Next Week Will Be Fire Prevention Week

This year Fire Prevention Week is being observed October 5 to 11. As President Richard M. Nixon made the proclamation for this observance, he stated:

"In an era when technological advancement has brought to our nation an almost unbelievable array of conveniences and comforts, we still are plagued by the hazard of man's oldest implement for self-preservation—fire. The potential dangers associated with fire still present a real threat to human life and property.

"The present level of our annual fire losses—more than 12,000 lives and over $2 billion in property—is a measure of our failure to head fire hazards and to correct them. It is essential that every citizen recognize that such losses can be avoided, but only by personal involvement, determination, and a realization that fires need not occur."

As this day draws to a close fire will have struck 1,510 homes, 23 schools, 10 churches, and 21 hospitals and nursing homes, as well as various other occupancies. During this same time in our nation, loved ones will be mourning the loss of the 33 people who have died.

It is possible that the home of some church member, or one of our schools or other institutions, may have been visited by this enemy.

Our President further declared:

"I urge that we, as a nation and as individual citizens, assume a positive approach to fire prevention through the support of community fire departments, state and local governments, the National Fire Protection Association, business and civic groups, and public organizations that are trying to combat the senseless waste of human life and national resources."

Has your approach to fire prevention been one of a positive character or a negative and passive one? It is never too late to start a new approach in your fire prevention activities. There are only three main causes of fire—men, women, and children. Does this include you?

Make every week Fire Prevention Week!

NEW BOOK PUBLISHED TO HELP LOCAL BROADCASTERS

Now, as never before, the church needs to be using the broadcasting media for reaching the masses of our cities and towns. This is the reason J. Orville Iversen wrote a book, So You're Going on the Air.

In writing his book, Iversen, of the church's Audio Visual Service, offers a practical guide on how local churches and their pastors may reach out to their friends and neighbors.

Many pastors quake with apprehension as they think about approaching a station for a broadcast. They want to leave it to the "big names." But this way we shall never use the media for Christ as they should be used.

Says H. M. S. Richards, "This book will be a real help to every young worker when he first goes on the air and will encourage and strengthen those who are already veterans." Pastor W. A. Fagal adds, "The book is a very practical help by an experienced broadcaster for anyone using today's communications media for preaching the gospel."

Produced for the Radio-Television Department of the General Conference, this manual for Seventh-day Adventist broadcasters should be part of the library of every minister and forward-looking layman who senses the need for a wider use of the broadcasting media.

Book and Bible houses have the book, So You're Going on the Air, published by the Review and Herald at the modest price of $6.95.

Photographers: Attention!

The Review and Herald and General Conference promotional pictures committee are again sponsoring a North American Photo Contest. Open to all who do not earn the major portion of their living by photography, the contest seeks to secure on film a record of Seventh-day Adventist church activities.

In last year's contest Elder Eston Allen, public relations secretary of the Illinois Conference, won an award in the category "Adventist Churches and Institutions" for a photo of Broadview Academy.

A grand award of $100 cash or a complete set of the 10-volume Commentary Reference Series will be made for the best photo submitted in the contest. Second and third prizes in the grand award classification will be $75 and $50 respectively. A first prize of $25 will be given qualifying pictures in each of nine categories.

Categories are as follows:

1. Disaster and famine relief work of the church. Pictures showing Adventists giving aid to disaster victims or needy persons, or showing relief supplies being prepared.
2. Summer youth camp activities, including opportunity camps, camp crafts, and Pathfinder fairs.
3. Youth activities not associated with summer camp—sunshine bands, community services, inner-city aid, student missionary activities.
4. Medical or health work of the church, not including school-related activities.
5. Evangelism—literature evangelism, Gift Bible evangelism, personal witnessing, radio or TV work, spiritual ministry, Vacation Bible School activities, and Sabbath School activities.

6. Educational or school-related activities, not including simply buildings.

7. Adventist institutions or historical buildings. Must show imagination and creativity in composition of pictures.

8. Mood pictures.

9. Close-ups. Pictures taken very close up capturing texture, expression, or unusual rendition of a subject.

Rules:

1. Pictures must be eight by ten inch black and white glossy prints.

2. Each picture must be properly captioned as follows: On slip of paper pasted on back of picture include: (1) Name of picture and identification of persons, places, and/or buildings in picture. (2) Name and address of photographer, giving also his or her ordinary occupation. (3) Date photo was taken. (4) Category in which photo is entered.

3. Pictures must have been taken during 1969.

4. Pictures submitted may have been used in photographer's union paper or in a newspaper, but must not have been otherwise published.

5. Only Seventh-day Adventists in North America, including furloughing missionaries, are eligible to participate in the contest. Professional photographers are excluded.

6. Pictures must have been taken by person submitting them.

7. All entries must be postmarked not later than December 31, 1969, and should be mailed to the Bureau of Public Relations, General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, 6840 Eastern Avenue, N.W., Washington, D. C. 20012.

