"WOULD YOU TELL ME WHAT TO DO TO BE SAVED?"

by Lyndon DeWitt

Co-ordinator of Evangelism
West Virginia Conference

A PROSPECTOR, working in the hills behind Minas de Caraipe, Brazil, awakened, startled by a dream. A voice had spoken to him, telling him distinctly to go to the town, and at a certain address he would find an Adventist who would tell him what to do to be saved from his sins and have eternal life.

The following morning the prospector knocked on the Adventist's door. As he told the astonished man of his dream, and of the purpose of his call, a bystander who had come at the same time from another direction, and who was listening intently, spoke up.

"I, too, am a miner, and I had the very same dream. I've come to the address given me in the dream, and for the same purpose, to find what I must do to be saved."

A Bible class was formed on the spot, and a short time later a conference representative who called found not only these two men, but six others prepared for baptism.

Unusual, perhaps, but the Kretschmars say it happened just a few weeks ago in the Bahia Mission. However, the Lord has no greater longing to see these simple miners saved than He does you.

In less time than it takes to read this message of hope, you too, can be rejoicing in the Salvation of our Lord. There are just three simple steps:

Step 1. "... if there is first a willing mind, it is accepted . . ." Every person who has ever lived will be saved, except those who have imposed a perverse will. Everything depends on the right action of the will. It is the governing force that determines a man's success or failure in the battle of life. How earnestly our Saviour pleads, "If ye be willing and obedient, ye shall eat the good of the land," but mournfully adds, through Isaiah the Prophet, "if ye refuse and rebel, ye shall be devoured . . ." He further pleads "... in returning and rest shall ye be saved . . ." yet tragically adds, "... and ye would (will) not." The Spirit calls, "... whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."

Step 2. Your sins are pardoned through the blood of Jesus, which "... cleanseth us from all sin." "... unto Him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in His own blood," does St. John ascribe glory and honor. Right at this moment, as you humbly bow at the cross, that awful load of which you cannot free yourself, will fall from your back and roll into the open sepulcher, just as it did from Christian's in Pilgrim's Progress. You are instantly and totally free. "There is therefore now no condemnation . . ."

Step 3. Now simply accept the robe of Christ's righteousness in which He longs to shroud you. "He hath made him to be sin for us . . . that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him." God now looks on you as His child, adopted into the royal family. You are as flawless as His own dear Son.

And now that you have made your decision to be wholly Christ's accept, believe, and cherish the great fact completely. You have become a partaker of Christ's righteousness—by faith. You are perfect in His sight.

But it is only so if you choose it. Did you ever hear of George Wilson—a mail thief condemned to die? President Andrew Jackson, a Democrat, carefully reviewed the case and issued Wilson a pardon.

When it reached Wilson in the Pennsylvania Penitentiary, he flew into a rage. "I refuse to be pardoned at the hands of a Democrat," he angrily swore. And when the President heard of Wilson's rejection of the pardon, he was just as angry. "When Andrew Jackson pardons a man, he is pardoned, whether he wants to be pardoned or not."

Not so, declared the United States Supreme Court, ruling on the Wilson vs. Jackson decision. The Court upheld Wilson in his right to die. July 6, 1830, George Wilson went to his death declaring, "I will not be pardoned by a Democrat."

Do I hear you say, "What a fool Wilson was?" And yet millions under the eternal death penalty declare, "I will not be pardoned by the hands of the Saviour." And sure enough, the Supreme Court of the universe will honor that decision. You can die, but it's a fool's choice. But if you will yield your will now to Jesus, you will have pardon and eternal life. You can make that choice just this very moment. Will you?

Adventist Hospitals Serve the World

Reading Institute of Rehabilitation.

THE aged, grizzled sea captain leaned forward expectantly in his chair and peered into the face of Dr. Lawrence Senseman. For a moment his labored breathing was the only sound in the doctor's waiting room. Then with great effort, he rasped, "This is a Seventh-day Adventist hospital, isn't it?"

Reassuring words from Dr. Senseman, Medical Director of Fuller Memorial Sanitarium, South Attleboro, Massachusetts, calmed the old sailor. He was taken immediately to a hospital room and treatment began for his severe heart condition.

It was some time before Dr. Senseman got the story behind the question from the captain. Some years previously he had spent a year with Admiral Richard E. Byrd at the South Pole. On the return trip from Antarctica, the expedition ship had stopped at Pitcairn Island.

This and subsequent contacts with Adventists on the lonely Pacific island had made a lasting impression on the captain. He made up his mind that if he were ever sick, he would go to a Seventh-day Adventist hospital. When illness struck him down, his first concern was that he be placed in an Adventist institution.

Adventist hospitals, clinics and dispensaries in the various countries of earth have exerted a strong, positive influence for good and have made many friends for the church. The combination of excellent medical facilities coupled with Christian care, makes an impression on men and women that is not easily erased by time.

Today in the United States alone, there are 43 Adventist operated hospitals. To this number can be added several hundred independent hospitals, nursing homes, sanitariums and other medical facilities. Though not directly controlled by the church, the management is Adventist and Adventist principles prevail. What is said of the church-operated institutions is equally true of the independently operated medical facility.

Columbia Union Hospitals

Within the Columbia Union Conference there are eight hospitals serving the needs of humanity. Three are operated by the Columbia Union Conference. These include the Kettering Memorial Hospital, Hadley Hospital, and the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital. The Reading Institute of Rehabilitation is operated by the Pennsylvania Conference.

