Koreans Are Grateful

by GEORGE H. RUE, M.D.

Winter is a hard time in this land. The biting cold and the wind come down from Siberia across Manchuria and North Korea to South Korea. Fuel of every kind is scarce and very expensive. The hillsides are repeatedly raked for every pine needle that drops and for every dry piece of grass. Two American service men brought a boy of nine to the hospital with frozen feet. He had no socks or shoes and only lightweight clothes, and where he lived there was no heat. Fortunately his feet were saved and when it came time for him to leave the hospital he was a happy boy.

Fires are frequent in the winter and where the houses are built so close together if a fire starts in one, several may be destroyed before the fire can be controlled. The occupants of the houses often lose everything they possess. Today on our way into town we saw where a large fire on a hillside had destroyed between twenty-five and thirty houses. A fire is a terrible thing anywhere, but here in Korea it is a tragedy for a family to lose a home by fire. It may only be one or two rooms but it is shelter and a place to live. They cannot rebuild in the winter and even if they could they do not have the funds for a new house. If a home is lost where do the people go? If there are relatives or friends they may be able to move in with them even though already overcrowded. If no friends or relatives, what then?

There are thousands of war widows here, some alone, some with children.

The outlook for many of these is not good, for in an over-populated land work is not easily found. There are thousands of orphans. Then there are the thousands of refugees who lost all they had due to the war and are not able to do more than just exist. They have no homes, not enough food, insufficient clothing, and very little, if any, fuel.

Through the General Conference Disaster and Famine Relief Committee, food, clothing, shoes, and funds have been sent to Korea to help those in need. Of course it is impossible to help every one, but thousands have been helped. The war widow is given clothing and food and sometimes helped to find work. The orphan is clothed. The family who has lost everything in a fire is given some bedding, clothes, food, and a can of powdered milk. The

A World-Wide Influence

The church of God through its long and interesting history has been enriched by the lives of a great host of men and women who have given unstintingly of their means and efforts to advance its objectives. The devotion and dedication of these people is an ever-shining example of the great principle of consecration inspired by Jesus Christ the Lord. The perseverance of those who have built up the foundations and the superstructure of the Church is a fountain of ever-fresh courage and inspiration for those of us who in these days receive great benefits from the work and ministry of those who have gone before.

In the history of the Seventh-day Adventist church the contribution of Mrs. Ellen G. White is recognized as of the greatest importance. Her ministry was extended over a long period of time. The dedication shown in all aspects of her life testifies that her work has been of lasting and highly commendable importance. I am personally convinced that the day has already dawned when those not of the Adventist faith recognize this servant of God as a personality whose life has left an indelible mark on modern religious thinking.

The writings of Mrs. White are voluminous. She is credited with having written 25,000 book pages. These publications have been circulated not in one country, but many, all around the world. These books have been read and they will continue to be read in the future. The impact of truth presented will surely have its grand results. One example is that of the little work entitled, Steps to Christ. This treatise of some 126 pages, has already been translated into more than 82 languages and dialects. More than eight million copies have been distributed. This little book brings to the reader in a most attractive and understandable language the simple story of how one can come to Jesus, the Saviour, and how to walk in the Christian life. If only one person had read each a book, that would mean that eight million would have read a most candid and persuasive invitation to accept Jesus Christ as a personal Saviour.

Think of the numbers if two or three or more have read each book!

Besides the book manuscripts written by Mrs. White, she is credited with preparing 24,000 pages of periodical manuscript. Her writings in periodicals have been timely, spiritual instruction and warning to the busy people of our world. In a train, on a bus, on a plane—those who travel have read the truth of God, expressed in language that was not alone persuasive, but also of a kind that is understood by our generation.

Mrs. White's writings cover a wide range of subjects. She has written with great force and power on the subject of education. Her writings on this subject have not only been in a pattern for Seventh-day Adventists around the world, but educators not of the Adventist faith, have hailed their philosophy of education as one of the finest plans for educating the young of our time. She writes extensively on health. Her writings on healthful living and diet have been the forerunners of many changes in a widely varied assortment of phases of modern living.

Her books containing expository doctrinal and devotional material are especially helpful. The down-to-earth way of explaining spiritual truth is very impressive and forcible. Of prayer she writes: "Prayer is the key in the hand of faith to unlock heaven's storehouse, where are treasured the boundless resources of Omnipotence."—Steps to Christ, p. 95. She describes faith in this way: "Faith is trusting in God—believing that He loves us and knows what is best for our good."—Education, p. 253. She asserts in very friendly and clear terms the magnificent work of the Holy Spirit in personal consecration: "There is no limit to the usefulness of one, who putting self aside, makes room for the working of the Holy Spirit upon his heart, and lives a life wholly consecrated to God."—Ministry of Healing, p. 159.

