COVER

Wisconsin's former youth director, Dave Masterjohn, takes time to talk with a blind child at summer camp. Read more about how you can help the blind and visually handicapped on pages 4 and 5 of this week's issue.

To See His Face

On May 11, I represented you at the Christian Record Braille Foundation Board meeting held at its Lincoln, Nebraska, headquarters. This is one of our important church institutions and its total mission is to provide special services for unsighted people.

The general manager, F. G. Thomas, reported that during the past year $1,678,899 has been expended to provide services for the blind and visually impaired in North America. These services included production of periodicals, the loan of braille and talking books, etc. During 1975 100 representatives made personal visits to 40,430 visually impaired people. Magazine subscriptions now total 60,598. Thirty-one thousand volumes were sent out from the lending library. Twenty-four camps for blind children were conducted and 34 camps are scheduled for 1976.

We can be thankful for the work of the Christian Record, but is this the extent of our involvement? Did you know that an estimated 45,000 people are going blind in the United States annually?

When witnessing an unsighted person crossing a busy street, we have all felt a tug at our hearts and a desire to help, but how long does the scene and feeling remain with us? Have we been prompted to seek an active and continuing role in helping those less fortunate? Jesus not only "saw" and "felt" but also served. He said, "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised" (Luke 4:18). Read the rest of the chapter to see how Jesus was willing to risk death to fulfill that mission and make clear His purpose.

Today our Lord continues to give special attention to such ones. "Angels are sent to minister to the children of God who are physically blind. Angels guard their steps and save them from a thousand dangers, which, unknown to them, beset their path."—Testimonies, Vol. 3, p. 516. What God expects of His followers today is explicit. "God will hold the church . . . responsible, as a body, for the wrong course of its members. If a selfish and unsympathizing spirit is allowed to exist in any of its members toward the unfortunate, the widow, the orphan, the blind, the lame, or those who are sick in body or mind, He will hide His face from His people until they do their duty and remove the wrong from among them."—Testimonies, Vol. 3, p. 517. In a corporate sense this statement holds far-reaching and solemn consequences. In its ministry to those who suffer physical or mental impediments God expects sympathetic and loving individual and churchwide involvement.

Jesus said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me" (Matthew 25:40). To see and serve those in need is to see His face and serve Him!

THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION • THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION • THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION • THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION • THE HEART OF THE LAKE UNION

Large lakeside Fourth of July celebrations, if we may judge from the lack of evidence, were not much patronized by SDAs. Too often such crowds of celebrators indulged in liquor and dancing to suit the convictions of the residents of the West End.

By far the most frequented resort near Battle Creek was Surby’s Hotel on the shore of Goguac Lake which was situated about three miles south of the Adventist community. Before 1892 people could cheaply reach the lake by horse-drawn streetcars, after that by electric cars, large open ones that were hailed as “models of beauty and convenience.” Such cars were handsomely painted and decorated, having rattan reversible seats, with sun awnings, side roller curtains, and bronze trimmings.

On July 4 thousands of fun seekers swarmed to Goguac, getting there by these trolley cars, buggies, bicycles, or afoot. Those who truly loved the out-of-doors rented boats or canoes in which to explore the shores and islands of the lake which had a circumference of perhaps five miles. Some fished, a few raced their skiffs, others dangled their hands in the water and made sweet talk. Less venturesome and romantic people purchased rides on the lake’s “navy.” After the spring of 1893 this flotilla was composed of three elegant steamers: the Pearl, Goguac, and Welcome. The joint careers of these pleasure craft were inaugurated on June 15 as “with flags flying at the mast, an exchange of salutes presented a beautiful scene.”

Usually Adventist folk in small groups or organizations had their own separate festivities at Goguac on weekdays. Just so, the sanitarium workers and ambulatory patients in June 1893 staged a “grand picnic” there, the dinner being a “feast of hygienic dainties” eaten to music played by the Review and Herald band. Even Dr. J. H. Kellogg got there on his bike for an hour’s sociability. A year later in May the “Britishers” from the Adventist community drove out to the lake, two carryall loads of them waving Union Jacks and Stars and Stripes, for a picnic to honor Queen Victoria’s birthday.

