WINNER IN CONTEST

Governor Romney Awards Certificate

Carolyn Scully, a senior student at Battle Creek Academy, traveled to the state capitol building in Lansing on Tuesday, April 7, for an appointment with Governor George Romney. She was one of five young ladies to receive a certificate of merit from the state's chief executive for having written a winning essay on "Hiring the Handicapped."

The governor's committee, headed by Judson Perkins of Muskegon, sponsored the campaign in cooperation with a similar committee appointed by the president of the United States. Each high school submitted its best essay to a local committee to be judged. The local committee in turn sent its winning essay to the state committee which selected the five best entries. The first prize winner will be sent to Washington, D. C., where the national contest winner will be announced in June.

Carolyn's essay, "Ability Counts," was the winner in the Battle Creek area, and also received third prize in the state judging. Her parents, pastor and Mrs. Orval R. Scully of the Delton and Urandale Churches, were with her as she received congratulations from the governor.

As Mr. Romney presented each contestant with her certificate of award, he questioned her as to her source material and method of composition. After Carolyn had made her explanation, Mr. Perkins mentioned that the student had lived most of her life in South America where her parents were missionaries until 1961. Mr. Romney recalled his visit to the Adventist campgrounds in 1962, and he ended the interview by speaking a few words to Carolyn in Spanish.

Each of the five winners was given a United States savings bond in addition to the certificate of award.

A.T.S. National Convention Slated for August 19 to 22

All members of the American Temperance Society should be planning now to attend the society's Fifth National Convention this summer at a beautiful nature retreat in New York State from August 19 to 22. To be held at Camp Berkshire, a 300-acre get-away-from-it-all convention-vacation site, the convention will be only 75 miles from the New York World's Fair.

If you are temperance secretary in your church, you are an official delegate to the A.T.S. Convention.

If you are one who has always been interested in the temperance phase of the third angel's message, you won't want to pass up this exciting opportunity to learn more about a fascinating challenge that must be met.

Attend the A.T.S. convention and come prepared for an unforgettable experience. The temperance message now shines out more brightly than ever before in the world today.

At the convention you will learn new techniques helping you to more effectively use the temperance work in your church and your community. One of the evening programs will be a "Tobacco Night," where a controversial subject will be discussed lucidly by experts.

These problems of drinking, smoking, and narcotics use will be discussed thoroughly during these meetings, with both help for victims and prevention of the problems being stressed.

Such prominent personalities as Dr. Lois Higgins, president of the International Association of Women Police; and Dr. Tom Shipp, authority on pastoral counseling of alcoholics and author of the new book, Helping the Alcoholic and His Family, will appear at the convention.

Recreational opportunities at Camp Berkshire are almost unlimited. You will have a choice of swimming, boating, handball, tennis, softball, basketball, or golf on a beautiful nine-hole golf course. And, of course, the World's Fair is only 75 miles away and transportation is readily available for those wanting to bring the entire family.

Registration is $10 per delegate and this includes an A.T.S. Working Manual, special new materials in the field of temperance, and one adult ticket to the World's Fair. Additional adult and children's tickets can be secured from the A.T.S. at discount rates.

Housing facilities include a hotel, a series of motel-type cabins, and rooms in the lodges. Meals will be served at regular hours at the Camp Berkshire Cafeteria. Detailed information and basic costs are available in brochure form from your conference temperance secretary.

So—

If you would like to make temperance more tantalizing in your church and in your community, if you would like to study a program of prevention and rehabilitation, if you would enjoy taking your vacation this year at a beautiful nature site, if you want to see the World's Fair, perhaps with the family, you are invited to plan now to attend the Fifth National Convention of the American Temperance Society at Camp Berkshire from August 19 to 22.

All you have to do is write now to your conference temperance secretary for an application form. Let us now heed the command of Isaiah to "undo the heavy burdens . . . [and] let the oppressed go free." Isaiah.

Prepare for the Future at Camp Doss

Have you had the training so necessary to your possible induction into the armed services? If there is any chance that you will be entering service within the next few years, it will be to your definite advantage to gain the experience and training offered at Camp Doss June 9 to 23.

We are very fortunate here in the Lake Union to have the National Medical Cadet Camp in our own territory. Hundreds of young men have traveled across the continent to avail themselves of the valuable instruction offered at Camp Doss. You will not have this travel expense this year. Next year it is the plan to move Camp Doss to a different area. Now is the time to take advantage of this valuable training.

