CORRECTION: In issue 13 of the Lake Union Herald a sentence was inadvertently omitted from the lead story on Wilbur M. Cato. The following is the lead paragraph as it should have appeared:

"Wilbur M. Cato, a graduate of Tennessee State University and the University of Chicago, was recently named Auditor of the Year by the U.S. Army. He won this distinguished award for his performance in implementing an analysis of the U.S. Army Tank-Automotive Command in Warren, Michigan."

"Give the cover the most visual impact," said the participants at Table III in Insight's recent layout conference for the evangelistic newspaper. ## "INSIGHT" BRAINSTORMS FOR IDEAS

Young Adventists in the Washington, D.C. area are voicing their opinions about the design and artwork of Insight's special witness newspaper. In a recent session nearly 20 academy and college students, along with young artists and editors, brainstormed with the staff. Working in groups of four or five, the participants came up with sketches for the cover and opening pages.

"We're excited about the ideas that were tossed at us,"

FAITH FOR TODAY ACTION IN CALIFORNIA

In action at Thousand Oaks, California, is Pastor W. A. Fagal (left), being filmed in a forthcoming program scene. He is giving guidance to one who has come to him for help. The studio group in the new film center, despite the handicaps of relocating and setting up new offices, are actively underway with filming and editing of forthcoming Faith for Today programs.

George Adams (left) and Pastor Roy C. Naden check lighting effects and settings as the cameras prepare for filming forthcoming Faith for Today telecasts. The studio cast has been busy on an overtime basis setting up new facilities in rented quarters at the film complex in California. The rented building will be used until new facilities have been built. The new film center will be located on a 19-acre piece of land.

says Editor Roland R. Hegstad. "Each table came up with something that will be incorporated into the final product. The meeting acted as a catalyst to activate our artists and get them to come up with exceptionally creative designs."

As a result of the session, student artists are working on specific illustration assignments for the 16-page tabloid, which will take the place of the May 9 Insight.

"We're after art that will pack a punch," says layout artist Alan Forquer. "We're aiming at visual sophistication in a youth format, yet we must not give the appearance of being too 'slick.' We hope to accomplish this look with a combination of photography and art."

Advance orders for the witness special, which will be available by the end of April, may be placed now. The cost is 10 cents each for 20 or more copies to: Insight Evangelism, Review and Herald Publishing Association, Washington, D.C. 20012.

S.D.A. LITERATURE SALES TOTAL $48 MILLION IN 1971

Christian literature sales by Seventh-day Adventists totaled over $48 million in 1971, according to a report from the General Conference.

In releasing the figures William A. Higgins, associate director of the Publishing Department, stated that there is a growing interest in things religious. Since the American Bible Society came out in 1966 with its New Testament version God Speaks to Modern Man some 31 million copies have been sold.

"People are more serious-minded," Higgins declared. "They are fed up with permissiveness, and there is a swing to religion. For instance, a book on death recently published is almost a best-seller."

Most popular among books being sold by Adventist publishing houses is a children's series of ten volumes called The Bible Story.

Adventists operate 48 publishing houses, with three major plants in the United States.

Publications are printed in 266 languages. Besides across-the-counter sales in Book and Bible houses scattered in scores of large cities around the world, some 6,700 literature evangelists visit homes in nearly every country with Christian books and magazines. They accounted for $26.9 million in sales.

Such work goes on regardless of war conditions, as in Vietnam, where there are currently 74 literature evangelists. A publishing house in Saigon serves these Christian salesmen with literature.

Higgins predicts still greater interest in religious publications in days to come.

V.O.P. COMMITTEE OF COUNSELORS MEETS

When members of the Voice of Prophecy's Committee of Counselors met for their annual meetings in February, they were greeted by V.O.P. manager Alvin G. Munson, right. Among those attending were these two members from the Lake Union. They are Harry Hartsoek and Joseph Kubas. The counselors act in an advisory capacity for the improvement of operations of the broadcast headquarters as well as for the development of new plans which might enhance the dissemination of the gospel through the V.O.P.'s various ministries.

