Why Attend Camp Meeting?

As a newly hired church employee in the latter half of the 1980s, I watched with much interest as church members, using all modes of transportation, arrived on the conference campgrounds for camp meeting. Prior to their arrival, I saw pastors and other conference employees prepping the campus. They pitched huge tents and small tents all over—some for youth, others for prayer and communion.

I wondered why people would take time off to come to camp meeting, leaving behind their comfortable homes to “camp out” in dormitories and trailers. There were also the young and young-at-heart who brought and pitched tents, reminding me of the children of Israel as they journeyed from Egypt to the Promised Land. What a sight!

Some of us cannot stay the entire time, but because we still have the spirit of camp meeting, we pack our vans and mobile homes with our children or grandchildren and head to camp meeting. If staying on the campground is not an option, we drive to a nearby hotel and “encamp” there.

TIME FOR THE MASTER

With the fast pace of our world today, it makes sense for God’s children to make time for their Master. Camp meeting creates an atmosphere for us to come aside, spend quality time with God, sit at His feet and learn of Him. In so doing, we find ourselves energized and equipped to return to our homes and churches ready to witness for Christ. We may not all have the opportunity to attend camp meeting, but we should make time, once in a while, to leave behind the cares of this world to spend time with Jesus. In the words of a familiar spiritual, “Walk together children, don’t you get weary ... There’s a great camp meeting in the Promised Land.”

So whether or not you attend camp meeting this summer, let us find time to “encamp” at the feet of Jesus that we may be revived. “Those who dwell under His shadow shall return; they shall be revived like a grain, and grow like a vine. Their scent shall be like the wine of Lebanon” (Hosea 14:7, NKJV).

UNION ALLOCATES $211K TO HOMELAND MISSION PROJECTS

The territory that comprises our great union is best viewed as a mission field that God has called us to reach,” says Frank Bondurant, Columbia Union Conference vice president for Ministries Development. “Accordingly, one of the fundamental core values for our next quinquennium is to ‘impact our communities by revealing the love of Christ, sharing the distinct Adventist message and inviting people to accept Christ as their Savior.’”

In support of this effort, the Columbia Union is partnering with local conferences to designate $211,000 for more than 10 local projects and ministries. Some of the projects include:

- Life Skills Academy—a youth mentoring program from the First church of Montclair, N.J.
- Atkinson House—a ministry for homeless men located in Coatesville, Pa.
- Baby Blessing Project—a ministry providing resources to teen and young adult parents led by the Metropolitan church in Hyattsville, Md.
- Salisbury University Student Outreach—a public campus ministry for young adults on Maryland’s Eastern Shore.
- Church Planting Projects in Appomattox, Va.; Cleveland, Ohio; Teays Valley, W.Va.; Westminster, Md.; Highstown, N.J.; Bayonne, N.J.; and Kearny, N.J.
- Charleston, W.Va.—local church revitalization and a citywide evangelistic initiative.
- REACH Philadelphia—a summer ministry that engages youth and young adults in evangelism and leadership.
- Mission to the Many—a Pennsylvania Conference initiative that includes the recruiting and training of young adults to serve as local missionaries in two local companies.
- Community Praise Center—a multisite campus project for this Alexandria, Va., church with a second campus slated for Leesburg, Va.
- The Lynchburg Virginia Prison Ministry—a pilot program that features a video conferencing visitation center to assist inmate family members.

MEMBERS ENCOURAGED TO DISTRIBUTE THE GREAT HOPE

North American Division (NAD) leaders are encouraging members to prayerfully help distribute some 3 million copies of The Great Hope to their friends and family. Some 2 million copies of this abridged version of Ellen White’s The Great Controversy have already been distributed across the division. Below J. Alfred Johnson III, NAD director of Adult Ministries, shares the importance of this effort.

Q: Why should Adventists get involved in this project?

A: We praise our Lord for the privilege of having been called and commissioned to be agents of the One who is the answer to all of our challenges. His name is Jesus, the solution—The Great Hope—who will come with glory to do away with sin, disease, disaster, dishonor and death and grant the capacity to live His powerful life now, to all who are willing! This is great news that we cannot afford to keep to ourselves!

For more information about the book, visit sharethegreathope.com or purchase copies at your local Adventist Book Center.

UNION AIDS FIRST ADVENTIST UNIVERSITY IN LIBERIA

Teresa Bardu (below), wife of Columbia Union Conference treasurer Seth Bardu, is pictured at a groundbreaking for the Adventist University of West Africa. Bardu went as a representative of Dave Weigley, Columbia Union president, who wanted to show support for the first Seventh-day Adventist university in Liberia.

"Most schools here conduct classes on Saturday," says Pastor James Golay, Liberia Union president, "so our leaders want to provide an educational option that benefits the community and allows our young people to observe the Sabbath." Around 300 students are enrolled and attending classes in a temporary space. The new school will be located in Monrovia, Liberia's capital, on 100 acres, and initially offer degrees in business, education, nursing and theology. Some financial support for this Columbia Union Missions Abroad recipient comes from the union's healthcare networks.

Leaders Visit ADRA China Site

Dave Weigley, Columbia Union Conference president; Raj Attiken, Ohio Conference president; and Taashi Rowe, Visitor news editor, recently visited an ADRA site in Southwest China. Despite humble, sparsely furnished homes, two families welcomed the visitors with warm smiles.

One family is without a modern sewage system, which means grey water and human and animal waste go back into nature. At the second home, the family has an environmentally friendly biogas pump, which turns waste into energy that powers heat, lighting and cooking fuel. The Chinese government has been perfecting this technology for the past 80 years and will subsidize the installation of this pump for families who can contribute to a percentage of the cost.

This is where ADRA China comes in. Over the next two years, ADRA would like to help 100 families obtain these pumps, which at $700 each is out of reach for many families. After first visiting the area last May, Linda Zhu, ADRA China's country director, said, "I realized this can be a great help for the families and prevent broader health and environmental problems." The first installations are slated for May.

After leaving the site, Attiken said he "saw hope in the [villager's] eyes that their lot would be improved ... and was impressed at ADRA China's mission of transforming and enriching the living conditions of these villagers. I saw it as a striking example of 'disinterested benevolence' motivated by God's love for all people."—Taashi Rowe

What's New?

Book > Where To? The Adventist Search for Direction J. David Newman

This provocative book is designed to start a conversation among Seventh-day Adventists, says J. David Newman, senior pastor at Chesapeake Conference's New Hope church in Fulton, Md. "It is written particularly for Adventists who are wondering why we are still here in the 21st century," he explains. Is the church's mission the same? Will Adventists finish God's work? "I don't claim to have all the answers, but I feel the church should be asking these questions," he added. Pick up a copy at the Potomac ABC.

CD > In Hymn I Trust Angela Bryant-Brown

Potomac Conference member Angela Bryant-Brown prays that the music she shares "will move others to recognize the awesomeness of God and praise Him in their own lives." Bryant-Brown, who attends the Community Praise Center in Alexandria, Va., has filled the album with hymns like "Just a Closer Walk With Thee" and praise-and-worship-style medleys. After all, praise and worship is more than a music genre; she says it's what she does in response to God's presence in her life. Read more and order at Sounds4theSoul.com.

