COVER:

A look of desperation is evident on the faces of fire fighters during the fire that destroyed the girls' dormitory at Grand Ledge Academy. Consolation could be found only in the facts that the fire did not spread to other buildings and that there was neither loss of life nor serious injury.

Shafts of light sifting down through smoldering ruins of what once was the chapel seem to be providing an epitaph for the only casualty—an 11-year-old parakeet belonging to Mrs. Irene West, dean of girls. Adelpia Hill, a senior from Detroit, and LaVerne Pembroke, a freshman from Grand Ledge, laid the bird to rest beneath the tree whose limbs and leaves had protected him from the bright sun.

Flames Fail to Quench Students' Spirits

by ERNEST N. WENDTH
Michigan Correspondent

A tragic silence filled the busload of students as they returned to the campus of Grand Ledge Academy from a weekend outing. Their spirits were low because of the news of the fire which completely destroyed the girls' dormitory with all its furnishings and girls' clothes.

As the bus drove onto the campus and the burned-out shell of the building came into view, hard-to-repress teardrops were wiped away. Then, slowly at first—and with a catch in some students' voices—the strains of their school song began: "We pledge to thee . . . a never failing loyalty." As they neared their "home of yesterday" voices gained strength and they sang, ". . . thy name shall be written high in victory." This rekindled in the hearts of all a faith in the bright future of Grand Ledge Academy. The students sang, they reported, to "cheer up" those who had witnessed the dormitory's destruction.

The hours-long fire was discovered about 9, Sunday morning, October 1. The building had been locked over the weekend because the 56 girls were at a Scott Lake camp-out. There was no indication of any trouble even twenty minutes earlier, although the fire apparently started by an over-heated electric wall heater in a ground floor room at the front of the building.

When the firemen arrived and knocked a hole in the front door a "back draft explosion" engulfed two firemen in flames and blew them off their feet. The clothes of one fireman caught fire but it was quickly put out and the man was rushed to the hospital for treatment of minor burns. He was able to report back for duty in a couple of hours.

Seventy-five firemen from eight surrounding communities arrived on the scene to fight the blaze. The Grand Ledge fire chief said nearby buildings might have been lost if the area communities had not sent aid to the Grand Ledge Fire Department. He said aerial trucks from Lansing and Charlotte were of prime importance in preventing the spread of the flames.

The building, known during camp meeting times as the departmental building, is used by the girls during the school year as a dormitory. It also houses the chapel and the apartment of Mrs. Irene West, the dean of girls.

S.A.W.S. Aids 'Beulah' Victims

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The Seventh-day Adventist Welfare Service (S.A.W.S.) has distributed more than one hundred thousand garments to sixteen thousand Hurricane Beulah victims in Texas.

S.A.W.S. secretary Carl E. Guenther said Red Cross officials asked S.A.W.S. to handle distribution of relief materials "because of its carefully organized relief program." Red Cross officials in 16 southwestern states asked that surplus clothing be delivered to local Adventist churches, and more than 150 tons of clothing was received.

Woodward G. Larson, Texas S.A.W.S. director, indicated thousands of Mexicans have been allowed to cross the border into the United States to get relief supplies. The Mexican government allows each person to return with a limited number of garments. S.A.W.S. has been unable to get permission to truck relief supplies into Mexico.

Adventist pastor Carlton Dyer of Lake Charles, La., was on the S.A.W.S. van from the Arkansas-Louisiana Conference when it entered Brownsville at the height of the hurricane. Dyer hooked up his ham radio to the van's 3500-watt generator and provided Brownsville's only communications with the outside for 26 hours. He relayed more than two hundred emergency messages in and out of the city.

Famed Alpine Monastery Damaged by Fire

ST. BERNARD PASS, Italo-Swiss Frontier—Fire has caused an estimated $32,000 damage at the famed Augustinian Monastery and Hospice of St. Bernard high in the Swiss Alps. Using primitive methods, monks succeeded in extinguishing the fire.

Since the middle ages, the monks of St. Bernard have not only cared for weary travelers but rescued thousands of them from the snowy wastes around the monastery. Their famous helpers are the huge St. Bernard dogs. Thousands of tourists annually flock to the monastery to see the kennels where the St. Bernards are kept.

Vatican Announces Drastic Reforms in Administration

VATICAN CITY—Pope Paul the Sixth has announced drastic changes he will make in the Roman Curia, the central administrative body of the Roman Catholic Church. On January 1, Pope Paul will end the traditional lifetime tenure of the curia, create several new agencies, and eliminate or reorganize others.

