MONEY TALKS

By M. L. RICE

How often we hear the expression "Money talks." Someone has said that it only says "good bye" to me. If that is true of you, it is because you bid it adieu first. In more than one way money talks. Sometimes it tells more than is comfortable for us to hear. The way we use money is a pretty good index of the heart. The things for which we spend, or give, our money, pretty well determines what we are.

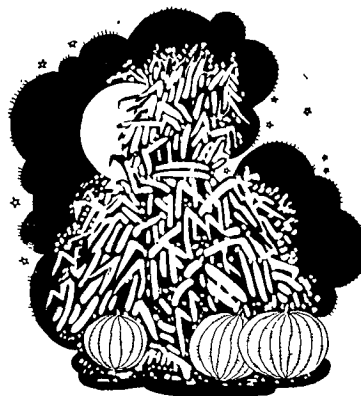

Near the sunset hours of Christ's earthly life, something that would pass man's attention unnoticed drew from the lips of Christ words that will live forever. A good place from which to learn the interest of men in the church is to see what is put in the treasury. So Jesus sat "over against the treasury." Jesus still sits "over against the treasury." He still watches as men cast in their gifts.

It was the Passover week and many visitors were in Jerusalem. Throngs of people were dropping their contributions into the treasury chests as they passed by. We can in imagination see the crowd passing under review before the Saviour's eyes. Some with flashing jeweled fingers, some with flowing robes, perhaps some in purple and fine linen, poor people, those faring sumptuously, in fact, people from every walk of life passed by.

"Many that were rich cast in much." The treasury chests were metal, and when a coin was dropped into the chest it gave forth sort of a trumpet sound. This was one way of making the "trumpet sound before" one.

As Jesus watched the crowd, his attention became fixed on a widow. Her dress denoted that. Too, it showed that she was poor. She had no doubt missed much of the luxury and pleasure this world has to give. In her hand she clutched two mites, the smallest coins then in circulation. Because her gift was so small, she felt embarrassed. She tried to make her gift unnoticed. But, nothing passes the eye of Christ unobserved. He notes even the smallest gift.

Christ beckoned His disciples. Pointing to the "poor widow" he told them just how much money she had given—"two mites." Not a large amount, to be sure. The disciples no doubt asked "Why single her out as someone special?" There were thousands of people casting money into the treasury chests, so why single out this particular woman? Then to their surprise, Christ said, "Verily I say unto you, that this poor widow hath cast more in, than all they which have cast into the treasury." In one breath, Christ said, "she threw in two mites" and, in the next "she hath cast more in than all." "For all they did cast in of their abundance; she of her want did cast in all that she had, even all her living."

The rich and their gifts of that far-off day have been long forgotten but the story of the "poor widow" and her "two mites" lives on. Her example has been a theme of the ages. Her example and gift has influenced more people and caused more millions to be given to God's Cause than any other single factor in the history of the world.

The great principle in this widow's gift was the sacrifice she made. She gave "all her living." By this experience we learn that the scales of God are so fine and accurate that they weigh not only what is given, but what is left. Even the conditions back of the gift, the circumstances, whether the giver is rich or poor, are carefully noted.

When calls for funds are made, we hear some say, "I will give my mite." But, will they? The mite is the greatest gift one can make—mite is all.

The Christian life does not become real until it is sacrificial. Christ gave all. His mite was His life! Our mite is our all! Not only is our mite measured in money, but in acts of life. Every day we have the opportunity of casting our mite into the world's needs. We stand with our gifts in hand before the treasury of God. What is our response?

We may not have as much money, talent, or time to give as we would like, but our danger is not giving what we have. We must not let the things we cannot do keep us from doing the things we can. The world, even the church, may fail to note our gift, just as it did the widow of Bible fame, but the Lord never does. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

HOME VISITATION DAY — NOVEMBER 10, 1951

The Crown of Sacrifice

"All who follow Christ will wear the crown of sacrifice. They will surely be misunderstood by selfish men, and will be made a mark for the fierce assaults of Satan. It is this principle of self-sacrifice that his kingdom is established to destroy, and he will war against it wherever manifested." D. A. 223.

