COVER

Spicer students hold the attention of listeners with typically Indian music, but their words of gospel truth sink deeper than the melodies as they hold Branch Sabbath Schools. Instruments in this orchestra include the tablas (or two small drums), the thambura (a bass instrument with four strings), and the sitar (18 strings).

YOUR THIRTEENTH SABBATH OFFERING WILL ASSIST

SCHOOLS THAT WIN FOR CHRIST

by W. F. Storz
 Sabbath School Secretary
 Southern Asia Division

For a long time students of Lasalgaon High School had been traveling to and from school by train. The engineer, Mr. Medhe, had noticed a difference in these students, and he decided to find out what made that difference.

Church services had just finished when Mr. Medhe stopped his train at the Lasalgaon station. Promod Gaikwad, a teacher at Lasalgaon High School, was passing by when the engineer stopped him. His questions led the teacher to climb up into the engine cab, and when the train moved off, he moved with it.

Seventy-five miles farther down the line and four hours later, the teacher climbed down out of the locomotive. Echoing in his ears were the words of the engineer: "I'm convinced Christ does offer what we don't have—the way of life."

As the train pulled away, Promod looked about him. He was at Iगतपुरी, a railway center. First order of business was to find transportation back to the school. He found transportation, but before he left he also found a number of people who asked that he bring students back each Sabbath and hold services with them—an invitation he could not refuse!

Farther north a science teacher at Spicer Memorial High School, Stanley David, determined to go to Kerala for his summer vacation. While there he conducted four meetings a week and carried on a vigorous home visitation and Bible study program. When he returned to school at the end of his vacation, he left behind him 12 newly baptized members of the church.

During an MV camp at Panithar Garden in Tamil Nadu, students of the E. D. Thomas High School, by visiting homes in a nearby village stirred up an interest resulting in evangelistic meetings, and one boy from the village is now a classmate of the campers.

In Roorkee, in northwest India, students and staff carried out a literature distribution and Branch Sabbath School program that resulted ultimately in the opening of a new church.

Last year Christian Dera of Pakistan Union School began a steady witness for Christ that has resulted in a school with 22 children. A church is soon to be built.

At Jahmke, where for years men labored for souls with no results, a Vacation Bible School was held which enrolled 40. This was followed up with a Branch Sabbath School, and today the church operates a school there with 23 students enrolled. The attitude of the community has completely changed.

These are all off-campus experiences. On campus the story is much the same. An example is Vishnu, a young man, not a Christian, whose father enrolled him at Assam Training School so that he might be educated in English. During the first Week of Prayer, the young man accepted Christ. When he returned home, he was fearful as to what his welcome might be, but his fears were quickly dispelled. After the joyous reunion, his father asked him to secure an application blank so that his brother might also attend Assam Training School.

But will there be room for Vishnu's brother? Today's educational facilities are crowded. At Spicer College, for example, the men's dormitory, built to accommodate 150, now houses 350. Many of the facilities in other schools reflect the Stone Age rather than the twentieth century. Imagine cooking for a whole school, using great black iron kettles over a fire built in an open trench in the kitchen. Imagine row upon row of students sleeping on the floor. Picture small libraries desperately in need of books.

This is Southern Asia—moving ahead for God even under difficulties. Remember her needs on December 20.

Mrs. Bashir Alam conducts school in the sunshine out of doors. The unheated brick building is too cold for sitting on the floor. Forty children attend the school at Muridke where Mr. and Mrs. Alam are teachers. A church of 20 members has been organized here as the result of the efforts of Pakistan Union School students and staff.

Mark "S.D.A." on Your Envelope

A letter has just been mailed from the Christian Record Braille Foundation which many church members will be receiving. Since there is no way to know who, on the mailing list, are members, we are making this appeal for you to please mark "S.D.A." on your answer. All donations received from Seventh-day Adventists can be used for sending doctrinal services to the blind.