SANITARIUM AND HOSPITAL

PROCESS CAMERA HELPS HINSDALE SAN PRINT SHOP

A new process camera has been added to the print shop of Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital.

With the camera the print shop is able to prepare its own negatives for jobs needed by the hospital. Up to now, all photographs for printing jobs have been done by out-of-town commercial concerns.

The process camera is the latest of a series of purchases during the past four years to strengthen the hospital's print shop, which prints most of the forms and publications prepared for the hospital.

An IBM typesetting composer system, a Heidelberg offset press, a duplicator-size offset press, a hydraulic paper cutter, and a plate maker are major pieces of equipment added to the print shop during recent years.

Ron Humphreys, san printer for the past five years, says the print shop earns its pay by printing the forms, stationery, and other publications used by the hospital. The hospital's official house organ, the San Scripts; the employee directory, Who's Who; menus for all patient meals; the employee telephone directory; internal forms; and most of the brochures used in the hospital's various health education programs are printed by the print shop.

CHAMPAIGN CHURCH NEWS

Children Walk for Wayout, F.F.T.

Students in the upper grade room at Champaign-Urbana elementary school sponsored two projects during February to raise funds for Faith for Today and the Voice of Prophecy's Wayout program.

On February 13, directed by their teacher, Dan Peters, they served a spaghetti supper, and on February 23, they participated in a walkathon. Each student was responsible to find sponsors for the walkathon. A number of the older students walked 10 miles, while the younger ones managed to walk seven. The Wayout program will receive $21 and Faith for Today $82.25.

The lower grade room, under the direction of Mrs. Viola Osnes, also had a total of $9.00 which the children raised by bringing offerings to their JMV program each week. They chose to send their money to the Wayout program.

Families Given Farewells

On February 19 the members of the Champaign church said farewell to two of their church families, the Harold Greer family and the Cato Stephens family, with a social in their honor.

At the same time, a young man, Ron Epperson, originally of Portland, Oregon, also was being transferred from the Chanute Air Force Base to California. The Cato Stephens family has been transferred to Germany by the Air Force.

The Harold Greer family has moved to the Texico Conference, Plainview, Texas, where they will be taking up new duties in that conference.

We regret to see these families leave us, but we know they will be witnesses for the Lord in their new fields of labor.

Better Living Program Held

From February 26 to 28, Joel Hass of Loma Linda Foods, assisted by his wife and Mrs. Mervin Kempert, wife of the Champaign pastor, conducted a Better Living program in the Illinois Power kitchen.

Mr. Hass was also interviewed by the University of Illinois TV station where a videotape was made and played at three different times during the evening news. The 24 community people who attended the program were enthusiastic about the nonflesh diet, requesting recipes and wanting to know where they could purchase the processed foods.

As a result of the contact with Illinois Power, Pastor Mervin Kempert had the privilege of introducing the manager of the company, Mr. Darlin, to the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking. He and his wife followed the plan and have stopped smoking. When the pastor came into his office recently, Mr. Darlin said, "Here is my friend who helped me to overcome my smoking problem!"

ANDREWS STUDENTS SERVE AT BROADVIEW CHURCH

Jim Chilson and Terry Carlisle, seminary students at Andrews University, are now assisting Pastor Joseph Krpalek at the Broadview church.

Jim graduated from Maplewood Academy in Hutchinson, Minnesota, and from Union College, Lincoln, Nebraska. While in Nebraska he conducted the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking.

Terry Carlisle graduated from Columbia Union College and served his country in Project Whitecoat, an army project involving Seventh-day Adventist servicemen.

After coming out of the army he served as a literature evangelist in Washington, D.C. Mrs. Carlisle is majoring in theology preparing to become a Bible instructor. She has toured the country with Collegians for Christ, a musical group.

TWO CHRISTIAN LADIES HONORED BY ROCKFORD CHURCH MEMBERS

Two ladies of the Rockford church were honored as "Lucky Ladies" at a banquet on Saturday night, February 26, as the church members gathered in the eleventh annual event.

Mrs. Paul Bridgeford and Mrs. John Ford received congratulations from Elder John Hayward, president of the Illinois Conference. This is the first year that two ladies have shared this honor.

