IN THE LAKE UNION

It's Ingathering Time

by JERE D. SMITH, President, Lake Union Conference of S.D.A.

Ingathering, like almost everything else in life, can be pretty much what one chooses to make it. Either it can

off until the very last thing, dreading to get started. The great danger in such an attitude is that one will not get started at all, and the first thing he knows, to paraphrase the Scripture a bit, "The harvest will be past, the summer will be ended, and we will not have our goal."

There is something contagious about doing a thing while everyone else is doing it—a sort of friendly competition. This is true of the Ingathering as it is of almost everything else. We are told that "in unity there is strength."

Now that the campaign is getting under way and is gaining momentum, shall we not all together—old and young, worker and layman alike—put forth a united effort to make this the very best year in the history of this good work, so that the Lord's cause, both at home and abroad, may receive the much-needed financial impetus that will help us quickly to finish the world-wide task God has given us to do?

Jere D. Smith

be pleasant and profitable, or it can be tiresome and boring.

For the past several years, Dr. F. O. Rittenhouse, president of Andrews University, and I have collaborated in this annual missionary activity by calling on business and professional men in the cities near the college. I am glad to report that this has been our very best year. Wherever we have gone we have been received with kindness and consideration, and in most instances have gone away with a very liberal offering.

The Ingathering is one of our best means of making missionary contacts and bringing to the attention of the public the work carried on throughout the world by Seventh-day Adventists.

There is often a tendency to put it off until the very last thing, dreading to get started. The great danger in such an attitude is that one will not get started at all, and the first thing he knows, to paraphrase the Scripture a bit, "The harvest will be past, the summer will be ended, and we will not have our goal."

He finally selected a man coming his way. He was a very big man and roughly dressed. Walking up to him and holding out his can, Jimmy said, "Sir, won't you give an offering to Jesus for His work?"

The man looked at Jimmy unsmilingly and said gruffly, "Don't you know that Jesus died?" and walked on.

Jimmy was speechless. He hadn't expected such a statement nor did he know how to answer. So, taking off his cap and holding it in one hand and his missionary can in the other, he trotted after him. Then suddenly the answer came, and catching up with the man he said, "Sir, I know Jesus died. He was resurrected and is alive again."

The man stopped short and looked at the boy for a moment and said, "Well, in that case I better give you some money." So he took out a dollar bill and passed it over to Jimmy and walked on. Imagine, if you can, Jimmy's joy in receiving one whole dollar and the pleasure that was his as he told his story later on where an experience meeting was being held.

STORY OF THE WEEK

"I Always Like to Help"

Among those who read these lines will be many of our members and workers who contact regularly every year certain business friends or acquaintances for Ingathering. You can recall, no doubt, in your own experience, incidents similar to this one which follows. Sparkling as gems in the diadem of church activity, these speak of a vast reservoir of good will for Seventh-day Adventists which occasionally spills over into our consciousness.

Mr. (Blank) was sitting behind the desk in his office in Portland, Ind., as the church elder and I entered a few days ago. I had been told that he had always been kind to us. We had not been seated two minutes in his office and had not yet made an appeal, nor had we said anything to evoke such a statement, when he looked at us and declared, "Gentlemen, there are two organizations in the world that I always like to help: one is the Friends and the other is the Seventh-day Adventist." Then he gave his usual contribution of $50. We have no sanitarium or hospital in Portland. We have no doctors or a Welfare Center there. We do not have a church school, nor do we even own a church building in which our few people meet there.

But in spite of all these handicaps, God has brought this man into contact with our movement through the years. What all has gone into this impression of us I do not know; in fact, he did not attempt to tell us. Only eternity will reveal what has led some of these men to give as they have, year after year.

A GOOD BEGINNING

We are off to a good start for our 1961 Ingathering Campaign, and are over $5,000 ahead of last year's total at this date. Keep up the good work. Let's all do our part and finish the job in record time.

LAKE UNION HOME MISSIONARY DEPARTMENT

recting in the finishing of the greatest task ever given to men. God has given us our mission. Said he, "Ye are the light of the world," and the command given to the disciples, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel," is as valid now as it was then. Indeed, the very times in which we live make this command the more urgent.

"As the rays of the sun penetrate to the remotest corners of the globe, so God designs that the light of the gospel shall extend to every soul upon the earth."—Mount of Blessing, p. 69.

Heaven has manifested its mighty power and has closely cooperated and associated with the church in the extension and expansion of the work right around the world. Indeed, Seventh-day Adventists are now working in nearly every country of the world.

Much of the progress has been the result of the Ingathering endeavors of our people down through the years. We thank God for a loyal people who are willing to be spent for the finishing of God's work.

We know there are large numbers of people interested in the message waiting to be gathered in. They will not always wait, so what we do must be done quickly, for time is running out.

We have already begun the 1961 Ingathering campaign in the Lake Union Conference, and another opportunity is before us to help finish the task. Each member will want to have a part in it. Think of the souls that will be won as a result of visiting the homes of the people, talking and praying with them, and leaving literature; also we think of the funds that will be gathered in again this year for the expansion of our world program. I am sure you will not wish to miss this opportunity to witness for the Master.

