Camp Meeting Resembled A Mini-Summer School

"Created to Think—To Do" was the theme of the 1977 Pennsylvania camp meeting. From June 17 to 25, some 4,000 campers discovered that this theme was more than just a slogan. Fourteen classes, 16 Bible study groups, and four simultaneous early-morning meetings resulted in difficult decision making.

The classes were practical. "How to Conduct Bible Studies," "How to Humanize the City," and "Dealing With Your Conflicts" were a few of the topics explored by students. It could well be said that this camp meeting resembled a mini-summer school.

The pastors of the conference led in two sections of three-day Bible studies from selected books of the Bible.

Supplementing the classes were devotional messages by James J. Londis, Winton H. Beaven, C. Mervyn Maxwell, F. W. Wernick, and several other gospel ministers.

A unique feature appreciated by the many parents with junior and teen-age children was the day-camp program. While the adults were studying, their children were engaged in recreational programs and were busy earning more than 300 Pathfinder honors. Some of the older youth went to Hamburg for a community-development project—they repaired an old home owned by an elderly couple.

Practical, instructional, and creative—three words that took on new meaning for the 1977 campers—sum up the uniqueness of a very special type of spiritual program. Scores said this was the "best" camp meeting they had ever attended.

1. Derek Morris, an intern from England, attended his first camp meeting and participated in camp preparation. 2. The King's Heralds was one of many special musical groups. 3. Playing his saxophone was one of many duties performed by the conference president, William A. Loveless. 4. Colonel "Bill Galey" Sanders promoted the sale of Loma Linda fried chicken. 5. The Sunday book sale resulted in the sale of $59,000 worth of books, records, and foods. Here the Blue Mountain Academy branch manager, Joanne Shultz, displays one of the many bargains. 6. The daily camp newsletter was edited by Pastor Reginald Shires. 7. "Child Development From Cradle to School" was the topic offered in a class taught by Dr. Arleen Downing (center of photo). 8. Health talks by Dr. James Crawford led to many follow-up discussions. 9. Elder C. L. Brooks, from the General Conference, taught a class on "How to . . . Conduct and Teach Sabbath School Classes."

The Thrill of Camp Meeting Comes to Roanoke

Camp meeting weekend (July 8 and 9) at Roanoke, Virginia, was a great blessing to the members of the Allegheny West Conference who live in that area. They came from Danville, Lynchburg, Martinsville, Staunton, Charlottesville, Berryville, Gordonsville, and Roanoke. The 24-hour spiritual feast opened on Friday night with W. J. Lewis (bottom, center) from Cincinnati as speaker. The next day, James Washington taught the Sabbath school lesson, and L. G. Rahming from Cleveland (middle, center) spoke at 11:00 am. After the 8-o'clock morning devotional by J. H. Leshner, a full Sabbath school program, and a sermon that ended in a call, lunches were spread in a nearby park. The Ambassadors for Christ from Columbus (middle, left) thrilled the audience numerous times during the weekend. Robert Hilderbrand (top, right, center) was won to the church by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mills (to his right). It all started after Mrs. J. McDonald (extreme right) had been won by Ellen J. Anderson (at her right), who heads the Bible work for the conference. The summer student colporteurs (top, left) from Oakwood added their personal testimony to the occasion. The white uniformed ushers (top, center), the Roanoke youth choir (lower left), and the costumed singers from Lynchburg (lower, right) added greatly to the day's functions. President Harold L. Cleveland (middle, center, extreme right) urged the members to greater dedication during the two-day feast. Lawrence Shepherd (same photo, extreme left) is pastor of the host church.

THE PRESIDENT'S PAGE

By
W. B. Quigley

Let me speak to you for a few moments, not as president of the Columbia Union Conference, but as chairman of our Columbia Union College board.

For 73 years Columbia Union College has beckoned young people from around the world to Washington, D.C.—the crossroads of the world. Hundreds of these youth have been challenged by the priceless concepts of service to God and humanity. Today CUC's ongoing historical achievement is reflected in thousands of its graduates who are vital links in the worldwide chain of God's leadership. They include individuals like H. M. S. Richards, who speaks Heaven's message to millions, and Bill Hatch, president of the Colorado Conference. Don Roth, associate secretary of the General Conference, and Sharon Flynn, who now serves as a student missionary in Bangladesh, are two more in the chain of leaders who testify to the excellence of this institution.

Unrivaled uniqueness has characterized CUC. Students here at the nation's capital receive a conscious world vision of what the Adventist Church is all about. To have the world headquarters of our church here also complements this. Perhaps the greatest number of students are studying in one of the medically oriented courses on our campus. This could be one reason we have strong medical institutions within the Columbia Union.

A college is a living thing. It must adapt to meet the challenge of the times in every generation. Years ago there was a financial struggle to keep its doors open. Today the pressures of government, the challenge of new vistas to reach, and the onward march of advancing world technology challenges leadership.

