Nearly 1,000 People Turn Out to Tour SGAH and Attend Its Dedication

Shady Grove Adventist Hospital, which opens December 2, is the result of a decade of planning by community and civic leaders who in 1974 asked Washington Adventist Hospital, Takoma Park, to build a medical facility to meet the health-care needs of the more than 200,000 residents of 69 communities in upper Montgomery County, Maryland. Montgomery County has been termed the most affluent county in the United States. The hospital is located at the intersection of Shady Grove Road and Route 28 in Rockville, about 20 miles north of Washington, D.C., one mile west of Interstate 270.

Nearly 1,000 people turned out for the hospital dedication, and nearly all of them participated in the tours that Delegate Toth presented a Maryland flag to the hospital. George Schonholtz, chairman of the SGAH physicians' advisory committee, cut the ribbon to allow tours to begin following the dedication ceremony. Approximately 450 physicians have applied for staff privileges at SGAH. Michael D. Barnes, U.S. Congressman from Maryland's Eighth Congressional District, gave the keynote address. A. B. Butler, chairman of the SGAH Board, and Jennie Forehand, member of the Maryland House of Delegates, conducted the act of dedication for the hospital. Charles Gilchrist, Montgomery County executive, spoke at the dedication ceremony also.

Four members of the 11-member SGAH board—Bryan L. Breckenridge, executive director of the hospital who has been in charge of the total hospital project; Elder A. B. Butler, chairman of the hospital board; Anthony DiBiase, D.D.S.; and Elder W. A. Thompson, executive secretary of the Columbia Union—were on hand.

Washington, D.C., television channels 4, 5, 7, and 9 covered the dedication ceremonies, and newspapers in Montgomery and Frederick counties carried extensive stories.

Elementary Teachers Attend Annual Workshop in Cleveland

The elementary teachers of the Allegheny West Conference attended the annual teachers' workshop, held in Cleveland, Ohio, August 26-28. The keynote message was presented by Gerald Penick, pastor of the Cleveland Southeast church. Miss Gloria Samuels and Barbara Lewis gave reports on the Columbia Union Conference Workshop they attended in July. Helen Smith, Allegheny West's education supervisor, instructed the group in teaching, spelling, and writing in the elementary grades. Cordell Williamson, mathematics supervisor for the Pittsburgh Board of Education, led the instruction of teaching math in the elementary grades. She presented a new method, being used in schools, called "chisanbop." Students are taught to use their fingers in math with this method.

A. T. Westney, associate director of education for the Columbia Union Conference, discussed teacher certification, and presented a challenging devotional. Miss Freida Hoffer, supervisor of education for Columbia Union Conference, presented instruction in lesson planning and program scheduling. Remarks were made by the Superintendent of Education, Willie J. Lewis, and William McDonald, the treasurer of Allegheny West Conference.

A thought-provoking devotional was presented by David Trusty, pastor of the Bethel church in Cleveland. The meeting was concluded with a challenge from K. S. Smallwood, secretary of Allegheny West.

Norrisville Flea Market Boosts Building Fund

Dee Ann Taddy, 7, of the Norrisville, Maryland, church's primary division, admires a 2-year-old recycled lily rescued from a trash heap, which in turn produced three large fragrant blooms. This showpiece, along with numerous attic and basement items, believed to be of small value when given to the church ladies' flea market, yielded bountiful monetary returns toward their building program.

A giant-sized bake sale was recently held. Five tables spread with pies, bread, cakes, and cookies sold out to the last crumb! For the women's time and dedication, $215 flowed into the church treasury. Three of these bake sales are scheduled annually to boost the building fund.

Former Indianian Pastors In Chesapeake Conference

Donald A. Klinger has been appointed pastor of the Martinsburg-Berkeley Springs district. A native of Indiana, Klinger received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1970 and his Master of Divinity in 1972, both from Andrews University.

Since 1973 he has been a pastor in the Indiana Conference. For the past three years Klinger has pastored the Terre Haute, Indiana, church.

