The Passing of Dr. T. Housel Jemison

by F. O. RITTENHOUSE, President, Andrews University

FEBRUARY 12, Lincoln's birthday, otherwise a bright and pleasant day at Andrews University, turned suddenly to grief and sadness when at noon it was announced that Dr. T. Housel Jemison, chairman of the Department of Education, had unexpectedly expired.

News of this regrettable event came as a shock for it was not generally known that a recurring illness had recently forced a reduction in Dr. Jemison's teaching load and had obliged him to resign the departmental chairmanship. Even the few who knew something of this expected that he would continue as a member of the teaching staff as recommended by the university administration and approved by the Board of Trustees on February 5. Dr. Jemison's affliction was complicated by severe headaches, arthritis, and a most painful bone calcification of the feet.

In spite of these severe handicaps, he insisted on carrying forward faithfully his duties until without explanation (See JEMISON DIES, on page 14)

Apostle to the Fiji Islands

by W. R. L. SCRAGG, Sabbath School Secretary, Australasian Division

"Paulaisi, my old friend, why is it that you have left our church and are preaching for the Adventists? What has gone wrong? Is not the church of your father good enough for you?"

It was a European missionary of some standing who asked this question of a former preacher in his church, Paulaisi Bunoa.

"It is because they have shown me the truth that I worship with the Adventists. They keep God's holy day, the Sabbath, as the Bible tells us to," replied Paulaisi. "If you can give me one text from that Bible under your arm that tells me to keep Sunday, then I will give up keeping the Sabbath and come back to church on Sunday."

"But," protested the missionary, "our church is bigger and older than the Adventists. We have thousands more followers than your little church. Surely this is proof of God's blessing."

Replied the dark-skinned and fuzzy-haired Fijian, "Tell me from the Book, not just from your mouth. What constitutes a blessing? Is it numbers? Daniel was only one in the lion's den, yet he had the blessing of God."

The missionary was silent but the fearless Fijian, erect and noble of bearing continued earnestly as he took the missionary's hand:

"There is a judgment approaching. You are not the judge and I am not the judge. If then in the great judgment I am found to be wrong, I will lay the charge upon Moses who, under God's instruction, gave the Law of God to the people in the wilderness. I will lay the blame upon Jesus Christ who kept the Sabbath and gave not a word of any change. I will lay the blame upon Paul the great Apostle to the Gentiles for his teaching and example in meeting with the people upon the Sabbath day. Now, if you are wrong who will you lay the blame upon?"

Who was Paulaisi? How was it that he had made the change that led him to this truth? The only way we can answer this is by looking for a moment at the man who was responsible for his conversion.

Pastor J. E. Fulton was one of God's great men. As a missionary he knew no equal. Though he passed away many years ago his work still lives on throughout the scattered islands of the Central Pacific Union Mission of our church. He was a real pioneer. Fighting continually against ignorance, heathenism, prejudice, and disease he built a foundation upon which the work of God daily grows stronger in the Pacific.

Within a few months of his arrival in Fiji in 1895 he was able to report large numbers won to the message. He translated the message into the language of the people. He mastered the language so completely that the natives found his accent well-nigh perfect. Even today many of his hymns are sung in Adventist churches in Fiji, Tonga, and Samoa.

In these children and young people rests the hope of Fiji. Many boys and girls such as these await your response this coming Thirteenth Sabbath to provide them with adequate educational facilities.

Taking a strong stand against liquor, tobacco, swine's flesh, and the narcotic drink—kava—the Adventist church under his leadership acquired a new and unusual name. The people called it "na lotu sava-sava." Literally translated this means "the clean church." Even today it is referred to by this name.

This winsome evangelist and missionary was greatly loved and respected by Europeans and natives alike. Through him one of the high chiefs of Fiji, the king of Suva was converted. This man, Ratu Ambrose, was a man of deep humility.

The prospect of him participating in the ordinance of humility left the members of the church, who were all his subjects, filled with awe and wonder. "Who amongst us can fellowship with the chief and whose feet will he wash?" they asked.

However, at the appropriate moment Ratu Ambrose took the basin, girded himself with a towel, and selected a fisherman from the congregation. He started to wash his feet. Timothy, the layman, greatly embarrassed said, "O sir, you are our chief and you come to me a commoner!"

Ambrose replied, "There is only one chief here today. It is the Lord Jesus."

Truly J. E. Fulton was the Advent

Apostle to the Fiji Islands. It was not without sacrifice that he laboured. Within sight of our headquarters at Suva Vou, Fiji, there is a little mound of earth with a headstone that reads "Georgie Fulton." The only son of Pastor and Mrs. Fulton, this lad, aged only six, was snatched from them by an epidemic of dysentery.

