

THE 1964 Temperance "Man" of the Year isn't a man—she's a woman!

Miss Elvera Eckerman, teacher of grades five to eight at the Niles, Mich., school, was selected by the American Temperance Society as its Temperance "Man" of the Year after its panel of judges carefully screened nominations from every part of the country. Niles is in the Michigan Conference of the Lake Union.

"May I congratulate you, Miss Eckerman, for your wonderful leadership in the cause of temperance," commented E. J. Folkenberg, executive secretary of the General Conference Temperance Department, to the award winner. "By thus leading your pupils, you have helped them taste the matchless joys of genuine service for others. We rejoice in the honor which has been bestowed upon you."

gram of temperance activities, including full-scale rallies in both Seventh-day Adventist churches and those of other faiths.

Her students participated in nineteen oratorical contests during the year, six taking honors, some on a state level. They also presented half-hour programs on TV station WSJV, Elkhart, Ind.

When President Johnson visited South Bend, Ind., she organized her students to cover the large crowd at the airport with Smoke Signals. Her temperance team sponsored letter-writing contests to Governor Romney of Michigan in opposition to House Bill No. 343, a liquor license bill.

Miss Eckerman directed the preparation and entering of a temperance float in the Blossomtime Parade in Benton Harbor, the Pathfinder Fair at Lansing, and the Memorial Day Parade in Niles.

In addition, her students were active in giving temperance talks in other churches, especially winners of oratorical and poster contests, showing films in public schools, displaying temperance posters in business establishments, stocking literature racks, conducting temperance classes in Vacation Bible Schools, sponsoring Temperance Education Week, and securing pledges on Temperance Commitment Day.

"In fact," says Miss Eckerman, "the students should be awarded the honor—they did the work!"

Stemming from the "little red school-house" era in the midwest, this teacher attended the typical rural district schools, then was graduated from Hylandale Academy, a self-supporting school in Wisconsin. She also attended Broadview Academy for additional study, and finished her educational degree at Emmanuel Missionary College in 1947.

Her next five years were spent in South Africa as normal director of the Bethel Training College. Following her furlough in 1953, she served five more years as teacher in East Africa in a secondary school for boys, followed by a year of teaching at Malumulo Mission.

Back in the United States, she received her Master's Degree from Andrews University in 1961, and is now under mission appointment to the teacher-training school in Ghana, West Africa.

With hobbies of gardening, canoeing, stamps, coins, and scrapbooks, she says her greatest hobby is children—one scrapbook of hers is "101 Famous Children," some of her students through the years with whom she has kept in constant touch.

In fact, scrapbooking sparked her dedication to temperance. One Sabbath during her elementary school days a friend walked ten miles from town to their farm near Stillwater, Minn., bringing with her a scrapbook of temperance stories, poems, and slogans.

"It was from this scrapbook that my interest in temperance was kindled," she says—an interest indeed, that has been paying off ever since!

If Not You, Then Who?

I just wanted to report that the subscriptions for These Times and Message are beginning to pour in.

I am glad, for the deadline of June 15 is coming rapidly. Has your church qualified to receive the gift set of books? This is a most unusual opportunity to get this four volume set, The Origin and History of the Seventh-day Adventist Church without cost to your church. It is a $32.50 value, but beyond that, it is written by the dean of the historical storytellers, Elder A. W. Spaulding. Sister White tells us that we have nothing to fear for the future except as we shall forget how God has led us in the past. These volumes will help us not to forget. You will delight in their interest and authenticity.

Now we do not subscribe to These Times and Message for our neighbors just to get a set of books. They are just a little thank you from the publishing house for doing what all of us want to do anyway. We know that time is short—now is the time. We know that we are the people elected to give God's message for today. We know that no one else will do that for us. We know that our city is the place where God asks us to do all that we can for Him. As in no other missionary endeavor, we want to reach those of our community with the good news from God for today.

There is one major question we might ask, and that is, If we don't do it, then who will? Who will give the call of God if we don't? Who will send out the subscriptions of These Times and Message if we don't? That is why we are thankful that you are responding. Do all that you can this week, won't you? Get your list to your church missionary secretary. Missionary secretaries, send your lists on to your Book and Bible House this week. We trust that none will delay until the special offer is over and then have to pay the full price. This is the year to do something special. One man two weeks ago took 75 subscriptions to send to all the ministers in the community. Last week two families volunteered to send 60 subscriptions to disaster victims that had been helped in the recent tornado disasters in Indiana.