8. All photos become the property of the General Conference Bureau of Public Relations and will be available to Seventh-day Adventist publications. Payment will be made for future use according to value set by the promotional pictures committee, and credit will appear with photo when published.

9. Decisions of the judges shall be final. If no photo in a category meets standards of excellence, no award will be given in that category.

Winning photos will be featured in the Review and Herald and Tell.

Photographers are urged to send in their photographs as soon as they have them in hand, and thereby avoid forgetting to send them before the deadline. There is no limit to the number of pictures each person may enter, providing each is submitted according to the rules.

ELDER HERBERT FORD BECOMES V.O.P PUBLIC RELATIONS DIRECTOR

Elder Herbert P. Ford, formerly public relations and radio-TV director for the Pacific Union Conference, assumed new responsibilities September 1 as public relations director of the Voice of Prophecy.

Elder D. V. Pond, who has so faithfully and energetically carried this responsibility for a long period of time, has responded to the call of being coordinator of the coming youth broadcast. We have appreciated the services of Elder Pond through the years and are glad that he can stay with us in this new capacity.

The Voice of Prophecy is fortunate to secure the services of a man with a wealth of experience and excellent training in public relations work for the church. In addition to scores of articles, Elder Ford is the author of the following books: Wind High, Sand Deep; Flee the Captor; and No Guns on Their Shoulders. The Ford family will be a welcome addition to the program of evangelism carried on by the Voice of Prophecy. We welcome Elder and Mrs. Ford and their three daughters, Jana, Cynthia, and Alyssa.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION COMMITTEE VOTES DOWN PRIVATE SCHOOL AID

SANTA FE, NEW MEXICO—Expansion of state aid to private and parochial schools was firmly rejected by the education committee of the New Mexico Constitutional Convention.

The educators told delegates to keep the current provision. Under it no state funds are to be used for the support of any nonpublic school on any level. However, current interpretation of the provision does allow state aid to private and parochial schools in the form of textbooks, lunches, and bus transportation.

RESEARCH SUPPORT GRANTED S.D.A. RESEARCHER

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Noted researcher and social scientist, Mrs. Elsa Berglund, a Seventh-day Adventist from Norway, has been selected by the U.S. Clearing House on Smoking and Health to head up a research center on smoking and health in Philadelphia.

Full financial backing will be given her studies of Seventh-day Adventist Five-Day Plans in North America and overseas. Early last year, her study on the Five-Day Plan for the Norwegian Cancer Society received widespread approval.

Try Testimony Countdown In Your Church this Fall

Testimony Countdown! What's that? In this scientific age we are ever searching for ways to relate our closing message to the times. The White Estate has found a way to bring to our people the messages of the nine volumes of the Testimonies in a unique way. It is called Testimony Countdown.

All our pastors have been alerted to this new tool for teaching the important lessons contained in these special messages to the church.

In the Takoma Park church, where the trial run was held, seats were at a premium every night and over 1,500 people gathered to hear the messages and to take the course. Many, after years of reading snatches here and there in these vital books, have expressed their appreciation for this program which introduced them for the first time to the historical setting of the volumes as well as the messages they contain for our time.

One young lady said to me, "I was reared in a Seventh-day Adventist home and had heard of Sister White and the Testimonies all my life, but I did not know that they were really up to date for youth. These volumes and messages have opened up a whole new world of study for me."

When your pastor announces the program is to begin in your church, may I urge you to avail yourself of the opportunity to discover God's gift to the church anew. Find out how these messages and counsels relate to your life and the problems each of us, as well as the church, faces in these times. You will be glad you did.

SATURDAY NIGHT MASS APPROVED IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS—Roman Catholics in the St. Louis archdiocese may now attend Mass on Saturday night instead of Sunday morning. John Cardinal Carberry, who gave permission to the parishes, said the Saturday Masses should not begin before 4 p.m. or after 8 p.m.

He instructed pastors that the celebration should have as many as possible of the Sunday Mass characteristics including commentator, lector, choir, and singing.

N.C.C. Asks Churches to Aid the Blacks

INDIANAPOLIS—The General Board of the National Council of Churches has refused to denounce the Black Economic Development Committee. Though no funds were set aside to reach the group directly, the council is asking its 33 members to raise $500,000.

The new money would go to two other organizations that are identified with the Black Manifesto, namely: The Interreligious Foundation for Community Organization and the National Committee of Black Churchmen. While the council rejects the ideology of the manifesto, top men say churches must deal with the massive needs in the ghettos.

Dig May Show Ancient Worship Customs

BEERSHEBA, ISRAEL—Archaeologists hope to uncover clues to worship customs at the time of King Solomon. An international and ecumenical team of scholars is excavating Tel Beersheba in the Negev desert. The ancient village dates back some 5,000 years, they say.