Video > The Missing Link Tyler Fishell

The Missing Link is a light-hearted animation created by Tyler Fishell, a member of Chesapeake Conference's Willow Brook church in Boonsboro, Md. The 1.5-minute video features a humorous conversation between a Veja-Link and a piece of bologna that pokes fun at evolution. Fishell, who's studying graphic design at Southern Adventist University (Tenn.), encourages teens, "Don't be afraid to be a little strange or different; just keep it healthy and try to be Christ-like." To watch this and other Sabbath-appropriate videos, visit guidemagazine.org.

In the Spotlight > Christ Our Righteousness Church

IMPORTANCE OF A NAME:

The Lakewood church planted this small Ohio Conference congregation in the late 80s. They chose their church name as a reminder that perfection and salvation originate from the Lord. Membership has grown from 18 to 80, which includes a satellite home church plant. Local residents also regularly visit.

TRADITION CHALLENGED: In spring 2010, Pastor Dean Cinquemani proposed a dramatic challenge to his congregation in Olmstead Falls, Ohio. What if they used monies from their building fund—an investment that stretched back 18 years—to invest in and impact their small township? Members prayed about the idea and agreed to pursue the concept for five years. Their goal: to work like Jesus did during His years of ministry and improve their neighbors’ lives.

OPEN DOORS: Today the church operates out of the Community for Better Living, a center where they hold Sabbath services and provide a place for residents to attend workshops on parenting, health and finances. “The concept here is growth. We want to touch the community effectively and immediately,” explains Pastor Cinquemani. The church intentionally partners with businesses and invites area professionals to teach workshops.

SUCCESSFUL GROWTH: During Sabbath services, members share refreshments with those in the nearby shopping plaza. Friendly conversations typically end with an invitation to attend a “Discovering God” class at the center. The community has embraced the church, and local businesses frequently sponsor events, such as family movie nights and free CPR classes.—Tanisha Greenidge

Welcome

Rain is a subject that always has a 50/50 popularity rating. Some folks like rain anytime it comes. Some folks don't like it at all. I've never, before now, prayed for rain during camp meeting. Yes, I remember the times it rained and stormed. I remember the times when God Himself had to shield us from nature's wrath. I have never asked the constituents of this conference to pray for rain. However, I still want it to rain during camp meeting. I want God to send rain—the latter rain. I am requesting that you pray for the latter rain.

We have chosen our theme "Let It Rain" with the thought and the intention of providing you with the messages and experiences that will have you yearning to get caught in a deluge of God's outpouring of His Holy Spirit. So, come with your spiritual rain gear, June 28-July 8. I look forward to seeing you there. And, by the way, you won't need or want an umbrella for this rain.

—Charles Cheatham, President

Welcome

As we enter into worship on our campgrounds, we need to pray and seek the Lord's presence. As we enter into a Holy convocation, let us pray for a spirit of expectancy.

As in the past, our focus this year will be witnessing and evangelism. With guidance from the Holy Spirit, we have accomplished much, but there is so much more work to be done. We have seen God answer our prayers, and we recognize that only God can lead us to the place He has ordained for His people. The visions we were given for this ministry have not always been easy to accomplish, and for good reason—it has required total submission to and dependency on the Lord. Oftentimes we view the "visions" as the responsibility of the "visionary," but if a vision is to be accomplished, all of those with a "stake" must invest.

Let us look to "live beyond the veil." We should seek the presence of a holy God and ready ourselves to be positioned to experience His power like never before. We believe that those who have gathered here will be blessed by God's presence.

—William Cox,
President

Welcome

Enoch is famous for having a close walk with God (see Gen. 5:24). So close in fact, that God took him to heaven without experiencing death. Have you ever wondered what the real-life dynamic was between God and Enoch?

Patriarchs and Prophets tells us, "In the midst of a life of active labor, Enoch steadfastly maintained his communion with God. The greater and more pressing his labors, the more constant and earnest were his prayers" (p. 86). He would pull himself away from society in order to have time with God.

Our camp meeting takes place next month. It provides an opportunity to pull away from daily demands and spend time with God. The theme "Walk With God! Share His Grace!" is a call to emulate the experience of Enoch. So, come away from the daily grind for a few days to refresh your walk with God.

Through personal time with God, great biblical preaching, uplifting music and practical seminars, you'll be renewed and ready to return home with a new perspective.—Rick Remmers, President the School of Theology as a professor of Biblical Studies. Prior to coming to WWU, he served as professor of New Testament, associate dean and then dean of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University (Mich.).

Garbed in authentic-looking costumes, Dick and Ardis Stenbakken's dramatic Bible character portrayals

MOUNTAIN VIEWPOINT

Welcome

Welcome to Mountain View Camp Meeting 2012. Our theme this year is “Jesus Saves.” Jesus is the medium through which God poured out His infinite love upon a fallen world. Christ connects us in our weakness and helplessness with the Source of infinite power. During this week, we will contemplate the amazing sacrifice Christ made for each of us and, because of God’s infinite power, our unlimited possibilities.

We will explore the height, depth and breadth of heaven’s love for you and me that the apostle John saw when he exclaimed, “Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God” (1 John 3:1).

It is the goal and prayer of the camp meeting planning committee that each attendee’s camp meeting experience be a time of getting to know Jesus better and His will for their life, and then reflect Him in their life when they return home to their church, family and community.

He led a team committed to developing initiatives for nurturing a strong, faith-based healthcare community, expanded parish nursing programs, provided leadership for healthcare chaplains and worked to attract and retain mission-oriented individuals. Melashenko is probably best known for his 18 years as the speaker/director for the Voice of Prophecy ministry. He is also a prolific writer and, along with his family, has recorded several music CDs and videos.

NEW JERSEY

Welcome

This morning, as I was praying for the churches, their leaders and the members of each congregation, my thoughts turned to the delightful time when we all gather as a Seventh-day Adventist family in New Jersey to pray for personal and corporate needs. Camp meeting is fast approaching, and I look forward to our time together.

As you know, the conference theme for 2012 is "Time to Pray." It is also the theme of our camp meeting. Let us ask God to heal our land and pour out His Spirit upon us, His people, so that we can finish His work.

Our guest speakers for camp meeting will be Pastor Shawn Boonstra for English and Pastor Robert Folkenberg for Spanish. We will have time to worship, study the Word of God and pray. We will also have a report on the progress of Mission Caleb—our outreach to the cities, towns and universities in New Jersey where there is no Adventist presence. Please plan to be present all weekend, as this year's camp meeting will be an unforgettable experience.

I look forward to seeing you there!—José H. Cortés,
President

Time to Pray

Tranquil Valley Retreat Center

June 15-16

Speaker

Shawn Boonstra, associate secretary of the North American Division (NAD) Ministerial Association, will speak Friday evening and Sabbath. He has served as a pastor and evangelist in both Canada and the United States. He previously served as speaker/director of the It Is Written television ministry. He became an Adventist 18 years ago during an It Is Written evangelistic series in Victoria, British Columbia, and has been sharing his new-found faith ever since.