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS believe in sacrificing for the cause of God. From the earliest days they have believed and practiced it. The preaching of the third angel's message was begun in self-denial and we are told that it will be finished in the same spirit. The noble example of our pioneers, both workers and laymen, who deprived themselves of much that they might give more to the Cause they loved spurs us on to the same noble endeavor.

The spirit of self-denial and self-sacrifice is not characteristic of this age. Rather, self-indulgence and pleasure-seeking are prominent. "In this tide of worldliness and pleasure-seeking, self-denial and self-sacrifice for Christ's sake are almost wholly lost." G. C. 387.

This spirit of worldliness and pleasure-seeking must not carry us along on its tide. The Cause of God and its success must ever be of supreme importance to us. As strangers and pilgrims on the earth our eyes must be fixed on the heavenly land toward which we are journeying. This vision can only be kept clear as the spirit of self-denial and self-sacrifice are kept alive in our souls. Of King Solomon's deflection, it is said, "prominent among the primary causes that led Solomon into extravagance and oppression was his failure to maintain and foster the spirit of self-sacrifice." P. P. page 61.

If we are to possess the spirit of self-sacrifice for Christ it will have to be fostered. Effort will have to be put forth to develop and maintain it. Sacrifice will require careful and serious planning. Some things we want and perhaps even need will have to be eliminated from the list and the money given to the Lord. In this way the spirit of self-sacrifice and self-denial is fostered. It will cost something to obtain the crown of self-sacrifice.

To help keep alive within our hearts this spirit of self-denial we have for years followed the practice of receiving on a designated day an offering known as the Week of Sacrifice offering. This year, on November 17, the last day of the annual Week of Prayer, this offering is to be taken. It is urged that as many as can, give the entire income for the week. Many regularly do this each year. Others give more, some less, each according to his ability. With the increasing needs pressing upon us from all parts of the world field and with unprecedented opportunities opening on every hand, surely we should be glad to make real sacrifices for the cause of God.

Today money in North America is more plentiful and more easily obtained than ever. There never has been so much of it in circulation. Neither have so many attractive articles been offered for sale. Sales pressure urging us to buy has become so strong, constant, and convincing that it is almost impossible to resist it. There is danger therefore that in this age of multiplied abundance we may lose the spirit of the early pioneers and spend more and more upon ourselves and give proportionately less and less for the support of God's cause. The quotation at the beginning of this article states that Satan's kingdom is established to destroy this principle of self-sacrifice and that he will war against it wherever it is manifested. We may be sure, therefore, that as we plan our offerings we shall encounter the determined opposition of the enemy. He will suggest to us our needs and urge upon us the spending of money on ourselves. May love for God and for His cause prevail as on November 17 we bring to the Lord our special offering of love and sacrifice.

The Authentic Voice

The early believers of the Seventh-day Adventist church greatly prized the weekly visits of the Review and Herald, and among the substantial members of the church today the "good old Review" is still held in very high regard. One such reader wrote in recently: "To me the Review is as dear as a member of my own family. I can hardly wait for its weekly arrival. I never want to be without the Review, for it has been such a blessing and help to me. I have sent a number of the poems and some clippings from it to my son, who has been overseas. They have been such a help and comfort to him, so I have been doubly glad for it this past year."

Several years ago one of our readers wrote: "I went to the post office this morning to see whether we had received any mail. There were no personal letters. The only piece of mail was the Review and Herald of August 8. Eager to learn the latest news concerning the progress of the message, I tore off the wrapper while on my way home, and briefly scanned the interesting pages. On reaching home I read several articles to my wife, and she listened with keen interest. As usual, the back page was read first." And then this brother went on to list a number of the articles and interesting items that catch his attention from week to week.