And farther afield, what did our diarists do on the glorious Fourth? Things like these. O. Andrew Johnson, 1877: “In the evening I saw fireworks for the first time in my life.” Sarah Skinner, 1877: “Hustled around to get ready to start to the picnic. . . . Saw a great many people that we were acquainted with and got home in good season.” George R. Avery, 1877: went “to the picnic in Wilson Tooley’s orchard. . . . after 3 P.M. I returned with Uncle H. and with him enjoyed a ramble through the forest south of B[elle] O[ak] he with his gun in search of rare birds. . . .” Henry Philip Holser, 1879: “Worked at giving treatment [at the B.C. Sanitarium] until 1:00 then ate dinner. At 2:00 went to Goguac with [my brother] John, rode around the lake and shores, and returned at 6:00.” Halver Halverson, 1881: “This afternoon I celebrated the 4th in the hayfield.”

Clearly SDA young adults observed the nation’s birthday very properly with their elders, picnicking among those they knew, scrutinizing the face of nature, watching fireworks, and ending the day early.

“How remarkable! What an amazing thing the Lord has done” (Matthew 21:42, The Living Bible).

Top right, We "see" the world through reading. Christian Record provides a vast array of materials and formats to assist blind people as they "touch" life, especially spiritual life. Left, Helping blind children sense the richness of life through contact with nature is made possible by the summer camp program of Christian Record Braille Foundation. Above, Headquartered at Lincoln, Nebraska, the Foundation coordinates the Seventh-day Adventist Church's outreach to the blind.

YOUR HELP IS NEEDED ON JULY 10

A Sabbath Offering For The Blind

Close your eyes for just a moment. Now, if your eyes were still closed, you couldn't read these words. The magazine in your hands might as well contain blank pages. The ideas we want to share would not be available to you. Someone sitting next to you with his eyes open could read the article and gain insight, but not you.

Of course, you could ask him to read it to you. But that would make you dependent on him—which might be all right for once. But how would you feel if you had to ask someone to read to you every time you wanted to learn something? You could quickly become embarrassed; maybe you would even decide that it was better to remain ignorant than to impose yourself on everyone. And unless you had an unusual drive to learn, you might easily find yourself slipping further and more completely out of touch with the world around you.

Now you know a little better what it's like to be blind. No one wants to be a burden to people. He wants to be independent, to be able to do things himself. And blind people are no different from the rest of us, except that they can't see. How large or small a difference that is depends to a large degree on those of us who are sighted.

Since 1899 the Seventh-day Adventist Church has operated the Christian Record Braille Foundation, providing free services and materials to the visually handicapped. Through the efforts of Christian Record Braille Foundation, a blind child can begin to participate in the broader vistas of life, once available only to the sighted child. For example, one of the most important services provided by Christian Record Braille Foundation is its summer camp program. At these specially planned camps for blind children, the visually handicapped child can hike, swim, ride horses, and go boating in much the same way that sighted children can. He can begin to learn that there are far fewer limits on his future than he might have thought. And his sense of self-worth and personal independence can grow.

For adults the same kind of things can happen. Christian Record Braille Foundation provides many free services for blind people, including a lending library with hundreds of books in braille and in special large print format for those with limited vision. Also, Christian Record Braille Foundation provides a large number of monthly publications supplied free to the blind, including Bible study guides, and health and spiritual magazines, such as Life and Health, Review and Herald, and the Sabbath School lessons. These are available in braille, large print, or on recordings (disk, cassette, or reel-to-reel tape).

Each of these items plays a part in Christian Record Braille Foundation's goal of allowing blind people to have access to materials that enhance their independence and participation in life to the fullest. If you were blind, you wouldn't want it any other way. Blind people don't want or need your sympathy. But they could use your help in continuing to make available materials of the kind we've mentioned.

On Sabbath, July 10, there will be a special offering taken in your church for Christian Record Braille Foundation. As a result of your support thousands of blind children and adults will be started or continued on the road to greater freedom to be what they wish. And more than that, many will be started on their way toward God's kingdom by the spiritual materials Christian Record Braille Foundation provides and by the demonstration you will give that someone cares.