At CUC the colorful past and the urgent challenge of the future are converging on the NOW. The board of trustees has recently entered a decision process by which the shape and future of CUC can be determined. The Columbia Union Conference executive committee is shepherding a procedure in decision making that will culminate in an October 30 constituency meeting of our union. How can this college best serve its 64,000 constituent members? What do our young people need in a college? These are some of the questions for which we are seeking answers.

In the last issue of the Visitor/Review a questionnaire appeared in the center spread. We urgently appealed to you to fill in this questionnaire and return it. Many of you did. The results are being tabulated now. Shortly we will know the answers to some of these questions. Pray earnestly that the future of Columbia Union College will be exactly what God would have it be. Please support CUC by sending your sons and daughters, and by sacrificing to keep its doors open. This school can be even more fruitful in meeting the needs of our students if we work more closely together.

Dundalk-Essex Pastor Ordained at Camp Meeting

Elder J. R. Spangler of the General Conference Ministerial Association was the speaker at the opening night of the Chesapeake camp meeting at a special ordination service for Gary Gryte, pastor of the Dundalk and Essex churches. Elder Spangler's message to Pastor Gryte and to the Friday night congregation was "get to know Jesus by prayer and study of the closing scenes of His life, and your ministry and witness will be effective."

Gary Gryte began his work in the Chesapeake Conference as assistant pastor in the Prince Frederick-Patuxent district in January of 1971. He also served as associate in the Baltimore First and Chestertown churches. Following a year in the seminary, he became pastor of the Prince Frederick and Patuxent churches. After this, while serving as pastor of the Highland View Academy church, he also taught several classes in Bible. With this experience in working with young people, Gary was then asked to be youth pastor of the Spencerville church. He is now pastor of the Dundalk and Essex churches, but is leaving to become youth pastor of the Mountain View church in California.

Gary was born in Los Angeles in 1947. The family moved later to Boulder, Colorado, where he grew into young manhood and attended Campion Academy, graduating in 1966. He attended Union College for two years before transferring to Southern Missionary College and receiving his B.A. degree in theology.

In 1970 Gary married LaDonna White, a minister's daughter. The Grytes have two sons: Gregory Aaron, 3, and Gavin Alan, 2. LaDonna is a registered nurse. LaDonna's father is Elder C. L. White, who is pastor of the Kernersville, North Carolina, church. He was formerly pastor of the Frederick church and also ministerial and lay activities director of the Chesapeake Conference. Gary's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Glenn A. Gryte, who are now serving their second term at the Taiwan Adventist Hospital.

4,000 Attend Camp Meeting at Highland View

Acres of cars and more than 4,000 people met on the campus of Highland View Academy for the opening weekend of services of the nine-day annual camp meeting. Occasional heavy rains only reminded those attending of the concern of a loving God for His own. Besides those driving in for the Sabbath, residents on the grounds occupied 131 tents, 40 dormitory rooms, 79 trailers and recreational vehicles, and 18 cabins. Many out-of-state license tags on the cars gave evidence of the perennial popularity of an old-fashioned camp meeting.

"To know Jesus is to love Him, and to understand Him as a sacrifice on Calvary is to serve Him" was the general theme of Elder J. R. Spangler's Friday evening and Sabbath worship-hour sermons in the big tent. Five other large tents and two classrooms were filled with youth and children for Sabbath school and worship.

A special Sabbath afternoon program featured the schools and youth and children of the Chesapeake Conference.

Nightly evangelistic meetings in the big tent featured three speakers. J. Reynolds Hoffman, of Faith for Today, spoke three nights on the signs of Christ's return as seen in the world economic crisis and the Israeli-Arab conflict. Joe Crews, of Amazing Facts, talked about heaven and the restoration of all things. Jere Webb, pastor of the Collegedale church, in Tennessee, presented a four-night series on "Why Jesus Waits." He developed the theme from the historical and prophetic aspects of the rise and growth of the Advent Movement.

A popular phase of the camp meeting program was the list of classes offered on a daily basis for six days. Attendance was good at the following eight classes, which met twice each day: "Charismatic Countdown," Leo Van Dolson; "The Christian and His Health," Bruce Ullom; "Spirit of Prophecy," D. A. Delafield and Jack Blanco; "Stewardship of Life," Paul Smith; Sabbath school workshops, Roxy Hoehn; Literature evangelism, Wayne Johnson.

Some usual meetings were eliminated this year to allow time for discussion groups after the sermon. Discussion was featured after the morning devotions given by pastors of the conference and after the Bible study hour by Elders Jack Blanco and D. A. Delafield.

The last weekend of the convocation featured Lonnie Melashenko, of It Is Written, Roland Hegstad, of Liberty Magazine, Brad and Olive Braley and Norm Matiko, of the Voice of Prophecy, and a special Sabbath afternoon evangelism hour. Sabbath school in the big tent was conducted by the Willow Brook church the first Sabbath and by the Laurel church the second Sabbath.

Elder George Woodruff, new conference president, expressed his joy at the good spirit and serious spiritual quest of those who attended.