Boonstra has authored more than 15 outreach-oriented books and pioneered a number of innovative evangelistic approaches, including short, interactive satellite events such as The Appearing, The Presence and Out of Thin Air. He has worked in evangelism in many cultures and with audiences ranging from seven to tens of thousands.

Youth and Children's Ministries

The Youth Ministries Department's theme for 2012 is "STAY," an acronym for Spiritually True Active Youth. "The Christian walk is more than just sitting in a pew; it's about living your faith in action," said Pastor Paulo Macena, youth director. "Our goal is to help the youth understand the need to stay spiritually true to Christ while being actively involved in the mission of the church. I know [our youth] will be blessed by the programming we have planned."

Cristina Macena, the conference's Children's Ministries coordinator, is planning an exciting program at camp meeting. "We will be focusing on 'Kidz 4 Jesus' as our theme," she said. "In addition to our regular Sabbath School and children's church, we will also have a combined children's program in the afternoon starting at 3."

Bienvenido

Hoy en la madrugada, mientras oraba por las iglesias, sus líderes y los miembros de cada congregación, me deleité pensando en la posibilidad de reunirnos con toda la familia adventista de New Jersey para orar e interceder por las necesidades personales y corporativas. El campestre se acerca rápidamente y estoy realmente deseando que llegue ese tiempo para orar en unanimidad, no solamente los unos por los otros, sino los unos con los otros. Como ustedes saben, “Es tiempo de orar” es el lema de la Conferencia para el 2012 y este también será el lema de nuestro campestre. Pidamos a Dios que sane nuestra tierra y a las personas que están sufriendo. Vamos a orar para que Dios derrame su Espíritu sobre nosotros, su pueblo, para que logremos terminar el trabajo.

Nuestros oradores invitados serán el Pastor Shawn Boonstra para el campestre de inglés y el Pastor Robert Folkenberg para los de habla hispana. Tendremos tiempo para adorar, para estudiar la Palabra de Dios y para orar. También recibiremos un informe sobre el progreso de la misión Caleb. Por favor, hagan planes para estar presente todo el fin de semana pues el campestre de este año será una experiencia inolvidable. ¡Allí nos veremos!

—José H. Cortés,
Presidente

Campestre de los Jóvenes y los Niños

El departamento de Jóvenes ha escogido el tema “STAY” (por sus siglas en inglés—Spiritually True Active Youth) para el año 2012. “El caminar cristiano es más que sentarse en una banca, es poner tu fe en acción,” dijo el Pastor Paulo Macena (fotografiados a la derecha con su esposa, Cristina), director de jóvenes. “Nuestro objetivo es ayudar a los jóvenes a entender la necesidad de ser fieles a Cristo y a la misma vez estar envueltos en la misión de la iglesia alcanzando a personas jóvenes y demostrándoles el amor de Cristo. Deseo ver nuevamente a nuestros jóvenes bajo la carpa este año y yo sé que serán bendecidos con la programación que hemos planeado.”

Los programas del Ministerio Infantil estarán bajo la dirección de Cristina Macena, coordinadora del Ministerio Infantil de la Conferencia. “Estaremos enfocándonos en “Kidz 4 Jesus” como el tema para el campestre de este año. En adición a nuestros servicios regulares de escuela sabática y de la iglesia para niños, en la tarde tendremos un programa combinado para niños comenzando a las 3 p.m. Deseo ayudar a nuestros niños a aprender más acerca de Jesús,” dijo Cristina Macena.

Division Leaders Fellowship With New Jersey Pastors

Three members of the North American Division (NAD) Ministerial Association recently fellowshiped with New Jersey Conference pastors. Ivan Williams, Ministerial director; Dave Gemmell, associate director; and Shawn Boonstra, associate director, joined the pastors at the Tranquil Valley Retreat Center (TVRC) in Tranquility.

Williams spoke about the five values of a pastor: faith, family, finances, fitness and fellowship. He encouraged pastors to not only work hard but also lead a balanced life so they can serve God over the long run. Boonstra shared how his evangelism really began to prosper when he discovered that his primary role as an evangelist is to find people who are already under the conviction of the Holy Spirit rather than trying to do the convicting himself. Gemmell shared how pastors can begin to connect with the Millennial generation, which he calls the “technotribe.”

“I was extremely blessed to meet with a team of extraordinary pastors,” Williams said. “These men work hard and play hard. It is exciting to see God bless their ministry.”

Gemmell said, “I was impressed by the fact that New Jersey had an 8 percent tithe gain in the heart of the recession. Something is up in New Jersey that the NAD needs to pay attention to.” And Boonstra said, “Having clear achievable goals led New Jersey to grow almost a thousand members a year. Evangelism is clearly the business of the church. I can’t wait to see what is going to happen with the dozen or so Caleb projects.”

The future looks bright to José H. Cortés, president of the New Jersey Conference. “We’re getting busy preparing for New York evangelism in 2013,” he said. “We can’t wait to see what God is going to do.”

Luzo-Brazilian, Waldwick English and Wayne Churches Gain Pastor

Pastor Eduardo Monteiro and his wife, Patricia, recently joined the New Jersey pastoral team. Pastor Monteiro transferred to the New Jersey Conference from the Ontario Conference in Canada where he pastored both English and Spanish congregations. Monteiro is a native of Brazil and Patricia is from Mexico. They met while both were living in the Washington, D.C., area.

He will pastor the Luzo-Brazilian, Waldwick English and Wayne English churches. "I am happy to have Pastor Eduardo Monteiro and his wife, Patricia, join our team," said José H. Cortés, conference president. "He can preach in English, Portuguese and Spanish, and I know he will be a real asset to the conference." Monteiro replaces Pastor Paulo Macena, who was named Youth and Children's Ministries director last summer.

Luzo-Brazilian Church Celebrates Grand Reopening

Last month many members and former pastors joined in celebrating the Luzo-Brazilian church's grand reopening. The city of Newark condemned the building in 2007. Although the church had been classified as a historic building, everything except for the outside stone wall needed to be torn down. It took church members almost four years and more than $1.5 million to rebuild. The rebuilding took place under the leadership of Pastor Paulo Macena, who was invited back for the grand reopening event and asked to cut the ribbon. During the removal of the old building, they uncovered the original cornerstone and found inside a time capsule dated 1883. Inside the time capsule was a Bible.

Present for the ribbon-cutting ceremony were José H. Cortés, conference president; Jim Greene, executive secretary; former pastors Therezina Barbalho and Paulo Macena, conference Youth Ministries director; and current pastor Eduardo Monteiro. The church was also packed with former members celebrating the event.

A crowd gathers outside the church for the ribbon cutting.