Mrs. Bridgeford was honored because of her daily Christian example, inspiration, and self-sacrificing service to humanity in a quiet, Christian way. She was a charter member when the church was organized in 1916.

Mrs. Ford, wife of the church's new pastor, was honored for her friendliness, personal concern for all phases of God's work, and for the joy members are experiencing in having her as part of their church family. The Fords came to Rockford last January.

The ladies received a personally autographed picture from President Nixon along with a congratulatory message, and commendations from area community organizations.

A NEW LOOK

Isn't this a lovely sight to behold. This is what you will see when you attend camp meeting, June 8 to 17. Your new chapel complex will be complete. You will want to see this new addition to Broadview Academy. An open house is being planned for April 29, so put this date in your schedule. Also keep your offering schedule of 1 percent in helping to finance this fine building.

TWO STUDENTS HONORED FOR SCHOLASTIC EXCELLENCE

Two college seniors from Hinsdale were recently honored for their scholastic achievement. Kathy Ippisch and Paul May, both students at Southern Missionary College in Collegedale, Tennessee, have been named to appear in the publication Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Kathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Ippisch. She served as a student missionary for one summer in Central America where she visited eight of our Adventist mission stations. Presently she is working as a college nurse while finishing her college work with majors in religion and nursing.

She has accepted a call to the Bella Vista Hospital in Mayaguez, Puerto Rico, where she will be nursing instructor in the new two-year nursing program in conjunction with Antillian College. She will leave in June.

Paul May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold May, is a graduate of Broadview Academy. He is majoring in physics and is president of the senior class at S.M.C. this year, chairman of the student association scholarship committee, and president of the physics club.

Paul will be attending graduate school next year preparing for a degree in oceanography.

Christian training in Adventist schools and dedicated parents have contributed to the incentive of these young people. We are proud of our youth who have given evidence that Christian education pays.

BIBLE QUIZ IN NEWSPAPER

The Bloomfield church recently sponsored a Bible course quiz in their local paper. Each week for 24 weeks there were a number of questions following a story or parable.

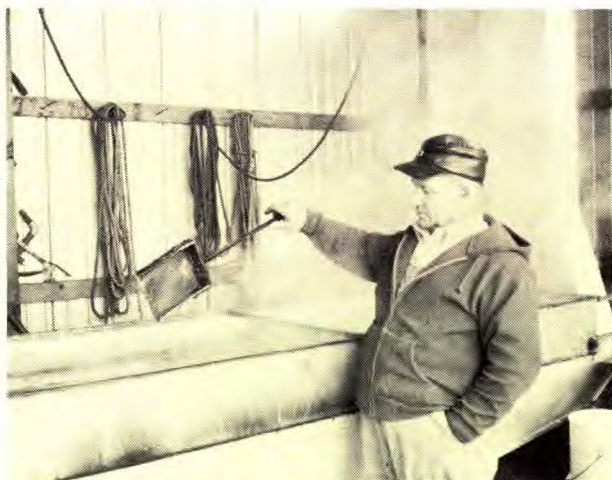

The people of Bloomfield and surrounding communities wrote their answers on a separate piece of paper and these were picked up and graded by Mrs. John Laswell. Mrs. Marilyn Hobbs was the leader of the Bible quiz.

There were 41 people who started the course and 22 completed it. Sunday, March 19, the public was invited to attend a special program where a Bible and a certificate were awarded to each person who finished the course. There was special music, and a film, "Arrow of Prophecy," was shown. A very nice group attended.

A special guest, Elder Ralph Combes, of the conference office, was a welcome guest.

Some of the people who took the course asked for an advanced course. We ask for God's blessing on each one as he studies His word.

PATHFINDERS SEE HOW MAPLE SYRUP IS MADE

Pathfinders from Kokomo and Marion were the guests of Bob Jones of Liberty Center, Indiana, on Sunday, March 12, to learn how maple syrup is made.

They saw how the trees are tapped and how the sap is gathered and processed into maple syrup. Then it is boiled for about 24 hours. The Pathfinders were amazed to learn it takes between 37 and 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of pure maple syrup.