The Medical Group Foundation, Riverdale, Maryland operates three hospitals. These include the Leland Memorial Hospital, Riverdale, Maryland; the Tidewater Memorial Hospital, Tappahannock, Virginia, and the Wytheville Hospital, Wytheville, Virginia.

Completing the list of hospitals in the Columbia Union is the Harding Hospital, Worthington, Ohio.

Tidewater on TV

Listeners in the Richmond viewing area, will want to watch a special program to be seen on Channel 6, WTVR, at 12:00 noon, March 16.

Like many Adventist institutions, the Tidewater Memorial Hospital has carried on Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking. This will be the main feature of an interview with Donald Freuchtel, assistant administrator. He is the guest of John Shand on the program, "Viewpoint." Elder John McGraw, Public Relations Secretary of the Potomac Conference, watched the video taping of the program and said "It was very well done."

Kettering Expansion

At the Kettering Medical Center, construction on the new Pulmonary Intensive Care Unit is proceeding on schedule. Walls will be closed for plastering this week. Plans call for the new facility to open in March.

Plans were also announced recently for a major construction program to cost $6.65 million. Included in the immediate planning is the expansion of the diagnostic, treatment, and parking facilities at the hospital.

Washington Sanitarium to Build

Work is expected to begin soon on the first phase of the expansion program of the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital. The cost of the first phase is expected to be about $10.5 million. New construction will increase the bed capacity of the hospital to 400 beds.

About $150,000 worth of new equipment has been purchased to be installed in a special procedures room now being developed. This will provide facilities for careful diagnostic checkup on patients with heart and vascular problems. This center is an important step in developing an open heart surgery unit in the hospital.

Hackettstown Hospital Plans

Recently Dr. Charles Kwartler, president of the Gamma Chemical Company, Hackettstown, New Jersey, reported to members of the Tranquility Church on progress of the proposed hospital in Hackettstown.

In giving the history of the project,

Dr. Kwartler said, "The idea of having a hospital in Hackettstown is not a new one. A group was formed 15 years ago with the objective of getting community effort generated to get a hospital.

"But the actual campaign began about a year ago. At that time we were fortunate to be referred to the Seventh-day Adventists. They were persuaded, after a careful survey, that the needs for a hospital were real."

Dr. Kwartler pointed out that Milton Murray, Columbia Union Conference consultant; Charles Eldridge, Hadley Hospital Administrator; and Oliver Jacques, former Hadley Public Relations Director, had helped to launch a community fund raising campaign. He said the closest hospital care was 15 miles distant.

He also noted that the Hackettstown area is in the midst of a population explosion.

"Our needs have skyrocketed. Fifteen years ago there were about 15,000 people who would use the hospital. That number has doubled since then," he said.

The company president said the community had set a goal of $1.6 million to be raised in the area. This would come in from solicitation of corporations, commerce and by house-to-house contacts.

"We have at this point raised $1.1 million," he told the congregation. "This campaign is proceeding quite satisfactorily but we recognize that rising construction costs will raise the needs."

He called for increased community support of the hospital project and urged each church member to "make themselves a committee of one" to contact friends for the community endeavor.

Campsite Purchased by Pennsylvania Conference

OUR wonderful members in Pennsylvania love the camp meeting. At a Conference Constituency meeting held in the Harrisburg Church on November 10, 1968, it was voted to hold one ten-day camp meeting near the central part of our beautiful Commonwealth as soon as practical.

Since this meeting we have purchased a lovely property of 110 acres for $30,000.00 near Lamar, Pa., only about four miles from Interstate 80 on Route 64. It is indeed a lovely location with 55 acres cleared and 55 acres wooded, with a beautiful stream running through the property. The Conference Executive Committee, with our Union Conference officers present, carefully checked four properties. We feel that this property could be developed nicely into a multi-purpose camp for all-year use.

We wish to encourage each member of our Conference to assist in rapidly caring for our indebtedness on our auditorium-gym at Blue Mountain Academy so that we can develop the property at Lamar. We will be selling the property at Wescosville.

The response to the camp meeting survey sheets for a ten-day camp meeting to be held this summer at Blue Mountain Academy does not warrant such a meeting. Therefore, the Conference Executive Committee voted on January 26, 1969 that we hold two weekend meetings this year—one at our new school property site near Pittsburgh on the weekend of June 21 and one at Blue Mountain Academy, June 27 and 28. We will keep you informed.

Jesus is coming SOON. We must BE ready.

Five-Day Stop Smoking Clinic Held by McFarland

DR. J. WAYNE MCFARLAND, co-developer of the denomination's Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking, with assistance from the Philadelphia area ministers, has just completed his 15th Stop Smoking Plan.

With an initial enrollment of 250, the latest plan was conducted in the auditorium facility of the Lankenaw Hospital in Philadelphia. Several hundred additional Stop Smoking aspirants were turned away because of the limited facility.

The recent clinic was sparked by a request from the Lankenaw Hospital's board of directors who are interested in beginning a Stop-Smoking Plan of their own called S. O. S. (stop our smoking).

Dr. McFarland and his ministerial associates attempt to hold a clinic every 6-8 weeks. The 15 previous clinics had a total attendance of approximately 1,700.

