

OPEN house at central Wisconsin's newest nursing home was held from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m., Sunday, November 22, at the Marshfield Convalescent Center on W. 14th Street, Marshfield, Wis.

The activities mark the completion of the project costing approximately $410,000, including equipment, which was started about a year ago and planned to accommodate 65 patients. Operations began at the nursing home on Oct. 15 and at the present time the home is serving 12 residents. When in full operation, the center will have a staff of 30 persons, including registered nurse service around the clock, supplemented with licensed practical nurses and other aides.

The new community health care facility is a one-story cinder block, brick-veneered building 300 feet in length and of a variable, but generally 40-foot width. It has 20,000 square feet of floor space per patient as required by state regulation.

The building, which is located on a seven and one-half acre site of which three acres have been landscaped, has a "zone-controlled" hot water heating system and a heated fresh air system. Facilities include private and semi-private accommodations for not more than two persons per room, with rooms as preferred without bath, with bath or with shared bath. Included is a patient signal system tied into a central nursing station, an automatic telephone system and cable TV connections.

Floors are tiled and rooms have plastered walls finished in a variety of colors with drapes and other decor to match.

Busy residents are happy residents. To add to the enjoyment, activities under the direction of a qualified director are provided at the Center. She sees to it that the residents are well occupied during regular activity periods. Pictured here are residents making Thanksgiving table centerpieces. By the looks on their faces, you can see that they are contented and happy.

On to Victory

Recently I have had placed on my desk a report of our Ingathering progress for the year 1965. As we usually do, we are beginning before the end of the year in order to reap what benefits may come as a result of the caroling during the holiday season.

It is especially gratifying to see that we have made gains thus far this year over the same date of last year. Our Ingathering work has grown to the place where it has become a very major source of income for our world-wide mission program and, of course, much of these funds are reverted back to the local fields where they help in various projects that are carried on throughout the conferences, not the least of which are our schools and welfare programs.

Sometimes we hear people complain because of the heavy burden that comes with the Ingathering work, but, if every member in the union would do his share, either by giving his goal or reaching it by contacting his business acquaintances, the burden would not be nearly so heavy. I suppose almost everybody dreads to get started, and perhaps everyone has a feeling of relief when the campaign is over, but the Ingathering is a very helpful influence in the Christian life of all of those who take part in it. No one can work faithfully at this soul-saving work without having a feeling of accomplishment.

To date our figures for the year are up to $276,000, which is a per capita income of $6.72. This is 39 per cent of our total goal. At the rate we are going we should be able to sing the victory song very shortly after the holidays.

May the Lord bless our good people as they go out from door to door, all of them working together for the finishing of the campaign and the finishing of God's work.

Holy Lands Tour Scheduled By L.L.U.

An organized study-tour of Israel will be directed next June and July by John M. Reeves, instructor in religion at Loma Linda University.

The tour's four-week itinerary will cover areas literally "from Dan to Beersheba," with special emphasis upon the archeological remains of well-known Biblical and historical sites, Elder Reeves announces. Academic credit through the University Division of Religion is available to qualified tour members.

The tour is open to anyone interested at a cost of $830, including round-trip jet fare from New York to Tel Aviv, Israel, all rooms and meals in the Holy Land, air-conditioned bus travel for the group, and the company of an experienced guide. Not included in the bargain price are expenses incurred by tour members traveling independently in Europe on the return trip.

A color brochure describing the tour and additional information is available from Elder Reeves at Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, Calif. 92354. The tour group will leave New York June 17 and return July 18 after a 13-day "free" period for independent European travel.

Among the ancient Holy Land sites to be visited are Mount Carmel, Masada, Ashdod, Lachish, Hazor, Megiddo, Dead Sea, Sodom, Red Sea, and Jerusalem. The original Dead Sea scrolls will be viewed at the Hebrew University museum, Jerusalem.

Other places on the itinerary include Caesarea, Sea of Galilee, Cana, Tiberias, Capernaum, Nazareth, and Tel Aviv.