Afterwards, everyone was treated to a dinner of vegalinks, homemade applesauce, pancakes made from home-ground whole wheat flour, corn meal, and sourdough, and cookies with hot chocolate to drink.

In the afternoon they had a kite fly. Some made it and some didn't!

MOTEL BOOK PROJECTS

People are reading the books placed in motels across our country in the Book Motel Projects.

Among those participating in Indiana is Mrs. Genieve Drake of Columbus. A recent letter that she received is quoted as follows: "I am sending a check for $2.00 to pay for a book, Your Bible and You, which I saw in the Holiday Motel in Seymour, Indiana.

"I enjoy reading and saw this book advertised in a motel pamphlet some time ago. I had intended to send for it, but lost the address."

Another lady from Michigan writes, "I am enclosing the $2.00 you asked for, and we have taken the book, Your Bible and You, as per your instruction inside the cover.

"I had seen this book in another motel a couple of years ago. I wrote name and author, and had not found it when I was shopping for books.

"So your offer is most welcome. My husband and I both thank you and say may God bless you, too."

This name has been passed on to the Michigan Conference for follow up.

May God bless your efforts in a Book Motel Project. If you are interested, please let us know. We have information that could help you.

INDIANA VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL WORKSHOP

A state-wide Indiana Vacation Bible School Workshop will be held Sunday, May 7, at the Glendale Seventh-day Adventist church, 2900 E. 62nd Street, Indianapolis. We would suggest that each one coming bring his own lunch or plan to eat at one of the numerous cafeterias in the area.

This workshop will deal mainly with crafts. We hope to demonstrate several of the crafts.

Each church should plan to bring the director of the Vacation Bible School, the craft leader, the follow-up leader, and other division leaders as they might be able to attend.

We would suggest that you order the kit for this year's Vacation Bible School. We are using material Series C. These kits can be ordered through the Book and Bible House.

Attending this workshop will also be Elder Groomer, Michigan Conference Sabbath School secretary, and Elder Jones, Lake Union Conference Sabbath School secretary. We hope to see all of you who are going to be participating this summer in this vital evangelistic thrust through the Vacation Bible School.

Mrs. Laura Sedom, 92 years "young," spends most of her time daily six days a week making quilt tops for the Dorcas. So many have been made that Mrs. Sedom has lost count. She is a person that likes to continue to be busy.

It takes a lot of material to make these quilts so if anyone has some material that could be used, please send it to Mrs. Laura Sedom, Box 20, Route 2, Kewanna, Indiana 46939.

ECORSE WORKS WITH CHILDREN WITHIN AND WITHOUT THE CHURCH

Story Hour for the Ecorse church began February 4, 1972. However, during the very cold days of late February and early March, the membership dwindled.

To rekindle the interest, the Sabbath School department, which is sponsoring the Story Hour, passed out handbills and invited the neighborhood children to come. As of March 11 the membership had increased to 27. Those working with the Story Hour are Ethel Hill, Helen Nash, Alberta Drew, and Vera Whitehead.

On February 25 the Ecorse Pathfinders went to Rouge Park in Michigan to toboggan. The snow melted faster than they liked, but they had fun anyway.

The Pathfinders went on a three-mile hike around Elizabeth Park in Trenton, Michigan. After hiking they cooked breakfast in the brisk morning air.

For several years the Ecorse church has been without a Pathfinder club. However, this year under the leadership of Alberta Drew and Robert Sutherland they are making real progress. The club has a membership of 40 boys and girls.

CHICAGO PASTOR HONORED DURING BLACK HISTORY WEEK

The Independence Boulevard church in Chicago celebrated Black History Week and honored their pastor's family, Elder and Mrs. Leslie Anderson and daughters, for their dedicated work in the church and the community.

The theme of the program was A Decade of Black Progress. This was a scholarly presentation given by Lewis Johnson, a science professor at Dunbar High School. In his presentation, a tribute was given to Dempsey Travis, one of the most prominent and progressive Black Americans. Mr. Travis is president of the Sivart Mortgage Corporation, the largest Black-owned mortgage company in the United States.

