OFFICIAL ORGAN OF THE LAKE UNION CONFERENCE OF SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS

THE LAYMEN of the church hold the key to successful evangelism.

This is the belief of Indiana's evangelistic team, Clif Walter and Monty Jones, who have just completed a rewarding three-week series in Anderson.

"We prefer to hold our meetings," they declare, "in areas where there is an active Adventist congregation, places where members have many friends in the community, and where Adventists themselves are representative of the faith they profess."

An evangelistic team is primarily a harvesting team. They are specialists in helping people make decisions. "It is rare to find a new interest and obtain a decision in just three weeks," explains Elder Walter.

Months of preparation are needed by the local congregation before the evangelists arrive. They generally plan to begin their on-location operation one week before the actual meetings begin and remain for one week after the conclusion of the campaign.

"This is why nothing takes the place of the dependable laymen of the church, the ones who have been faithful in sowing the seed, the ones who can be counted on to bring their friends night after night to the meetings, and the ones who will make the new members feel at home after the team leaves," Elder Walter pointed out.

The Anderson campaign marked number five since the team arrived in Indiana in January of this year. Next on the list is Fort Wayne, then Marion. Succeeding locations are yet in the planning stage.

Meetings begin each evening with a 15- to 20-minute motion picture of one segment of Elder Walter's trip around the world. Twenty minutes of music follows under the direction of singer Monty Jones. The versatile foursome

Elder and Mrs. Clif Walter, left, and Mr. and Mrs. Monty Jones often present mixed quartet numbers for the meetings.

Pastor and Mrs. Monty Jones lead out in the musical portion of the program. Transposing or improvising are no problem for Mrs. Jones, even at unexpected moments in the middle of a duet or trio. The smoothly flowing tenor voice of Pastor Jones inspires the audience to join in the singing.

Before Elder Walter goes onto the platform his wife checks to see that he is properly wired for sound. The cordless microphone he uses enables him to move freely about the platform. The wire Mrs. Walter holds is the antenna. His voice is picked up by a small radio receiver on the amplifier.

Folding chairs were brought in to handle the overflow audience on one of the peak nights of the Anderson crusade.

presents vocal solos, duets, trios, and quartets in many combinations during the musical portion of the program. Jones, a guitar player with a dance band before becoming an Adventist, uses his "converted" guitar for glory to God now on occasion in the evangelistic meetings. Flannel and chalk pictures illuminated with black light help give added meaning to the music.

The sermon lasts about 45 minutes. In a calm, forceful, and logical manner, Elder Walter presents the doctrines from the Scriptures as the audience follows in the gift Bibles given them as they came. These Bibles are picked up each night and redistributed the following night. Record is kept of the attendance in this way. When a person

LAKE REGION

Nine Evangelistic Meetings In Progress

In keeping with our conference-wide plan of evangelism, nine campaigns are now in progress. I have had the privilege of visiting several of these meetings. In spite of rain which has caused some concern, the meetings are off to a good start.

Elders B. F. Reaves and X. Butler are off to a fine beginning on Chicago's west side where over 400,000 of our people are waiting for the message. Evangelists Earl Moore, pastors C. A. Myers and Simon Johnson and company are sounding the battle cry to a full tent in Altgeld Gardens on Chicago's far south side. Elders S. D. Meyers and T. M. Kelly and company are preaching to a packed tent each night on Chicago's south central side. The devil has been busy, but God has prevailed and His work is being preached with power in the Chicago-land area.

In Gary, Ind., Eld. Samuel Flagg and company have had good attendance thus far and the interest is good here for a rich harvest. Eld. D. C. Batson, veteran evangelist, and his company are proclaiming the message to a good audience each night. Pastor L. O. Anderson and his company are off to an excellent beginning in Muskegon, Mich., where the message of a soon-coming Saviour is being proclaimed. Pastor Robert Jones is conducting a series of lectures in a school auditorium in Monroe, Mich. He writes that a good audience is attending. I had the privilege of visiting our farthest evangelist outpost where Pastor Gerald Wells and his company are holding the fort. This company is off to a good start with everyone of good courage. Eld. C. F. Warren of the Burns Avenue Church has begun a three-week series in his church in Detroit.