The sectarian fund of Christian Record Braille Foundation is used to produce the braille Review and Herald and Sabbath School lessons. The lessons are also released on tape for the blind and visually handicapped. Several Bible correspondence courses are offered the sightless. All of these services are furnished free.

At the present time this sectarian fund is almost depleted. If you have not received our package of informative literature and would like to know more about the work of the foundation, a Seventh-day Adventist institution, send your request to: Public Relations Department A, Christian Record Braille Foundation, Inc., 4444 South 52nd Street, Lincoln, Nebraska 68506.

TESTIMONY COUNTDOWN: COURAGE FOR THE SEVENTIES

I wish to share with you a burden that is on my heart. The 1970s—all of us agree—loom before us as a decade of decision and destiny for America and the whole world. As church members we will be forced to make important decisions, many of which will involve our personal relationship to God and the denomination to which we belong.

These words by Ellen White, written in 1909, are much more true today than 60 years ago: "The fast-filling signs of the times declare that the coming of Christ is near at hand. The days in which we live are solemn and important. The Spirit of God is gradually but surely being withdrawn from the earth. Plagues and judgments are already falling upon the despisers of the grace of God. The calamities by land and sea, the unsettled state of society, the alarms of war, are portentous. They forecast approaching events of the greatest magnitude.

"The agencies of evil are combining their forces and consolidating. They are strengthening for the last great crisis. Great changes are soon to take place in our world, and the final movements will be rapid ones."—Testimonies, vol. 9, p. 11.

High Spiritual Priorities

For Seventh-day Adventists the 1970s will be a decade of high spiritual priorities. The times demand on the part of our people an enlightened understanding and in the wake of this enlightenment an intelligent dedication to the Lord Jesus Christ and to His service.

We need all the strength we can get from God and from the study of His Word and the Testimonies. I wish to commend our pastors and local elders throughout the union territory who seriously plan to begin Testimony Countdown classes in our churches throughout this field. Many are beginning in January. Some have already conducted these classes, and very successfully. At Andrews University a class of approximately 1,600 attended regularly. At Hinsdale, Illinois, 300 to 500 studied the course. There are 10 Wednesday nights needed to successfully present this series of studies on the nine volumes of the Testimonies for the Church. No doubt some churches will start in February or March.

I cannot conceive of anything that would be more stimulating spiritually and that would give to our people much needed instruction just now than this providentially devised study of the Spirit of Prophecy. I hope that it will be possible for your church to start the class early in 1970.

"Liberty" magazine's new look comes from the drawing board of Mario Cortesi, right. Art director Harry Baerg, center, and layout artist Alan Forquer complete the design triumvirate.

THE NEW "LIBERTY" FEATURES REVAMPED DESIGN, LAYOUTS

What do you do when your magazine has to compete for attention with color TV, movies, the daily newspaper, and other psychologically-oriented media?

If you stand on past performance, you'll likely tally up your circulation losses at the end of the year. Competing with the best Madison Avenue and Hollywood have to offer, the religious press suffered a seven per cent decline during 1968.

"It's a real challenge to capture the attention of a basically pagan generation," admits Roland R. Hegstad, editor of Liberty, a magazine of religious freedom. "Though our circulation increased during 1969, we're not standing still. In January we're coming out with a streamlined look for the '70s.

Tapped to redesign Liberty was a bold young Adventist design artist, Mario Cortesi. Mario is a graduate of Brera Academy of Fine Art, Milan, Italy, where he specialized in graphic design. For three years he did general art work and design in Europe before moving to Canada.

Revamping the Liberty look from cover to cover was a complex job. "In redesigning Liberty I kept in mind that its readers are persons of repute—statesmen, lawyers, clergy, and educators," said Mario. "The treatment called for both dignity and daring—dignity because its readers generally are men of education and aesthetic value, daring because they are too busy to be attracted by the mundane."