Elder and Mrs. Leslie Anderson and daughters, Sherrie and Sherree, were honored during Black History Week for their dedicated work in the church and community.

Mr. Travis' mother shared the occasion as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rollins. Mr. Rollins is president of the choir and for the past two years sponsored a Black History Week program. The talents and cooperation of church members and friends of the community have made the programs a success.

The activities of the evening also included poetry, readings, and musical selections. The program concluded with the audience singing "We Shall Overcome."

OAKWOOD COLLEGE CHOIR IN CONCERT IN DETROIT

The 50-voice choir of Oakwood College was in concert on Sunday evening, March 12, at City Temple church in Detroit. Under the direction of Stanley Ware the choir sang several sacred and secular songs. Mr. Ware is not only talented as a director, but also as a tenor singer. Near the middle of the program he sang "The Holy City."

Part of the concert was conducted by Lee A. Davidson, assistant choir director, who is a senior music major.

Calvin B. Rock, president of Oakwood College and a former pastor of City Temple, and Claude Thomas, director of development and public relations, were with the group to promote a scholarship fund for needy students. The wall-to-wall gathering of music lovers happily responded to the invitation and contributed $2,500.

The choir's itinerary included appearances in Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Newark, Chicago, Indianapolis, and Washington, D.C. On Sunday, March 19, they sang Verdi's Requiem at Carnegie Hall in New York City.

NEWS NOTES

• Mrs. Harrold Brown has been named leader of Troy's Welfare Center, replacing Mrs. David Hyzer who moved south because of ill health. Mrs. Brown's husband, custodial director of the church, will assist her in the work. The Browns, who have been Adventists for only a couple of years, have taken an active interest in all phases of the work of the church. Mrs. Brown collected over $350 in this past Ingathering campaign and, a church officer reports, under the direction of Mr. Brown the "church has never been so clean."

• Elder Donald J. Donesky of Saginaw-Bay City has been reassigned to the University church at Ann Arbor. Donesky has served those congregations since June of 1965, going there from Grand Ledge.

• A new departmental secretary for the Association of Privately Owned Services and Industries has been named by the conference committee. He is Elder Merrill Y. Fleming, who assumes these responsibilities along with his work as secretary of the temperance department and associate secretary of the youth activities department.

• Two students at the Seminary have been accepted by the conference as interns and are thus sponsored while they are at Andrews. They are Dan Ipes and Harry Beaty. They will be given a definite assignment upon their graduation.

• Elder Kenneth Smith, pastor of the University church at East Lansing, has resigned in order to give full attention to the completion of his doctorate. Replacing him is another ordained minister taking work at Michigan State University. Elder Frederick Diaz, who has been giving strong support to the work at East Lansing, has consented to be its pastor.

• Howard Greene, principal of the church school at Pontiac, has accepted the invitation to pastor the Allegan area churches. These include Allegan, Otsego, Pullman, and Douglas. He served in a number of churches in the East and Mid-West before entering school work 12 years ago. He will continue in his dual position until the end of the current school year, when he and his wife Isabella will move to Allegan to assume full pastoral duties.

SOON TO BE BAPTIZED

The above ten students of grades five to eight at Cadillac's Northview Junior Academy look forward to baptism in the near future. Every day from February 10 until March 15 they took special classes in the doctrines of the church. Donald Olds, right, principal of the school, and Elder Donald Siewert, rear left, local pastor, conducted the studies. Class members are, from left, front row, Shanta Ealy, Heidi Carmean, Dari Kay Dutcher, and Guy Sluiter. Back row: Jill Sorensen, Lorraine Cowley, Loretta Hubbard, Pam Dutcher, Dennis Bailey, and Doug Bailey.

CHURCH SCHOOL STUDENTS PRESENT PATRIOTIC PROGRAM

Events of February were highlighted when Lansing church school students presented a program, including a patriotic play, February 24 in the school gym.

A wall-size map of the United States made by the students decorated the stage, while other props and costumes created a patriotic atmosphere for the skits, singing, and comedy. The many hours of work and practice of the children was evidenced by their fine performance.