Self forgetful and hard working, it is no wonder that this man was a powerful influence for good in these remote islands. It is no wonder that today there is a strong and well-established work in these islands and other lands of the South Seas. It is also no wonder that when a training college for the whole mission field of the south seas was to be established the name chosen should be Fulton Missionary College.

Today, though inadequate in buildings and amenities, this college carries on the proud tradition of J. E. Fulton. From its huts and somewhat primitive buildings each year go excellently trained and educated young people from the many island groups. They too sacrifice and labour unselfishly that the task begun years ago by pioneer Adventist missionaries may soon be finished. It is this task that we each share in as we sacrifice our time, our efforts, and means to hasten the gospel to every corner of the world. It is this task that you will share in a special sense when you give your offering on Thirteenth Sabbath of this first quarter of 1963.

1962 $10,000 Literature Evangelists

Year by year the list of $10,000 men and women keeps growing in the Lake Union. Our final report shows that the 23 top literature evangelists in the Lake Union delivered almost $300,000 worth of truth-filled literature in the homes of the Lake Union. We anticipate that in 1963 we will perhaps double the number of $10,000 workers in our union.

We want to salute these dear workers for a job well done:

The problems which the Seventh-day Adventist church must solve as it faces the wider challenges of responsibilities in the mid-sixties will be discussed by a group of the denomination's theologians on Friday night, March 1, at the White Memorial Church, Los Angeles.

This is the opening program of the Thirty-first Annual Alumni Postgraduate Convention, sponsored by the Alumni Association of the Loma Linda University School of Medicine. Scientific meetings will extend through March 9.

With the topic "Whither the Church?" five outstanding members of the faculties of the two universities—Andrews and Loma Linda—will review certain significant aspects of the history of the Seventh-day Adventist Movement and will take a frank look at the serious issues facing the church after nearly a century and quarter of growth. Particular attention will be given to the role of the church's educational centers—medical and others—in assisting the church to achieve its goals. In the light of recent decisions affecting the future of the medical school, the evening's discussion should be stimulating and informative and highly relevant.

Religion teachers participating include three from Loma Linda University, Dr. Jack W. Provonsha, Prof. A. Graham Maxwell, and David H. Cotton, and two from Andrews, Professors Edward Heppenstall and Earle Hilgert.

Are We Concerned With Souls?

Life's fortunes seem to hinge many times on a very insignificant turn. We have difficulty, it seems, in properly evaluating the present. We either "wallow in the past," as Henry Ford once said, or live in an imaginary air castle of the future.

A poet wrote, "Now is the only time you own. Live, love, toil with a will. Place no faith in tomorrow for the clock may then be still."

Young people should be encouraged to choose early with careful thought their course of life. It is very difficult to turn another way when one is committed in the channel of life's affairs. How many would change their type of work if they could. Frustration abounds because of early commitments that are later regretted, and there is no turning back. It may be wrong courses in school, untimely marriage, unhappy employment, financial mistakes, and all too soon it is too late to rectify anything. An early commitment to a way of life to please God is the only safe course. We can then know how life will be "in the end thereof."

The prophet asks, "Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not? Is. 55:2. "Ye are bought with a price; be not ye the servants of men." I Cor. 7:23.

We are well aware that the peak age of baptisms among us is 12. According to the averages in survey, 62 per cent of the eligible young people in our churches are unbaptized. How will we answer for the youth who are going into the world from our homes and our churches?

I wonder sometimes if we might not be like those Jesus spoke of in Matthew 23:15 where He says, "Ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte." While we are doing this, 62 per cent of our eligible youth for baptism are outside. Baptism, of course, does not save them or guarantee it, but it would show a much greater interest on the part of those of us who are older if we were to take care of that 62 per cent. We must let them know that we are concerned with their souls and their eternal destiny.

A song we used to use frequently from Christ in Song comes to mind: "Oh, could we make our doubts remove those gloomy doubts that arise And see the Caanan that we love with unclouded eyes.

Could we but climb where Moses stood and face the landscape o'er
Not all this world's pretended good could ever charm us more."

Make Your Camp Meeting Plans Now

We announce once again the date of our 1963 camp meeting. The date is June 6 to 16. Preparations are now being made for another helpful gathering. As the end of all things approaches, we shall be wise if "we forsake not the assembling of ourselves together." We cannot afford to be casual about our preparation for eternity. So plan your vacations to coincide with the dates of camp meeting, and plan to join with others in seeking for a real spiritual uplift.

We have confidence that the program will list many visiting speakers who can bring to our encampment real spiritual leadership. A list of speakers will be announced at a later date.

