COVER

The sound of music is often heard at Andrews University, from the sound of the magnificent Casavant pipe organ in Pioneer Memorial (cover) to the sound of rhythm instruments in the elementary school, where graduate students sometimes practice teach. The story of the graduate music program is featured this week.

The Andrews University music department is housed in a brownish-brick building flanked by the modern Campus Health Center and the more sedate Life Sciences Building on the sprawling campus of the school. Into the building of three floors are crammed the offices, classrooms, practice rooms, and amphitheaters for group ensemble practice and small concerts.

Each year this edifice sends out around 20 students with master's degrees in music to take their places in the cultural world. The alumni of the department presently number 70.

The department offers two degrees: an M.A. with an emphasis in theory and composition or music history and literature, and an M.Mus. with an emphasis in performance in the specialties of voice, organ, piano, or violin. All students take courses in music history and literature in addition to private lessons. Of the 44 credits required for the degree, an M.A. student must have a minimum of six credits in performance in his chosen specialty and take courses in education, conducting, acoustics, and the psychology of music. The M.Mus. student must have at least 26 credits in performance, practicing four to five hours a day. Everybody is required to perform with either the band, choir, or orchestra. As a capstone to their degree, the M.Mus. students give a recital; the others may write a dissertation instead if they so choose.

The teachers in the department represent a collective group of gifted individuals with high attainments in the cultural world. "Our goal is to have every area of emphasis headed by a teacher with his doctorate," says Dr. Paul Hamel, chairman of the department, with administrative duties ranging from coordinating his faculty and teaching two classes to caring for the physical needs of the Music Building. Some teachers already have the doctorate; others are near that achievement.

The present graduate staff includes: Dr. C. Warren Becker, organ; Gerald Ferguson, voice; Dr. Hans-Jorgen Holman and Dr. Blythe Owen, composer in residence (piano); and Stanley Walker, organ. A woodwind and church music specialist will join the staff next year. (On the music staff of the college are also: Wilmoth A. Benson, voice; Charles G. Davis, violin; F. Graham Heppel, flute; Lily Pan, piano; LeRoy Peterson, artist in residence [violin]; Samuel M. Read, percussion; Emmanuele Verona, artist in residence [piano].)

Students who have completed an undergraduate degree in music are eligible for admission for graduate study. Applications occasionally include a few local housewives and students from Bethel College and Northwestern and Western Michigan universities.

For sharpening their musical skills, the graduate students have three electronic organs, three new Steinway pianos, a nine-foot Knabe grand piano, and three small practice pipe organs; but the best known piece of equipment is the seventy-five rank Casavant pipe organ in the sanctuary of the Pioneer Memorial church.

"We have an enthusiastic group of students," says Dr. Becker. "They like to give recitals on the organ as a means of expression, like the budding young ministers who preach on Sabbath."

Since many of the local churches depend on the department for musicians to sing in their choirs and to play the organ for their services, any graduate student is eligible for a church job with pay. Some students teach the less advanced undergraduate students, and others teach part-time in the public schools.

Upon receiving their degrees, the graduates find various means to earn a living. "Two local people who received their degrees from Andrews are now ministers of music in local churches," says one teacher. "A few housewives around here earn a tidy little income by giving private piano lessons in their homes," says another professor.

Most of the graduates pursue teaching careers, with a few going on to get their doctorates; 20 alumni of the department are now teaching on the college level.

Faith for Today Returns to Home TV Station

NEW YORK—Faith for Today is back on television in New York City! Maybe you have already heard the good news, but we just wanted to be sure. Please be sure to spread the word to all of your friends and neighbors. Here is the information you need: WABC, Channel 7, Sundays, 8 a.m., in color. First showing was January 26, 1969.

CITY SCHOOLS ADOPT PRAYER, BIBLE READING

CLAIRTON, PENNSYLVANIA—Prayer and Bible reading have been returned to the classrooms of Clairton's public schools in defiance of the five-year-old ban by the U.S. Supreme Court. Clairton's nine-member school board ordered the resumption. The school superintendent then sought legal opinions from county and state authorities. No protest has yet been heard from the community.

High school principal, Neil C. Brown, said that the whole thing started with the students. He reported that students in "Problems of Democracy" classes have been advocating Bible reading and prayer for some time.

