"Not All that Glitters"

JOHN KILDEE

"Not all that glitters is gold," we repeat,
True enough. There are deeds that are done
By the thotful and cheerful, for those that they meet
That shine as the bright golden sun.

There are those who find others in sorrow or pain,
And help them with sympathy true
That expresses itself in the things that they say
And much more in the things that they do.

There are those who go smiling on life's rugged way—
It's a pleasure their faces to see.
For they smile in the cloud, as the bright sunny day
And it's pleasant just with them to be.

There are those who are careful in all that they do
Not to wound or cause others to bleed.
Their speech is surcharged with gentility true
They are thotful in word and in deed.

And others there are who a word of good cheer
Can speak at the opportune time,
Tho themselves may be battling conditions severe,
More than gold does their cheerfulness shine.

"But you've misunderstood the old proverb," we hear
From some pessimist, sallow and glum.
Oh well, what of that? If our meaning is clear,
We are sorry for nothing we've done.

If we all would be helpful and smiling each one,
And careful and cheerful, do you
Think that gold, would outshine us, or even the sun
Cast a shadow on what we could do?

they can dress more stylishly and altho they pay a few dollars more than for ordinary clothes, they get wear-service and looks-service that many times over saves the extra few dollars.

This money saving is particularly true this season. Society and Shire Superior Brands maintain the highest quality standards regardless of increased cost of materials and tailoring. Margins of profit have been shaved to keep prices to you down to the lowest possible notch. We're showing a larger variety, too, than ever before. If you are a true economist, we can interest you.

"Victory Year for U. C."

Wednesday evening, September 17, 1919, the teachers, students, and friends of Union College gathered in chapel for the opening exercises of the school year. As we listened to the ninety-first Psalm, we saw clearly that only those trusting completely in the Lord, were secure in this time of unrest. The keynote of President Morrison's interesting and helpful address was individual victory from sin.

It was in part as follows:

"Tonight we have reached an hour that has been long anticipated. Many have looked forward to this occasion for months. Such assemblies have gathered in this chapel for years, each year under different conditions. This year brings us greater changes than ever before. Five years ago the world was stirred by the great world war. Altho our country was not yet in war, the eyes of the world were on the battlefield. Soon the first great battle of the Marne was completed, then the attention of all was turned to the work of the submarines.

"Increased unrest was shown when in April, 1917, our own boys were called forth. That fall many boys who would have been here were not here because they were nobly serving their country, either across the seas or in our own camps at home.

"Again a world tensy was on as the question of the close of the war drew near. Every one looked forward to normal conditions with the signing of the armistice.

"Tonight I would like to call your attention to some experiences we have passed thru. Many of the students who gathered in our College chapel last year are now scattered thruout the world, laboring for the one purpose of spreading the gospel of Jesus Christ. Many are taking places of strength and leadership.

"The question is asked, 'Did all pass over in the declaration of peace?' There was war a year ago, and it is commonly said, 'Peace tonight,' but if we had a view of what was on in Europe, the present warring conditions there would surprise most of us. Even now, in England and France it takes the greatest leadership ever known to hold the government together. In our own country the transportation system hangs on slender hooks. The air is full of unrest, disquiet, and dissatisfaction. Even the children have it. People will do anything and go anywhere to carry out some of their desires.

"Young men and women here tonight, there is just one thing that can keep us from the disquietude and unrest in the world, and that is to know the One who spoke the only peace ever known to the world.

"The world has called this 'Victory Year' because of the close of the war. Let us call this 'Victory Year for Union College'; first because we will complete our $13,000 fund; second, we shall see improvements in our dormitories, gymnasium, and normal building; third, for we will have our 500 students; fourth, for the reason we have men with us who could not be with us last year because of service for our country; and fifth, we want this to be a year of individual victories.

"I am glad to welcome you tonight to the classrooms, halls and campus—to the entire institution—where many individual victories have been won. I welcome you to the association of Christian students and Christian teachers. It is a great privilege to be surrounded by 500 such associates,

"We can make this year what we will. Begin now to sow seed that will bring victory and peace in your life, so that as unrest increases in the world it will not disturb you. We can do nothing if we leave out of our lives the great Prince of Peace.