The philosophy of daring with dignity has led to a new concept on covers. What's so important about a catchy cover? It gets people into the magazine. Witness the testimony of a Kansas newspaper columnist who wrote about the July-August issue:

"Just as I was about to sail the latest copy of Liberty magazine into file 13 (Liberty is a publication sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventists), something on the cover caught my eye. Underneath a colorful portrait of an old corncob smoking gent wearing a colorful sports jacket, [and] of all things, a clerical collar, was this headline: 'Mail-Order Ministers.' . . ."

That newspaperman read the cover story and thumbed through the rest of the magazine before writing his column. Added evidence that eye catching covers are worthwhile: more than 25 persons—mainly clergymen and lawyers—wrote asking for reprints of that photograph to frame and hang in their offices!

Liberty's commitment to truth remains unchanged, its no-nonsense editorial policy still sticks, but the packaging is new and exciting. Don't miss it.

DO YOU UNDERSTAND YOUR MIND?

Speed. Noise. Tension. Pressure. Screaming headlines. Ominous newscasts. A dizzy pace of life. A world in chaos and getting worse. This is no place for tranquility and peace of mind, and man is breaking under the strain in multiplying numbers.

Are you concerned about a healthy mind? Do you understand the Christian concepts of the mind? Do you know what Seventh-day Adventists teach about mental health? Can you help others?

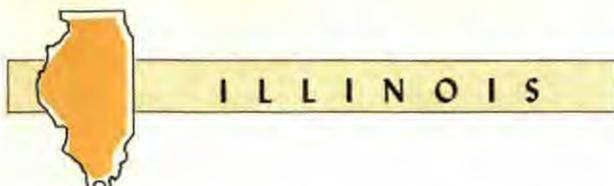

Home Study Institute has recently produced a very thorough Adventist-oriented study of the human mind. Convinced that Seventh-day Adventists have a message for the world concerning not only spiritual health and physical health, but also mental health, H.S.I. has asked Dr. John Cannon, chairman of the behavioral science department of Columbia Union College, to prepare a new study entitled Introduction to Psychology and Mental Health. As one of the textbooks of the course, Dr. Cannon, working closely with the Ellen G. White Estate, has compiled a book of nearly 500 pages made up of the writings of Ellen G. White on the subject.

There are 18 lessons in the course. The student will study heredity, environment, principles of learning, the place of emotions, and Christian-centered therapy, as well as many other phases of mental health. This course is now available. Write for information to Home Study Institute, Takoma Park, Washington, D.C., 20012. Learn to take care of your mind and your mind will take care of you.

Ethiopian Prize Awarded to Pope

ADDIS ABABA—Pope Paul VI has been designated to receive the Empress Menen Award for his outstanding contribution to world peace. The cash prize, which amounts to approximately $12,000, was announced by a spokesman for the Haile Selassie Prize Trust.

The Ethiopian emperor made a formal presentation of the award on November 2.

Five Were Baptized in Decatur Effort

The Decatur area people had opportunity from September 28 through October 19 to enjoy the services of the new conference evangelistic team in a series of meetings held at the Orlando Hotel ballroom.

Elder and Mrs. Roland Lehnhoff, the speaker and his wife, and David Peterson, singing evangelist, were happy for the hospitality and cooperation shown by church members throughout the series. The attendance by non-Adventists was amazingly high, even though John White and George Beverly Shea from the Billy Graham team were in town for a three-day program.

The local police cooperated by extending a parking courtesy at no cost to those attending.

Five were baptized by Elder H. H. White, local pastor, following the completion of the effort, with others still studying the message with favorable consent.

Farewell Held for the Edsell Family

The office staff gathered at the conference office building on November 13 for a farewell for the W. S. Edsell family who are leaving soon as missionaries to Africa, where they will live in Nairobi, Kenya.

The Edsell children received, as a present, several records of the "Bible in Living Sound" and agreed to use them also for missionary work.