With the lights dimmed and tables decorated with candles the students had made, parents were served an elegant banquet by the young people.

The entire evening's program helped renew awareness of the greatness of our country with its unique heritage of freedom and opportunity.

First and second graders sponsored an appearance by Betsy Ross, who brought along some of her handiwork.

BATTLE CREEK SANITARIUM BURNED 70 YEARS AGO

A recent issue of the Lake Union Herald carried a story of the fire which destroyed the Battle Creek Tabernacle early in January of 1922. It was a condensation of one of a series of hisotrical articles appearing weekly in the Battle Creek Enquirer and News.

On February 13 that newspaper carried another article of interest to Adventists on the burning of the Battle Creek Sanitarium in 1902. It introduces the story by calling attention to a woman medium, a member of the local Spiritualists Society, who went into a trance a few days before the tragic event and predicted a great calamity "in the immediate future." Tuesday morning, February 18, 1902, the headlines of the morning Enquirer read "BATTLE CREEK SANITARIUM IN RUINS."

"About four o'clock that morning a fire had started in the basement under the pharmacy department of the hospital. William G. Hall, a night watchman, tried to turn in the alarm but the system wasn't working, so he sent a bell boy on the run to report the fire" to the station a number of blocks away.

"It was a windy night and the fire spread quickly. Consequently, the Sanitarium burned to the ground along with the six-story hospital, a greenhouse, a horse stable, the original Health Institute," and a nearby house.

"Three hundred guests were visiting the Sanitarium that week. It was a small number compared to the 700 or 800 who thronged the San in the summer months. There were many heroes that morning as patients were led to safety. A young man staying with the James Whites carried a 210-pound woman down four flights of stairs. Abner Case of Bath, N.Y., was the only fatality.

"Abner had come to the Sanitarium with his wife to accompany their daughter who was ill. Although Abner himself was not sick he was known to be a bit 'demented.' Today we would probably try to be kinder by calling him senile. Whatever his problem, he carried with him at all times a mysterious satchel. Some people said he did not believe in banks and that the satchel contained $1,500. Dr. Rand claimed that he had rescued Mr. Case sans the satchel, or at least had gotten him to the first floor into the hands of persons who could help him get outside. For several days no one was sure if he were dead or alive.

"When they were finally able to search the ruins, his body was found beside the charred remains of the satchel. Everyone was sure he had gone back in after his money.

"A lot of people may have preferred to have gone back, since personal losses of patients were more than equal to the value of the building. One half million dollars in diamonds alone was said to have been lost. The rumor was that a Mrs. I. P. Baldwin had lost a broach with 100 large diamonds in it. 'Rubbish,' said Mrs. Baldwin. 'It was a family heirloom, but it had only 100 small diamonds.' Someone else lost a sealskin jacket worth $500.

"Since the fire broke out so early in the morning all guests escaped in bathrobes, bedroom slippers or less. . . . So many people were wiring home for money the telegraph lines were jammed.

“Dr. Kellogg was in Kansas at the time of the fire. He speeded right home by train. He arrived early the next morning with sketches he had made on the way home for a new building on the same site. He said he knew of a firm in Chicago that would put up a building in 60 days and he was sure the new building could be ready by August 15.

“Telegrams came in from all over the world requesting that the San be moved to their locality. Even some of our townspeople had some misgivings about rebuilding in Battle Creek. But, true to the song Professor Belden had written for the occasion of the fire, ‘It Shall Rise from the Ashes’ it did. But it wasn’t until May 1903 that the new Sanitarium, the long low part of today’s Federal Building, was opened. The architect had incorporated into the new building the rough sketches Dr. Kellogg had made on his trip home from Kansas.

“Indeed it had been a great calamity that had hit Battle Creek, just as the Spiritualist medium had predicted. But why, they asked, couldn’t she [have] anticipated just a little bit more and had the fire department ready and waiting in the basement under the pharmacy the night of the fire. ‘Some people are so thoughtless.’ reported the [Daily] Journal of 1902.”