Weekly 80 Mile Bible Study Trip Wins Six to Christ

SABBATH, February 1, was a high day in the Kingston district when the churches of Slocum and Drums gathered together with the Kingston church for the wonderful service of baptism. Ellen Peck, Carolyn Stryjak, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hoffman and their children, Wanita, Keith, Fern, and Douglas were baptized into the remnant church.

Our faithful Literature Evangelist, sixty-nine years young, Sterling Bloss contacted the Hoffman family in 1954 and sold them Desire of Ages. In 1957 he sold them a set of Bible Stories, Life and Health, These Times, and Your Bible and You. In 1968 the mother of this lovely family purchased from Sterling Bloss the Triumph of God's Love. When this faithful soul winner called at the home again in August 1968, he enrolled them in the Faith for Today Bible Course and began giving them Bible studies.

Sterling Bloss and his faithful wife traveled eighty miles round trip each week to present to the Hoffman family the truth of God's Word. They drank in each study and consented to be baptized.

Sterling Bloss has seen seven precious souls that he has studied with begin their march to the heavenly Jerusalem.

Ellen Peck and Carolyn Stryjak, two very energetic young ladies, studied the Gift Bible lessons with their pastor.

Three-Week Bible Lecture To Be Held at Hagerstown

"Our Shattered World—What Is Coming?" will be the opening topic in the Faith for Today Bible lecture series to begin Saturday, April 5, at 7 P.M., in the Faith for Today Auditorium, Franklin Court, Franklin Street—across from Post Office, between Potomac and Jonathan, in the heart of Hagerstown.

Featured also will be the showing of the beautiful Disney color film "The Living Desert," part one, a magnificent depiction of previously unfiled marvels of the desert.

Outstanding music will be a continuing feature of the series.

Pastor Gordon F. Dalrymple, editor of publications at Faith for Today, will highlight the current world crisis in the light of Bible prophecy and will outline the golden age of hope predicted in the Bible. War in Vietnam, the Middle East tensions, a rapidly increasing crime rate, abject poverty in the midst of great wealth, tragically unsettled world conditions, unprecedented armaments with fantastic weapons at man's disposal—all of these will be analyzed in Dalrymple's opening night lecture. He will show how all of these things have been predicted in Bible prophecy. And he will present their solution as found in Scripture.

Pastor W. R. May, president of the Chesapeake Conference, will be chairman of the series. Serving as coordinator will be Pastor Christy Taylor.

Dalrymple is a former associate editor of THESE TIMES and SIGNS OF THE TIMES magazines.

Also slated for the opening night will be two new visual discoveries: black-light, or colorama, with its glowing symbols, and overhead projection by which key Bible prophecies can be highlighted. Beautiful color screen slides will also illustrate the lecture.

Associate speaker for the Faith for Today series will be Pastor Christy Taylor.

The three-week Faith for Today thrust will continue until April 27. A continuation of meetings will take place with Pastor Taylor speaking after that time.

Topics and films for the first week include:

Pastor's Bible Studies Win Five New Members

THE month of January, 1969, will be remembered as an outstanding month for the Patuxent church. Five more adults were baptized into the Seventh-day Adventist church: Phaon and Carrol Beck, Allen Buckler, and Barbara and Francis Jones.

The Becks first became interested when Elder Harold Friesen conducted an evangelistic campaign in the Patuxent area. The pastor, Bruce Hinckley, followed up with Bible studies and as a result two fine families are now on fire for God.

The Patuxent church is growing rapidly. A new building is now being planned. Most of the membership of this happy church has come into the

DeWitt Accepts Evangelism Challenge in West Virginia

Lyndon DeWitt, with wife Leora and daughter Sonja Lynne, has accepted the challenge of evangelism in the West Virginia Conference.

LYNDON DEWITT accepted the challenge of evangelism in the West Virginia Conference. Plans are formulated for total commitment on the part of each district leader and the office personnel, with firm cooperation from the laymen.

Elder DeWitt was born in Loma Linda, California. He received his B.Th. degree from Walla Walla College, and was ordained to the gospel ministry in 1958. He served as pastor in the Texas and Carolina conferences, as a missionary in the Middle East Division, and then as conference evangelist in the Chesapeake Conference.

Mrs. Leora Pangburn-DeWitt received her B.S. degree from Andrews University. She has had secretarial and teaching experience. Little Sonja Lynne gladdens the DeWitt home.

God has blessed the West Virginia Conference in raising sufficient funds to engage in evangelism. Elder DeWitt has had a part in bringing many souls to Christ. I invite our members to join those of us here in the office in praying that God will richly bless and lead in this special venture to bring a knowledge of the three angels' messages to His children here in West Virginia.

MEMBERS of the Laurel, Maryland, Church marked a significant anniversary on Sabbath, February 1, when they observed the 50th year of organization of the church.

There were other factors, also, that contributed to the importance of the occasion. First of all, it marked the official opening of their new church. Though the church had been in use for some months, this was the first public opportunity to invite visitors after the installation of new pews and altar furniture.

Secondly, the guest speaker was Elder H. M. S. Richards, speaker for the Voice of Prophecy. Tent meetings he conducted 50 years ago brought in the first members for the church.

Elder Richards told the congregation about some of the problems faced in the evangelistic meetings. While he was still a student at Washington Missionary College, he and D. A. Reese pitched a tent for meetings.