"Jesus Loves African Children," a hymn of dedication, was sung by children of the staff members.

The Edsell family now better understands how much they will be missed in Illinois.

SPECIAL SERVICE HELD AT DECATUR FOR NEW CHURCH OFFICERS

On Sabbath, November 22, a rather unique service was held in the Decatur church. With the nominating committee's work completed, the pastor, Elder H. H. White, spoke on church organization. After the names were read and the church voted their acceptance, the entire group came forward for a special dedication prayer and consecration service. We joined in singing "Blest Be the Tie."

This was a very impressive service. Each officer felt the responsibility resting upon him for the new year. Our prayer is that each individual will, as directed by the Lord, carry this service with full dedication.

Mrs. Julia Potter

STEWARDSHIP CONCEPT EXPLAINED

It is essential that we understand the stewardship concept. Money is an objective, but is not the primary objective. We need to understand the stewardship of the TOTAL LIFE. This includes not just the stewardship of money, but our other resources, such as health, time, and abilities. In essence, in this program money must be given as the result of a partnership, which is a living experience with Jesus Christ.

Money is important and it is needed urgently. But the partnership which is the living experience with Christ is needed most urgently—in fact, critically. Money is not the problem today. It never has been the problem in God's work. The problem lies in the spiritual experience of the recipients of God's blessings.

Just to raise money is not the answer. The answer lies in satisfying the poverty of the soul, and receiving unto ourselves an enriched experience with Jesus Christ in salvation. We need to develop faith. Our purpose is not just to raise money to build buildings and keep them operating. This we should do easily. Our purpose is to help build Christian characters that will operate under all circumstances to the glory of our God, and will consummate in salvation, the gift of eternity. Unlimited health, unlimited abilities, unlimited resources, and unlimited life are the goals of the Stewardship Guidance Program.

With these thoughts in mind, the stewardship and development department of the Lake Region Conference stands ready to serve you.

R. C. Brown, Sr.

Insurmountable Problem Solved

It may have seemed a small matter to some, but the need for a new furnace presented an almost insurmountable problem to the little Marion church. "Though we are few in number, let's think big and act in faith," challenged the pastor, R. L. Douglas.

The furnace was installed and paid for in 11 months instead of the allotted three years, thus saving $200.

Ingathering Champions of the Week

The Ingathering champions for the week of November 23 to 29 are members of the Fort Wayne, Indiana, church.

James Woods raised $215.42, and Mrs. Marian Falls raised $189.24.

We congratulate these champions of the week whose devotion and untiring service has given them this honor.

Oakwood Alumni—Chicago Chapter—Have Meeting

Members of the Chicago Chapter of the Oakwood College National Alumni Association were recently guests of Dr. T. R. M. Howard, prominent physician-surgeon and civil rights leader. Dr. Howard, a graduate of Loma Linda University and Oakwood College, made the facilities of his home available to the group.

In the basement of his home Dr. Howard has brought together what is reputed to be the largest private collection of preserved wild game animals—large and small—in the United States.

The Oakwood club has sponsored the cause of Christian education through the years. Scores of young people have been assisted from the proceeds of their annual banquet and other fund-raising projects.

Mrs. Patricia Burns is president of the chapter.

Detroit Evangelistic Meetings in Progress

The first week of evangelistic meetings at the Detroit Center is now history. Evangelist J. M. Phipps has been preaching nightly to large and attentive crowds. Offerings have been especially good. The workers are visiting more than 700 persons who have requested literature.

Will you not continue to pray for a large harvest in this great metropolitan area? Some who are situated so they cannot visit the meetings may be moved to contribute toward the financial support of the effort. Advertising, while necessary to the success of public evangelism, is very expensive—almost prohibitive. You may help send the light to some soul in darkness.

NEWS NOTES

Pastor Robert Jones was guest speaker in Corona, New York, for the Week of Prayer.