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING BRINGS IN INTEREST NAMES

Over 120 names of prime interests have been passed on to pastors in Michigan from the General Conference Bureau of Public Relations.

These are names of people who have answered one or more of the special newspaper ads run last year in selected papers across the country. Here in Michigan the Detroit Free Press ran the ads in their Sunday magazine section.

The names came from 63 different towns. Naturally most of them came from the Greater Detroit area, but others came from as far away as Marquette in the Upper Peninsula.

A larger number of people had answered the original ads, but these “prime interests” were passed on by the General Conference because they not only responded to the original newspaper ad, but they also sent in the coupon from the brochure sent as a result of their original request. In addition, many asked for more information such as more brochures, a Bible, a Bible correspondence course, or a representative to call.

Many Michigan Adventists will have read of the success of the overall newspaper project as published in the Review and Herald and other places, but this is the first information on local conference results to be released through the pages of the Lake Union Herald.

COUPLE BAPTIZED AS A RESULT OF “THESE TIMES” MAGAZINE

These Times magazine is credited with playing an important part in the baptisms of a number of souls in the Delton area, reports Elder Olav Labianca to Elder Watson M. Buckman, of the conference lay activities department.

The beginnings of the story actually go back to Adelphian Academy and the school year of 1926-27, the Delton pastor writes. Autum Kimbel (now Mrs. Jack LaPine) and Ruth Beamer (now Mrs. Robert Margsh) became close friends. After the close of school, miles separated the two friends as Mrs. Margsh returned to her home in Tennessee, but letters kept them in contact with each other. As time went by both married and left the church.

About ten years ago Mrs. Margsh returned to the church and began to have a burden for her friend of academy days. Two years later when the These Times campaign came to her church, she decided to send Mrs. LaPine a subscription.

The LaPines enjoyed the monthly magazine. Jack LaPine, a Catholic, calls the magazine “very, very good.” Two daughters, Delores and Carolyn, also became faithful readers of the journal.

Then three years ago, Mrs. Aimee Wonderly, a member of the Delton church and a former neighbor of the LaPines, visited them and arranged for Bible studies. She found an interest there because of These Times. Nothing happened at that time, but Mrs. Wonderly was able at a later date to get them to take the Gift Bible lessons with her. As a result of the “strong, nourishing part” of These Times, Elder Labianca reports, they were baptized into the church.

The missionary journal These Times had a definite part to play in the baptisms of the above five persons, all members of the Delton church. Mrs. Jack LaPine, center, was brought back into the church because of the paper. Her two daughters, Delores Schley, on her left, and Carolyn Henke, on her right, also enjoyed the magazine and were baptized along with two granddaughters, Lynn Schley, left, and Janice Held, right, both daughters of Mrs. Henke.

INSERVICE SEMINARS HELD THROUGHOUT MICHIGAN CONFERENCE

Inservice seminars for elementary school teachers were held throughout Michigan's lower peninsula during February at Au Sable, Jackson, Gobles, and Holly.

The seminars were conducted to bring teachers up to date on teaching supplies and methods and to help clarify individual problems and plans.

Guest speakers included Elders John Loor, Sr., and Ernest Wendth, both of the conference office. Elder Loor, ministerial secretary, presented the morning devotionals, then pointed out how teachers could integrate their school programs with Mission '72.

Elder Hutchins discusses some of the necessary detail work required of teachers.

Elder Wendth, of the public relations department, discussed evangelistic side effects of good and bad public relations.

Leading out in the over-all program was Elder Kenneth W. Hutchins, conference superintendent of education, and the elementary supervisor, Frances Clark. Miss Clark conducted workshops at the meetings.

Luncheons for visiting teachers and guests were prepared by local home and school association members.

DENOMINATIONAL FINANCES ARE BEING EXPLAINED

Four conference leaders are visiting all Wisconsin districts between April 11 and June 4 to explain how denominational money is handled.

Kenneth J. Mittleider, conference president; George H. Crumley, treasurer; Hubert E. Moog, assistant treasurer; and Glenn Aufderhar, stewardship secretary; will form two teams to visit 23 churches across the conference.