The heritage of these inspired writings has been given in a special way to the Seventh-day Adventist church. Let us as members of the body of Christ improve the opportunities we now have to read and study them. As we study the grand doctrines of the Scriptures, let us also read the commentaries of Mrs. White on the important events of these times. They will help us in our walk in the Christian way.

Faith for Today Wins Souls

Reports of souls won to the truth as the result of the telecasts of Faith for Today and the earnest follow-up work of ministers and laity always bring encouragement. The following letter, recently received from Pastor R. J. Ritchie of Windsor, Ont., brings a thrilling experience which we wish to share.

"Some months ago I received the names of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. and visited them shortly after receiving this information. I was delighted to find an ardent open-minded Christian in Mrs. C. and a keen Bible student in her husband. Bible studies followed, and now I can report that they and their older son have been baptized.

"An interesting feature about this experience is that just prior to their being baptized, they suggested that I ascertain whether or not the husband's mother, who lives more than 100 miles away, had taken the Faith for Today Bible course also, for the family had encouraged her to do so. They invited her to visit them for a few days, and I called at the home the evening she arrived.

"Wondering what the family would like to study that night, I turned to the mother and asked, 'What do you believe happens to a man when he dies?' To this she promptly replied, 'He remains in a totally unconscious condition until the resurrection.' When I expressed surprise at the correctness of her answer, I discovered that she had fully completed the Faith for

The Divine Blueprint Says:

Today course! At the conclusion of a six-week series of lectures in which we were currently engaged this mother also took her stand in baptism.

"In my 30 years of ministry I can truthfully say I have never seen new converts so rapidly and wholeheartedly take hold of the truth as has this family. Our entire congregation feels as though the individuals of this family have been longstanding members of the church. The husband and wife have already raised approximately $250 in the Ingathering campaign."

Last year almost 1,500 precious souls like these wrote to the Faith for Today office to inform us that they had fully decided to follow Jesus all the way and were looking forward to baptism and church membership. The majority of these have now been baptized. However, past accomplishments are never enough, for we want to see the tempo of the work increase until finally the message swells into a loud cry which heralds the coming of the Lord. Please join us in prayer each day for the work of Faith for Today.

child who comes in needing warm clothing and shoes is cared for.

For twelve years I have witnessed what the General Conference is doing to help the needy or suffering in foreign lands. The ship on which I returned to Korea after World War II went to North China before arriving in Korea. On this ship were hundreds of bales of clothing for China and some for Korea. The Korean people were in need then, and in the years before the outbreak of the Korean war a large amount of relief supplies was sent here. Especially since the Korean war tons of all kinds of supplies have been sent to help those who have nothing. The Korean war is over, but there is a continuing need for supplies to help those who are suffering because of the war and other hardships.

The homeless, the fatherless, the widows, and the cold of Korea, say "Thank you, Christians of America, for remembering us in our need."

Remember, you are helping these many needs when you give to the Disaster and Famine Relief Offering, May 9.

Disaster and Famine Relief Offering

Sabbath, May 9, has been set apart by the General Conference as the day on which the Disaster and Famine Relief Offering will be taken in all the churches throughout North America. The goal for the North American Division is $240,000, and for overseas division $60,000.

As we read of the calamities such as earthquakes, famines, floods and tornadoes in various parts of the country we can readily recognize the necessity of having a fund from which assistance can be given to those in need as a result of these calamities. Sabbath, May 9, is the day when you can assist in a very worthy cause. It is hoped that this will be a liberal offering from all our churches. May God bless the givers as well as those who may be recipients of these gifts.

For Parents of Servicemen

We must have the current address of your son or daughter in the service in order to be sure he or she is receiving the Youth's Instructor, Review and Herald, For God and Country, and other literature available to those in the service. Please send these addresses to us now! Remember to send us any change of address also.

We are doing our best to assist those in the service, and to do this we must know their current address. We are asking parents to keep us informed, since we have found them to be the most reliable source for such information. A postcard will do. Thank you! "The Chevrolet That Wanted to Be a Cadillac"

What appears to be an almost incongruous aspiration of an ancient 1926 Chevrolet to turn into a brand-new Cadillac comes true in a modern allegory that highlights the historic but ever-timely gospel truth of the new birth. "The Chevrolet That Wanted to Be a Cadillac" is the title of the lead story in the April issue of These Times. The entire magazine is packed with interesting, appealing stories and articles designed to lead readers to Christ.

The age-old question, "Who Is God?" is effectively answered in the second installment of the great new Bible course, "Adventures of the Spirit," designed to encompass the cardinal truths of Scripture in eighteen lessons. Thoroughgoing, scholarly, soundly supported with Bible texts, "Adventures of the Spirit" is a must for every Seventh-day Adventist, plus those he is trying to bring to Christ through personal evangelism and prayer.

Veteran evangelist Robert M. Whitsett analyzes America's religious condition in an exclusive interview feature, "What Is America's Spiritual Climate?" with These Times editor, Kenneth Holland. His program for improving spiritual conditions in this country makes arresting reading.

