COVER

H. M. S. Richards speaks on the last Sabbath of the Indiana Camp Meeting. Photos on cover and pages 2 and 3 by M. Donovan Oswald.

Hoosiers Call '69

Some of our people still prefer tents. Ten were pitched for those who insist they enjoy living under canvass.

A new city arose—the trailer and camper area. This section of the camp is growing so much that it will have to be expanded to accommodate the ever-growing members who provide their own accommodations.

SYLVESTER BABCOCK DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Those who expected to see Sylvester Babcock's familiar face at the Michigan camp meeting this year—who included everyone who attended—were saddened to hear of Mr. Babcock's death July 2 in St. Helena, California.

Mr. Babcock, who had his eightieth birthday this past February, had planned to be in Michigan for his seventeenth consecutive camp meeting.

It is with deep regret that we pass this information along to "Lake Union Herald" readers, for we too had hoped to see Mr. Babcock again at camp meeting. Yet it gives us some comfort to know that Mr. Babcock had the chance, before he died, to read Elder D. A. Delafield's article which we printed in the June 24 issue of the "Herald" and to know how much he was loved and admired by all who had the privilege of knowing him.

Camp Meeting Their Best Ever

Hoosiers took advantage of ideal weather by attending camp meeting in the largest numbers ever known in Indiana's history. "The biggest and best ever" was a comment heard often.

Every departmental meeting was overcrowded. Cabins and dormitory rooms were unavailable to latecomers. Even the camping area for trailers and campers was filled to capacity. This prompted Elder Robert L. Dale, conference president, to comment at one of the services, "No doubt about it, this is our best-attended camp meeting in history."

Some innovations were attempted this year. In years past the 6:30 a.m. service was discontinued. This year, however, it was revived. A well-attended soul-winning workshop was held daily in the main auditorium. All services this year were held on the east side of Highway 19. Every activity remained on the campus of Indiana Academy.

Elder Andrew C. Fearing of the General Conference Ministerial Department graciously filled in for the late Elder E. L. Minchin. Elder H. M. S. Richards of Voice of Prophecy fame spoke on the closing Sabbath. Elder Gordon Engen's Mission Colorama will never be erased from the consciousness of mission-minded Adventists.

No doubt about it, this was our finest, most relaxed, and most enjoyable camp meeting in history. From the keynote sermon of Elder Robert L. Dale to the last benedictory prayer by Elder Teddric Mohr, our people pressed together with but one resolution uppermost in their minds—to finish the work quickly, that we may go home to heaven soon.

M. Donovan Oswald

H. M. S. Richards and the King's Heralds drew the most massive audience in the history of the Indiana Conference to the closing Sabbath worship service.

Elder Robert L. Dale, president of the Indiana Conference, delivers the keynote sermon of the 1969 camp meeting.

At camp meeting four men were ordained to the ministry. Left to right, standing directly behind their seated wives, are: E. W. Dirksen, R. H. Blodgett, A. F. Layman, and D. H. White. Those officiating in the ordination were J. R. Spangler from the Ministerial Department of the General Conference, R. L. Dale, F. W. Wernick, president of the Lake Union Conference, and R. J. Christian, circulation manager of Southern Publishing Association.

Clarence Wallace, from Chapel Records, spent many hours playing and selling the recordings of Adventist musicians who provide our membership with fine music.

SEVEN STUDENTS FROM A.U. WILL BE UNSALARIED MISSIONARIES

On June 9, 1969, seven Andrews University students boarded jets en route to such diverse places as La Paz, Bolivia, and Senegal, West Africa. Their purpose? To be missionaries, ranging in occupation from construction supervisor to mobile clinic operator, with terms lasting from three to twelve months.

Dennis Tidwell, a sophomore theology major, is one of five student missionaries who will be sponsored by donations from the community, local businessmen, and A.U. students, who raised over $3,000 to provide transportation and equipment costs. Dennis will teach English at a language center operated by the Seventh-day Adventist denomination in Osaka, Japan. His teaching assignment is for a 12-month term, which will allow him to spend the following summer at home before returning to Andrews in the fall of 1970.