Check the information on Camp Doss below, then clip out the application form now while you think of it and mail it in. FRED BEAVON

Costs

Camp Fee: The camp fee of $35 includes: (1) Application fee of $1.00 sent with the application, (2) Board, (3) Room, (4) The use of fatigue uniform and other camp equipment during the period of camp, (5) The use of all books required for the course, (6) All insignia to be placed on the uniform, (7) All certificates and chevrons that are earned, (8) Accident insurance while going to, attending, and returning from the camp.

Other Costs—these items include:

(1) Uniform items purchased at camp amounting to approximately $3.50, (2) An estimated $1.00 for laundering the "Class A" uniform once, (3) Sabbath School and church offerings, (4) Other personal items.

Why M.C.C. Training?

Sabbath observance and a belief in noncombatancy bring some definite problems to Seventh-day Adventists when in the military forces. These problems are kept to a minimum because of Medical Cadet training, though they are ever present. The knowledge of how to meet them, and the knowledge of what the position of the church is on these subjects, is invaluable to a young man facing military service. Camp Doss is operated by the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists to answer these questions for its young men in the United States who face possible military service through the Selective Service System.

Courses Offered

Basic Training—"Military": Drill and marching, military courtesy, military intelligence, military justice, organization of the army, etc.; "Medical": Standard Red Cross first aid, military sanitation and prevention of diseases, etc.; "Character Guidance": principles of governmental relationships and noncombatancy, Sabbath observance in the armed forces, etc.

Advanced Training—prerequisite: A thorough knowledge of the basic course as shown by a personal interview and test at camp. This is an intensive course in the techniques of the medical soldier, including leadership training.

Officers' Training—Limited to those sent by union conference M.C.C. advisory committees to qualify as M.C.C. instructors. This course will begin at 8 a.m. Sunday, June 7, and will close at 5 p.m. Tuesday, June 23. Those planning for this course should enter into personal correspondence with the camp commander. This should be addressed in care of the General Conference National Service Organization, 6840 Eastern Avenue N.W., Washington, D.C., 20012.

Who Can Come

For practical reasons attendance at Camp Doss is limited to those young men of the church who will be in at least the eleventh grade the following school year, or who have reached their 16th birthday. Any others wishing to attend should make a request to the camp commander. This should be addressed in care of the General Conference National Service Organization, 6840 Eastern Avenue N.W., Washington, D.C., 20012.

How to Get to Camp

EYEWITNESS ACCOUNT DESCRIBES

Nation's Most Violent Earthquake

by JOSEPH C. HANSEN, President, Alaskan Mission

No doubt you would be interested in a first-hand report of the nation's most violent earthquake. But first let me say how thankful all of us are up here for God's protecting care. All have lost something—some only a few dollars in monetary value, others nearly all their possessions, but all Alaskans are still thankful.

As the damage is viewed one wonders how so many could escape without more lives lost or being injured. One cannot help but feel thankful for God's protecting hand. It was there.

According to the jammed clock in the post office it was 5:36 and 20 seconds "Good Friday" afternoon. I had just returned from a trip and needed some pressing. I was late for the cleaners so decided to do the job myself. We heard a slight rumble. The steam iron fell over and drained water on the floor. I set it up again and then felt the floor move.

"Great! an earthquake. We are in for a little fun!" I had scarcely spoken when I realized I was receiving more than I had bargained for. My mother was washing dishes. The dishes in the kitchen sink bounced out and hit the floor. The chandeliers were swinging and breaking. We got down on the floor. I tried to stay up on my hands and knees so I could look out. I managed some of the time but got bounced down to the floor several times. None of us stayed at one spot—the rolling effect of the quake flipped us around the room. Looking out the window we could see the ground roll up in front of us and houses like strange boats riding out an even stranger storm.

The five minutes of the quake are indescribable. Three times I thought the quake was over only to get up and get tossed about the room again. On each violent "explosion" I thought the house would fall apart, but it didn't. Irwin secured himself on the floor by the outside wall. He had to dodge a large plant, a table lamp, and a large chair. I guess the house kept tilting over in his direction.

When it was all over we ran out of the house and were thankful that our neighborhood looked so good. People were rushing out of their homes and as they came they gave a report of no one hurt "in my house."

All at once people started yelling, "Penney's! Look at Penney's!" Just a few blocks from us this $5,000,000 pride of Anchorage had been ripped apart. One look told a story of death. The outer walls, of great ornamental concrete slabs, had sheared off and tumbled into the street covering people and cars. When we got there we witnessed a volunteer crew cutting a woman out of a new car. (The top was smashed to within 18 inches of the ground.) She was alive! The building appeared too dangerous to enter. The next two days the dead were carried out of this building.