In the realm of health a feature interview, "Your Eyes—They're Wonderful," gives some important tips for better eye care and avoiding purchase of those bifocals you've been worrying about. The marvelous physical structure of the human eye is brought out—another testimony to God's creative power.

This is only a sampling of the colorful, appealing April issue of These Times. Remember: "These Times" win souls. Order your subscription for the coming year today. Cost is only $2.00; in lots of six or more, only $1.75 per subscription. Relatives and friends should be receiving every lesson in the new Bible course. Single copies are 25 cents, only 17½ cents in lots of ten or more. Order through your Book and Bible House.

Family Accepts Message

In a recent letter, Pastor C. R. Jepson of Zanesville, Ohio, tells the Voice of Prophecy staff the following interesting experience of a fine family won to the message.

"In our last series in Portsmouth, Ohio, 61 took their stand, and 30 were baptized. There was a gentleman living on a rural route out of Lucasville, Ohio, who I believe was one of your students, and he was just waiting for us to come to town. He attended every night, and when I made the first call for surrender he was out of his seat, down the aisle, and sitting in one of the front pews before I could get down from the rostrum. About five minutes later, his wife and daughter came to join him. This is a lovely family, and a wonderful addition to the Portsmouth church.

"In later meetings, during calls for surrender, this brother couldn't keep his seat, but went quietly around among his friends in the audience, trying to get them to come forward and take their stand. It almost made me want to cry as I saw him work. He told me afterward that he 'just couldn't stand it' to see his friends sitting there during the call and not responding."

Across the nation, other whole families are turning to the Lord in this way, through the cooperative efforts of our faithful evangelists, the Voice of Prophecy broadcasts and Bible schools, and those who so loyally support these effective methods of evangelism by their attendance at public meetings, by their prayers and personal work, and by their financial gifts.

Our radio staff often pray for our evangelists, and for the Voice of Prophecy listeners and Bible course students to whom we send personal letters inviting them to attend evangelistic campaigns whenever they may be held in their respective localities, anywhere in the United States and Canada. Perhaps you are already participating in this great cooperative work for souls. If not, we invite you to pray and to give that others may live eternally.

"Maikai" (Good)

The Bible in Hawaii

The story is told that when the first Hawaiian New Testament was published by the American Bible Society in Honolulu in 1832, Queen Kaahumanu seized a copy on her deathbed, kissed it tenderly, lifted it high in the air and exclaimed "Maikai" (good). Her late husband, King Kamehameha, had also been interested in the white man's God. Before his death, idolatry and heathenish customs were abolished. The people were responding to the teaching of the missionaries who had come to Hawaii in 1820.

This group of seven married men and their wives had been sent out by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. They found the people without a written language or a religion, yet responsive and willing to learn. First the missionaries must become familiar with the language and reduce it to writing. The simple sounds of Hawaiian, represented by five vowels and seven consonants, made learning to read and write comparatively simple, after the spelling was settled.

Dr. Hiram Bingham, one of the missionaries, had set himself to the task of providing Scriptures in Hawaiian. The first publication was a part of St. Luke's Gospel translated in 1827 and published in Honolulu. Then followed other parts of the Bible, with a group assisting Dr. Bingham with the translation work, resulting in the complete

New Testament in 1832 and the entire Bible in 1839.

The Commandments were adopted as the basis of laws in 1825. Schools were established as one of the earlier results of missionary effort. Within 35 years, after the arrival of the missionaries, 35,000 natives had accepted Christ and one third of the entire population had become members of the Christian church. Today, totalling about a half-million people, from North and South America, Asia, the Pacific Islands and elsewhere, the people speak a score of languages. The American Bible Society has provided Scriptures for these various groups, most of whom today are rapidly turning to the English language.

The Bible Society's work in Hawaii is under the supervision of its office in San Francisco. The city of Honolulu today is a great metropolitan area, but at the same time there are isolated communities where spreading the Good News is still a pioneer missionary effort. Added to this program the Society receives constant calls for help—for the leper settlement on the Island of Molokai; for hundreds of Filipinos who need the Bible in their own language; for a newly organized church that needs Bibles and Testaments; and for copies of both the Christmas and Easter Gospels that find a ready reception in mission work and for hospital visitation.

One of the most interesting programs the Bible Society has been recently promoting in Hawaii is the Bible Reading and Sharing Program, which was conducted on the Island of Maui. This project, according to the Rev. Dean S. Collins, who is responsible for the Society's work in Hawaii, caught the imagination of almost every church, minister and church member on the entire island. Because of the nature of the population with its mixture of nationalities and creeds, the emphasis was centered around the Sermon on the Mount. The young people of the various churches distributed a copy of this pocket-size Scripture portion to every home on the Island. It is estimated that through this method more than 32,000 persons were reached.

