It was a happy moment when the first signature was placed on the membership scroll for the new Elmhurst Church. Signing in is Robert L. Bruns. There were 32 charter members of the church.

WE WELCOME all the visitors to Sabbath School this morning—I guess that includes everyone, for there are no members. We're all visitors."

These were the introductory remarks by Eugene Elstrom, Sabbath School leader at Elmhurst, Ill., Nov. 3, 1962. Those in attendance at this Sabbath School were visitors from other churches in the Chicagoland area. The reason that they were all visitors was that this was the first meeting of the new Elmhurst Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Most of the "visitors" were from the Hinsdale Church, but others came from a variety of locations, some out of curiosity and others with serious intentions of becoming charter members.

How did the Elmhurst Church begin?

The idea for this church originated several years ago when increasing membership forced the Hinsdale Church to take a serious look at its crowded condition. The two church services found the church filled to capacity twice, some of the members coming from nearby suburbs of Chicago where there were no churches.

Two years ago the Hinsdale Church decided to trim down its membership by establishing a "foster" church in Downer's Grove. They anticipated 45 charter members but 70 actually showed up. The church now has almost 100 members and is formulating plans to construct a church home of its own.

Within three months of the forming of the Downer's Grove Church, Hinsdale was as crowded as before.

"As far as congregation size is concerned," stated Eld. R. D. Fearing, pastor, "we couldn't tell that a single member had left."

While the church officers watched with interest the growth of Downer's Grove, they began to lay plans for "swarming" again by creating another church in a nearby suburb. It was hoped that this effort would drain off additional members from the already overcrowded Hinsdale Church; but more important, it was hoped that such an undertaking would take the knowledge of the third angel's message to additional suburban areas where no Adventist churches are now located.

Under the chairmanship of Eugene Elstrom, a development committee be-

How to Decrease Your Church Membership

By GORDON ENGEN

Richard D. Fearing, pastor of the Hinsdale Church, has sparked the missionary endeavor of his populous congregation, encouraging them to establish Adventist lights in the communities in nearby Chicago suburbs. The new Elmhurst Church is the second such endeavor.

The Elmhurst congregation meets in the youth chapel of the First Congregational Church. More than 100 were present for the organization.

After the Elmhurst Church was formally declared to be in existence, a nominating committee (left) was chosen to select offices for their church. Right: Ordained as first elder of the Elmhurst Church was Dr. Joseph Zweig. Ministers participating are (left to right): C. L. Turner, pastor of the new church; R. D. Fearing, pastor of the Hinsdale Church; and W. A. Nelson, president of the Illinois Conference.

gan to lay plans for the new Elmhurst Church. Two years to the week end from the time that Downer's Grove was organized, the Hinsdale Church was again on the move.

Leading out in organizing the Elmhurst Church, 73rd in the Illinois Conference, were Conference President W. A. Nelson and conference Secretary-treasurer Elton Dessain. In his remarks to the new congregation, Elder Nelson observed that the conference officers and the sister churches in the conference will watch with interest the progress of this new church.

The Elmhurst Church has been established without expense to the Illinois Conference. However, as a token of its interest and support, the conference presented a gift of 25 church hymnals, a communion set, and offering plates to the congregation.

The slate of officers elected was as follows: first elder, Dr. J. M. Zweig; home missionary leader, Eugene Elstrom; treasurer, Mrs. Eugene Elstrom; clerk, Mrs. Vera Norman; Sabbath School superintendent, Mrs. Florence Ward; Sabbath School secretary, Mrs. Ruth Cessford; head deacon, John Cessford; head deaconess, Mrs. Jack Singer; organist, Mrs. Kay Zweig.

Even with the large membership of 900, Hinsdale keenly misses the absence of some of its staunch leaders who have formed the nucleus of the new church. However, they have taken the position that this is a good home missionary project, one which they hope will be adopted by other large churches in the United States.

To show their sincere motive in establishing the new church, the Hinsdale church board has voted to guarantee the church expense of the Elmhurst Church for the first two years of operation. By that time Hinsdale hopes that it can set another new church into operation in one of the many other Chicago suburbs not represented by an Adventist congregation. Of the 32 charter members, 75 per cent are from Hinsdale. Presently, there are 20 Adventists in Elmhurst and about 30 others living nearby.