Evia Brown's 90 years Marked by Open House

Mrs. Evia Brown was honored recently at an open house for her 90th birthday. She has been an Adventist 85 years and a member of the Warren church, which she has attended regularly, for the past 13 years. Born in Lowville, Pennsylvania, on May 13, 1887, she was married for 63 years to Ellis E. Brown before being widowed nearly six years ago. Their three sons, Kenneth, of Cleveland, Ohio, Milton, of Youngsville, Pennsylvania, and Richard, of Washington, D.C.; and two foster daughters, June Drummond, of Richmond, Virginia, and Kay Williams, of Washington, D.C., all shared in the birthday celebration. It was attended by Adventists and friends from many northwestern Pennsylvania communities. Mrs. Brown, who lives alone, spends much of her time reading, embroidering, and crocheting. "I've crocheted since I was 5 years old," she reports. She is currently working on pillowcases for a missionary project.

Bible Prophecy Lectures Held at Gettysburg

A series of lectures on Bible prophecy in relation to modern issues was held in late spring at the Gettysburg National Guard Armory. The Bible Prophecy Seminar was lectured by Pastor John Robbins, of the York-Hanover district. Bernyl Mohr, pastor of the Gettysburg church, was coordinator.

Ralph Brown, well-known musician, led an inspirational song service and played Swiss bells, water glasses, and a musical saw. He and Harold Spicer also played duets on their cornet and trombone. Mrs. Mohr played the organ.

There was a very good attendance. The future will show the harvest. The York church choir presented a special musical program, which made a wonderful impression on the listeners. The seed has been sown. God will give the increase.

Havertown School Holds First Graduation Service

An impressive and moving ceremony highlighted the first graduation of the Havertown church school at the First Philadelphia church in Havertown, June 2.

The single graduate, 13-year-old Sally Anderson, was preceded down the church aisle by her schoolmates, each bearing a long, lighted candle.

Pastor Milton Pruitt gave the commencement address, which compared Sally's educational and spiritual progress to growing spring plants.

Prior to accepting her certificate of graduation, Sally thanked school officials and her schoolmates for the memories she has of the school. She offered a special thank you to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Anderson.

Previously Sally attended the Thornbury school. She will continue her Christian education at Blue Mountain Academy.

Sally received her eighth-grade certificate from her teacher, Mrs. Ileen Rathnam. Sally's schoolmate, Gwen Watson, speaking for the other students, bid a tearful farewell, which truly moved the audience of parents, relatives, and friends.

Mrs. Leon Singleton presented the graduate with a monetary gift on behalf of the school's Home and School Association.

A reception, given by Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, followed in the church social hall.

Preceding the graduation ceremony, Sally and her schoolmates presented a three-act play entitled "All Roads Lead to Rome."

CONSCIENCE AND THE CONGRESS

Many Seventh-day Adventists are unable to accept jobs they'd really like to have, because they would be required to join or pay dues to a labor union contrary to their conscientious beliefs.

If a bill recently introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives becomes law, all that will be changed. The proposed legislation would add a "conscience clause" to the National Labor Relations Act.

The proposal, introduced by Illinois Congressman John N. Erlenborn, is styled as "a bill to amend the National Labor Relations Act to provide that any employee who is a member of a religion or sect historically holding conscientious objection to joining or financially supporting a labor organization shall not be required to do so."

A similar exception was carved out in 1974, applying only to health-care employees. The new bill would extend the exception to all workers covered by the National Labor Relations Act, providing that those with conscientious reasons for avoiding union involvement may pay the equivalent of dues and other union fees to a selected charity instead.

Although there is not much labor legislation being enacted in the current session of the Congress, observers believe there is a chance for the "conscience clause." Some labor-oriented congressmen favor its acceptance, apparently believing that its passage would relieve lobbying pressures that might jeopardize other labor legislation.

The bill is cosponsored by Representatives Don Clausen and Shirley Pettis.

Lyman Graham Celebrates His 100th Birthday

L. W. Graham

Lyman W. Graham, a resident of Takoma Park since 1916, turned 100 years old on July 2. He first worked for the Review and Herald in the stenographic department in May of 1898 when the plant was then located in Battle Creek, Michigan. He has spent a large part of his lifetime in the Adventist publishing work as a production manager, bookkeeper, branch office supervisor, and treasurer. He worked in Takoma Park from 1916 until he retired in 1950.

He and Mrs. Graham—the former Mabel Barbee—were married in 1906 in Kansas City. Mrs. Graham died in 1970 after 64 years of marriage. The Grahams had three children.

Mr. Graham lives with his daughter, Mrs. Juanita Hodde, in the same two-story house he has owned on Park Avenue for 61 years. More than 100 relatives and friends from as far away as California and New England enjoyed a family reunion in his honor on the July 4 weekend. When able, he attends the Takoma Park church, where he is still a local elder.

Culpeper Elementary Holds First Graduation

The Culpeper elementary school had its first graduation exercise Sunday, June 12, at 5 p.m. An outside lawn reception followed. Six students graduated. Elder Daniel Davis, youth director of the Columbia Union Conference, was guest speaker. He emphasized the importance of the youth continuing their education for a world that needs them.