Already they have unearthed the walls of an ancient Roman fortress and some Hellenistic buildings. But what they are really looking for is a place of worship that dates back to the time of the first temple in Jerusalem. The excavations will continue for two months a year over the next five years.

DEROGATORY RELIGIOUS REMARKS WIN EMPLOYEE COMPENSATION

HARRISBURG, PENNSYLVANIA—A person who quits a job because an employer made derogatory remarks about his religion can collect unemployment compensation in Pennsylvania. The decision was made by the State Unemployment Compensation Board of Review, which reversed an adverse decision by the referee of the state agency.

The case involved a woman employed as an assistant to a veterinarian in St. Davids, Pennsylvania. She quit because her employer made derogatory remarks about her Jewish beliefs. The board of review said an employee should put up with a certain amount of trouble, but this case involved constant and severe harassment.

Farewell Party Held for Dr. Lau

However, the Five-Day Plan must go on. In the local area, Chaplains Graves and Hewlett, plus medical staff members from the san, including Dr. Dale, are sponsoring this program to help those interested in breaking the cigarette habit in the following places:

Fall Evangelism Planned

Now that the 1969-70 school year is upon us our pastors and laity are looking forward to another fall evangelistic thrust. A number of public campaigns are being planned, along with a vigorous seed-sowing program in several areas of the conference through the Amazing Facts literature distribution and radio program.

Following are a few of the public campaigns to be held: Elders V. W. Esquilla and L. J. Marsa and Pastor Alden Hunt have commenced a city-wide campaign in Rockford which began September 6. Our new evangelistic team, comprised of Elder Roland Lehnhoff and Pastor David Peterson, joined with Elder H. H. White in a series in Decatur. These meetings began September 13.

In the month of July our colporteurs entered upon a very vigorous program of placing our literature in the city of Galva. As a result of their efforts, along with those of Elder N. D. Kinney and the Kewanee church, a very good interest has developed. Pastor Kinney and his faithful members are now conducting Bible studies and will launch into a public campaign in October.

Excellent reports have been coming from Elder E. M. Tyson concerning a development of new interest around Sheridan. In response to this challenge, Elder Gunnar Sjoren will join with Elder Tyson in a fall campaign in Sheridan. Elders A. N. Patrick and R. M. Smith have blended their talents for a campaign in the Kankakee church which began September 6 and will work together again in a series in Palatine beginning October 18. Other campaigns will be held in the Chicago Italian, Ottawa, Lincoln, and Chicago Austin churches.

Along with these public campaigns will be the Amazing Facts radio and literature saturation programs. The following communities will participate: Morris, Danville, West Frankfort, Carthage, and Clinton. Public campaigns will be held in these areas sometime in 1970.

The support of all our members with their prayers, faithful attendance at the meetings, and active participation in the distribution of our literature will contribute much to the success of all these efforts.

Rockford's Versatile Mr. Tillman Is Pathfinder Leader and Center Director

James Tillman, member of the Rockford church, for the past several years has been an active drill master for the Rockford Pathfinders. In a special recognition service recently he surprised his fancy drill team with personalized letters to each member from the sergeant in charge of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Washington, D.C., commending them on their achievements.

Mr. Tillman, who also is executive director of Booker T. Washington Center in Rockford, held a public open house at the center on June 7. The aim of the center is to make available to all people the privilege of education for self-improvement for more purposeful living. There are 107 students between the ages of 7 and 14 enrolled at the center for summer classes. There is also an adult program in progress.

The Rockford MV Society was pleased to be able to present flowers to the center for their opening day, and hopes to help serve in other capacities working with Mr. Tillman to make this an outstanding center for the community.

P.A.C. Weekends at Little Grassy Lake

The annual Labor Day weekend retreat sponsored by the Progressive Adventist Club of the Chicagoland area was held at Little Grassy Lake near Carbondale, Illinois, Friday, August 29, through Monday, September 1.

The three-day outing consisted of hiking, campfires, song fests, boating, water skiing, swimming, and election of officers for 1970.

Sabbath services were conducted by Elder J. E. Cleveland, club sponsor, following Sabbath School with Kathy Register, club religious leader, as superintendent. The Sabbath School lesson was covered in a lively panel discussion by Charles Hood, Kathy Register, Jackie Minier, and Jay Buchan, with many other P.A.C. members joining in. Lois Dittberner and Shona Gordon made the mission story interesting by relating their experiences during youth congress.

Election of officers was held Saturday night after sundown worship. The 1970 officers are as follows: president—Freeman Dodge; vice-president—Jackie Minier; secretary—Carol Grosboll; public relations—Tina Fowlie and Gloria Scorzo; treasurer—Larry Lenart; religious leader—Charles Hood; program chairman—Aileen Welti; and food chairman—Gayle Vandivier.

The P.A.C. wishes to thank Elder J. E. Cleveland and Elder William Edsell for a successful weekend.