The list of churches that have reached their goal of two subscriptions per member is rapidly growing. They have received their set of books. Thank you for what you have done and also for what will be done in the next three weeks.

"Los Olvidados"—the Forgotten Ones

Recently under banner headlines the San Francisco Examiner ran a feature article with the caption "Los Olvidados." Translated to English from the Spanish, this stands for the forgotten ones. What a pity? Two million Spanish-speaking descendants of the original colonizers of California and the West. And yet they are spoken of as the forgotten ones. Forgotten because they speak another language than the one common to most of you who read this article. But they are not alone. Throughout the North American Division there are better than 30,000,000 men, women and children who speak and read a language other than English as their mother tongue.

As Seventh-day Adventist Christians, can we longer ignore these strangers within our gates? Can we who give so liberally to the support of foreign missions allow the foreign-speaking peoples who have come to America to seek a better way of life, to remain in forgotten anonymity?

On Sabbath, June 12, you and I, every one of us will have an opportunity to do something tangible to reach these forgotten ones. Every other year the General Conference North American Missions Committee receives an offering to be used for foreign language literature. Many of these people can be reached through our tracts, magazines and books in their own tongues. Why not resolve now to bring a sacrificial gift for this rewarding cause on Sabbath, June 12? A few facts may inspire:

Of the three and one half million immigrant arrivals between 1947 and 1961, about half reported some occupational qualification. The remainder were largely housewives, young persons, and retired people.

Of this total some 16 per cent were in the professional and technical categories; one of every six immigrants was a skilled worker.

During the period of 1952 to 1961 more than 100,000 immigrants were qualified to enter such fields of occupation as engineering, physics, nursing, and tool and die making.

The 30,000 immigrants in engineering alone from 1952 to 1961 equaled the nation's entire 1961 graduating class of engineers.

There were also 14,000 physicians, 28,000 nurses, 4,900 chemists, and nearly 1,100 physicists.

These then are not the illiterate peasant classes. They are well educated, intelligent, and reachable. Help us reach them with your liberal support of the special offering which will be taken in all of the North American churches for this altruistic purpose.

Are We Doing All We Could For Missions?

Seventh-day Adventists have always had a definite sense of urgency when it comes to fulfilling the commissions of Jesus to "Go into all the world" with the message for today. This sense of mission has been a definite influence all through our history. We have worked to build up a strong basic program here in North America, but all the while, we have had an eye on the overseas fields and their vast needs.

Never in our history has our work in North America had such an understructure of growing institutions and attractive churches. At the same time, our support of missions has always trended upward. In speaking of our world-wide program, one news writer in San Francisco at General Conference Session called us the "big little church." No other church of comparative size anywhere approaches our achievements. Many churches much larger do not do as much as we do. For all this, we thank God. We could do no less and be true to our profound convictions.

The question I want to ask today is "Are we doing all we should and could?" I need not elaborate on our affluent society. You can feel the dollar down in your pocket just as I can in mine. Many are perplexed about this question, "Are we doing enough for missions?" God has kept the United States dollar strong on the world market. Why? God has given His people incomes undreamed of only twenty or thirty years ago. What for? There are church members with more than comfortable incomes. Why? Surely this has not all happened just so we can live an easier life. These blessings must not mean to us that now we are entitled to all the luxuries of life that those of the world rate so important.

I do not wish to convey the thought that we must live in the horse and buggy days. But the facts are that our missions giving does not keep up with our income as indicated by our tithe. In proportion to our tithe, today we are giving less than half of what we gave in the early 1930's during the worst depression the world has ever known. What does this mean to you? Think what it means to the work of God. The work goes as fast as our giving allows.

This burden was on the hearts of our leaders at the Fall Council last year. This is why they voted that we endeavor to increase our Sabbath school missions giving by at least 50 per cent during 1965. You have seen articles in the Review and Herald, the Lake Union Herald, and your conference Sabbath school bulletins. What are you going to do about it? I believe that your response will be the same as mine has been. You will want to join with your fellow members and enlarge your weekly gifts "as God has prospered you." To all who have not taken this step, will you not do so next Sabbath? Remember that dollar you give today is not so large (does not have the buying power) as it was even a few years ago. No doubt ten years from now, if the Lord lingers, it will be still smaller. Pray about it, then follow the Lord's leading as to what you should do.

SPOTLIGHT

ON BOOKS

Surely you have seen the Missionary book for 1965, but if not you will find it both colorful and attractive. And if you are missionary minded, this inexpensive book will answer your needs for giving or loaning to your neighbors, friends, or relatives.