Adventist Contacts Since 1962 Won the Jack Kayses

In 1962, a literature evangelist visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kays in Ames, Iowa. The Kayses welcomed him into their home and became interested in the books he had to offer. They purchased the Bible Stories, and through the years these books were read to their children.

Eventually the Kayses moved to the Washington, D.C., area. For two years they listened to the Voice of Prophecy. In 1976, at Thanksgiving time, H. M. S. Richards spoke in a chapel at the Pentagon. Mr. Kays attended and liked the way Elder Richards presented the message from the Word of God. He remembered that throughout his military career he and his wife had visited chapels wherever they were stationed, and they had been impressed by an Adventist chaplain.

In February the Kayses started attending the Arlington, Virginia, church. On a recent Sabbath they were baptized. As they stood together on that very special Sabbath they knew that the Holy Spirit had led them all the way.

WCTU Holds Meeting at Lynchburg Church

Adventists were hosts to the local Women's Christian Temperance Union (WCTU) at a recent Sunday afternoon meeting held at the Lynchburg, Virginia, church. Dr. Wayne W. Womack, of Richmond, Virginia, director of the Alcohol & Narcotics Education Council, Inc., of Virginia Churches, was guest speaker. Mrs.

Four Children Dedicated at Takoma Park Church

The dedication of four children at the Takoma Park church on June 11 took only five minutes, but it will stay with each child for life. All the parents, Joyce Vogler, Stephen and Gail Hanson, and David and Linda Culverwell, were intent on one thing: the making of a living gift to God. Above, from left to right, Amy and Michael Vogler, Jennifer Lynn Hanson, and Laure Lynn Culverwell were those four living gifts. The church pastor, Lenard Jaecks (extreme right), was assisted by his wife, who stands at his right. Three of the church elders (not shown) also assisted the pastor by holding one of the children while Jaecks offered the dedicatory prayer. As the children and their parents were introduced to the church family, Mrs. Jaecks gave each a red rosebud. Gail and Linda are sisters. Their brother, Charles Britt, Jr., brought joy to both his sisters and parents when he was baptized that day.

Ella Akers, president of WCTU, introduced him, and Dr. Frank Cauble, a retired Lutheran minister, spoke briefly.

After Dr. Womack's address the meeting was transferred to the social hall, with Bert Fisher, Lynchburg church temperance secretary, in charge. A temperance film was shown, and refreshments were served. On display were the posters and prize-winning essays from the contest, sponsored by WCTU among city schools, in which Adventist church school students won all of the eight essay prizes.

Mrs. Akers first met Adventists many years ago at Washington Adventist Hospital and was impressed.

Ruth Dowell, a member of the Lynchburg church and WCTU, was instrumental in arranging the meeting.

SHENANDOAH VALLEY ACADEMY

99-year-old Grandfather Receives Honorary Diploma

Mr. Charles E. Williams, 99-year-old grandfather of the principal, Dr. Dale Twomley, was the center of attention at the Shenandoah Valley Academy graduation at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, June 5. He received an honorary diploma.

The Class of 1977, made up of 76 students, was the first class to make use of the new administration building. Wayne Foster of the department of education in the Potomac Conference was the commencement speaker.

Other services of the weekend included the consecration service Friday night with Dan Matthews, executive secretary of the conference, as speaker, and the baccalaureate service Sabbath morning with Dick Barron, of the General Conference Youth Department, as speaker.

After the tribute to parents, the members of the graduation class presented their class night Saturday night. A play entitled "Try to Remember," under the direction of Summer Peasley, brought the early days of SVA to life.

A class gift was presented to the school. It was a replica of the school emblem carved in cherry, walnut, oak, and maple woods. It will be displayed in the lobby of the new administration building.

TAKOMA ACADEMY

Review Editor Challenges 140 Graduating Seniors

Takoma Academy graduated 140 seniors in its 43rd annual graduation exercises June 3 and 4. On Friday night in services held in the Sligo church, the seniors honored their parents and heard a stirring sermon by Dr. Frank Hale, associate dean of the graduate school at Ohio State University, and former president of Oakwood College.

Sabbath morning Review and Herald editor Elder Kenneth H. Wood asked the seniors, "Where in the World Are You Going—in the matter of living by principle instead of by inclination, in the area of decision making, with regard to service for others, as regards your church, in your relationship with Christ, and, finally, where in the world are you going when Jesus comes?" Elder Wood concluded by saying: "Merely to ask questions isn't enough. You must find the right answers." He challenged the audience with Paul's life and example. He could die in peace because he had placed his whole life in the hands of the One who died on Calvary, and Elder Wood told the graduates, "So it may be with you."

The awarding of diplomas took place Saturday night, June 4, in the Takoma Academy gymnasium with Dr. J. P. Laurence, principal, presiding. Speeches were given by the class president, Darren Morgan, and by the valedictorian and salutatorian, Kathy Hayes and Melvin Seard. Several seniors entertained the audience with musical selections. In addition, 28 scholarship awards amounting to approximately $12,000 were distributed on behalf of Columbia Union College by Roger Tatum.