Dennis, like the other student missionaries, will be working without salary except for whatever accommodations the mission establishments can provide for room and board. However, Andrews University does provide scholarships amounting to 60 per cent of the tuition costs for each of the students serving terms outside 12 months. Dennis's experience as the son of a missionary family stationed in India for 13 years has left him with a strong interest in the exotic lands of the orient.

Paul Perkins, freshman physics major, has his own original method of entering a mission land. He plans to pack his belongings on a motorcycle and make the long trek from Michigan to Guatemala on two wheels. There the cycle will have a great advantage over most cars on the cramped roads and trails of the Guatemalan highlands. Paul hopes to help break the myth of the destructive cycle-riding American teen-ager with his constructive tactics. In Guatemala he will be supervising the construction of an outpost clinic, and may, during his three-month summer stay, have other construction assignments throughout Guatemala.

Nancy Wandersleben, junior nursing student, plans to spend her summer at the 43-bed Davis Memorial Clinic in Georgetown, Guiana. Nancy will be the only one of the seven missionaries to be stationed in an English-speaking country, so she anticipates few problems of adjustment in the largely British oriented island. Nancy has been acclimated to less than convenient living during five years spent in Bolivia, and eight years in Ecuador with her missionary parents, so she feels that this mission appointment will present no hardship. Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, Hinsdale, Illinois, where Nancy is completing the clinical part of her Andrews University nursing program, will contribute funds to cover her expenses.

After braving a rigorous Michigan winter, Californian Don Schatzschneider, international service graduate, and his wife, Gail, will travel to La Paz, Bolivia, to begin winter all over again. There Don and Gail will operate a mobile clinic which Don describes as a truck camper equipped with four-wheel drive needed to climb the steep dirt roads which range up to 12,000 feet in elevation.

Don and his wife will be treating people in isolated mountain communities, mainly for vitamin deficiency, minor illnesses, and parasites common to the area. People with more serious ailments will have to be flown out by the infrequent small planes that service the Bolivian mountain areas. Don also hopes to train a native in each village he serves to care for the immediate medical needs of his community between the visits of the mobile clinic.

After their year in Bolivia, Don and Gail plan to return to Andrews for Don's final year of graduate school before entering mission service on a long-term basis.

Averil Juriansz, a native of Ceylon and resident of Canada for the past 10 years, plans to take an appointment in the West African nation of Senegal. She is graduating this year from Andrews with a major in French, which especially suits her work in Senegal where French is the national language. This summer Averil will be assisting in the Niaguis medical dispensary. At the end of the summer, she will begin teaching at the 200-student Niaguis elementary school, located about 300 miles south of Dakar. Averil doesn't yet know what her course assignments will be, but she eagerly anticipates filling whatever need exists.

Mary Penny, junior nursing student, is looking forward to a summer in the Amazon Valley near Iquitos, Peru. Mary, whose present home is in Detroit, will be getting practical nursing experience at the Anna Stahl Clinic near the Amazon River before returning to Andrews to become a registered nurse. She likes working with people and says that even after gaining her R.N. certification, she will shun desk jobs. In considering a permanent mission appointment she said, "I have always wanted to work for humanity, and perhaps this summer will help me make my decision as to whether or not I will want a permanent mission appointment."

Dennis Tidwell will teach English to Japanese businessmen, scientists, and university students in Osaka. Three A.U. students worked at the S.D.A. Language Center there for the past year, and two of them have elected to remain in the Far East for an additional year of service.

Hinsdale SANITARIUM AND HOSPITAL

Baker's Dozen Capped

An even dozen girls and one to spare, who make up the seventeenth class of the School of Practical Nursing, received caps in a special ceremony held in the Hinsdale church June 7.

The need to use one's hands in giving service was emphasized by the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Kathryn Sieberman, administrative assistant at the Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Seventeen Graduate from School of Practical Nursing

Seventeen girls who began their training July 7, 1968, in the School of Practical Nursing at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital graduated June 29 in special exercises held in the Hinsdale church at 8 p.m.