"Way back in 1892 one reader wrote: "The Review is like a dear friend who, when we are hungry, comes to our door with such things as we need to strengthen us if we will only accept them. So when we are in need of spiritual food to strengthen us for the journey and roughness of the way, the Review brings to us words of good cheer from the battlefield and tells us of the victories gained and of the wonderful manner in which the Lord is working for His people as we go out to present the last message of mercy to the world. It gives the alarm when danger is near and keeps us posted with reference to the movements of the enemy. How can any family believing the third angel's message afford to be without its weekly visits to their home and deprive themselves of that food which will give them encouragement and brighten their prospects of soon finding rest in the earth made new."

Another reader writes in: "We love the Review. We hail its weekly visits with gladness. We know not how we could do without it. First, it warns us of the danger of being led astray by the 'Lo here's and lo there's.' Second, it treats on doctrinal points. When one accepts the third angel's message he feels as if he has found the right end of a snarled rope. Third, it keeps us posted on the progress of present truth. Fourth, we have the experience of different individuals who are trying to serve the Lord, many of whom have never seen each other, and probably will not in this life, but are serving the same God, having the same hope, the same faith, and the same baptism. Yes, we thank God for a paper like the 'good old Review.'

So, today, Seventh-day Adventists around the circle of the earth look to the Review for guidance, for inspiration, for courage, and for counsel. And the Review, under the divine blessing of God, will not fail in giving that certain sound as the authentic voice of the Advent Movement.

The subscription price is most reasonable, only $4.75 a year, and less if taken in combination with other periodicals. Take advantage of the present moment to receive, absolutely free, our beautiful 128-page gift volume, This I Believe, written by W. B. Ochs, President of the North American Division. It contains 26 of our outstanding doctrinal subjects, making it very appropriate for Adventist reading and for loaning or giving to relatives and friends that you wish to interest in the message. The retail value is $1.50, but it is not for sale. You cannot buy it. It is our gift to you for ordering the Review promptly. Place your subscription order with your church missionary secretary or Book and Bible House.

Roman Catholics and Seventh-day Adventist TV

AN increasing number of Roman Catholics are writing of their appreciation of Faith For Today. Their religion does not permit them to enter a Protestant meeting, yet week after week, Elder and Mrs. Fagal are welcomed into these Catholic homes. Many are studying the Bible lessons, some with Seventh-day Adventist neighbors' encouragement.

But let the letters speak for themselves. Here is one from Indiana: "We are Catholics and very true and religious to our faith, yet we have many Protestant friends. I'm writing this because my mother so enjoys your beautiful voices. I also enjoy the program. We rush home from Mass. I've told others of you."

Another Catholic listener in Chicago finds it necessary to attend an earlier Mass so as to get our TV program. He says: "I enjoy your programs very much and go to church to an earlier Mass so I can tune in at 11:30 A. M. I like the manner in which you discuss and bring out the various points in your teachings."

A New York Seventh-day Adventist is sharing her faith with a Catholic neighbor. Although seventy years old she is witnessing for her Lord. She tells of her experience in a recent letter. "Please send the free Bible lessons to these two names which I am enclosing. Mrs. McAlarney is a neighbor, and she invites me to listen to the telecast when she is at home, she is a Roman Catholic and I give her Bible lessons, and now she is interested in taking the free course; I will help her as she is not familiar with the Bible. I have given her a Bible as she did not have one. She also reads our literature. . . . I am 70 years old and not too well."

Many years ago Sister White wrote in Gospel Workers, page 329. "Among the Catholics there are many who are most conscientious Christians, and who walk in all the light that shines upon them; and God will work in their behalf."

Thank God, this promise is being fulfilled in our day, for He is working in their behalf.

INDIANA BUDDIES' EXCHANGE

WE received a very interesting letter this week from Cpl. Bob Cook, of Nebraska, who has been writing for our exchange very faithfully. Cpl. Cook will be arriving in the States soon. From his letter we gathered that he would be discharged upon his return. Cpl. Cook says: "I shall endeavor to bring you up to date on what has happened the last month. First of all, there are 30 or more Adventist servicemen here now, and we have organized what I believe is the only American S.D.A. church in Korea. Fourteen of our boys have organized a Sabbath School at Seoul, but we have a church." (Cpl. Cook sent a copy of their mimeographed church bulletin with his letter.)