Tina Fowlie

Elder J. W. Proctor, in telling about the tools we are using for reaching the masses, states, "We have books yet to be published. Greater days are ahead for our literature work."

Literature Evangelists Meet at Little Grassy Lake

The changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace in London is a daily event which attracts hundreds of people. Why such a tremendous interest in something which occurs so often? I can only express a personal opinion, but the colorful costumes, the precision in their marching, the conscientious concern, the dignity and the honor felt by the men in being chosen to be part of this group are the answers I have to offer.

At Windsor Castle in England the colorfully dressed guard inside the gate takes his post with serious concern, never looking to the right or left regardless of how many individuals are taking pictures. He would dishonor his heritage and purpose for being there if, as a sentry, he should be distracted.

I visited Little Grassy Lake on Wednesday, August 27, to witness a gathering of sentries off duty, but in training for greater thrusts in their activities for God's work. Their leader, Elder R. L. Chapman, led out in the institute.

These sentries, our conference literature evangelists, and proud to be chosen for this honorable assignment, carry with them from house to house colorful books, a serious concern for people, and a dignity which brings honor to God and His church. Their four days in training involved recreation, instruction from leaders from our publishing houses, union and local departmental secretaries, and invigorating expression from other literature sentries on how to reach people with good books.

Two colorful, power-packed brochures, "Dear Mother-to-Be" and "Parents, Stop Juvenile Delinquency" were introduced by Elder Clifford Okuno from the Review and Herald in Washington as useful tools for securing leads in the sale of books and potential prospects for church involvement. These brochures are being accepted by department stores for distribution.

If people want security, we have it to offer. Why not offer your services as a sentry at God's post and share your time and energy in the sale of good books?

Eston L. Allen

Books certainly are an attraction, especially when J. L. Clements of the Review and Herald Publishing Association talks about them.

Literature evangelist George Baebler is relating an exciting experience and commending Elder J. W. Proctor, Lake Union publishing director, for his fine leadership in this union.

The lake bridge can also add its blessing to the contented mind of a literature evangelist and his family.

DID YOU ENJOY YOUR VACATION?

Note the happy faces of the Gordon Thomas family. (Mrs. Thomas is the former Donna Otis.)

While visiting in Indiana, Gordon felt the urge to go out and make a few calls. So they took a few hours from their vacation and took a lead card that came in from California. This family had picked up the card in California and sent it in. The result was a $550 cash sale that day.

The Thomases worked a total of 34 hours and sold $916.60 of our books.

This was a good way to earn some extra ready cash and, above all, to help a family to know our Saviour better.

You, too, could profit by using some of your vacation time to sell our books and help spread the gospel as this family has done. Contact your Indiana publishing secretary and have a happier vacation next summer!

Columbus Members Break Ground For New School Building

Ground-breaking ceremonies for a new school building were held at Columbus Thursday evening, August 21.

The program was under the direction of the church pastor, Elder L. E. Ringering. Participants in the program included Elder R. L. Dale, conference president, Elder C. E. Perry, superintendent of education, and Elder W. R. Howard, conference development secretary.

The land for the school and the church building, which will be erected a little later, was donated by two members of the church, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Herold. Ed Wiley, contractor, stated that he expected the building to be ready for use in two months. Dr. R. E. Stidd, school board chairman, stated that it was a real encouragement to the whole church to see this long-awaited project get underway.

C. E. Perry
Superintendent of Education

Breaking ground for a new school building at Columbus are R. L. Dale, conference president; C. E. Perry; Ed Wiley, contractor; Gene Barr on tractor; John Nickless, teacher; Frank Herold, who with his wife donated the ground; and Dr. Raymond Stidd, school board chairman. Also present was W. R. Howard, who took the picture.

Thoughts When I Should Have Been Working

School is open, and every morning I see bulging yellow buses spawning their freshly scrubbed sleepy-eyed guppies out onto the playground where they dart about in the bright world for a few minutes. Soon the bell rings and they are swallowed up inside those cavernous walls, where they must sit regimented and attentive while their minds are dissected into the 3 R's plus the philosophies of men.

I wonder how many of these teachable tots will ever learn the principles of right and wrong as they are given in the Bible and in the book by Josephine C. Edwards, These Commandments Are Mine.

Will their grasping minds encounter the true explanation of the origin of species as given in the Bible, the Bible Story by Arthur S. Maxwell, and Wonders of Creation by H. W. Clark?

Will their liquid characters be jelled by character-building stories such as the Bedtime Stories, Fireside Stories, Sorry Potatoes, or Busy Boys and Girls?

Will anything or anyone stir the dormant passion of humanitarianism within their desensitized souls with books such as Stories in Africa and Adventures of Kado, Four on an Island, or A Nurse Called Tommy?

How am I doing with my own tailless tadpoles? And how are you doing with yours? Read Adventist Home, pages 410 and 411. Their future depends on it.

