Pediatrics Patient Gets a Lift from TV

Television helps 10-year-old Dorothy Ann Schmidt of Lisle, Ill., get around the traditional barrier that prevents children from visiting patients in the hospital. She is laughing at the antics of two younger brothers, Charlie, 5, and George, 8 (both turned toward the television on the wall in the photo below). They were among children at play in the hospital lobby while she watched for 45 minutes during visiting hours from her bed in the pediatrics ward.

By special arrangement, a mother in the maternity department not only can see her children on television but can talk to them by telephone while her "picture" is transmitted live to them. All other patients who have the TV sets can tune in to watch the happy electronic "reunion." This is one of the features of the new hospital television system that caused all 100 of the miniature TV sets to be rented out within a week after the system went into use.

A New Channel for Hospital T V Sets

by HAROLD M. WYNNE

A new "channel" for reaching patients has recently been installed in the 360-bed Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Patients have free choice of all commercial telecasts offered in the Chicago area, plus the closed-circuit channel reserved primarily for programs initiated by the chaplain's office. Still another channel will carry good music, sound-only stereo broadcasts offered by the hospital.

Miniature television sets are helping Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital solve a problem that has plagued hospitals: how to let patients watch TV without disturbing others.

A miniature television set is installed by Meredith Hart, center, director of medical electronics at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, for the first patient to use the new service: Robert B. Jelenchick of Lombard, Ill. William H. Wilson, left, associate administrator, explains to Jelenchick that the sets can be adjusted by him to any position desired.

Video-taping equipment capable of copying "It Is Written" programs for rebroadcast on closed-circuit television within the Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital is examined by Harold L. Reiner, center, coordinator of the popular television series.

Reiner conferred in Hinsdale with Chaplain Willis C. Graves, left, and Meredith Hart on the San's plans to use the George Vandeman series on the chaplain's channel. The chaplain is seeking to ensure that his channel has a quality of programming which will appeal to patients. (Photos by Pendleton)

The new TV sets now made available to patients are small enough to be suspended within one or two feet of the viewer, who can reach it for selecting channels and adjusting the light. An ear plug is used to keep the sound from carrying more than a pillow's length away.

The 5-inch screen is so close that, in effect, the patient sees a larger picture than most conventional television screens offer from across the room.

Viewing is made more convenient to the patient who is well enough to enjoy it. At the same time, the potential nuisance to the neighboring patient, who may not be in such good shape, is eliminated.

The flexible arms from which the TV set is hung may be inserted readily into one of three medical equipment stations on each side of the hospital bed. The set itself can then be pivoted as desired into the best viewing position for the patient, whether he be lying down or sitting up. Because the screen will be turned toward the viewer, its light will not bother the patient in the next bed.

The rental fee is easier to take, too. In fact, the two patients in a semi-private room can now watch television on separate sets for a combined rental of less than one patient formerly paid to view a conventional set.

As in the case of stereo earsets used on today's jet airliners, and for the same reason of sanitation, the personal listening devices are disposable.

Ultra-high frequency (UHF) channels as well as the regularly available commercial TV channels may be tuned in on the miniature sets. In addition, one channel will carry sound only to continue the stereo music already being offered to patients.

By special arrangement, it will be possible to carry live broadcasts of activity in the children's play area adjacent to the visitors' lobby to the bed of a mother hospitalized upstairs.

One hundred of the miniature television sets are ready for use now as the new system goes into operation. Rooms throughout the hospital are wired to provide outlets for each bed. Provision has been made to obtain more sets as the need develops.

The miniature television system has growth potential, too, in the medical field. It is feasible to provide nurses' stations with monitoring sets to permit viewing of critically ill patients. The system could also become a call system for patients, who, by pushing a button on their TV set, would be able not only to talk to the nurse but to see her. However, these are uses not immediately contemplated at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital.

The miniature system was developed for hospital use by Bridgeport Electronics Laboratory, Bridgeport, Conn. Sets used are essentially the same as a popular Japanese-make portable. They have been adapted by changing key items and substituting small coaxial cables for the normal power cords. The sets can be used only with the hospital's master antenna system.

Final Ingathering Totals In

With great rejoicing we present the final totals for our 1967 Ingathering Crusade.