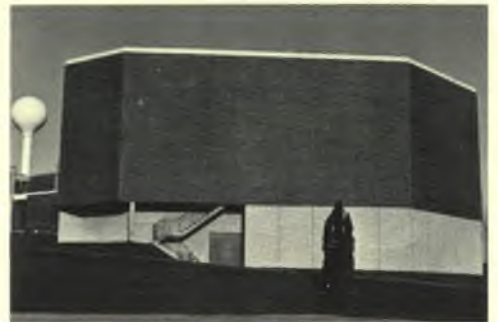

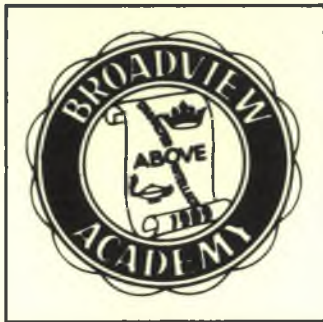

This year's offering theme, "Share the Light," signals the role each of us can play in becoming part of a healing process by opening windows of opportunity and bringing light to a darkened world. Jesus, who is the "light of the world," lived to heal, to bring hope and light to those around Him. The blind came to Him eagerly because they knew He cared. As His disciples should not the same be true of us?

Help open windows of opportunity and "Share the Light" with a sacrificial gift when the offering plate is passed to you Sabbath, July 10. Let the touch of healing be felt by blind children and adults in 1976!

BROADVIEW ACADEMY

Our nation's Bicentennial marks 67 years of service for Broadview Academy. Broadview was established in 1910 as the Broadview Swedish Seminary at Broadview, Illinois. In 1918 the school was enlarged, and when accredited with the North Central Association in 1923, the name was changed to Broadview College. In 1924 the college merged with Emmanuel Missionary College (now Andrews University), though maintaining its junior college accreditation. Because of expanding suburbs and the city surroundings of Chicago the school moved in 1958 to the beautiful rolling farm country of Kane County where a new school was built to carry on Broadview's tradition of a Christ-centered education for the youth of Illinois.

GRAND LEDGE ACADEMY

Grand Ledge Academy first opened its doors as a senior boarding academy in September of 1958. It remained a boarding academy until 1968 when the girls' dorm burned out, at which time it was decided to close the boarding aspect of the school and continue it as a day school under the control and responsibility of District Six. The district has continued to operate it as such, still providing many of the advantages of a boarding academy.

The school has continued to offer a work-study program for the majority of students. Because of the small enrollment Grand Ledge Academy students are much involved in many varied activities.

Grand Ledge Academy stands ready with her sister academies in this Bicentennial year to serve the youth of the Lake Union, and it pledges itself to Christian education for as long into the future as God allows.

Clockwise from top right, The old administration building now contains a chapel and the art and music departments. The new cafeteria opened this month. The boys now live in mini-dormitories. Students walk across the street to the Cicero SDA Church. Jim Nash, principal.

INDIANA ACADEMY

Many were the efforts of those who in the early days anticipated the growth of a secondary school where Indiana's Seventh-day Adventist young people could learn the basic principles of Christian living. The school was first founded in 1902 in Boggstown as Beechwood Academy. In 1919 it was moved to its present location in Cicero and renamed Indiana Academy. The original 100 acres have grown through the years with additional land purchases until at present the academy owns 492 acres. Indiana Academy is privileged to have one of the few prosperous academy farms left in the U.S. Most of its nearly 500 acres is actively farmed in crops and cattle.

An increase of 25 students for the 1975-76 school year brought the total enrollment for the year to 192, about 40 of whom are community students. Indiana Academy has many excellent work opportunities. Hoosier Plastics and Harris Pine Mills provide work for approximately 75 students; the 1974-75 student payroll was $90,826.46. These industrial jobs provide a valuable source of cash income for the academy and, at the same time, keep cash payments from parents at a minimum.

Six years ago under the leadership of Robert Dale, then conference president, and James Nash, principal, a master plan was drawn up, and a 1% Plan for Academy Development was promoted throughout the conference. Since then seven new faculty homes, two boys' mini-dormitories, and a cafeteria building have been completed, as well as a sewage disposal system.