Don and his wife, Linda Kaye, with their two daughters, Janel, 3, and Andrea, 2 months, have moved to Martinsburg.

Boston L. Raith Assumes Leadership

Boston L. Raith has assumed the leadership of the Grasonville and Cambridge district. Raith began his ministry at Cape May, New Jersey, in 1946. He brings a broad background and expertise to the Chesapeake Conference. His pastorates have been in the New Jersey, Ohio, and Mountain View conferences.

Elder Raith and his wife, Alice (Goodyear), have one married daughter, Eileen Fuller. They are already settled and busy at work in their new responsibilities. The Raiths previously pastored the Cumberland and Frostburg district in the Mountain View Conference.

Bladensburg Church Is Nearing Completion

Scheduled to open the first week of December, the new home of the Bladensburg church is nearing completion. The new church, built at a total cost of $665,000, is situated on 10 acres of land at 8900 Good Luck Road in Seabrook, Maryland. With a seating capacity of nearly 400, plus classrooms, et cetera, the 12,800-square-foot building represents years of planning, sacrifice, and work by the members. Upon occupancy of the new church building, the congregation will adopt the new church name of the Seabrook Seventh-day Adventist church.

Johnson's BOL Church, Nine Months Old and Growing

One of the newest churches in the Allegheny East Conference has added seventeen new members to the membership through the dedicated effort of its pastor, Elder J. Alfred Johnson II.

Pastor Johnson accepted the call to come to the Breath of Life church in May, and by August he was baptizing people who had no previous knowledge of Seventh-day Adventists. They came to visit the church for the first time and were so impressed by the message and fellowship of the members that they came back again and again in order to find out what made this new group of people so loving and happy.

Since December 9, 1978, when the church was officially numbered among the sisterhood of churches, the Breath of Life church has made its temporary home in the Dupont Park school chapel-auditorium. The members were instructed by Dr. Mamie Lindo, who showed that modern theories of teaching really are from God's Word; also, by a series of guest speakers from the General Conference and the Allegheny East Conference that included Charles Cheatham, U. S. Willis, M. Van Putten, C. E. Bradford, E. D. Brooks, Mrs. Gwendolyn Forster (on health), and a three-week revival by Elder David McCottry.

Today, the news of the new church, the result of the Breath of Life crusade that was held in October and November of 1978 by C. D. Brooks, has spread far and wide. Currently, Pastor Johnson is negotiating for the purchase of a church home. We solicit your prayers and support.

Homer Pickett (right) had been a deacon in the Enoree Park Baptist church in Greer, South Carolina, for 50 years. Two years ago, at age 88, Mr. Pickett came to Takoma Park, Maryland, to live with his daughter, Mrs. Earnestine P. Griffin, a member of the First church in Washington, D.C. For two years Mrs. Griffin and her daughter, Tijuana (left), studied with Homer. At 90 years of age Homer Pickett was baptized into a new life, and joined the Fourth Street Center, where Tijuana is Sabbath school superintendent. Jesse Reeves is lay pastor at the center.

Two Trailers to Give More Space to HCH

The Hackettstown Community Hospital Board recently voted to purchase two trailers to alleviate the crush for office space in the hospital. The two trailers are now on order and should arrive at HCH within six to eight weeks.

Executive Director Scoggins said that one trailer will be occupied by Ken Counts, planning director, and his department, and the new department of Alcoholism Services. The other trailer will house the three billers, a cashier, and a file clerk from the hospital's billing department.

The space left in the patient business department will be filled by data processing.

Each trailer is 55' x 12'. They are being placed at the southwest corner of the hospital.

Workers and Families Take Four-Day Summer Retreat

Mountain View's 19 workers and their families met for four days at Valley Vista for their annual summer retreat.

The Sunday-through-Wednesday get-together included a morning devotional and departmental presentations by F. W. Hudgins and Samuel Thomas, both from the Columbia Union Conference office.

Ron Flowers, the pastor of Capital Memorial church in the District, and his wife, Karen, held a two-day seminar on "Family Life."