We walked over to Fourth Avenue. This is the amusement center—it had been called the longest bar in the world. The north half of the street, with its buildings, had dropped from 15 to 30 feet. It looked like a giant elevator had gone down one or two floors, depending on the spot. Cars were still parked by the curbs unmoved except to be 15-30 feet lower than before.

The whole Fourth Avenue was wrecked and many buildings on Fifth and Sixth were also damaged beyond repair. It was a sickening sight.

When we returned home I found my chimney in the front yard. I checked our church next door. It was undamaged. It was a real contrast to the business section which is only a block or two away.

Pastor Gary Strunk had left town that afternoon for a meeting at Palmer. Mrs. Strunk had been home alone. Her experience was too frightening to stay alone, so she had gone over to our house. She had been in their basement when the quake came. She was unable to get up the stairs and was knocked down several times. The basement floor kept breaking up and she said it sounded like machine gun fire. Huge slides had blocked the road so her husband was unable to return until the next afternoon.

Sundown worship was long overdue as we gathered around the large circle of friends at our house. My Bible opened to the 24th chapter of Matthew, "And there shall be earthquakes . . ." I was immediately stopped, "Let's read something else," someone complained. We read the 91st Psalm. I'll agree it was more comforting! The privilege of prayer now seemed especially good.

Through the night (went to bed at 12:30) we listened to the news reports. An SAS flight chief was at International Airport when the quake took place. He reported the place in shambles. Several jets had taken off just a few minutes before and the tower had cleared one to land. It was coming in when the pilot saw the tower smash to the ground. He decided to take off and landed at some other point. This SAS man reported that he had seen the worst bomb damage in Europe, but had not seen anything like this. He was in his office and decided to get out. As he opened his door he was met by a large safe coming at him. He said he decided this would be the wrong way out, so jumped through a plate glass window—some women went through also. They had only minor cuts.

The next day I drove out to see Anchorage's beautiful residential section—homes in the $40,000 to $70,000 class. It was smashed. It is impossible to describe what I saw. There has been a lot written about this, but you just do not get the description. People have gone back to look for their houses—they might find it two blocks from where it originally stood. His neighbor's house might have been on the right to begin with and now it is on the left. One house—four children side—was shattered into three sections. The kitchen was over forty feet from the rest of the house—all occupants were alive.

A couple living in a trailer house had to get out during the quake. They crawled on the ground, side by side, and the earth cracked open between them and then closed up again. They thought they would be pulled into the crack by the quick snap and the suction of air. This continued several times and each time the gap was larger and deeper. Each time it closed sand and dirt were blown out into the air.

Seward was ready to celebrate their receiving the award as an All American City. A big celebration was planned for Saturday and Sunday. Their big party was shaken down, burned down, and flooded away with a huge tidal wave.

At Valdez we have three Adventist families. I have had a chance to talk with them, and this is the story. The bottom dropped out of the town. The ocean floor actually lifted up and dumped water over them. About 27 people were on the dock to watch the unloading of a freighter. They said the ocean dropped way down and the ocean liner went down with it. Then there was a blast and the water came up about 150 feet. The dock, cars, and people were seen tossed into the air. They all died. Then the water tilted in the direction of town and came smashing everything down.

A few weeks ago I was at Valdez and it was a beautiful spot—"The Little Switzerland of America." Today the tides are about eight feet higher at Valdez. That means the land has sunk there. The water is now one foot deep in the living room of one of our members.

At Cordova a large mountain split wide open. There are two now at this spot. A glacier got uncovered that no one knew existed before. A pilot told me things sure look strange when he flies over.

Soon we will have a new Anchorage. Where it will be no one knows, but plans are under way.

April 3 we had another quite severe earthquake. I was sitting here at my desk writing this when things started to move again. This one lasted for about twenty seconds—twenty seconds too long! Geologists had stated, just yesterday, that Alaska cannot witness another earthquake for two hundred years!

Tonight, as you look into the open sky you will see the great North Star. Under that star old landmarks have changed and vanished. But people still live and die here. It has been a land of opportunity for many. It is now a land of opportunity for the preaching of the Gospel message. This is our chance to do something great for God in this place.

As the North Star reflects its light upon you, pray for the advancement of the work on America's broken frontier.—No. Pacific Union Gleaner

HINSDALE

God lives and walks again with men at Hinsdale,

To lift, to heal, to comfort, and make whole,
To love with wondrous love that cannot fail,
To breathe new breath of life into the soul.
He walked with Doctor David Paulson here
To pioneer a way unknown, untrod,
Like Abraham of ancient yesteryear,
To build by faith this altar unto God,
To lift on high love's flaming lamp to shine,
As like a flashing beacon on a hill,
A taper tall of blazing fire sublime,
The whole Chicago-land with light to fill.