Radio and television stations cooperated by reading the Sermon on the Mount over the air. Newspapers published it on their front pages. Business establishments offered their windows for exhibits from the American Bible Society and for displays of unusual Bibles and Testaments supplied by the people of the Island. The Ministerial Association, which sponsored the project, reported that it was a great event which began with the presentation of a Bible to Mayor Eddit Tam and which ended with the majority of the people better acquainted with the Word of God.

As we add the fiftieth star to our flag and welcome Hawaii into the fellowship of States, the American Bible Society will continue to be aware of the responsibility to provide the Book that has brought a new life and outlook to the many thousands in these Islands who say, with Queen Kaahumanu, "Maikai" (good).

Former St. Paulites Please Note

The First S.D.A. church of St. Paul, Minn., is planning a HOMECOMING WEEK END, June 19-21, celebrating its seventy-five years of fruitful existence. We are especially anxious to have former pastors, members and friends spend that week end with us; but if this is impossible, we would like to have a message of greeting from each of you, to be read in our Jubilee program.

Previous to this date, the Barron brothers' evangelistic company from Texas will conduct a three-week campaign beginning May 10. In preparing for this endeavor, we would like the names of relatives and friends in St. Paul and vicinity whom you would like sent invitations to these important meetings.

Please send communications concerning either of the above items to

A Fresh Approach

TO GIVING THE GOSPEL EACH MONTH

SPECIAL FEATURE

"You knew the truth; why didn't you tell me!" Those fearful words may someday rise up to condemn us if we don't inform our friends and neighbors about God's special message for today.

We all feel a burden for certain people. We'd like to give them the whole truth—but perhaps we haven't quite found the appropriate method. To fill that need, These Times is just beginning an 18-month Bible course—in the magazine itself. Called "Adventures of the Spirit," this series of doctrinal studies is expertly written and dramatically illustrated.

Here is an opportunity for your friends to find all of God's truth for today in the setting of a beautiful magazine. It is also a long-coveted opportunity for you to do your duty as a believer to execute the great commission.

SOUTHERN PUBLISHING ASSOCIATION, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

James White Memorial Library

Library, Center of Learning at E.M.C.

THE location of the library is almost symbolic. Standing in the midst of the campus, it is the center of knowledge for the students of E.M.C.

The present library has had many forerunners. An appeal for books and funds by the Fide-Delectian Society of Battle Creek College in 1875 resulted in the founding of a library of 200 books. By 1898 the library had grown to 60 times this amount.

Soon after the college moved to Berrien Springs in 1901, the books were catalogued and shelved in the tower of South Hall. In 1937 the present library was completed and the students were let out of school and formed a human conveyor belt to move the books to their new home. The building had a capacity of 32,000 volumes, but now 54,000 books crowd its shelves,

Why Not Train for Librarianship?

E.M.C. now offers a first minor of 20 hours in library science, with a second minor of 16 hours.

This curriculum will appeal to:

1. Those who look forward to the full professional training with the M.A. in Library Science.

2. Those who wish to combine secondary or elementary teaching with librarianship.

3. Those who are now librarians in secondary schools and wish to get sufficient training to fulfill state requirements for school librarians.

4. Those who hope to continue their education in graduate schools, and wish to increase their competence in the use of the library.

YOU HAVE THE QUESTIONS,
WE HOPE WE HAVE THE ANSWERS

Q. What is the full professional library training?

A. Most library schools (or library science departments of Universities) require a B.A. degree of ap-

In an effort to provide expansion space within its inelastic walls, wooden shelves have been built in the coat racks, the downstairs corridor, and in a study room. Definite plans are now under way to meet the requests for a larger library.

The library is staffed by two professional librarians, Head Librarian Barbara Phipps, and Periodical and Reserve Book Librarian Marilyn Fivash, and a secretary-work superintendent, Mrs. Lois Flory. Twenty-two students work in the library and have taken or are taking a library methods course.

plicants, and, depending upon previous training, require 34 to 40 hours for the M.A. in Library Science. Several of these basic courses are actually on the undergraduate level. These are the courses we shall offer here. The Department of Library Science of the University of Michigan will allow approximately 10 hours of our 20-hour minor toward their requirements of 34 hours for the M.A. in Library Science. This means that at the University of Michigan, the M.A.L.S. could be obtained in 24 credit hours, requiring one school year or three summers.

Below left: Marion Riesen searches in the card catalog for the number of a book she wishes to check out.

Q. What are the requirements for secondary school librarianship?

A. Most states, depending upon the size of the school library, require 8 to 20 hours in library science.

Q. What are the openings?

A. The scarcity of trained librarians is most acute. Few of our academies have librarians with more than 4 hours of training. Trained librarians for our senior colleges are very much in demand. Most of our college libraries need at least three professional librarians on their staff. Several colleges have unfilled positions because trained personnel cannot be found.