Seeking to draw a large crowd, the aspiring pair of preachers persuaded a Takoma Park theologian to show stereopticon slides as a special feature for one of the Sunday night programs.

"This was a novelty in those days," Elder Richards observed. "We advertised the special meeting well and the tent was filled with expectant listeners."

There was just one drawback in the program—the special guest did not appear.

The next day, upon checking, Elder Richards found the guest had driven to Baltimore and missed the town of Laurel. However, he promised faithfully to be present on the next Sunday night.

"We advertised again and the tent was filled," Elder Richards said. "But there was another difficulty we hadn't planned for. The speaker came on time but he forgot his slides!"

The too-familiar process was repeated a third Sunday night but this time everything went as planned. But as Elder Richards noted, "Somehow we didn't have as large a crowd on the third Sunday night as we had previously."

Despite the initial difficulties, people were baptized and a church was organized. For some years they met in temporary quarters. In 1934 a church was built. Later this church was sold and a larger edifice purchased.

In 1965 the congregation purchased property four miles from Laurel in the heart of a rapidly developing area. With a great deal of faith, the congregation of 60 members laid plans for a church seating 400.

(It is interesting to note that the membership has already doubled.)

With building plans underway, there was a need for a contractor. As the opening-day bulletin put it, "God sent a man!" This was Dr. James Anderson.

Before beginning a medical career, Dr. Anderson had been a successful pastor in Texas and had led out in several building programs. After completion of his medical schooling at Loma Linda University, he came to the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital for his internship.

At this time he asked Elder Cyril Miller, president of the Chesapeake Conference, if he could help with one of the churches. Elder Miller suggested the Laurel church.

Dr. Anderson became the pastor of the Laurel church. He also became the contractor for the new church. All of this was accomplished while he completed his internship and began a residency in obstetrics.

Dr. Anderson is now the first elder of the church and Stephen Gifford is the pastor.

The new church is located in a beautiful area, just a mile or so from Highway 29. There is no doubt that the church will continue to grow as it serves an area that is being developed into a major population center.

Sharman Leads Out

EVERY pastor leaves his imprint upon the churches he pastors. Over a period of years, a congregation receives strength and knowledge from a succession of ministers.

One of the imprints of the new pastor of the Takoma Park church—Elder Glenn Sharman—will be innovation. So far, this has meant the expansion of the ministry of the church to more fully serve the needs of its members and friends.

Elder Sharman stated it this way: "We began to realize that the church needed to be of service to the community. It needed to have its doors open more often."

"We found we had many elderly members who could not attend night meetings," Elder Sharman continued. "In addition there were those with young children who could not attend Wednesday night prayer meetings."

In giving thought to this, the pastoral staff decided to begin a noon-day prayer meeting. With the Review and Herald Publishing Association and the General Conference offices just across the street, there was an additional potential audience and a choice of guest speakers. The Tuesday noon prayer meetings have been well attended.

Another innovation has been the Thursday noon organ meditation. There is a brief devotional and prayer, followed by a half hour of organ music.

"We are studying plans for a Sunday night forum," Elder Sharman asserts. "This would be a different approach to evangelistic meetings."

Elder Sharman was born in South Africa, the son of missionary parents. After his early schooling in Africa, he returned to Canadian Union College where he attended the academy and graduated from college. Following this, he attended the Seminary.

With Elder Glenn Sharman (seated) are two associate pastors of the Takoma Park Church. They are Elder Joseph Damazo, associate pastor, and John Johansen, youth pastor.

His first pastoral assignment was in Norfolk, Virginia, where he worked with Evangelist Robert L. Boothby. Later he pastored in Portsmouth, Staunton, Waynesboro and Roanoke.

These were followed by pastoral assignments in Charleston, West Virginia, Grand Junction, Colorado, and Houston, Texas. He came to Takoma Park in Sept., 1968, from Houston.

Mrs. Sharman was the former Alice Heiny from Ohio. The Sharmans

CAPITAL MEMORIAL DEDICATES CHURCH

THE new Capital Memorial Church was dedicated December 21, 1968. The million dollar edifice is located at 3150 Chesapeake St. in Northwest Washington, D.C. Until December 1963 the congregation was meeting in the church at 5th and F.

Cree Sandefur, president of the Columbia Union Conference spoke at the dedication service at 3:00 P.M. The morning worship service speaker was Neal C. Wilson, president of the North American Division. Fenton E. Froom, president of the Potomac Conference offered the dedicatory prayer.

The dedication service climaxed a high day for the congregation. J. R. Johnson, pastor of the church led out in the program for the day. Sabbath School, Divine Worship, and an organ recital by Van Knauss at 2:30 P.M. preceded the dedication service.

The new structure seats 750, is of contemporary design, constructed from light colored brick and trimmed in Indiana limestone. It is air-conditioned and has the finest appointments.

have three children, Daryl, Donald and Kathleen.

Associated with Elder Sharman in the pastorship of the Takoma Park church is Elder Joseph Damazo, and the youth pastor, John Johansen.

Elder Damazo is a native of New England and graduated from Atlantic Union College. For 15 years he was a pastor in the Southern New England Conference. Prior to coming to the Takoma Park, church, he had been a pastor in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Damazo was born in Massachusetts and was the former Hazel Gamble. The Damazos have two daughters, Carolyn and Barbara.