Now from this land they come, they come in scores

To touch the holy hem of healing might.
And here they find beyond these open doors
A living faith and hope that makes life bright.
Their millions also they have gladly poured
Into the Coffers of this righteous cause;
And they should have a fair and just reward
In something more than praise or mere applause.

These buildings, skills, and fine facilities
May make a good impression, to be sure,
But this deranged old world needs more than these,
If for her woes and ills she finds a cure.

Oh for more workers! who, despite the cost,
Will join with Christ, our Saviour, hand in hand,

To rescue these, the dying, sick, and lost
Of this vast, teeming, great Chicago-land.
Oh Hinsdale! will your work on earth be done

When day fades out at last beyond recall?
The hour is late. Behold the setting sun!
Eternal night will soon begin to fall.

BE A NURSE AIDE

An Important Member of the Nursing Team

A Hinsdale Sanitarium Hospital nurse aide reported recently that each night as she prepares the patients in her charge for the night's sleep, she asks each one if she might pray with him. Many consent but others refuse.

God rewarded her faithfulness one Friday night when a patient who had always refused requested that she come back and pray with him. Following the prayer she lifted her eyes. His face was turned toward the wall, but with an emotion-filled voice he asked, "Would you take me to church tomorrow? You see, I was once a Seventh-day Adventist but have not been to church for many years."

Leyh-Rumsey Wedding

Frank Ernest Rumsey and Marian Louise Leyh were united in marriage in the Hinsdale Church on Sunday afternoon, April 5, by Chaplain W. C. Graves.

Frank is the son of Mrs. Timothy E. Rumsey of Conclave, Ohio. Louise is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cloyce E. Leyh of Cement City, Mich.

The groom is employed in the X-ray department of the Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital as a darkroom technician and the bride is employed as a nurse aide in the physical therapy department.

This fine young couple will reside in Westmont and continue to work at the Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Investment

All the money that you and I have really belongs to God. God has left us in care of His goods in His absence. He has great confidence in us! We are His stewards, and the position of a steward is one of dignity, honesty, and responsibility. Our Master trusts us! It is God's property that we are handling.

We are putting our money into the biggest bank in the universe, the bank of heaven. No thieves break through. The rate of interest is very high. It gives revenue from the inexhaustible treasures of heaven. Interest is determined by two factors: First, cheerfulness of the giver; and second, the self-denial manifested in the gift. The smallest sum given with cheerfulness and self-denial is of more value in the sight of God than the offerings of those who could give thousands and yet feel no lack.

The Downers Grove Church during the year 1963 took the above for their rule and guide in their Investment. It seemed that ALL did something, and the Lord really blessed. Our goal was $445, and at the end of the year our total amounted to more than $1,310. We praise the Lord for it!

All the children's divisions responded wholeheartedly. More than $150 was raised in the cradle roll, with Mrs. Norma Lippi as leader, by covering a church building with coins. The other divisions did very well also. Clinton Foreman, the Sabbath School superintendent, was a big supporter for Investment and also promoted it all year long.

We feel that it won't be long before God will tell His faithful stewards to close their books as He has closed His and will not accept transfers any longer. How wonderful to work for the Lord as a partner, and let Him multiply our humble but eager ways and means to the salvation of souls.

Our church device was made up of a world map, putting on Bibles for various mission fields as the money was raised. Then when $500 was totaled, a worker was added. What a delightful sight to see the response of God's people, young and old, to the mission appeals as they transfer their treasures from this earth to the bank of heaven. Giving does not result in poverty, but makes what is left go much farther than we had planned on.

Praise God for the Investment plan and for giving us the blessed opportunity of working with Him for others!

Hunt-Estey Wedding

Sunday evening, March 29, 1964, Caren Gail Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hunt of LaHabra, Calif., became the bride of Archie Alvin Estey, son of Elder and Mrs. J. A. Estey, now of Waukegan, Ill., in a beautiful ceremony performed by Elder J. A. Estey, father of the groom, in the Waukegan Church.

The bride is a graduate of Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital School of Nursing. Archie is a student at Illinois University, Champaign, Ill., where he will graduate in June with a B.S. degree in zoology.

After a wedding trip, the couple will be at home at Apt. 329, 1107 Green Street, Urbana, Ill.

It is our prayer that the Lord will bless this newly established home.

Dehnicke-Krejcha Wedding

James J. Krejcha, M.D., and Suzanne M. Dehnicke were united in marriage on Sunday afternoon, April 12, in the North Shore Seventh-day Adventist Church by Chaplain Willis C. Graves.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Krejcha of Westmont and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dehnicke of Northlake.