Students are actively engaged in community service projects. Every Sunday many students volunteer in local nursing homes and a hospital as Cadets. Other students are busy in a toy repair and distribution program, giving temperance presentations at surrounding schools, or taking seminar trips to churches on Sabbath.

The founding fathers would be pleased to know that their dream for a school where young people can learn basic principles of Christian living has come true! Indiana Academy is indeed a learning center that Adventist Hoosiers can be proud of and where they can send their youth with confidence.

Where parental financial support is limited, others are being impressed to contribute to the Worthy Student Fund. Approximately 30 students received some kind of aid from this fund during the past school year. Most of these students were under the Four-Way Plan, which means that the local church, the academy, and the local conference share expenses with the parents on an equalized basis.

Our young people are facing many problems in today's society, but association with Christian teachers and classmates can help to see them through to the Kingdom.

PROJECT: STEPS TO CHRIST

... loads 10,000 mail bags

Clockwise from top left, The truck brought the last load of Steps to Christ from the W. F. Hall Publishing Company to the West Suburban Church School gym warehouse. Young people helped to unload the truck from the conveyor belt. The boxes coming into the warehouse on the moving belt were stacked by volunteers. The loaded bags containing PROJECT: Steps to Christ materials were stacked in the gym waiting to be picked up by those who will package them. Everybody pitched in to help with the project. The U.S. mail bags were loaded with boxes of Steps to Christ books, advertisers, letters, and envelopes. These bags full of the various boxes will go to churches or individuals which will stuff the envelopes and send out the materials to one million homes in Chicago.

Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital

Joel Hass, Correspondent

The former Hinsdale Seventh-day Adventist Church in the background has been remodeled and is now the new headquarters for the Hinsdale Family Medicine Center.

THE FAMILY-CENTERED RESIDENCY

We at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital are happy for the opportunity to share with the Lake Union family of God our joy in putting the family back into medicine. January 1, 1976, marked the beginning of the Family Practice Residency training program at the San.

Of the 25 recognized medical specialties, family practice is of recent origin (1969) and is one of breadth rather than depth. The family physician spends three years in postgraduate resident training after his graduation from medical school. He is then qualified to write the American Board of Family Practice certifying examination.

Silhouetted against the original stained glass windows of the former church, Cathy Lundquist, R.N., prepares an injection for a patient.

Our family-centered residency training program, in addition to seven other stated objectives, intends:

"To aid and to train family physicians to view their patients as a biological, social, and spiritual whole being by precept and example. The resident is to learn to live by the same health principles he wishes to impart to his patients in making man whole."

It is our opportunity to emphasize the blending of medicine and religion by treating our patients in the old church on the San campus. The remodeled facility has the original stained glass windows intact as a reminder of the sacred responsibility entrusted to men in assisting God in the healing processes. The new facilities were officially opened on June 7.

We invite each of you to come to Hinsdale for our open house activities beginning July 4. The theme of this week-long series of activities is "Healthy Birthday America" and will begin Sunday with open house in the newly remodeled operating room area of the hospital. Tours will begin at 2 p.m. and continue to 4 p.m., ending with a tour of the new Family Practice Residency Center.

On Monday the city of Hinsdale will be celebrating the Fourth of July with a parade. Brochures about the new Family Practice Residency Center will be passed out along the parade route.

The medical staff will be invited to an open house on Tuesday; Wednesday evening the community and other friends will be invited to attend a health education program at the Hinsdale Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Dick Schaffer, director of community relations at Loma Linda University, will be the featured speaker Friday evening at the church.

Resident physician Kenneth Heinrich, M.D., visits with Mrs. Patrick Tanabe and children, the first family to be patients at the new offices.

The Family Practice Residency physicians will be in charge of, and participate in the Sabbath service, July 10. Elder Graham Maxwell, chairman of the division of religion at Loma Linda University, will be the guest speaker for the worship hour, and later will be one of the participants at the 3 p.m. panel discussion on "Family Medicine in This Setting," also held at the church.