Housing will be at a premium as usual. Shortly there will appear in the HERALD a reservation blank for your convenience. The locating committee will do its best to meet all requests. A recent action of the committee stipulates that the girls' dormitory will be reserved for adults and young people above 14 years of age.

To get the most out of camp meeting we must set our hearts to seek the Lord. His promise is—"Ye shall seek Me and find Me when ye shall search for Me with all your heart." That promise is for God's people today. Plan to be at camp meeting.

Bible House Notes

"Go West Young Man, Go West," were the words that beckoned many in years gone by. Even now as you speed over the highways in a matter of days—it then required months—you cannot help but marvel at the great uninhabited areas of our country. In fact it would probably be more accurate to say you are struck with awe as you consider the vastness and the nothingness that divide our country.

Pushed back into the dreariest and most uninhabited portion is a group of American natives that constitute a mission field within our midst. Surrounded by wealth and prosperity on the east and west, north and south, they cling tenaciously to a way of life that we cannot fathom.

Some of you who have traveled through the Navajo country will find new interest in a portion that before has been mere dread, as you become acquainted with Ned through the pages written by Betty Stirling. To you who have never seen more than pictures of this land, I would recommend this word picture through the eyes of one who has spent time living with them and learning their ways, as she writes this most interesting book for juniors.

A wonderful story of a young Navajo, his life on the reservation, sheltered by an adobe hogan and a blanket door; of his sheep and goat, and especially Old Whiskers; of the songs and sandpaintings; of the fried bread and bean soup; of the heat and cold; of the frustrations of a small boy in a changing world. You will thrill at the adventures of this little Navajo and rejoice that the love of Christ reaches all people. I am sure that after reading this book you will want to see mission work in action the next time you have an opportunity. So why don't you drop us a line, see your Missionary secretary, or pick up your copy from either the Bible House at Cicero or Indianapolis. It only costs $3.50 plus postage and is attractively bound with full-color cover and has numerous line drawings.

Eloise Priser, left, received top honors at I.A. in the Homemaker of Tomorrow search by Betty Crocker as determined by a test given to the senior girls. Carol Ferguson, right, has been appointed coed correspondent for the homemaking classes of I.A.

Room for One More Student

Carol Ferguson and Eloise Priser, two I.A. seniors, have recently received special honors for their interest and faithful work in homemaking classes this year. These same two girls wrote outstanding papers on child care and how patterns are made, respectively, to fulfill their requirements for Home Economics III the first semester. Indiana Academy is offering Home Economics III for the first time this school year because of the insistence of a half dozen senior girls who wanted to take it. The second semester finds the class full. Most of these girls did not know how to knit but they had "always" wanted to learn. The result—four sweaters and several lesser projects are replacing a sewing project.

All three sections of Home Economics I are bursting at the seams. These classes are no longer a "woman's world" for three boys (two juniors and one senior) are learning how to arrange rooms for comfort, convenience, and beauty as well as how to prepare balanced meals.

Home Economics II has room for one more student, but the girls are glad for this means less sharing on the seven sewing machines as they make dresses for themselves.

Even though the homemaking classes are the only ones that did not receive a place in the new Administration building, everyone is rejoicing in the rumor that some major redecoration projects are to be begun soon in the Home Economics Department.

Walter-Jones Team in Indiana

There is great joy in Evansville, Ind. And there is joy in heaven over souls who have taken their stand for Christ during the three-week campaign just completed by the "Christ for the World" Evangelistic team.

We would like to share with the readers of the HERALD some of our thrilling experiences during this campaign.

One lady had attended Eld. George Vandeman's meeting here about 13 years ago. She was convinced of the truth, but because of serious opposition from her husband she didn't have the courage to take her stand. Some church member mailed her a handbill telling of our meetings to come. She recognized them to be Adventist meetings and told her husband she was going to attend if she had to walk. To her amazement he came with her. She took her stand and was baptized on the third Sabbath of the series. She continues to express her joy in serving the Lord. Her husband believes the truth, and we are praying that he, too, will follow Jesus.

As nearly as we can determine, a child picked up a handbill on the street and took it into the house. His mother saw it on the table and read it. This was in the middle of the first week of the series. She never missed a night after that. At the time, her husband was working nights, but that week end he changed shifts, and she persuaded him to attend the meetings. During the first call she took her stand. Her husband followed after attending more meetings, and the young people plan to be baptized in our next baptism. What a thrill!

One older lady had never attended an Adventist church. She thought Adventists were odd people who taught poisonous doctrine. Another non-member asked her to attend just one meeting and if she didn't like it she need not go again. She only missed one night after that, and both ladies plan to become members of the Adventist church. We praise God for His love and power.