The budget requests from all the world divisions, received just prior to the recent Autumn Council, contained urgent appeals for funds with which to employ workers in order to answer the many calls coming to our mission directors. The following experience illustrates this need:

J. B. Keith, president of the Coral Sea Union in Australasia, had arrived at one of our mission headquarters in the highlands of New Guinea. Shortly after reaching there a delegation of natives arrived, having walked some two or three days through the jungle, over mountains, across rivers and streams, and across valleys. These were heathen men. In some way they had heard of our mission, our people, and our work and were convinced that we had the truth for them. They were covered with pig grease from head to foot, as are all heathen people in New Guinea. The chief was leading his party. Seeing them coming, Elder Keith and the local mission president went out to meet them. The chief's smile covered his heathen face. He came up to Elder Keith and told of their long journey and how they had come to take a worker back to the village with them. Said he, "We have heard about you people for a long time, and we had so hoped that you would have come ere this and brought a teacher to us. We have decided that we could wait no longer, so we have come to you to present our appeal personally."

Elder Keith was sad as he told these men that there was no one to send, that there was no money to provide a salary and expense of such a man, that the mission could only go forward as far as funds were available.

The chief's countenance fell when he realized that their trip had been in vain. He finally decided to take action. He threw down his bow and arrows, came up to Elder Keith, lifted him in his pig-greased arms and placed him on his shoulder, and started to walk back to his village. Elder Keith in order to extricate himself from this situation promised that he would send a teacher very soon. With this promise the chief and his men started on their two or three days' trip to their country. Elder Keith kept his word, having received additional appropriations the following year in his budget.

Surely, brethren and sisters, the need is very great not only in the mission fields but here in this country as well. As you know, there are many, many dark counties in North America where Seventh-day Adventists are not even known. We must therefore as a united church go forward as the Lord commanded us to do and finish the task.

On behalf of the General Conference I want to congratulate you for what you have accomplished during the 1960 Ingathering campaign. The total gathered in amounted to $675,381.77. This was the finest hour in the history of the Ingathering work in your union. And now I understand you have a new and higher goal you are determined to reach. We shall watch with deep interest as the campaign proceeds. I am confident that you will roll up the largest Ingathering total of all time. I am reminded again and again that the members of the Lake Union Conference have always reached and exceeded their Ingathering goals from year to year.

May God bless you each and every one again this year. It is my fond hope that every member will have a part in this year's Ingathering campaign.

Spiritual Aspects of Ingathering

by VERNON FLORY

Lake Union Home Missionary Secretary

Ingathering can be the greatest soul-winning campaign of the church. Considering the lateness of the hour, should we not see to it that Ingathering IS the greatest soul-winning campaign of the church? In its inception this is just what was intended. The first Ingatherers used this as an opportunity to visit their neighbors, tell them about the coming of the Lord, and of the progress of His work. Then an opportunity was given for the friend to contribute his offering to assist in the giving of the message. The literature used then, as now, contained food for the soul, and the offerings were secondary.

There is a whole chapter in the book Christian Service that deals with the Ingathering work. All through this chapter the emphasis is placed on the spiritual benefits that are to be derived from the Ingathering work. Look at sentences like the following:

"As those not of our faith have been made acquainted with the progress of the third angel's message in heathen lands, their sympathies have been aroused, and some have sought to learn more of the truth. . . ."

"We are to give to the world the light of truth, as revealed in the Scriptures; and we are to receive from the world that which God moves upon them to give. . . ."

"To all who are about to take up special missionary work with the paper prepared for use in the Harvest Ingathering campaign, I would say: Be diligent in your efforts; live under the guidance of the Holy Spirit. Add daily to your Christian experience."

"Search diligently for perishing souls. . . . Watch for souls as they that must give an account."

"In your church and neighborhood missionary work, let your light shine forth in such clear, steady rays that no man can stand up in the judgment, and say, 'Why did you not tell me about this truth? Why did you not care for my soul?'"

"Let us put literature [Ingathering literature] into every hand that will receive it. Let us consecrate ourselves to the proclamation of the message, 'Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a highway for our God.'"—"Christian Service," pp. 167-170.

There are six pages more, pages 171 to 177, that draw beautiful lessons from Nehemiah's experience.

What would happen if every solicitor this year actually did "watch for souls as they that must give an account"? Just before Christmas in 1958 Brother B. F. Ray, a member of the North Side church in Indianapolis, was out caroling with a church band. It was a cold night and the solicitors were hurrying from home to home, leaving the literature and receiving the gifts. At one home Brother Ray was told by a lady that she was sorry they could not give an offering, because her daughter was ill with cancer. The solicitor hurried on, but as the evening progressed his mind turned several times to the statement the lady had made. He went home and retired. About three o'clock the next morning he awakened and was not able to sleep well because he kept thinking about this sick girl. When morning came he drove over to the street where they had been working but, as he did not have the house number, was not able to locate the house where these people lived.