To complete the week's activities, a band concert will be performed on the North Lawn of Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital, Sunday, July 11. Dr. Herbert Holden, immediate past president of the American Academy of Family Physicians, will be one of the main speakers for the formal open house of the Family Practice Center.

Dr. David Paulson, the human force behind the founding of Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital in 1904, once wrote, "You may not be able to bring to those who need your help, genius, or skill, or wealth; but if the Lord has touched your heart, you can bring what is far better—compassion."

We here at Hinsdale San are excited about bringing compassion to our new "family-centered" family practice residency. As of July 1 we will have nine Loma Linda University School of Medicine graduates in our training program. Join us for our open house activities beginning July 4.

NEWS NOTE

• The Rockford earliteen Sabbath School division ended the first quarter with a special outing. Tauane Cover was awarded first place for artwork. Those having outstanding Bible study were Leigh Ann Nichol, Carol Schroeder, Kelly Grow, and Richard Gulke. The leaders for this lively, refreshing group are Mrs. Vernita Watts, Mrs. Joan Waterman, and Mrs. Lavaughn Grow.

MARRIAGE RENEWAL

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lant joined right hands and repeated their wedding vows to each other along with all the other married couples in the Hinsdale Church on May 22. Pastor E. A. Roberts' sermon entitled "Our Home and God" stressed the importance of a solid relationship between husbands and wives and a need for Christ in the home. It is planned that this little ceremony will become a yearly tradition for couples in the Hinsdale Church.

BROADVIEW ACADEMY ACCREDITATION

Principal A. L. Nelson reports that the North Central Accrediting Association has continued the accreditation of Broadview Academy. The school has been continuously accredited with this regional accreditation organization since 1923. In addition to this accreditation, the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists has extended the accreditation for another two years to complete the five-year maximum.

An interim visiting committee, chaired by Dr. Walt Howe from the General Conference, included Elder James Nash, Indiana Academy, and Elder Reginald Barnes, Lake Region educational superintendent. The committee reports that 90 percent of the recommendations of three years ago have been accomplished.

HAVE YOU REMEMBERED GOD IN YOUR LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT?

One hundred six Seventh-day Adventists of the Indiana Conference died in 1975. How many do you suppose included some part of the Lord's work in their wills? Let me share with you a brief resume of an interesting yet alarming situation.

- Ten remembered God's work in their wills.
- Six of the ten left all to their surviving spouse and then provided for the gospel work.
- Four actually made an outright gift to God's work at death.

"God is displeased with the slack, loose manner in which many of His professed people conduct their worldly business. They seem to have lost all sense of the fact that the property they are using belongs to God, and that they must render to Him an account of their stewardship. . . . Some who are aged are unwilling to make any settlement of their worldly business, and in an unexpected moment they sicken and die. Their children who have no interest in the truth, take the property. Satan has managed it as suited him."—Testimonies, Vol. 1, p. 199.

How much more could be accomplished if each member remembered the gospel work in their will! If each of the 106 Hoosier Adventists who died in 1975 had left just $1,000, what might have been accomplished? Many could have left much more by proper management, careful planning, and wise stewardship.

Consider investing now in finishing God's work. Deferred giving can be made through your Christian will or revocable trust. Money invested in the Lord's work will bring rich returns.

are a very important aspect of the trust program. We also invite you to visit us in our new conference office.

CAMP AU SABLE ACQUIRES NEW BOAT

Better water skiing is now possible at Camp Au Sable reports Elder Lester Rilea who is shown waving from the camp's new 18-foot boat before going for a trial spin. With a dependable 255 horsepower inboard engine the Ski Nautique gives water skiers all the action they can ask for. Youth 13 through 15 years of age are encouraged to attend Teen Camp at Au Sable July 25 through 31. If a boy or girl will turn 13 during the summer, he or she will be welcomed to join this camp. This is also true of a 15-year-old who may turn 16 during June or July. Contact the conference youth department for further details.

CELEBRATE THE BICENTENNIAL

As a part of the community outreach program for the Michigan Conference in 1976, church members have had the unique privilege this year of sharing their church's sentiments concerning the Bicentennial with people everywhere by using the Seventh-day Adventist logo: COMMITTED TO GOD AND COUNTRY on their cars and correspondence. One family used the seals on all Christmas messages in 1975 as a tribute to this historic year.

