will know is if someone tells them."

Some days later a small tragedy struck the Zarska family. Their cat was hit by a car. In the morning, after Mr. Zarska had gone to work, they heard the plaintive cries of the suffering cat. There was still life in the fur covered body, but the services of a veterinarian were needed.

Mrs. Zarska ran to her neighbor, Mrs. Day, and asked if she would take her to a veterinarian. The children were left with the Day children and the two ladies went on their errand of mercy.

On the way home Mrs. Day told Mrs. Zarska that her daughter, Brenda, had come to see her a day or two previously. Then she related what had happened.

Evangelistic Meetings Held at Baltimore First Church

A FINE new group of believers was presented to the church by Evangelist F. F. Schwindt at a special vesper service on Sabbath, June 17.

Many victories for Christ were experienced during this series of meetings. One family of five generations was baptized, the oldest being 83 years of age.

Through the enthusiastic work of Mr. and Mrs. William Smoot, who have been members for less than a year, they were able to see five of Mrs. Smoot's relatives baptized at one service. At this writing three more have taken their stand for baptism.

"I have something to tell you," Brenda told Mrs. Day.

"What is it?" was Mrs. Day's reply.

"I'd better not tell you. My mommy might not like it."

Mrs. Day coaxed the little girl. "Please tell me."

Then Brenda made her announcement. "Why don't you keep the Sabbath, because the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord Thy God and you go to church on Sunday."

As the two ladies sat in the car, Mrs. Day asked Mrs. Zarska why she went to church on Saturday. Here was the opportunity for which she had been praying. The answers were not hard to give and she enrolled Mrs. Day in the Gift Bible plan. Studies followed and recently Mrs. Day and two of her children were baptized.

Pathfinder Fair Held at Atholton

ON Sunday, May 21, the Pathfinders of the Chesapeake Conference held a fair at the Atholton school. It was a cold, rainy day, but eight clubs registered and had a great time competing in the outdoor contests, marching in the parade, and eating the delicious food at stands set up in the gymnasium.

There were exhibits, floats, and fellowship. The Spencerville Club, led by Blaine Ullom, took the first-place grand award. Other winners in various events were as follows:

INDIAN DRAG RACE—Must complete race within 3, 4, or 5 minutes for 1st, 2nd, or 3rd. All first-place winners. Atholton, 40 seconds; Westminster, 52 seconds; Spencerville, 59 seconds.

SPEED KNOT TYING—First place, Spencerville. Square knot, Norman Eide; sheepshank, Terry Sample; square knot tied behind back, Norman Eide. Second place, Mount Aetna; two half hitches on arm, John Schock; bowline, Keith Peden. Third place, Atholton. Slip knot, Ben Clausen.

EXHIBITS—First place, Atholton; second place, Spencerville; third place, Westminster.

FLOATS—First place, Wilmington; second place, Spencerville.

GRAND AWARDS—First grand award—Spencerville, 115 points; second grand award, Westminster, 69 points; third grand award, Wilmington, 53 points.

Keep practicing so you can do better next year. We hope all clubs will participate.

Recent Convert Completes Many Bible Courses

SHIRLEY O. WARREN, a newly baptized member of the Prentiss Park Church of Portsmouth, Va., has successfully completed eight Voice of Prophecy and two Faith for Today Bible courses.

Miss Warren, who is presently employed as a typist was stricken with polio in 1944. Oretha Craighton, a member of the Newport News Church, came to her home in Chuckatuck, Va., selling Message magazine. Miss Warren requested that her name be sent to the Voice of Prophecy for a free Bible course. She received her first diploma on April 14, 1955.

She continued her studies with the Conference President, who was introduced to Salem College President, Dr. Duane Hurley, by the College Dean, Dr. William C. Sanborn. Elder Moore gave a brief background review of the gigantic publication task, and items of interest. President Hurley, in accepting the gift, spoke appreciatively regarding the work and influence of Seventh-day Adventists. Mrs. Sara Graham accepted the gift in behalf of the college library.

Seventh-day Adventists are well-known at Salem College, where Dr. William C. Sanborn has served as dean for the past several years. He was honored by being elected President of an organization including all college deans in West Virginia. Dr. and Mrs. Sanborn have held membership in the Clarksburg Seventh-day Adventist Church during their stay in West Virginia. Both Dr. and Mrs. Sanborn have given strong leadership in the church where he has acted as Church Elder. His wise counsel and stabilizing judgment on the Conference Executive Committee for the past six years has been appreciated. As the Sanborns leave us to take appointments in the New Kettering College of Medical Arts in Ohio, we wish them God's continued guidance. Their uplifting influence at Salem College, in the Clarksburg church, and in the West Virginia Conference will long be remembered.

Large Group Graduates From "Bible Speaks" Course

Left: Elder and Mrs. Luis Plata and daughter Marilyn. Right: A large group of members from the Hoboken and Jersey City Spanish churches graduated from the "Bible Speaks Course."

FIFTY-EIGHT believers from the Jersey City and Hoboken Churches graduated from the "Bible Speaks" course in the Hoboken Church on Sabbath, June 17. These individuals completed the course so that they will be better prepared to share these Bible truths with others.

Taking part in the service were: Elders A. B. Butler, Luis Plata, Jose Rivera, I. Rojas, O. Mejia, I. Chavez, and R. D. Steinke. Under the leadership of Elder Plata the churches have made excellent progress and it is with regret that we bid him and his family farewell.

They leave for Andrews University where Elder Plata will take some advanced studies. Elder Butler introduced the membership to their new Pastor, Elder O. Mejia who now serves the Perth Amboy Spanish Church.