Every conference did exploits for God and the Lord blessed with a large gain of $27,972.42 for the Lake Union Conference. We thank everyone who had a part.

May the continued blessings of God rest upon those who gave, those who solicited, and upon those who shall benefit from these funds. May the results of this campaign hasten the day when the Lord shall come to gather home His people.

Biography of George McCready Price Written

"Among twentieth century Protestant opponents of evolution, one man and one alone stands head and shoulders above all others. He is the 'geologist' whom Bryan cited as his chief authority at the famous Scopes trial in Tennessee, and almost every fundamentalist attack on evolution in the last three decades has drawn its major ammunition from his writings. He is, in fact, the last and greatest of the anti-evolutionists.

G. M. Price

"The name of this remarkable man is George McCready Price."

This statement was made by Martin Gardner, a man who completely disagrees with Price's conclusions.

Probably few Seventh-day Adventists, if any, have made so great an impact beyond the confines of the Adventist Church, as George McCready Price. Now, Professor Harold W. Clark, who has been closely acquainted with Price's work for over four decades, has written a biography of this remarkable man. This new book is called Crusader for Creation, and the price, paperback, is a mere $1.50. Ask at your Book and Bible House for it.

A GIFT FOR KOREAN ORPHANS

A gift of $1,106.20 has been sent to Korean orphans to provide food, clothing, and other necessities as a result of a Faith for Today telecast.

The film graphically portrayed life in a church-sponsored Korean orphanage. Viewing the telecast, a colorful on-the-spot travelogue filmed by Pastor W. A. Fagal, Mrs. LaRena Walters of Ridgecrest, Calif., prayed that God would reveal some way to help. She lived in a small 19-foot trailer and had only limited means.

The idea of a rummage sale occurred to her, and through summer months she collected items from friends, neighbors, and even strangers. Others who heard about the project soon began to help. These included the Sweet Adelines, the American Legion, the Council for Retarded Children, the Methodist Women's Organization, and the Episcopal Women's Legion.

Mrs. Walters presented the check to Pastor Fagal. Above, R. H. Richards, treasurer of the Korean Union Mission, passes on the check for $1,106.20 to Mrs. G. H. Rue at the Seoul Sanitarium and Hospital orphanage. C. H. Williams, president of the union, and smiling orphan children stand by.

Evangelism Today

The great evangelistic emphasis now gathering momentum, as it is so fervently urged by both our world president, Robert Pierson, and our beloved North American Division president, Neal Wilson, presents a mighty challenge to every worker and layman.

This call to evangelism is within the reach of each of us. We can all help now. Our two great missionary journals, These Times and Message, are ready. They are in step with the times and the thinking of our leading workers.

Recently a large outdoor billboard caught my attention. Its message was, "The spoken word is like the wind; the written word is forever."

How many shall you use? Yesterday a layman told me he had planned to reach 25 families with These Times. After the sermon he said, "I'll reach 200 families."

Only you know the names and addresses of those you need to reach. Make out your list now. Remember, These Times and Message are "In His Hands"—"Mighty to Save."

Both are reduced in price for your savings now.

It's now up to you. We are ready to help you—however, you must act now. Be sure to use the zip code as part of the correct address.

Time is short; souls are in the balance. Let us do our full part.

Wisconsin Referendum Slated on Bus 'Aid'

MADISON, Wis.—Wisconsin's voters on April 4 will determine whether the state's constitution will be revised to permit public transportation of children to private and parochial schools. Although the Wisconsin legislature has provided the necessary approval over the course of two sessions, supporters of the legislation are uncertain about its chances in the coming referendum.

Wisconsin's supreme court has, in the past, held that such transportation is not now permitted under the state constitution. Thus a change in the constitution is necessary in order to install a bus program for parochial pupils.

All Religions Face Extinction in China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The Red Guards are making life harder than ever for the 10 million Chinese Muslims and the remaining Christians on the Chinese mainland. When Mao Tse-tung unleashed the youthful rampage, the facade of religious tolerance in China crumbled. Buddhists, Christians, and Muslims all are now suffering intense persecution, according to reports from Hong Kong.

Spanish Cabinet Holds Up Law for Religious Freedom

MADRID—The draft law on religious freedom in Spain is encountering serious opposition in the Spanish cabinet. Some observers say the controversy may lead to the resignation of the Foreign Secretary, who has backed the freedom bill in the spirit of Vatican II.