Guest speaker was Ronald William Brett of Defiance, Ohio. Brett is a native of Sussex, England, and served two and one-half years in the British army. Presently he is doing pastoral work in Ohio.

Though the girls vary in age, looks, and background, come from all parts of the country, and hold different religious beliefs, they have one thing in common—the desire to serve humanity as good nurses as attested by their class motto: "Our Help from Above—Our Service in Love."

One unanimous remark made by the girls as they make plans to go their separate ways is, "The principles instilled in us during the interim we served in the Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital and lived in the community will always remain a bright spot in our memories."

These graduates of the School of Practical Nursing at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital completed their training program on June 29.

CICERO CONSTRUCTS NEW CHURCH SCHOOL

The Cicero church is happy to open the doors of its new $135,000 church school.

Construction of the school was directed by Everett Walston, chairman of the building committee. The new school consists of four 30-by-30-foot classrooms, principal's office, library, kitchenette, spacious rest rooms with showers, Pathfinder room, teachers' lounge, first aid room, and a 60-by-80-foot junior-size gymnasium. The building has carpeting in all its classrooms and corridors.

Other members of the building committee are Robert Crabtree, Duane Rollins, Ernest Inman, and Genoa Rigsby.

The 1968-69 school year closed with 77 students taught by three degreed teachers: Raymond Etheridge, M.A.; Susan Randall, B.A.; Valerie Crabtree, B.A. Because of the increased enrollment, a fourth teacher will be added to the teaching staff for this coming school year. Frederick Lorenz, also having a master's degree, will fill that position. Band and choir and physical education programs are now in the planning for the next school year.

The Cicero church is grateful to God for His providential leadings in this tremendous project. The church also feels that nothing is too good for the saving of its young people for heaven.

J. O. Herr, Pastor

The Cicero church has opened the doors of its new $135,000 elementary school.

Susan Randall stands before her boys and girls in the new classroom that has sufficient natural light and unit ventilators to bring in fresh air.

Taking part in the ribbon-cutting ceremony are Raymond Etheridge, principal; J. O. Herr, pastor; C. E. Perry, conference educational secretary; Dallas Holinstreiter, superintendent of Hamilton Heights schools; Harold Rigsby, chairman of the Cicero church school board; Everett Walston, chairman of the building committee and contractor.

Harris Pine Mill Needs Summer Help To Keep Plant Operating Smoothly

One of the most enthusiastic and optimistic persons around Indiana Academy is William Logan, manager of Harris Pine Mills. He believes in Seventh-day Adventist young people and takes deep interest in helping to provide them with work opportunities to help get them through the academy. During the school year as many as 56 young men and women have worked at the plant.

"Our plant business is expanding at a very healthy rate," reported Mr. Logan. "Our sales volume every year shows encouraging growth and our opportunities for employment are ever increasing, so much so that during the summertime we have had to employ non-Seventh-day Adventists to help keep the plant producing its sales quotas. June especially is a difficult month. At commencement time we were employing between 50 and 56 young people. The day after commencement, less than a dozen were left. Everyone wants to go home. This, of course, puts a real strain on us to get help. In desperation we have had to hire local non-Seventh-day Adventist help on a temporary basis to get through the summer."

Please look over these facts with more than casual care. First, our industrious, alert, and eager young people can work at Harris Pine Mills starting at $1.60 per hour. Match this anywhere in the State of Indiana for youth employment opportunities. Second, the plant operates eight hours a day and six days a week. Match this anywhere in Indiana for regular employment. Third, those attending school and seeking regular employment at a high rate of pay can work at Harris Pine Mills in shifts of as few as 4 hours at a time.

For further information contact either William Logan, manager of Harris Pine Mills at Cicero, or C. L. Newkirk, principal of Indiana Academy, Cicero.