Under the new rules, officials of curial congregations will be appointed for terms of five years. They will be subject to reappointment by the Pope. Their resignations will be submitted automatically when a Pope dies, and the new Pope will have three months to choose other appointees before the tenure of the previously appointed man is reconfirmed.

Blame for Hippies Placed on the Home

DEARBORN, Michigan—How do hippies—who get high on weeds and bug out of life—get that way? An Orthodox priest from the Haight-Asbury hippie district of San Francisco puts the blame squarely on the home, and not on the hippies. Speaking before the Clergy Conference of the Syrian-Antiochian Orthodox Archdiocese of North America, Father Gregory Ofiesh said, "The hippie is a victim of one of the greatest tragedies, the total lack of love in his home." He said no individual or society could be expected to function without love. Continued Father Ofiesh, "There must exist a personal and individual concern for each child." What can churches do directly for hippies? "I can truthfully say, nothing," answered the priest. But he did urge delegates to reappraise their church educational programs to include for information directed toward sound family adjustment.

Mormons Plan New Temples in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY—The Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints will build two new temples at Ogden and Provo, second and third largest cities in Utah. The two new temples will take pressure off existing Mormon Temples in Salt Lake City, Logan, and Manti. They will allow a redistricting of Mormons now served by the three temples, according to the church's president, Dr. David O. McKay.

Currently the Salt Lake Temple district has 493,473 members. The new temples are each expected to cost about two and a half million dollars.

Anglicans Urge Aid to Deaf Children

LONDON—Advice on how to read lips is given to parish priests and their parishioners in a recent Church of England report. Entitled "The Deaf Children in the Family to the Church," the report was issued by the Church of England Council for the Deaf. It urges clergy and laymen to take responsibility for the welfare of the deaf children in their parishes. In addition to advising on lip-reading, the report also observes that two of the most important qualities needed for dealing with deaf children are warm-heartedness and absence of embarrassment.

Record Number of Films Banned

NEW YORK—What's playing in the movie houses these days? Whatever it is, the National Catholic Office for Motion Pictures has been enjoying it less. In fact, the office has given a record number of condemned ratings to this year's crop of motion pictures. It had given its "C" or "condemned" label to an all-time high of 17 pictures at the end of August.

A spokesman for the Catholic office says the condemned ratings are based on the increased use of nudity in American films. Explained the spokesman, "In itself nudity is not immoral and has long been recognized as a legitimate subject in painting and sculpture." He noted, however, the history of the motion picture industry indicates nudity isn't an artistic necessity.

Continued the spokesman, "The temptation for film makers to exploit the prurient appeal to nudity... is so great that any concession to its use... would lead to wide abuse."

Bolt of Flannel Brings Missionary to Rockford

Sabbath, September 16, was an exciting and rewarding day for the junior department of the Rockford Sabbath School. A visiting missionary, Miss Elvera Eckerman, from Ghana, Africa, was their guest. Her visit was shared with all the Sabbath School divisions. She told thrilling experiences in her field of education.

The leaders of the Rockford junior division had written Miss Eckerman some months before, inquiring if there would be any small project in which this lively group could help. The most appealing suggestion Miss Eckerman had was for them to send dark flannel to make flannel boards as teaching aids for her graduating class. She needed enough for 83 students. This type of material is not obtainable in Ghana, since warm temperatures do not create a need for this type of material.

A bolt of flannel was purchased and mailed by the junior department and it arrived in time for the African graduation. The entire junior department experienced a very rich and thrilling reward as Miss Eckerman thanked them for the gift. The feeling is difficult to express—this humble gift, sent with so little effort, was so much appreciated.

The project undertaken now by the junior department is to make or share Barbie doll clothes. A toy shop gave Miss Eckerman 39 "undressed" Barbie dolls. Rockford juniors hope to dress these dolls and make some little African girls, who have never seen American dolls, very happy.

The Rockford junior department would be happy for help from any who might be interested in their project of dressing Barbie dolls for little African girls.

My "Bible Speaks" Experience

I was introduced to the Seventh-day Adventists through the Bible Speaks program. Since then I have observed the real Sabbath and I feel I have set myself straight with my Creator.

I attended the Wisconsin Conference Camp Meeting in Portage, and was baptized there. After listening to men like Elders Coon, White, Loewen, Atchley, and Fagal I was convinced that getting baptized and serving my Lord was the only thing I could possibly do to make my own life mean something to me, and also do something for my Saviour.

I am a former member of the United Protestant Church (Methodist) and I must admit I learned more about my Bible in the last five months than in all my years as a Methodist. I thank God for directing my life into the paths of the Seventh-day Adventists.

The Bible Speaks program is doing a tremendous work of sowing seed for the harvest. Don't give up—keep sowing.