Two or three days went by and several times Brother Ray thought about the experience. Finally he talked with his wife about it. They prayed and were impressed that they must find this family. They decided that they would knock on every door on that street, if necessary, to find the home. It took them some time and many doors before they did find the lady that had spoken about the sick daughter. Brother and Sister Ray were surprised to find that the sick daughter was a woman with four little girls of her own. There were weeks of uncertainty and suffering, but the Rays kept contact. Finally, through prayer, the blessings of God, and the good surgical services of our Dr. Brillhart, her body responded and she regained her health. The Rays and Pastor Johnson held Bible studies in this home, and not long after she was baptized, with her eldest daughter. Those in attendance at Indiana camp meeting last summer had the privilege of meeting Sister Goode and the four little girls.

Many of us are sorry that we have to use the dollar as a means of reporting the progress of the Ingathering work from week to week. We do need progress reports to keep up the campaign spirit and to keep all informed as to how we are moving toward our goal. We hope that soon we may be able to report our progress by the number of souls brought to Christ through the Ingathering work.

You will be interested in an action taken at the recent Fall Council. This was a large Council with all the local conference presidents in attendance.

Whereas, The Ingathering appeal presents one of the greatest missionary opportunities of the church in house-to-house contacts; and

ers, members, and even our children may well affect the destiny of millions around the world; and

Whereas, We have been admonished that "only a moment of time, as it were, yet remains . . . now that we are standing upon the very verge of the eternal world, holding the truths we do, having so great light, so important a work, we must double our diligence" (Christian Service, pp. 52, 79),

WE RECOMMEND, (1) That the soul-winning objective, "baptisms from each church from Ingathering contacts," be emphasized in all our churches; (2) That workers and members engaging in the Ingathering campaign be urged to carry the Donor's Record

Five Ways to Do Ingathering

Christmas Caroling

by V. W. ESQUILLA, Illinois

Christmas caroling is the most enjoyable, the easiest, and the most satisfying method of Ingathering. It leaves the public with feelings of satisfaction and happiness, and it draws the church members into a happy unity of participation.

Nothing cheers the heart of the caroler so much as going out singing Christmas carols, bringing the gospel message in the sweetness of song, and at the same time collecting the desired funds. Both the carolers and the people who listen are benefited and elevated spiritually, while the solicitor gets a real spiritual rejuvenation, first in the pleasure the donations bring and secondly in the joy of contacts with human souls. Therefore, both those who carol and solicit and the public who listen have a satisfying and pleasurable experience, which is a worth-while result.

At the Christmas season people's hearts are mellow and responsive, and the donations are larger and more graciously given. This is one way the world at large is drawn into the program of heralding Christ's second coming.

Sheet on which to note the names and addresses of persons showing an interest, and that missionary literature be used to follow up these interests.

This surely shows where our conference and General Conference brethren feel the emphasis should be placed. Will we not respond to this action by taking steps that need to be taken in each church to insure that we do have baptisms as a result of this year's Ingathering campaign? We have 433 churches in the Lake Union. It surely wouldn't be too much to plan to have at least one baptism from each church, would it? Remember the line, "It isn't the gale but the set of the sail that determines the way that we go." Let us set our "sails" for "souls in sixty-one."

gram of heralding Christ's second coming.

Caroling is a strong factor in enabling Seventh-day Adventists to proclaim the message of hope and to answer the many overseas Macedonian calls. Caroling is not merely a money-raising activity. It gives us an opportunity to distribute literature, make many contacts, secure enrollees for the Bible correspondence course, and leave with them an over-all report of the humanitarian work of Seventh-day Adventists.

Surely the lateness of the hour is a call to every Seventh-day Adventist to endeavor to take an earnest part in telling the millions of their soon-coming King.

"The Lord has placed His goods in the hands of unbelievers as well as believers; all may return to Him His own for the doing of the work that must be done for a fallen world."

"The Lord's work might receive far greater favors than it is now receiving, if we would approach men in wisdom, acquainting them with the work, and giving them an opportunity of doing that which it is our privilege to induce them to do for its advancement."

"This plan was opened before me as a way of coming in touch with wealthy men of the world. Through this means not a few will become interested, and may hear and believe the truth for this time."

(The above quotations are from "An Appeal to Ministers and Church Officers," Stewardship Series, No. 1, pp. 3-16.)

Soliciting Your Friends

by RALPH COMBES, Indiana

Your friend may be a business man; he may be a dentist, doctor, or lawyer; he may be the man who delivers your mail; or he may be your next-door neighbor. Whoever he is, to solicit a friend is easier than going to a perfect stranger. The individual knows you and you know him. There is common ground.

Ralph Combes

May I suggest the following as you plan that contact with "your friend" for Ingathering:

1. Pour out your heart to God, who alone can help you.
2. Resolve that you will be God's instrument, regardless of the results obtained.
3. Make a list of the names of the "friends" you may want to contact and work faithfully toward seeing all of them.
4. Do not be ashamed to unfold the world scope of our work. Many are astonished at the vastness of our program.
5. Tell them how much we appreciate what our friends are doing.
6. Do not forget the free Bible course in all of the languages listed on the inside back cover of our Ingathering paper.
7. Be on the alert for welfare needs, sickness, people burned out, etc., right in your own community, and make known your willingness as a church to help in these needs.