Charleston Cosponsors Vegetarian Cookery Series

Vegetarian Cookery was featured at five consecutive workshops recently conducted in Charleston, West Virginia. Sponsors of the classes were the Kanawha County Adult Education Department, the Food for Life store, and the Charleston church.

Thirty-six persons, including husband-and-wife teams, were attracted to the workshop, and most who attended were not members of the church.

Barbara and Greg Knight directed the weekly sessions, which featured lectures, films, and demonstrations. Food preparation and sampling were arranged by Josephine Jones. She was assisted by Wilma Jones.

"How to Make Your Own Gluten" was the topic of the opening class. Other topics were: "The Use of Commercial Vegetable Protein," "Bread Making," "The Use of Tofu (Soy Cheese)," "Granola," and "Sugarless Desserts." The last session included a buffet dinner prepared by the students, using recipes presented at the workshops.

The combined effort and cooperation of those who had part in the program made it a huge success. They have been invited back by Adult Education to conduct a 12-week series this fall.

"I would like to see this program continue," said Josephine Jones. "It allows people to become acquainted with us and our health message."

Average of 65 Attend Clarksburg VBS Daily

Connie Bird and Evelyn Postlewait have completed another successful Vacation Bible School at the Central Hills church in Clarksburg, West Virginia. Altogether 90 young people registered for the school, there was an average daily attendance of 65. Above: A Christian teacher uses a flannelgraph as she tells the children about Creation and heaven. Elder William Bloom, conference Sabbath school director, had the Sabbath service at the conclusion of the meetings. The congregation for that Sabbath was double in size, inasmuch as parents of the children came to the program in which their children performed. Young people from many walks of life not only told the listening congregation what they had learned about Creation but presented to them many of the visual aids that they themselves had made. Elder Bloom's topic was "We Belong to Him Twice," a fitting theme for Adventists and non-Adventists alike. Enthusiastic coworkers felt the program was a great success.

Participating in the ordination service held during the Spanish camp meeting were, from the left: T. Massengill; W. A. Thompson; Roquel Nunez, wife of the candidate; Elder Samuel Nunez, who was ordained; J. O. Tompkins; A. Schmidt; and E. Alonso.

Samuel Nunez Ordained at Spanish Camp Meeting

Samuel Nunez, a man who is lucky to be alive, was ordained to the gospel ministry on Sabbath, July 9.

The hour-long service took place at 2:30 p.m. the last day of the Spanish camp meeting held at Garden State Academy.

The ordination sermon was given by W. A. Thompson from the Columbia Union Conference; the prayer, by E. Alonso; the charge, by A. Schmidt; and the pastoral welcome, by J. O. Tompkins, president of the New Jersey Conference.

Elder Nunez, 32, who was born in Oaxaca, Mexico, grew up and attended school in Salina Cruz. In 1960, while attending Linda Vista College in Chiapas, Mexico, he fell underneath the school's farm tractor and was run over. Miraculously, he was not killed.

After graduation from a one-year course in theology, he worked as a ministerial intern in two churches in Chiapas.

In 1966 he finished a course in business at Montemorelos, Mexico. Six years ago he obtained his degree in theology from the same college.

He married Roquel Labrador of Philadelphia, and they have two children; Samy, age four years; and two-year-old Roquelita.

Elder Nunez's public ministry in

New Jersey to date includes a series of public evangelistic meetings in Newark and Dover. The Spanish churches in Paterson, Vineland, and Dover have been under his care since 1973. He will continue his education at Andrews University before returning to Mexico to teach.

Spanish Camp Meeting Held July 3 to 9

The annual nine-day encampment for English-speaking Adventists on the Garden State Academy campus ended Saturday night, but the family tents didn't come down for another week. They were left up to accommodate the 1,000 Spanish-speaking Adventists who took over Sunday, July 3, where the English group left off.

The nine pastors who serve these Spanish members in the 15 churches conferencewide came from as far south as Vineland and as far north as Dover.

They heard Milton Peverini, the Spanish speaker for La Voz de la Esperanza (Voice of Prophecy) on Sunday and Tuesday nights.

Coming from California with Pastor Peverini was Del Delker, an English-speaking contralto who doubles in Spanish at such occasions.

Two Spanish vocal groups—Melodias De Alabanza from Florida, and Heraldos Celestiales from Vineland, New Jersey—entertained the campers during the week.

All meetings were convened in Oslander Hall on the academy campus. Smaller devotional-type services began at 7:00 a.m. each morning. Preaching took place at 10:15 a.m., 11:15 a.m., and 7:30 p.m. daily.

On Sunday, July 10, the 40 family tents came down. That marked the end of the New Jersey camp meeting season for this year. All returned home to live better lives and be better fathers, mothers, and neighbors. Plans are already in motion for next year's gathering.