OHIO CONFERENCE NEWSLETTER

Welcome

The men and women who lead our congregations are called, equipped and empowered to cultivate spiritual maturity and life-altering faith in members. These pastors take seriously the task of developing disciples of Jesus. They are, therefore, well qualified to also organize and conduct a comprehensive event for members across Ohio and beyond.

For the second consecutive year, a team of Ohio pastors planned our camp meetings. Their knowledge of how to provide the best experience for forming believers is very evident in the top-quality program they developed. They paid careful attention to the spiritual, social and physical needs of all age groups. They effectively balanced teaching, discussion, music and other elements that will challenge and inspire all attendees. The fresh, biblically grounded messages by our pastors will take us deep into God's Word.

I look forward to the spiritual treat that awaits us, and I invite you to join us for this week of renewal and recommitment.

—Raj Attiken,
Conference
President

Truth is Jesus Mount Vernon Academy, June 10-16

Sabbath Speaker

Yuliyán Filipov's encounter with Jesus transformed him from an atheist into a devoted Christian and minister of the gospel. God's call to pastoral ministry prompted Filipov to leave his engineering career and pursue theology in two Seventh-day Adventist seminaries: Seminar Schloss Bogenhofen in Austria and Andrews University in Michigan. His deep love for the Word of God has motivated him to study diligently the original languages of the Bible in order to make his preaching and teaching solidly grounded in God's Word. Currently Filipov serves as the lead pastor of the Worthington church. He has been happily married to Milenka for more than 20 years.

HOMETOWN CAMP MEETING

Chillicothe/Jackson Southern Ohio Camp Meeting, June 1-3 Pike Lake State Park, Bainbridge

Speaker: Robert Stevenson

Enjoy a relaxing, spiritual weekend in beautiful southern Ohio. Robert Stevenson, principal of Mount Vernon Academy in Mount Vernon, Ohio, will bless attendees with spiritual insights. Attend one day or the entire weekend. Camp sites and cabin information is available at dnr.state.oh.us. Sabbath lunch and supper will be potluck style. For more information, contact Ron Anderson at randerson143@yahoo.com or (740) 637-9010.

Presenters and Seminars

Monday-Friday, 10:45 a.m. ■

Ron Anderson has served as pastor, educator and principal and currently pastors the Chillicothe and Jackson churches. He is always looking for ways to make Christianity practical and hands on. In his seminar “Fundamental Beliefs on Five Fingers,” he will ask attendees, “Have you ever been tongue tied when someone asked what you believe?” Anderson will provide attendees with “a witness at your fingertips”—an easy way to answer that question.

Monday-Thursday, 7 p.m. ■

Alexander Bolotnikov currently serves as Jewish Ministries director for the Ohio Conference and for the Shalom Learning Center in Florida, an Adventist center for Jewish ministry. He has served as a professor at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary in Russia, prior to which he was a parish pastor. In his presentation “Sabbath: Obligation or Celebration?” he’ll answer the questions: Do we really have to keep it? Are we indeed saved by the law? How can we make the Sabbath experience a delight? How can we rejoice in living by the law?

Monday-Friday, 7 p.m. ■ Main speaker Yuliyán Filipov will also present “Sinless Perfection—What Does the Bible Say?” The word “perfection” means different things to different Christians, but add to it the adjective “sinless” and there is bound to be controversy, which can divide churches. Pastor Filipov will identify some common mistakes people make when they define biblical perfection. He will not only give biblical clarity on the subject, but will also teach the solid principles of interpretation, which will prove very helpful in personal Bible study.

Monday-Friday, 10:45 a.m. ■

Laszlo Hangyas says he was born with an analytical mind that helps him understand the literary form and message of two very important books in the Bible: Daniel and Revelation (on which he wrote his dissertation). In his seminar “The Seven Blessings of Revelation,” Hangyas, pastor of the Brooklyn and Westlake churches, will explain how Revelation is the most structured book of the Bible; its complexity is based on thought parallels that occur in an inverted order. This literary structure will help attendees focus on the main theme of any biblical book. Learn how passages in Revelation put emphasis on some of the main turning points of the great controversy, especially on the second coming of Christ.

Monday-Thursday, 7 p.m. ■

Tom Hughes has been an Adventist pastor for more than 32 years. He is currently pastor of the Newark church and is actively involved in a motorcycle ministry. In his presentation “The Sanctuary in Heaven,” Hughes will use the symbols of the sanctuary to explain righteousness by faith.

Monday-Thursday, 7 p.m. ■ Jeba Moses has pastored with the Ohio Conference for 23 years, and currently leads the Clifton congregation in Cincinnati. He is also a health educator at the University of Cincinnati. In his seminar “Eating to Live, Love and Last,” Moses will help listeners learn: how to fill their plate to lose weight and maintain healthy weight by eating more; how quality of life is directly proportional to the food you eat; why eight out of 10 people who lose weight gain it back; and how to make excellent nutritional choices that will please your heart, scale, dietitian and doctor.

Friday, 6 p.m. ■ In her presentation “Our Lord’s Delight,” Lori Farr, pastor of a four-church district in northeast Ohio, will discuss how to open up the Sabbath.

Additional Info

Welcome

We all have seen a young child walk up to an adult, flex their little arms and emphatically say, “I’m strong.”

We have an attraction to strength; the strong win and the weak lose. No one likes to be a “loser,” making Paul’s concept to the Corinthians counter-intuitive: “When I am weak, then I am strong” (2 Cor. 12:10). Paul knows the human condition. We strive to look good, desire an appearance of strength, appeal, beauty, wisdom and other glamorous likenesses. Paul knows that each humanly perceived strength, however, is truly a weakness. He realizes that when we acknowledge our weaknesses and depend on Jesus, then we are strong.

May this camp meeting be a time when we each renew our commitment to focus on Jesus, accept Him as our strength and

Lord. For when I am weak, then I Am strong.
—Bill Miller,
President
and Sabbath
Speaker

Gary B. Patterson authored Find It in the Yellow Pages and the Minister’s Handbook for the General Conference, and has written numerous articles for the Adventist Review, Ministry magazine and the youth and collegiate quarterlies. Patterson started his ministry in 1960 as an evangelistic pastor in the Upper Columbia Conference. He has served as president for the Georgia Cumberland and Pennsylvania conferences, vice president for the North American Division and general field secretary for the GC. Since retiring in 1998, he has worked as president for Sunbelt Home Health, Inc., and an interim senior pastor for six churches.

Seminars

“How to Win Souls and Become a Disciple of Christ”

■ The Seventh-day Adventist Church has a clear mission for its members: preach the everlasting gospel, win souls and make disciples. In this five-part seminar, Lillian Torres will suggest how to discover and receive spiritual authority, confidence and handle doubts and fears that keep you from becoming an excited and courageous witness for Jesus. Learn the ABCs of giving Bible studies and learn how to answer difficult questions. Torres is a Bible instructor and lay trainer for the Pennsylvania Conference and Columbia Union Conference.

“Leadership Essentials for Women”

■ Explore principles that apply to leaders in all church positions using Jesus as a model for healthy and effective leadership.