God will give you funds and souls as you persevere.

Residential Solicitation

by XAVIER BUTLER, Lake Region

(No picture available)

The housewife or home-owner greets an assortment of people who come to the door during the day—salesmen, insurance men, and other solicitors—all vying for their attention, each suggesting that his product is better, his charity more worthy than others. What is it, then, about the consecrated Ingatherer that causes the home-owner to contribute to his cause?

Most individuals who make their living by door-to-door contacts have a winning smile, a neat appearance, and a pleasing personality; therefore, the successful canvasser in the Ingathering campaign must have not only these things, but something more as well.

The key ingredient to success in this work may be called sincerity. It is not what we say, but the way we say it. It is not difficult for the home-owner to detect insincerity on the part of the canvasser. A monotonous voice, fumbling with the papers, a "dead-pan" expression, a formal recitation of the canvass—all may indicate a lack of genuine sincerity. We must ask ourselves the question: "Do I really believe what I am saying, and do I say it with love—love in my voice, in my eyes, and in my smile?"

Genuine sincerity, then, is love for the work and love for the person to whom one is speaking, all of which is prompted by the love of God. This love, shed abroad in our hearts, gives us success in Ingathering from door to door.

Business Solicitation

by H. D. BURBANK, Michigan

In order for a business solicitation to be a success it must be preceded by a prayer petition that God will help you find at least one honest heart that you can minister unto. I never pray for success in raising my Ingathering goal. God knows I need this success. I am out looking for precious souls.

Whether I am calling on old friends or new in the business world, my approach is identical because, even though they have not given to me in the past, they have given to someone else in over 50 years of Ingathering. As I approach the business man, I have with me a copy of the missionary book of the year, and as I greet him I am tearing the wrapper from the book and, with my very best smile, present it to him. As I do, I state, "We are indeed happy to show our appreciation for your past support of the Seventh-day Adventist uplift program around the world," etc. After a little explanation of the book, I give him the report of what has been accomplished throughout the world program as I go through the Ingathering paper.

It was with this approach that I called on Mr. Brown as I have for the past seven years. I also remembered that last year due to business setbacks he told me he was afraid that this year he would not be able to give his usual check of $150. After my approach, Mr. Brown began to apologize due to the fact that his particular business had had even greater reverses than before. I was trying not to let my disappointment show as I was talking to him. He said, "Yes, I know the wonderful work that Seventh-day Adventists do. I read in the newspapers of the humanitarian work you did through the Chilean Disaster Relief." With a very apologetic tone of voice he said, "Would you accept our check for $150 again? If you will, and stop back a little later, I am certain that we can do better." As I accepted the check I recognized that the Holy Spirit had touched his heart, for he had also expressed appreciation for the books that I had left from year to year which he said he had been reading.

Make Ingathering the greatest evangelistic crusade of the year, and success will be yours, not only in dollars and cents but in souls saved in the kingdom of heaven.

Mail Solicitation

by A. W. BAUER, Wisconsin

Thousand of dollars for Ingathering are solicited through the mail each year, and many more thousands could be gathered in for God if we would write more letters asking our friends for their support in this great missionary project.

then write to your personal friends

To whom shall we write? First, write to the firms where it is almost impossible to gain entrance to see the person with authority to make a contribution. Secondly, write to your government workers away from your community, and and businessmen who have left for the duration of the campaign or who may have moved away.

What shall we say? Many helpful suggestions are made in the Ingathering leaflet, "Helps for Ingathering Solicitors." Ask your church missionary secretary for a copy. They are furnished free by your conference Home Missionary Department. The conference will also, upon request, furnish you with duplex envelopes so that you may mail an Ingathering magazine with your letter. The success of soliciting by mail will depend decidedly on the personal acquaintance and friendly business relations in the background.

Pray to the Lord to guide you as you write, and ask Him to speak with His Spirit to the reader of the report that his heart may be touched. This is God's work, and He will bless.

Remember the words of Jesus, "Ask and ye shall receive."

L. E. ESTEB PASSES AWAY

A man well known in the Sabbath school, home missionary, public relations, and radio-TV work of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination—Eld. Lemuel E. Esteb—passed away suddenly October 31 of a heart attack. He was the Sabbath School and Home Missionary secretary of the Atlantic Union Conference. He served the denomination since 1921 as an academy teacher, an evangelist, a conference departmental man, conference president, and union departmental secretary during his lifetime.

Those who knew him will agree wholeheartedly that of few it can be more truthfully said than of Lemuel Esteb that "he burned out for God."

A LETTER FROM VENEZUELA

DEAR BROTHERS AND SISTERS OF THE LAKE UNION:

Last year about this time we were saying good-bye to our loved ones and friends to return to our field of labor. We left knowing that time is short and that our friends of the Lake Union would not forget that our task is world wide. We carry on because of your generosity and sacrifices every Sabbath and especially on 13th Sabbaths.

The next 13th Sabbath overflow offering comes to our division (Inter-America), and we know the sacrifices that are made will hasten our Lord's return.