Life at Its Best represents major selections from the book The Ministry of Healing and is authored by Ellen G. White.

There are 35 very interesting chapters in this volume on healthful living, along with a number of beautiful picture illustrations.

You may be interested to know that the author's observations on such subjects as the use of alcohol and tobacco, prenatal influence, child guidance, and many other things are in harmony with today's findings in science and education.

Your friends and neighbors will not only benefit from this excellent volume, but you too will want to add it to your library.

At this reasonable price you can well afford to buy several copies and put them to good use.

Golden health tips are found on each page of good books, such as this one inspired by the God that made our health.

Improve your health this year by following this excellent counsel.

Buy now from your Book and Bible House or order through your Home Missionary secretary at the low price of $1 per copy. You will need to allow for tax where necessary and 15 cents postage for one, plus 5 cents for each additional copy.

A.A. Dr. W. E. McClure, undergraduate adviser at Andrews University, visited the A.A. campus recently and interviewed all senior students. Dr. McClure visited with each student individually to discuss his scholastic requirements, major fields, finances, and any questions that he had pertaining to Andrews University.

A.A. Adelphian's seniors journeyed to Andrews University recently for the annual college day trip. They were kept very busy visiting the various departments and recreational centers, and attending the many meetings held. After they returned to campus many of them stated that they planned to attend AU next year.

A.A. Physical fitness was the topic chosen by Elder L. C. Caviness, MV secretary of the Michigan Conference, when he visited A.A. recently. He proposed that a silver medallion be offered students who would complete a certain number of physical tests. A number of A.A. students accepted his challenge.

C.L.A. One hundred twenty-eight visitors were guests on May 3 for the annual Visitors' Day. Grand Rapids was awarded a 1965 Cedar Memories for having the highest representation. Seniors guided tours in the morning around the campus and the students challenged the visitors to a ball game in the afternoon.

C.L.A. Cedar Lake Academy Concert Band presented its spring concert on May 1. Donna Nyman was awarded the John Phillip Sousa award this year for being the senior, chosen by the band members, who had contributed most this year to the success of the band.

C.L.A. Two seniors, Donna Larson and Beverly Heyd were awarded the Michigan State Competitive Scholarship of $800 to apply on their college expenses next year. If the students maintain a "C" average or better, these scholarships are renewable.

W.A. On April 18 a special assembly was called for the purpose of distributing this year's Badger. Bob Chilson, editor presented the first annual to dean of boys, James Nash, to whom it was dedicated. A redwood settee and a copy of the Badger were also given to Merton Walcott, a Columbus photographer, who did nearly all the photographic work.

W.A. When the Seniors went to Andrews University for College Day on April 20, the freshman-sophomore picnic was enjoyed by the two classes at Dodge County Park. The Juniors kept the work departments functioning during the day and enjoyed a class supper and a film in the evening.

W.A. Career Day was held at Wisconsin Academy on April 14. About 20 different professions and careers were represented, some by local businessmen and others from Andrews University and the Wisconsin Conference. Every student had an opportunity to seek counsel about any career he wished.

Music Important at Indiana Academy

Indiana Academy sponsors a very active music program which contributes many cultural, spiritual and educational benefits to the student body, the local church and, in a larger sphere of influence, to the entire constituency of the Indiana Conference.

The means by which this program is implemented consists of the music teachers, the instrumental and vocal ensembles as well as the individual student performers.

For the past three years instruction in the brass, woodwind and percussion instruments of the band has been offered by Robert D. Groome. In addition to giving private lessons, Mr. Groome directs the I.A. Band, sponsors small instrumental groups such as the clarinet and trombone quartets plus solo performers. The sacred and secular repertoire presented by these performers has been of a consistently high calibre.

During the past three years Miss

Patricia Watts has provided a significant contribution to our music program in the choral and vocal areas. She directs the 40-voice Choralanas, the select 16-voice Keynotes small choir, and is musical coordinator for the junior and senior male quartets and the ladies trio. In addition to these groups she teaches over 50 private voice lessons per week. Her students make numerous solo appearances during the school year. Worthy of special note are the two annual oratorio programs, one of which presents a portion of the Messiah at Christmas time. Miss Watt's organizations are noted for their precision of delivery and their well-chosen memorized programs.

In this connection it should be noted that Mr. Groome assists in the choral program by directing the Chorales, a ladies choir which provides music for the Cicero church services when Miss Watt's groups are on tour.