CHICAGO DIVINITY SCHOOL FACES FINANCIAL CRISIS

CHICAGO—A financial crisis may force the University of Chicago Divinity School to curtail new admissions to its professional ministry program. Miss Nancy Denny, administrative assistant to Dean Jerald C. Brauer, said probably the program for a Doctor of Ministry degree will have a moratorium against admission of new students next September because of the lack of funds to support it. If no new ministerial students are admitted next year, the program will continue at the second, third, and fourth year levels.

TEMPERANCE GROUPS SCORED FOR RIVALRY

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Alcoholism may still be a big problem in this country because too many of the temperance groups organized to combat it are mostly combating each other. This conclusion is part of a National Council of Churches report.

The report named none of the groups it criticized but a spokesman for the task force explained that a faction stressing abstinence is at one extreme and a faction favoring moderation is at another.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union and the American Council on Alcohol Problems have consistently supported abstinence. Moderation has been favored by the National Council on Alcoholism and the North Conway Institute of New Hampshire.

A glimpse through a door in Music Hall at Andrews shows Gerald Ferguson, associate professor of music, at work with one of the campus choral groups.

All graduate music students are required to perform in the band or orchestra or a choral group. The A.U. band is under the direction of F. Graham Heppel, M.Mus.Ed.

PROBING SPACE

—Courtesy of Johns-Manville

PROBING THE VASTNESS OF OUTER SPACE, man has sent giant satellites circling the earth. He envisions the possibility of reaching the moon—and going far beyond.

An insatiable curiosity goads him to discover what is happening on other worlds. Probing minds seek answers to fantastic questions.

Is there life on other planets? Will it be possible for man to actually visit far away worlds? What will be the limits of space travel?

The greatest space exploration of all will take place when God's kingdom is established. Then those who have served Christ faithfully will have opportunity to tour God's vast universe. Nor will they need rockets to do it.

Make a list of names and addresses of individuals whom you have enrolled in the Bible Course. Be sure they have actually asked to enroll. Random names from the telephone book or city directory are valueless and should not be submitted. BY FAITH I LIVE, a full message book by Pastor Fagal, will be sent to all of those securing five or more enrollments.

Faith for Today's Bible Course paves the way for entry "to that city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God."

Why not invite a friend to enroll in Faith for Today's Bible Correspondence Course? Your postman, your neighbor down the street, your loved one — all should be learning about great eternal truths from God's Word.

Check with those whom you know, and then fill in names and addresses of persons who would like to take the Bible Course. They progress at their own speed. No cost or obligation now or later. And if you have not taken the Bible Course, add your name, too, won't you?

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY PROPONENT TOURS STATE OF ILLINOIS

Representing the Religious Liberty Department of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists recently was Elder James P. Scully. Included on his itinerary was a visit to a monument in Alton erected in memory of Elijah P. Lovejoy, first man in America to give his life for freedom of the press.

Elder Scully was visiting the churches in Illinois with Elder Eston L. Allen for religious liberty councils from December 27 to January 4.

Visiting the grave site of this important figure in American history brought a feeling of honor to Elder Scully. Elijah Lovejoy was a fine Christian man with high ideals. He had sworn eternal opposition to human slavery and was aggressive for freedom of the press. He told his enemies that he might die at his press, but he would not desert it.

Before a meeting held for the township November 3, 1837, six days before his death, Reverend Lovejoy stated: "Sir, while I value the good opinion of my fellow citizens as highly as anyone, I may be permitted to say, that I am governed by higher considerations than either the favor or fear of man. I am impelled to the course I have taken, because I fear God, as I shall answer it to my God in the great day. If the laws of my country fail to protect me, I appeal to God and with Him I cheerfully rest my cause."

Such is our need in this twentieth century as we face the opposing forces which seek to restrict our liberties. We must stand by our post and not desert it; we must keep our communications with God steady; we must live our beliefs and fight the good fight of faith, for Jesus is coming soon.

The splendid response by our people as we traveled around the state, meeting in their churches, helped us realize that God's people want to do what is right to finish God's program in preparation for that joyous homecoming.

Take time out to write to your local and state leaders and your community newspapers expressing your convictions regarding religious freedom.

Religious Liberty Secretary*

ACADEMY STUDENTS' PLACES TAKEN BY MV OFFICERS FOR WEEKEND

Although the Broadview Academy campus was evacuated by most of the students for their weekend leave of January 23 to 26, the place was anything but dormant. It was MV and Pathfinder Officers' Institute time, so the officers moved in and occupied the dormitory rooms, partook of the fine food in the cafeteria, and enjoyed wonderful counsel for 10 hours.