The work is going forward here in Venezuela, but signs tell us that our working time is short. We have little time in some of these countries in which to do our work. The state church has not forgotten that we exist and are doing a mighty work. They are already making plans to do what they can to strengthen their hold on the people and turn them against any who will stand in their way.

In a little mountain town here in the district of Barquisimeto two of our workers one Sabbath morning went to hold services in our little church and have a baptismal service and also the communion service. The plan was to stay over night and return on Sunday morning.

The Sabbath services were a blessing to all, but during the Sabbath evening service word came that the people were planning to attack our two workers the following morning on their way home. The word received was that they had said, "We have driven out the Evangelicas, now we will drive out the Adventists."

Our two workers decided it would be best to try to make it out that very night. If you could see the road (a widened burro path) and the precipices, the dust and in places the mud, one would think it unwise to travel the "road" at night. But God was with our two workers and they arrived safely. What would have happened to them had they left the next morning no one knows.

Our work goes forward (we have baptized 58 in our district so far) because God does the leading, but how much longer we have is uncertain.

Brothers and sisters, we are in the time of the end. Let us work and pray and sacrifice. God bless you all as you remember the Inter-American Division on December 24.

ANNUAL MEETING FOR DIETETIC ASSOCIATION

The Seventh-day Adventist Dietetic Association's sixth annual meeting was held at Andrews University Oct. 13 to 16, 1960. Twenty-four delegates from the four corners of the United States, as well as Canada, represented 17 Adventist institutions.

The week-end meetings included inspirational talks, reports on work accomplished during the past year, and future plans.

One of the outstanding accomplishments of the past year was the publishing of the book Everyday Nutrition for Your Family, containing 152 pages and 24 chapters. It is full of common-sense, practical advice for menu planning for all the family, and is being distributed by the association.

One of the projects for the coming year is the establishment of a cooks' and bakers' training course which will begin in 1961.

Paul Damazo, president of the association, reported that the shortage of trained personnel in the field is still acute, and it would take nearly 200 dietitians to meet the needs in the field. He also mentioned openings for 15 dietitians overseas.

The association has considerable career guidance material which is available upon request; also information concerning nutrition education. Write to S.D.A. Dietetic Association, 1720 Boyle Ave., Los Angeles 33, Calif.

Temperance Department

From such heights as the top of the Empire State building to such depths as a submarine, Pauline Goddard, literature evangelist, wins souls to the church in many cities of the United States selling Listen magazine and other literature on the sidewalks of our nation.

Standing atop the Empire State building a short time ago, Pauline presented her magazines to a potential customer. The man shook his head. He spoke only Spanish. So Pauline presented her canvass in Español, and the man made a purchase. In Washington, D.C., she recently went aboard a docked submarine and sold her magazines to several of the underseas personnel.

My initial interview with Pauline was in Miami. We stood there on the sidewalk, Pauline telling about her work, then darting off to present her magazines to a passer-by. Watching her, I noted that whether or not she sold, she always managed to leave an invitation for the prospect to join a Bible correspondence course.

A little hazel-eyed brunette of thirty-one who looks twenty-one, Pauline works afternoons and evenings, selling her magazines into the lonely hours of the night and sometimes early morning "to reap souls," she says. "Also I can contact many people on the streets who might not be reached in any other way," she explains.

Pauline's success is reflected not only in her annual average of at least $6,000 in sales, but also in the many persons she has won to the church.

Recently while selling in Key West, Fla., she met a serviceman who had a drinking problem. The young man's wife had divorced him because of his drinking. After talking with him, Pauline left a copy of Listen. The next time she saw him was on a bus she was taking to Youth Congress, in Atlantic City. The serviceman told her that Listen had helped him to quit drinking.

I asked her, "Why do the fellows start drinking and smoking in the service?"

"Pressure from their buddies is a big factor," she answered.

I asked Pauline whether or not she gets lonely working on the streets late at night. (Her husband Bob is away much of the time traveling by ship for an oil firm.) "I have no time to get lonely," she said. "I'm so busy working, writing up my experiences, and traveling, that at night when I get home I'm so tired I just fall into bed."

On a recent trip Pauline unsuccessfully presented her magazines to a young Navy serviceman. The young man told her he drank because he was lonely. Later when she was ready to quit, he came back to tell her he was going to stop drinking. She had prayer with him on the street, and he thanked her for it. Pauline left him temperance literature and Steps to Christ, and enrolled him in a Bible correspondence course. Recently, at the young man's request, the local pastor visited him.

She tells of a reformed alcoholic who had recently purchased a copy of Listen. He asked, "Why isn't this wonderful journal circulated more?" He enrolled in a Bible correspondence course and donated an organ to one of our churches.

Pauline's work takes her to the stars. She has given literature to many celebrities including Pat Boone, Debbie Reynolds, Arthur Godfrey, Emmett Kelley, and Sammy Davis, Jr. On a recent trip to Washington, D.C., Pauline presented temperance literature to President Eisenhower on his birthday. "I wished him a happy birthday. Then we shook hands, and he thanked me for the literature," she says.