"We welcome old and new students to the good things of Union College, to the hard things of Union College, and to whatever is in store. We welcome you all to Union College."

FLORENCE RIECHEL.

"Jes' from Georgia"

GLENN CURTIS

After the hearty welcome that I received on my arrival at Union College I can truly say that it seems "mighty good" to be here.

I was first impressed by the magnitude of everything, the large campus, the large buildings, the large class rooms, and the large number of students. The kind, helpful spirit of the teachers and students was particularly noticeable. Every one I met would invariably say, "We are very glad to have you with us. Is there anything I can do to help you? Have you your work outlined for the year?"

One can easily see that the very name of the school is well chosen. Truly there is union here. Every one is working to one great end—that of giving the third angel's message to a lost world. In the class room, in the dining hall, on the campus, during social hours, —everywhere, is felt the earnest Christian spirit that is the ruling power of the school. "How different," thot I, "from the colleges of the world where the mind is trained for selfish interests rather than for the good of others."

The students are taught the principles of true democracy; they are allowed the privilege of judging between right and wrong, the teachers stepping in only when the student has proved his inability to govern himself. The student has the chance to find out for himself the difference between right and wrong. And even if the lessons are a little difficult, won't we be glad when we have mastered them?

Everything may not move perfectly at all times, but when these times come I shall try to feel something as one of our Georgia poets must have felt when he wrote:

"This world that we are living in
Is mighty hard to beat:
You get a thorn with every rose,
But ain't the roses sweet?"

I am very glad to be one of Old Union's 500 loyal supporters.

New Faculty Members

HAVA PAUSTIAN

We have with us this year a number of new faculty members, and also some who have been with us before and have returned to us again. Judging by the standing of the present faculty, this year should be the biggest year we have ever known.

Prof. C. L. Benson returns to occupy the chair of history after an absence of six years. During this time he has been Missionary Volunteer secretary of the General Conference, educational secretary of the General Conference, and at the head of the educational and Missionary Volunteer work in the Central Union Conference.

Prof. C. L. Premer is assistant in the department of history. He is a former student of Union College, having taken his bachelor's degree here. After his graduation he was pastor of the Lincoln church, and took his master's degree in history in the University of Nebraska. From there he went to the Southwestern Junior College, Keene, Texas, where he was at the head of the Bible department.

Mrs. Marie Jones-Anderson, head of the piano department, comes to us this year for the first time. Mrs. Anderson has spent most of her life in Chicago, having studied with Emiliano Renaud and Marx Oberndorfer. For two years she was associate teacher

The "Constitution" of To-day—Electrically Propelled

THE U. S. S. "New Mexico," the first battleship of any nation to be electrically propelled, is one of the most important achievements of the scientific age. She not only develops the maximum power and, with electrical control, has greater flexibility of maneuver, which is a distinct naval advantage, but also gives greater economy. At 10 knots, her normal cruising speed, she will steam on less fuel than the best turbine-driven ship that preceded her.

The electric generating plant, totaling 28,000 horsepower, and the propulsion equipment of the great super-dreadnaught were built by the General Electric Company. Their operation has demonstrated the superiority of electric propulsion over old-time methods and a wider application of this principle in the merchant marine is fast making progress.

Six auxiliary General Electric Turbine-Generators of 400 horsepower each, supply power for nearly 500 motors, driving pumps, fans, shop machinery, and kitchen and laundry appliances, etc.

Utilizing electricity to propel ships at sea marks the advancement of another phase of the electrical industry in which the General Electric Company is the pioneer. Of equal importance has been its part in perfecting electric transportation on land, transforming the potential energy of waterfalls for use in electric motors, developing the possibilities of electric lighting and many other similar achievements.

As a result, so general are the applications of electricity to the needs of mankind that scarcely a home or individual today need be without the benefits or General Electric products and service.

with Marx Oberndorfer. She has been actively engaged in teaching work for ten or twelve years, and has been a professional accompanist to prominent vocalists and violinists for two years.