John Johansen's home is in New York City. After graduating from Atlantic Union College, he spent two years in sales work. After this, he and his wife, the former Marian Vanff of Mullica, New Jersey, taught in Wytheville, Virginia. It was here he got the inspiration to enter the ministry. After completing work at the Seminary, he came to the Takoma Park church in October, 1968. Under this leadership the Takoma Park church offers an innovative ministry to the area.

The history of the work of Seventh-day Adventists in the Nation's Capital sees the Capital Memorial Church in a prominent role.

ELDER J. O. Corliss organized the first Seventh-day Adventist church February 24, 1889 in the Claybaugh Hall on 14th St., NW. Twenty-six members made up the charter membership of the First Seventh-day Adventist Church. It was in 1893 that the first building was purchased for $200.00. The repairs cost $500.00, and a new addition $6,300, making a total of $7,000. The building was on 8th Street between F and G, NE.

In 1902 members of the First Church formed another congregation, called the Memorial Church. Elder J. S. Washburn completed the building in 1903, the first church building built by Seventh-day Adventists in the Nation's Capital.

Evangelism flourished in the District of Columbia during the following seventeen years. Elder J. L. McElhany reported in 1912 that there were 10 organized churches in Washington, D. C. The names of G. B. Thompson, W. W. Prescott, Luther Warren, and R. E. Harter are part of the workers who built God's work then.

Seven Year Old Inspired to Earn Jasper Wayne Goal

Seven-year-old Marc L. Sloan smiles as he brings his Ingathering total of $134.63 to the Lord.

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD Marc L. Sloan loves to work for the Lord. When the Ingathering program was launched in the Silver Spring, Maryland, Seventh-day Adventist Church this year, Marc made up his mind that he was going to raise a Jasper Wayne goal. His purpose was two-fold: first, to work for God; second, to earn a free week at camp. Due to the fact that the Sloans might be transferred before the camp season begins, Marc's mother said to him one day, "You may not be able to go to camp. Do you still want to go Ingathering?" Marc answered, "Even though I may not be able to go to camp, I'm doing it for the Lord." Marc raised $134.63. We do well to emulate the wonderful spirit of this "child" of God.

As a result of a series of meetings in 1915 by Elder R. E. Harter, Dr. B. G. Wilkinson, and music director Henry de Fluiter a new church of forty members was organized. It was called the Capital Hill Church; and was located at 4th and E Streets, NE.

The Capital Memorial Church was a merger of the Capital Hill and Memorial congregations in 1924. Dr. H. G. Hadley, Building Committee Chairman of the new church, was a strong and persevering worker in urging the purchase of the Methodist Episcopal Church at the corner of 5th and F Streets, NW., at a cost of $49,000. An additional $50,000 was used for repairs and redecorating.

The first pastor was Elder Raymond Spencer former pastor of the Memorial Church. The second pastor, Elder N. W. Philips had previously pastored the Capital Hill Church. A number of the ministers and evangelists serving the congregation through the years were Dr. B. G. Wilkinson, Clinton J. Coon, J. W. McNeil, John Ford, Wayne Hill, George Rapp, Robert L. Boothby and W. John Cannon.

In 1957 Elder J. R. Johnson was called from the Cleveland First Church to lead out in the relocation and erection of a new church. Four years of extensive fund raising was successfully carried out under his leadership.

Construction on the new edifice began in May 1962. The first service was held in the church December 21, 1963. The beautiful house of worship was dedicated free of debt five years later.

Those participating in the dedication program were: Elder R. G. Burchfield, secretary-treasurer of the Potomac Conference, Elder Clinton J. Coon, former pastor and conference president, Chatley Eldridge, administrator of Hadley Memorial Hospital, Elder Fenton E. Froom, president of the Potomac Conference, Dr. H. G. Hadley, Medical Director, Hadley Memorial Hospital, and chairman, Building Committee, Elder J. R. Johnson, pastor, J. N. Lyon, treasurer, Building Committee; Elder Lawrence M. Nelson, associate secretary, MV Department, General Conference; Elder Cree Sandefur, president of the Columbia Union Conference; Elder Neal C. Wilson, president North American Division, General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists.

absorbing the interest and efforts of the world's astronomers. On a "Safari to the Edge of Space" the following Sunday night, the latest color pictures from major observatories will conduct the audience on a journey through our Milky Way Galaxy and beyond.

The fourth adventure in space, "One Chance in a Million," features our earth and its environment in space, including the latest discoveries by orbiting satellites. Closing the series will be a picture story of the 1968 Geoscience Field Conference, in the great open spaces of the colorful American West—Arizona, Utah, and Wyoming. This program highlights some of the problems Seventh-day Adventist geologists encounter when they go out to observe the surface of the earth today. It also suggests how, as Christians, we can relate to these problems with full faith and confidence in God's Word.

All of the programs in the Adventures in Space series will be fully illustrated in color on the screen, with narration by Raymond F. Cottrell. The pictures are from his collection built up over the past three years, and include many of his own as well as the best from the National Aeronautical and Space Administration, and from Mount Palomar and other observatories.

Silver Spring Church Holds Bible Classes for the Deaf

WHAT began as an individual missionary project between a hard-of-hearing lady and a totally deaf acquaintance has now broadened into a group project involving between 25 and 45 deaf students and several dedicated non-deaf instructors.