Presenter Carla Baker will also help attendees focus on specific resources for Women’s Ministries in the local church. Baker is the Women’s Ministries director for the North American Division.

“Everybody Wins! Christian Principles of Conflict Resolution”

■ Learn how and why conflicts arise and how Christians can resolve them.

Presenter Maurice T. Battle, Potomac’s associate for Pastoral Ministries in the northern region, will share principles that can help members strengthen marital, work, family and church life.

“Happiness is an Inside Job: How Christians can Live a Fuller and Happier Existence”

■ Why do Christians who have the good news and have been told to “count it all as joy” find it difficult to live happy lives? Byron Greenberg, a licensed clinical psychologist with a private practice in central Virginia, will address the importance of happiness in the church, home and at work. This class is not designed to address clinical depression. Greenberg, who also works as an assistant professor at Virginia State University, gears this seminar toward those who recognize that their level of happiness is not as deep or wide as they wish it to be.

“The Book of Revelation, Jesus and the Old Testament Prophets”

■ Watch the book of Revelation come to life through its roots in the Old Testament. Through the seminar, Robert H. Banks, DMin, Potomac’s ministerial associate for the southern and central regions of the conference, will try to bring clarity through the lens of the ancient prophets who form the backdrop of a message that is so urgent for Christians today.

“Common Sense Health Ministry for Such a Time as This”

■ Everyone faces health and financial concerns. In this presentation by Barbara Watson Paille, draw close to Jesus while learning to take charge of personal health. Learn how to facilitate relevant health ministries and teach others about plant-based, common sense cuisine and an active lifestyle that promotes health and saves money. Paille is the creator/director of the StepFast Lifestyle DVD Series, author of the companion Total Vegetarian Cookbook and the Amazing Health Cookbook, and trains others to lead in health education.

“Reaching Out: Why People Leave the Church and What We can do About It”

■ Speaker Kelly Mowrer is founder and head of the Live at the Well ministry. She also hosts two programs on 3ABN, Praise and His Words Are Life, and serves as scriptwriter for The Quiet Hour’s Windows of Hope. In her seminar, she will include personal stories, comprehensive facts and data to illustrate ways to connect with missing members and create a climate of health within the church to help prevent future losses.

“When all You can do is Pray: Studies on the Purpose and Power of Prayer”

■ Prayer is often the last thing we turn to, even though it is meant to be a daily, life-giving communion with God. Find the true purpose of prayer and realize the fullness of God’s love and peace. Presenter Charles Tapp is the senior pastor of the Sligo church on the campus of Washington Adventist University in Takoma Park, Md.

“A Matter of the Heart”

■ Giving money to the church is often attached to thoughts of stewardship. However, Jesus had a much bigger and personal meaning that went straight to the heart. “For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also” (Matt. 6:21, NKJV). Hugo Chinchay, Potomac’s director of stewardship and trust services, proposes that treasure is what you value in your life as a priority. At this seminar, discover how your spiritual priorities may not be in the right order.

Seminars

“Building Stronger Churches and Communities Through Youth-Adult Partnerships” ■

Presenter Justin Vibbard suggests that ministry can become stale and stagnant without the vibrancy, perspectives and energy brought by youth, who he claims are the lifeblood of any congregation and community. In his two sessions, participants will look at how to involve and empower young people in the ministry of serving others, while making the greatest impact in the world. Vibbard and his wife, Laura Conrad, are co-coordinators for the North American Division’s YES! (Youth Empowered to Serve) program.

“Religion and the Workplace” ■

In the workplace, the observance of Sabbath is sometimes problematic—either because work on the seventh day might be required or because the changing hour of Friday sundown may necessitate early departures. Reasonable employers often make accommodations, but what should faithful Adventists do when the ugly choice arises between one’s vocation and religious convictions? Walter E. Carson, vice president and general counsel for the Columbia Union Conference, will provide proven solutions.

“How to Care for Friends and Others in Crisis” ■

This workshop by Steve Willsey is an introduction to psychological first-aid and critical incident stress management, two models used by Adventist Community Services

(ACS) to prepare volunteers to assist traumatized survivors of disasters and other critical incidents. Get practical information on how participants can care for themselves and others to lessen the impact of stressful situations. Willsey served as a pastor for 42 years prior to developing a crisis care ministry for ACS. He now serves as Crisis Care coordinator/East for the North American Division.

“What is ACS?” ■ Many remember the Dorcas Society, but what about crisis care, elder care or Youth Empowered to Serve? Adventist Community Services is not what it used to be. It is fully modernized and expanded to include many facets of outreach to communities. Bob Mitchell, Potomac’s ACS coordinator, will inform attendees of the many service opportunities that await them in their communities.

Blue Mountain Academy COMMUNIQUE

MAY 2012

A Foundation for a Walk With God

By encouraging young people to seek a relationship with Christ, Blue Mountain Academy (BMA) provides a foundation for a walk with Him. Students are given numerous opportunities to find God, and to study and share His Word with the rest of the world. Being spiritually active is a personal choice, and BMA staff does their best to help and support students on that journey.

Leadership classes, Bible studies and religious programs teach students about Jesus and His love. Youth rallies and occasional guest speakers have a major impact on students' hearts. FOCUS (Focus on Christ's Ultimate Sacrifice) Week is a special time for students and faculty to reconnect with God and soak up His presence. From inspirational speakers to deep discussions, BMA students are given an environment to grow as human beings with God as their strength.

Teachers enjoy working with students, not only on academics, but also on their relationship with Christ, which forms a strong connection between students and staff. That is what brings us together as a school and family. With supportive faculty and staff, young people are comforted that they are not alone in their walk with God. God's love is showered throughout the academy and is seen within the characters of the people here.

School Board Announces New Principal

With principal Craig Ziesmer planning to retire at the end of the school year, the Blue Mountain Academy School Board voted David Morgan (below) as the new school principal, effective July 1. Morgan is transferring his service from the Pennsylvania Conference office, where he served as vice president of education for the past five years.

During his time at the conference office, Morgan helped the Board of Education become more focused on school performance, ensuring that Pennsylvania schools operate as financially stable ministries, which enables them to continue being "distinctly academic and decidedly Christian." Morgan started his ministry in Pennsylvania as the head teacher of the Coudersport Seventh-day Adventist School, which is now closed.

Four years later, he moved to Williamsport to teach at the Mountain View Christian School. He later became their principal. God then called him to serve as principal of the Reading Junior Academy, a school he attended for 10 years. Eight years later, he moved to BMA as vice principal.

"David brings a unique strength to the position of principal of Blue Mountain Academy, having served as a teacher, principal and academy vice principal here in the Pennsylvania Conference," shares Ray Hartwell, Pennsylvania Conference president and BMA school board chairman. "Having a heart for students and for the mission of Jesus Christ here in the Pennsylvania region, David is well qualified to lead the ministry of Blue Mountain Academy. I welcome the passion and joy he brings to seeing our young people grow in Christ, while also encouraging their academic journey."