Mrs. Florence Spangler comes as assistant in the department of education. She is a former Union College student, and has since been normal director of our eastern Canadian school.

Mr. F. A. Spangler is assistant in the department of mathematics. He has been treasurer and auditor of the East Canada Union Conference.

Miss Rochelle Philmon, our Latin teacher, comes from Georgia. Miss Philmon has been principal of the Graysville, Tennessee, academy. Prior to that time she was at the head of the English department at that place. She has also been a student in the Georgia University.

Miss Christena Erickson, critic teacher in the normal training school, is a former Union College student and an experienced church school teacher. She has spent two years in teaching church school in Canada.

Miss Ruth Middaugh comes to us as a critic teacher in the normal training school after having had some years of successful teaching experience in elementary schools. She is a former Union College student. She is also a graduate of the Fremont Normal school, and has taken work in her line in the Chicago University.

The ideal of "Old Union" for her sons and daughters is that they may find their place among the ranks of workers in this particular movement. She desires them to give to the cause the very best that they have in efficient service in making known to the world the principles of the third angel's message.

I thot it might be of interest to the readers of the MESSENGER to know how the College Class of 1915 is working towards these high ideals.

Of the fourteen members of the class, to my knowledge all save one are directly connected with the work of the third angel's message, and this one, while in public school work, is supporting the cause in every way possible.

Clayton E. AcMoody, after conducting several successful evangelistic efforts in the Central Union Conference, has been transferred to the Atlantic Union, where he will continue the same work.

Warren E. Barr is still laboring in the Oklahoma Conference as a successful evangelist and pastor.

George Kretschmar is studying medicine at Loma Linda, California.

Lawrence Vollmer is connected with the academy at Redfield, South Dakota, which school, I believe, is manned thruout with teachers trained at Union College.

Miss Alice Beard is again at her post of duty in the Southern Publishing Association's office at Nashville, Tennessee.

Miss Hazel Richardson is the preceptress and English teacher at the new academy at Shelton, Nebraska.

Mrs. Ruth Youngberg-Oswald is assisting her husband in the evangelistic work in South Dakota.

Miss Alma Wursch is in public school work, or was the last I heard of her. Her exact whereabouts is not known to me now.

Edward Schmidt is connected with the home plant of the Pacific Press Publishing Association, at Mountain View, California.

F. R. Isaac is president of the theological seminary at Clinton, Missouri, which position he has held for three years.

Arthur J. Olson is president of our junior college at Oshawa, Ontario, having filled that position for two years.

Alfred Youngberg is missionary secretary of the South Dakota Conference.

Gus Youngberg, after four years of successful work in the ministry in South Dakota, is now under appointment as a missionary to Borneo.

As a class, we feel proud to be connected with the gospel work for this time, and we strive constantly to make a record of which our Alma Mater will not need to be ashamed, and which will call forth the commendation of our Master.

A Word from Manchuria

The following is from a letter from R. M. Cossentine, who is located in Changchun, Manchuria:

"We are now located in central Manchuria, province of Kirin, about 43° north latitude, or that of our old home in northern Minnesota; and the climate is very similar. The soil of this region is very fertile and the rainfall generally suitable for good crops. The main crops here are soya bean and kaffir corn. The kaffir corn is largely consumed locally, while the soya bean is pressed for its oil, most of it being shipped away from here for that purpose.

"The city is a cosmopolitan place, being inhabited by Chinese, Russians, and Japanese. The Russians are here rather in the role of 'has beens.' The Japanese are now in the ascendancy, having inherited what the Russians had before the Russo-Japanese War of 1904-5. They have a concession here and are building it up as a modern Western city would be built. The Japanese as a matter of fact, are building much more substantially, and more like Western style in Manchuria than in Japan itself. There is no question but that they intend to so occupy this territory economically that in the future it will be impossible to oust them. This city is on the border line between the Japanese and Russian spheres of influence. South of here is the South Manchurian (Japanese) Railway with all-American equipment, so that one riding on it feels much as if he were riding on a train at home. Running east from here about sixty miles to the city of Kirin (pronounced Jilin) is a short line of railway also since the twenty-one demands of 1915, under Japanese control.