Visit the New Joliet School

Are you interested in missionary work? Would you like to get out of the big cities and move to a fast-growing community, near a good industrial city, where your children could attend a private Christian school? Then come to Joliet, where we have a new church school located in the rural area of Lockport township, on five and one-third acres of land. We have three large classrooms and a large auditorium which will accommodate 80 students.

We have three dedicated Christian teachers, Miss Doris Norman and John Fowler, who acted as teacher and principal of our school last year, and Jack Harrison, who comes to us from Toronto, Ontario, this year and will be teaching the upper grades of our eight-grade school.

We invite you to visit our new church and school, located on Division at Gaylord Road, to see what we have to offer your boy or girl. For further information concerning our school, please call (815) 485-8428.

Students and teachers at the Joliet church school invite visitors to their classrooms.

Evangelism Is the Watchword At the Galesburg Church

Evangelism is always our watchword! However, this year, as a group, we have placed greater emphasis and zeal upon this avenue of soul winning.

Early in the year the General Conference, and our local conference president, Elder W. A. Nelson, challenged each church in soul winning—an increase of 10 per cent present membership, or more.

Our Galesburg church accepted the challenge and began a strong program, using the free Bible and study guides, along with Bible studies and other soul-winning methods already in use.

On Sabbath, May 10, we opened an evangelistic meeting for the district—three meetings each week, using the colorama or blacklight illustrations.

On Sabbath, June 7, the campaign closed with a thrilling morning service, followed by a district fellowship dinner together. At 2:30 in the afternoon an inspiring service was held in which five persons were baptized.

J. R. Carner, Pastor

With a prayer of thanksgiving, Elder H. A. Lindsey of the City Temple in Detroit baptizes his father, for whom he has prayed for 34 years.

Detroit Pastor Baptizes His Father

Sabbath, April 26, marked a day of great rejoicing in the City Temple church of Detroit, as 28 earnest candidates, including Harry Arthur Lindsey, 81-year-old father of the pastor, were baptized by Elder Harold Lindsey.

Elder Lindsey, pastor of the 1,200 member church told how he had prayed for 34 years to see his father follow Christ's call to membership in the Seventh-day Adventist church. He described the occasion as the high point in his 28 years in the ministry. Relatives of the pastor visiting City Temple to witness the baptism included a brother, Harry Lindsey, and his wife, Tab, of Cassopolis, Michigan; a sister, Gladys, and her husband, Ira Everett, and their two children, Ira and Julius.

Mrs. Nina Addison, Bible instructor, introduced the baptismal candidates by families and related the personal evangelism which led to each person's decision.

In September, 1967, Elder Lindsey arrived from California to assume his duties as pastor of the City Temple church. Seventy-three people were baptized during 1968 and Elder Lindsey seeks to baptize over 100 souls with God's blessing during 1969.

Detroit Welfare Federation Meets

The Detroit Area Health and Welfare Federation met on May 4 at the Carver school in Inkster, Michigan. There were 125 present from the 12 churches in the area; nearly all were in uniform.

The Adventist men met with the Dorcas ladies, and from the reports given, a great missionary work is being done in the Detroit area.

The Highland Park Community Bible School—which also has a health and welfare unit conducted by Charles Blackwell, lay activities leader of City Temple and one of the Adventist men—had a family of five to be baptized by Elder Harold A. Lindsey on April 26. There are others taking studies who will follow in baptism soon.

The Ecorse church Dorcas society, under the leadership of Nellie Blanks, is all out for souls. The Adventist men, with John Drew as leader, are working hand in hand with the Dorcas ladies in giving Bible studies in Delray, Michigan, a nearby city. The Dorcas ladies go from door to door with tracts, finding those in physical need and then taking them food and clothing. Some of these needy people express a desire to know Jesus and His saving grace. The Adventist men come in and give Bible studies to supply their spiritual need. God is blessing their effort.

The Gems of Jesus, a group of young ladies organized by Mrs. Denise Soares, are also on the march. These girls are now doing a wonderful work, helping those in need and sewing for the needy. They raised funds to make their own uniforms.