Christian Education Pays Dividends

Christian Education Day at the Indianapolis Glendale church took on a new dimension this year. Elder H. F. Otis, conference publishing secretary, was the morning speaker. His family, home for the wedding of his youngest son, Terry, were all present.

The service told the simple story of a family who accepted the doctrine of Christian education and its blessing in their lives. Mrs. Donna Thomas of Pacific Union College, William Otis, and Harold Otis, Jr., received their education in Seventh-day Adventist schools and are now actively engaged in God's work. Terry Otis, the youngest brother, is preparing to join the rest of his family in the organized work.

The Otis family is humbly grateful for the blessing of God and His leading in Christian education. This family is symbolic of the thousands of other Adventist families who have benefited from following the Lord's counsel.

C. E. Perry

The H. F. Otis family presented strong support for Christian education on Education Day at the Glendale church.

LAKE REGION

LAKE REGION FAMILY CAMP IS A SUCCESS

"We don't want to leave." "We didn't know it would be like this." These were typical of the quotes overheard at the Lake Region Family Camp conducted over the Labor Day weekend.

Professor Reger Smith of Andrews University and Elder T. M. Kelly combined to bring the finest in family and social counseling and spiritual uplift.

Professor Smith dealt with the "Composition of the Family," "The Responsibility of the Family," and "The Relationship of the Family to Changing Social Patterns."

Elder Kelly addressed the campers on "The Appreciation and Use of God-given Talents."

Plans are being formulated now for an even more enjoyable family camp next time.

Conference Staff Takes Time Off For Picnic in Michigan City

Monday, August 18, was a memorable day for the Lake Region Conference workers and their families, who took the day off for some moments of fun and relaxation at the Michigan City park.

The Continental Trailways bus left the conference office at 9:30 a.m., and arrived at the park an hour later.

Long to be remembered is the sumptuous meal served at lunchtime. The large variety of dishes prepared by the ladies blended in an appetizing aroma.

Several hours spent at a nearby beach highlighted the day's activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert E. Jones celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert E. Jones, Sr., of the Burns Avenue church in Detroit celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Sunday evening, August 24. The couple renewed their vows in a solemn and impressive ceremony.

Officiating were Elders T. M. Kelly, church pastor, C. E. Bradford, conference president, and W. C. Jones, son of the couple and lay activities secretary of the South-west Region Conference, Dallas, Texas. Several hundred persons from the churches of metropolitan Detroit witnessed the ceremony and remained for the reception.

The sons and daughters of the Joneses, dressed in formal attire, served as ushers and bridesmaids in the wedding procession, and three of the granddaughters offered special musical selections.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones are the parents of 10 children (eight of whom are living), 52 grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren. The Joneses became acquainted with the third angel's message nearly 40 years ago by the faithful witnessing of a sister of Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Elizabeth Harley, who now serves as a Bible instructor in the Lake Region Conference. Mrs. Harley, who stood with her sister as matron of honor 50 years ago, served in the same capacity on this occasion.

All but two of Mr. and Mrs. Jones's sons and daughters and their families are members of the Adventist church. Mr. Jones is now a retired brick mason, yet remains active on small jobs of his trade. Mrs. Jones is a Sabbath School teacher at Burns, and for a number of years served as health and welfare leader of the church. Her hobbies are gardening and quilting.

After the wedding ceremony, the children and grandchildren of the Joneses presented them a surprise jet flight to Los Angeles, California, with accommodations in the Statler Hilton and a guided tour of the city, and prepared the way for them to be feted by relatives and friends on the West Coast.

We pray that the longevity of their marriage will continue to serve as a steadying influence to the believers in the city of Detroit.

MICHIGAN

Federation Meetings to Be Held Throughout State

Elder and Mrs. M. H. Jensen (he is director of the Seventh-day Adventist Welfare Service's Eastern Depot in New York City) will be the guest speakers at the fall federation meetings which run from October 5 to October 14.

According to Elder Watson M. Buckman, director of welfare activities for the Michigan Conference, these meetings are held for "the improving of our welfare work." They offer opportunities for the exchange of ideas, presentation of new methods, and discussion of future projects, he added.

All church members are encouraged to attend the meetings, but all welfare workers are urged to attend for the spiritual and practical benefit they will receive. The place and date of the meeting for your area are printed in the Bulletin Board, page 14 of this issue of the Herald.

Holly Churches Pay Tribute To Schoolteacher of 19 Years

Nineteen years of teaching Adventist youth in the Holly church school was rewarded recently at an evening program honoring Mrs. Leona Glidden. Between two and three hundred persons of four Holly area churches met in the school gymnasium for the event, which included the presentation by Elder Earl Zager of a plaque for outstanding service.

Mrs. Glidden, who has taught for a total of 33 years in Michigan church schools, was also presented with a rocking chair and a purse of money.

She has now retired in the area, where her husband Charles works as civil engineer.