The team is planning to start a campaign in the New Albany and Jeffersonville area beginning February 23. If you know the names of ex-Adventists or definite interests in that area whom you would like invited to the meetings, please send their names and addresses to Eld. Clif Walter, General Delivery, New Albany, Ind.

Area Workshops for Indiana Teachers

Special workshops are being conducted for the 44 church school teachers of the conference. The first was held on Monday, February 4, at the beautiful new two-room school in Anderson. The teachers from the central portion of the state were present. Eld. John O. Herr, pastor of the Anderson district, had the devotional.

The core of the day's program consisted of a re-study of our S.D.A. philosophy and educational objectives. The teachers came prepared for this study by bringing their personal copies of Education, Counsels to Parents and Teachers, Fundamentals of Christian Education, and Child Guidance.

John O. Herr

The Home and School organization provided a delicious noonday meal for the visitors. This was served in the large recreation room in the basement. After lunch the teachers made good use of the recreational facilities.

A second workshop will be held in the Gary Church School on February 18. This will serve the teachers of the northern part of the state.

The third and last meeting will be held in the Seymour School on March

4. Those attending this study group will be teachers from the southern portion of the state. Attendance at these meetings is not required. However, the teachers always put forth the effort necessary to attend. There is a fine spirit of unity among the Indiana teachers. They enjoy the opportunity to fellowship together at the time of these professional meetings.

Workers' Meeting

The first workers' meeting for the conference office staff, ministers, and Bible instructors was held on January 7 at the conference office chapel auditorium, at which time the conference missionary theme for 1963 was presented for adoption by the conference president as "ABLAZE FOR GOD IN '63."

Guest speaker for the occasion was Eld. E. E. Cleveland, associate secretary of the Ministerial Department of the General Conference.

The main subject of this workers' meeting was evangelism, and as Eld. C. E. Bradford, conference president, projected a soul-winning goal of 700 new believers to be baptized in 1963. Every worker was challenged to a maximum endeavor for the enlisting of the cooperation of the laymen in their several districts in making 1963 a record soul-winning year for God.

Ten Persons Baptized in Benton Harbor Area

A baptism was held Jan. 5, 1963, at the Colfax Seventh-day Adventist Church, with Benton Harbor, Kalamazoo, and Dowagiac taking part in the ceremony. Ten souls were baptized. Six of these were brought into the Benton Harbor Church, with the help of Nathaniel Walton, local elder.

Capitol Avenue Church Reports

The Capitol Avenue Church of Indianapolis, Ind., although being delayed in starting their Ingathering campaign, reports that they were able to sing the victory song in approximately four weeks. The church membership rallied under the leadership of their pastor, Eld. D. C. Batson, and worked with an accelerated zeal not only for the purpose of obtaining their financial goal, but also with the prayerful purpose of making available literature to the citizens of their community.

The Ingathering Victory Banquet was held on Sunday evening, January 20, at which time they had as their special guest Elders Xavier Butler, Lake Region Conference Home Missionary secretary, and H. W. Kibble, former Lake Region Conference president, now Home Missionary secretary of the Northeastern Conference.

The Church reported 106 Silver Vanguard goals reached with 31 persons having reached more than two Silver Vanguard goals, and the top solicitor reaching more than two Jasper Wayne goals of $270. One member of the church, although confined to a wheel chair, solicited $70 and the youth of the church were valiant in their service with some reporting up to $100 raised.

The success of the banquet was assured by the delicious food prepared and served by the food committee.

This missionary adventure for God again proved to the membership of the church how good God is and the availability of His power for those who labor for Him in His vineyard. The membership invites everyone to join with them in prayer for God's continued blessings as they attempt greater achievements for Him.

Youth Rally

The week end of March 1 to 3 will find almost a thousand people in district 5 traveling to Bay City for the annual youth rally to be held in the Scottish Rite Cathedral. A committee under the leadership of R. L. Hutchinson has arranged a program that will provide inspirational messages and uplifting music by gifted and talented personnel.

The visiting workers include Elders N. C. Wilson of the Michigan Conference, Fred Beavon of the Lake Union Conference, Bruce Johnston of Andrews University, and L. C. Caviness and W. S. Edsell of the Michigan Conference.

The youth will be challenged with the theme of the rally "Choose Ye This Day." Permission has been granted by Arthur Haynor for the use of his unpublished song, "Choose Ye," as the rally theme song.

All churches in district 5 will be closed for this week end as a transportation plan is being worked out in each church so that every member will have the opportunity of attending this rally.