Xavier Butler, MV secretary, was invited to worship with the New Rochelle congregation of the Northeastern Conference for the Week of Prayer.

Jesse Wagner was guest speaker in Nashville, Tennessee, recently.

The Ypsilanti church has a fine working relationship with the local newspaper, and several articles relating to the church have been published.

SEND SPECIAL PRAYER REQUESTS TO THE CONFERENCE OFFICE

The workers at the conference office welcome prayer requests from the members of our churches. These prayer requests will be remembered at morning devotions which are held five days a week, Monday through Friday, at the conference office. All such requests should be sent to the president's office.

More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of.

Anderson Church to Have Homecoming

The members of the Anderson church invite all former members to a homecoming festival on Sabbath, December 20.

On this special occasion the program will feature a guest speaker for the morning worship service, a baptism for Indiana's Harvest of Souls program, and a clothing drive to furnish our conference depot with emergency supplies. The conference van will be parked in front of the church.

During the course of the afternoon, beginning at 3 p.m., Indiana Academy will present a program of music with James Woods conducting the choir and Keynotes. Other musical groups—quartets, trios, duets, and instrumental numbers—will participate to make this homecoming a shining event long to be remembered.

You are cordially invited to attend the entire program beginning with Sabbath School. Whether you are now a member or ever have been, you are warmly urged to come where the action is—Anderson church, December 20. The address is 1122 West 8th Street.

NEWS NOTES

Elder S. D. Seltzer, pastor of the Cicero church, has been appointed by the academy board to be director of their public relations program.

During the last half of October and the month of November we have had 12 evangelistic programs under way in Indiana: Indiana Academy youth at Kokomo; Perry-Allinder at Greenfield; Haynes-Oswald at Anderson; M. L. Nickless at Paoli; A. C. Schnell at Evansville; W. R. Brown at Brownsburg; David White at Scottsburg; W. A. Kolmodin at Converse; John Cameron at Michigan City; A. E. Wade at Bloomfield; G. J. Shumate at New Albany; and Teddric Mohr at Lafayette.

Several Five-Day Plans Held Throughout State

Pastor L. A. Kraner and Dr. Martin Lushbough conducted a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking August 10 to 14 at "The House of Something Better" in South Bend. Ten students were taking the course, and of those 10, four stopped smoking successfully. Another course was held at the same place September 14 to 18. Out of that group 19 of the 31 successfully quit smoking.

A third session was held at Indianapolis West Side High School October 13 to 17 with 38 attending. This was conducted by Pastor Merton Henry of Indianapolis and was cosponsored by the Marion County Cancer Society. Thirty-two finished the course and some 50 per cent were successful in quitting the smoking habit.

Another Five-Day Plan began November 30 at "The House of Something Better" in South Bend, with the help of Elder J. P. Winston of the Lake Union Conference.

Forty Per Cent Kick Smoking Habit After Five-Day Plan

During the second session of the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking, Dr. Douglas Mack, St. Joseph County Health Officer, showed a brain and lungs to demonstrate damage caused from the use of tobacco. Dr. Mack, Myra Hampton, Chuck Bruystens, and Jerry Brown of Mendon are getting a close-up look at a preserved human brain. Of people attending five-day clinics, 80 per cent are reported to have quit smoking for a time and 40 per cent kick the habit permanently.

We've No Club, But We've a Heart

Children from the Iron Mountain church collected 66 cans of food in one hour the night before Halloween, using the Pathfinder brochure. The church has no Pathfinder group, but members try to have the children participate in worthwhile projects whenever possible.

The children are Tam Larsen, Phillip and Stephen Jerzyk, and Gloria and Naomi Jones.

RAYBORN MEMORIAL CHURCH HAS CONSECRATION SERVICE

Consecration services of Coldwater-Quincy's Rayborn Memorial church took place recently with Elders John Hayward and Leonard Wartzok of the conference office as special guests. Elder Hayward had the sermon, and Elder Wartzok led out in the act of consecration and in the special prayer.