"We are fortunate to have secured the lovely new youth auditorium of the First Congregational Church in Elmhurst in which to hold our services," stated Eld. Claude Turner, pastor of the new Downer's Grove and Elmhurst Churches. "Their cooperative spirit and low weekly rental fee has helped us feel welcome in this community."

"I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked" (LP 5061 and ST 061), featuring contralto soloist Barbara Morton Mote with the Mitselfelt Chorale and Orchestra, is an excellent rendition of truly fine performers.

numbers by Brahms, Bach, Franck, O'Hara, Malotte, and others in a variety of interesting arrangements.

Mrs. Mote has produced two other successful chapel records. The Mitzelfelt Chorale, a Los Angeles area S.D.A. Choir, is fast gaining a national reputation for their vocal beauty, technique, and precision. Chapel has done several releases of this group. Order through your local Book and Bible House.

"Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" (LP 5062 and ST 062). Those in the Lake Union who have enjoyed the organ music of Pastor and Mrs. Leonard Venden will be pleased to learn of this recent Chapel release. The originality in the arrangements of such standard favorites as "Does Jesus Care?" "In Heavenly Love Abiding," "Rock of Ages," and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" will appeal to those who enjoy hearing familiar hymns.

The Venden's spent a number of years in ministerial and educational work in Michigan. Those who know them personally will particularly want this record and others who like soothing Sabbath background music will find it most pleasing.

Ingathering Uncovers Interested Friends

Many of our believers in the Illinois Conference are now engaged in the important soul-winning endeavor known as Ingathering. The purpose of this annual project is two-fold: to extend the gospel through means of personal contacts and to extend the gospel world-wide through the funds solicited.

Through the years souls have been won to this message as a result of the Ingathering crusade. A great impact is made in the community as the people read what Seventh-day Adventists are doing far and near for suffering humanity.

Recently we received a letter from a lady who had been contacted by students from Broadview Academy on their October Ingathering Field Day. Her testimony is as follows:

"Dear Sir:

"One of your girls left a booklet These Times for a small contribution. As far as I can tell the only difference in the Seventh-day Adventists and my Free Methodist religion is the day you observe. I've been trying to learn the basic truth in each church. Do you have literature explaining your doctrines and how you came into being?

"Thank you and may the Lord bless you for your unselfish help to others.

Mrs. L.
Woodstock, Ill."

For more than 55 years Ingathering has been an important and necessary facet of the world-wide Seventh-day Adventist program. We heartily commend Ingathering as a means to search for honest souls.

PARENTS' EXCHANGE

To Husband and Wife

by THEODORE CARCICH
Vice-president of the North American Division

1. Keep up the courtship. Continue the early attentions. Study to advance each other's happiness. Marriage is the beginning, not the end, of love. Give it your best efforts.

2. However humble, make your own home. Relatives are wonderful (to visit), but not to make your home with.

3. Have children.

4. Plan and share home burdens, the care and training of children, finances, and recreation. Avoid secrets and counsel together often.

5. Maintain neatness in home and person. Love suffers in the midst of untidiness, soiled garments, dirty dishes, and disagreeable odors.

6. Don't be stingy. Remember the birthdays, anniversaries and gift days. Love cannot exist without expression.

7. Take a vacation together. Make it another honeymoon.

8. When things go wrong, as they sometimes will, keep smiling. Be kind in speech and action. Allow no sharpness to come into your voice.

9. Be sympathetic. Cultivate patience by practicing patience. Never let the sunset find you at variance with each other. Forgive and forbear and all will come out right.

10. Have morning and evening worship together. Attend Sabbath School and church together. Praying and worshipping together keep you together, here and in eternity.

For Teen-agers Only

Wouldn't you like to find out how you rate when it comes to personality? A good test is your relationship with your family. Here are a few pertinent questions. You be the judge.

Is my mother an unpaid maid who hangs up my clothes and puts my things away?

Am I lively in a crowd, but solemnly silent at home? Or do I share my best jokes and sweetest smiles with my own family?

Do I expect to be paid for everything I do around the house? If so, when was the last time I paid for a meal or a good night's rest?

If I brag that what my parents advise goes in one ear and out the other, is it because my head is empty?

I buy little luxuries for myself. Have I ever brought home a bag of candy for my kid brother or sister, or even Mom or Dad?