"Last Friday late in the afternoon I learned that we were to have a clothing inspection at 8 o'clock in the morning. So I commenced to search for the First Sgt., but I couldn't find him. So I started looking for the Asst. Detachment Commander, and located him in the Officers Club having a drink. I went up to him and said, 'Sir, I realize that this is highly irregular, but—' We were excused from the inspection which was also highly irregular. But practically everything we do in the Army is irregular, but let me tell you it pays to be regular with the Lord.

"Friday, September 21, two new Adventist boys arrived here, and we went to get passes for them. We got them, the last two in the detachment. 'Your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask Him.'

"Your earnest prayers are solicited for our people here in Korea this winter as it is going to be a long, hard pull. A little piece of firewood sells for 300 Won (5¼¢) at Seoul."

In his letter, Cpl. Cook asked for literature for them to distribute and also for Bible School enrollment cards. Under great handicap these young men are setting an example for all S.D.A. young people, that of Sharing Their Faith. Let us remember them in our prayers.

Logansport Has 13 Enrolled

THE church schools in Indiana are progressing nicely, and we are looking forward to a good school year in Indiana. In a recent news note concerning church schools, the new school at Logansport was not mentioned. We are very sorry for this, as one of our best schools in the state was opened there this year with an enrollment of 13. Elder John Davidson and the lay members have worked hard to have this new school ready by September. They have a fine church school as a result.

Other new schools are located at Valparaiso, which has an enrollment of 9, and Alexandria which has an enrollment of thirteen. This makes a total of twenty-four schools in the state, of which 6 are two-teacher schools.

The total enrollment at the opening of the year was 463. This is slightly lower than last year, because the church-school boards endeavored to eliminate most of the children with non-Adventist parents.

There seems to be a fine spirit among all of the schools, and the teachers are looking forward to their Institute which will be held the last of this month. We want to urge all of our church members to co-operate with the teachers, and pray daily for their success in training the youth of our church.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

News Notes

• OUR believers in Indiana who have so faithfully and generously contributed their offering to missions through the Sabbath school will rejoice to learn that during the first nine months of 1951 our Sabbath school offerings were $.358 per member per week. This is really one per cent per week per member more than the goal as suggested by the General Conference. With a record 13th-Sabbath offering at Christmas time and our best Investment year in our history, we look forward to a record of nearly forty cents per week per member through Sabbath-school offerings this year.

• Thirteenth Sabbath offerings on Sabbath, September 29 in many Sabbath schools in Indiana were nothing short of marvelous. We wish we could call attention to many records in detail, but perhaps the outstanding 13th-Sabbath offering was given in Bedford where the offering came to $208.59. Their church membership there is only 85. Another fine offering was given at Cicero where $323.35 was given by a church membership of 202. At a later date we hope to call attention to other fine records.

• Keep in mind the date of November 10. That is the date when all of our members in all our churches should plan to go out on Sabbath afternoon and spend a short time in contacting friends and neighbors for Christ in the Field Adventure Program.

• November 11 is also a very important day. On that night we are expecting scores of lay-efforts to be in operation throughout Indiana joining with many hundreds perhaps thousands of others throughout North America in a great soul-winning crusade. Pray for these lay-soul-winners—better yet, join the ranks.

New Albany Effort Underway

AN evangelistic campaign was begun by the writer in New Albany on Sunday night, September 23. The meetings are being held two nights weekly for ten weeks in the Armory gymnasium. Every available chair was occupied on the opening night with an attendance of 185. More than 100 were not members of the church. At this writing we are in the fourth week of the series, and the Lord has blessed the seed sown thus far with good interest developing.

The laymen have been organized into an evangelistic team and have been actively engaged in carrying on different phases of the work such as leading the music, advertising, platform management, ushering, visiting, etc., according to their particular capabilities. I am reminded of that counsel in Vol. 9, p. 117 which says, "The work of God in this earth can never be finished until the men and women comprising our church membership rally to the work, and unite their efforts with those of ministers and church officers." The laymen are successfully sharing in the responsibilities in this evangelistic crusade.