Mrs. Marie Church, City Temple's Dorcas leader, along with the Good Neighbors Unit, goes into the Inner City of Detroit and to convalescent homes passing out clothing to those in need. They sing songs of Jesus' love to those in the convalescent homes and hearts are filled with joy. Some express a desire to attend church but have no good clothing. They are given what they need to wear and the Adventist men bring them to church. This is a Christian Dorcas work that can be done in every area, for many souls are in homes just waiting for help and in need of Jesus.

Many good reports were heard which were encouraging to everyone. The reports helped give new ideas on how to reach spiritually and physically needy souls.

Adventist Men were present at the May 4 federation meeting.

Ecorse Gems for Jesus earned money to buy their own uniforms.

SHILOH - CLASS OF '69

SHILOH EIGHTH GRADERS GRADUATE

On the weekend of June 7 and 8, baccalaureate and commencement programs were held at the Shiloh School for the eighth grade class of 1969. Thirty-three students graduated, 11 of whom had maintained a grade point average of B or better.

This was the first time the new Shiloh church was used for graduation.

The baccalaureate speaker was Elder J. E. Cox from the Mizpah church of Gary, Indiana, who spoke on the qualities of a man. The commencement speaker, Elder F. S. Hill of the Sharon church in Milwaukee, spoke on the mountain-climbing experiences that the class must face in the future. Both speakers used the class aim, "To Reach the Last Step on the Ladder to Success," and class motto, "We Can, We Must, We Will," in their sermons.

MICHIGAN

The Stevensville "Bible Speaks" church holds its first meeting in its new church building the morning of the same day a new series of evangelistic services were begun by its members.

Stevensville Members Construct Church

Members of the Stevensville church recently completed by their own labors a $35,000 building as their church.

The building was completed shortly before a Friday evening sundown vesper service. Sabbath services were held the next day, and Saturday evening a series of evangelistic meetings was begun by Lewis Anderson, pastor of the church and a Seminary student at Andrews University.

Average attendance at the meetings, which stressed the theme of "Christianity at the Crossroads," was over 100, including children. Three special classes for the children were held each evening.

As a result of the two-week series, a mother and her three children made their decision for baptism. Studies are continuing with several other persons.

Before the new building was constructed, the congregation, which now numbers over 100, had met at a nearby school. Rent which was formerly paid for use of the school is now being placed in a building fund for construction at a later date of an actual church edifice. The present building was constructed in such a way that it can be converted into a dwelling to be sold or to be used as a parsonage.

The Stevensville congregation was organized four years ago as a result of evangelistic activities by Andrews University students.

A year later the students, with the support of the Pioneer Memorial church at Andrews University, planned a series of evangelistic meetings in Stevensville. The success of the series led to the organization of the new church congregation.

Mio Opens New Welfare Center

Approximately 60 members, visitors, and guests were on hand June 12 in Mio to celebrate the official opening of the fiftieth approved Adventist welfare center in Michigan.

The Mio church has operated a health and welfare center for many years, but only recently did it meet the full requirements of the conference welfare policy to become an "approved" center.

Elder Don Myers, district leader, gave a brief history on the beginnings of the welfare center when he served as local pastor several years ago. He also praised the church members for the progress and advance they have made to date.

Representing the Michigan Conference at the official opening was W. M. Buckman, director of health and welfare activities, who outlined the philosophy of Seventh-day Adventist welfare ministry.

We salute Pastor Don Siewert and his dedicated Mio members for their sacrifice, dedication, and vision of a greater and larger witness in Oscoda County.

Elder Don Myers inspects a child's dress held by Mrs. Florence Pierce, associate welfare director of the Mio center, while Pastor Siewert's wife looks on.

At the smoking clinic reunion are James Howarth; H. I. Miller, a retired dentist; and Dr. Harley Anderson, who spoke each of the five nights.

SMOKING CLINIC REUNION HELD

A Five-Day Plan reunion was held Thursday, June 5, one week after the Flint churches had completed their first Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking. At the reunion, participants told how they were getting along after two weeks.