"We will spend two Sabbaths in Jerusalem and Nazareth," Elder Reeves continued. "The Bible is the best guidebook for travel in the Holy Land and becomes increasingly meaningful as one travels throughout this little country, 250 miles long, 10 to 60 miles wide, and 5,000 years deep."

Secondary Teachers' Convention Report

The quadrennial secondary teachers' convention held at Indiana Academy November 22 to 25 encompassed the majority of the personnel from all of our Lake Union senior academies and intermediate schools along with departmental secretaries of each of the five conferences. Guest speakers from the General Conference, the union, our host conference, Indiana, and the Andrews University gave eminently positive direction to the educational program for our schools in this union.

In these times in which we live, in which so much emphasis is on education, and our own messenger from God reported, "Educate, educate, educate," we can do no less than to study ways and means of improving our training for the young people of our churches.

The unity of interest of our secondary schools and our own Andrews University is bound to result in an even larger variety of college programs to meet the needs of our academy graduates. Our university extends to them a friendly welcome, and would be happy to have all students beginning with the 9th grade plan for college. Parents need to plan even earlier for the future of their children's education. "Every power—physical, mental and moral—needs to be trained, disciplined and developed."—Counsels to Teachers, p. 44. "All our youth should be permitted to have the blessing and privileges of an education at our schools that they may become inspired to be laborers together with God." There is no selectivity in this blueprint, for who knows which shall prosper—this or that—gifted or average. The least likely may have hidden qualities of attitudes and ambitions that will lead to success that we could never predict. We must never underestimate this factor. Inspiration with determination is a very precious ingredient in the field of learning.

Over by Christmas Time?

Report number three is another excellent one. We lost a little ground, but we are still just $30,000 ahead of last year. Our week totaled $87,209 compared with $97,468 last year. Our weather backed us up a bit, but I look for this to be gained back by this next week.

The union is just half way to victory now. Lake Region still leads in per cent of goal, and the per capita are climbing. The next three weeks will carry us a long way toward final victory. Why not have it finished by Christmas?

We are having and hearing good experiences from contacts this year. We are particularly glad when real visiting results from these contacts.

VERNON FLORY

Lake Union Home Missionary Secretary

Just as Red Grange once said about an athlete, "He has everything—a perfect physique, health, intelligence and a natural way of performance. He could be a star except that he lacks the urge to be great."

We are grateful for the outstanding teachers in our schools who direct and guide the youth in this union.

A more detailed report of the meetings is scheduled to come in shortly from our secondary institute, but since these meetings are only held every four years, I thought a preliminary word in order.

Applications for Occupational Therapy in by Jan. 1

Qualified applicants can begin professional studies in occupational therapy in February, according to an announcement from Loma Linda University.

This year for the first time men and women students are being accepted to the University's Occupational Therapy Curriculum to begin study in the second semester. Information and application forms (which must be completed and returned to Loma Linda by January 1) are available from: Educational Director, Occupational Therapy Curriculum, Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, Calif. 92354.

Eligible are students having completed two years of college including the curriculum's preprofessional requirements. Studies at the University, leading to the Bachelor of Science degree, would conclude in February 1967.

After an internship completed the following August, the graduate therapist will be eligible for employment in the growing paramedical field. Unfilled positions on file with the curriculum director offer starting salaries in the $7,000 to $11,000 range yearly.

The Challenge of Action

The leaders in our Young People's work have placed before our youth of North America the project of greatly enlarging the influence of Christian temperance. The challenge is to go into action and bring onto the subscription mailing list of the magazine Listen, 200,000 new names. The goal is for each young person to subscribe, for him or herself and for one other young person of his or her acquaintance, to this outstanding temperance periodical. The crusade is to be known as "One Plus One." We confidently hope that the 100,000 youth of North America will thus bring in a list of 200,000.

This crusade can bring to thousands

A historic milestone was passed at Faith for Today recently when the 100,000th graduate of the Bible course received her diploma.