Morgan says he is excited about this new opportunity to impact the lives of young people in the conference that educated and trained him. "[Taking] the opportunity to work with a staff that is both talented and passionate was easy. But, even easier was the opportunity to work alongside them as we teach our students of a loving God Who sent His only Son to die for them, regardless of their mistakes. [We want to] help them grow in their understanding of a God with such love [in hopes that they will] give their lives to Him and purpose in their hearts to live a life of service for Him."

Road Show Makes Physics Fun for Young Students

Cary Corbin, BMA's physics teacher, took the Physics Road Show to Williamsport, Pa., for the second show of the season. There Mountain View Christian School students got to experience firsthand how expanding gas cools off, thus giving up heat energy—a lesson in thermodynamics. He used aluminum soda cans and water to demonstrate methods of keeping an engine from melting. The empty soda can melted easily, but when water was put into the can, it did not melt until the water had boiled away. Atmospheric pressure crushed the “boiled” soda can to illustrate how quickly some thermal events can take place.

Wayne Corbin, a member of the Williamsport church, accompanied Cary and agreed to help. Wayne brought a Harley Davidson cylinder and cylinder head, along with examples of thermostats from car engines. Why? An engine is a heat conversion device. It takes chemical energy (gasoline) and converts it to heat by burning it in the combustion chamber. The expanding gas pushes on the piston and converts the heat energy into mechanical energy to move the motorcycle (or whatever vehicle).

They concluded the lesson by explaining how kinetic energy can be turned back into heat energy by studying how bullets melt when they hit a steel barrier.

My Dominican Republic Bel Canto Tour Experience

Without a doubt, Bel Canto's 2012 International Tour was one of the best experiences of my 16-year-old life. For 10 days, Bel Canto members (pictured with friends) had the privilege of setting out on a mission trip to Santiago, Dominican Republic, to perform as part of a weeklong evangelistic series. It was an exhilarating and eye-opening trip that I, if given the chance and a time machine, would do all over again.

The moment our airplane touched down, the beauty of that country swept over me. Driving through the town of Puerto Plata, I mused about someday making it my home. The next day, we kicked off our first performance. At the end of each song, almost on cue, a hearty “Amen!” exploded from the audience, with the loudest of them usually coming after “Via Dolorosa,” which we sang in Spanish. After all of our concerts, the members of the different churches greeted us with pleasant warmth that made me feel at home.

If there's anything that I learned from Bel Canto's tour of the Dominican Republic, it's that, when it comes to God, there are always many more forces at work than meet the eye. It was truly a wonderful experience.—Stephen Acosta ('13)

Mission Team Shares Christ in Europe

Ten Shenandoah Valley Academy (SVA) students and four sponsors traveled to Germany and Austria during spring break for a unique outreach journey. The group's mission: to witness to residents and meet other Seventh-day Adventist young people.

For their first outreach appointment, they visited with the students of PLANT Academy, an outreach training program based at the Seminar Schloss Bogenhofen, an Adventist academy and seminary in Austria. The students had fun attending the German and English classes with the Austrian students. The SVA and PLANT young people then visited several neighborhoods in Brauna to conduct surveys and distribute literature.

Later the SVA students got involved in 10 prayer meetings for Adventist youth in Bavaria, Germany, including two youth Sabbaths in Nürnberg and Munich. They focused on the life of John the Baptist and on becoming God's messengers who proclaim the Second Advent. SVA students also conducted two morning worship at the Immanuel School near Munich, one of the few Adventist elementary schools in Germany. The SVA group also made sure to tour historical sites in Salzburg, Mondsee, Nürnberg, Munich, Newuschwanstein and Dachau, and ski in the Austrian Alps!

Here are a couple of comments from the group about the journey: "The trip to Europe was an eye-opening experience, much like any mission trip. It allowed me to see how a group of people can be so different in their way of living but can still be accepting and ultimately have the same goal to reach people for Christ," shared senior Graydon Jedamski.

"I met many fearless warriors for Christ, and I aspire to be more like them," said junior Angel Lawhorn.—Buz Menhardt

Men's Singing Group Wins Youthfest Showcase

About 80 SVA students attended Potomac Conference's Youthfest themed "ARISE." The event, held at Takoma Academy in Takoma Park, Md., offered baptismal and outreach opportunities to the homeless, elderly and service-men. A new feature of the event was Friday evening's Young Artist Showcase, highlighting musical and drama performances by conference youth. SVA's own male a capella group Inspiration won first place in the showcase! The group later recorded two of their songs at the General Conference for a future broadcast on the Hope Channel.

Academy Days Visitors Earn “Faith-Based Intelligence”

More than 115 visiting students checked into SVA’s “FBI Headquarters”—where FBI stands for faith-based intelligence—to experience SVA life at the school’s annual Academy Days. Although the visitors hailed from 22 schools and Adventist academies, they all got a chance to bond over snow cones and ice cream, games, picnics and dorm sleepovers. They also visited classrooms for mini lessons, took tests, participated in music auditions and demonstrated their athletic abilities.

At Monday’s awards ceremony, students cheered when $90,000 in academic, music and sports scholarships was given away, making it possible for many students to attend SVA. It was a perfect opportunity for potential students to witness the value of Christian education and the formation of lifetime friendships.

Ming Kim and Jennie Lee, eighth-graders from Shenandoah Valley Adventist Elementary, are Academy Days scholarship winners. Left: Todd Coulter, SVA’s guidance counselor, and Dorenda Dodge, vice principal, are ready for “FBI” action.

Students Enjoy “A Night in the Orient”

Dozens of volunteers worked for hours to transform the gymnasium into an Asian wonderland for the annual Student Association Banquet. To go along with the theme, the room was filled with origami swans, paper lanterns and lots of black and red décor. Some students chose to go with dates, others went with a group of friends, but everyone claimed they had a great time.

School Honors Academic Achievers

JiYoo Park, Jeanine Tacaca, Steven VandeVere and Alexandria Wetzel.

To help celebrate their success, along with students who earned their place on the Principal’s List, school staff hosted a Latin-inspired brunch. After dining on omelets and pastries handmade by a local Latin bakery, each student received a certificate acknowledging their accomplishment. Many proud parents attended the celebration.

Blooming Relationships

The foundation of God's kingdom is unconditional love, which is also the basis of healthy relationships. As sinful human beings, we strive to meet that principle, but usually fall short. However, we should never stop trying to show unconditional love to our fellow human beings.

In the educational environment, this is especially important because a healthy relationship is important for learning to occur. James Comer, of the Yale Child Study Center, puts it well: "No significant learning occurs without a significant relationship." At Spencerville Adventist Academy (SAA), all faculty and staff strive to keep healthy and respectful relationships with all of our students. We do not accomplish this every day, 100 percent of the time, but we keep this concept as a constant goal. If you want to fully unlock the potential of the children and young adults within your sphere of influence, keep your relationship with them a top priority and you will see them begin to blossom like the flowers of spring.