The same situation exists in public libraries, college and school libraries throughout the country. The doors of opportunity are wide open for young professional librarians who have learned to love both people, and books, and are eager to serve by bringing them together.

A LIBRARY SCIENCE MINOR AT E.M.C. WILL CONSIST OF THE FOLLOWING COURSES:

1. Introduction to Library Usage.—2 sem. hrs. First Semester.—(Open to the general student).

2. Reference.—2 sem. hrs. Second semester.—(Open to the general student).

*4. Subject Reference and Bibliography. 2 sem. hrs. Second semester.

164. School Library Administration. 2 sem. hrs. Second semester.

57. Literature for Adolescents. 2 sem. hrs. First semester.

it is checked in and Library of Congress catalogue cards are ordered. The book's serial number is stamped on, and when the ordered cards come, the book is classified and catalogued. The card pocket is pasted inside the front cover, and call numbers are written in. An electric stylus writes these numbers on the book's spine, and after a final check, it is put on the shelf for circulation.

In the fiscal year 1957-58, 46,037 books were circulated by the library. Student loans averaged 43 books.

The periodical and reserve book room, home base for many research paper writers, carries 484 subscriptions, including most of the denomination's periodicals plus a multitude of current magazines.

Whether wanting a book for an entertainment, outside reading, or for supporting material in a research paper, the student finds in the library the true power of the printed page.

Wisconsin Literature Evangelist Relates Experience

In January I called at the home of Mrs. S—. She said that I had caught her on a bad day. She was washing the ceiling in the kitchen, and there was a pail of water perched on top of a step ladder. I tried to give her a canvass on the HEALTH SERVICE, but she seemed anxious to tell me of her troubles and experiences. The children seemed to be into everything, and it was hard to keep her attention. Finally the children tipped the water off the ladder and she really had a mess. She said she was in no position to take any part of the health service, and due to circumstances I did not try to canvass on anything else. I signed her up for the Bible course and had a word of prayer with her. She told me that she had accepted Christ as her Saviour, and her husband wanted to also but couldn't. I promised to come back some evening and talk to her husband, and went on my way.

Toward the end of February I received a letter from Sister Ruth Holland, our 20th Century Bible Course instructor. In it she stated that Mrs. S— was taking the Bible lessons and that she had inquired about children's books, as her eight year old son wanted to be a minister. Sister Holland suggested that I call back to see her and sign up the boy for the junior lessons, if I could.

I decided to go there with the complete children's library. She recognized me and asked me to come in. I gave her a short canvass on THE BIBLE STORY, read a short story from one of the BEDTIME STORIES, and spoke a few words about the rest of the set. Suddenly she gave me the greatest surprise I have ever had in the literature work. She had asked the price and I had told her it would be a little over one hundred dollars. After thinking about it for a minute or two she said, "I believe I will take the whole works." I figured up the sale, which amounted to $134.25. This was the largest sale that I have ever made in one home. I gave her a subscription to THESE TIMES and a set of the TINY TOT'S LIBRARY in the old style binding as a gift.

I told the elder of the local church about her and he said that he would like to call on them. I went out to the S— home with my machine one evening and gave a Bible study. They enjoyed it tremendously and I had a chance to meet Mr. S—. I told them that our leader in that area would call one of these days to visit them. She said that that would be fine, and remarked that, to her, it all seemed providential, because it so happened that she had a Catholic friend over in Minnesota to whom she had been writing, trying to persuade her to accept Christ as her Saviour. Then to her surprise one day her Catholic friend wrote and said that she was sending her children to the S.D.A. school over there in Minnesota.

The local elder had no trouble arranging for Bible studies. He gave the first study on Wednesday evening and to our joy and surprise, the whole family visited our church on Sabbath. They enjoyed the services and promised to come again. Please remember them in your prayers.

W.A. students give for Korea

Students Respond to Sacrifice

A recent movie on the famine and disaster regions of Europe and Asia shown to the students and faculty of Wisconsin Academy by Eld. A. W. Bauer spurred the students to do something in a positive way to help some of these unfortunate people. The spirit manifested by the students was demonstrated in helping young people less fortunate than they, by sacrificing some of their own luxuries for a few days in order to help someone else. The Student Association was desirous of sponsoring a project for others rather than merely socials and picnics for themselves.

A goal of $200 was set by the student body to be sent to the Korean Seventh-day Adventist Orphanage. Wednesday morning, April 8, was the chapel day set aside for the bringing of funds for this cause. Students and faculty responded with $231.40. The remarkable thing about this offering was the fact that while some students were home for vacation they washed cars and did odd jobs to earn money especially for this purpose. There was nearly one hundred per cent participation from the students.

"Here, Mom, Put This in My Investment"

Gary Schebo When ten year old Gary Schebo, a junior member of the Frederic, Wis., Sabbath School, listened to the poems, songs, stories, and Investment experiences at the Investment program last spring, he decided, all by himself, to invest. He had never invested before. Oh, he gave a little maybe, but this was different.