The overall spirit was good. All got a new look at their potential as they headed home to take up the gospel commission anew.

One feature of the retreat included the dedication of Pastor Glen Fari-nola's young daughter.

During the free time in the after-noon some of the children went cav-ing, while another group went to tour a cheese factory.

The membership, which now stands at 2,323, will only grow as the hopes of these pastors and their wives become a reality between now and next summer.

Mountain View Holds Soul-Winning Workshop

The weekend of August 24-26 was a deeply moving spiritual experience for lay workers from many of the churches of the Mountain View Conference as they attended a soul-winning workshop planned and hosted by Elder Harold Friesen, Mountain View's director of personal evangelism.

Elder Samuel Thomas, lay activities director for the Columbia Union Conference, was the principal instructor. God's Holy Spirit was surely present as God's people were seeking latter-rain power.

Special features of the meeting included a prayer breakfast, regular prayer bands, a panel discussion on soul winning, group Bible study instruction, and valuable tips on many different phases of witnessing.

Only those who attended can really know the spiritual joy that was felt. Many expressed the desire to have regularly scheduled meetings in the future.

Potomac Pathfinders Go on Second Annual Mission to Cayman Islands

On July 18, 32 Potomac youth, representing your Pathfinder Clubs, left the Washington National Airport for their second annual adventure to the Cayman Islands. Norm Middag, Potomac's youth director, and Lloyd Yingling, Cayman project director, led the group.

Grand Cayman, the largest of three islands in the Cayman British West Indies, was again benefited by a host of mission projects. The program included a medical team visiting the Cayman communities to take blood pressures and give helpful good-living tips to the Cayman adults. Pastor John Vasko preached the word nightly under the big tent, and five souls were baptized.

Barbara McCorkle, of the Tappahannock Pathfinder Club, led out in a macramé craft class, and Mary Ruth-erford taught crafts such as the popsicle treasure chests, art, and fuzzy-wuzzy animals. Bicycling and gymnastics were also featured activities.

The Potomac Pathfinders dug a well and installed a pump for the Cayman youth on the island campsite. The well will always represent the love of the Pathfinder Clubs and individuals who provided the funds to drill and erect the hand pump on the campsite.

Pathfinder Clubs helped raise part of the funds to send representatives from their churches, and parents sacrificed to raise the rest. History records the good that was accomplished as youth and their leaders labored to help advance the work.

Ben Parrish to Perform At Takoma Park Church

Baritone Ben Parrish will be presented by the Takoma Park Community Sacred Concert Series at 4:00 p.m. Sabbath, November 10, in the sanctuary of the Takoma Park church to inaugurate its 1979-1980 season, according to Jackie Lonto, chairwoman of the church's concert committee.

A Seventh-day Adventist layman, Mr. Parrish has sung professionally for a number of years, and has appeared on a number of television programs, including It Is Written, The PTL Club, and The 700 Club.

The November 10 concert will be a benefit performance to aid the work of the Student Aid Foundation, Inc. Begun in 1970 and incorporated in the District of Columbia as a tax-exempt, nonprofit foundation for providing scholarship funds for worthy SDA college students of minority origins, the foundation is the creation of George W. Murphy, who continues today as its president.

Ben Parrish was a featured artist at the Potomac camp meeting several years ago, and has formerly appeared in the Takoma Park area. His work is currently available on four records and cassettes under the World Records label of Nashville, Tennessee, of which organization he serves as president.

Mr. Parrish's formal training includes seven years with former operatic diva Frances Tibbs at her private conservatory in Nashville.

The second concert in the Takoma Park series is scheduled for the Sabbath after Thanksgiving, November 24, and will feature the His Way Quartet from North Carolina. It, too, will be scheduled at the vespers hour.