So Pauline Goddard, petite soul winner of the sidewalks, travels from city to city selling literature, giving invitations to free Bible correspondence courses, and telling those she meets of the faith she knows so well.

"Buddy" System Doubles Investment Funds

Little seven-year-old Joel Giver, a member of the primary department of the Berrien Springs Village Sabbath school, has raised $100 for Investment this year. In the spring he sold cans of Katherine Beich candies and raised $78 in that way. His goal was $100, so this fall when the family's pedigreed Persian cat had kittens, Joel was able to sell one of the kittens and get enough money to realize his Investment goal.

This is the second year that the Berrien Springs Village Sabbath school has used the partner, or "buddy," plan in Investment. With this plan, each child is chosen by some adult to be his partner. The adult partner, or "buddy," pledges to match every dollar for Investment that the child raises.

Joel's adult partner was Brother Virgil Trickett, one of the Sabbath school superintendents, who is a local farmer and fruit grower. Brother Trickett

Investment 1960—Battle Creek Tabernacle

Earlier in the year when plans were first laid, Miss Alice West, 1960 Investment leader for the Battle Creek Tabernacle, decided to use the weights of baby Davie Joe Ahlberg and Dr. L. H. Caviness as sure investments. In other words, for every pound that Davie Joe gained or Dr. Caviness lost a part of the members were to pledge so much per pound. At the end of the Investment campaign on November 19, it was discovered that Davie Joe had gained 12 healthy pounds whereas Dr. Caviness had lost 18½ unwanted ones. One member pledged $5.00 per pound on Dr. Caviness, and a little arithmetic will show his return was quite substantial.

During the program on November 19, the entire Sabbath school was assembled in the main auditorium, and representatives from the seven divisions bore placards showing the amount each division raised, and told how it was raised.

In the senior division, besides the weight increase and decrease mentioned above, others raised and sold vegetables and African violets, gave treatments, altered clothing, baked bread, etc. Special recognition should go to William Koenig, who turned in $231 from the sale of tomatoes which he raised.

Special projects of the youth division were an amateur talent program and a family skate for which admission was charged.

The Junior and primary divisions mounted buffalo nickels on buffalo cards and used dimes to border a picture of a leper.

The other three divisions helped also, and in this particular program a number of them, dressed as missionaries and natives in different countries, showed how far reaching the benefits of investing in souls can be.

The total amount of $2,992.46 raised by the entire Sabbath school, with more coming in to swell the total, far exceeded the goal set for 1960.

W. A. LAUNDRY—A BUSY, CROWDED PLACE

When Wisconsin Academy began to establish itself in 1949, the laundry consisted of two rooms with a hallway between, one room of which housed the incinerator over in a corner. For several years, especially in the winter-time, great clouds of black smoke would come billowing into the washroom and would overflow into the halls and girls' rooms above. However, in recent years a cure for this condition was discovered, and that item of hindrance to laundry work no longer gets out of hand. Nevertheless, to have an incinerator in the washroom is a most annoying and dusty nuisance. It is obvious that this area was never intended for a laundry.

★ We were happy to learn that Tom Williams, ministerial intern in Milwaukee, was home with his family over Thanksgiving. He returned to the hospital on Sunday. He is improving and hopes to leave the hospital soon.

★ Eld. A. W. Bauer reports that there was a full house at the Pound church, where he spoke Sabbath morning, November 26. He attended the MV meeting at Lena on Sabbath afternoon. Saturday night he helped the folk in their caroling program at Oconto Falls.

★ Brother Richard Roderick visited in Ohio, his former field of labor, for the Thanksgiving holiday.

For about the first five years the laundry work could be done during the afternoons. As the enrollment increased and more students began sending items for laundering, the time came when additional boxes were needed to accommodate these students' laundry. There was no room anywhere, so one of the guest rooms was made available. This included one more hallway to negotiate, and a troublesome door, not to mention the drafty and slamming doors. But it did give space for the necessary rows of boxes, two more ironing boards, and a table for folding. By this time we were working all day, with an occasional night shift.

For the past two years a young lady works every evening drying clothes and sprinkling for the next day's ironing. The dryer cannot otherwise keep up with the two washers.

A visitor once remarked: "I suppose you have one or two days a week just for washing." Since there are an average of 4,000 items of clothing being laundered every week, it is imperative that every phase of laundering be carried on every day. The young men send laundry the first of the week, and the young ladies send theirs on Wednesdays. Before one huge amount is finished, work on another has begun.

The boxes are shared by both dormitories, creating somewhat of a problem. Our rooms are small; we have very little folding space; we do not even have room for a mangle. Some of the old machines require repairs now and then. There are delays of one kind and another just at any unexpected and unwelcome time. In short, our situation is so inadequate that nothing short of well-organized effort and the cheerful cooperation of the laundry crew enables us to carry on.

The work seems to somehow get done, but we would like to be able to do it more efficiently. In the meantime, we are hoping and waiting for the laundry of our dreams—well, at least an improvement over the present set-up!