Richard Neil Heads Health And Temperance Work

Dr. Neil, formerly of Harrisville, New York, where he was in private practice, recently finished his Master's degree in public health at Loma Linda University. While at Loma Linda he took an active part in and gave leadership to the church's health-evangelism program. The merits of that program had been demonstrated in Harrisville, where it resulted in the raising up of a new church.

Dr. Neil is a native of Columbus, Ohio. His wife, Verlone (right), is formerly from Oklahoma. They have three children: Marcia (left), Geoffrey (second from right), and Cheryl (front).

The Neils will live in the northwest area of the State, but his headquarters will be at the conference office in Trenton.

Camp Meeting Makes Better Parents and Neighbors

Camp meeting for 10,000 Adventists who live in Ohio is over.

The 210 family tents pitched to house those who stayed full time have been taken down and stored until next year.

Some of the recreational units that

1. Appetites are hearty at camp meeting time.

2. Bobbie Jane and Leo Van Dolson (right), instructors of the "Golden Eight" class on health.

3. Linda Weston, center, hostess of WMVO Radio's "Coffee Cup" program, chats with guests Al and Betty Brendel of Kettering Medical Center, and Harold Baasch, left, of the camp meeting press crew. The Brendels were instructors of the seminar class "Marriage Enrichment."

were moving out from the tent areas and fairgrounds carried out-of-state license plates.

The sermons, seminar classes, and various musical treats were all designed to make those who attended better parents, better neighbors, and more community-minded citizens.

The 5,000 who came each weekend and the 1,500 who stayed full time learned how to stay married, raise their children, be physically healthier, and live alone, if widowed. These topics were all part of the Family Life Seminars conducted daily.

Representatives from TV's It Is Written and Faith for Today, plus radio's The Voice of Prophecy, were all guest speakers during the session. Leaders from the General Conference also attended.

This was the second camp meeting for Ohio's new president, Donald G. Reynolds, who transferred from the same position in Pennsylvania 12 months before.

Martin Takes Publishing Post in Southern Union

Wayne A. Martin, who has directed the communication process for the 90 churches throughout Ohio, has transferred to the Southern Union in Atlanta, Georgia.

He will continue to use his communication skills in telling members, as well as the general public, of the church's publishing work.

During his four-year stay in Mount Vernon, Martin encouraged the churches to build displays for use at their local church fairs. As a photographer and writer, he did much to get the Ohio Adventist news printed in the Visitor.

All the articles about Adventists in Ohio newspapers over the past four years, if placed end to end, would stretch almost two miles. His periodic training sessions and monthly newsletters to the 80 church communication secretaries under his care paid off.

Martin has also been the director of religious liberty and the Association of Self-supporting Institutions.

He filled several pastoral assignments in the Missouri, Kentucky-Tennessee, and Carolina conferences. For approximately 11 years, he served as a missionary and administrator in Thailand, where he opened the first Bible correspondence school in that country.

Before joining the Ohio Conference in November of 1973, he was associate director of the Department of Communication at the General Conference.

Book Center Sells 7,000 Books in One Hour

The Ohio Conference sponsored the Right to Read Program through the Adventist Book Center on Sunday, June 19. Some $6,000 worth of reading materials were distributed to constituent members and their children. More than 7,000 books were sold in one hour.

The books were advertised from the platform as ushers distributed them to the group. Buyers arranged for payment as they left the auditorium.

This annual summer book sale was intended to encourage parents to buy books for children and to discover reading materials that they themselves find beneficial. The books covered subjects on healthful living, educational concerns, community work, and personal enjoyment.

Each year the book center sells approximately $850,000 worth of reading materials to enrich the community and constituency. A large number of these are written for school-age children.

Administrator Named For Retirement Center

Malcolm Cole

Malcolm Cole of Kettering, Ohio, has been named administrator of the Ohio Conference Retirement Center, which is to be built in the Miamisburg area.

Cole was formerly associated with the Kettering Medical Center, which is building a new affiliate hospital on a site adjacent to the proposed retirement facility.

Cole is married to the former Dorothy Sprague. They have four children: Malcolm, Jr., 20; Deborah, 18; Robert, 16; and Charles, 12.

SPRING VALLEY ACADEMY

Twelve-year-old Janice Rose diapering Julie Melissa Hill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Calvin Hill, as Jean Pohle oversees the action.

64 Graduate With Baby-sitting Certificates

Sixty-four Spring Valley Academy students 11-13 years of age received certification in baby-sitting during the last month of the 1976-'77 school year. Boys as well as girls participated in the one-hour training session once a week.

The program was coordinated by Jean Pohle, director of continuing education at Kettering Medical Center. Dr. Dale Sinnett taught first-aid emergency procedures for the first class. The second class featured Lee Hironamyus, the fire inspector of Washington Township, where SVA is located. He explained how to deal with fire emergencies. Ellen Mae Fattic chaired a panel of three parents, including Joe Stoia and Jan Seltman, who explained what they expect of their baby-sitters. They allowed for the students to offer what they expect of the families they serve. The fourth and final class, on the care and feeding of the infant, was taught by an R.N.