He was going to earn all his own money.

Through the summer whenever Gary received money, he would say, "Here Mom, put this in my Investment." This is how he earned his money, and I am sure you'll agree it wasn't easy. He swept the schoolroom for about four weeks for ten cents a day. He picked rocks in a neighbor's field and received fifteen cents and sometimes twenty-five cents for an afternoon. He helped this same neighbor at haying time turning bales and received twenty-five cents each time for that. His mother gave him ten cents now and then for doing the dishes for her, and the money he received from relatives also went into his Investment fund.

By the time fall Investment came, he had ten dollars to give. Then came a disappointment. On that day he was too ill to go to church; but he was happy he had earned the money even though his mother had to hand it in for him. When one thinks of all the things a boy could buy for himself with ten dollars, one can realize how Gary really sacrificed for the Lord.

Farm Superintendent Institute Held

On March 3 and 4 the principals and farm superintendents of the academies in the Lake Union and also some from our neighbor unions, Northern and Central, assembled at Wisconsin Academy for their biennial Farm Superintendents Institute. The program began at 8:00 a.m. on March 3 and continued until noon, March 4.

An interesting agenda covered many important and profitable subjects, which were conducted by panel discussion. Some of the topics of interest for discussion were: Student Labor Problems, Recent Development in Crops, Cattle Feeding and Practices, and Farm Machinery. Mr. H. L. Ahlgren from the University of Wisconsin School of Agriculture was our guest speaker on Wednesday morning; his topic, "Changing Scenes in Rural America."

On Tuesday evening the entire group enjoyed a delicious banquet prepared by our cafeteria director, Mrs. Pitchen.

Instruction was interesting and timely. Much good and strength is derived from discussing our individual farm practices and problems.

The Week Called MV

It began with a blizzard. Snow was piled up to house top heights. Roads were blocked. People were stranded. Churches were empty. Monday evening, a new threat came with icy streets and roads. Police warnings told everyone to stay put.

But when Tuesday came, there was a break and by Thursday, the temperature rose to around 60 degrees; the highest since last November.

And what did Missionary Volunteers do? There were loyal Volunteers who attended meetings regardless of the weather. Although the snow was piled high and the streets were impassable, the MV's made this week count for God. Decisions were reached that will mean greater service for God.

Be a real Missionary . . .

Volunteer for Service!

Summer Camp

Wanted now—All Illinois young people, boys and girls, to start earning their way to summer camp at beautiful Little Grassy Lake. Inquire today how you may earn your entire way to summer camp by selling our truth-filled magazines and at the same time be real missionaries for the Lord. Ask your MV leader, your church school teacher, your Pathfinder instructor, your Sabbath school teacher, or write at once to your conference office on how you may attend summer camp.

Reports come to our office that this will be the largest and the greatest camping season in the history of the Illinois Conference. Plan to meet your friends and be one of the campers this summer.

Attention Parents of Summer Campers

Many have been wondering about transportation arrangements for camps. Here are the details:

LAKE UNION HERALD

Seated Left to Right: Eldon Spicer, herdsman of E.M.C.; H. L. Ahlgren, director of Agriculture Extension Division, University of Wisconsin; W. A. Nelson, educational secretary, Lake Union; Bernard Andersen, superintendent, field crops of E.M.C.; V. H. Campbell, head of Agriculture Department of E.M.C.

"Sons and Daughters of the Church"

Under God, the future of this conference and of the great Advent movement goes forward as the boys and girls and youth move forward. These young people of today are the future ministers, missionaries, teachers, nurses, and faithful laity of tomorrow. As time lasts, they must be prepared to step forward and fill the ranks that have been thinned by the retirement of those older ones who can no longer carry the burdens of responsibility in our churches or our conferences around the world. These Illinois youth, these sons and daughters of the church, are our greatest God-given asset! They are our common property, yours and mine. Although you may not be a father or mother after the flesh, God considers you to be one after the spirit; a father or mother in "Israel." These youth become one of our first and greatest responsibilities. How thankful we should be for them.

Brethren and sisters are we, individually and as churches, doing our best in our giving, that the youth of Illinois may have the much needed academy for their normal development to make them men and women for God?

The need for the completion of BROADVIEW ACADEMY is great, but the spiritual blessing we need from giving to this phase of God's work is even greater. We demonstrate the confidence and faith we have in God and His promises by sacrificial giving. In these days Satan works feverishly to focus our attention on the thing of this world, yet God's call to His people rings strong. "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world." "Gather My saints together unto Me; those that have made a covenant with Me by sacrifice." We are also told that Jesus put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself.

As we carefully and prayerfully consider, "How much shall I give now and in the future for Broadview Academy" we should think of several points.