Baptism Marks Steady Growth at Capital Spanish

Ten precious souls were added to the Capital Spanish church at the outdoor baptism on August 25. The entire congregation was present for Sabbath school, the worship service, and a fellowship dinner. The highlight of the day came when Pastor Roger Weiss concluded the baptism with a call. Fourteen responded, expressing a desire to be in the next baptism, following their preparation. A joyous congregation drove the 35 miles from the lake back to Washington, D.C., rejoicing in their added numbers and with a great determination to finish God's work. Attendance at the Capital Spanish church, on 16th Street in northwest Washington, continues to fill both the sanctuary and auxiliary meeting rooms.

50 Baptized and 100 More Have Made Their Decision

The final meeting of the evangelistic series in Pittsburgh gave opportunity for an exciting baptism. Sabbath at 3:00 p.m. the people gathered to witness the fiftieth person baptized.

Elder Elden Walter stated that there were another hundred persons ready to make their decision. There were more than 500 who now had had direct contact with the Seventh-day Adventist Church. The harvest of these souls and their families and friends will continue to be reaped for years to come.

One young man rode his motorcycle 100 miles each night to attend the meetings. During the meetings, he made his decision for Christ and was baptized.

The majority of the people who united with the church had never had previous contact with Adventists. A large percentage of those baptized had Catholic backgrounds.

The people who attended the meetings responded spontaneously with questions concerning the Adventist Church, applause showing appreciation, and gifts of love offerings totaling close to $10,000.

The members needed a church, so the conference committee, chaired by Gordon Henderson, voted to arrange and assist in the purchase of the church that was being rented for the closing meetings. This group is presently worshipping there.

Enrollees at Lansdale Bake Their Own Bread

Pastor Don Shaw, of the Lansdale church, recently spoke at a health class held at Temple University. Shaw lectured on the dietary habits of Seventh-day Adventists and vegetarianism.

Linda Duetting and Harriet Galambos, of the Lansdale church, assisted in the class. A demonstration was given on how to make whole-wheat bread. Twenty of the forty-five enrollees made their own bread and took it home to bake.

The Philadelphia Better Living Center organized the program, and the ladies of the Lansdale church demonstrated the entrees, breakfast dishes, and desserts.

ABC's Open House Makes Many People Happy

Open house at the Pennsylvania Adventist Book Center on September 9 made a lot of people happy! Customers found a store full of special prices. Their happiness resulted in almost $8,000 in sales for the day. It was especially gratifying to see the bags of books, tracts, and nutritious foods going from the ABC into the homes.

Folks in the Greater Pittsburgh area were happy because the bookmobile brought the same products their way. Many of the newly baptized members from the North Hills area were also happy they had the opportunity to build their libraries. The Blue Mountain Academy branch store shared in the success of the day also.

Twenty-three carloads of people received $5.00 gift certificates for driving more than 50 miles to the open house. Many folks from the non-Adventist community surrounding the ABC came to shop. Gifts, including several booklets, were given to each customer.

It is our hope that every piece of literature leaving this ABC will spread like the leaves of autumn.

Don Shaw to Direct Better Living Center

Elder Don Shaw comes from the pastorate of the Lansdale church to direct the Better Living Center in the Greater Philadelphia area. Shaw has pastored in the Georgia-Cumberland Conference also. Blind Camps Place Emphasis on Abilities

On the last Sabbath in August, John Creighton (left), representative for the Christian Record Braille Foundation, interviewed two blind youth during the lay activities period of the Bucks County church. Bernie Buckles (center), Mary Williams (not pictured), and Emery Williams (right) attend the Overbrook School for the Blind and have been fortunate to attend the National Camps for the Blind sponsored by the Community Services of the Bucks County church. National Camps for the Blind began in 1967. Over the past 11 years more than 10,000 campers have attended 192 camps. The camping program is designed to place emphasis on the ability rather than the disability of the individual. The objectives of the camp are to discover undeveloped potential, increase self-confidence, improve mental and physical vigor, and develop an appreciation for God's love and care. Bucks County is proud to be a part of the sponsorship of some worthy blind youth.

Teachers Challenged at Annual Convention

The Pennsylvania elementary school teachers met August 19-22 on the campus of Columbia Union College for their annual teachers' convention. There were fifty teachers who attended the convention in preparation for the school year.