The proposed bill would make religion a positive legal right, not merely a matter of tolerance, and would allow no restrictions except those dictated by respect for the state church, the preservation of sound morals and public order. Religious minorities would be able to identify their churches and members would be able to hold most political offices.

Other changes would permit all churches to train their clergy in Spain and would let dissenting minorities have their children exempt from compulsory religious instruction by the state church.

Weidner to Retrace Steps in Europe For Dutch TV

LOS ANGELES—A three-week return visit to Europe for John Weidner, hero of the book Flee the Captor, began when he left here the end of March.

Invited by Dutch television to make a TV program based on the route taken by the Dutch-Paris, the underground group which he led during the war, Weidner will find himself in familiar territory. The route from Holland includes Belgium, France, Switzerland, and Spain.

"It will be wonderful publicity for the Adventists in Holland," predicts Weidner, himself an Adventist layman who now runs a chain of health food stores in southern California.

A Dutch edition of Flee the Captor is to go on the market in April, several thousand copies being already sold on subscription.

Pathfinder Evangelism—Why Not?

Why do boys and girls find the Pathfinder program exciting? Is it because they can associate with other young people? Is it because they enjoy regimentation? Is it because of the variety of camp-outs, crafts, and the marching with uniforms? Yes! It is all of this—and more.

Youth love to play, but they also love to be challenged in working for God and the people for whom Christ died.

Pathfinder leaders, why not employ the energies of your youth in unusual types of evangelism? They enjoy doing the unusual.

DU QUOIN INGATHERING

Twenty-two of the 49 members of the Du Quoin Church had a part in the Ingathering for 1967 and raised $2,143.28. This gave a per capita of $43.73. Two caroling bands raised $941.51.

Jerry Ott, a faithful layman, contributed a great deal of energy to the success of the anniversary, interpreting for Elder Theodore Carcich.

Through interpreter J. T. Krpalek, the mayor of Berwyn, George Dolezal, commends the church for its contribution to the community.

Pastor J. T. Krpalek interpreted for consecration speaker, Elder Wesley Amundsen of the General Conference.

Interpreter Joseph Otrusina served Elder Theodore Carcich, vice-president of the General Conference. "I am glad the gospel of Jesus Christ is for all nations—it breaks down barriers."

One-Half Century of Witnessing

It was during the turbulent years of the first world war that the Czechoslovakian Church was organized in Chicago under the direction of L. F. Kucera.

On Friday and Sabbath, Feb. 17 and 18, 1967, after a half century of diligence in working and preaching, the church celebrated its golden anniversary.

Those responding to the anniversary invitation were Elders Wesley Amundsen, consecration speaker, Theodore Carcich, commemorative speaker, both from the General Conference; Illinois leaders, W. A. Nelson, president, Elton Dessain, treasurer; the mayor of Berwyn, George Dolezal; and former pastors and friends.

The weekend program featured a variety of music, talks, food, and wonderful fellowship. A special part of the program was a tape recording which brought greetings from the Christians in Czechoslovakia to believers in the Chicago area.

The atmosphere and surroundings of this foreign language church was like visiting another country as former pastors and laymen throughout the entire service translated from Czech into English.

Since its humble beginning with seven members on March 19, 1917, eight men have given excellent leadership to the Czech Church, which has grown until its present congregation numbers 55 members.

The first two converts were added to the church in 1919 and 1920 under the pastorate of Elder L. W. Kasa. Those baptized were Mrs. Anna Baranovic and Mrs. Frances Nemecek, both faithful members to this day.

Much effort was expended in those early years by L. F. Kucera, L. Ninaj, and Pastors L. W. Kasa and A. D. Haynal.

It was not until the arrival of Elder and Mrs. E. H. Moldrik from Europe and the celebration of their 25th anniversary on April 20, 1942, that the final steps were taken for securing a church home of their own. In 1943 a funeral chapel on South Hamlin and 27th Street in Chicago was purchased and remodeled, making a comfortable place of worship.

It is not unusual for pastors of bilingual churches to move to another area and then return. This happened many times with the Czech Church. In 1947 Elder Joseph Dobias came to serve. During his five-year tenure the membership doubled. With the return of E. H. Moldrik in 1953 a new evangelistic venture was begun, a weekly half-hour radio broadcast was aired in the Czech language.