The size of our gifts will depend upon:

1. Our Christianity
2. Our interest in God's program of Christian education
3. Our recognition of the need
4. Our financial ability
5. Our method of giving
6. Our willingness to sacrifice
7. Our willingness to trust God and believe His promises

We need to remember the greatest effect of sacrificial giving is upon the donors themselves. The progress of the church, the conference and its far-flung mission program has been in direct proportion to the sacrifice of its members.

Your church does not challenge your ability to give—it challenges your willingness to give as a follower of Christ. Our giving demonstrates how much our God, our church, and our spiritual lives mean to us.

Shall we not from this day forward follow Jesus' command more closely, "Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven . . . for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

Space Age

There is a great deal of talk these days about space age. Editorials, magazine articles, newspaper reports endeavor to stir up man's imagination respecting his relation to space age and his place in space. Arthur C. Clark made the following observation: "The shadow of these coming events lies across our age stirring the thoughts of all men who have ever stared at the night sky and wondered what part our species is designed to play in the unfolding drama of the universe."

How true is Mr. Clark's theoretical conjecture; without doubt men from this earth will find their place in space and space travel. Other worlds will be visited by people from our world. Men from this earth will travel throughout the universe. This fact has been known long before Doctor Clark's and our time. Jesus once told His congregation, "If I go I will come again and receive you unto Myself that where I 'travel' ye may 'travel.'"

Our modern scientists today have space ships on their drawing boards. Operation of these vessels is being pictured in mathematical formulæ. Men are endeavoring to credit themselves with instruments for space travel. In most cases there is little or no experience in God's ways or means of movement. In many cases the theory propped leads away from God and His righteousness. Science is becoming a major subject in the educational system of America as well as elsewhere in the world.

How well our boys and girls are informed regarding the realities of space travel, depends upon their contact with education which is based upon truth and the Word of God.

Large Sacrificial Offering Needed

For Disaster and Famine Relief

- Increasing disasters demand increased support
- Relief fund is nearly depleted
- Two years since the last offering
- Since May 31, 1957, through 1958, 11,000 CARE packages have been sent; 569,039 pounds of clothing have been distributed; 2,524,269 pounds of food have been given to alleviate suffering around the world.
- Let us make this the greatest offering of its kind ever received in Illinois.

No unrighteous or unholy man will ever visit another planet. These planets see enough of wickedness from the distance. Sin and its agents are confined to this world. The father of unrighteousness is confined to this world. How well these facts are impressed upon the minds of our children will depend upon the type of education they receive.

Let's prepare our boys and girls for eventual space travel by giving them a Christian education in our church schools.

"These Times" Testimonials

"Through a Voice of Prophecy friend, I have been receiving These Times. It is the most beloved paper I have ever read. It is one paper I won't be without. Please let me know when my subscription runs out. Please send me three copies of Steps to Christ. I would like to give them to my friends."
—MRS. G.R.H., Bark River, Mich.

"Recently we started Bible studies with a very interesting group at the military camp near here. After our first study I sat back with my Bible and invited questions. One young soldier had plenty. He was determined to know the right way and wanted help. I was surprised when another young soldier began giving some pretty good answers, so I asked where he got his ideas. 'Well,' said he, 'you see, my sergeant major gets a magazine called These Times, and is always quoting it to me. At the time he did not know where These Times came from. When I told him, he put in his order at once for a subscription.'"—I.B.B., Pembroke, Ontario, Canada.

"I feel most grateful for the January issue of your magazine. I have smoked for twenty-seven years. I finally gave them up with the help of your magazine. As you said, 'Most important is prayer.' I felt the help of God as I never have before. I enjoy and wouldn't be without These Times."—Mrs. L.M., Weymouth, Mass.

Dear reader, These Times can win souls for you, and you must help These Times do the job for you by accepting the challenge to sponsor increasing numbers of These Times subscriptions among your friends, neighbors, loved ones, and Ingathering donors. Let us not forget that April is These Times month and that the cost is only $2.00 a year for single subscriptions and $1.75 a year in quantities of 6 or more.

Church School Children Win Special Award for Outstanding Missionary Work

Marianne Sjoren

Jimmy Jenks

These two young people, Marianne Sjoren, age 12, of the Hinsdale church school, and Jimmy Jenks, age 9, of the West Suburban church school, are two of the first ten in the Illinois Conference to receive a beautiful 17-jewel watch for outstanding missionary work. These young people are now working toward their summer camp project at Little Grass Lake. They have discovered that it is fun to be missionaries and work for others.

These ten young people, thus far qualifying, have delivered 120 single copies of magazines or the equivalent in subscriptions in each case, and have received their beautiful watches at the missionary services in their respective churches. The Publishing Department reports that they anticipate several hundred young people will be award winners in 1959. If you are a young person and want to be a missionary for your Lord, get in touch with your Publishing Department secretary or someone connected with the missionary project in your church. Many of our boys and girls not attending our church schools can also qualify for this project. Your parents are invited to assist. Let us scatter our wonderful truth-filled magazines like the leaves of autumn.