I am making a special appeal to the constituency to pray that God will pour out His Spirit upon His workers as they proclaim His soon coming to people who need Christ, and that pentecostal blessings will be the results of these meetings. A detailed report will be made at a later date as the efforts progress.

August 17, Education Day

Sabbath, August 17, has been designated by the General Conference as Education Day in all Seventh-day Adventist churches of North America. A special Education Day Program has been prepared by the Education Department of the General Conference, a copy of which has been sent to every minister, school board chairman, and home and school leader of the conference.

On this special education day, the writer plans to be at our Sharon Church in Milwaukee, where a church school is to be opened in September under the leadership of Eld. E. S. Dillett.

It is our hope that every minister of the conference will magnify this Christian Education Day and urge every parent to work toward getting his children in the church school where the Bible is made the foundation of education.

In every church of the conference, a special elementary education offering is to be taken and sent to the conference treasurer to assist in our educational promotion of elementary schools.

Farewell to Browns

For the past five years Eld. and Mrs. V. C. Brown and their three boys have been a part of our school family at Indiana Academy. During this time, Elder Brown has been head of the Bible department and carried various extra-curricular responsibilities.

Elder Brown has now accepted a call to Southern Missionary College where he will teach Bible in the academy. They are leaving Indiana in early August.

We will miss the Browns from our school family, but we wish them heaven's richest blessings as they move to their new home and take up their responsibilities there.

New Staff Members at I.A.

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Whitney and family

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Whitney

There has been much prayer and careful searching "behind the scenes" during the last few months so that the right individuals might be selected to fill vacancies on the Indiana Academy staff for the coming year.

We are happy to announce that Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Whitney have accepted the invitation to join our school family. Mr. Whitney will serve as head of the Bible department, and Mrs. Whitney will teach home economics.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Whitney hold bachelor's degrees from Pacific Union College. Brother Whitney also has an M.A. from Andrews University and has taken considerable work toward the bachelor of divinity degree. He served for two years as a minister in the Arizona Conference.

Two small daughters, ages one and three, complete the Whitney family. We give them a hearty welcome to Indiana Academy. We believe the Lord has directed in their decision to come here, and under His leadership we know that their service will be a blessing to the young people of our school.

Miss Bonnie Nutt

We are happy to announce that Miss Bonnie Nutt has accepted the invitation to serve as dean of girls and school nurse at Indiana Academy for the coming year.

has attended ten meetings, the Bible is his. Many times more than half of the audience may be made up of non-Adventists.

Eld. Clif Walter, brother of Michigan's Evangelist Elden Walter, graduated from Walla Walla College in 1952. Mrs. Walter has a B.S. in nursing education, but since her husband has been in evangelism, she has not had much opportunity to follow her nursing career, for she lends her musical ability to the meetings as pianist. The Walters have two girls, Rose Marie, 13, and Kathy, 9.

Prior to entering the ministry in the Oregon Conference Elder Walter taught church school in Bend, Ore., and was dean of boys at Gem State Academy. He was ordained to the ministry in 1958 and entered evangelistic work in Oregon.

In 1959 he joined his brother in Arizona and together they held meetings for 18 months until his brother was called to Michigan. Clif Walter then stayed in Arizona for two years with his partner Ed Jones, singing evangelist.

When he accepted the call to Indiana in 1963 he could not get far from the name "Jones," for he teamed up with another Jones—Monty Jones, a 1957 graduate of Pacific Union College.

For the past four and one-half years, Jones has been pursuing his favorite occupation—evangelism through music. After teaching church school for a year in Las Vegas, Nev., he went to Oregon where he worked with Elders Floyd Bresee and Lee Kretz in evangelism.

Mrs. Jones is an indispensable member of the team. As organist she is on duty seven days a week when she is not busy keeping up with three little Joneses—Marilyn, 5; David, 2½; and Greg, 1½.