Elder W. S. Edsell, MV director for the state, had a well-planned program of instruction. Those sharing their talents and experience in this council were ministers from the churches, conference leaders, and the Civilian Chaplain for the National Service Organization, Elder J. D. Westfall.

The Sabbath School was directed by Dan Peters. Special music was given by Mrs. R. B. Graham, the mission story by Elder W. L. Fitch, and the lesson study by D. L. Redwine.

On Saturday night the entire group had opportunity to expend some of their stored-up energy in a full evening of recreation.

Those having completed the course will receive a certificate of graduation.

Over 30 Attend Branch S.S. in Litchfield

This is the building in which the Litchfield Branch Sabbath School holds its services. There are over 30 adults and children who attend each week. They have rented this downtown building, which has three large rooms.

Elder A. John Graham, pastor of the Alton church, has been working with this fine group, along with dedicated laymen. It won't be long now until they will be requesting the conference to organize them and dedicate their building as a church.

Did you notice that nice sign outside? Some of our churches still need representative signs.

Success to these wonderful people as they work for God.

E. L. Allen

SENIOR CLASS LEARNS MEMORY VERSES

"If primary children can learn memory verses, so can we," said a senior Sabbath School class in Alton. Elder A. John Graham teaches the class.

The immediate result was that lessons were studied nearly every day during the quarter; at the end of the quarter more than half the members could repeat the memory verses for the whole quarter. The long range results will be seen as the Holy Spirit calls the verses to mind as needed by the individual members.

Cradle roll and kindergarten children from Marion raised $222.89 for Investment last year.

Marion Kindergarten and Cradle Roll Children Invest Their Money

In the Marion church this past year, $222.89 was raised for Investment by the children in the cradle roll and kindergarten division.

To raise part of this amount, 2,200 food labels were turned in. There were also 500 dog food labels that pay one cent each. Three boys sold pop bottles and other children sold dish cloths.

TEMPERANCE CONTESTS IN PROGRESS

Church Schools in the Indiana Conference are happy for the opportunity to participate in the poster, essay, and oratorical contests sponsored by the American Temperance Society. This year's program has been broadened to include essays and orations, besides the posters. The dates for the contest are February 10 to April 1. The winners of the local oratorical contests will give their award-winning orations at Indiana Academy on April 12.

The winning posters will be displayed at the Education Fair which will be held at Indiana Academy, April 27, 1969.

BIBLE SPEAKS PROGRAM BEARS FRUIT

Results of Bible Speaks (gift Bible program) are beginning to show up in baptisms and additions to the church in Hoosierland.

One hundred thirty-seven of those baptized during the past two and one-half years studied the Bible Speaks lessons as indicated by our district pastors in their reports. Nearly 11,000 Bibles were placed during this period in our state; this means nearly 11,000 homes opened to us in Indiana. Of that total, 3,001 have completed the studies as of this date. Others are working on the lessons.

We strongly urge every Adventist in Indiana to participate in some way in our Bible Speaks program during these coming months.

Sixty per cent is still the subsidy paid by the conference on these Bibles and lessons! Ask your lay activities leader for a supply.

If you want any further information, write to the conference lay activities department.

A LAST INVESTMENT GIVEN

Selling colorful plastic braid clothes hangers was the 1968 Investment project of Elsie Wilson, member of the New Albany church. On Sabbath, November 16, Mrs. Wilson reported to the Sabbath School superintendent, "I have $13.25 for Investment. Next year I'll have more than this, because I'm going to start working right away."

Mrs. Wilson's next year never came. She died unexpectedly three days later. Unfinished hangers lying beside her chair indicated her final work. Her Investment envelope, found by her relatives, contained an additional $5.90. The modest total of $19.15 was Mrs. Wilson's last Investment in the gospel of Christ. How hard would you work for Investment if you thought this year would be your last opportunity?

Jerry L. Schaumburg

Couple Spends 80 Hours
Ingathering

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Vornholt of the Columbus church went out Ingathering 35 times, spending a total of 80 hours calling on people in the homes of their own neighborhood, and offering prayer in many of them. They solicited a total of $733.

On March 1, 1969, the Adelphian Academy concert band will perform the Americana concert. This concert is one given during the spring of each year depicting certain areas and times of our country.

Some of the numbers to be performed this year are "Texas Portrait," "Appalachian," "Mississippi Suite Overture," "Montana Round-up," "Niagara," and others. One number, "America, Our Heritage," will be performed by the choir and band together. Also, there will be a solo given by Don Kalvoda, first trombonist, "Beautiful Colorado." Dan Wohlers, student conductor, will direct the band in "Spirit of Canaveral."