"North of Changchun the railway is Russian-Chinese controlled and known as the Chinese Eastern Railway. Students of far Eastern history will recognize the name of this railway as one that has played a large part in far Eastern politics during the last two decades. It connects at Harbin, with the Trans-Siberian Railway. We are thus located here about nine hours run south to Mukden, the headquarters of our Manchurian Union Mission, or north to Harbin. At Harbin before the war we had a good Russian company, which now is badly broken up. It is hoped that a Russian speaking worker may be obtained from the States for that city. When I have acquired a fair knowledge of Chinese, I may take up Russian.

"Our co-laborers here are Brother and Sister O. J. Grundset, who came to Manchuria in 1913, and during the last three years have been alone in this city, where a church has been raised up.

"We are now building a foreign house for ourselves. Brother Grundset built one for himself last year, and we two families now occupy it together. Our house should be done in a month now. My work is to watch the building operations and endeavor to get something like a good job done. The workmen come shortly after sunrise and stay until sunset, and one has continually to contend with them to get a degree of good work. It is said that labor is cheap in China, but in the long run it is not. It is true a laborer can be hired for about twenty-five cents gold a day, and a skilled laborer for thirty to fifty cents gold a day, but one American will do as much as five of them and do it better. They have served the devil and idols so long that they have become hopelessly indifferent. It is a sad prospect to see the results of centuries of unrestrained service to Satan by a whole nation. The Spirit, however, can restore even such as these when they are willing to be restored.

"Just now cholera, or a form of it at least, is epidemic in China and tho not as bad here as at other places, still it is claiming victims daily. Our compound fortunately is located out of the crowded city, where we can breathe comparatively pure air and thus keep free from contaminating sources of infection.

"I suppose by the time this reaches the office, school will be opening, so here's a greeting for opening days."

THE DAY

Reminiscences of a Pioneer

GEO. H. JEYS

Tuesday morning, the last day of September, the college family was the recipient of a visit from Elder E. W. Farnsworth who for the first four years of the college's existence was the Bible teacher here. He spoke to us for forty minutes, and to the best of the writer's ability to observe, received the undivided attention of every one present. He carried us back to the first years of the college by saying, "It is nearly thirty years since I have been in the chapel here," and then with a twinkle in his eye, added, "I do not suppose there are any sitting in these seats now who were here then." No, even Union's high standards cannot keep us here so long.

The Elder spoke of the growth of the village since he had been away from College View. He told of helping plant the trees on the campus that are now so tall and beautiful. He stated that the black locusts along the street and the cottonwoods near the college building were the only trees on the campus at that time, indeed, "the corn stalks were not all gathered off the grounds." He stated that at one time he could have bought ten acres of land in the city of Lincoln for what would now be the price of one small lot, and added that if he had bought some of the land then, he might have much more of this world's goods, "but" quoth he, "a man never knows he is a fool until he has been one."

Further to emphasize the changes which years have brought, we were told of a visit made to Lincoln and vicinity by the speaker some forty-four years ago. At that time College View did not exist, and there was only the vast rolling prairie here where are now are village and the thickly settled country surrounding. Elder Farnsworth remembered at that time there were thousands of wild geese to be seen and heard. He also mentioned having seen other wild birds as well as jack-rabbits, deer, and even some buffalo.

Thus in the short space of two-score years, fine homes, paved streets and racing automobiles have taken the place of the sod house the winding trail and the charging buffalo. It was also stated that at that time the capitol building that is now in the center of the city was out in the country and there were very few houses at all south of O Street. The elder remembered of having asked someone why they built the capitol so far out in the country.

This interesting review of the past completed, the speaker paused, and as he surveyed his audience, the emotion that his face revealed added a conviction of sincerity to his next statement in which he expressed his pleasure at being with us. He gave a ringing tribute to the work done by Old Union in preparing workers for the field, and for the encouragement of those who are working their way thru college, he gave an interesting account of his own experiences in getting an education. He stated that any young person

EDITORIAL

Everyone who registers in Union College becomes a member of the MESSENGER Association; but everyone is expected to pay for his membership. Cash however will not be accepted: payment must be made in enthusiasm, school spirit, "pep," and a willingness to contribute to its pages.