Walt Disney's film, "Donald's Fire Survival Plan," and "The Babysitter," a film by Ohio Bell, were shown. The students were supplied with literature from police and fire departments and pharmaceutical houses.

The baby-sitting course offered by KMC has become so popular that it now will be a part of SVA's regular program.

Jean Pohle is currently working out details for a baby-sitting honor to be earned in Junior Missionary Volunteer training.

WGTS-FM's Birthday Gifts Total More Than $5,000

To honor WGTS-FM's 20-year radio ministry, listeners in Greater Washington and the management held a Pledge Week, May 22-28. Ed Henkel, station manager, stated, "We received 260 calls, approximately 85 percent of which were from non-Adventists. But the best news," he continued, "is that more than $5,000 in cash and pledges was received." With each pledge letter a bumper sticker—WGTS-FM Classic Stereo 91.9—was sent. How do listeners respond to such a Pledge Week program? A lawyer: "I have the radio on in my office all day long and enjoy the music very much." Owner of a large nursery: "We have WGTS-FM on our speaker system in the gardens and offices. We enjoy your programming so much." Other comments include: "I love how you choose such good classical music to play." "I just found you on the dial; you should do something to become better known." "I like the new Program Guide format." "You are the best station on the dial." With gifts and responses as the above, it is no wonder that the station management is just thrilled with the wonderful returns from this twentieth-anniversary celebration. WGTS—Washington's Gateway to Service—is an evangelistic tool used to proclaim the gospel of Christ to some four million potential listeners at the heart of the nation. Have you given your anniversary gift yet? Do it this week. Make it BIG. Pictured left to right are: Carol Breckenridge, program director; Ed Henkel; and Harry Jeffery, operations manager.

Award of Appreciation Given to Daniel Davis

Daniel Davis, Columbia Union Conference youth director, was among those honored during the 5-Star Youth Congress held in Little Rock, Arkansas, May 7. The 9-inch-by-12-inch aluminum sheet mounted on walnut was given in recognition of his leadership workshops and training programs among black youth. Regional conferences sponsoring the award included South Atlantic, South Central, Central States, Lake, and the Southwestern. Allegheny East and Allegheny West were not represented, since they had congresses of their own about the same time.

Byron Schueneman Named Treasurer for Voice

B. Schueneman

The Voice of Prophecy Board of Directors has appointed Byron Schueneman to serve as treasurer for the radiobroadcast. He replaces Glen Bobst, Jr., who has accepted the position of chief accountant at Pacific Union College, Angwin, California.

Schueneman joined the VOP staff in 1973 as assistant treasurer. Before joining the Voice staff he was assistant manager of the Adventist Book Center in Mount Vernon, Ohio, and previous to that was chief accountant for the eastern division of Loma Linda Foods in Mount Vernon.

Schueneman is married to the former Sharon Snyder, of Niles, Michigan.

Multigrade Teachers Spend Two Weeks Learning How

Some 24 elementary-school teachers within the Columbia Union met at Columbia Union College June 12-14 to learn more about flexible scheduling. They also discussed grouping to meet individual needs, as well as how to plan for the varied age levels in a multigrade situation. Graduate credit was given for the first time by Andrews University on an extension basis through CUC. The course was designed to provide the competence and experience necessary to teach in a classroom where several grades are assigned to one teacher. The teachers designed and prepared aid materials that they will be using in their classrooms this fall. Erna Hauck, the assistant instructor, and James Youngberg use laminating machine to prepare instructional materials, upper left. Upper right, Carole Labate and Edward McWilliams utilize an opaque projector to copy class materials. Left to right (lower left): Donna Janetzko, John McCoy, and Frieda Hoffer, union elementary supervisor and director of the course, discuss the learning center prepared by Joan Yeary. Lower right, Kenneth Cox and Kalyani Prakasam listen to tapes prepared as aids to the teaching of reading.

HADLEY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Where Need Is Greatest They Reach Out

Hadley Memorial Hospital's location is unique among Adventist medical institutions. Situated in the far southeast quadrant of the nation's capital, it provides medical care for the Anacostia-Congress Heights communities, which lie east of the Anacostia and Potomac rivers and are part of Ward 8, the traditionally neglected area of the city. Thus isolated, it is sometimes felt that the city fathers have failed to build bridges of service and concern. HMH need not build bridges, because it functions daily "right down here among the people."

HMH's daily operation is one continuous, ongoing community outreach. The residents do not have family physicians. When help is needed or when emergencies arise, HMH is there. The walk-in outpatient department, open 16 hours a day, has served as family doctors to two generations of area residents.

The Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking is popular and makes for the hospital lifelong friends. A group from Alcoholics Anonymous, who had brought the drinking problem under control, recently went a step further in kicking their smoking addiction. One family, whose initial contact was through the Five-Day Plan, became members of a nearby Adventist church.