T.O.P.S. Club Formed

On Monday evenings at 7:30 at the North Shore Church (California and Foster avenues), 12 members of the North Shore T.O.P.S. Club meet to help each other lose weight.

The T.O.P.S. (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) Club is an international organization with the objective of helping persons take off excessive weight by safe and reasonable methods. Club members weigh in each Monday evening, reporting to the others any gain or loss. The psychological effect of facing the club members to report an embarrassing weight gain helps each member to watch his calorie intake and try to establish more healthful eating habits. Members are penalized for weight gains, but this is done in "fun" by all.

Calorie charts are kept and discussed during the meeting and helpful hints on low-calorie dishes are given. Activities are planned to help members lose weight, and members encourage each other throughout the week.

Persons interested in joining may call Mrs. Darlene Ecklund at (312) 766-1588 or Mrs. Lavonne Levens at (312) 261-2083.

Trial by Fire

It was in the dean's apartment where the only loss of life took place. Her 11-year-old pet parakeet was overcome by the smoke and died in its cage. The bird was buried beneath the same tree which shaded its cage from the sun.

Also in Mrs. West's apartment were two cans of In-gathering money containing almost one hundred dollars. Although they were blackened by the heat and flames, and the paper marking the amount of money in the cans was scorched at the edges, the money itself was not harmed in any way.

In the room of Alice Fisher, a student from Manistee, the only item not harmed was a picture of Christ hanging on the wall. However, almost every girl lost her textbooks, including her personal Bible. One girl was reported to be disappointed and perplexed because her chemistry textbook came through unscathed.

The fire gave the conference welfare department and particularly the Central Michigan Health and Welfare Federation its first opportunity to give major emergency aid to its own church members. While the firemen were still fighting the blaze, plans were formulated to furnish blankets and linens for the girls from welfare supplies. By evening, beds had been set up and made ready for the students. On Monday and Tuesday the welfare center in downtown Grand Ledge was opened to help outfit the girls. Not only did this include necessary clothing, but also a limited amount of pictures to decorate their rooms and in some cases stuffed toy animals for that decor so essential to a coed's room.

Local friends and businessmen of Grand Ledge and the surrounding area have contributed both cash and merchandise to the school's emergency fund.

Gifts of one hundred dollars in cash, one hundred dollars' worth of merchandise, and smaller amounts, were received almost immediately after the fire. Girls from Cedar Lake and Adelphian donated some of their own clothing for the students at Grand Ledge.

Sigma Phi Beta, the boys' club of Grand Ledge Academy, with an eye on the future, presented to the girls at a special "ice cream and cookie" ceremony a large picture for the lobby of their new girl's dorm. It will hang in temporary quarters until the dorm is built.

The fireman injured earlier in the day, center, visits with Worth Lowder (white shirt), academy treasurer, and Elder B. G. Butherus, conference educational superintendent.

LAKE REGION

Shiloh Yearbook Dedicated To Mrs. Thompson

The ninth grade class and its sponsor, Reginald Barnes, dedicated the Shiloh School yearbook, "The Door," to Mrs. Christine Thompson, who retired after teaching for 25 years in the Lake Union Conference. Most of that time was spent at the Shiloh School.

Mrs. Thompson

Mrs. Thompson's husband, Elder A. Gaines Thompson, died during the bitter days of the great depression, leaving her with an infant daughter. Mrs. Thompson could have become overcome with self pity; instead she returned to the classroom. She continually raised her professional status by in-service training at several schools of higher learning.

At the time of retirement, Mrs. Thompson was principal of the Shiloh School, one of the largest church schools in North America. Under her administration enrollment reached four hundred and fifty and the teaching staff increased to 16.

Her fellow workers and members of the conference staff saluted her at a program held in her honor.

Elder S. D. Meyers, pastor of the Shiloh Church, and former pupil of Mrs. Thompson's, read the following citation:

"For many years Mrs. A. Gaines Thompson has been molding, moving, and influencing the personalities and characters of the youth of the Shiloh Church School. From these hallowed halls have gone countless numbers of youth on whom the stamp of determination, courage, and purpose has been indelibly placed by Mrs. Thompson.

"To those of us who knew her best she will be long remembered for her love of humanity and her sense of humor. Her role has been one, not only of teacher and administrator, but counselor, guide, and above all, friend.

"Perhaps it is a deeply-rooted sense of the sublime and the ridiculous that enables her to interpret life with such an equable philosophy. With a personality as distinctive as a seven-pointed snowflake, her individuality is unmistakable. . . .