As a result, she has become very much interested in Seventh-day Adventist teachings and is convinced they constitute present truth. Pastors R. W. Numbers, one of our experienced pastors, is awarding the diploma to Mrs. Jule Fly.

of youth the message of better living. Precious principles of healthful living can thus be brought to the attention of many young people of our country who need to know now about the harmful results of the use of tobacco and alcoholic beverages. Tomorrow may be too late. Christian temperance principles will be recognized by great numbers who will on their own part become advocates for the temperate living with a still greater number.

This is Christian action of the highest merit. Cooperation in this crusade will bring rich rewards to all participants. Adventist youth, help develop an awareness in the conscience of America of the devastating consequences which surely follow habits of intemperance!

100,000th Graduate of Faith for Today Bible Course Honored

Mrs. Jule Fly, Pinellas Park, Fla., became the 100,000th graduate of the Faith for Today Bible Course.

Best of all, her study has led her to take a definite stand for Christ. When she had completed lesson 32, she reported: "My husband and son have made their decision for Christ. Please pray with me that our family will be kept in perfect harmony in Christ."

Pastor R. W. Numbers presented Mrs. Fly with her diploma. He also gave her a Bible from Faith for Today to commemorate the event.

Pastor Numbers reports that Faith for Today has been invaluable to him in securing decisions for Christ.

Sabbath, Feb. 13, 1965, will be a significant day in the history of Seventh-day Adventism. This is the day when the Faith for Today offering is taken. Your contributions in the past have made possible the Faith for Today Bible Course. Some ten thousand have been won to the truth through the Faith for Today television program and the Bible course since Faith for Today began 15 years ago.

The need is greater than ever before, and with thousands of more applicants signing up for the Bible course than have ever done so in previous history, a generous contribution from you is needed. If we are truly to look forward to great tomorrows, the foundation must be laid for them today; and with the blessing of God thousands can be brought to the foot of the cross as we contribute to God's cause.

So we ask that when the Faith for Today offering is taken you do more than you have ever done before. Our General Conference leadership has called for an offering of $400,000; double what our people have ever given. We ask of you that in this year you plan to double and triple anything you have done before.

In the receding shadows of world's history, golden opportunities are ours; let's take advantage of them.

O, COME, IMMANUEL (LP/ST-5083) featuring Betty Lawson, Soprano, accompanied by the Wargo Symphonette and the Meistersingers is the special 1964 year-end treat. It is "chock full" of tuneful goodies for the Christmas season.

The featured artist, and the accompanying groups, directed by Dr. George Wargo and Dean Friedrich, respectively, are all Chapel Records mainline artists in their own rights. The Symphonette joins with Miss Lawson on one side of the disc while the choral singers form part of the presentation on the reverse side.

COME, CHILDREN, JOIN TO SING! (LP/ST-7005) boosts the children's listings in the Chapel Records 12-inch longplay section of the catalog. This fourth of such recordings is brimful of happy songs for young people of all ages. The King's Heralds Male Quartet, Del Delker (contralto) and Brad Braley at the organ have prepared this lively and meaningful album of 17 selections which will add joy to the home, the family worship circle, and various church and family gatherings. A printed song sheet is included with each record. This is a second of such albums recorded by the Voice of Prophecy artists. The first one which still holds its place among the favorites is A Boy Named David (LP/ST-7001). Both records come in monophonic and stereo-phonics.

Encouraging reports and testimonials indicate that these records make excellent gifts. So, wrap a package of joyful songs in colored paper with ribbons and bows and give melodies for Christmas that will counteract the counterfeit.

For tape-recorder owners, a monophonic dual-track tape (GV-700) containing A Boy Named David and Children's Sacred Sing-a-long, Volume 1, has also been released.

Purchase from any Lake Union Book and Bible House. Regularly 4:50 monophonic, $5.50 stereo. Special until January 15, $3.95 monophonic, $4.95 stereo.

Evangelistic Pledges Fulfilled

Evangelistic pledges totaling a little over $38,000 were made at the Wisconsin camp meeting last July. Of this a large amount has already come in, and more is coming in every day. The faithfulness of the Wisconsin Conference members is almost legendary and deserves commendation.