When I'm expected home at a certain hour and I realize I'm going to be unavoidably late, am I thoughtful enough to save Mom and Dad extra worry by phoning?

How explosive is my temper? Do I shout, sass, and argue when I don't get my way?

When Dad comes home from work, do I have a cheery greeting? Do I let him have the best chair for TV?

Do I show my parents that they can trust me before expecting them to give me the privileges that I want?

Are my parents really proud of me? Do I give them any reason to be proud? Or am I failing to use my talents and just coasting through school?

This quiz was made up by the teen-agers of the Aquinas High School in La Crosse, Wis.

What do you think should be added to this list? What should be omitted or changed? Send your suggestions to Archa O. Dart, General Conference of S.D.A., 6840 Eastern Avenue, N.W., Takoma Park, Washington 12, D.C.

Several times I have been asked, "Are you happy you took the Licensed Practical Nurse Course offered at the Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital?" And each time my answer has been an unqualified, "Yes." With God's help and that of devoted teachers I have learned how to care for the sick, encourage their loved ones, and do my part on the nursing team in the restoration of health.

Those without specialized training are often at a loss as to how best to care for a sick person. The practical nursing course has explained many underlying reasons for and fears associated with illness, and how to be of help.

Our year of training went by swiftly as each day brought fascinating new challenges in preparing for a worthwhile work. Time spent in study and in various departments of the hospital now produces a rich harvest as patients and visitors express their appreciation for the good care given by our L.P.N.'s.

The entire course was a challenge, but in looking back I see that in preparing to serve others I have also better prepared myself to serve Him.

I am happy for the privilege of passing on to the readers of this paper the deep feeling of satisfaction I have received as a result of taking the practical nursing course at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital. It has opened doors of Christian service as well as doors of opportunity.

In James 1:27 we read, "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world."

I believe that the course in practical nursing has helped me, through service to others, to better fit into the pattern of true religion as portrayed in the Word of God. Each day brings a rich, new experience with new avenues of learning and opportunities to serve presenting themselves.

This year of training to be a practical nurse stands out as one of the high lights of my life. I appreciate the dedicated help of Christian teachers and am grateful that the doors of this school were opened to me.

Idlewild, Michigan Church Dedication

On Saturday, October 27, the Idlewild, Mich., Church was the scene of a joyous occasion as the members of the church were joined by visiting friends from Chicago, Detroit, Coopersville, Reed City, and Ludington to participate in the dedication of the church.

High lights of the program included the reading of the scripture by Arthur Haynor, local elder of the Ludington Church; the opening prayer by Eld. C. E. Bradford, president of the Lake Region Conference; a vocal duet beautifully rendered by Miss Dorthella Dobbins and Mrs. Nina Hill of the Tabernacle A.M.E. Church, accompanied by Mrs. Pearl Marshall of the First Baptist Church; a presentation of the Church history by Mrs. Adria House; the dedicatory sermon by Eld. Jere D. Smith, president of the Lake Union Conference; the act of dedication by Pastor L. O. Anderson and the congregation; the dedicatory prayer by Eld. M. C. Van Putten, secretary-treasurer of the Lake Region Conference; and a vocal solo by Mrs. Laura McCall of the Christ Community Church who has been so very generous in the lending of her talents and time to the church on many other occasions.

It is with sincere gratitude in our hearts that we say, "To God be the Glory." When we think of our humble beginning, we are reminded of how tall oaks from tiny acorns grow, since with our heavenly Father at the helm, we were able to pay off the church debt in about four years instead of the six that were originally planned.

Reflection on the growth of the church brings to mind how the work was started when Elders Kagels of Cadillac and Charles Danforth of Reed City held evangelistic meetings in the U.N.I.A. Hall, where a tremendous interest was shown. Among those who contributed to this effort were the Arthur Haynor and Swan families of Ludington. When the effort closed Elder Higgs was sent to supervise the work, and he was followed by Elder Van Putten, who was the spark plug for our building program.

Pastor M. L. Eagans followed Elder Van Putten, and a number of additional souls were baptized into the church as a result of a tent effort conducted in 1960 with William H. Brown, Jr., assisting.