H. I. Miller, a retired dentist who attended every night along with his son-in-law, James Howarth, went the whole two weeks without smoking. Dr. Miller said that he had tried to quit several times before, but this was the first time he was able to stay with it. He also stated that he had advertised the plan to his friends so much that he didn't dare go back to smoking.

Canapes made with meat substitutes and a hot drink were served.

The Five-Day Plans in Flint are under the direction of Gary Stanhiser, associate pastor of the First and South Flint churches. Doctor Harley Anderson of the First church assisted him each of the five nights.

Pastor Stanhiser was interviewed about the plan for 12 minutes by Grace Everson on "Woman's World," a radio program on station WMRP in Flint. He also appeared twice in an interview with Smoking Sam, the manikin, on news programs on TV Channel 5 in Flint.

Pegboard Organizes Supplies

A pegboard folding screen is being utilized to advantage in the kindergarten department of the South Flint church.

Mrs. Virginia Taber, leader, with the help of her son, Gary, designed and built this attractive screen. It has many shelves and pegs to hold the objects that are used from week to week.

Consecration Services Held at Bunker Hill

A capacity audience was present on May 24 for consecration services of the new Bunker Hill church, which replaces the one destroyed by fire on January 7, 1967.

Elder L. G. Wartzok, conference treasurer, offered the morning prayer; Dr. E. E. Parker read the history of the church; Elder R. D. Moon, conference president, preached the sermon; Elder L. G. Foll, local pastor, led in the act of consecration and offered the prayer. Don De Camp sang "Bless This House"; and Elder H. D. Miller, district leader, pronounced the benediction.

The church had its beginning in 1863 when, at the request of some of the local people who wanted to know more about the Sabbath, Elder Joseph Bates held meetings in the schoolhouse. In 1896 the first church building was erected and was used continuously until its destruction by fire.

The new building was designed by Jim Davidson, an Adventist with the Battle Creek architectural firm of Sarvis Associates, and erected by an Adventist builder, Bob Redman, formerly of Howell. Members of the church spent many hours painting, laying carpet, putting down tile, and preparing the building for the consecration service.

NEWS NOTES

• A recent baseball game in Houston's Astrodome featured Dr. Jack McClarty conducting the Southwestern Union College band. He is married to the former Wilma Doering of Berrien Springs. Both Jack and Wilma received their master's degrees from Andrews University.

• Fourteen women of the Farmington church have come up with a new idea for Investment. It will not only help them reach their Investment goal, but also their weight goal. The fine for gaining weight is 20 cents, 10 cents for staying the same.

They meet once a week, Monday night, to discuss their problems, achievements, and to see how they can improve. The meetings begin with a spiritual thought and prayer, and end with prayer.

Youth Branch Sabbath School Started

The first Bible study group composed of young people from the Flint area Seventh-day Adventist churches began meeting Sabbath, May 31, at the Flint Adventist Health and Welfare Center. It is under the direction of Gary Stanhiser, associate pastor of the First and South Flint churches.

The purpose of the Branch Sabbath School is to provide spiritual growth, development, and recreational social activities. Pastor Stanhiser said that he hopes the group's activities will expand to include scuba diving, auto mechanics, swimming, electronics, physical fitness, and home arts such as cooking and sewing. A swimming and water skiing outing has already been held. Long-range goals are Youth For Christ crusades and a missionary trip to Inter-America.

Sixteen young people attended the first meeting at the Health and Welfare Center and signed a scroll as charter members. After the Sabbath School program, the youth returned to their churches for the regular Sabbath worship service.

The attendance doubled to 32 at the second meeting, Sabbath, June 7, since by that time the academies had let out.

Pastor Gary Stanhiser, left, looks on as 16 youth sign a scroll as charter members of the Flint area Branch Sabbath School.

Evangelism Is On the Move

Evangelism in Michigan is on the move! Local pastors, their wives, and loyal laymen are bonding together to alert their areas of the meaning of today's disorders and problems.