Special Chapel Highlights Black History, Student Talent

During a special chapel program for students in third through 12th grade, Spencerville Adventist Academy embraced the opportunity to celebrate the achievements and contributions of African-Americans to this country. Sandra Brown and Gail Gibbons (below), both SAA parents and Campus Ministries personnel, designed the program.

Special musical selections included one that was custom written for the day, plus performances by students from elementary through high school. Speakers included

Milton Brown, from the Georgetown University Medical Center in Washington, D.C., and Chris Gibbons, from the Johns Hopkins Medical Institution in Baltimore. There was also a video custom designed for SAA students that profiled notable figures like Ben Carson, a respected Seventh-day Adventist neurosurgeon; James West, a noted inventor, and first lady Michelle Obama. Each feature communicated to the students that they have a creative, loving heavenly Father who has given them all important gifts and abilities.

"Each student left with goodie bags that reinforced how special they are to our community, and with a message of inspiration to go forward and make a difference as God has called them to do," reported Somer Knight, campus chaplain. SAA administrators hope to make this an annual celebration of diversity and, as Dr. Carson noted, a celebration of the uniqueness of each individual.

During the Black History Month assembly, sixth-grader Sonali Prillman conducts the Adventist Children's Choir in "Joshua Fought the Battle of Jericho".

Lady Hornets, Coach Win Big at Basketball Tournament

For years Spencerville Adventist Academy's varsity basketball teams have had the opportunity to compete at the Southwestern Adventist University Basketball Tournament in Texas. At this year's tournament, SAA's Lady Hornets (below) earned the top spot as tournament champions! They not only took home the first-place trophy, but three other awards: sophomore JoJo Brown was the tournament's Most Valuable Player, Michelle Kelchner was the Outstanding Senior Player and Jey Edward, SAA head coach, received the Outstanding Coach Award. Additionally, all of the players got to compete and socialize with other Seventh-day Adventist athletes and share their God-given talents in a well-organized, Christian atmosphere.

"It was really rewarding to have team bonding and to perform at our best against such talented teams," remarked sophomore Katelyn Juneau.

SAA leaders believe their athletic program fits into an important part of their overall mission to "prepare the whole person for service to God and man" because it promotes good sportsmanship, leadership, self sacrifice, forethought, perseverance, maturity, respect, teamwork, generosity and integrity. ### Inductees Raise NHS Membership to 37

SAA's National Honor Society (NHS) recently inducted 17 students to its chapter and now claims a membership of 37 (most pictured below). Since the SAA chapter started in 1996, more than 175 of its members have graduated.

Congratulations to the new members: seniors Chelesia Anderson, Jimmy Brockett, Josué Hernandez and Zachary Sharpe; juniors Vanessa Baioni, Gabrielle Cook, Brandon Enriquez, Sarah Mann, Julia McEdward and Paige Morgan; and sophomores Kacey Banks, Stephen Eide, Matthew Fennell, Juliana Handel, Katelyn

Juneau, Gayoun Pak and Kyle Weigle. Inductees must display the qualities of scholarship, leadership, service and character.

"I'm proud of each one of these new inductees and look forward to their continued leadership and service on our campus," said Nathan Hess, NHS advisor.

Band Concert Funds Safe Water for 35

SAA's combined bands, under the direction of Rod Kerbs II, put on their first concert in the new school auditorium. Sixty-three student musicians filled the auditorium with tunes from popular Disney animations to benefit the charity Water.org.

"As a result of the donations that night, 35 people from developing nations were guaranteed clean, safe drinking water—for life!" exclaimed Kerbs.

Talent is Never Enough

In 2008, when I accepted the challenge to provide leadership for the Columbia Union College, some individuals offered their congratulations, while others said they were not certain if they should offer condolences or congratulations. Four and half years later, I can testify that when we establish a committed partnership with the Lord, success is guaranteed. Columbia Union College is now Washington Adventist University (WAU); this year we experienced the largest enrollment ever, and on April 14, we dedicated the first new building on campus in 40 years—The Leroy and Lois Peters Music Center.

The success we are experiencing is clearly due to our partnership with Jesus and a talented committed team of leaders, faculty and staff. I want to use this medium to give thanks to the Almighty and the dedicated board of trustees, faculty and staff for their commitment to the mission of Washington Adventist University. In the book Prophets and Kings, Ellen White writes: “True success in any line of work is not the result of chance or accident or destiny. It is the outworking of God’s providences, the reward of faith and discretion, of virtue and perseverance. Fine mental qualities and a high moral tone are not the result of accident. God gives opportunities; success depends upon the use made of them” (p. 486).

In the introduction to his book Leadership Prayers, Richard Kriegbaum speaks of a leader’s relationship to God: “Leaders do not pray to inform God of what is happening. He already knows. And they do not pray to get Him to do what they want. He already wants what is best for everyone involved.”

Now as we close out another academic year, our prayer of thanksgiving is: Thank you, God, for blessing us with talented individuals and for Your desire to accept the worries and challenges of WAU. God, grant us humility and the tendency to put You in the spotlight on the journey toward institutional excellence. Help us, God, to keep in daily focus the needs of our students. We recognize You as the Master Teacher and we give to You the honor and glory. Amen.

University’s Growth Tops Maryland Independent Colleges

Washington Adventist University is not only the fastest growing institution among U.S.-based Seventh-day Adventist institutions (see the March issue of The Gateway); it is also the fastest growing among the Maryland Independent Colleges and University Association (MICUA).

From fall 2010 to fall 2011, MICUA recorded just over 16 percent growth rate in undergraduate full-time students for WAU, just ahead of Capitol College with 13.1 percent. Mount St. Mary’s University, Maryland Institute of Art, Washington College and Stevenson University also saw positive growth.

MICUA’S 16 members are fully accredited and provide unique educational opportunities to 63,000 students annually.

University Hosts Columbia Union School Administrators

Washington Adventist University recently hosted the Columbia Union School Administrators Council's (CUSAC) annual committee meeting. The council is a meeting of school teachers and academy principals from Seventh-day Adventist educational institutions across the Columbia Union.

President Weymouth Spence, EdD, spoke to the gathering and presented his plan for WAU, which is enjoying record enrollment and a much improved financial outlook. Among WAU's goals is to have 3,000 students enrolled by 2020, including online.

Student representatives from various departments attended the meeting and shared their thoughts on Adventist education with the administrators. The day also included a tour of The Leroy and Lois Peters Music center and a lunch meeting with senior WAU administrators.

"By hosting the CUSAC's annual meeting, [WAU's] administrators, faculty and students were able to build a stronger relationship with administrators of Columbia Union schools," said Sophia Ward, PhD, student success and engagement specialist and a professor in the Department of Education. "WAU really showed the committee members that we produce students who excel."—Kevin Manuel

Russian Bible Translation Director Shares Updates

WAU's Bible Translation Institute leaders recently spent the Sabbath immersing members of the university community in the Russian culture and bringing them up to date on the institute's Russian Bible translation project. The Bible Translation Institute is a project between Washington Adventist University and Zaoksky University in Russia. Mikhail Kulakov Jr., DPhil (pictured), who directs the institute, started the day with a sermon. In his sermon, he reflected on the struggles of his father, Mikhail Petrovich Kulakov Sr., who founded the institute.