We have now arrived at this challenging mile-stone place in our progress under the leadership of Pastor L. O. Anderson, and as we give thanks and glory to God for what has been accomplished, we also solicit an interest in the prayers of our brethren as we continue to labor for souls in this part of the Lord's vineyard.

Michigan Teachers' Institute

Over 125 Michigan elementary, intermediate, and junior academy teachers met at St. Mary's Lake near Battle Creek, October 14 to 17, for their Annual Teachers' Convention.

Eld. G. M. Mathews from the General Conference spoke on "The Challenge of the 60's" for the opening address, and many times throughout the convention he gave valuable help in the sessions along lines of teaching children to listen and maintaining good discipline in an emotionally relaxed classroom.

Dr. Floyd Rittenhouse, president of Andrews University; Dr. Stanley Chace, assistant professor of education; and Miss Ruth Finck, director of elementary education; both from An-draws University, were also speakers.

Miss Kathryn McCully, representative from Scott Foresman, used two general sessions in teaching arithmetic and its importance.

The speakers at the devotional periods each morning were: Eld. G. E. Hutches, superintendent of education from the Union; Eld. Lawrence Cavinness, MV secretary from Michigan; and Eld. R. D. Moon, pastor of the Battle Creek Tabernacle Church.

Four teachers led out in various fields: Winifred Sheldon, Battle Creek; Russell Hartwell, Ithaca; and Duane Barnett of Grand Ledge had charge of a workshop period giving actual situations with children performing. Wendell Graham of Edenville demonstrated very beneficially how to weave physical education into elementary teaching.

Eld. G. E. Hutches met with the junior academy principals and teachers as they discussed their problems and exchanged ideas.

"This was an informative and useful institute," mentioned many teachers as they packed to go back to their schools.

Clothing Drive Successful

Our members throughout Michigan will be happy to learn of the results and outcome of our annual Fall Clothing Drive. Your response was heartwarming! Believe it or not, it enabled us to ship two 40-foot Interstate Vans to New York City with 22 tons of clothing, or 44,000 pounds! No doubt by the time you read these lines, the clothing will be in New York and much of it will be baled and on its way to serve calamity victims in need in overseas countries having disaster areas.

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our conference and welfare workers, for your enthusiastic support and faithfulness in behalf of helping to make Michigan's annual fall clothing drive an outstanding success. This is Christianity in action and is walking in the Master's steps with our compassion and ministry to those in need. For He says, "Inasmuch as you have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me." Matthew 25:24.

Let us continue to keep busy, going about doing good!

News Notes

★ Attendance at the evangelistic effort in Shelbyville being conducted by Alfred Kromminga and William Haynes is most encouraging. Prospects are good.

★ Eld. T. E. Unruh conducted the Week of Prayer at Southern Missionary College, October 26 to November 3. He reported an excellent response on the part of the entire college family.

★ All conference officers and departmental secretaries of the Indiana Conference joined in the Administrative Council held in the Lake Union Conference office, November 5 to 8. Plans for all departments for the year 1963 were studied and adopted.

★ Eld. Glenn H. Hill from Portsmouth, Ohio, has accepted a call to the Indiana Conference to serve as leader of the Bloomington district. The Hills will be moving to their new field of labor on November 20. They have a seven-year-old daughter, Patricia. We welcome them to Indiana.

★ Construction work has begun on the new South Bend Church. Dick Rogers, elder of the Frankfort Church, is the general contractor. It is hoped the new structure can be enclosed before the severe winter weather sets in.

★ The Gary English congregation has moved into their new church building. It has demanded much in effort and sacrifice to ready the building for occupancy. Eld. C. O. Kinder is the pastor.

★ Eld. Erwin Wandersleben has been appointed pastor of the Gary Spanish Church to fill the vacancy resulting from the acceptance of a call by Eld. Robert Gorransson to the Iowa Conference. Elder Wandersleben will spend week ends in Gary until he has completed his work at the Andrews University. Elder and Mrs. Wandersleben and family come from South America.

★ Ingathering in Indiana is getting under way. If every member of the conference participates, victory will be achieved in record time. Let us all unite in the objective of making Indiana a Silver Vanguard Conference by January 1. The Indiana Conference has started a Jasper Wayne Club. All who report $130 or more are eligible for membership. A membership list will be published.