The ministerial staff of the Pioneer Memorial church recently baptized 33 and is preparing others for this sacred rite.

Elder William Draper baptized 16 in Muskegon and has others in preparation. Elder Robert Collar baptized 12 in St. Johns, and E. F. Herzel, pastor of the St. Johns and Owosso churches, is following up additional interests. Three have recently been baptized as a result of meetings conducted by Melvin Foll in Chesaning.

Elder E. L. Malcolm recently baptized 15, and about the same number are expected to join the church in the near future. This is the result of a 10-night revival conducted by Elders Robert L. Boothby and Anthony Castelbuono.

Pastor Donald Gettys has had a successful meeting in South Haven. Some from this meeting were baptized on Sabbath, May 17. Others are getting ready. Elder Glenn Hill of Battle Creek held a series of meetings at Hastings with the pastor, Elder S. J. Elie. About a dozen are now preparing for church membership. Two of our lay brethren in Jackson conducted a short evangelistic series and have a couple ready for baptism.

Elder Paul Cannon, instructor in evangelism at Andrews University, has been carrying on an evangelistic series in Dowagiac with an attendance of about 175. He reports a list of 25 with top-notch interest. These in due time will be ready to declare by baptism their determination to follow the Lord in a fully surrendered life.

Stuart Harrison has had a peak attendance of 180 in a series at Gobles. Associated with him are the pastor, Elder Ray Van Voorst, and Elder H. M. V. Boling of Grand Ledge, who has provided splendid music for this series.

Elder Lewis Anderson has about a dozen preparing for baptism as a result of a series of meetings in Stevensville. Elder Dean Burns is preparing a few for baptism in Shelby. He was assisted by Elder and Mrs. Paul Penno. Elder G. E. Slack has a very sizable group getting ready for baptism in Urbandale.

Elders Robert Wiese and Harry Freese are in the midst of a series in Munising. Elder Robert Collar is to begin a series this month in Marion. The pastor, Jason Prest, will be associated with him for these meetings. Elder Jeremiah Florea is having good meetings in the South Flint church. Elder John Erhard is continuing with evangelism in Grand Rapids. Elder James Ward and Elder James Wilson are linked together in a series of weekend meetings in Ferndale, a suburb of Detroit.

Elders W. C. Earle and Paul Gates have begun evangelism in Boyne City, while Elder Peter Fritz is conducting meetings twice a week in both Monroe and Adrian.

We earnestly solicit the prayers of all our members throughout Michigan for the ministers, who are uniting with our church members to bring men and women to a saving experience in Christ.

Fond du Lac Church Plans Surprise for Elder Wheeler

When Elder Ernest Wheeler of the conference lay activities department arrived at the Fond du Lac church to speak on a recent Sabbath, he didn't know just what surprises were in store for him. First of all, he noticed that the congregation was much larger than usual.

He discovered that most of the visitors were people who had lived in the same district in the State of Ohio while he was growing up. How glad he was to see his old friends!

After the church service, all gathered for a potluck lunch in a nearby park, followed by a nature excursion to Kettle Moraine State Park. The afternoon of fellowship concluded at the W. G. Wallington home, where cake and ice cream were served.

The guest from farthest away was Dr. Lawrence Wallington from Cortez, Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Ruskjer, along with Tim, are justly proud of his MV Silver Award.

MV SILVER AWARD PRESENTED

A highlight of the Madison school promotion exercises recently was the presentation of the MV Silver Award to Tim Ruskjer, who completed the ninth grade this year.

This award is presented to Christian youth in grades nine through twelve upon their demonstration of exceptional qualities in physical, mental, and cultural development. This program gives young people an opportunity to find satisfaction in worth-while achievement.

Requirements for this award are rather stiff and they are not normally completed by ninth graders. Tim's interest in this program was evidenced by his ability to complete this work during the year.

Other young people are encouraged to become interested in the MV Silver Award program and feel free to write to the MV department or contact their local MV society.