Gladden-Pyke Wedding

Winnifred Gladden and Leland Richard Pyke were united in marriage on the evening of Oct. 28, 1962, in the chapel of Seminary Hall at Andrews University. The bride was given in marriage by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Gladden of Berrien Springs, Mich.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Hoosier room of the new cafeteria. Many friends and relatives were present to wish the happy couple God's richest blessings as they continue their preparation for His service.

Winnifred and Richard left for their new home at College Place, Wash., the following week, and enjoyed their honeymoon while traveling across the continent.

The couple will continue their studies at Walla Walla College. Winnifred is studying to be a Bible instructor, and Richard is preparing for the ministry.

In their dedication to God and one another, they will find the happiness and peace that will make their home a living expression of "that perfect love".

Morning Manna February 17 to 23

This week we move into Deuteronomy. Three books of Moses are now finished. Doesn't it feel good to have been reading every day!

There is no better way to start the day than to keep the Morning Watch. Read the Bible in 1963. This is our goal for all Missionary Volunteers and their friends.

New Workers for Conference

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Remmers and daughter, Susan, recently joined the staff of workers of the Wisconsin Conference where Mr. Remmers is assistant treasurer.

Investment Records Broken Again!

The 1962 Investment reports for Wisconsin totaled $19,864.19. This surpasses all previous records. We thank the Lord for His blessings, and we wish to express our appreciation to our members, young people, and children for taking part in this wonderful project in raising additional funds for missions.

Seventy Sabbath Schools participated in the Investment program last year. What would our total have been if the eleven other Sabbath Schools had shared in this project? Dear fellow member, if you had no Investment project last year, won't you promise the Lord right now that you will select some project and go into partnership with God to raise additional funds for missions beyond your present income? Now is the time to plan, pray, and begin working.

The needs were never greater nor the calls for help more urgent. Let us work while it is still day. Our aim for 1963 is 100 per cent participation. Our goal is an average of $5 per member. With our willing participation and with God's blessing we can reach our objective.

Every-Member Canvass Program

A call from Eld. L. A. Pomeroy indicates that the Lena Church is going courageously forward in a program to raise money to reach their academy goal and either remodel their present church building or construct a new one.

W. R. Alger is working with the Wausau Church where an Every-Member Canvass is being conducted to reach the academy goal and build a new school.

Herman Bauman is directing a canvass in Tomahawk. A call from these men indicates that they are meeting with wonderful success. A goal of $6,350 has been set and an early victory is virtually assured.

Eld. L. R. Ellison is working with Duane Longfellow at Oxford where a goal of $11,200 has been set for the benefit of the academy and local church improvement.

Dean Hubbard is directing a canvass at Sparta. He and John Holstein report a strong program in development there.

Eld. Kurt Kurz and Eld. L. D. Jaecks are working with the Chippewa Falls Church in a program of academy promotion.

Eld. S. F. Pedersen reports that the church board at Madison has voted to have an Every-Member Canvass for local building improvement and also to reach the academy goal.

A. W. Bauer and Elmer Rasmussen will be meeting with the Janesville Church to set up a plan for academy promotion.

There are other churches that are waiting for a canvass director. Reports of progressive programs from them will be forthcoming.

Annual Workers' Meeting

The Wisconsin Conference workers gathered at the Madison Seventh-day Adventist Church for their annual workers' meeting January 27 to 31. This was a most profitable gathering.

Leading out in instruction in evangelism was Eld. E. E. Cleveland, associate secretary of the Ministerial Association of the General Conference. His work was greatly appreciated by the workers. In the evening, beginning on Saturday night, Elder Cleveland conducted revival services for the members and general public. These were exceptionally well attended and were enjoyed by all who came.

Eld. C. H. Turner, Church Development secretary of the Wisconsin Conference, gave a number of hours of instruction in fund raising to the Wisconsin workers in preparation for a conference-wide academy promotional program during the months of February and March. This campaign is for the purpose of raising money for the $200,000 fund for the Wisconsin Academy administration building. All churches in the conference are being encouraged to set up definite plans to reach their academy goals as soon as possible. The workers are going out with a great deal of enthusiasm to finish this project that is so important to the education of our boys and girls.

Others bringing instruction and inspiration to the workers at their meeting were: Eld. Melvin Adams of the Religious Liberty Department of the General Conference, Eld. R. J. Christian from the Periodical Department of the Southern Publishing Association, Eld. F. A. Soper, editor of Listen magazine, Dr. Elaine Giddings, head of the Speech Department of Emmanuel Missionary College, and also the following from the Lake Union Conference: Eld. J. D. Smith, president; Eld. E. S. Cubley, auditor; Eld. Fred Beavon, Missionary Volunteer secretary; Eld. G. E. Hutches, Educational secretary; and Eld. J. W. Proctor, Publishing secretary. R. E. Delighted Workers

The lower divisions with their leaders in the Baraboo Sabbath School chose as their investment project the saving of Buffalo nickels. The coins were pasted on two plywood buffaloes. The children also had other projects such as home duties, collecting empty pop bottles, and change from parents' pay checks. The investment totaled $22.40.