With this expansion of soul-winning activities, the members now felt a need for larger quarters in the vicinity of its native populace. So in March of 1956 the present building was purchased and remodeled to be dedicated in 1961 under the leadership of Elder Dobias.

After Elder Dobias left the second time, Elder J. T. Krpalek returned to his home church as pastor. Joseph Kubick from Czechoslovakia revived the "Voice of Hope" radio broadcast and laid plans for a new Czech missionary journal.

The church today flourishes with the soul-winning spirit surging through its veins. They recently ordered three tons of books and literature at a cost of $2,500 which is to be distributed in the neighborhood. They have also held their first Vacation Bible School. After 50 years of service, they now stand ready to venture into any path of activity which will finish God's work.

Be Honest

Let's be personal for a few moments. Are you pleasant to live with? I like pleasant people whether they are fat, lean, tall, short, redheads, homely, handsome, Republicans or Democrats. The homely man with a healthy outlook on life will spread more cheerfulness than a bench full of sad, pessimistic collaborators at a religious conference.

You can pray, sing, play, work, think, rest, hope; you can be well or ill, rich or poor, and still be pleasant to live with.

Being pleasant helps you to be strong in body and mind and it keeps you young a long time. If you frown, it will soon get to be a habit—and give you a heavy heart. If you smile, your face will be attractive, no matter how unlucky you were in Mother Nature's gift of beauty.

Be pleasant in your home. Make the children feel home is the best place in the world. Be pleasant to live with and you will have more pleasant things to live for. Be pleasant to live with and people will turn to you as you pass and reflect your cheerfulness in their life.

We need happy Christians for better public relations.

Student Evangelism at I.A.

Watchful observers could have seen Indiana Academy students going from home to home in the nearby village of Pendleton in mid-February. In this age of teen-age rebellion, here were consecrated youth who had volunteered to participate in The Bible Speaks program, preparatory to evangelistic services in the Ingalls Church.

After several Sabbath afternoons of visitation, 29 Bibles and 33 sets of lesson guides were placed in homes of the Pendleton area. Already, one family is attending church as a result of these contacts, and other definite interests are developing.

It is good to see youthful zeal channeled into the service of the Master. Textbook education in religion is an important part of Adventist secondary education, but even more important is the practical application of Christian principles in actual soul-winning activities.

The members of the Ingalls Church have made their facilities available for evangelistic services to be conducted by students from the academy. We request your prayers for these youth as they carry the good news of salvation to the people of the Ingalls area.

Fort Wayne Members Collect Cards

Some months ago Fort Wayne members began to gather used Christmas cards for the 200,000 children of Korea and others in Indonesia, who are attending Vacation Bible Schools there.

We were advised that such gifts are greatly appreciated by the poverty stricken boys and girls of these countries. The church has forwarded eight packages totaling 3,800 such cards.

Miss Mame Olson, a member now confined to her home due to health reasons, has faithfully separated and neatly packed these cards for shipment. Mrs. Marjorie Nunn has generously contributed the shipping costs.

NEW HIGHWAY SIGNS FOR BLOOMINGTON

Six new highway signs welcome the traveller to Bloomington, and to our Seventh-day Adventist Church there. Erected on the main roads leading into the town, these new signs will catch the eye of thousands each year who will pass by. It will be another reminder of the fact that there is a people who honor the Sabbath of the Lord and look forward to His second coming.

We pray that these signs will be a means of attracting the honest-in-heart who are searching and also the backslidden who may have nearly forgotten the message they embraced in earlier years.

Russell Hainey, above, points to one of the new signs welcoming the traveller to Bloomington and our church.

Let's Make It Mean Something

April is teaching career month! Does this mean anything to you as a pastor, school board member, Home and School leader, or church member? Do you have a dedicated teacher in your church who has given service and has received scarcely a smile or any signs of adequate recognition?

You as a pastor, school board chairman, or Home and School leader can do something about this during April. Why not make a committee of at least three and tell the good things about our Christian teachers and schools!

A special sermon with present or past students relating incidents that will show the teacher's contribution and show how much our Christian teachers are appreciated, will bring a warm glow to many a teacher's heart and also to your church as a whole.