Myron Whiting, director of education for the Pennsylvania Conference, coordinated the workshops. Some of the items dealt with were discipline, public relations, classroom management, and art. There were numerous workshops for the teachers to attend. This gave opportunity for a more personalized selection.

The keynote address on opening night was given by Victor Griffiths, associate director of the Department of Education for the General Conference and editor of The Journal of Adventist Education.

One of the highlights of the convention was the presentation by Dr. Walter Barbe. Dr. Barbe is the editor of Highlights for Children, a magazine based on the belief that children enjoy thinking and reasoning. He has served on the summer staff of most major colleges and universities. He is presently adjunct professor in the Ken Norton, principal of Blue Mountain Elementary School, mixes plaster for workshop.

Department of Exceptional Children at Ohio State University. His topic dealt with the three types of learners: audio, visual, and kinesthetic. He challenged the teachers to learn each student's learning mode and teach the student by that mode.

After the tremendous lectures and workshops the teachers were given a grand tour of the General Conference offices.

Bucks County Welcomes Tom Whitsett and Family

The Bucks County congregation welcomed Tom Whitsett to their pulpit. Tom came from Denver, Colorado, where he had served as pastor and associate youth director for the past two years.

Whitsett was project control coordinator of the aerospace division at Cape Canaveral, Florida, when he felt the Lord calling him to the ministry in 1963. He chose Southern Missionary College as his place of preparation and in 1966 received his B.A. degree. Going on to Andrews University, he received a B.D. degree in 1969. His brothers, Kingsley and George, are both in the ministry.

The former Angela Morgan became his wife in 1960. She is a secretary and also has an interest in Family Life Development. They have three children: Doug, 18; Penny, 10; and Bradley, 3. The family enjoys flying, especially since their father is a licensed pilot.

Evalina Plant Celebrates Her 100th Birthday

Mrs. Evalina Plant celebrated her 100th birthday Thursday, September 13, with friends and relatives. Among them was Pat Donofrio, mayor of the city of Rockaway.

When she was a teen-ager, Mrs. Plant accepted the Lord and was baptized in a creek after attending tent meetings. She and her mother were the only Adventists in the area for a number of years. Her husband, William, with a friend, Charles E. Grey, began working as literature evangelists in the area and organized a church in 1910.

Mrs. Plant became a vegetarian at the age of 27 and has since lived a very healthful life. Three of her main goals in life were to be a devoted wife, a good mother, and a dedicated Christian. Both her neighbors and church members agree that she has succeeded in achieving all three goals.

Rozefort and Modell Together in Health Series

The Morristown and Rockaway churches are sponsoring a health-evangelistic thrust this fall in the Morristown area. This program includes Five-Day Plans, Computerized Heartbeat, and Wa-Rite, cooking, and nutrition classes. Robert Rozefort, M.D. (left), of Paterson, New Jersey, will supervise a number of the programs. Pastor Ted Modell, of the Hackettstown district, will hold an evangelistic series following the health outreach.

Brunilda Matos Joins Conference Staff

Brunilda Matos, of Passaic, New Jersey, has joined the office staff of the New Jersey Conference as secretary to the president and treasurer. Before coming to work for the conference, "Bruni" worked for a group of doctors in the Beth Israel Hospital in Passaic. Although she was born and raised in North Jersey, Bruni also attended school in Puerto Rico. We are very pleased to have another Spanish-speaking secretary on the staff.

Alvaro Garcia to Work With Spanish Members

Elder Alvaro Garcia has arrived from Cuba and is presently working as a literature evangelist in the Trenton area. He will be working with the Spanish group in Trenton also. Garcia graduated from Antillian College in 1965. For six years he taught at our mini-seminary in Havana. Before coming to Trenton he pastored the Vibora church in Havana, which has a membership of 500. Garcia's wife, Esther, was converted from Judaism. They have three children: Abel, 12; Albert, 10; and Alvaro, 8.