The children were diligent workers, and the Lord blessed their efforts.

I Believe in Modern Miracles

The second miracle of grace began in 1959. Eld. J. B. Church was the pastor in Milwaukee and Herman Bauman was serving as intern under him. A plan was formulated to start a branch Sunday School and church service each Sunday morning in a vacant church on the east side of the city and call it the "Bible Chapel." There were special lesson quarterlies, divisions for the children, etc. Invitations were delivered in person to scores of families in that area, but from the very first Sunday the attendance was far from being spectacular. There was, however, one little girl about eight years of age named Priscilla who came faithfully each week. The pastors visited her family on several occasions, but they did not attend the church more than once or twice. After approximately three months, Priscilla having been the only one who had been really faithful in attending, the "Bible Chapel" closed its doors. It was, from all obvious evidences, a failure.

About two and one-half years elapsed with the "Bible Chapel" being little more than an occasionally recurring memory. Then came the summer of 1962 and that Green Bay evangelistic campaign. After the very first meeting of the crusade, Ray FitzGerald, a literature evangelist in the Green Bay area, came up to Evangelist Bauman and said, "I have someone here I'd like you to meet." And there, standing beside him, was Priscilla! But Priscilla wasn't alone this time. With her were her parents and her two brothers.

During the more than two years that had gone by, many things had happened. Priscilla Harrington and her family had moved from Milwaukee to Green Bay, due to Mr. Harrington's work. In the intervening time, Brother FitzGerald had contacted them and had sold them a large number of books. Then when the handbills for the evangelistic effort were sent out and the newspaper ads appeared, they saw the pictures of those who were conducting the crusade. In amazement, they discovered, "Why that's 'Reverend' Bauman from the 'Bible Chapel'!" The entire family came to nearly every meeting and we praise God for the loving and powerful working of His Spirit on their hearts. All five of them were baptized into the family of God.

Just a few days ago a letter from them stated that all three children are in church school and Mrs. Harrington is the school cook. Where is there a greater miracle than in a family united like this in the truth of God?!

Yes, there was a branch Sunday School that ended in apparent failure, a little girl with a great love for Jesus, a move by a family to a new city, a contact by a dedicated colporteur, a picture in a news ad, a series of evangelistic meetings, and through it all the working of the Spirit of God. The result—five precious souls added to God's kingdom. Surely we can all agree, "The Lord works in mysterious ways His wonders to perform."

Guidance and Counseling at Broadview Academy

"To restore in man the image of his Maker, to bring him back to the perfection in which he was created, to promote the development of body, mind and soul that the divine purity in his Creator might be realized—this was to be work of redemption. This is the object of education, the great object of life."—Education, pp. 15-16.

These lines clearly state the objectives of the guidance program at Broadview Academy. It is our purpose to bring the student and teacher together in a setting where the student can be guided: first, into a vital growing Christian experience; second, into a well-adjusted life; third, into a successful scholastic program; fourth, into selecting a vocation that will honor God and be of service to his fellow men; and fifth, into selecting guiding principles in his social life that will eventually bring him the happiness of a Christian family.

The school has set aside a budget for the purchase of equipment and materials for this work. Realizing that guidance involves much more than testing and the keeping of records, time has been set aside for each student to have a personal interview with a teacher-counselor six times during the school year. Our school home deans and the Bible teachers schedule student counseling appointments with students throughout the school year. In addition the teachers have made time available each day for personal work with students. Time is set aside at faculty meeting to study better ways of realizing the highest goals in guiding our youth into this life as well as the after life.

What rich opportunities are to be found for both teacher and student at the academy! J. H. ZACHARY

Grassy Lake Camp Meeting

It is not too early now to make your plans to attend Little Grassy Lake camp meeting, June 12 to 15, 1963.

The General and Union Conferences send excellent help. Our local conference workers will be there. A regular camp meeting program is conducted, and the early morning meeting is one of the most popular. There are cabins or tents available, plenty of trailer spaces, and opportunity to pitch your own tent. There are clean, sanitary rest rooms with plenty of hot water and free showers. By arrangement on Friday, or earlier, regular home-style meals will be available in the cafeteria on Sabbath.

If you would rather stay in an air-conditioned motel, there are several available in Giant City State Park, about five miles away, and others including a new Holiday Inn at Carbondale, about seven miles away.