Doctor Krejcha is on the staff of the Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital and was recently baptized in the North Shore Church.

The bride is a senior student in the School of Nursing in Hinsdale and will graduate in November of 1964.

This fine Christian couple have established their new home in Downers Grove, Ill.

INDIANA

Ohio River Flood

Hundreds of people were left homeless in Southern Indiana recently in the wake of the Ohio River flood from one side of the state to the other. The Madison, Jeffersonville, and New Albany churches were active in bringing relief to suffering people. Our Seventh-day Adventist people stand ready to help in times like this. The New Albany Church especially made a fine contribution. For some weeks and months they had been planning the opening of their welfare center, which was to be in the basement of our Seventh-day Adventist church there in New Albany. In the words of the district pastor, Elder Teddrick Mohr, "The flood has now opened our welfare center."

Elder Mohr has some fine connections and relationships with the Red Cross organization there in his county and when this disaster struck the Red Cross invited him to be in charge of the entire clothing distribution program for the county. A large sign was placed in front of the Adventist church proclaiming this the clothing depot of the Red Cross for this emergency period.

Fine publicity was given in not only the New Albany paper, but also the Louisville papers. As of this writing, the figures on the completed work that has been done have not been totaled as the work continues to go on, but after a week or two of operation, something like 30,000 garments had been contributed from the public and about 3,000 already distributed to needy people. This program has taxed the energy of our ladies there in New Albany. Men and women alike have cooperated to carry on this work of love in behalf of others who are less fortunate than we are. It is believed that this center will not only serve the local county, but also a neighboring series of counties in the area.

A trailer load of supplies, bedding, layettes, and clothing was taken down from the conference depot. This helped to bolster the bigger supplies on hand in the New Albany Welfare Unit when the disaster struck, but there, together with the large influx of clothing in response to the Red Cross appeal, made it more than enough to help those who were in need.

There is a lesson in this for other societies. If we go into action in the time of need, the clothing will come in. The people will respond as the appeals go out, but we must give the lead and this is a vital point.

Girls' Dorm at I.A.

GIRLS, girls, girls! This could very well be how one would describe Holly Hall. In the past few years the number of girls in our dormitory has increased by a large amount. This year we have nearly 120 girls in our dorm, and although we are a little crowded we are still all very happy to be attending Indiana Academy.

September and a new school year brought many changes to Holly Hall and among them our dean, Mrs. Bonnie Nutt. She came to us from Berrien Springs, Mich. and since her arrival has made the dorm a "home away from home."

With paint, soap and water, and a little elbow grease our dorm has become brighter, cleaner, and just a little bit better. Due to the overcrowded conditions existing this year, we found it necessary to add a room on second floor to help accommodate the overflow. We also have a new speaker system in our worship room which enables everyone to hear more clearly and receive a better spiritual blessing from our worship services.

In the near future we are looking forward to some remodeling done on our dorm and perhaps a long-needed addition. We also hope to add vinyl carpeting for the halls which will make the dorm both more quite and splinter free. Another year will no doubt bring more girls and more problems to solve. But looking ahead these problems are well on their way to a happy ending.

New Church Opened in South Bend

March 28, 1964, will go down as a memorable date to the members of the South Bend Church. It was on that date, after approximately 9 years of planning and hard work, that the doors were opened to the lovely new church. The sanctuary was filled to capacity as nearly a thousand friends of nearby churches, the public, and members listened to a word from former pastors and conference officials commending the South Bend members and their present pastor, J. A. Kroncke, for a job well done.

Elder J. D. Smith spoke at the eleven o'clock worship service. The theme of his message was "Man Shall Not Live by Bread Alone."

Many hours of tedious planning by the building committee and Pastor Kroncke has resulted in a beautiful edifice which will stand as a memorial of the dedication to the service of the Lord of the faithful South Bend members.

Michigan Family Nature Camp 1964

"Next to the Bible, nature is to be our great lesson book.

"To the little child, not yet capable of learning from the printed page or of being introduced to the routine of the schoolroom, nature presents an unfailing source of instruction and delight. . . . And for those of older years, needing continually its silent reminders of the spiritual and eternal, nature's teaching will be no less a source of pleasure and of instruction."—Child Guidance, p. 45.

This is why Family Nature Camp invites you to bring the whole family to enjoy the pleasure, delight, and instruction found in the camp among God's created works.

This summer Family Nature Camp plans to make base camp in the U.S. Forestry Campground on the east side of Black Lake, 15 miles north of Onaway, Mich., August 16 to 22.