The church is named after Everett Rayborn, a member of the congregation whose substantial cash gift made the new building possible.

In the prayer of consecration, Elder Wartzok, conference treasurer, prayed that the building would be a place where babies will be dedicated, where children will learn to love the Lord, where young people will join their lives together, where the old man of sin will be buried in baptism, where families will enjoy fellowship together, and where the aged will receive comfort and hope.

Elder Hayward, conference executive secretary, based his remarks on Ezekiel 37, the "dry-bones chapter" of the Bible. While expressing appreciation for our increase in new buildings, he reminded the congregation what is needed today is the breathing of the Holy Spirit to cause the dry bones of our membership to shake themselves and come alive. He declared that the church does not need "buildings, institutions, and money as much as it needs the breath of God to make us revitalized Christians."

Music for the morning service and a special afternoon program was furnished by the Battle Creek Academy choir under the direction of Erich Bekowies. Following the concert, a baptism of three was conducted by Elder Hayward and Elder Carl R. Johnson, the local pastor. The baptism followed a three-week series of meetings conducted by Elder Hayward just prior to the consecration services.

This interior view of the new Rayborn Memorial church shows Elder J. L. Hayward speaking at the consecration service.

Erich Bekowies directs the Battle Creek Academy choir.

Elder Leonard Wartzok leads out in the act of consecration.

Pathfinders' Trick or Treat Helps Others

Counting their "loot" following an evening of working for others, are some of the Pathfinders of the Detroit Metropolitan church. Under the leadership of David McAlexander, and his faithful assistants, these boys and girls enjoyed ringing doorbells, not to the call of trick or treat, but to the tune of 502 cans for welfare baskets.

Three Secretaries Join Michigan Conference Staff

Three new secretaries have joined the Michigan Conference staff in recent weeks. Getting acquainted with the intricacies of the conference machinery are Shirley Innes, secretary in the lay activities department; Betty Claussen, secretary in the educational department; and Dorothy Kinne, secretary in the treasury department.

99th Birthday Celebrated By Oldest Living Tabernacle Member

Mrs. Eldora Partain, oldest living member of the Battle Creek Tabernacle, was recently honored on her ninety-ninth birthday. Mrs. Frank Foot, head deaconess, presents a corsage to her as Elder George Coffen smiles approvingly.

Mrs. Partain lives alone and has a remarkable memory and much energy—a testimony to her simple living habits.

Present and former pastors of Milwaukee Central church who were present for the Silver Jubilee are Elders C. Lee Huff, G. D. O'Brien, Arthur Kiesz, William Ortner, and Carl Guenther.

Former Pastors and Members Gather for Silver Jubilee at Milwaukee Central

On October 24 and 25 the Milwaukee Central church celebrated their silver jubilee. Twenty-five years ago their church building was dedicated. Several former pastors and many former members gathered in Milwaukee to renew old friendships and their dedication to God and to the blessed hope.

Friday evening, October 24, Elder Arthur Kiesz, who was pastor of Milwaukee Central from 1950 to 1954 and who is presently president of the Minnesota Conference, spoke. The lesson study Sabbath morning, October 25, was presented by Elder Carl Guenther who was pastor from 1942 to 1950. He was the pastor of the church when it was remodeled from an old mansion and then dedicated in 1944. He is presently chaplain at Reading Institute of Rehabilitation, Reading, Pennsylvania.

Elder G. D. O'Brien spoke to the overflow crowd for the worship service on Sabbath. He is presently conference evangelist in Arizona and was pastor of Milwaukee Central from 1954 to 1958. Elder William Ortner, who was pastor from 1932 to 1936—before the days of the present Central church—was also present and had a part in the various services.