For the young people there are certain times for swimming and boating, bird hiking, and even star study with powerful telescopes.

You and your family and friends are invited. You must be there! Write to the treasurer's office for further information and reservations. Just tell us what you want. You do not need to send any money now.

Christian Home Week

Christian Home Day is slated by the General Conference for February 16. The topic for that day, "The Home a School," is one of the most important for the year 1963. Everyone who desires to live in the home above will make this day all that it should be.

There will be plenty of activity in the church schools during Christian Home Week, February 16 to 23. No doubt you already have been invited to visit your church school to see the children in some of their "home" activities this week. Be sure to look over the albums they will have on display in the church on Sabbath, February 23.

If you are near one of our academies or colleges you will enjoy listening to the speeches, stories, and discussions by these young people. Many of the neighboring churches are inviting them to conduct a Christian Home program in the local church. If you are fortunate to belong to one of these churches be sure to attend. Your presence will encourage these young people also.

Relationships

The Teenager

Question: The teachers at school are always talking about my poor relationship with others as if it were a disgrace or something. But I like to be myself. Why can't people leave me alone?

Answer: Our relationship with others is something like a barometer whereby we can tell what kind of person we really are, whether stormy or fair, saint or sinner, sane or insane. When a person considers everyone his enemy, is suspicious of his neighbors, and jealous of his friends, we say he is insane. When an individual shows respect for his parents and teachers, is congenial with his friends, and considerate of others both older and younger, he is usually sane.

A child of God always has good relationships. There are no exceptions. In other words he keeps the ten commandments. His relationship to God is revealed by the way he keeps the first four commandments. His relationship to his home and relatives is revealed by the way he keeps the fifth. His relationship to all people is revealed by the way he keeps the last five commandments. The way one relates himself to others determines what kind of person he is.

MV Day—MV Week

The most important day and week of the year for youth will soon be here. A wonderful opportunity for revival and reclaiming of lost youth come with this day and week. March 16 is MV Day, a day set apart by the General Conference especially for youth. It is a day to be observed in all churches throughout the world field. On this day a special youth sermon is to be given from every pulpit. In most churches it will be the day to launch the program for MV Week which is to follow. March 16 to 23 should be a week of inspiration, reclamation and dedication for our youth. In many instances there will be baptisms resulting from the efforts of this important week. Prior to this week, it would be well to organize the youth of the church into "Friendship Teams." These teams should make contact with any youth who once were with the church and have now grown lax or slipped away. It would be well for these teams to report experiences gained in their contacts during the MV meetings and to join MV officers in a prayer band seeking the working of the Holy Spirit in behalf of those they hope to reclaim.

In some areas plans are underway to have an exchange of pulpits by the ministers on MV Day and guest ministers participating during the week of revival. Whatever your plan for MV Day and Week, our prayer is that it will be the most outstanding and spiritually refreshing MV Day and Week your church has experienced.

The MV Department of each conference has available a Guide Book called Youth Revival Evangelism outlining the type of revival series conducted so successfully by Eld. F. L. Minchin. This is an ideal plan to use before and during MV Week. Why not write your MV Department for a copy of this guide book. Following MV Week, a report will be called for with a query as to the number of meetings held, whether or not MV Day was observed, number of young people joining baptismal classes, ministers participating, etc. This report goes to the local conference, is then forwarded on to the Union and the General Conference. It is hoped that when these reports come in this year, they will give evidence of 100 per cent participation by churches in the Lake Union and that many youth have taken a new and firmer stand for Christ.

Jemison Dies

tion or warning he drove to his home on the campus where several hours later he was found dead. When the autopsy is performed the exact cause of death will be known. Interment arrangements are not complete at this date but it is expected that he will be buried in Washington, D.C.

Although this deplorable event removes from the faculty a gifted, competent, and devoted teacher who will be sorely missed, the influence of his Godly life and solid achievement will go on. In order that his host of former students, acquaintances, and friends may appreciate what Dr. Jemison accomplished we give here a brief résumé of his life and achievements.

Dr. Jemison was born on Oct. 27, 1914, in Trenton, N.J. In 1931 he completed his high school education at Schenley High School, Pittsburgh, Pa. During the depression he worked at a hospital in Colorado where he came in contact with two Seventh-day Adventist women on the staff. This contact resulted in his accepting the Adventist faith and he was baptized in 1933.

After graduating with a B.A. degree from Pacific Union College in 1939, Dr. Jemison received his Master's degree from the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary in 1948, and 12 years later was granted the Ph.D. degree by the University of Maryland.

Dr. Jemison was married to Hedwig Nagele in Oakland, Calif., on May 21, 1939. To this union was born Barbara Marie who at present is a senior home economics major at Andrews University and for the past four years has been a student laboratory assistant in the department.