Originally, Mrs. Mazine Davidson, who is hard of hearing and who was educated at Gallaudet College for the Deaf in Washington, D.C., began to give Bible studies to a deaf friend, Mrs. Joan Hodge, also a graduate student of Gallaudet.

During the course of these studies, a friend of Mrs. Davidson's from California came for a visit and told her about the Adventist congregations for the deaf in the west. There are three small deaf congregations established in that area—in Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Portland, Oregon. With the use of sign language these people have been able to silently portray through hand signals the plan of redemption.

Mrs. Ann Schroeder, a Bible worker for the Silver Spring, Maryland, church became interested in this field of evangelism and attended Gallaudet College in order to learn how to communicate with these deaf people in order to teach them the Bible truths. With the help of Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Hodge, Elder Stephen Paulty, pastor of Silver Spring church and Elder Lyle Cornforth, associate pastor of Sligo church, a Bible class was organized. A training class was begun for those interested in learning sign language in order to help with the deaf Bible studies.

The Gallaudet College granted the group permission to use their especially equipped classroom at the college for these Bible classes and the attendance totaled at times as many as 45.

In the spring of 1968, the General Conference Department of North American Missions, together with the Potomac Conference and the Oregon Conference sponsored a two month "sowing" visit by Pastor Arthur Griffith, pastor of the Portland, Oregon deaf congregation.

More recently, the Potomac Conference has called Fred Griffith, son of Pastor Arthur Griffith, to an internship in the Washington, D.C. area. He has now assumed leadership of the fledgling group and is conducting Bible studies both on Gallaudet campus and in the Silver Spring church.

James Womack, David Trexler, Scott Vermilya and Priscilla Beaver are to be baptized from this effort. However, there are eleven Adventists who attend the Sabbath School class.

Mrs. Schroeder states, "I've never witnessed any greater enthusiasm for the Gospel than what I've seen in these deaf students. It really makes you want to get busy and do something about spreading the Gospel."

The sense of hearing is recognized as prominent for the teaching of God's triumphant message in this generation, however, there are many Americans who are either deaf, or greatly impaired in their hearing. For those who are totally deaf, or greatly impaired, there is still a need for them to receive spiritual truth and inspiration. The deaf congregations of the West Coast have underwritten the cost for producing a number of 16 mm. movies featuring Pastor Arthur Griffith in sign language Bible studies. These may be obtained by people who wish to give Bible studies to their deaf acquaintances by contacting the Silver Spring Adventist church, Silver Spring, Maryland.

Mrs. Hodge, although deaf, has given several Bible study lessons to her hearing neighbors by asking and writing questions on paper.

Allegheny West Ministers Pray for God's Direction

When preachers meet to pray, to plan, to evaluate, to investigate, to recommend, good things usually happen for the cause of God. Old age had to sneak up on Albert Wagner. It skulked around behind the Little League ball club, the grandchildren, and the new boat trailer. A month ago it struck. Martie isn't making any guesses about how soon Al will swing a bat again—if he ever does. So he swings his cane and keeps himself laughing. It's a good show until you catch him with the twinkle in his eyes dimmed out with pain and the panic light flashing.

Lord, reach down past all the grim cheerfulness into Al Wagner's apprehensive mind. "These Times" is going to be there month after month after month. Help it to crowd out the hollow laughs. Let it light the path ahead with something like peace for Al and Martie. Only $2.75

Workers' Retreat Held at Garden State Academy

THE New Jersey Conference workers met for Workers' Retreat January 19-22 at beautiful Garden State Academy. It was good to come apart from the hustle and bustle of the world for a while in the quiet surroundings of this lovely countryside. The newly decorated chapel in the Girls' Dormitory was an ideal setting, and increased the spiritual atmosphere.

Plans for an Evangelistic thrust were discussed and a solid program was adopted that would unite the efforts of the laymen along with the pastors in evangelizing New Jersey.

It was the general consent among the workers that this Retreat with its outstanding speakers was a most rewarding experience. Elder Delafield from the General Conference led out in the program with timely devotions. Elder C. D. Brooks, Ministerial Secretary of the Columbia Union brought inspirational messages throughout the entire session. Elder Sandefur, Columbia Union President, and Elder Quigley, New Jersey Conference President, challenged the ministers to do greater exploits for God. The challenge presented by the leaders was accepted by each minister to return to his field of labor and lay immediate plans to implement the coordinated program adopted by the conference.

One of the high lights of the Retreat was the Ingathering Victory

Banquet held Thursday evening at the Academy Cafeteria. Delicious food was enjoyed along with readings and musical entertainment. A report was also given by each pastor of the total raised in Ingathering by their churches.

All were appreciative of the work done by Elder C. G. Jackson, Principal of the Academy, in making everyone feel so welcome as well as seeing that their needs were cared for.

Above: Chaplain John Keplinger from Fort Dix, New Jersey, spoke on servicemen's problems. Left: Elder Oliver Jacques, left, talks about the Hackettstown Hospital to Elder J. A. Terzo. With them is Elder George Woodruff, Stewardship Secretary of the Conference. Elder Jacques heads Community Relations of Loma Linda University and was present to make further contacts for the proposed Hackettstown Hospital.

We are confident the spiritual refreshment received at this meeting will strengthen the work in the New Jersey Conference in the weeks and months ahead.