Famous Cedar Lake Academy Alumnus Remembers His Alma Mater

Many Lake Union residents were saddened recently by the announcement of the death of Dr. Cyril Brian Courville of Loma Linda. He is a native of Michigan and a graduate of Cedar Lake Academy and Emmanuel Missionary College. Dr. Courville authored 18 books and monographs, over 200 articles, and coauthored more than 100 other articles. His written work has appeared in approximately 50 different periodicals during the past 35 years.

History, biography, archaeology, and paleopathology were among his special interests. During a summer in Mississippi, he began to explore the careers of the military leaders of the Civil War and to collect objects of historical and medical value of that era. From this start, he developed his museum of weapons, helmets, armor, and skulls demonstrating injuries of conflict. Cedar Lake Academy is fortunate to be the recipient, along with Andrews University, of many of these most intriguing relics. To be put on display shortly at the academy are an old tomahawk, a utensil used for panning gold dust, high-topped boots, a large mural depicting Indian life in the West, and other objects. Also included are items of a literary nature, including copies of a weekly paper dating back to 1864.

Dr. Courville was born at Traverse City, Michigan, and was reared in the sober mid-American culture and economy that ingrained integrity, industry, a sense of responsibility, and a high degree of idealism in his character. A single suit tailored by his seamstress mother, it is said, lasted him throughout his four years of medical training.

He helped finance his education by selling books in the summer and by tutoring classmates during the academic year. In his senior year he earned the highest score in the United States on the tests of the National Board of Medical Examiners.

After a 15-month internship at the Los Angeles County General Hospital, he was appointed to the faculty of the Loma Linda School of Medicine and began his lifelong study of neurology and neuropathology.

In the development of his career, Dr. Courville was awarded the California State Medical Association essay prize in 1929 and Fiske award in 1931; earned the Master of Science degree at the University of Southern California in 1931; met the specialty requirements of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology; received an honorary degree, the equivalent of the Doctor of Medical Science, from Japan's University of Keio in 1951; was presented a scroll of honor by the International Anesthesia Research Society in 1954; and in 1959 was saluted for his work in the field of anesthesia.

One of the unusual honors accorded him is that of being named Alumnus of the Year by two universities. In 1951 he was selected by the alumni association of Loma Linda University School of Medicine for this recognition, and in 1954 the same honor was extended by the alumni association of Andrews University, from which he had earned his baccalaureate degree. In 1956 the American Medical Librarians Association named him honorary vice-president, a fitting recognition for a teacher whose influence for the up-building of the medical school's library began with his 1934 appointment to the library committee of the university.

The results of Dr. Courville's observations, study, and thought earned him the accolade of "the world's greatest neuropathologist" from the late Dr. Walter E. Dandy, famed Johns Hopkins University neurosurgeon. We here at Cedar Lake Academy cannot help but heartily concur with Dr. Dandy's tribute to Dr. Courville, and we feel a unique distinction in being able to have contributed to the foundation of learning upon which Dr. Courville built so solidly throughout his lifetime of service.

Meetings Held in Evart

The September 16 issue of the "Lake Union Herald" carried a story on the student series of meetings held recently at Evart. By error, the above photos were not submitted with the article.

Those who led out in the meetings, who posed by the advertising sign, are Myrene Holm, Mrs. Mary Ealy, and Martha Myers; seated are Jerry Johns, Jim Hopkins, and Elder L. E. Mills of the Evart church.

Baptized at the conclusion of the series were Mrs. Anna Bowen, Mrs. Nettie Kave, Mrs. Katherine Leyder, and Steve Kadwell. They are pictured with Elder L. E. Mills, Jim Hopkins, and Jerry Johns in the back row.

Elder E. E. Cleveland of the General Conference Ministerial Department gives instruction at the ministerial retreat at Camp Au Sable.

During the latter part of August the ministers of Michigan and their families gathered at Au Sable to follow the Lord's injunction to "Come ye yourselves apart . . . and rest a while."

For a number of days the large group enjoyed this time of relaxation with instruction. Five hours each day were set aside for group study with guest speaker E. E. Cleveland of the General Conference Ministerial Department. Elder Cleveland's rich background of personal ministry and evangelism, plus his sparkling personality and deep concentration, made these instructional periods as enjoyable as the swimming, boating, ping-pong, and all other activities in which the ministers and their families participated.

In his lectures Elder Cleveland spotlighted the work, attitudes, and relationships of the minister to his church members, fellow workers, family, and church organization. He discussed these areas frankly and informally in the light of Christian ethics. He also spoke on tested evangelistic procedures and methods.

Dr. W. W. Oliphant

Dr. Oliphant Sends Report from Nigeria

An item in a summer issue of the Lake Union Herald told of Dr. Walker Oliphant's trip to Nigeria for three months to bring some assistance to the doctors at our hospital at Ile Ife. A letter from him, dated August 27, has been received by the medical secretary of the Michigan Conference and portions of it are printed below for the general interest of our readers.