Vacation Bible School Is Child Evangelism

Vacation Bible School is child evangelism. During the summer of 1979, 19 child evangelism crusades were conducted in the New Jersey Conference with an attendance of 867 boys and girls. Five hundred thirteen of that number were non-Adventists. Two hundred twelve volunteers provided the leadership and help necessary to make the campaign successful. Thank you, faithful directors, for your hard work!

Ten churches are planning a VBS follow-up. The Camden Spanish church is conducting three branch Sabbath schools. The Jersey City Heights church is sending These Times to the families who sent their children, and they also invited them to the evangelistic meetings held at the end of the summer. Our Manahawkin company had 100 percent non-Adventists (14), and is following it up with a branch Sabbath school.

The VBS director of the Hackettstown church, Mrs. Melody Wheeler, reports that as a result of the 1978 VBS in her church, a young person, plus the mother and father, were baptized.

Story Hours, Neighborhood Bible Clubs, and just staying in touch with the children during the year, by remembering them on their birthdays or by visiting them, are planned by others. Some of the non-Adventist children are already attending Sabbath school or Pathfinder Clubs.

Moon Ko Assigned to Perth Amboy Korean Church

After serving for a year on a half-time salary, Elder Moon Ko has become a full-time pastor with the New Jersey Conference, assigned to the Perth Amboy Korean church. Elder Ko, a former conference president and union Ministerial secretary in Korea, came to the United States for educational benefits for his children. The Korean church, with a membership of 25, most of whom are professional people, has the highest tithe per capita of the churches in New Jersey. During the summer, ten people were baptized into the Korean church, and another baptism is planned following the fall evangelistic meetings. Elder Ko and his family reside in Piscataway, New Jersey. One Person's Decision Leads Eight Others to Decide

The Hoboken-West New York Spanish district members have been watching the Lord work in a mighty way with a family of eight. First, Pastora Lamotte made her decision to follow the Lord and was baptized. She shared her enthusiasm and her love for Jesus with her sister, Irene, who was baptized next. The two of them worked with a third sister, Connie, and she in turn worked with her boyfriend, Lucas Lopez. Naturally, they all kept working with the rest of the family. Next came two more sisters, Elvis and Sonia, and their mother, Josephine, and last to take the final step and be baptized was the oldest sister, Magaly. At the present time the father, Nils Lamotte, is studying this message, and hopefully very soon this family circle will be complete. Left to right, top row: Lucas Lopez, Irene, Connie, and Pastora Lamotte. Bottom row: Pastor Pedro Hernandez, Sonia, Nils, Elvis, Josephine, and Magaly Lamotte.

Bowen and O'Ffill Ordained in Home Churches This Summer

Two pastors were ordained this summer in the Ohio Conference. Each was ordained in a special service held in his own church district. This made it possible for the people among whom they had been ministering to be present.

Pastor Edwin Bowen was ordained on August 4 in the Sandusky church. He has been pastor of the Clyde-Fremont-Sandusky district since 1976.

He began his pastoral work in Ohio in 1974 following his graduation from the seminary. Elder W. J. Hackett, general vice-president of the General Conference, gave the sermon, and Elder Glenn Bowen, Ed's father, gave the ordination charge to his son. The Bowens have accepted a call to pastor the Wayne district in New Jersey.

Pastor Duane O'Ffill was ordained in the Portsmouth church on September 8. He began his ministry in Virginia and came to be pastor of the Portsmouth-Jackson district in 1976. Elder Donald Reynolds, Ohio Conference president, gave the sermon; Duane's father, Elder Daniel O'Ffill, gave the ordination charge, and his brother, Elder Richard O'Ffill, presented him as a candidate for ordination. The Portsmouth and Jackson churches have baptized 48 this year.

Maranatha Responds to Help Youngstown Spanish

Sides and roof go up fast as Maranatha and church members work together. Both TV channels 27 and 33 sent cameramen and reporters to the site. Elder Pablo Ayala (lower right photo, center, in hard hat) and Roger Hatch (left, back to camera) talk with channel 27 reporter.