NEW INDUSTRY PLANNED FOR CEDAR LAKE

A new campus industry to supply work for 50 or more students is slated for Cedar Lake Academy by next fall.

At the recent annual board meeting representatives of the Rhodes Bake 'N Serve frozen dough industry of Portland, Oregon, were present to discuss their suggestion of establishing a one-and-a-half-million-dollar yearly industry on the campus.

Presenting the project was H. C. Rhodes, president of a chain of eight plants operated by the company. With him were assistants from St. Louis, Missouri, and Jamestown, North Dakota, to explain the plan in detail.

According to Elder Donald Wright, principal of Cedar Lake Academy, after many questions and careful consideration, it was voted unanimously by the Cedar Lake Academy Board to "invite Sunnydale Enterprises, Inc., to build a large plant on the campus of Cedar Lake." This plant is to serve the states of Michigan and Ohio, with its patented market of approximately 20 million people and will handle from two to five boxcars of raw material each week.

"The 80-foot by 263-foot plant will be one of the largest in the Rhodes Bake 'N Serve chain," Elder Wright continued. Frank Rice will serve as the chairman of the corporation from his regional headquarters in St. Louis, Missouri.

Present plans suggest the possibility of having the plant in operation even before the end of this school year, but without question in operation during the summer and in time for the opening of school next fall, Wright reports.

For those who are interested in the financing of the project, there will be approximately 400,000 shares of stock available to church members at $1.00 per share. If any are desirous of investing in an Adventist corporation where funds can be used to help our young people earn their way through school, please contact Elder Donald E. Wright, principal of Cedar Lake Academy.

ADELPHIAN ACADEMY HOLDS TEMPERANCE CONTEST

A temperance contest to determine the best orator was conducted at Adelphian Academy recently. It was under the direction of Roger McFarland, faculty temperance leader for the academy.

Winners of the contest were Frank Haynes, a junior from Niles, and runner-up Maydis Caldwell, sophomore from Flint. Frank emphasized the evils of drinking intoxicants, while Maydis spoke against narcotics.

The winner received a prize of $50 for his efforts and an opportunity to enter the state-wide temperance oration contest to be held on the Adelphian Academy campus Sunday evening, February 9.

Robert McKenny, Holly attorney; Barbara Palarz, Holly High School speech teacher; Melvin Shultz, Fenton High School art teacher; and W. W. Smith, Adelphian Academy guidance counselor, were the judges for the contest.

Other competition for prizes included essays, posters, cartoons, and jingles. Other winners will be publicized later.

Frank Haynes, temperance contest winner, is congratulated by Maydis Caldwell, runner-up.

NEW PHYSICIAN JOINS BATTLE CREEK STAFF

Dr. Russell T. Smith, a physician with an unusually varied background, has joined the staff of the Battle Creek Hospital. Prior to studying medicine at Loma Linda (class of '39), he worked as an X-ray and laboratory technician in the South.

After taking his internship in Atlanta, Georgia, Dr. Smith returned to Loma Linda to work as an instructor in bacteriology and physical diagnosis. Later he worked in the clinical section of the hospital doing general practice. In 1945 he became medical director of Boulder Sanitarium and Hospital in Colorado.

In 1948 Dr. Smith was in Lincoln, Nebraska, acting in three different capacities. He was in general practice, served as the school physician for Union College, and also acted as medical secretary for the Central Union Conference.

In 1956 a call came to serve as medical director of our mission hospital in Belem, Brazil. This was followed by a few months' service at the Davis Memorial Hospital in Georgetown, British Guiana.

Since returning to the States, Dr. Smith has been in private practice and has served in industrial medicine for the United States Air Force at Norton Air Base in Southern California.

Dr. Smith married Ruth Phillips, R.N., in 1928. Twenty-eight years later she passed away. They had two daughters: Carolyn Ruth, a graduate of Loma Linda University School of Nursing, and now in public health work in Oregon; and Miriam Joyce, also a graduate of L.L.U.'s School of Nursing, and now a supervisor in cardiac intensive care at the University Hospital, Seattle, Washington.

Dr. Smith is now married to a Michigan girl, June Deitsch of Midland. Five of her brothers are living there, and she has a sister in Cary, Illinois. Mrs. Smith's hobbies center around the home. Interior decorating, flowers, and trees keep her busy and happy. "She has great plans for our 10-acre farm on White Rabbit Road," Dr. Smith reports.