Only this week one of our members sent a check for a substantial amount. This was pledged three years ago conditionally to be paid on the sale of some property. Now the property is sold and the pledge is paid. The one who sent the money could have forgotten his pledge or considered it out of date, which it actually was. But he wanted to help in the Lord's work and felt that the Lord had blessed him.

The day following, another check for a large sum came in. This was from a member who has given a like amount each year for the last several years.

This morning another check came to my desk from a man who had pledged this year and who had reported a near crop failure, but who still felt he wanted to make good on his pledge.

The Lord will surely bless our people as they covenant with him through sacrifice. This money is not only needed in God's work, but the spirit behind it brings great encouragement and strength to those of us who are directly connected with the propagation of the message in Wisconsin.

If you are one who has not made a pledge or a contribution to the evangelistic fund in 1964, perhaps this will prompt you to want to do so. If you do, you may send the money direct to the conference treasurer, R. E. Macdonald, Box 512, Madison, Wis., or you can give it through your local church and mark it "Evangelism."

May the Lord bless you as you think of his gospel.

Voice of Prophecy Creates Openings

Reports are coming in from the areas in Wisconsin where the Voice of Prophecy Daily Broadcast is going out over the air. Probably the best interest shown so far has been in the Richland Center area where nearly 40 requests for Bibles have already come in. These broadcasts are just beginning to bring in their maximum interest at this time.

All three broadcasts, one in LaCrosse, one in Richland Center and one in Racine, will be followed up by evangelistic campaigns in the spring. The personnel for these campaigns is not definite as yet, with the exception of the one in Racine which will be carried out with Elder Don Jacobson conducting a field school from Andrews University in that city.

Facilities are provided for directed group activities, recreation and entertainment, and for physical therapy under the direction of a physical therapist as prescribed by the patient's physician.

This semi-private room at the Marshfield Convalescent Home is typical of the facilities available at the home. A variety of color schemes gives the patient a wide choice in the room desired. Rooms in one wing are furnished with Provincial furniture and the other wing is furnished in Early American.

Left: The dining room has picture windows overlooking a lawned area and further on a beautiful meadow. Draperies on these windows provide a warm, spacious, atmosphere. Individual tables seating four people provide added incentive for better communication and fellowship. The tables are also proper height to accommodate most wheel chair patients. All patients who possibly can, are encouraged to come to the dining area for their meals. Cheery colors and the location and arrangement make this dining area a pleasant place. Center: This stainless steel fracture bed makes it possible for patients, who during their convalescent period, due to serious injury, are unable to be moved by means other than this way. Wheel chairs make it possible for chair ridden patients to maneuver in different areas of the building. Right: This is a view of a well appointed lobby and reception area, where visitors and friends may have a pleasant wait when they call. Modernly furnished with pleasant color schemes makes this one of the many beauty spots of the Center.

Religious services by different church groups are being scheduled weekly, and ministers of different faiths can meet their parishioners in a council room reserved for that purpose. The room also serves as a doctor's visitation room.

The Marshfield Convalescent Center is owned and operated by Mid-American Nursing Homes, Inc., with headquarters in Marshfield.

The home is the first of three being developed by Mid-American, in addition to several others the corporation operates. A 50-bed unit under construction in Prairie du Chien will be opened in January, and a 60-bed building is expected to be erected in Monroe next spring.

Book and Bible House Notes

There are only a few days left in 1964 and they will be such busy days. This is the holiday season, the caroling season, and then all the details which must be cleared up by December 31 before a new year begins.

The Book and Bible House in Brookfield is open this Thursday night, December 17, until nine o'clock. Next week will be the last opportunity to purchase literature for giving at Christmas time. We will be open on Sunday, December 20, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Monday night until nine o'clock as usual. Our store will not be open Thursday night, December 24, for we will close promptly at 5 p.m.

Holiday prices on books, Bibles, Chapel records and tapes, etc., are in effect until December 31. Be sure to provide our fine church paper, the Review and Herald, for your home during 1965 before the yearly rate increases January first. The Review is just $4.75 now, and most all other church journals are also reduced. Why not put your subscriptions on the perpetual list?