Decals and seals bearing the statement, COMMITTED TO GOD AND COUNTRY, have been designed with a white cross over the red, white, and blue of the American flag. The seals are edged in silver.

During July church members are urged to make even greater use of the decals (does your second car have one?) and seals (make sure every card and letter goes out with one!). The continued use of these silent but beautiful tributes to the Bicentennial could make a vital impact on the nation at this time. The Michigan Adventist Book Center in Lansing, Box 19001, and the branch store in Berrien Springs will take your order (decals, 25 cents each, 20 seals for $1).

Make this your special missionary project for the month of July as the nation celebrates 200 years of religious liberty since its birth on July 4, 1776. Let us thank God for America in ways in which we can share with others our awareness and sentiments on the occasion. The church and the country needs you in this special witness.

FOUR MICHIGAN CONFERENCE MEN TO SPEAK AT CAMP MEETING

Four Michigan conference ministers will be featured guests during this year's annual camp meeting at Grand Ledge.

Conference Secretary James Hayward will present four messages at the 7:30 p.m. meetings Monday through Thursday, August 9 to 12.

The new Battle Creek Tabernacle pastor, Elder Melvyn Clemons, will preach during the 10:45 service Sunday morning, August 8, and Elder Arnold Kraner, one of the conference evangelists, will be featured Friday afternoon, August 6, at 2:30.

Clemons, who has served the denomination as a pastor and a college Bible teacher is known as a Bible student and a good preacher. Kraner came to the Michigan Conference from Ohio at camp meeting time last year. Unfortunately he became ill early that fall and his scheduled evangelistic campaigns had to be cancelled for a number of months. He is again able to spend his time in evangelism and this camp meeting speaking appointment will be the first opportunity for many of our members to become acquainted with him.

Elder John Loor, ministerial director of the conference, as announced earlier in the Herald, will be conducting the early morning meetings at 6:30. Those who have heard him know that his meetings bring blessings to those who attend.

FROM CHURCH BASEMENT TO NEW SCHOOL

On June 3 the Coldwater-Burlington Church School graduated from its facilities in the basement of the Rayborn Memorial Church to their new school building on Barnhart Road. The children did the moving themselves, Principal Thomas Wagtowicz said.

Later that evening commencement was held at the Rayborn Memorial Church with the address given by Dr. John Youngberg of Andrews University.

Kippe Granger, the lone graduate, was the third in his family to graduate from the church school basement. Also this year teacher Winona Fiebelkorn retired.

NEWS NOTES

• Ten students graduated from the Woodland Adventist School this year. The speaker for the graduation exercises was Daniel Howell, Bible teacher at Wisconsin Academy. John Baker of Cambridge provided special music for the occasion.

• The Annual Northern District Meeting was held at Camp Wahdoon on Sabbath, May 15. An overflow crowd attended and it was difficult to find seats for everyone. Elder Frank Jones, executive secretary of the Lake Union Conference, was the featured speaker for the day.

• A large load of boxes filled with clothing left Portage recently bound for the New York warehouse. More boxes are being prepared by the churches and another load will be shipped later.

• The Appleton Church staged a camp-out to help the young people earn their honors as MV Trail Friends. Hiking, identifying plants and insects, cooking, and camping were all part of the two-day event. Pastor Bob DeForest accompanied the campers.

• The Appleton Church School had a combination Investiture service and Mother's Day program on May 6. Elder Dave Masterjohn, youth director of the conference, participated in the program.

• The Appleton Church School children were escorted by their teacher, K. Duane Shabo, and various church members on a four-day field trip which included Andrews University, Battle Creek, and Detroit, Michigan. The children visited cereal plants, steel mills, and the Ford Museum. They also visited Muhammad Ali and were personally guided around his ranch.

• Members of the Antigo Church held a special birthday luncheon for Mrs. Emma Vollbrecht on the occasion of her 95th birthday. Mrs. Marion Bucknam was hostess for the day.