The Smiths have a trailer which they like to use and are anticipating many hours of pleasant traveling with it in Michigan. Dr. Smith's personal hobby is his home workshop, where he likes to work when he can find the time.

Dr. and Mrs. Russell T. Smith, right, get acquainted with some of their co-workers at Battle Creek Sanitarium and Hospital. Chatting with the Smiths are Muriel Halverson, R.N., and Paul Gerhardt, personnel director of the hospital.

ANN ARBOR INGATHERER TOPS RECORD

Horace Warden

Horace Warden of the Ann Arbor church loves Ingathering and has been the top solicitor of the church for a number of years. During the 1967 campaign, a year ago, he was unemployed. This gave him the opportunity to Ingather during the day and evenings. He raised over $1,100.

This year he told his pastor that because he was working he did not think he could equal his 1967 record. "I am hoping and praying," he reported, "for $500."

Horace, however, went to work with his usual dedication and zeal, and the Lord blessed his efforts. When the final count was made, it came to $1,240, over $100 more than he raised when he was unemployed a year ago!

Roger McFarland, social committee director, observes as Sherry Wolf, S.A. vice-president, hands out the first merit card to Don Kalvoda, S.A. president.

Merit Card System Introduced at Adelphian

On January 16 Adelphian Academy adopted a new merit card system for its students, under which juniors and seniors enjoy greater social freedom based on a grading merit system of conduct.

The system grants privileges in a co-educational school and sets up a code of ethics. The special privileges are for students who are achieving satisfactorily in scholarship, citizenship, and attendance.

Three types of merit cards will be issued—the special merit cards which are given juniors, seniors, and those older than 16 years; the merit card issued to all students who have satisfactory achievements in citizenship and attendance; and the card which is issued to every student not under faculty supervision. Each card entitles the student to certain privileges with the greater number of merits resulting in the greater number of privileges. The new system went into effect on the first day of the new semester, January 27.

HONOR STUDENTS MEET UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

Senior students of Cedar Lake Academy's chapter of the National Honor Society attended the recent annual honors program held at Andrews University.

The honor students were entertained with a banquet, a concert, a film, and an evening of swimming in the university's new pool.

ALUMNI VISIT ADELPHIAN

Adelphian Academy graduates, Mr. and Mrs. Lindy Bartleson, '60 and '61, and Darrell Ward, '66, headed a group of young people who appeared on the Adelphian campus recently. They conducted a share-your-faith program during the Missionary Volunteer meeting in the Sooy Memorial chapel.

Intent on inspiring present day teen-agers to become involved in constructive and wholesome projects during these times of stress and suspicion, the group performed a variety program of instrumental and vocal music interspersed with short talks on topics of current interest.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bartleson appealed to the Adelphian Academy students to be content with their status as students and make the most of their opportunities while in school.

Lindy Bartleson, Ron Ruskjer, David Brown, and Fred Sackett formed a quartet to sing for Adelphian students.

A.A. STUDENTS HAVE WINTEROUTING

Nearly 225 Adelphian Academy students and sponsors boarded five buses Monday, January 27, and traveled to Bear Mountain winter sports park in Grayling and Zhenders in Frankenmuth for the yearly winter-wonderland trip sponsored by the Shiawassian, the school paper.

After leaving at 6:30 a.m., the group arrived at Grayling about 10 a.m., where they spent the day on the ski slopes, going down the toboggan run (sometimes clocked at 120 miles per hour), horseback riding, and skating. Between trips down the hills, the group spent time in the spacious warming house where there were a variety of games to play.

The weatherman cooperated with a sunny, cool, crisp day. Traveling to and from was completed with no mishaps, except the usual sore spots and bruises which occurred from the occasional spill.

On the trip back to the academy, the tired but happy students stopped at Zhenders in Frankenmuth for a banquet meal.

Each student who turned in at least 13 subscriptions to the school paper was eligible for the trip. Co-editors of the paper are Linda McElmurry, Bonnie Vaden, and Diane Van Belle; assistant editor is Barbara Denski.

Victory Awards Presented To Grand Ledge Members

Members of the Grand Ledge and Portland churches, along with students of Grand Ledge Academy, gathered Saturday evening, January 11, in the academy cafeteria for a potluck dinner and Ingathering victory celebration.

Speeches were given by Elders Leonard G. Wartzok, conference treasurer; Watson M. Buckman, conference lay activities secretary; Duane Miller, district leader; and Howard M. V. Boling, local pastor. Cecil Mills, lay activities leader of the Grand Ledge church, presented awards.