Your Home and School might enjoy presenting a gift book with as many of the church members' signatures in it as you can possibly get.

Your school board would enjoy contacting the newspaper editor and getting a picture in the paper.

Are you a member of the Get-Behind-Our-School committee or are you a member of the Frowning Board?

Make this program so interesting that more of our young folk will take up teaching as a career! It can be done!

Teen Dial in Bloomington

Teen Dial is a promising telephone contact with the community surrounding our Bloomington Church. We believe it has a tremendous potential for reaching youth in distress and leading them to Christ.

It all began just over a year ago. We were conducting the Five-Day Plan in Bloomington and had installed Smoker's Dial in the church. Response was so heavy that the line was busy almost all the time and many were saying they could not get through at all. So a second unit was installed by popular demand. The second number did not get the same publicity as the first phone and so did not draw as heavily. The church in business session decided to devote the second line to something else. Teen Dial was the choice for we saw in it a means of helping our own youth by involving them in answering some of their own questions.

A committee selected to work out details included James McGee, Harry Cutsinger, Berney Neufeld, and Lamar Young. A constitution was drawn up and a working policy activated (the prodigious work of James McGee). Equipment needs were quickly supplied by interested church members. One community businessman heard of it and responded financially. He also publicized the program widely in his many youth contacts. He confessed that he wished his own church had thought of the program and instituted it.

But just what is Teen Dial? By dialing 339-2414 on the telephone, teenagers and others in Bloomington may hear a question relating to youth problems and an answer which is really the cumulative thinking of a group of young adults on the Teen Dial committee. Cathy, the telephone voice of Teen Dial, is really a fictitious person and may change from time to time.

The community is invited to write for "counsel from Cathy." Each question submitted is researched by one person and an answer written. This answer is then carefully studied and reworked by the committee to see that it is clear, concise, and practical. If a written reply was requested, it is sent by mail. Some request answer via the telephone answering service. But every question receives an answer following consideration by the committee. Such careful consideration requires more time, but Teen Dial officers feel it is worth the price of delay.

Question and answer in final form are recorded on tape. These are systematically released on the telephone answering service by Bob Martin. Changes of question are usually released on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Careful records are kept for comparison to insure variety and quality control.

Response has been good in terms of the number phoning regularly and also in terms of letters received. It is our prayer that Teen Dial will be another means of reaching restless youth with a saving message. We must first gain their confidence by reasonable answers to their real problems (not the ones we think they have). Then we may be able to introduce them to Jesus.

Those currently active on the Teen Dial Committee are: Berney Neufeld, Robert and Janet Lickey, John and Vickie Berecz, Mary Young, Kathryn Ratliff, and Rosalie Baxter.

Muncie Church Remodeling Begins

As soon as Pastor Oliver Cheatham accepted pastoral responsibility for the Fort Wayne-Marion-Muncie district, he surveyed the needs of his new field.

Both pastor and members felt that in preparation for an extensive evangelistic program each church plant should be put in first-class order. Readers of the LAKE UNION HERALD will remember an article with accompanying pictures of the remodeling program at Fort Wayne. The transformation was little short of amazing.

Now the pastor and members of the Muncie Church have begun their remodeling program. Watch the picture change. We commend Pastor Cheatham and the people of his district for their zeal for God's house.

THE MESSIAH PRESENTED IN CHICAGO AREA

Handel's "Messiah" was performed in one of the largest Jewish Temples in Chicago. The combined chorus consisted of members of the Lake Region and Illinois conferences. Soloists were: soprano, Rolene Hanson from the North Shore S.D.A. Church; contralto, Barbara Pryor; bass, Calvin McAdory of Chicago; and Joseph Wilkins, tenor, of Detroit.

The inspiring presentation was directed by Sylvia Ham Ying of the Hyde Park S.D.A. Church. The overwhelming appreciation of the magnificent presentation has led to plans for an annual performance of the majestic work.

Lay Leaders Given Recognition

Special recognition for 13 years of outstanding leadership in missionary activities was given recently to George Schoun of the Coldwater-Quincy Church.

During a ten-minute missionary service Mrs. Myrtle McDonald, the 1967 lay activities leader of the church, presented a Bible to Mr. Schoun in recognition of his leadership. For many years he was the lay activities leader and his name has become synonymous with Ingathering.