FOUR CS FOR CENTURY III

The church has developed a program entitled "Four Cs for Century III." The Four Cs represent camp, campus, community, and character beautification. Century II makes it a future program, a part of Horizon '76, to improve the quality of life in America.

The church is celebrating 50 years of camping in 1976. This will provide opportunity for thousands of young people and adults to help make church-owned camps and their surrounding forests more enjoyable.

Thousands of young people attend elementary, secondary, college, and university level Seventh-day Adventist schools. Each of these campuses should be a place of beauty.

Every church can participate, enhancing the landscaping of the church by planting trees, etc. A special kit is available as a guide to church beautification. It includes helpful plans for interior and exterior beautification, identification, and safety. A self-grading sheet helps pinpoint areas which need attention. Pathfinders can become involved in cleaning up local parks, vacant and neglected lots, state parks, and fairgrounds.

Every Adventist should be concerned with character development. Ellen White says, "When the character of Christ shall be perfectly reproduced in God's people, then He will come to claim them as His own."—Christ's Object Lessons, page 69. Adventists are concerned with the total development of man. Every department of the church will be involved in this phase of the Four Cs.

The main objective of the Four Cs program is to improve the quality of life, not only individually but also collectively. We should always be faithful to the principles established by the pioneers of this nation. Adventists can look back at the lives of church pioneers and our own heritage. The church must let it be known that we believe in freedom—freedom from evil, disease, and tyranny.

General Conference Bicentennial Comm*

TALKING BOOKS IN SPANISH

According to a report released by general manager Fred Thomas, the Christian Record Braille Foundation has recently hired Peru-born Mrs. Immer Kittleson in a move to produce "talking books" on record, tape, and cassette for Spanish-speaking blind people.

Mrs. Kittleson has already begun her work and has recorded several books to be made available to visually impaired and sightless persons. Among these is the popular devotional classic Steps to Christ now on record in Spanish.

WILLIAMS APPOINTED ASSISTANT DEAN OF SCHOOL OF GRADUATE STUDIES

Robert A. Williams, Ph.D., has been appointed assistant dean of the School of Graduate Studies at Andrews University with particular responsibility for the doctor of education program.

Dr. Williams, professor of education at Andrews since 1972, has been directing the educational psychology and counseling areas for the Department of Education.

HOME NUTRITION INSTRUCTORS CERTIFIED

A certification program was held May 11 for 87 graduates of the Home Nutrition Instructor's Course given to the Graduate Guild of Andrews as a yearly function of the Department of Home Economics.

The course was directed for two quarters by Dr. Alice G. Marsh during which time seminary wives and several seminary students completed 15 clock hours in nutrition for the layperson and 15 clock hours in demonstration techniques. Dr. Fonda Chaffee, with senior dietetic and graduate food systems management students, assisted with the laboratory sections.

The Home Nutrition Instructor's Course is sponsored by the Department of Health of the General Conference. The training is designed to provide vegetarian cooking schools in communities and churches based upon sound nutritional and food preparation principles. The certificate is granted by the General Conference.

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY BICENTENNIAL CLASS SCHOLARSHIP

The senior class of 1976 decided to "take a step in faith," according to the class president, and raise funds to establish an Andrews University Bicentennial Class Scholarship Fund. From it awards will be made annually to a needy and worthy junior or senior student from outside of the North American Division, who is planning to work in a country other than North America.

In order to raise the $5,000 needed for this special scholarship fund, the members of the senior class took on such projects as washing cars, showing benefit films, selling root beer floats, and requesting contributions from business people, friends, and relatives.

The class would appreciate contributions from persons interested in helping this special scholarship fund. Checks should be made payable to the Andrews University General Fund. Donors will be given a receipt for tax deduction purposes.

A.U. COOPERATES TO FORM LOCAL 'INFOPASS' PROGRAM

The Berrien Library Consortium is implementing a program which will allow library users access to more facilities than those of their local libraries.

The new program, named Infopass, will involve the public libraries of Niles, St. Joseph, and Benton Harbor, and the libraries of Lake Michigan College, Andrews University, Clark Equipment Company, and Whirlpool Corporation.

"Infopass" stands for "information passport," and refers to a card which will give access to materials available from the member organizations.