The picture shows Elder Boling pinning on his daughter Jana, the Jasper Wayne ribbon award, which had already been presented to Cheryl Brooks, rear, by Cecil Mills, right.

Old age had to sneak up on Albert Wagner. It skulked around behind the Little League ball club, the grandchildren, and the new boat trailer. A month ago it struck. Martie isn't making any guesses about how soon Al will swing a bat again—if he ever does. So he swings his cane and keeps himself laughing. It's a good show until you catch him with the twinkle in his eyes dimmed out with pain and the panic light flashing.

Lord, reach down past all the grim cheerfulness into Al Wagner's apprehensive mind. "These Times" is going to be there month after month after month. Help it to crowd out the hollow laughs. Let it light the path ahead with something like peace for Al and Martie. Only $2.75

ALTHAGE'S WORKS SHOWN AT ST. JOSEPH LIBRARY

Irvin Althage, associate professor of art at Andrews University, is displaying 28 of his works in the St. Joseph Public Library during the month of February.

The works on exhibition represent a cross-section of the paintings and sculpture of Mr. Althage since he started his career in 1948, including his most recent work, "New Direction Number 2," and other paintings not previously shown in this area.

The paintings on display are diverse in nature because the artist expresses a new experience in each work instead of concentrating on a previous train of thought. "I find that there are enough ideas that need expression, and a greater vitality and freshness is realized by shifting radically to a totally diverse problem from the previous painting," says Althage.

Mrs. Thelma Troost, assistant librarian, and Mrs. Mayme Bachteal, librarian, admire some of the art work Irvin Althage is exhibiting at the St. Joseph Maud Preston Palenske Memorial Library.

COMMUNITY CENTER SPONSORED BY ANDREWS

Last year Dr. Wilson L. Trickett, associate professor of business administration, purchased a building in Berrien Springs and donated its use for community purposes. On February 4, an Andrews alumnus, Martin M. Fishell, C.P.A., directed the first public program in the Community Center—a free income tax clinic.

Other public programming has been announced by A.U. students Ken Veal and Dan Knauff, center directors. Included is a Red Cross standard first aid course, an art-hobby show, a cooking school in nutrition, a stopsmoking clinic, an advanced first aid training course, family camping course, and a ladies' auto mechanic class.

The local Adventist churches designated an executive committee, with Paul Cannon, A.U. instructor in religion, chairman. They elected a board of directors which now operates the center.

Activities for the center are divided into two groups—public and private. Community churches, schools, and civic groups are welcome to use the center on a reservation basis.

The center includes a 400-seat auditorium, carpeted lounge, game room, and a dining-reception room with floor stage. These facilities are a result of work and donation by community residents.

ANDREWS OBSERVES NEGRO HISTORY WEEK

Andrews University joined the nation in observing Negro History Week, February 9 to 14.

"To Be Aware" was the Andrews theme, according to Miss Gloria Thomas, chairman of the week's activities.

Louis E. Lomax, black author, writer, and speaker, was the guest speaker at an assembly, February 13. His topic was "The Negro in American History and Culture."

Lomax is the author of such books as The Reluctant African, 1960; The Negro Revolt, 1962; and Thailand: The War That Is the War That Will Be.

Other features of the week included a play, "The Cries Call," and a program of Negro-oriented music and poetry, "Black Youths for Christ."

A.U. SUMMER SESSION IN MUSIC IS SCHEDULED FOR VIENNA

The Andrews music department is sponsoring its second summer session this year, June 16 to August 14 in Vienna.

Originally intended for graduate and undergraduate students with major or minors in music, the summer offerings in Vienna have now been expanded to accommodate also students who want to fulfill the undergraduate requirement in fine arts or who wish to have a elective in fine arts in any degree program.

The Andrews University summer sessions in Vienna are unique, says Director Hans-Jorgen Holman, particularly because of our excellent faculty. All classes are taught by Adventist professors, and private lessons in applied music are given by some of the finest musicians in Europe.

At the convention of the American Musicological Society in Columbus, Ohio, last May, which Dr. Holman attended, Professor Eva Badura-Skoda gave a report to the society on the recent International Congress for Musicology in Brno, Czechoslovakia. After mentioning some of the outstanding performer-scholars that participated, she concluded: "But the finest contribution was given by Eduard Melkus, Rene Clemencic, and Vera Schwarz."

"Naturally," said Dr. Holman, "I was very happy over the report, as all three are members of our faculty in Vienna."