★ Joseph Battistone, candidate for the B.D. degree at Andrews University, has been appointed assistant pastor of the Plymouth Church. He and Mrs. Battistone spend from Friday to Sunday with the church each week. His services are much appreciated.

★ Eld. James C. Vetter, pastor of the Evansville Church, checked into the hospital for gall bladder surgery on November 12. He will appreciate the prayers of our members for his speedy recovery.

★ The conference treasurer's report indicates that our members contributed $7,750.20 to the Million Dollar World Evangelism Offering this year. Recent reports also indicate a Voice of Prophecy offering of $2,542.04 and a Temperance Offering of $997.39. Tithe receipts for the month of October exceeded slightly the returns for the same month last year. In September, Timber Ridge Camp contributions exceeded $1,000 and in October $587.97 was the total contributed for the same project. For all this wonderful support we express a grateful thanks.

★ Eld. W. Melvin Adams, associate secretary of the Religious Liberty Department of the General Conference, and Gordon Engen, Lake Union Conference, will spend January 21 to 26 in Indiana conducting Religious Liberty Workshops. Definite appointments, times, and places will be announced soon. It is hoped that most of our members will have the opportunity of attending these workshops. Our liberties are in jeopardy.

Cicero Church Open House

A special open house service was held at the new Seventh-day Adventist Church on the Indiana Academy campus in Cicero, Ind., for the local communities on Sunday, Oct. 7, 1962, at 2 p.m. The Ministerial Associations of Arcadia and Cicero cooperated to bring out a fine group of people. The service which began promptly at two o'clock was preceded by a fine selection of music played by F. Keith Olsen on the Allen organ. Speakers taking part in the service included Elders T. E. Unruh and C. M. Willison from the Indiana Conference and Rev. Neil R. Anderson and Rev. Russell McInnis, presidents of the Ministerial Associations of Cicero and Arcadia respectively. Music for the occasion was given by Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Karlick, Diane Nelson, Mrs. Esther Little, F. Keith Olsen, and the Indiana Academy Choralanans.

The Cicero church was organized in October of 1920 in connection with the new Academy and had a charter membership of 47. During all these years the church services were held in various places at the Academy. A small building fund was started during the pastorate of Eld. L. L. Murphy. It was revived in the fall of 1956 in the beginning of the present pastorate, and construction on the church began in the spring of 1958. The new church has a seating capacity of 600 and approximate value of the building and furnishings is $150,000. About ninety per cent of the labor on the building was donated by the members.

The first worship service in the sanctuary was held on Nov. 25, 1961. The edifice is now complete with furnishings throughout, and all the landscaping and lawns are in. This church is a product of its members and stands as a memorial of faith and love.

Mammoth bones mounted for display. Science students of Andrews University played an active part in not only excavating the bones but also in preparing them for display.

Faculty and Students Help Excavate Mammoth

Remains of a Jefferson mammoth, a post-glacial grazing animal, were excavated recently near Andrews University by university scientists and students along with a University of Michigan paleontologist.

Farmer Wesley Prillwitz and crane operator Carl Harris were enlarging an irrigation pond near Eau Claire when they discovered a huge bone and temporarily halted work so that careful investigation might be made.

Dr. Asa Thoresen, assistant professor in the department of biological sciences, stated that Doctors Marsh, Ritland, and Roth of Andrews University were involved in the investigation along with 12 students from their classes. Dr. Thoresen did scuba diving in search for bones on the bottom of the pond.

"The bones found within eight feet of the surface include virtually the entire skeleton and is one of the two best specimens to be found in the state of Michigan," commented Dr. Richard Ritland of the Geoscience Research Institute. "Thirty-two mammoths have been discovered in Michigan," he added.

Andrews University scientists are co-operating with paleontologists from the University of Michigan in dating the skeletal remains. After the bones have studied they are slated to be returned to Berrien County, where they will, no doubt, be assembled for display at Andrews University.

The excavator estimates that the specimen stood between eight and nine feet at the shoulder and weighed nearly four tons. The tusked animal roamed the American plain much as elephants on other continents, and were considered as eating delicacy by early Indians, according to a recent National Geographic study.

Registrars Attend Association Meeting

Dyre Dyresen, registrar; Mrs. Betty Kidder, assistant registrar; and Mrs. Lois McGaughey, assistant to the registrar; attended the annual meeting of the Michigan Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers held at the Ferris Institute in Big Rapids on November 13 and 14.