The forestry camps have no electricity, just camp space, water, and primitive rest rooms, swimming beaches, hiking trails, and nature adventures of all kinds. Stores, cabins, and a state park, are not far away.

Servicemen's Literature Offering

Do you like to hear from friends while away from home? Yes, I hear you say, I do. Dear church member, you can make this desire on the part of our servicemen a reality by planning on a liberal offering May 9, 1964.

Through the gifts received every other year from the Servicemen's Literature Offering, our men in service are able to receive a number of our periodicals and books. Truly this helps to tie in the serviceman with the church as well as to the message that makes us a people. More than 2,000 names make up the active list and it takes $25 for each name between offerings. Therefore a goal of $60,000 has been set.

Give generously to help those on double duty for God and country, May 9.

Baptisms at Benton Harbor

The Walter-Lange Evangelistic team has concluded three weeks of meetings in Benton Harbor in the Airatorium there and a fourth week of meetings at the Colfax Avenue Seventh-day Advent Church. Fourteen were baptized Friday night, April 3, and four received on profession of faith; five were baptized Sabbath, March 28, and one received on profession of faith. This is only a beginning however, for there are many who have indicated their desire to unite with the remnant church and many interests have been aroused.

The Benton Harbor Church, and many people from the Berrien Springs Church as well, have been busy distributing 67,000 of the tract This May Startle You to the homes in Benton Harbor and the surrounding community. With this tract was the card inviting readers to send for the book From Sabbath to Sunday free of charge. To date Pastor White reports that he has received over 90 requests for the book. There have been some wonderful experiences in the lives of our new members, as well as a renewing of our consecration as older members in this wonderful truth that never grows old.

Ground Breaking for New Village Seventh-day Adventist Church

A 128-year-old landmark in Berrien Springs will soon become vacant when

This is the architect's view of the new Berrien Springs Village Church which will contain individual adult classrooms for lesson study in addition to other division rooms.

the new Village Seventh-day Adventist Church is built.

Ground was broken Wednesday, April 14, along highway U.S. 31-33 northwest of town for this new edifice. Since 1922, members have met in the present church which was formerly the Berrien County Court House until 1900.

The 400 members have been holding two services each Saturday morning for the past three years in order to accommodate the people in the present building. The new structure will have a seating capacity of 1,200 in the main sanctuary in addition to a small chapel which will seat 325.

Clare Luke, chairman of the building committee, states that the small chapel will seat as many people as their present church. When completed, the new church is expected to relieve the overcrowded condition of the Pioneer Memorial Church on the Andrews University campus which was built before the seminary and graduate school were transferred from Washington, D.C., he added.

Features of the new church will be a laminated arch nave, 6 rooms for the children's divisions, a paved parking lot for 400 cars behind the church, a covered area for unloading cars, and a ramp entrance for wheel chairs.

Perhaps the most outstanding feature will be the 21 individual adult Sabbath School classrooms which will eliminate the confusion resulting from teachers trying to make themselves heard above the other classes in the sanctuary. It will also eliminate the other extreme of having a second sermon in the place of a lesson "study."

For nearly ten years the members have been working toward erecting a new church. Luke, chairman of the committee since 1959, stated that plans began to crystalize in 1962 when a three-year fund-raising program was launched. Five acres of land for the church had been donated earlier by a member, Mrs. Walter Garland.

The church was organized August 24, 1914, with 43 charter members. Two of these are still members of the Village Church.

The architect for the new church is George Tewksbury of Kansas City. Bids are currently being received and the building committee hopes to occupy the new church early in 1965.

The building committee members are Clare Luke, chairman, G. A. Coffen, Burtin Guthrie, Ennis Moore, William Nelson, Warren Popp, Philip Riess, Robert Reuckert, Russel Straman, and Lloyd Wilson. Martin Fishell is chairman of the finance committee.

school year and is the epitome of the school's religious activities.

This school year has been no exception, with more than fifty students actively participating in all the phases of the Voice of Youth program. Thirty students took part in the giving of the sermons during the 19 meetings; and though many of them were "scared to death," their presentation was on the whole very well done. Some of the comments made by those attending were: "I wish I had heard it that plain years ago." "It is wonderful what these young people are able to do." "I'll be back every night."

Over a year ago interest developed in conducting this year's series in Alma, Mich., where a small S.D.A. church is located in a city of about 9,000 population. Plans were discussed with the local pastor, Elder Howard Boling, and he was also interested in the project. He investigated possible meeting places besides the church, and late last fall the community room of the brand new Central National Bank building in Alma opened its doors for our use. It would easily seat 150 people and had a separate room for the children's program that is conducted during the adult meetings. The students moved ahead with the program and conducted the meetings on the three evenings of the more than six week ends.