Please remember the work here in your daily devotions.

Bourff-Wenk Wedding

Frederick H. Wenk, of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Mrs. Bessie Bourff, of Anderson, were married September 23 at his home, 3233 Broadway.

The afternoon ceremony was performed by Elder D. E. Caslow of the East Leith St. Seventh-day Adventist church.

A reception immediately followed the wedding.

Kendall-Ortiz Wedding

A LOVELY wedding was solemnized in the Seventh-day Adventist church in Knox, Indiana when Clara Belle Kendall of Connersville became the bride of Manuel Ortiz of Kingsford Heights on August 19. The happy couple will reside in LaPorte, Indiana, where the groom is employed. May God's blessing go with this happy couple as they establish their new home. F. J. KINSEY, Officiating Minister

Book News

BARBARA WESTPHAL brings to our library an entirely new and appealing volume. It is different from other books in its class. The very title is a challenge to the imagination and an invitation to open its covers. "Gold, Silver and Spice" holds many an hour of interesting reading material for the junior child, the young person, or the mature adult.

The author spent eighteen years in South America. During that time she was amazed at the amount of knowledge the children of South America have concerning our national heroes. Most of us have not realized that our Southern neighbors had their own famous explorers, liberators, emperors, chieftains, and men of renown the same as we have in the persons of Lincoln, Washington, Franklin, and others.

This book brings these honored persons of South American fame into really live character portrayals as the reader is carried through the epochs of history that made South America great. It is not a dry recital of historical events; rather it is an animated story with real historical background, interspersed with much conversation as the characters of the household all come in for their share of interesting bits of information.

Told in story form, the book becomes not only informative, but highly entertaining as well. Secure your copy today and you'll enjoy it from cover to cover; moreover, your heart will beat in tune to your neighbors' thoughts and feelings as you understand them more and more.

Attractively illustrated cover in four colors. Price, only $2.75. This book, by the way is in the new 1952 Junior Reading Course, Michigan Book and Bible House, Box 900, Lansing, Michigan. L. G. WARTZOK, Mgr.

First Aid Courses to Be Offered

HAVE you noticed how during this summer the state of Wisconsin experienced violent storms, tornadoes, fires, and floods? We have been told by the servant of God that catastrophes both from the elements of nature and the elements of warfare will be increasing tremendously during the last days. The atom bomb will remain a threat to civilization until the Lord returns. It is here and here to stay. The United States government has made it clear that we can expect an atomic attack any time. Those who know claim that in one attack, 15 million people would lose their lives and perhaps another 15 million would need medical attention and first aid.

What a challenge this brings to Seventh-day Adventists. We are called upon to become good "Samaritans" for our communities. What would break down prejudice more quickly than to be able to minister to the needs of those who have been in a catastrophe? EVERY CHURCH MEMBER SHOULD BE QUALIFIED TO ADMINISTER FIRST AID WHEN NEEDED.

The General Conference has thought this so important that they have worked out a plan with the American Red Cross so that we might train our own people in the regular American Red Cross First Aid courses. Every Conference has by now at least one "Instructor-trainer." This is a person qualified to teach those who are to become teachers or instructors in the local churches.

The Wisconsin Conference Committee has voted that we offer the Standard, Advanced, and Instructor First Aid Courses here in Madison during the week of December 9 to 14. It is hoped that every church will have a person here in Madison during that week to become qualified to teach First Aid back in their home church after finishing the course here. Any others who may be interested, please write to F. W. BIEBER, Box 512, Madison, Wisconsin for information.

Report From C. E. Institute

A PROFITABLE institute for new recruits to the colporteur army was held in connection with an inspiring rally on the Sabbath in the beautiful Green Bay church, October 10-13. There were 10 new workers present and they will be starting in the canvassing work in a short time. In fact, some of them will already be started when you read this article.

Instructors and speakers at this institute were Elders R. G. Campbell, J. M. Jackson, H. J. Capman, W. R. Riston, and W. C. Whitten, George Taggart and Harold Otis.