Mr. Schoun has taken up duties as head elder and will in this capacity continue to support and aid the missionary activities of the Coldwater-Quincy Church.

Elder and Mrs. Venden, Lenette and Gary, gave a musical program at the Holly Church.

Keyboard Quartet Performs at Holly

The Keyboard Quartet, featuring piano, organ, marimba, and vibraharp, presented an unusual program at the Holly Church recently.

The quartet consists of Elder Leonard Venden, organist; his wife, pianist; 13-year-old Lenette at the marimba; and Gary, 11, at the vibraharp.

All the music for the quartet is arranged by Elder Venden as there is no published music for these four instruments. Chapel Records has produced two records featuring organ and vibraharp duets by Elder and Mrs. Venden and a new record will feature the quartet.

The Vendens are both graduates of Walla Walla College in Washington. He has combined his pastoral work and his music for more effective service. At the present time he is organ and piano instructor at Adelphian Academy. Mrs. Venden is teaching music to private students. Both of the youngsters began their music education at three years of age.

Dr. Knittel Conducts Adelphian Prayer Week

Dr. Frank A. Knittel, vice-president for student affairs at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Mich., led out in Religious Emphasis Week, March 13 to 18, at Adelphian Academy.

His general aim was to help the students see the forces and principles at work in the world so that each may weave a satisfactory pattern of life. Dr. Knittel also spoke at the church service on the final Sabbath.

Lt. Col. Patrick J. Marr, U.S.A., accepts the wreath presented by the Pathfinders in honor of our boys in Vietnam. In the background are Honorable Edward Wiest, the mayor of Wyoming Park; and Elder L. C. Caviness of the Michigan Conference MV Department. The honor guard consisted of John Ratzloff, Curt Price, Daniel West, and Tim Korson.

Grand Rapids Youth Rally Honors Servicemen

A tribute to "our boys in service" was a special feature at the Grand Rapids Youth Rally held in the Wyoming Park High School, March 10 and 11.

On Sabbath afternoon, Pathfinders in an eyemisting ceremony presented to Edward Wiest, mayor of Wyoming Park, and to Lt. Col. Patrick J. Marr, U.S. Army, a wreath in honor of American boys in Vietnam. Colonel Marr was scheduled to fly to Vietnam the following day and planned to take the wreath with him and place it on a servicemen's memorial in that country. However, his orders were changed and the wreath was placed instead at the servicemen's memorial in Wyoming Park.

The Pathfinders for the ceremony were from the Grand Rapids district and under the direction of Elder Dean Burns of Fremont and E. C. West, the Pathfinder leader from Shelby.

Alfonso Lopez, right, now of Chicago, tells his Grand Rapids youth rally audience his personal story of conversion in spite of grave personal danger while living in Quito, Ecuador. At his right is G. R. Ernst of the Adelphian Academy Mill who translated his Spanish.

Other special features of the two-day rally included special messages from E. R. Gane, a faculty member from Union College; the thrilling personal story of Alfonzo Lopez' conversion in spite of the threat of death; and a social evening in the high school gymnasium; also a presentation by Your Story Hour radio group.

Music furnished by the youth featured a girls' trio, and a brass quartet from Battle Creek Academy, and the Cedar Lake male quartet.

Adelphian Has Amateur Hour

Adelphian's annual Amateur Hour was held Saturday night, March 11. The program was presented by students who were assisted by Eli Baldwin as sponsor, Carl Ashlock as master of ceremonies, and Dan Shultz as music coordinator. The full-size luxury liner backdrop set the theme of the evening's program—a cruise on the seven seas.

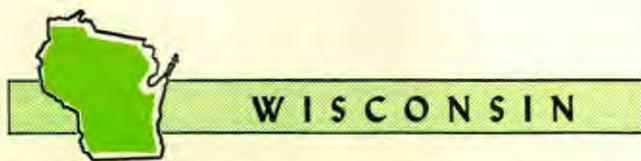

During an "Art Linkletter House Party," the announcement was made that Boys' Open House would be held on March 26.

Camp Meeting Facts Wanted

During the summer months of 1968 the Michigan Conference will celebrate its centennial of camp meeting. In 1868 the first Seventh-day Adventist camp meeting was held at Wright, Mich.