Instruction in piano and organ is given by Harold O. Doering. His students have appeared as soloists during weekend services on campus throughout the year, and also on a number of occasions as featured soloists in conjunction with the instrumental and choral touring groups off campus.

It is difficult to appraise the total contribution of the combined musical forces of our academy. It may be sufficient to observe that there is no sacred service and very few secular programs without some musical offering. Finally, the beneficial cultural and disciplinary aspects of music study have a profound, far-reaching effect in the balanced personality of both performer and listener.

Specials at Camp Meeting

Children and camp meeting go together like soup and sandwich. Mrs. Addis has been ordering and planning for camp meeting for the last few months. She has been thinking of our young people throughout the state of Indiana. Many of you have visited her display during previous camp meetings. This year's display will be bigger and better than in any previous year.

We in the Book and Bible House are hoping to see you at camp meeting and to serve you with our Sabbath School supplies, books and periodicals. We have a special present for each family that registers and is to stay for the camp meeting session. After you are settled, come to the Book and Bible House.

New Property Purchased

Ola Robinson, pastor of the Vassar Seventh-day Adventist Church, received the deed for new church property upon making the final payment Friday, April 30.

The Adventist church has purchased a six-acre plot on Tuscola Road near Cottrell. The new sanctuary will have off street parking, more children's rooms and a welfare room to better meet church needs.

The church entered on a building campaign July, 1964, and members are happy to see this step taken in the realization of their dream of a new church home.

Near him, in a wheel chair, sat 83 year old Theodore Hauswirth of Quincy, crippled with arthritis, but answering the questions asked in a firm, confident, and happy tone, and undaunted by his difficulty in getting to the baptismal waters.

Born in France of German parentage, Brother Hauswirth came to America at 42 years of age. In Quincy, he and his wife met Christine Smith who could speak to them in German. She explained the Adventist message to them but as Roman Catholics, they found it difficult to accept.

Some years later, after the death of his wife, Brother Hauswirth became badly crippled with arthritis. Sister Smith was called upon to care for him, and had further opportunity to speak to him of God's love. Finally, her faithful witnessing, along with that of Bertha Vance who visited shut-ins, brought him to accept the Lord's plan for his life. With Pastor Covell on one side of him and tall Tom Hamrick on the other, Brother Hauswirth received the warm welcome of his fellow church members.

By faith the leadership of the Michigan Conference has launched one of the most worthy projects ever undertaken in the history of the educational program.

M. E. Munger

For many years, our academies in Michigan have played a definite part in preparing young men and women not only for life here and now, but also for that which is to come. These schools have supplied the cause of God with men and women ready to fill positions of trust and leadership all over the earth.

Many a boy and girl came to these institutions of learning without a knowledge of the love of God, others with only a shallow or superficial experience. But after a few months they had a new vision of their Creator and like Isaiah of old saw Him "High and lifted up." They received new concepts and purposes that God had for their lives, and with eyes fixed upon new horizons, they went out to serve.

- ★ Inspirational music.
- ★ Special programs for the children.
- ★ Large Book and Bible House Display.

PLAN NOW TO BE PRESENT!

True, not all reached the ideal held up by parents and teachers. Some were disappointments; but for each one the opportunity was there. The hundreds who have fulfilled God's purposes prove the worth of these God-ordained academies.

The tremendous issues of our day require that our boys and girls receive an education that is based upon principles of truth and uprightness. We must continue to maintain a high standard of efficiency both spiritually and scholastically if we are to meet God's ideal, and the requirements of the state. The church must not fail to supply the necessary buildings and equipment needed, that the academies in our conference may do their appointed work. Let us never forget that our children are our greatest heritage. May we all with one voice say with Nehemiah of old, "Therefore we his servants will arise and build."

Why I Like Camp

I like camp because of the friends you make and the kids you meet. I like it because of the good food you get. One thing that is a lot of fun is the walk you get to take morning, noon, and night. Oh, and I can't forget the fun you have on the trampoline. But the most fun of all is the canoe trip and the swim you get to take in the morning and afternoon.

Big Day—May 29

Construction of the New Camp Meeting pavilion at Broadview is rapidly moving toward completion. This picture taken May 11 reveals a building almost enclosed. They are presently pouring the concrete for the floor.

Everyone is working hard to provide these facilities for our spiritual edification. How much are we doing in a financial way to help pay the cost? May 29 is the big offering to be taken in all Illinois churches. We must have $5 from every member in order to share in one-third of the building cost. Children will be bringing their penny banks to help fill the offering plates.