Sabbath afternoon our regular colporteurs present related some soul-stirring, as well as soul-winning, experiences that thrilled the attentive audience.

Saturday night beautiful motion pictures were shown and a profitable book sale was made. Many went home with the Book and Magazine Kits to use in introducing our good literature to their friends and neighbors.

The Green Bay brethren will long be remembered for their kind hospitality extended to our visiting brethren. We wish to thank Elder Riston and the church folk for opening the church to us and a special "thank you" to all who opened your homes and provided food and lodging for us. W. C. WHITTEN

Colporteur News

OUR colporteurs are doing a very commendable work in the Wisconsin Conference this year. For the first 9 months of this year they have delivered $55,100.34 worth of truth-filled literature which is a gain of $13,590.67 over the corresponding period of time last year.

More new workers are being added to our colporteur ranks. Some are selling their farms and planning to move where they can get their children in Church school and canvass full time for the Lord. The Spirit of the Lord is truly moving our faithful believers to action and it is being felt in every department of missionary endeavor.

This is the time of year when people enjoy buying gifts for others and no doubt many

Turn Ridicule to Faith

GO UP, THOU BALDHEAD! GO UP, THOU BALD-HEAD!" Thus shrilly taunted the teen-age boys of the unbelieving parents of Bethel. Elisha, though usually humble, meek, and unassuming recognized that these voices were only indications of unbelief on the part of so many in the Word and power of God. Following his command at the appearance of the two she bears from the woods, those shrill voices, so lately raised in taunting tones, now took on the sound of panic as they shouted for help. (II Kings 2:23-24.)

What a pity that man for whom Christ has died should lend his voice to ridicule those who look toward translation. Yet, how familiar is the sound as those who "are willingly ignorant" today cry out "Where is the promise of His coming?" How ready today is the unbelieving world to belittle those who hold the truth of Christ's coming dear—and the tragedy of it all is that some will not be turned from their evil ways! The tones of ridicule will be replaced with utterances of panic, calling for the rocks and mountains to fall, hiding them from the source of their terror!

But on the other hand there will be those who are ready and anxious to listen to the blessed promises pertaining to Jesus' coming and the translation of the saints; who, instead of voicing fear when Jesus comes, will be shouting triumph in God, thankful for the message of hope which came to them and was accepted in good time.

Now is the hour for action on the part of God's people. Even now we must be calling upon our neighbors without delay, giving them the opportunity to hear and accept the only message of hope for a dying world. Let us turn ridicule and unbelief to acceptance and faith through the Lord Jesus Christ. "Time is running out!" Soon final retribution will come upon all men.

November 10, Field Adventuring Day throughout all North America, affords every Seventh-day Adventist in Illinois the opportunity to do this very work. We should accept this as an assignment from God and use every available moment on that day in visiting our friends and neighbors, along with other members of our communities, leaving them the tract, "Peace for Troubled Hearts" and offering prayer in the home. Let us not be satisfied with just this. Let us go into each home determined to find the spiritual condition of that home. Let us do our best to start Bible studies in as many homes as possible. We must take this task seriously. Tracts are in every church. Instructions are all on hand. Everything is ready to go on November 10. May we depend upon you?

C. R. FRENCH

Across the President's Desk

THE work in Illinois is onward! Evangelistic campaigns are being conducted, Bible school students are being visited, interested individuals are being contacted, and souls are being baptized into the Illinois churches! Each mail brings good news of soul-winning successes. Workers write encouraging letters of progress in their districts. Laymen send in reports of the part they are playing in the saving of souls to the kingdom. Enthusiasm for God is running high, and the prayers of our church members throughout the conference are solicited for the continued blessings of the Lord upon our work.

• On Sunday evening, October 21, Elder Gunnar Nelson began his evangelistic program for the Swedish church in the Hawthorne School Auditorium in Lakeview, Illinois. On Sunday night, November 4, Elder Wayne White will begin his series of meetings for the South Side church in the Chicago Calumet High School. These are in addition to the many efforts that are already in progress throughout the State.