His first field of labor after graduating from college was as a ministerial intern in the Northern California Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. He was ordained to the gospel ministry in 1942.

Since 1941, to the time of his passing, Dr. Jemison devoted his life to educating Seventh-day Adventist youth. He has taught in the Bible departments of Loma Linda Academy, Lodi Academy, Pacific Union College, Union College, and in the Theological Seminary when located both on the Takoma Park and Berrien Springs campuses.

For a brief time in 1955 and 1956 he lent a helping hand as principal to the newly opened Blue Mountain Academy at Hamburg, Pa.

During the four-year period from 1953 to 1955, Dr. Jemison laid aside the duties of classroom teaching and took up the pen and authored three of the basic Bible textbooks used in Seventh-day Adventist academies and colleges, A Prophet Among You, Facing Life, and Christian Beliefs.

While researching for the book A Prophet Among You, he also served as associate secretary of the Ellen G. White Publications in Takoma Park.

At the time of his passing, Dr. Jemison was serving as professor of education and chairman of the Department of Education at Andrews University, a position he had held since 1960.

Dr. Jemison was a member of a number of professional and learned societies. He was in constant demand as a lecturer and was a recognized authority on the life and writings of Ellen G. White.

The surviving are: father, C. E. Jemison of Trenton, N.J.; mother, Mrs. Helen Hunsiker of Baltimore, Md.; brother, C. W. Jemison of Trenton, N.J.; sister, Mrs. Marita Lynn of Trenton, N.J.; wife, Hedwig Nagele-Jemison; and daughter, Barbara Marie.

In 1939 they suffered the loss of their youngest son Gerald Robert who passed away at the age of one and a half years.

He was married to Elouise Wilson in 1910, and to this union were added two girls and three boys. Following his attendance at a series of meetings conducted by Eld. J. K. Humphreys, held in New York City, he accepted the Advent message and joined the church in 1915.

In the same year of 1915 Brother Goodman moved to Detroit, Mich. MYERS, Mary M., was born Aug. 28, 1878, at LaCrosse, Ohio, and was laid to rest Dec. 6, 1962, at the age of 84. Mrs. Myers was baptized shortly before her death following several months of Bible studies by one of the laymen of the church. She believed so fully in what she studied that even though she was very sick in the hospital she still wanted to be baptized. This special baptism was conducted in the hospital. She was then able to rest peacefully, and a short time later she truly fell asleep in Jesus.

Five sons survive her death: Mark Brown of Toledo, Ohio; Melvin Brown of Jacksonville, Fla.; Floyd Myers, Bryce Myers, and Earl Myers of Vestaburg, Mich. She also leaves 11 grandchildren, five great grandchildren, and one sister, Sarah Ann Hartford of Toledo, Ohio.

Seminar Held for Pastors of Berrien County

Professor C. E. Wittschiebe, Andrews University Professor of Pastoral Care, has just completed directing a series of five seminars dealing with pastoral counseling of high school students. Under the auspices of the Berrien County Council of Churches the seminars were held at Andrews University and attended by eighteen clergymen of Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish faiths, and local high school counselors.

Groundwork for the seminars was laid by a committee under the direction of Leroy H. Fassett, Pastor of the Scaddale Evangelical United Brethren Church. He stated that the seminars were intended to point up the responsibility of the pastor in adolescent counseling and to develop a working relation between high school counselors and the spiritual leaders in the community.

Gift of Prophecy Discussed in Seminary Winter Retreat

The third annual Andrews University Winter Retreat was held the Sabbath of February 9 at Buchanan, Michigan's Camp Madron. Attended by 225 graduate and seminary faculty and students, the retreat featured topics and discussions related to the Gift of Prophecy as manifested in the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Sabbath School and church services, as well as the afternoon's "Conversation," and vesper hour supported this central theme. The Sabbath School lesson, presented by Dr. E. Stanley Chace, assistant professor of Education of the graduate school, had been specifically prepared for the day and distributed as an outline to the groups for study the previous week. At the worship service Dr. W. G. C. Murdoch, dean of the Seminary, pointed to various instances in his working experience supporting the belief that Ellen G. White possessed the prophetic gift.

Mrs. Morna Bada, student counselor at Niles High School, a participant, expressed appreciation to Andrews University and to the County Council of Churches for responding to requests of clergymen who wish to better prepare themselves in meeting needs of the high school student.

At the end of the series of five two-hour seminars an evaluation committee voted that an extended program be offered in the near future. "Attendance at these seminars demonstrated that there is a felt need for increased study in this area," commented Wittschiebe.