The Public Relations Department of the Michigan Conference is planning, among other things, printing material on the history of camp meeting. While special emphasis will naturally be given to the Michigan Conference, we are interested in the over-all camp meeting story and are seeking pictures of early meetings and interesting and unusual stories about them. If you have material of this type and are willing to share it with the Michigan Conference, it will be appreciated.

Address all material to Elder Ernest N. Wendth, Public Relations, Michigan Conference, Box 900, Lansing, Mich. 48904.

Pray for the 450

At the annual Wisconsin Workers' Meeting in February, the ministers took as their baptismal objective for 1967, 453 souls baptized into the church. We have rounded this figure off to make it our slogan and have set the figure at 450.

Those of you who receive letters from the conference office with a sticker saying, "Pray for the 450," will immediately associate this with 450 baptisms in the Wisconsin Conference in 1967.

We are asking our people all over the conference to make this a special subject of prayer each Monday when we at the conference headquarters unite in special prayer.

Evangelism, the bringing of God's truth to the unsaved, is the work of the church, not just the pastors. We invite, yes, we urge each member to work and pray for more souls than ever before.

R. E. FINNEY, JR.

President

Under New Management

James Herr has been appointed the Book and Bible House manager of the Wisconsin Conference. The appointment was made Feb. 17, 1967. Mr. Herr has been assistant Bible House manager for about four years. Prior to his accepting this assistant managership he taught school for six years in the cities of La Crosse, Richland Center, and Milwaukee.

Herr's predecessor, Drew Gackenhimer and his wife have accepted a call to the Tanzania Union in Africa where he will be the assistant union treasurer. Although they were workers in Wisconsin only a few months, they easily endeared themselves to all who knew them and their friendship will long remain in our hearts.

Mr. and Mrs. Herr have two children and we count it a joy to have them all in our midst.

LAYMAN OF THE WEEK

Mrs. Evelyn Mishleau is a member of the Fort Atkinson Church where she teaches a class of juniors in Sabbath School.

The unusual aspect is that seven boys in her class attended the Vacation Bible School, of which Mrs. Mishleau was the director. Because of the many things these boys learned and her personal interest in them they began coming to Sabbath School regularly.

Now, several months later, they still attend each Sabbath. Along with their regular Sabbath School study, they are also studying The Bible Speaks lessons with Mrs. Mishleau as their instructor. No one could convince her that Vacation Bible Schools do not pay, but if you have any doubt, just ask one of her boys.

H. J. Harris, Sabbath School Secretary

I See Camp Wahdoon

Camp Wahdoon! Just to mention the name conjures up in my mind pictures of adventure and excitement coupled with times of quiet devotion along the placid shores of a beautiful northern lake or amidst the whispering leaves of the birch wood chapel.

How fortunate Wisconsin youth are to have as their summer camp site such a perfect setting for all that MV camping stands for. How fortunate, too, that the administration and youth leadership of the conference have the vision necessary to develop the camp to the point where it can be fully utilized both summer and winter.

Already many young people have been led to make a decision for Christ as a result of their opportunities at Camp Wahdoon. Many more will make the same choice as they play, work, and pray with consecrated leaders who will guide them, not only along the Wahdoon trails but along the trails of life. Whether we fully realize it or not, Camp Wahdoon is one of the most important evangelistic centers in the conference and our camping programs are campaigns to win and hold our precious youth for Christ. Any investment in the development of Camp Wahdoon is in actuality an investment in evangelism for youth.

I am thrilled as I observe the progress of the "Two Miles of Dollars" campaign, for I realize that these dollars raised are dollars to save. Wisconsin always comes through in behalf of a worthy cause, and I have full confidence that each member will rally behind this great campaign to see it on to victory.

I am looking forward in eager anticipation to our victory celebration in Wisconsin Rapids on April 16. I am going to be there and will look forward to seeing you along with the dollars that will represent another great step in the development of our junior and youth summer evangelistic headquarters—Camp Wahdoon.

FRED M. BEAVON
Lake Union MV Secretary

Educational Evangelism

The members of the Wisconsin Academy Church were thrilled with the sight of 13 souls being baptized on Sabbath afternoon, March 11.

Elder D. R. Peterson, after conducting baptismal classes in the church school and academy, was privileged to conduct the service.