During the afternoon "Honors and Reflections" service, Maynard Kidd read the same history he had prepared and read at the dedication of the building 25 years ago. Mrs. Arthur Strehlow, who was a guide during the open house of the new church in 1944, gave a detailed account of what the building had been like before it was remodeled, calling special attention to the various woods and materials used and the intricate and skilled craftsmanship manifested. Mrs. Clarence Cloutier gave tribute to six people who have been members for the past 25 (and more) years and leaders in various capacities—Mrs. Courtland Werner, Mrs. Amanda Leeper, Mrs. Louis Kraatz, Mrs. Elfrieda Eharoshe, Henry Peters, and George Johnson.

The "Twenty-five Night" was the first function held in the school; and although the heating and lighting facilities were temporary, the former members, and present members as well, felt that God's work has certainly not been at a standstill these past 25 years. (The $400,000 10-grade school will be completed within a few weeks.)

The school children presented a variety program. Elder C. Lee Huff, the present pastor, and Elder Carl Guenther cut the anniversary cake. This along with punch was served to the reminiscing group of 500 people.

NATIONAL SERVICE ORGANIZATION OFFICIALS VISIT ANDREWS

Clark Smith and Charles Martin of the General Conference National Service Organization were recent visitors to the campus of Andrews University to meet with prospective army chaplains from the Seminary.

According to these men, requirements for being a chaplain are the following: 1. male citizen of the United States; 2. 18 to 30 years of age at the time of enlisting; 3. a B.D. degree and ordination; 4. the completion of 120 hours of classwork in an accredited college; 5. no physical disabilities; and 6. an endorsing letter from the denomination.

Twelve Adventist ministers are presently serving as chaplains in the Armed Forces at various posts around the world. "These men are needed not only to assist our men in uniform, but also to interpret S.D.A. pragmatics to government officials," says Smith.

President Nixon Greets Dr. Hammill

During his recent visit to Washington, D.C., Dr. Richard Hammill, president of Andrews University, had opportunity to speak with U.S. President Richard Nixon. They talked briefly of the Vietnam War, the moon program, and other topics of national concern.

Dr. Hammill was in Washington for the annual Autumn Council, held at S.D.A. world headquarters.

here we are inconspicuously tucked away in Michigan's palm

Boldly asking for a handout Of good will... And of money

Of good will because we're an almost-unknown institution. Andrews University is owned and operated by the Seventh-day Adventist Church - you know, the conservative Protestants who go to church on Sundays. In many folks' minds, that "peculiarly" denotes who represents ideas we stand for.

We're much concerned about the world's health, its social, educational, and general condition. And our students get the message. We've passed our 97% of last year's graduating class accepted positions on national professional training as teachers, counselors, ministers, nurses, lawyers, and social workers. Many more to come right here at Andrews University. Michigan, California scattered throughout the country. Some even overseas. You'd think we were running a private Peace Corps.

This kind of education can't be provided cheaply. And it can't be extravagant. Our facilities aren't luxurious, but they are adequate - except for a few things... Right now, we must build a Science Building in house out building departments of Chemistry, Biology, Math, and Physics. Four million it so should do it. We can't do it alone. You help us, we'll help the world. For more information write: Dr. Richard Hammill, President, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Mich. 49114.

Andrews University... maybe a bit empty-handed, but never empty-hearted.

NEWS NOTES

Robert Marsh, instructor in engineering, has published an article entitled "Computer Program for Logic Stimulation" in the September, 1969, issue of I.E.E.E.'s (Institute for Engineering Electronics Electrical) CADAR News. CADAR is a special publication for transmitting information about special engineering computer programs used as a design aid. The article deals with a particular program used to help check designs of various logic functions of electronic systems.

The speech department has just purchased a new C 2200 Sony Videocorder, with camera, viewfinder, zoom lens, lights, and monitors.

Speech students will now be able to evaluate a speech visually, as well as aurally. The resulting self-analysis potentially a realistic foundation upon which to build improvement.