HMH has also conducted a Bible story hour for neighborhood little ones in the park immediately behind the hospital during the summer on Sunday mornings. Both children and parents attend.

The HMH chaplain, who lives in the community and is known by name, serves as pastor to the people. He is often called for weddings, funerals, and as guest speaker for local affairs and church functions.

The conference room of the recently completed central administration building is available for community-oriented programs, such as a summer tutorial program, cooking classes, and weight, hypertension, and diabetes-control programs.

James Suzuki (inset) is the hospital administrator and J. L. Butler, the chaplain.

HOUR OF PRAYER

PRAYER REQUESTS

District of Columbia

- ☐ My granddaughter and her husband are considering divorce. Pray for them, and for my sons who drink and a daughter who is to be hospitalized.
- ☐ Please pray for me and my family.
- ☐ A dear friend needs your prayers.

NEW JERSEY

- ☐ Pray that my husband will not have Sabbath problems in his employment and for his health.
- ☐ Pray that I will excel in my job and get along with people.
- ☐ Continue to pray for my children who are out of the truth.
- ☐ Pray for my son as he contemplates the future and chooses a mate, and for his health.

Ohio

- ☐ My children are outside the church and my husband needs to quit smoking. A daughter has an emotional and spiritual problem.
- ☐ My daughter and her husband want a baby of their own. My husband, children, and grandchildren also need your prayers.
- ☐ My son is having a difficult situation in his marriage, which involves many other individuals. Also pray that he will give his heart to God.
- ☐ Would you please pray for my husband that he will search the Scriptures more diligently, and make it a daily practice, and that the Holy Spirit will impress his heart?
- ☐ A brother in our church had an accident at work which has left him almost a cripple. His family needs him, and we need him to help us finish our church building.
- ☐ Include my daughter in your prayers for a matter that concerns me very much. It leaves me very disturbed.
- ☐ I need to overcome a problem that has me very nervous. Pray for my children, asking God to touch their hearts before it is too late.
- ☐ My request is for my two granddaughters, that the Lord will overrule in their lives and in the lives of their parents for their best interests and salvation.
- ☐ I have a burden on my heart for my husband and my children.
- ☐ My daughter and her husband are venturing out on a new job that is rather dangerous. Also a son has problems and needs prayer for himself and his family.

Virginia

- ☐ Please pray that the Lord will help me work out a financial problem, that my sons and family will soon have jobs, and for the conversion of the unsaved members of my family.
- ☐ Continue to pray with me for my marriage and for my children who have not yet been baptized.
- ☐ God has abundantly answered prayers for the recovery of a loved one. Please pray that this will lead him to surrender his life to Christ.
- ☐ I took my husband back to the hospital for the fourth time in five months. Pray that he will be healed and that we all stay close to God and do His will.
- ☐ I have been quite ill the past four years. Now I have a serious heart problem. Please pray that God will heal my heart and that I will be better able to serve Him.
- ☐ I am ill with a nervous condition. Pray that I will be healed, that my family will be understanding, and that we will all be saved.
- ☐ Please pray concerning my relationship with a friend, that if it is God's will we will be married and work for Christ for life.

West Virginia

- ☐ We need special prayer concerning the custody of a child in a divorce case.
- ☐ Pray that I will live closer to Jesus.

PRAYER PROMISE: "But if you stay in me and obey my commands, you may ask any request you like, and it will be granted! My true disciples produce bountiful harvests. This brings great glory to my Father" (John 15:7, 8). From The Living Bible, Paraphrased (Wheaton: Tyndale House Publishers, 1971). Used by permission.

Send us your prayer promises. Address all requests for prayer to:

NURSING—A High Priority

The day that Florence Nightingale lighted the torch in her mission of mercy to assuage the suffering of the sick, a flame began to burn with all the devotion and commitment to aid and support those in need of loving care.

Somehow the nurse in white is more than a symbol. She or he is that "angel of mercy" who is doing God's bidding in bringing comfort in a special time of need.

The B.S. degree in nursing at Columbia Union College prepares a student for the most important opportunity of service.

NURSING is

A calling to serve.

A highly skilled profession.

An opportunity to relieve suffering.

YOU are needed.

Why does a student commit his or her life to such an arduous career? Life is very complex. The law of averages tells us that a large number of people will be sick over a certain period of time. In this chosen profession you are assured that you can serve people. Your service of love can bring that level of anxiety down.

When you step into the sick room you bring cheer, strength, support, and help to restore the patient's confidence in himself. A Christian nurse can reveal a whole new dimension in the life. You can introduce Jesus Christ to your patient with your smile, your kind words, and your skillful deeds. Your love and understanding can help to restore the love of Christ and His health in those you serve.

"We are trying to give the finest nurses' training in the world."
Dr. Frances Fickess, chairman, department of nursing.

You are in partnership with God in the healing ministry. Join the hundreds of nurses training to be torchbearers like Florence Nightingale of yesteryear. Be a modern "angel of mercy" by training to be a nurse NOW at Columbia Union College.

If YOU are seriously considering attending college this year