A Model School

For the past six years a great deal of effort has gone into the task of bringing the church schools of the Illinois Conference up to standard. The task has been one that has required much planning, promotion, and execution of assignments; yet it has been a very pleasant experience to see the school boards and the supporting churches respond to the challenge. Many of our faithful boards have devoted uncounted hours in meetings and planning committees. Church membership has supported the program faithfully. The results according to the last school-checking inspections have been gratifying.

The inspection of the schools before the close of last year's term revealed a fine advancement in grading results over the previous inspection completed in 1957. What does this mean? It indicates that needed teaching equipment has been provided. It shows that the physical plant has been improved and that needed furnishings have been supplied. The operational policies have been taken seriously, and the school management by the board and administration has been placed on a business-like basis. The teaching program has been elevated to a more effective approach in reaching the ideals and objectives of a productive training program.

All our schools reached the Standard rating. Several rated very close to the top. One school in particular deserves honorable citation.

The teaching personnel, under the principalship of Mrs. Edna G. Lodge, for the past six years has been organized carefully to bring about the highest rating for the West Suburban Consolidated School. The school board, under the consecutive chairmanships of Elders T. G. Herr, Eston Allen, and E. H. Moldrik, during these years has devoted much effort and time to support the efforts to make this school superior in rating.

Three years ago when the West Suburban school was moved to a new location and a new building was planned, it was designed and built to fulfill the requirements of a model plant. Teachers and board members have spared no effort to meet the objectives.

The recent completion of the cyclone fencing around the grounds, which closed in an area 180 feet by 636 feet, and the perfection of the landscaping of the grounds and playing area open the way to announce the welcome news that the West Suburban Consolidated S.D.A. School at Broadview, Ill., is rated by the Lake Union Conference and the Illinois Conference Educational Departments as A MODEL SCHOOL. A certificate to this effect has been issued by the Union Conference and will be posted on the bulletin board of the school.

We offer our congratulations to Mrs. Lodge, the outgoing principal, for her untiring efforts and efficient service that have greatly helped to make this school a model. We also recognize with gratefulness the willing devotion of the present chairman of the board, Eld. E. H. Moldrik, and the vice-chairman, Eld. Eston Allen. These men have worked day and night to make the program a success and to complete the finishing touches on the building and the grounds. I am sure God is pleased with the devotion of these faithful servants to the cause of Christian education and loyalty to the boys and girls of the churches which this school serves.

Fred Offenback, who has been a member of the teaching staff for the past three years, followed Mrs. Lodge as principal. Mr. Offenback's dedication to the program, and his devotion to the task of making this school even stronger, will insure a continuation of the advancement and achievement toward the full meaning of the term Model.

Your Young People Can Write

English IV at Indiana Academy is a writing course. We do much more than just writing, but everything that is done in class is designed to develop the writing and, in general, the communication talents of those enrolled in senior English.

Bruce Ronk

Who takes English IV? Indiana does not require four years of English for graduation in this state. Therefore, those in class are those seniors who feel a need to better prepare themselves for a college education.

It is not an easy class. Nevertheless, students can realize a real satisfaction as they see their ability in composition develop through the year—as they see the Student Echo in print each month, knowing that they have written it. As themes come back with better grades, they know they are developing a talent which will be invaluable in the following years.

It was encouraging to hear one of my students of last year, Anita Mann, comment that the course had been very helpful in preparation for freshman composition at E.M.C. Carol Perry's indomitable command of the language was harnessed last year, and during second semester she wrote some "pretty good stuff," to use an old editorial phrase. If you heard her valedictory speech at graduation, you know what I mean.

This year I have a crop of 20 novices who are trying out their wings at writing. Many are already showing real promise, and I look for one or two to pull down a Pen League prize this year. Donna Johnson shows good imagination and is quickly learning professional techniques of effective writing. Bob Getz is such an ambitious writer that he needs bridling occasionally. Jack Colclessier, when writing about athletics, rivals the talent of some newspapermen.

Journalistic writing is a major feature of the class. The Student Echo is entirely composed, edited, and laid out by the class, which doubles as the staff. Lynne Nelson, as editor-in-chief, along with other staff members, is gaining valuable training in news-writing and the work that goes into the production of any publication. Another staff member, Larry Cowles, pursues his interests by serving as the Echo photographer. He and Micky Nickless are in charge of our modern, completely furnished darkroom which boasts a new $300 Beseler enlarger, paid for by our publications' funds.

With much hard work and some fun thrown in, the class is learning a new medium of self-expression. Each is able to follow his own interests in areas of writing and take the words that you and I use every day and create something new, something beautiful.

Log Cabin Branch Sabbath School Started

Jesus said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." Our literature evangelists take these words to mean every house in the county, by the highways and by-ways.

In the course of his work, Brother Louis Ridgway, the Terre Haute literature evangelist, found a group in Seelyville, Ind., that desired a Branch Sabbath School. A log cabin was made available, rent free, and Sabbath school was begun.

The children and adults attended in such large numbers that larger quarters had to be found. Brother Ridgway located a building which could be rented reasonably. After a good cleaning, this larger and more suitable place is now being used. Members of the Terre Haute church are assisting Brother Ridgway in every possible way.

May the Lord richly bless this group and its leaders.