All of us here at your Book and Bible House wish to extend to our fellow workers and church members best wishes for the new year. May the blessings of Heaven attend you every day. Thank you for giving us the privilege of serving you during 1964. May your literature needs for personal strength, family inspiration, and missionary activities be greater than ever in 1965.

Help Provide Worthwhile TV Programs

Seventh-day Adventists are privileged to be represented on radio and television networks by programs that appeal to people of discrimination. At the present time Faith for Today is viewed on 225 stations. This is good, but it is not good enough. It is hoped that another 50 stations can be added in 1965.

To accomplish this goal, an offering of $400,000 is needed on February 13. We ought to wholeheartedly support this offering and give in such a way that we can be sure we have done our part.

All who read this know that much television and radio time is now taken up by profitless or harmful material. How good it is that our programs can members of the church since they were baptized in August, 1955. Mr. Cornelius is a local elder and Mrs. Cornelius has been a very active Dorcas worker and still is although 75 years of age.

The reception, which was a complete surprise to Mrs. Cornelius, was preceded by a short Thanksgiving program conducted by George Huffaker in the Youth Chapel at which Mr. Cornelius offered the prayer. While the first hymn was being sung the relatives and friends who had been waiting in the gymnasium were ushered to the back of the chapel.

After the program as Mrs. Cornelius proceeded to the back of the room, she was overwhelmed to see her friends and relatives at the service and burst out with the question, "What are you doing here?" She saw why as the group proceeded to the gymnasium where everything was in readiness for the reception.

Louis Schuetter was the master of ceremonies. One of the highlights of the evening was a poem composed by Mrs. Mildred Rank which told the life story of the guests of honor. As she read the poem there were many looks of surprise on the faces of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius. Many gifts were presented to them and cake and punch were served as refreshments.

Hungarian Church Operating 46 Years

Chicago, a metropolitan city for the peoples of all races and tongues, has been for many years the habitation of nine languages churches for Seventh-day Adventists.

Numbered among the nine is the Hungarian Church which was organized in 1918 by Dr. J. F. Huenergardt. The beginning and progress of this church's growth can be credited also to the faithful colporteur work of Gabriel Vas, who around four years ago received the honorary citation of the year from the American Bible Society of Chicago.

In March, 1920, church property was bought at 9229 S. Drexel Ave. in Chicago where a church membership of 17 presently meets with their pastor, Elder C. G. Tuland.

Their source of books and periodicals to carry on their work came from the Pacific Press Publishing House in Brookfield, which published in 20 languages. About five years ago, after 20 years of operation, the Foreign Branch moved to the main plant at Mountain View, Calif.

Much radio and personal work is being done each year to win the Hungarian people to Christ. The progress is slow, but the lighthouse still stands with its doors open to all who are searching for a better way of life in this area of south Chicago where over 3 million people reside.

The 70-voice Adventist Metropolitan Chorale of greater Chicago presented its first sacred concert of the year to a capacity audience on Sabbath, November 21, at 3 p.m. in the West Central Church.

This musical organization was sponsored by the conference youth department director, Elder Wm. Edsell, because he loves music and feels it has a definite place in the lives of youth and adults for the worship of God.

In evaluating the interest shown, it is expected that over 100 voices will be singing at the next concert sometime in the spring.

Their next appearance before spring will be February 19 and 20 at the annual Music Festival in the David Paulson Auditorium.

Scully Visits Indiana Church Schools

Recently Elder James Scully, director of Youth Activities from the General Conference Temperance Department, visited a number of church schools in Indiana. Motion pictures were shown which depicted deplorable conditions which exist in other parts of the world.

Students were greatly impressed with illustrations and lung cancer specimens showing the results of smoking.

While visiting the Indianapolis Junior Academy, he extended congratulations to grades three and four, and to their teacher, Miss Alice Schmidt, for 100 per cent temperance memberships.

Indiana News Items Marion District

The Marion District is made up of three churches: Hartford City, Converse, and Marion. In making a report of activities it seems that one sees more that should have been accomplished than actually was accomplished.