"The people are very friendly and appreciative of the work the hospital is doing. I was surprised the other day when a patient was ready to return home to learn that she lived 300 miles away. She was a young woman from whom we removed a huge tumor of the uterus. Her smile and expressions of gratitude were worth my trip to this country.

"Another case I feel really good about was a six-year-old boy who was attacked by a monkey. His right ear was just ripped in shreds and the side of his head was also torn. He has gone home now with hardly a scar to show. I call him 'my monkey boy' and I am his 'ore mi' (my friend).

"The two doctors here are working to the point of exhaustion. Dr. Mel Owens is in charge. That means he has to do all the dirty chores, such as dealing with money matters, disciplinary problems, and firing people who are not living up to their privileges in their work, etc. The other doctor is Cyril Hartman. He is a genius at fixing things such as broken down hospital equipment. I was really amazed at the fellow the other night when I stopped by his house and found him in the bathroom cutting his own hair. He started doing it in medical school days and has done it ever since.

"The hospital is very nice for this area and is the result of sweat and tears of the many people who have worked here through the years. The hospital grounds are just like a park with tall beautiful trees. (One in our front yard must be over 100 feet tall.) There are flowering shrubs of many kinds and colors. It is early morning as I write this and outside the birds are singing lustily.

"The hospital is on the front of the 80-acre plot and the homes of the doctors and other helpers at the hospital. The houses are nice and comfortable with electricity and water. We even have an electric stove, a ceiling fan in our living room, and a telephone, although I wouldn't let them connect it the first week we were here. I told them I had come over to get away from the telephone! The electricity—or the people who run the system—is, however, very erratic, as the power goes off for hours and at the most inconvenient times.

"One of the problems usually found in the mission field—the schooling of the children—is taken care of here. There are two teachers here that run a school up to the eighth grade.

"This country with all its beauty and natural resources is far from being like heaven. The people are sick mainly from preventable diseases. The infant mortality is between 40 and 60 per cent, which means a lot of tiny graves in this unfortunate land. We get some cases of severe malnutrition in our pediatrics ward. Some of these poor little babies are brought in so dehydrated they are nearly dead.

"I have about one more month left before I return to Lake Orion. I get very tired after 12 to 14 hours' work at the hospital, but I wouldn't trade this experience for anything. Giving money to help in mission work is surely necessary and worthwhile, but giving one's self is tremendously rewarding. I would recommend to anyone in a position to do so to hunt out a place to go and work—for short or long periods—work with the people directly, person to person. See how you will bless your own soul and be a blessing to others!"

NEW SUNDAY HOURS SCHEDULED FOR BIBLE HOUSE

In the month of November the Bible House goes out to the churches and conducts holiday book sales. We do not hold a book sale in the Lansing area churches, assuming that those nearby can come into the Bible House for their purchases.

But since many people cannot get in during the week to our office, we are going to open this year on Sunday from 1 to 3 p.m. in November. This is the first time we have done this, so you may want to tear out this reminder of the hours. November has five Sundays this year and we will be open during these hours on all of them.

We hope that this new plan will catch on and many of our nearby members will take advantage of this time to do holiday shopping at camp meeting prices.

Please remember, it is two hours only between 1 and 3 and not all day. We welcome anyone between these hours in November.

We are planning between 15 and 20 book sales in churches farther from the office. These dates and places will be announced soon.

Health Education Couple to Visit Michigan

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Miller, health education team from Worthington Foods, started a series of meetings in Michigan which will include stops at 21 of our churches. This series of meetings started on September 24 and is being held each night (except Friday and Saturday) to October 29.

Information has been sent to pastors and first elders of each local church regarding the stops the Millers will make in Michigan. Check with them to find out the one nearest to you. By all means attend that meeting, for you will find it most valuable and enjoyable.

Elder Glen Aufderhar

Stewardship Secretary Appointed

Elder Glen Aufderhar, newly appointed stewardship secretary of the Wisconsin Conference, is already beginning his new duties in Wisconsin. He, his wife Barbara, and children (Nancy, 14, Kenneth, 11, and Michael, 8) will be moving to Madison as soon as arrangements can be completed.

Aufderhar graduated cum laude with a degree in theology from Walla Walla College in 1961, and received an M.A. degree in systematic theology from Andrews University in 1962.

After internship in the Washington Conference, he worked with the evangelistic team in that conference and in the North Pacific Union Conference. Aufderhar served as Idaho Conference evangelist for three years before coming to the Milwaukee area churches about a year ago.

He was ordained to the gospel ministry in the Idaho Conference in 1966. During the time he was in evangelism, Mrs. Aufderhar taught a mobile church school for all the children of the team as they traveled from place to place.