As you read this article the meetings will be over, but the full results of the meetings cannot be recorded at this time. However, the seed is being sown and watered and God will bring the increase.

These energetic students did not do something that other young people cannot do; in fact, many other young people are doing it too. Would that all of our youth could have the thrill of participating in some phase of the Voice of Youth evangelistic program.

Ecorse, Mich. News

Approximately forty persons participated in a health food demonstration by the health class which is being conducted by the Ecorse, Mich. Church. Under the leadership of Lula Childress the church kitchen has been remodeled and is being used to instruct the church members how to prepare healthful foods in such a way that will be both beneficial and appetizing. Mrs. Brown, the Dorcas Federation president for the Detroit Motor City area, assisted in the demonstration. Once a month these classes are being conducted. The home missionary department has been glad to have the opportunity to conduct these classes. Many of the members already have been benefited by the classes.

Beginning in January, Sister Goodman, Sabbath School superintendent of the Ecorse Church, unexpectedly asked all Sabbath School members who knew the memory verse by memory to stand and recite it. Only three people were found fortified with an extra portion of the Scriptures and therefore able to perform this task. The remaining members were found sleeping on guard. This has become a regular part of the Ecorse Sabbath School program, taking the place of the silent prayer for teachers. Recently another check was made and 48 members of our Sabbath School, which has an average of 60 members, stood up to recite the memory verse. We feel that this is a successful way to encourage our members to memorize the memory verse each week, and therefore we want to share this plan with other Sabbath Schools.

Sabbath School Rally Day brought bountiful blessings to the members of the church. On March 14, Mrs. George Williams of Detroit was guest soloist during the Sabbath School hour. The attendance was nearly a hundred. Pastor R. L. McKinney, currently a ministerial student at Andrews University, was the visiting speaker for the eleven o'clock service, which was filled to capacity. Special music was presented by a mixed quartet and a ladies' duet both from the Ecorse Church. Accompanying Pastor McKinney was his wife and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Nunez of the Benton Harbor Church. To complete the day a free meal was served to the church. The Lord has truly blessed our efforts in the Sabbath School this year already, and we solicit the prayers of all that our school will be a soul-winning success. MRS. EVELYN GUY

Pathfinders Camp Out

Recently a group of fifty Pathfinders and their leaders from the Rib Mountain Club of Wausau, Indian Hill Club of Bethel, and the Tamahawk Club of Tamahawk, had an enjoyable week end camping together at Camp Phillips Boy Camp near Wausau. Some of the events were as follows:

Friday night vespers was conducted by Elder L. F. Hardin.

Sabbath morning the Rib Mountain Pathfinders were in charge of the Sabbath School program with the theme of living for Jesus. Mr. Schroeder and Herbert Wolff taught the lesson. Jess Nephew gave the challenge in the church service to take what is in thine hand and use it to work for God.

Sabbath afternoon included a secret number hike and a search of verses and texts from the Bible which were hidden in trees, etc., that had to be matched.

The Indian Hill Pathfinders presented a fine MV program challenging all to use the key of nature to unlock treasures in the Bible.

Saturday night all enjoyed fellowship in the lodge with talent features, games, and marching.

Sunday included outdoor activity and saying goodbyes.

Here are a few comments of some of the Pathfinders as they were asked about the camp out.

"I had a perfectly wonderful time. It was so nice to be able to associate with a fine group." Faith Boelter

"I had lots of fun, the weather was excellent and the food was good." Mike Howard

"It seems very good to get away from all the routine and fuss of everyday life and get into nature which God has given to all mankind and to enjoy and learn lessons from it. Thanks to our leaders and counselors for their effort in preparing my well-enjoyed stay." Phillip Castleberg

"I'm happy to be in Pathfinders and to know such wonderful people as our counselors. I also want to thank the Lord for letting us have a safe and wonderful time." Judy Hoffman

"I had a lot of fun and hope Bethel can camp with Wausau again." Ken Burnham

Five-Day Plan in Milwaukee

A successful Five-day Plan to Stop Smoking was recently conducted in Milwaukee by J. S. Damazo, pastor of the Central Church, and Doctors Rodney Darby of Milwaukee and Donald Knepel of Janesville.

The program was held downtown in the Schroeder Hotel. Seventy-four per cent of the heavy smokers who attended are still off the habit. The whole program was well received by all who attended.

Due to the many requests, another Five-day Plan will be conducted in the near future.