Sixty-five persons responded to the call of the Ohio chapter of Maranatha Flights International to place the rafters and install the roof deck and shingles on the new Youngstown Spanish church building in one day. Though rain hindered, when the volunteers ceased their work on Sunday, August 26, the two 40' x 60' sections of the new building were under roof, with only half left to be shingled.

In May the city issued a stop-work order on the technicality that the lot frontage did not conform to the 150-foot frontage required by ordinance for the building of a church. Pastor Pablo Ayala had worked with the zoning and building departments previous to the purchase of the lot, and had been issued a building permit.

Working closely with the conference, Elder Ayala and his church took their case to the Court of Equity. At a hearing on August 13 the judge issued a temporary injunction against the stop-work order, which allowed construction to resume.

Roger Hatch, president of the Ohio chapter of Maranatha Flights, had previously told Pastor Ayala that Ohio Maranatha would help the church, and when notified of the court's decision made plans for a big push on August 26.

Elder Manuel Rosado and members of the Cleveland Spanish church gave two days' assistance. On Sunday, August 19, a group from Mount Vernon joined the Spanish Youngstown members in finishing the wall framing and making ready for the Maranatha group the following Sunday.

From across Ohio came Maranatha members, joined by lay members. Columbus Eastwood church, where Hatch is a member, sent a bus and a total of 30 workers.

On August 31, a permanent injunction against the stop-work order was issued, leaving the church in the clear to build at 155 Lansdowne Boulevard.

Defiance Holds Positive Approach Drug Program

"Positive Alternatives to Drug Dependencies," a two-night program aimed at helping parents create a family environment that will safeguard their children against needing false dependencies, was presented to the Defiance community September 17 and 18 by Pastor Rajkumar Attiken and first elder Bud Henke.

One parent, who in 1978 was chairman of Jaycees' drug and alcohol education for the State of Ohio, claimed, "I have attended many programs on drugs and conducted many myself, but this is the first program that I have seen that takes a positive approach to the issue and is aimed at prevention."

Henke, a part-time sheriff's deputy and formerly a chief of police, used a display of commonly abused drugs in making his presentation on the classification and availability of drugs, their effects on the user, and symptoms of abuse.

The major part of the two 90-minute sessions was devoted to sharing information on positive life-styling as a safeguard against drug abuse.

"What we really talked about was the business of living," said Attiken. "We attempted to show them that what a person does about drugs depends upon what he or she does about life. Parents must begin drug education in the home by providing life education."

The Defiance church has plans to repeat the program in the coming months.

Worthington Church Has 81 Children at VBS

Eighty-one children attended Worthington's evening Vacation Bible School, August 6-16. One half of them were from non-Adventist homes. One boy, whose birthday was August 6, asked his mother if he could celebrate his birthday the day before so that he would not miss the first day of VBS. Two children began attending Sabbath School and are now enrolled in the second and sixth grades of the church school. Their mother is taking Bible studies.

Medina's Health Hut Witnesses at County Fair

Medina's Health Hut is a growing attraction. It was first used in 1978. For this year's Medina County Fair, the church built a kitchen on a 20-foot trailer frame and served from it in a 20 x 30-foot tent where tables with chairs permitted the patrons to rest as they ate. One man's interest in vegetarian food led Mrs. Betty Ahnberg to invite him to the Sabbath service and remain for the meal that is provided by members each week. He and his wife have been attending the Medina church since that time.

HOURLY OF PRAYER

ANSWER TO PRAYER

● God sent a fine Christian lady, who has a lovely voice, to live in with us. Now pray that God will help us sell our house and find a place in the country.

REQUESTS FOR PRAYER

Maryland

● Pray with me for my son who is attending his last year of boarding academy, my daughter who has trouble with her throat, and for me to grow spiritually stronger.

New Jersey

● Please pray for our two worldly children, my husband, and me to be closer to the Lord, and our schools.