"With tender affection we dedicate this year book to Mrs. A. Gaines Thompson, with the fervent prayer that the pleasant memories of the past 38 years will serve to warm her heart for many seasons to come, and that she will be confident that those of us to whom she has passed the torch of service will carry it humbly, but proudly, in recognition of the kind, thoughtful, steady, faithful hands from whence it came."

Shiloh School Opening Report

The Shiloh School opened on September 5 with an enrollment of 438 pupils and 19 teachers to guide them. Both teachers and pupils anticipate a successful school year. The teachers who returned are:

Mrs. Louva Longware	Kindergarten
Mrs. Carol Smith Thomas	First grade
Miss Avie Joseph	Second grade
Miss Mildred Love	Third grade
Mrs. T. Cunningham	Fourth grade
Miss D. McCaskil	Fifth grade
Miss Jane Byrd	Sixth grade
H. T. McHenry	Seventh grade
M. O. McKinney	Foreign Languages
Ivan Van Lange	Science

Those who have just joined the staff are:

Mrs. D. Martin	Kindergarten
James Bennett	Bible and History
Mrs. M. C. Bennett	First and Second grades
Edward Robinson	Mathematics
Miss D. McDonald	Mathematics
Mrs. J. Reaves	Secretarial and Commercial

Two alumni of the Shiloh School have started their teaching career at Shiloh. James Harris, social studies, and Miss Carolyn Van Putten, English.

Seated in front of the student literature evangelists are L. W. Brantley, acting publishing secretary of the Lake Region Conference, Joseph Lewis, Harry Strafford, and Thomas McNealy.

World Leaders in Magazine Sales

This fine group of student literature evangelists worked in the Lake Region Conference this summer and sold eighty-seven thousand single magazines in 10 weeks. This was in spite of the strikes and riots.

They worked under the leadership of three student leaders, Thomas McNealy, Joseph Lewis, and Harry Strafford, using Indianapolis, Detroit, and Chicago as their home bases. The three groups covered all the large cities of the Lake Region Conference. To date 24 scholarships have been earned.

Workers' Meeting in Lake Region

The fall workers' retreat, September 18 to 20, was one of the finest conducted in the Lake Region Conference. Elder E. E. Cleveland of the General Conference Ministerial Department and Dr. W. A. Alexander of the Andrews University faculty were guests. Elder Cleveland presented the morning devotion, directed one of the panel discussions, and conducted a question and answer period on evangelism. Dr. Alexander presented a series of lectures and discussions. The afternoons were spent in physical recreation such as ping pong, softball, and swimming. In the evening various panels wrestled with questions pertaining to church administration.

The workers returned from the "mountain top" experience with renewed vigor and zeal to finish the work.

Mary Graham Scholarship Foundation

The children of the late Mrs. Mary Graham of the Shiloh Church, Chicago, Ill., granted a $100 scholarship to all the former pupils of the Shiloh School who graduated from Broadview Academy in the spring of 1967. This grant was made to those worthy students who want to attend a college of their choice for advanced studies.

Reginald Barnes, principal of Shiloh School, read the following at the Broadview Academy commencement exercise:

"This foundation is founded and sponsored by the children of the late Mary Graham of Chicago, Ill., who, without financial help after the death of her husband, devoted her life to the Christian education of her children. These children all attended the Shiloh School and are now serving the denomination and suffering humanity as ministers, teachers, a doctor, and a beautician.

"The foundation wants to place special emphasis on scholarship, moral behavior, spiritual and ethical ideals, and will do everything to encourage same. Some students might not have done as well scholastically as they are capable of doing, but if accepted, preferably but not necessarily in one of our colleges, might prove themselves to be worthy students.

"Due to financial need the average student sometimes finds it difficult to attend college. This scholarship, therefore, will be given mainly on the basis of financial need to high school graduates who have attended Shiloh School and graduated from Broadview Academy.

"It therefore gives me great pleasure to award grants of $100 each to: Barbara Brown, Hershyl Edwards, Patricia Bond, Rolando Henry, Jittuan Grogan, Sonetta Grogan, Edith Kidd, Gloria Moss, Melvin Scott, and Sharon Willis."

Indianapolis Crusade Report

Within the next few days many will decide for or against the Lord in the city of Indianapolis. Many are facing truths which are new or difficult to them. Now is the time when by our lives and by our words we must urgently invite them to walk with the Lord.

We wish that many could have the privilege that we have of visiting in homes of individuals who are considering the most challenging and decisive question, "What must I do to be saved?"

During these last few days of our Indianapolis crusade, we need every member to help us by praying, attending, and becoming involved. Bring your friends with you; then pray that the message will react favorably upon their hearts.

Right now as you read and think of these words, won't you kneel down and ask God to grant us souls for His kingdom from these meetings?