Two church schools are operated that serve the three churches. Converse members send their children to Marion and in this school we have 22 students taught by Mr. and Mrs. James Clayburn. Hartford City has a school with 5 students, taught by Mrs. Helen Clayburn. The teacher at Hartford City is the mother of the principal in Marion, so you see this family believes in Christian education. Marion has been raising funds over the past year for a new church school building. They hope to be under way in the spring. Our schools add greatly to the program of the district.

Students were impressed with the temperance displays of Elder James Scully.

Elder James Scully congratulated grades three and four of Indianapolis Junior Academy for 100 per cent temperance membership.

The churches have been busily engaged in the distribution of tracts and many other missionary activities. A successful Vacation Bible School was conducted in Marion under the leadership of Mrs. Betty Harter. Rumors indicate that Sabbath School Investment will reach new highs this year.

We well recognize that the work left to be done is tremendous. We hope that these activities listed above will bring in more souls to help with that work. WALTER R. HOWARD, Pastor

The results of the Walter-Lange-Johnson evangelistic campaign in Kalamazoo were 39 baptized and two joining the church by profession of faith.

Many battles were fought and won as decisions were being made. One man felt the call of God in a series of meetings in Battle Creek three years ago. He wanted to give his heart to God but something seemed to hold him back. In desperation he got up and left the meeting. Elder Henderson, seeing his conviction, followed him and pleaded with him to give his heart to Christ. Under a streetlight a short distance away a great battle was waged. Tears flowed from his eyes and his heart was touched, but still he put off his surrender to Christ. Finally he turned away and walked into the darkness. He had not given his heart to Christ, but he could not rest. Month after month he looked for an opportunity to travel to a city where the evangelistic team was holding meetings and there make his decision. Finally his chance came in Kalamazoo where he took his stand with God's people and was baptized.

Isaac Asher, his wife and mother-in-law joined the church, but Mr. Asher had a problem. He owns a variety store in Gobles and his business was built upon the Saturday trade which he received. He was told the business would go bankrupt if he did not remain open on Saturday but he had surrendered fully to God and he was going to follow Him all the way. He put an advertisement in the paper that he would be closed Saturday and open Sunday. God has blessed Mr. Asher because instead of losing business he is doing more business than ever.

Math Department Receives National Science Grant

Andrews University has been notified that its mathematics department is the recipient of a National Science Foundation grant in the amount of $29,980.

According to John T. Wilson, acting director of the foundation, the grant is for the "support of a Summer Institute in Mathematics for Secondary School Teachers, and is under the direction of Harold T. Jones."

Dr. Jones, professor of mathematics at the university, says that the university has been the recipient of similar grants from the foundation in 1960 and 1963.

The institute this summer will have places for 25 secondary teachers, who will come from all over the country. "We try to accept people from all different areas," says Jones, "so that we have a broader range of viewpoints and backgrounds." Anyone who teaches at least one mathematics course in grades between 7 and 12 is eligible.

The grant provides that no tuition or fees will be charged to students accepted, and each will receive a stipend to cover personal expenses during the institute.

In addition to Jones, Dr. Roy A. Jorgensen, associate professor of mathematics, will teach. Courses offered will be "Analysis for Secondary Teachers," and "Modern Application of Mathematics for Secondary Teachers."

Further information may be obtained by writing Dr. Harold T. Jones, Dept. of Mathematics, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Mich. 49104.

Schwarz Will Receive Doctoral Degree

Richard W. Schwarz, associate professor of history, passed oral examinations at the University of Michigan November 19 and will receive a Doctor of Philosophy degree in commencement exercises December 19.

Schwarz's field is recent American history. His dissertation, about 500 pages long, is a biography of Dr. John Harvey Kellogg of Battle Creek, whose medical and social work in Battle Creek and Chicago made him just as famous as his invention of breakfast cereals and other health foods.

Dr. Schwarz did his undergraduate work at Andrews, received an M.S. in library science from the University of Illinois in 1953, and followed this by a master's degree in history from the University of Michigan.

He has been on the Andrews University faculty since 1955.

A member of the national honor society Phi Beta Kappa, he also belongs to the American Historical Association and the Mississippi Valley Historical Association.