In accepting the new responsibilities, Elder Aufderhar said, "My heart is in evangelism. But for several years my wife and I have become increasingly aware of the fact that evangelistic endeavors are frequently reaping less than their potential, because we as church members are not prepared spiritually to cooperate with the Holy Spirit in winning hearts." As the Aufderhars were trying to determine the reasons for reservations in responding to God's invitation to be collaborators with Him, some startling passages were pointed out to them by Elder M. E. Rees, North Pacific Union stewardship secretary:

"The spiritual dearth in our churches is frequently the result of an alarming prevalence of selfishness." —Testimonies, vol. 5, p. 375.

"Selfishness, the sin of the world, has become the prevailing sin of the church." —Ibid., p. 204.

"For the love of money is the root of ALL [caps supplied] evil: which wh^o some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows." —I Timothy 6:10.

Aufderhar asserts that where he has seen the principles of Christian stewardship taught, there has been a marked increase in the spiritual climate of the church. "I am convinced," he said, "that knowing and applying stewardship principles is a preparation for Pentecost."

Stewardship is not fund raising, Aufderhar emphasized. It is recognizing that God owns everything and using His assets as agents who will give an account of them. He said, "In the Garden of Eden God tested man with the tree. That test today is in our income. Do we really love God more than things? If so, we will manage wisely now and prepare carefully for the day when our role as manager ends, by preparing a trust or a will. When we are faithful in these areas the power of Pentecost will attend our missionary efforts for God."

Milwaukee Pathfinder Club Director Paul Freeman leads out in a Sabbath School lesson quiz.

PATHFINDERS MEET AT DEVIL'S LAKE

On September 12 to 14, 185 Wisconsin Pathfinders and their staff members met at Devil's Lake State Park for the annual camporee. Warm, sunny weather provided a real camping atmosphere, and soon the different club campsites took shape nicely.

Sabbath was ushered in as the flag was lowered and each one gathered around the campfire for singing and stories.

The Milwaukee Central Pathfinder Club provided an interesting Sabbath School under the leadership of Club Director Paul Freeman, and the sermon was given by Elder Fred Ellis, pastor of the Superior church.

The hike along the east bluff took a good portion of the afternoon, and as soon as all returned they were anxious for supper to be prepared.

During the Saturday night camp fire, each club participated by having special music, stunts, or stories, and everyone joined in for the group singing.

A light shower on Sunday morning brought things pretty much to a halt, but by the time everyone had his wet tent and supplies packed away, the sun came out again.

Wisconsin Pathfinder clubs are off to a good start again after an interrupted summer. Be sure that your Pathfinder club is going strong and doing the job that should be done for your youth.

CHILD CARE AIDE TRAINING OFFERED AT ANDREWS UNIVERSITY

The care and training of preschool children will be emphasized in a Child Care Aide Training Program at Andrews University this fall. Open to any woman 16 years of age or older and interested in children, the free course will be conducted from October 13 to November 21.

Dr. Ruth Murdoch, professor of education at Andrews, says, "We know of decided expansion plans for child care facilities in the area, and the need for trained personnel." She hopes that in addition to preparing aides for existing child care centers, some trainees can assist in organizing new centers or can help in individual homes.

The program is offered by Andrews University jointly with the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Faculty and Board Hold Retreat

"What Should a Seventh-day Adventist University Be Like?" was the theme considered at an Andrews University faculty-board retreat held at Camp Au Sable, Grayling, Michigan, September 7 to 10.

Keynoting the get-together session for an exchange of ideas was the General Conference and A.U. board president, R. H. Pierson.

Papers presented on academic and administrative problems were as follows: "A Look at the Ancestry of the Modern University," F. E. J. Harder, dean of the graduate school; "The Purpose, Goals, and Objectives of Andrews University," A.U. President Richard Hammill; "Some Thoughts on the Role of Andrews University," William S. Peterson, assistant professor of English; "Discussion of Attendance at Required Religious Meetings," Myrl Manley, vice-president for student affairs; "Academic Freedom at Andrews University," John O. Waller, chairman of the English department; "What Should the Intellectual Climate Be Like at a Seventh-day Adventist University for Faculty and Students?" Joseph G. Smoot, vice-president for academic affairs; "A Discussion of Academic Freedom," W. R. Beach, General Conference secretary.

A panel, "How Does One Judge the Effectiveness of Andrews University? What Are the Major Criteria to Be Used?" was moderated by Dr. Hammill and participated in by Raoul Dederen, professor of theology in the Theological Seminary; Willis J. Hackett, associate secretary of the General Conference Ministerial Department; Charles Hirsch, General Conference secretary of education; W. E. McClure, dean of the college; Alice Marsh, chairman of the home economics department; Joseph G. Smoot; Charles Stokes, A.U. board member and teacher at the University of Bridgeport in Connecticut; John O. Waller and Francis W. Wernick, president of the Lake Union Conference.

Another panel, "Purposes, Goals, and Objectives of Andrews University," was moderated by R. H.