Is the Lord Calling You?

Dear church brethren and sisters, I believe there are many of you in this wonderful God-given truth who feel you must do something to win souls in these last days but know in your hearts that you are not doing enough. I know many of you feel the same way my wife and I felt more than a year ago. You feel the Lord has called you to be a literature evangelist, but you have many doubts that you would make a success. I believe most of your doubts stem from a fear that you could not meet your financial needs.

Dear people, God does not call you in His work for a failure; He assures us of all our needs. I would like to share my wonderful experience from entering this soul-winning work.

More than a year ago, right after my wife and I joined this truth, the Lord called us into this work, but I was doubtful and tried to put Him off with excuses from myself and what other people gave me.

We almost forgot about what the Lord wanted of us, and then came camp meeting. If your conscience is bothering you now because you are not doing the Lord's will, you will really be bothered there, because "where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty."

We decided to start full time in this work, the first week of camp meeting. We were really happy doing the Lord's will, and surely enjoyed that second week of camp meeting. We went home and started burning bridges, and the Lord started blessing. He has been blessing ever since.

We have seen many souls interested in this truth we love so much, and we are better off financially than we have ever been. I gave up what most other people and I thought was a good paying job. The Lord is a much better paymaster. I used to think I couldn't sell quarters for nickels, but I sold $528 worth of our truth-filled literature in one week, and more than $4,000 in four months.

I am not trying to tell you it is all easy. You will have many trials, but the Lord will bring you through victorious, much stronger for the next trial. This work, I believe, is a must for a real Christian life and for being near the Lord.

Jesus is going to finish this work with or without us, and I believe the literature evangelists are the greatest team in this work. Wouldn't you like to be a part of this great team in the finishing of this work?

LAURIN GARRISON

New Shelbyville Church Now in Use

The accompanying picture shows the Shelbyville church structure which is the result of five years of work and prayer. Happy indeed are the 30 members of the Shelbyville church to have a church of their own in which to meet.

The steel-frame, stone-exterior building will seat approximately 150 people. With an over-all dimension of 40 by 84 feet, it has cost approximately $27,000 to date, including the price of the nine-tenths-acre lot. With the structure facing State Highway 44, and in a good residential section just out of Shelbyville, it is felt that the location is excellent.

Now that the task of constructing a church edifice is virtually completed, we of Shelbyville ardently wish to turn our attention and energies to a great soul-winning program. We would appreciate your help in sending names and addresses of persons living in this area whom you know to be:

1. Former Seventh-day Adventists.
2. Persons who have learned some of our message in childhood, from study or from relatives, but who have never become members of the remnant church.

These names will be added to our "interest file," and the persons will be contacted regarding evangelistic meetings and special church activities in this area. Please send them to the writer of this article.

Our prayer is that we might double our membership here in 1961. To this end we invite your prayers.

played to do work that college and university students could have done. Other departments on the campus could also use more help.

Although statistics are not available regarding off-campus work, it is obvious that many are finding employment. Several students' wives are employed in the public school system. Others are working in hospitals and physicians offices in Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Niles, South Bend, and other surrounding communities. There are more calls for secretaries and nurses than can be filled. Considerable building is going on in the development of the campus and in the community and this provides work for a number of students.

The amount of labor available for graduate students has exceeded expectations. Anyone planning to attend Andrews University as a graduate student and desiring work should write or call Wilson Trickett, assistant business manager.

NEWS AND VIEWS

The New Andrews University Library

In harmony with an action of the Board of Trustees, the libraries belonging to Emmanuel Missionary College, the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, and the School of Graduate Studies will be merged into a central Andrews University Library, beginning with the autumn term, 1962.

To house this collection, which now totals 110,000 volumes, a new structure will be erected. The schedule calls for construction to begin in the spring of 1961. The new library will be a three-story structure, 204 feet by 90 feet, adequate to house over 200,000 volumes as well as reading rooms and auxiliary facilities. Provision is being made for the addition of stack space as need may require.

The building will be of brick, limestone, concrete, and steel construction in a design to blend with other campus buildings and similar to the Seminary-Administration building now nearing completion. The new library will face west directly across a mall toward the new Pioneer Memorial Church. Limited space precludes a floor plan with this article, but we are happy to publish an architect's front elevation.

This new library will serve all divisions of the Andrews University—the Seminary, the Graduate School, and the Undergraduate School—on an equal basis. The operation of the combined libraries will require a staff of eight or ten professional librarians in addition to as many or more student assistants.

Opportunities for Working Students

During the school year, 1959-60, the eight industries of the College provided a total of $611,000 worth of work. This represents a 300 per cent increase in ten years. While the larger part of this work was performed by undergraduate students, a demand has developed for the services of graduate students. They are in demand for such jobs as truck driving, night-watching, building trades, assisting in laboratories, teachers' assistants, supervisory work, and other positions requiring a greater degree of maturity and skill than is usually possessed by the undergraduate student.

University officials report that at the present time everybody, both in the graduate and undergraduate school, who wants a job is employed. At the beginning of the school year, 15 more men were needed in the College Wood Products, and prospective college students had to be em-