Mrs. Beverly Sherman shows two students from Aquinas Catholic high school in La Crosse the lungs of Smoking Sam.

Hylandale Ladies Become Temperance Crusaders

In connection with Temperance Week set by the Governor's proclamation, three ladies from the Hylandale church at Rockland visited 15 schools in their area with a program about smoking. They had as their helper Smoking Sam.

After Mrs. Anita Jones told a few alarming facts related to smoking, Mrs. Rose Nelson read a poem entitled "A Cigarette to a Girl," which tells how nicotine gradually enslaves the young.

Smoking Sam was demonstrated by Mrs. Beverly Sherman 64 times. The last part of the film "Cancer by the Carton" was shown 16 times to 6,739 students, and the impact of a lung cancer operation shown vividly on the screen was felt by all of them.

After the programs there were question and answer sessions. Many students showed concern for their health and that of their parents by the type of questions they asked, and many decisions not to smoke were signified by hundreds of the young people. Afterward free literature was sent to the homes of those requesting it.

The five-day stop smoking plan was explained to the students and they seemed very interested in it. Please pray with us that hundreds of interested young people, along with their parents and friends, will be in attendance when the plan is held in this area, and many victories will be won over "Lady Nicotine."

THE E. D. DICKS VISIT ANDREWS

Elder E. D. Dick, former president of the S.D.A. Theological Seminary and Potomac University, was a recent guest at Andrews University, which now encompasses these institutions. He was accompanied by his wife, the former Grace Smith Bell. They spent an evening reminiscing with friends and colleagues.

A denominational worker for over 50 years, Elder Dick graduated from Union College in 1914 and served at Canadian Union College before being transferred to Africa in 1923 as principal of Spion Kop College. After subsequently serving as educational secretary of the Southern African and Northern European Divisions, he was elected the secretary of the General Conference in 1936, a position he held until election to the presidency of the S.D.A. Theological Seminary in 1952. He guided in the founding of Potomac University in Washington, D.C. After this institution was moved to Berrien Springs, Michigan, he coordinated the welfare services of all S.D.A. churches in the Washington, D.C. area.

Mrs. Dick began her denominational career in 1914 in the Review and Herald office, working for D. W. Reavis and L. W. Graham, and later served as secretary to two Florida Conference presidents: A. R. Sandborn in 1918-19, and L. C. Evans from 1938 until 1947. She joined the secretarial staff of the S.D.A. Theological Seminary in 1950 and worked for W. G. C. Murdoch, Frank H. Yost, and B. J. Kohler during the next eight years. She followed Elder Kohler to Berne, Switzerland, as his secretary in 1958 when he became treasurer of the Southern European Division and married Elder E. D. Dick on September 1, 1968.

Elder Dick was entertained at Andrews University by his former colleagues who remember him for reorganizing the course of study in the Seminary into five departments (church history, New Testament, Old Testament, systematic theology, and church and ministry), doubling the size of the faculty and student body, fostering a spirit of missionary endeavor, and building up confidence in the work of the Seminary throughout the denomination.

He also enlarged S.D.A. higher education and new course offerings in various departments and amalgamating the graduate school and Seminary into Potomac University which was later moved from Washington, D.C., to Berrien Springs, Michigan, as Andrews University.

STUDENTS THANK THEIR TEACHER FOR HIS KINDNESS

In appreciation of the thousands of dollars Robert Fadeley, assistant professor of psychology at Andrews, has privately spent on equipment for the behavioral science department, the 10 students in his experimental psychology class this year gave him a tripod, camera gadgets, and $50 in cash.

SUMMER ENROLLMENT IS 1,051

Enrollment at Andrews University for the summer quarter is 1,051, according to President Richard Hammill.

This figure includes 424 students in the college, 382 in the School of Graduate Studies, and 245 in the Theological Seminary.

Thirty-three residence hall deans from throughout the U.S. have enrolled in a Dean's Workshop directed by Dr. Mercedes Dyer, professor of education, and 17 academy English teachers are taking a special workshop directed by Dr. John Waller, professor of English.