The paper is your paper—the editors gather and arrange your ideas and your articles. So when they ask you to obtain a few subscriptions, write an article, or the like, remember you are doing it for yourself and for the school.

While it is not the custom of this paper to publish articles from other papers, an editorial in an Eastern high school paper some time ago expresses the idea so well that we can not refrain from quoting it. The word "MESSENGER" is substituted to give it a personal touch.

"Give unto the [MESSENGER] the best that you have, and the best will come back to you. The one who, evidently thinking that anything is good enough for the [MESSENGER], passes in a contribution scrawled in pencil and showing every sign of carelessness and haste, is not giving his best. He is giving nobody and least of all himself, a square deal. Such an example is, unless positively glowing with genius, fit for no place but the waste-basket. The writer is not giving his best, consequently the best does not come back to him. His harvest is discontent, disappointment, and distrust.

"It is the neat, well-written article that goes to the printer; it is the neat, well-written contribution that becomes a source of pride to the contributor; it is the carefully planned and executed contribution that always 'gets by.' Those that put the most into their articles are those that get the most from them. [Which is to say, 'What isn't good enough for your English teacher, isn't good enough for the [MESSENGER]. That is not too much to expect, is it? What true son or daughter of [Union] would allow such a small matter to dampen his worthy ardor to boost the [MESSENGER], which is one way to boost [Union]?"

We believe these suggestions if carried out will make the MESSENGER this year outshine all productions of former years.

G. H.

There has been considerable change in the MESSENGER board of late. Such a change would ordinarily call for extended comment; but changes are so frequent on a school paper that we simply refer you to the list on page one of this paper.

On the Trail of Cupid

Meyers---Johnson

Seven o'clock, Wednesday evening, Sept. 3, at the bride's home in Rifle, Colorado, occurred the marriage of Miss Grace M. Meyers to Mr. Torval P. Johnson, of Minatare, Nebraska.

H. E. Lysinger, president of the Inter-Mountain Conference, performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Gertrude Kruger, and the groom by Mr. William Raley, of Rifle.

Only the relatives and a few friends were present. Following the ceremony an elegant two-course luncheon was served, after which the happy couple left for a short trip.

Both young people have been students in Union for several years, the bride having finished her college course with the class of '19. Mr. Johnson will continue his college work, and Mrs. Johnson will assist in the English department of the College this year. They will be at home in College View after September 16.

Lopp---Aalborg

Thursday evening, September 11, there occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lopp, at College View, Nebr., the marriage of their daughter, Viola Winifred to Mr. Lee Aalborg, of Viborg, So. Dak.

After a vocal solo, "At Dawning," sung by Mr. Eugene Stout, the bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Winifred Hayes. The marriage lines were read by Elder E. G. Hayes, of Redfield, So. Dak., before a background of ferns and pink roses.

The bride was accompanied by Miss Esther Aalborg, sister of the groom. Mr. Frank Lopp, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

After the ceremony, congratulations were extended, during which musical numbers were rendered. A dainty and delicious two-course luncheon was served.

The happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful and useful presents. Both bride and groom are former students of Union College. They will be at home to their many friends after October 1 at Viborg, So. Dak.

Weinheimer---Bright

The wedding of Miss Queen Weinheimer and Mr. Finley Bright was quietly celebrated at the home of the bride's mother at College View. The ceremony took place on the morning of September 18, at eight o'clock.

Elder L. F. Trubey read the marriage lines in the presence of relatives and a few close friends, after which a wedding breakfast was served to the happy couple and their guests.

The house was beautifully decorated in pink and white with a basket of roses on either side of the improvised altar.

Mr. and Mrs. Bright left immediately for Red Cloud, Nebr., where they will make their future home.

The MESSENGER family join their many friends in wishing them all the happiness in life.

Larson---Goude

Mr. Albert Goude and Dr. Alma Larson, both of Minneapolis, were married at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Peck, at Orchard Gardens, on Tuesday evening, September 16.