Spanish Churches Honor Former Conference Head

The members of the eight Spanish churches in New Jersey showed their appreciation to Elder and Mrs. A. B. Butler by making a presentation to them after the "Bible Speaks" graduation program at Hoboken on Sabbath, June 17. Elder Butler has been called to serve as Executive Secretary in the Columbia Union Conference, Washington, D. C.

Layman Serves Both Church and County

Herbert Spair, a member of the Trenton Church, is ready to serve whether in uniform or out of uniform. He is usually found entrenched in a maze of work that ordinarily would keep four men busy. However, when called upon to do service for the church he willingly responds, and this is the spirit of the entire Spair family. We salute Herbert Spair in uniform who serves as a constable in Washington Township, Mercer County. Standing with Constable Spair is R. D. Steinke, Lay Activities Secretary of the New Jersey Conference.

New Cherry Hill Church

The members of the Cherry Hill Church at Camden, N. J., have been sharing the Lutheran Church in that area for some time, and the kindness of these Christian friends has been appreciated. We now rejoice that Cherry Hill members have a church home of their own, and, although it has not been completed, they are comfortably situated and plan to have the project finished before too long. Pastor James A. Terzo, his committee, and the entire church membership have done a magnificent job and we are pleased with the wonderful progress that has been made in the construction of this new church home in the Camden area.

Conference Airatorium To Be Used at Bridgeton

THE "Bubble" purchased by the New Jersey Conference is already at work. The Holley team just concluded an effort on the site of the new Morristown Church property. Fifteen decisions or more are expected as the follow-up work continues.

The airatorium has now been erected near Bridgeton where Elder E. F. Koch will conduct a series of meetings for that district.

The success of evangelistic meetings is dependent on the church membership and their interest in bringing friends and neighbors to the meetings.

We feel confident that our believers will cooperate in joining in this effort conducted on the Bridgeton-Vineland road, just outside of the city of Bridgeton.

Little Blind Children Need Your Used Sabbath School Records

Hundreds of little blind children would be so happy if they could listen to some of the records which Adventist children have already listened to. We are thinking about the Sabbath School lessons on records and nature stories on records. Regardless of the date on the records, if you wish to send them to us, we shall relay them to these anxious little blind children. Successful Investment Project

THIS is my fifth successful year, handling the Reader's Digest renewals and summer specials and giving my income to the Investment Fund. My goal for this year is $300.

Please imagine what it would be, if every S. D. A. family who subscribes to the Reader's Digest, would channel his subscription through a Digest representative, who gives all his net income to missions. If you want information as to how to get started, please write me. In fact until you find some one in your church to do the work, I am willing to share with your church some of my profits. In other words if anyone sends me two or more orders at one time with their check, I will process the orders and return to their Sabbath School a good portion of my commission. I am so anxious to see my project grow and grow!

Please send me your renewals at $2.97 and until August 14, just six weeks, when new subscribers can have the magazine for two full years for just $2.99. Remember—this has been the "special" for this year since March. All members who have the habit of buying the Reader's Digest on the newsstand are paying 50 cents a copy. By taking advantage of the special offer for new subscribers they pay only 13 cents a copy. Please note that this project saves a good portion of your money for missions. How can I make such an offer? I am in my declining years, but still use the typewriter and enjoy it.

By Mrs. Marion Thomas

Press Secretary, Toledo Church

Our present-day Moses is definitely not "hidden in the bulrushes." He just doesn't have time!

The Toledo First Church has been blessed with a missionary in its midst for the last few weeks and has learned first-hand what real sacrifice means.

Kalapala Moses, 30 years old, left his family and home in India two years ago and came to the United States to complete his Master's Degree in Business Administration. In order for him to come to the United States it became necessary to sell everything he owned to raise the money for his transportation. When he arrived in New York City, he had $8 in his pocket.

He attended Andrews University and completed his studies, and has been colporteur in the Toledo area to raise money to pay off all his school debts, and be able besides, to set up housekeeping for his wife and four children, the youngest of whom he has never seen.

"Moses," as he likes to be called,

A Modern Moses!

recently won first prize in the essay contest sponsored by the India Association of Toledo. He completed against many in the Toledo area, and his essay "The Comparative Study of Educational Systems of the U.S. and India" was awarded the first prize at a Spring Festival that was opened by His Excellency, B. K. Nehru, India's ambassador to the United States.

Moses' background has been one of preparation for willingness to live for his Lord no matter what the sacrifice may be. His mother has a "house by the side of the road," wherein she has cared for weary and hungry travelers all of Moses' life. A widow, since her son was 6 months old, she has fed and clothed needy with no repayment, because she felt that some day her son may be hungry and have no home and perhaps someone would take him in. The Toledo Church has tried to do this, by providing him with electric appliances to take home: stove, refrigerator, sewing machine, etc., as well as Spirit of Prophecy books to assist him in his work, and clothes for his children. Moses has cleared all his financial obligations incurred for his education. His wife and children have sacrificed much for this education, and they are longing to have him come home soon. In fact, each time a plane flies overhead, the children run out to see it and cry "Daddy!"

Moses, a true disciple of Christ, who preached eight years in India, faced troubles and problems every day since finishing school here in the United States, yet his smile grows broader and his eyes more sparkling as he says, "I don't worry. My God watches over me. He will help me in all these problems, as He has done in the past." He has been staying with Mr. and Mrs. Doug Cottrell while in the Toledo area.

Although he could receive a sizeable salary, were he to accept a position in a worldly enterprise, he will return to India to teach Business Administration at Spicer College in Poona. The Toledo Church congregation has considered his presence a real blessing and joy, and he made the beauty and necessity of true sacrifice very real to them.