They will explain how the conference uses the money it receives, the percentages passed on to foreign missions, Voice of Prophecy, Faith for Today, Loma Linda, and Andrews University.

Future plans, divine principles of Christian finance, plus ample time for questions and answers will fill the evening.

"This is not a fund-raising tour," emphasizes Aufderhar. "It is an attempt to help all members understand the financial structure that they might be better informed and more appreciative of God's system."

"You will gain a real blessing through inspiration and information by attending the one closest to you," said Mittleider. Places where meetings have been, or will be held are listed below. All meetings begin at 7:30 p.m. unless announced differently to meet local needs.

W.A. HAS SHORT WAVE RADIO

Brent Hildebrand, a junior at Wisconsin Academy and president of the Radio Club, operates the club's short wave transmitter located in the music department. Parents or friends interested in making academy contacts may find station "WB8JYZ" broadcasting on the 40 meter band from 4 to 5 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. on weekdays and on the "Adventist Net" Sunday morning.

FLAG FROM U.S. CAPITOL

Cindy Cox, eighth grader, and Jon Gibson, teacher of grades seven and eight at Madison Junior Academy, raise the flag that the school received from the Honorable Robert W. Kastenmeier, Wisconsin congressman. Congressman Kastenmeier also sent a letter verifying that this flag had been flown over the U.S. Capitol. "As this flag flies over our school it is a symbol of a nation that guarantees our religious freedoms and also a reminder of our loyalty and responsibilities to help preserve this great nation," said Maurice Hoppe, principal.

CAMP WAHDOON NEEDS YOUR HELP

A most important offering is being taken in all of our churches throughout the conference on Sabbath, April 22, for Camp Wahdoon.

Recently each of you should have received a letter with an offering envelope explaining our needs for a heavy-duty utility tractor with which to do much of our development work. As we expand our facilities at Camp Wahdoon, considerable costs can be saved that are now expended for holding meetings and institutes in other places.

The equipment which we have been looking at with the necessary attachments will cost us well over $5,000, but this can be easily saved in the long run over having to hire much of the work done.

Many of our people have been wanting to do something special for Camp Wahdoon since our earlier campaigns for development, and now is the time for each one to respond so progress can be continued.

Please give this your prayerful consideration and place your gift in the April 22 offering or mail it to the youth department during the next few weeks. It is possible that a favorable response could be given by some at a little later date and this could be indicated on the envelope that is turned in.

Your personal response at this time will make possible our plans for further development of your camp. Thank you for having an active part in this program.

NEWS NOTES

- Dr. Clifford L. Jaqua, superintendent of the laboratory school at Andrews University since May 1967, has resumed full-time teaching duties in the university's education department, concentrating in the area of school administration. "It was due to a need to strengthen the school administration instructional program that this change has been made," stated President Richard Hammill. Dr. Jaqua holds M.S. and D.Ed. degrees in school administration from the University of Southern California, Los Angeles. He joined the Andrews faculty in 1966 and is currently a professor of education.

- Andrews University has LEEP (Law Enforcement Education) funds totaling $2,400 a year available for law enforcement officials interested in obtaining a degree in areas directly related to their profession. Because Andrews University does not offer preservice police training or a degree in criminal justice, very few of its graduates seek law enforcement careers. However, it does offer degrees in psychology and sociology, fields directly related to law enforcement. Inservice officers can also complete many general degree requirements at Andrews University in the areas of history, English, science, and art. These credits are transferable to many universities participating in the LEEP program.

Dr. Thorpe, a native of Jamaica, also works at Mercy Hospital in St. Joseph. Last summer she directed a day program at the Migrant Health Clinic at Berrien General Hospital, and she plans to work there again this year.

She holds a B.A. degree in biology from Pacific Union College, Angwin, California, and is a 1959 graduate of the Medical School at Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, California.

She completed her internship at Washington (D.C.) Sanitarium and Hospital and spent eight years in general practice in Jamaica. She has also been employed at the Battle Creek Veterans Administration Hospital.

Dr. Thorpe's husband Noel is studying toward a M.Div. degree at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at A.U. The Thorpes have four children.