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY

SCHOOLS: EMMANUEL MISSIONARY COLLEGE
SCHOOL OF GRADUATE STUDIES
SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

Seminary Extension Schools

Nearly half of the total enrollment of the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary is made up of students taking classes at various extension schools, reports Dr. W. G. C. Murdoch, dean of the Seminary.

W. G. C. Murdoch

During the current semester 163 are enrolled as on-campus students, while there are 132 registered in the four Seminary extension schools. There are 92 enrolled in the extension classes being held in California at the White Memorial Church in Los Angeles and the Sierra Vista Chapel at La Sierra College, according to Dr. Charles E. Weniger, administrator of the West Coast extension schools. An additional forty students are taking classes at the Columbia Union College in Takoma Park, Md., and Hinsdale, Ill., extension schools.

During the first semester, Dr. Siegfried Horn, professor of archeology and history of antiquity, taught at the California extension schools. Dr. Alger F. Johns, associate professor of Old Testament literature and exegesis will be absent from the Andrews University campus during the school year 1964-65 while he conducts classes at the California extension schools where he will hold classes in Hebrew, Aramaic, and Old Testament exegesis.

Others who have taught at the extension schools in California include Dr. Edward Heppenstall, professor of Christian philosophy, who conducted classes there in 1962-63; Elder Charles E. Wittschiede, professor of pastoral care, who held classes in 1961-62; and Dr. Earle Hilgert, professor of New Testament Literature, who taught in the schools during 1960-61.

The Hinsdale school is being conducted this semester by Dr. Heppenstall. He is teaching the class Law and Covenants. Last semester Dr. Sakae Kubo, assistant professor of Biblical Greek, taught a class in Pauline Theology at the school.

Teachers at the Columbia Union College extension school are Dr. R. E. Loasby and Dr. W. H. Beaven.

Those currently teaching at the California extension schools are Dr. W. M. Landeen, president of La Sierra College; Elder John W. Osborn, president of the South East California Conference of Seventh-day Adventists; Elder E. G. Maxwell, professor of religion at Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, Calif.; Dr. W. E. Specht, chairman of the department of religion at La Sierra College; Elder Royal Sage, associate professor of religion at La Sierra College; and Elder A. L. White, secretary of the board of trustees of the White Estate.

All courses offered by the extension schools carry credit leading to the M.A. and B.D. degrees, explained Dr. Murdoch. The program is operated to assist the grading of education in the Adventist ministry while men are actually engaged in their pastoral positions, he said.

Thirty Students Appear in Aprilliad May 2

Thirty original numbers have been selected for the program of the seventh annual Aprilliad, an evening of music, art, poetry, and prose created by Andrews University students, to be presented May 2 at 8:30 p.m. in the Physical Education Building.

"Selections ranging from the speculative to the certain, from the slightly fey to the mundane have been chosen for the Aprilliad," says Dr. Elaine Giddings, professor of speech and coordinator for the event. Musical numbers will include a clarinet choir, a brass ensemble, classical guitar, violin, piano, folk music and choral music, all being original student compositions.

"Contributions to the program have come from the departments of music, English, and art," says Dr. Giddings. More than sixty people are involved in the production, either in the writing or the interpreting of the compositions.

Physics Department Receives U.S. A.E.C. Grant

The physics department has received word that the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission will support their research program for another year in the amount of $14,300. This is the third annual renewal of the project on the Mechanical Properties of Separated Metallic Isotopes. Dr. Donald D. Snyder is the principal investigator, and Dr. W. Bruce Zimmerman is the assistant investigator. In connection with this research they have presented one paper at a national meeting of the American Physical Society and have published one short paper. Another paper is in preparation.

The renewal support begins with the end of the current contract year, May 31, 1964, and will run for one year. Mrs. Mary Alexander and various students assist in the research work.

The research involves the study of isotopically enriched metals (lithium, at present) over the temperature range from room temperature down to liquid helium temperature (452° below zero, Fahrenheit). Study of the lattice structure is made using X-ray diffraction and Young's modulus. Present work is in accurately determining the macroscopic thermal expansion, which will be used in the determination of Young's modulus and compared with the microscopic thermal expansion as determined by the X-ray diffraction technique.

Nachreiner Joins Faculty

Recently named associate professor of modern languages at Andrews University is Edward Nachreiner who will teach German language and literature, announced Dr. Warner E. McClure, dean of the undergraduate school.

Edward Nachreiner

Born in Munich, Germany, Nachreiner received his elementary and secondary education in Germany. He was granted the bachelor of arts degree from Union College, Lincoln, Neb., and the master of arts degree from the University of Nebraska.

Nachreiner has taught German, French, Spanish, and religion on the secondary level and German, Spanish, and religion on the collegiate level.