Loyal constituents of Illinois, we are depending on you. With everyone sharing in this worth-while project, we can go over the top in record time. The conference staff expresses its thanks to the pastors and lay leaders for their promotion of this building program.

Springfield Cooking School Well Received

Illinois' capitol city, Springfield, has in years past been the scene of many cooking schools. However, the school recently conducted by Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Vollmer of Loma Linda, Calif., was undoubtedly the most unique in that it introduced to this community the use and preparation of foods in accordance with the principles of healthful living.

The Dorcas Society, which made the arrangements for the school, was fortunate in securing the Central Illinois Light Company demonstration kitchen for the five-day period of the school.

The school was exceptionally well received in the community and a number of non-Adventists were in regular attendance. Several favorable comments have since been received and a college home economics instructor has requested copies of the lesson materials and vegetarian menus used for use in her home economics classes.

Miss Nancy Taylor, home economics director for Central Illinois Light Company, spoke briefly during one of the sessions and expressed her interest in the efficient way in which the school was conducted and of her pleasurable association with Dr. and Mrs. Vollmer and the ladies of the Dorcas Society.

Local merchants were most generous in donating many fine items of merchandise which were given away as door prizes and as rewards to those having home-tested the greatest number of recipes from the school.

Loma Linda Foods, Worthington Foods and El Molino Mills all donated foods used in the demonstrations.

Special mention should be made of the able assistance of the Dorcas ladies in making this school a success, and particularly Mrs. Irene Pryor who served as kitchen supervisor, and Mrs. Theresa Moore, demonstration assistant. Mr. L. F. Varns also donated many hours in his role as purchasing agent for the school.

The local Dorcas Society has now made available to the church members a complete line of the products of the major health food companies.

Iowa-Illinois Fellowship

The story of youth evangelism becomes most effective when Rally Day comes to the Mississippi Valley area. Each year the Iowa and Illinois conferences join in a spiritual convocation of unity. The flooded places of the Tri-city area threatened a postponement of the meeting because of high water. However, the flood subsided and the rally continued under the director of the Iowa Conference.

Young people from Oak Park Academy actively engaged in the Sabbath School, the sacred concert of the afternoon and the entertainment for the evening.

Elder J. L. Dittberner, president of the Northern Union Conference was the speaker for the Sabbath service. His message entitled "It's Up to You" eliminated most questions which arise on the subject of predestination.

In the afternoon Mrs. W. A. Sowers of Oak Park Academy, told her life story. Tears fell from many faces as she revealed her sad history before coming to Christ.

Youth are moving forward with God in His glory. Rally Day gives them opportunity to display their talents and stimulate the adults into greater avenues of service. It was a day of rejoicing as we fellowshiped together, looking forward to the day of eternal happiness and peace.

THE VOICE OF PROPHECY
BOX 55, LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

Does your doctor need a prescription?

He probably needs more than that. He needs answers—on everything from the real reasons a person should stop smoking, to the state of the dead. He is asked countless questions. He needs good answers.

What could help him most is a subscription to These Times. The attractiveness and, most important to one so busy, the convenience of These Times make it an ideal way to witness to your medical man.

And where else but in your doctor's (or dentist's) waiting room could so many people be reached with the price of only one subscription?*

More and more the readers of These Times are coming from the ranks of the civic and religious leaders in our society. Our message appeals to the thinking people. Doctors, lawyers, teachers, editors, and ministers especially appreciate These Times.

Something new. These Times has acquired a list of names that includes most of the prominent people in your town or community. This list is available to you, free. If you want to extend the power of your witness beyond your family and friends, here is a golden opportunity to do so by introducing These Times to the leaders of your community.

These Times is gospel-filled, and each issue contains a Bible correspondence school enrollment opportunity. As a winner of souls, this magazine is tried and proved. If we are faithful now in the time of sowing, our joy will be great in the soon-coming time of harvest.

New Press Joins the Christian Record Family

Elder C. G. Cross, general manager of Christian Record Braille Foundation in Lincoln, Nebr., explains to Elder Theodore Carcich, president and chairman of the Board, and Elder R. H. Nightingale, vice-president of the Foundation, the operation of our new Heidelberg press, which now enables the Foundation to mass-produce braille pages for the FULL VISION LIBRARY books.

After much research by the Foundation, and consideration of the needs of blind parents who have small sighted children, and after much discussion, it was decided to produce books that contained braille, inkprint and colored pictures. Now, for the first time, blind parents can read to their preschool sighted children and hold the attention of these young minds.