Those baptized from the church school were: Cinda Micheff, Sandra Schneider, Pamela Anderson, Tom Ahlers, Ken Wright, Ronnie Anderson, Michael Henderson, and Ronnie Morauske. Joan Leder, Sharon Underhill, Michael Hick were baptized along with two others from the academy.

Sights such as this make all of our educational investments worthwhile. There is no investment one can make in the future of the church that promises to bring back so great returns for so little.

Seven Topics for Spiritual Emphasis Week

Dr. Wilbur Alexander, professor of theology in the Seminary, will present the Spring Week of Spiritual Emphasis for the undergraduate school of Andrews University, April 9 to 14.

Dr. Alexander will speak Sunday and Friday evenings and at chapel each morning during the week. His topics for the week are: Sunday evening, "Having Ears to Hear"; Monday morning, "The Wasted God"; Tuesday morning, "Blood, Sweat, and Tears"; Wednesday morning, "The Missing Link"; Thursday morning, "The Ghost Life"; Friday morning, "Holier Than Thou"; Friday evening, "The Communion of Saints." He will meet with groups of students each evening during the week for further discussion of the topics presented.

Dr. W. Alexander

Since the week will combine the regular week of prayer with the student week of prayer this year, there will be student-sponsored programs each evening at 6:45 at various places on campus. These will include a panel discussion, various other discussion groups, a singspiration, and a religious drama entitled "Christ in the Concrete City." The week will close with the communion service on Friday evening at 7:45.

International Food Fair

The fifth International Food Fair will be held April 16 in the physical education building at Andrews University.

Food specialties from nine countries will be served from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. by persons in the costumes of the countries represented.

The fair is sponsored by the Graduate Guild and the Campus Women's Club with Mrs. Judy King as general chairman and Mrs. Farrell Brizendine and Mrs. James Stagg as co-chairmen of booth decorations.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Concert Band and Brass Choir Appearances

"Contemporary composers are recognizing band as a real cultural communication to the masses, and for that reason some of the richest literature for band is being written in this century," states Norman Krogstad, director of the Andrews University 70-piece concert band.

The band will appear April 22 at the morning church service in Lansing, in an afternoon sacred concert at Grand Ledge Academy, and in an evening secular program at Adelphian Academy.

The evening concert will include such contemporary numbers as Richard Roger's "Victory at Sea" and Gio-vannini's "Overture in B Flat."

The band will be appearing in two more concerts on the Andrews campus this year. On April 16 it will play in the Hymn Festival sponsored by the Berrien County Council of Churches and on May 13 it will be presenting its final concert for the year.

The brass choir, also directed by Krogstad, appeared at Wisconsin Academy on April 1 for an evening secular concert which included Aaron Copland's "Fan Fare for the Common Man" and James Marks' "Music for Brass and Tympani."

During the day the choir performed at the North Shore Church in Chicago and at the Milwaukee Central Church. Dr. Elaine Giddings, chairman of the speech department at Andrews, presented annotations in scripture, poetry, and personal thought to link together the various musical selections.

"In a brass choir," states Krogstad, "the arrangements call for a subdivision of parts for each type of instrument. The brass choir utilizes the full resources found in the band."

The sacred selections of the brass choir range from the antiphonal "Let All the Nations Praise the Lord," to the General Conference theme song, "We Have This Hope."

Jacquelyn Croumel, a graduate music major, was vocal accompanist for the choir.

The Andrews University Concert Band, 1966-67

Academy Music Festival

The Lake Union Academy Music Festival, to be held at Cedar Lake Academy, April 7 and 8, will feature Gaul's oratorio "The Holy City" Friday night.

Mrs. Minnie I. Wood, who directed the Collegians and the church choir at Andrews University from 1956 to 1960, will conduct the program.

Mrs. Wood, whose husband is professor of education at A.U., received her B.A. from Washington Missionary College (now Columbia Union College) and her M.A. from Catholic University of America. She has taught in China, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Singapore, and at Washington Missionary College, in addition to Andrews.

The Music Festival, which was originally scheduled to be held at A.U., will include 15 to 25 students from each academy in the Lake Union. Saturday night, they will present a concert of choral and band numbers with the teachers from the various academies directing.

Two special ensembles from each school will also present numbers sometime during the weekend.