The ceremony, performed by Dr. C. A. Hanson, of Minneapolis, took place in the sun parlor, which was beautifully decorated in wild flowers and ferns. The march was played by Mrs. Peck and Mrs. Hatchkiss. Professor and Mrs. Keuler, of the Minneapolis School of Music, and the Y. M. C. A. State Quartet, gave the special music. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helma Larson, and Mr. Hatchkiss was groomsman. Ninety-two guests were present. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Goude are at Harvey, N. Dak., where Mr. Goude is principal of the Sheyenne River Academy. The MESSENGER extends congratulations.

Weinheimer---Ostermiller

Sunday evening, September 14, Miss Marie Weinheimer, of College View, and Mr. John Ostermiller, of Lincoln, were quietly united in marriage at the home of Mrs. L. E. Scott, at Mankato, Minn.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple took the train for College View and arrived here Monday morning. The wedding was somewhat of a surprise to the friends and relatives of the young couple altho there had been some suspicion that it might take place in the near future.

The MESSENGER joins their friends in wishing them a happy wedded life.

Faculty Reception

STANLEY B. ANDERSON

"If there is a homesick student in Union College, he isn't here tonight," remarked President Morrison after having formally met all the old and the new students at the faculty reception Saturday night, September 20. The humidity outside, which happened to be the kind that is so often conducive to homesickness and sometimes even to humidity in the region of the eyes, seemed to have lost its power, and the one great joy of friendship reigned supreme in the old College chapel.

First of all, the new-comers were initiated to the College song, whose "rahs" express and pledge our loyal devotion.

Were the 500 there? Professor Morrison felt that they were as his over-worked right hand, after the warm grasps that he had given, limply held the program of the evening. No, it was not the 500, but all the students pledged the small effort it would require to make this "Victory Year" for Union. "Union never fails," so what may we not expect?

Mr. Elmer Helligso spoke for the old students in welcoming the new boys to the work, the pleasure, and the bonds of friendship that Union stands for. Mr. Beggs responded to the welcome with an appreciation of Union's hospitality, manifesting a sincere desire to help in making the year a success. Following this the "Poet and Peasant Overture" was rendered as a cornet solo by Mr. Wilbur James. Then the new girls received their welcome. Miss Hava Paustian invited them to all that is good at Union, which called forth a warm heartfelt response from Miss Nettie Knister, who voiced the thanks of the new girls and expressed their eagerness to cooperate.

With the charming tones of Professor Engel's violin the pleasant gathering was ended, and Professor Andreasen pronounced the benediction.

who wants an education bad enough to put forth the needed effort can get it. This statement brought forth hearty endorsement from our president who sat on the platform behind the speaker. The closing message was, "I hope you will stick to the school." And as we heard this advice from the grand old veteran of the cross, the answering spirit of Union's men and women responded, "Yes, we will stick."

H. L. Pearson reports that the oratory department at Berrien Springs is very promising even tho this is the first year for the department there.

Uneeda Polkadot Elsie, of our Holstein herd carried off senior and grand championship at the state fair this year. Thirty other ribbons were obtained by our herd.

South Hall is housing seven trained nurses this year. Preparedness is evidently still in vogue.

Miss Mae Ames is acting as stenographer at the El Repose Sanitarium, Berkeley, California.

The girls of South Hall have already chosen their new house board, electing Marian Heywood as president, Florence Riechel as vice-president, with Edna Brown, Pearl Kinkle, Hava Paus-tian, Lornea Snyder, Frances Nickerson, Vivian Nelson as members.

Bessie Stout is doing stenographic work at the Nebraska Conference office.

Mrs. B. B. Baird will have charge of the Bible work in Lincoln this winter.

Among the later arrivals at the College we find some of our worthy seniors: Florence Jackman, Marian Heywood, and Mike Stern came in last week.

The first Sabbath school enrollment for this year was 210.

Quite a jovial time was reported for Saturday night, September 27, when the "old" dormitory students entertained the "new" students in South Hall dining room.

College students are brilliant. One young lady, on being asked by the drayman if there was any excess baggage on her trunk, replied, "No, but you'll find my name on it."