The cost of the new Heidelberg press is $5,000; however, with the blessings of the Lord, the one shown above, which is slightly used, was secured for just $2,750.

C. G. Wilson, Director of Field Services
Christian Record Braille Foundation, Inc.
Lincoln, Nebr.

* * *

Cost of producing a Bible in Braille for one of the 30,000 Americans who lose their sight annually is approximately $90.00.

* * *

It is estimated that of the 66 books of the Bible, 54 are specifically mentioned in William Shakespeare's 37 plays.

OBITUARIES

CARNAHAN, Emma Elizabeth, passed to her rest in Jesus at Runnels, Iowa, on May 8, 1965. Sister Carnahan was born on July 26, 1886 at New Athens, Ill. She joined the Advent movement at Murphysboro, Ill., in the 20's. She was serving as treasurer of the Withee, Wis., Church at the time of her death and was an active Dorcas member. Her husband, Charles Carnahan, survives her. Burial was at the Colby Memorial Cemetery at Colby, Wis.

CHURCHILL, Mrs. Audrey P., was born July 24, 1888, in Kent County, Mich., and after a period of illness, passed to her rest in Owosso, Mich., on April 24, 1965.

As a young girl she accepted the truth and was a member of the Lansing Church.

She leaves to mourn her loss, one daughter, Mrs. Esther Van Wey, of Lansing; and one son, Wilbert Bush, of Owosso; four grandchildren and one step grandchild.

Words of comfort were spoken by the writer. Elder B. K. Mills

Annual Retreats Take Advantage of Spring

Pre-marriage Retreat Held in Allegan

A pre-marriage retreat for couples planning marriage was held Sabbath, May 15, at the home of E. B. Johnson, M. D. in Allegan, Mich. About 25 couples attended the retreat, which was directed by Elder James H. Rhoads, pastor of Pioneer Memorial Church.

A full day's schedule was planned with Sabbath School and church activities presented by students and faculty members. The Sabbath sermon was presented by Elder O. J. Ritz, former pastor of the Minneapolis Church.

Professional participants in the weekend's counselling and programs were: Dr. Charles Anderson, psychiatrist, Hinsdale Sanitarium; Dr. R. W. Spaulding, Bloomington; and Dr. Johnson.

A. U. professors participating were: Elder E. C. Banks, Dr. Mercedes Dyer, Elder C. E. Wittschiede, and the pastors of Pioneer Memorial Church.

Graduate Retreat Features Fagals

Elder and Mrs. William Fagal of Faith for Today were special guests at the graduate retreat, held May 7 to 9 at Camp Au Sable.

The annual retreat, sponsored by the applied theology department, is held for students and faculty of the seminary and graduate school.

Jaswant Kapur from India looks over the 300 books donated by the Student Association to his alma mater.

Some of the features this year included a nature hike under the direction of Elder Harold Jewkes, camp manager, and a special discussion for the ladies held by Mrs. Fagal on Sabbath afternoon.

Borge Larsen, who taught in the physical education department first semester, directed Danish gymnastics, and the faculty quartet provided special music.

The retreat was climaxed Sunday morning with the annual canoe trip.

"The weekend provides an opportunity to get away from studying and to become better acquainted with each other. It is an opportunity to spend time in nature and receive counsel and inspiration," says Robert Caskey, chairman of the committee to plan the retreat.

I.R.L.A. Elects Officers For Next Year

Terry Zull, junior theology major, was elected 1965-1966 president of the campus chapter of the International Religious Liberty Association at chapel Monday, May 10.

S.A. Donates Books To India

Books for the Spicer Memorial College Library in Poona, India, was a recent project undertaken by the Student Association, reports Glenn Coe, S. A. president.

Jaswant Kapur, a graduate student and previously assistant librarian at Spicer, introduced Spicer's need for books with which to stock their library.

Dr. C. H. Tidwell, Spicer academic dean, sent a list of books he felt were needed.

The S. A. worked with Leonard Hill, assistant librarian, and Mrs. Lois Morel, bookstore manager, and drew up a list of books that would be purchased.

Approximately 100 books came in from various departments on campus in answer to a letter sent out presenting Spicer's need.

The three hundred books cover every field from microbiology to etiquette.

"I want to express my real thanks," said Kapur. The books will accompany him when he returns to Spicer soon to teach history.

Included each year in the S. A. budget is $350 for a project to help a worthy individual, institution, or cause.