National Constitutional Convention Live Issue Again

SENATOR Everett Dirksen of Illinois still wants that permissible-prayer amendment in the Constitution of the United States. To get it, Dirksen still hopes that his supporters can add more states to the 32 whose legislatures have petitioned the Congress for a national constitutional convention. Thirty-four states' requests are necessary for the calling of such a convention. None has been held since the original one in 1787, but most legislatures are in session this year and the tenacious Dirksen hasn't given up hope that two more may round out the required number.

Complicating the ambitions of the advocates of a constitutional convention is the threat that some of the already-committed 32 states may become dropouts. In Maryland's legislature, for example, a joint resolution has been introduced in the House of Delegates calling for a rescinding of its 1965 resolution petitioning the Congress to call such a convention. If other states join the exodus, those who fear loss of liberties through overt changes in the Constitution may breathe easier.

Rescue the Parishes

Does a state have a duty to help educate students who have chosen to attend a church-related school? According to the Speaker of West Virginia's House of Delegates, it would be better for the public treasury to pick up the "secular" part of the tab than for the religious schools to close and unload onto the public schools the entire burden of educating that state's 14,000 parochial school students.

A bill introduced by Speaker Ivor Bojarsky and Minority Leader George Seibert would open the way for poverty-plagued West Virginia to spend an approximate 4½ million dollars to purchase from nonpublic schools instruction in "secular subjects" for students in those schools.

A similar law, passed by last year's Pennsylvania legislature, is being challenged in court by a well-organized alliance of groups dedicated to the preservation of what remains of the separation between church and state.

Bartlett Church Honors War Heroes With Plaque

Pastor William Bloom (right) presenting a plaque to the Postmaster in Bartlett, Ohio. The plaque, donated by the Bartlett Seventh-day Adventist Church, honors local servicemen who have lost their lives in Vietnam.

"WHAT could we do to show appreciation in some special way to our community for their generous response to our Ingathering appeals for so many years," queried Ben Stiles, elder of the Bartlett, Ohio, Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Stiles were visiting with Pastor and Mrs. William Bloom. As they talked about how they might as a church enter into some community service project, Stiles suggested a plaque or some type of remembrance to be placed in the post office, honoring the local men who had given their lives in Vietnam. The idea was later approved by the board.

After the plaque arrived, Pastor Bloom visited the bereaved families, informing them of the project, and requesting pictures of the men.

At one home a lady at first refused entrance to the pastor, saying, "I am not a member of your church." But when the plan was explained, there followed a friendly conversation, and Pastor Bloom offered prayer. Then the lady asked if she couldn't give an offering to help with the expense of the project. It was graciously declined, of course.

The pictures of the men were reproduced in the proper size and framed, to hang in the post office lobby with the plaque. There were three at the time, but a fourth has since been added.

The Marietta, Ohio Daily Times carried a news story of the presentation, with a picture of Pastor Bloom and the postmaster. Many of the citizens of Bartlett gathered to see the plaque the first day it was displayed.

Financial Programs Discussed at Recent Ohio Workshops

A DISCUSSION of the entire local church financial program sparked a great deal of interest in a series of three area workshops on stewardship in the Ohio Conference in January.

Planned by Elder Gale Gabbert, Conference Stewardship Secretary, these workshops were attended by pastors, church treasurers, and members of local church finance committees. Assisting in the presentation of the various topics were Elder Philip Follett, Ohio Conference President, Elder Arthur E. Harms, Conference Treasurer, and Ward White, Assistant Treasurer.

Consideration was given to the planning of a local church budget, the conducting of a stewardship program in the church, the relationship of the local church to the financial programs of the conference, and the Ohio Conference Educational Development Program. This is the first time such workshops have been held for local church officers in the Ohio Conference.

Television, Magazine and Bible Course Win Convert

THE Bible course student did not show much interest when Elder Olav Labianca called at his home.

The visit was made in compliance with a routine request from Faith for Today about a year ago. Elder Labianca's notation on the report expressed hope that the interest might grow.

Three years ago, Gerald Stough, of Findlay, Ohio began viewing the Faith for Today telecast from a Toledo station. About a year later, he enrolled for the Bible course, which he enjoyed, although he did not reveal much concern when visited.

Later he began to receive These Times, probably a gift subscription from Faith for Today. Last June, in response to a letter written from the These Times office, Stough sent in a request for the Gift Bible and the Bible Says study guides.

This brought Elder Labianca back again. The weekly visits kept up through the series of studies, at which time Stough began attending church. Five or six weeks later, with the help of the advanced lessons of the Gift Bible plan, he was ready for baptism, which occurred on December 14.

FIVE BAPTIZED AS RESULT OF TENT EVANGELISTIC SERIES

Five persons were baptized on January 18 in the Athens, Ohio, church. Elder Philip Follett (left, rear) performed the ceremony. The new church members are (front row, from left): Benita Stiles, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hixson, Mrs. Wilma Draper, and Mrs. Mount Tippie. The churches in Athens, Glouster, and Bartlett each received some of these members. Four persons were baptized in a similar service in November, 1968. These interests were developed through Bible studies and a series of evangelistic meetings held in a tent in Chaucey, Ohio, by Pastors Philip Gager and William Bloom (center and right, back row).