Living in house trailers, moving every few weeks, having few moments to call their own—these are some of the inconveniences taken in stride by the evangelistic team. The rewards are far greater. To see 50, 40, 20, or even 1 person accept Christ after a series makes the discomforts and inconveniences fade into insignificance.

A Century of Miracles

Six-year-old Susan can't read yet, but she loves "A Century of Miracles." Granddad's eyes aren't what they used to be, but he, too finds "A Century of Miracles" irresistible. Teen-ager Tom would rather look at "A Century of Miracles" than play tennis, and Mom leaves the dishes soaking in the sink for a few minutes while she sneaks another glance at "A Century of Miracles."

What's so extraordinary about this new book? Just this: "A Century of Miracles" tells the thrilling story of the Seventh-day Adventist Church around the world in large, colorful pictures something like those in the well-known "Life" books. From the beautiful colored photo of the Monument Valley Mission on the cover, through to the last view of Pitcairn Island, 190 pictures later, this book is too fascinating to put down. You will want to keep a copy in your living room, and you will wish extra copies for gifts.

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

Inter-Union Curriculum Workshop Meets

Four unions were represented at the Curriculum Workshop for Seventh-day Adventist Elementary Schools held at Andrews University between the dates of June 17 and Aug. 2, 1963.

The purpose of the workshop was to evaluate and revise existing programs offered in the elementary schools. Especially stressed during the seven-week period were fields involving science, mathematics, and health. A curriculum guide containing suggestions of approach to the various subjects will be duplicated and given to elementary teachers of the unions represented.

A similar curriculum guide was produced last summer for areas of Bible and social studies. The current workshop group, now benefited by teacher evaluation and limited classroom use of the materials, revised the guide and plans that it be printed for extensive use.

Directing the workshop was Miss Ethel Johnson, Columbia Union Conference supervisor of elementary education. "We have been happy for this opportunity to strengthen these areas of our elementary school programs, and look forward to the possibility of concentrating on art and language arts classwork in the near future," she said.

We thrill with the words of Rupert Brooke as he departed for the bitter battle of Gallipoli: "Now God be thanked, who hath matched us with this hour." And it is because of its dedication to the purpose of presenting stalwart youth who are a match for these troublesome hours that Andrews University confronts its students with the challenges of self-direction, self-discipline, and self-control.

Self-direction and self-discipline will yield spiritual, academic and social returns which will be an asset to the future and a credit to the present. Self-control insures a college career of maximum efficiency. The final outcome will be young men and women who will grasp the opportunities of any hour in any crisis. Our student government at Andrews University and our student personnel program are directed toward these goals.

To assist all students in understanding the goals of our school, the specific elements of student life and government are carefully presented in the newly revised student handbook, which will soon be off the press. It is a condensation of those policies which reflect

Historical Michigan Tour

Sixty-five persons from the Andrews University community participated in a two-day, 350-mile trip visiting key points in early Seventh-day Adventist denominational history in central and western Michigan. The tour was directed by Eld. Arthur White, grandson of Ellen G. White and secretary of the White Estate.

Points of interest included in the tour were: Battle Creek area; the home of Joseph Bates; the Wright Church, the first Seventh-day Adventist church in Michigan and the site of the first general campmeeting.

Participants agreed that the high light of the tour was the sundown worship service held at the site of the first campmeeting.

"The Sabbath vesper service with campfire, songs, and stories of the pioneers was a most impressive way to conclude a very educational and inspiring tour," one A. U. student said.

Lightning Strikes Library

During a severe electrical storm on Friday, August 2, lightning burned two pencil-size holes in the roof of the James White Library allowing rain water to penetrate the building. Approximately 180 volumes in the history and biographical section of the library were water damaged. The estimated cost of replacing the books is $1,000. Minor damage was inflicted on the building.

the spirit of this school and the standards of the church, and it is of particular importance to new students. All parents should also be familiar with this booklet.

Still further direction will be given to the new student during the orientation week, September 16 to 20. Dramatic emphasis will be given to such topics as Christian Culture, God Is Your Partner, Discipline Yourself, and Matching Wits With the Teachers.

God has blessed us with this hour. At Andrews University we encourage self-direction that will sustain our youth in this day of challenge.