In the afternoon, Russian soloist Elena Rudoy performed a concert. A renowned performer in her native land, Rudoy received her music training from Gnesin's Russian Academy of Music. She also obtained a Master of Arts from Andrews University (Mich.). She is currently dean of the Music Department at Zaosky and visited WAU on behalf of the institute.

Kulakov also shared some updates about the project, including its background. He said the latest translation of the Bible into Russian was published in 1875, and for most Russians, the text is practically unreadable. The current project involves translating the entire Bible into Russian. The Old Testament is being translated from the ancient Hebrew and the New Testament from the biblical Greek.

Kulakov said, of all current major efforts in Russia to produce a translation of high scholarly and literary quality, only two projects received positive evaluation—one being the translation produced by the WAU-Zaoksky partnership.

The New Testament, the Psalms and the Pentateuch have already been completed and published. The institute plans to publish the translation of the entire Bible by 2015. —Steven del Rio

Extending Sacred Work

MAY 2012

"But you shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you; and you shall be witnesses to Me in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and Samaria, and to the end of the earth."

– Acts 1:8

The world needs servants – people like Jesus, who “did not come to be served, but to serve.” In Adventist healthcare, our mission is to reflect our creator through dedication to service. This understanding keeps our organization’s compass focused on the things that truly matter.

Walking around Greene Memorial Hospital and now Soin Medical Center, I’m moved by the way our staff members seek opportunities to reach out. I see them touch the lives of patients and families who may be scared, concerned, and overloaded with stress. Sometimes patients have just heard the word “cancer.” Other times they are simply waiting for test results, or a visit from their physician. Working at an Adventist institution gives me the opportunity to pray with these patients and ask for God’s healing presence and comfort.

Often, our staff members experience real problems too – challenges with children, parents, their own health or their walk with their Creator. These challenges can be as overwhelming for our employees as a medical illness can be for patients. During my career in Adventist healthcare, I’ve been led by example. True leaders have said to me, “Terry, let’s kneel down and put this issue before the Lord.” I’ve learned when you get up from your knees with someone caring enough to take you with them to our Lord in prayer, you are strengthened in a special way by that person. This truly reflects our Savior’s love. I’ve come to treasure my opportunities to pause, pray and encourage our employee team.

My take-away from the Adventist leaders who have nurtured me on my journey, is that to serve our patients, we have to take care of our teams. In tough economic times, sometimes even involving staff reductions, the best answers come from solutions which begin on our knees. This best expresses my commitment to service. Serve our team, and our team will more effectively serve our patients.

Terry Burns, President of Greene Memorial Hospital and the Indu and Raj Soin Medical Center and member of the Kettering Adventist Church.

Kettering Adventist HealthCare Opens New Hospital

After a year and a half of construction, the Indu and Raj Soin Medical Center was ready to open their doors. It took the construction crew over 38,000 hours to complete the hospital. They excavated over 119,665 cubic-yards of dirt, which would fill 11,966 dump trucks. Contractors poured more than 17,520 cubic-square-yards of concrete, equivalent to 35,048 tons or more than 70 million pounds. Painters applied 4,050 gallons of paint, enough to paint approximately 150 residential homes. The electrical wire, if stretched out, is 420 miles, which would cover the distance between Columbus to Washington, D.C.

Each piece, like the making of a puzzle, created a healing environment. One more piece fell into place with the hiring of our specialized team of employees. But before the opening...

Blessing Ceremony

February 20th was a special day when 64 participants came together to bless 280 rooms and 319 employees. Twenty-one different religious communities were represented through clergy and lay liaisons of the Greene County community, as well as Kettering Adventist HealthCare, Kettering College, University of Dayton, the military, and various Seventh-day Adventist Churches of the Greater Dayton area. Three different prayers were offered.

One to bless the hands of the employees...

“Bless these hands in their ministry of healing. May their touch on our patients, their own family, and the community create a wonderful ripple effect, not imagined or expected. Amen”

Another to bless each room...

“God may this room be filled with your ministry of healing and may all who enter take comfort and refuge in the shelter of your love. Amen”

The final blessing for the actual employee working in that room...

“We ask a special blessing our employee John Smith. May your love surround him in the responsibilities of their care and personal life. In Your name. Amen”

Now the final piece was in place and we were ready to open our doors.

The Creation Wall

Sculpturing for the artist James H. Devries is a second endeavor following a successful career as an entrepreneur and manager. After studying Architecture for two years, Devries changed his major and graduated from the University of Michigan with an engineering degree. Sculpture became a passion for Devries in 1998 when he saw a sculpture while visiting a ranch in Montana.

Devries's sculptures range from portraiture to the abstract. His dream is to someday complete a series of sculptures that portray all of the major themes in scripture.

The title of the creation wall sculpture, "Ineffable Love," means "too beautiful to describe with words." For the artist this reflects not only the beauty of creation, but also the unfolding of God's plan in the rest of Scripture. The beautiful creation surrounding us today is but a shadow of God's glorious creation before the fall of man. God desires an intimate relationship with us and to eventually dwell with us again in the renewed creation. It is the artist's prayer that this sculpture will change others to a greater understanding of our loving God.

Indu & Raj Soin Medical Center Gets Top of the Line Patient Interactive Software

The GetWellNetwork is an interactive software system that uses the bedside TV to entertain, educate and allow patients to be more actively engaged in their care.

The software exchanges data with our existing health information technology, Epic, to document all patient choices. Patients will take a more active role in their care process by learning more about their condition, communicating with caregivers, preparing for discharge, and caring for themselves at home. Each patient will be prompted on their TV to read, respond, and acknowledge specific information regarding their stay.

Patients will also have the opportunity to order room service, fill their discharge prescriptions and shop at the gift shop all with a click of a button from the comfort of their bed. Patients can also entertain themselves with access to Facebook, a variety of movies and a range of games.

Sharing Easter Joy

Richa Stevens, Chaplain for KAHC, says "there is such a need for women and children in the different facilities to know someone somewhere cares."

MAKING MINISTRY POSSIBLE

Columbia Union Revolving Fund

Columbia Union's Lender of Choice

(866)721-CURF

FOR THE PAST 44 YEARS, the Columbia Union Revolving Fund (CURF) has been the primary lending source for Seventh-day Adventist entities in the Columbia Union. To date, CURF has made available some 1,800 loans to hundreds of Adventist conferences, churches, schools and other institutions in the Columbia Union.

In the Allegheny West Conference, a CURF loan helped the Ohio Central Korean church in Worthington, Ohio, construct their first house of worship. In the Chesapeake Conference, CURF funds helped Eastern Shore Junior Academy in Sudlersville, Md., replace a 40-year-old boiler with a new geothermal system. With a CURF loan, Washington Adventist University's radio station WGTS 91.9, based in Takoma Park, Md., was able to purchase equipment that helped them expand their potential listenership to more than 1 million.

CURF truly is making ministry possible.