In connection with the annual meeting, there were workshops dealing with practical aspects of the work in the registrar's office such as admissions policies, foreign students' transcript evaluation, data processing equipment, statistical procedures, legal regulations regarding transcripts, the registrar's relationship to government offices, etc.

Mr. Dyresen has attended several previous meetings of the MACRAO and is an active member of the special projects committee. He has also represented MACRAO on the joint committee of MACRAO and the Michigan Association of Secondary-School Principals.

This was the first time Mrs. Kidder and Mrs. McGaughey have attended the meeting of the Michigan Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers.

Seminary Field Work Boasts Strong Program

Sixty-six students attending the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary this semester are gaining extensive church leadership experience in serving 22 pastors in 34 surrounding churches, according to Eld. E. C. Banks, field work program co-ordinator and acting head of Andrews University's Applied Theology Department.

Serving churches within a one-hundred-mile radius, Seminary students participate in varied church activities of the Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois Conferences. Primarily stressing on-the-spot training for future ministers, the program also provides the benefit of classroom guidance once each week when students assemble to discuss actual situations and the corresponding role of ministry.

Because of the students' heavy study loads as well as the distance factor, ministers involved gear their church activities to the week end, allowing the student to better gain wide experience in ministerial duties. Weekday participation is encouraged for special activities as evangelistic efforts and Ingathering.

During the months of September at least ten class members have had occasion to take part in Michigan evangelistic campaigns. Meetings have been held in Coldwater under the direction of Eld. Roger Holley, Ohio Conference evangelist. Eld. Bruce Johnston, assistant professor of homiletics, has recently completed a Hartford campaign. Five further series are planned in the immediate future.

University officials observe that the location of the institution is particularly advantageous for conducting a strong program of this type, as the abundance of church districts in the area offers opportunity for considerable practical training.

"It is the purpose of our program," commented Elder Banks, "to combine practical experience with classroom theory. We feel that in this way the student receives a balanced perspective of the ministry while at the seminary, thus enabling him to serve God and man."

Dr. E. S. Chace, Assistant Professor of Education at Andrews University and Coordinator of the Conference.

Educational Conference Scheduled Jan. 3 to 24, 1963

"The Image and Role of the Educational Superintendent" will be the general theme of study in an intensive Andrews University educational conference slated for Jan. 3 to 24, 1963.

Directed primarily to meet the needs of Seventh-day Adventist superintendents of education on the local conference level, the event will also be open to graduate students in education. "Two hours of graduate credit may be earned by qualified persons," according to Dr. E. S. Chace, assistant professor of education and co-ordinator of the conference.

Highlights of the three-week program include qualified speakers and field trips which will take the participants to places of interest in the surrounding area. Trips will include direct observation of ungraded schools in the Chicago district, a tour of the unique school plant at Carson City, Mich., and the opportunity to examine new school furniture design.

An added feature of the conference will be the establishment of a closed circuit television system on the campus whereby direct observation of laboratory school teaching methods may be observed by all participants.

"Our department has sought to create a program that will delineate the specific role of the Seventh-day Adventist superintendent; a role that involves varied activities and responsibilities," said Dr. Chace. "Rather than cutting out a facsimile of the public school superintendents, our goal is the development of a new and distinctive Seventh-day Adventist school superintendent."

Further information concerning this conference may be obtained by writing to Dr. E. S. Chace, Department of Education, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Mich.

Indiana Academy Science Classes

Science classes at Indiana Academy are taught with the aims of discovery, understanding, and appreciation: the discovery of the "why" of things, the understanding of the "how" of things, and the appreciation of the great mind behind all the physical making of our universe.

The young people are taught to analyze opinions and theories and to form their own conclusions concerning the scientific evidences and theories advanced, which, if not analyzed critically, could destroy the true perspective of the Creator and his creation.

The science classes have a pleasant, up-to-date laboratory with new materials being added to supplement and give practical application to the material they learn in the classroom. The students in the science classes at Indiana Academy, "Where Christianity is a way of life," are kept informed on the current trends and discoveries in the world about them that they may be able to live understanding and useful lives where Christianity is an integral part of their lives, and doubts concerning divine origin of the universe through fundamentalistic concepts of the Bible need not bother them or shake their faith.