Film to Depict Welfare Work

The picture "The Long Stride" will be shown in six churches throughout the Indiana Conference. This picture depicts overseas depots, and welfare work. The purpose of this showing is to encourage a larger offering on Sabbath, May 9. This world-wide Famine and Disaster Relief Offering is taken only once every two years. Let us do our very best to build up for an excellent offering on Sabbath, May 9. If some of our other church members from other churches can come in to see this film at the places where it will be shown, I am sure they would be welcome.

The following is the schedule for the showing of this film:

Tuesday, April 21, Indianapolis Southside Church, 7:30 p.m. EST

Thursday, April 23, Indiana Academy Chapel, 7:30 p.m. EST

Friday, April 24, Indianapolis Northside, 7:30 p.m. EST

Sabbath, April 25, Marion Church, just prior to sundown on Sab. eve.

Sunday, April 26, Lafayette Church, 7:30 p.m. CST

Monday, April 27, Fort Wayne Church, 7:30 p.m. EST

As one who has served in one of our overseas divisions, I have experienced what it feels to be on the receiving end in getting help through the Disaster Relief Offering. I think of Hurricane Janet which destroyed practically everything on the island of Carriacou. I think of Haiti where tremendous damage was done a few years ago. How much we would appreciate this disaster money coming in to help those suffering people. We thank you in advance for your loyal support.

Progress Is Being Made

On March 17 the Indiana Academy Board as well as the Lake Union officers met together at the academy to consider bids for the erection of the new administration building.

Sixteen contractors made bids on the construction of this building and we are happy to inform the constituents that one of our Seventh-day Adventist contractors, Richard Rogers, the elder of the Frankfort church, was the lowest bidder.

As you read this item of news the building will be under construction. We are hoping that this building will be completed by the Christmas holidays so that during these days the move can be made into the new structure.

Since we have now actually let the contract, we earnestly hope that all of our churches will do their utmost to bring in their funds for this administration building. We are counting on the future income from our churches to help pay for this construction. We greatly appreciate the fine support the churches have given in the past. Now, above all times, we need your most loyal support.

Please pray and give toward this project so that it might be completed soon. Thank you for continuing to cooperate on this project and may the Lord bless you as you do your part.

Plan Now for Next September!

The present school year soon to come to a close, will be recorded as the year in which a record number of boys and girls came under the influence of Christian teachers. In spite of this record, nearly one-half of the children of Seventh-day Adventists are not attending church schools. We are told by the prophet Isaiah that "all thy children shall be taught of the Lord; and great shall be the peace of thy children." We certainly want peace for our children, and we may have it if we accept the counsel that God has given us a plan, a plan to send our children to church school. Let all parents plan NOW to send their children to our own denominational schools in September.

Churches not operating church schools at present should be busy making plans so that the children of the church might be protected from the evil influences so abundant in the world. If you plan to start a church school in September, please contact your educational superintendent immediately. Perhaps two or three small churches in a given area will find it advantageous to get together and sponsor a church school. "Nothing is of greater importance than the education and training of our children and young people," says Mrs. E. G. White. Let us as parents and guardians act NOW to help save our children and young people before it is eternally too late.

Summer Camping Wonderful for Children and Youth!

God's other Bible, nature, undoubtedly provides the best place for our boys and girls and young people during the summer months. To care for the needs of the youth of the Lake Region Conference, a full camping season has been outlined for the various ages and interest groups:

All young people are urged to plan to attend at least one camp. The teachings of God are magnified through the study of nature. Where Will Future Missionaries Come From?

A partial answer to this query can come from three weekend youth rallies that have been held at Adelphian, Cedar Lake, and Grand Ledge Academies under the leadership of M.V. Secretary, L. C. Caviness.

At each of these two-day rallies, the academy students have provided the main part of the program. The Sabbath morning services have been taken by youth speakers. However, the climax comes on Sabbath afternoon during a mission pageant when youth gives its response to the call for reapers.

Participating in the program have been former missionaries who relate experiences and tell the background needed to be a successful overseas worker. Joining them in the costumed pageant are future missionaries, students in the school, who have dedicated themselves to mission service wherever God may direct them to go.

Where will future missionaries come from? Look into the earnest faces of many students at Michigan Academies and you have the answer.

Some of the special music came from a group, who lacking a formal name, are known as "the other quartet." Members include Gary Briggs, Duane Fancher, Ronald Kwiek and Bill Howie.

Former missionaries to the Far East, Eld. and Mrs. J. M. Nerness, demonstrate two national costumes as they get ready for the mission pageant. In the background is Mrs. Ada Holley and her son Roger, with card identifying them as having been in China.

One of the speakers at Grand Ledge Academy for the Sabbath morning service was a student, Robert Fancher, whose home is in Charlotte.