Only a Rose Remains

SHE was only nine years old when she died in mid-December. No one claimed her for their own. Kind-hearted people arranged for her simple burial. No mourners attended. Only a few good people who had heard of her through a short news item in the local paper.

But Mt. Vernon Academy students have a heart. A big heart, a very big heart. Especially for little girls. Seventy-six students volunteered to keep Jennifer's grave decorated. One or two students a week. A rose for Jennifer's resting place. Another rose goes to a shut-in, a lonely widow down the street from the academy, or a little boy in the children's ward at Mercy Hospital. Each Sabbath afternoon, a Christian student carries Jennifer's rose to someone whose life is made just a little brighter, because Mt. Vernon Academy students have a heart. Have many hearts.

Jennifer sleeps a mile and a half from the dormitory tonight. But her memory lives and blossoms in a red rose or two every Sabbath afternoon when a teenager calls to a dear heart and says, "A rose from Jennifer for you!"

Ohio Laymen's Council Study Needs of Youth

THE Ohio Conference Lay Advisory Council recently spent a whole day's session studying the church's responsibility to its youth, and how to best utilize the youth potential in the church program.

Guest speaker for the session was Elder Paul DeBooy, Associate Secretary of the General Conference MV Department. He appealed for sympathetic understanding of youth and their interest and problems on the part of local church leaders, and emphasized the importance to youth of involvement in the church, and in "one-to-one" personal witnessing.

Elder W. D. Welch, Ohio Conference MV Secretary, presented a group of youth, who told some of their experiences in bearing church responsibility and in witnessing. Renee St. Villiers and Cindy May of Cincinnati, told of their participation in a Voice of Youth evangelistic effort last summer. Jeff Wilson of Columbus and Jill Hines of Mt. Vernon reported on a volunteer project in which they participate, helping pre-school children of the Headstart program learn to swim at the YMCA. Gary Euler of Toledo commented on his experience as superintendent of the large youth Sabbath School of Mount Vernon Academy.

The Lay Advisory Council delegates divided into three groups for discussion of practical ways of helping the youth in their churches, involving them in the church program, and of maintaining their confidence in the church and the message. Many instances were reported of young people holding responsible positions in the churches. Splendid suggestions were made of ways to do more for the church's younger members. The group felt that the day's study had been so beneficial, that they voted to recommend that the conference MV Department arrange for similar meetings in various areas of the conference for local church leaders and youth to study and plan in a similar way, and set up programs for carrying out the good ideas that may thus be developed.

Which came first, Brunch or the Brunchburger?

We admit it. We didn't invent Brunch, and it came first.

But we did invent the Brunchburger and it's about the tastiest idea in brunches since toast. You take Prosage—usually served at breakfast—spark it up in the kind of burger usually served at lunch, and wow! You've got Brunchburgers. And that's something that really wakes up sleepy appetites.

PROSAGE BRUNCHBURGERS

Into a large bowl crumble, until mealy, 1 package of Prosage. Then add the following ingredients.

- | | |
|---|-----------------------------|
| 1 large minced green pepper | dash of paprika |
| 1 small jar diced pimiento | liberal dash of garlic salt |
| 1 egg | ¼ teaspoon oregano |
| 1 4-oz. package of grated Mozzarella cheese | |

Mix together well and form into patties. Fry in vegetable oil until golden brown. Serve on well toasted, buttered onion buns. Yield, 9 burgers.

"DO IT Right!"

If David Hearon, a member of the Trinity Temple Church in Newark, New Jersey, has a motto, it could well be, "If you're going to do it, do it right!"

His dedication has been rewarded by his employer, The Western Electric Company. Mr. Hearon holds the highest position ever given by the corporation to a Negro.

In his work as assistant manager, Mr. Hearon is the company's official recruiting director in the New England area. He contacts students on the campuses of schools such as Harvard, Yale, MIT, Dartmouth, and Boston University, to interest them in employment with Western Electric.

Mr. Hearon's mother was the first in the family to become an Adventist. A brother had been hit in the eye with a rock and there was a possibility that he would lose his eyesight.

Mrs. Hearon prayed that if God would heal her son, she would serve Him. The eye was saved and the mother joined the Adventist Church.

At the time of his baptism, Mr. Hearon was attending City College in New York City. Many were surprised at his decision. He graduated in 1958 with an engineering degree and began work for the New York Naval Shipyard. This was followed by his employment by Western Electric.

When he was hired by Western Electric, Mr. Hearon told them about his unwillingness to work on the Sabbath. "I also told them when the sun went down early in the winter time I would be leaving early on Friday afternoon," he said.

Another Adventist, a member of the Newark First Church, was also employed by the same company. "His faithfulness laid the groundwork for me, so I have never had any Sabbath difficulties," Mr. Hearon stated.

In following his philosophy of "doing it right," Mr. Hearon has the opportunity to witness for his Lord and his faith.

"I felt quite strongly that God had a work for me with this company," he said. "I prayed a great deal before accepting the position. I appreciate the opportunity for one main reason, not so much for my race but for the truth and the fact that I am a Seventh-day Adventist. The students on these campuses have a chance to see a representative of God's kingdom in a unique way."

Mr. Hearon hastens to point out that the way has not always been easy.

"I'm always the one who doesn't order drinks and the one who doesn't eat everything," he concluded. "But I've seen God's leading. So I try to do it the right way and serve God."