Ohio

● Remember my son who has left the faith, and pray for my husband to become a Christian. ● Pray that my son will get permanent employment, for my niece who lives with me, for my husband, and an unwritten request.

Virginia

● Continue to keep my family on your prayer list so that they will long for Jesus in their lives. ● Please have special prayer for my son's dental practice to be successful, and for me to handle my husband's estate properly.

PRAYER PROMISE

"For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the end it shall speak, and not lie: though it tarry, wait for it; because it will surely come, it will not tarry" (Hab. 2:3).

Send us your prayer promises. Address all requests for prayer to:

Proposed Guidelines May Help Sabbathkeepers

The federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) has published proposed revised guidelines for eliminating employment discrimination because of employees' religious beliefs or practices. The public is being asked to comment on them before they are finally adopted.

Present federal law forbids discrimination on account of religion, and interprets that requirement to mean that employers must make reasonable accommodation for the religious needs of employees when such accommodation can be made without undue hardship on the conduct of employers' businesses. A decision of the United States Supreme Court in 1977 (Trans World Airlines, Inc., v. Hardison) left confusion as to what constitutes such "undue hardship." Many Sabbath observers have lost their jobs because employers have refused to make accommodation for their need to be free from duty during Sabbath hours.

EEOC held three hearings (in New York, Los Angeles, and Milwaukee) and conferred with several other government agencies before preparing and publishing the proposed guidelines. The guidelines if adopted will require employers to make affirmative efforts to find ways to accommodate Sabbath observers and others whose religious practices conflict with ordinary-duty schedules.

Adventists who have experienced problems (whether or not they have been solved) are invited to write to EEOC in support of the adoption of the proposed new and stricter guidelines. Letters must be received by December 13 and should be short, including a brief description of the problem encountered and a statement that more explicit guidelines would or might have helped with an easier solution to the problem. Letters should be sent to Marie D. Wilson, Executive Secretariat, U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, 2401 E Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20506.

The new guidelines will be published after EEOC incorporates the results of public response and confers further with other government agencies.

It All Started 20 Years Ago With a CUC Student and a Dream

A scrub nurse in Bangladesh, an English teacher in Korea, a budding theology major doing door-to-door visitation for an evangelistic series in England—these were college students assisting in the world mission work of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, learning in real-life situations. This type of involvement is what the Sligo pastor dreamed about twenty years ago.

As is true of many new ideas, there was significant resistance to this dream. Repeatedly he was warned: the inexperience of college students might make them less than helpful; the probable immaturity of the students for dealing with different cultures could be a problem; and it might even be physically dangerous for them. These objections were not easily overcome.

But, true to his nature, the pastor persisted, gradually gained the support of Sligo church, and found a CUC student willing to be a part of this dream.

That was twenty years ago. Since then 2,000 student missionaries from every Adventist college in North America have gone around the world into 89 countries. The first student missionary, Marlin Mathiesen, left CUC with Sligo church support to work in Monterrey, Mexico.

To see the continuing fulfillment of this dream, one need only go to the "To New Posts" section of the Ad- ventist Review and read the columns of names under "Student Missionaries."

The Sligo pastor with the dream that started the student missionary program is now president of CUC—Dr. William Loveless.

Elder William Loveless introduces the first student missionary—Marlin Mathiesen—back in 1959.

Larry Show Is CUC's New Business Manager

Larry Show, formerly chairman of our business department, has accepted the invitation to become CUC's business manager. Show succeeds L. G. Small, who has been the interim business manager. Before coming to CUC two years ago, Show was the assistant business manager at Andrews University. Show's wife, Phyllis, is the coordinator for testing and placement, and secretary for guidance.

D. E. Johnson Now Chairs Business Department

D. Elwood Johnson is the new business department chairman. Johnson succeeds Larry Show, who is the new CUC business manager. Johnson has been teaching graduate and undergraduate courses at the University of Baltimore. A graduate of CUC, Johnson received his Master's and Doctor's degrees in finance from the University of Alabama. It's a real pleasure to have him aboard.