• Encouraging word comes to us from the Moline district where the work is advancing. The Kewanee church is sponsoring an evangelistic effort in Keithsburg. Elder McComas, the pastor of the district, is to be the speaker. The meetings will be held in the Civic Club. The members of the Kewanee church have laid the ground work for these meetings by distributing truth-filled literature in the town of Keithsburg.

• Elders Williams and Bresee have recently conducted a series of meetings in the Centralia church. Brother Hoffmann, the district pastor, worked with this evangelistic team to bring about a revival in the church and also to gather in some of the Home Bible Course interests that are living in that community.

• On Friday night, October 12, Elder Vitano baptized 21 persons as a result of the Mattoon effort. These are the first fruits of the effort, and others are still studying, looking ahead to the day when they, too, will be baptized into the church.

Laymen and preachers alike, let us continue to unite our spiritual endeavors to the finishing of the work in Illinois.

J. L. McCONAUGHEY

"It is not possession of extraordinary gifts that makes extraordinary usefulness, but the dedication of what we have to the service of God."

EMMANUEL MISSIONARY COLLEGE

PLANNED BODY-BUILDING

By ERNEST N. WENDTH

True education is the "harmonious development of the physical, the mental, and the spiritual powers." Education, page 13. To follow this blueprint Emmanuel Missionary college has outlined for its students a program of physical, education and recreation that supplies a growing need for "planned" body-building exercise.

Under the direction of Winfield Hardy, gym instructor, and Miss Maude Fahrbach, school nurse, freshman and sophomore students attend these special gym classes.

"Young people who carry a heavy program of study and work need these two classes each week," Miss Fahrbach said. "Circulation and respiration is stimulated and students find that tensions brought on by a heavy school program soon disappear."

Planned exercise, according to the instructors:

Improves muscular tone—Excess fat is shed, or, if underweight, builds a sub-structure of flexible muscle and healthy compact flesh.

It increases resistance—Heart, lungs, digestive and circulatory systems function better and help resist disease and illness.

It improves posture—Correct bone alignment means proper functioning of internal organs.

It improves stamina—It gradually builds up the body to where it can work longer and more efficiently.

Mrs. E. G. White, in her book Fundamentals of Christian Education, reminds us that "physical training should occupy an important place in every system of education." (p. 59). This is even more true today with "button-pushing" workers living under a constant tension brought about by mass production methods.

It is the organized exercise that gives most help to the student. Careful planning by both physical education instructors leads to exercises that bring into play all parts of the body. Group activities teach co-ordination and co-operation with fellow students.

Posture and weight checks are given the young ladies once each month. Good posture brings grace, poise and good health and prepares the student for a future life of service in any field. Most posture troubles come from carelessness, Miss Fahrbach states, but the periodic checks help to overcome tendencies toward "round-shoulderedness," "slumping," etc.

Gym activities and exercise are held outdoors whenever possible. Present campus facilities allow for an increasing number of these occasions where students can benefit from the fresh air. Just recently the student council voted to spend $150 to fix up for track events the unused field lying just east of the parking lot.

Though not required to take gym classes, juniors and seniors benefit physically through open activity periods. These are held frequently during each week in the large modern gymnasium.

Mr. Hardy heads the activities on these occasions. Roller skating, volley ball, ping-pong, shuffleboard, basketball, softball, etc. are among the games students engage in. Soccer—the well known European game—is fast becoming one of the favorites among the young men. It was introduced and is being kept alive by a number of our foreign students. Other gym activities include calisthenics, tumbling and "low-organized" games. These are games which do not require only a few well trained players, but allow for larger group participation.

Under the guidance of Mr. Hardy, a former Michigan state trooper, a number of the young men are learning how to organize and guide various group activities. These young men will find such training valuable as they continue their planning toward entering dean's work.

In the eager effort to secure intellectual culture, physical and moral training is not neglected. All the powers of mind and body are called into active service and our college youth are developing into strong, well-balanced men and women.
