One hundred twelve years after the first Seventh-day Adventist at Cedar Lake was baptized the congregation which developed has moved into its own church building!

The sanctuary of the new church accommodates nearly 900 and it was filled on the recent Sabbath in May when the first official service was held.

The structure includes a large office wing, an educational wing, and a fellowship hall. A large portion of the work was done by members of the 266-member congregation. Rainy weather had slowed the laying of the Indiana limestone exterior, but this work is going on and will be finished this summer.

In 1864 Judge Francis Nelson became the first baptized Adventist in Cedar Lake. Through the sharing of his faith a church was officially organized with 13 charter members in July of 1879.

In 1898 the congregation had enough young people to cause the members to consider a training school for them. The church purchased a public school building and two acres of land for an investment of $5. Then the Cedar Lake Industrial Academy officially opened its doors and began an uninterrupted service in Christian education.

Through the years the "permanent" members supported the school, sacrificing their own needs and desires for their own church building. For years services had been held in the auditorium gymnasium.

Open house ceremonies were held in the afternoon with Elder James Hayward, conference secretary, as guest speaker. The academy choir and brass ensemble presented special music at both occasions.

Following the afternoon service tours of the building were conducted and a buffet meal was served to the many guests in attendance.

Have You Tried INVESTING for God?

Thoughts on the Bicentennial, Part 5

The declaration of Independence is of no consequence to us unless we can translate its general terms into examples of the present day. It is not a theory of government, but a program of action. Unless we can translate it into the questions of our own day, we are not worthy of it. Woodrow Wilson, 1913
28th President of the United States

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness." July 4, 1776.

Here we are, 200 years later, pondering the profound meaning of these words as they apply not only to the times which gave them utterance but as they relate to all Americans for all time. How well are they being translated into our lives today?

In the early summer of 1776 Thomas Jefferson was chosen to write the rough draft for a formal declaration of independence. "I did not consider it any part of my charge to invent new ideas," Jefferson later remarked, "but to place before mankind the common sense of the subject, in terms so plain and firm as to command their assent. . . . It [the Declaration] was intended to be an expression of the American mind."

The central principle of Jefferson's document derived mainly from the writings of 17th-century English philosopher, John Locke, a Christian believer whose ideas helped shape the American Republic. What did he and others of that era have to say about these "unalienable rights"—ultimately, of Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness?

On Happiness. How can it be achieved?

"Every man has an immortal soul, capable of eternal happiness or misery, whose happiness depends upon his believing and doing those things in this life which are necessary to the obtaining of God's favor and are prescribed by God to that end."—John Locke (1632-1704), in A Letter Concerning Toleration.

On Liberty. How do we keep it?

"He is the best friend to American liberty who is most sincere and active in promoting true and undefiled religion and who sets himself with the greatest firmness to bear down profanity and immorality of every kind."—John Witherspoon (1723-1794), only clergyman to sign the Declaration of Independence, in sermon, "On the Brink of Revolution," delivered at Princeton chapel, May 1776.

On Life. How do we live it?

"Adore God; reverence and cherish your parents; love your neighbor as yourself, and your country more than life. Be just; be true; murmur not at the ways of Providence—and the life into which you have entered will be one of eternal and ineffable bliss."—Thomas Jefferson (1743-1826), in advice given to a namesake, Thomas Jefferson Grotjan, January 10, 1824.

This month of July, 1976, in the Bicentennial year of the founding of our nation, let us all make the American dream a reality in our lives. Committed to God and Country let us seek the One who alone can make us truly worthy of that great document—the Declaration of Independence.

Indiana Answers the Challenge

by Ruth A. Helzerman
Glendale Communication Secretary

"Go ye into all the world, and preach." Mark 16:15. How do we begin? Where shall we start? What approach shall we take? These are questions the Indianapolis Glendale members asked themselves and asked God who issued the command. The answer came simply—light the candle of truth where you are and move out into the world a step at a time from there.

The First Step

To show the church as a beacon of light in its community, a special evangelistic Sabbath was planned. Members invited their neighbors, family, and friends to attend a "Get-acquainted-with-Seventh-day-Adventists" Sabbath School. A powerful sermon by Pastor Robert Taylor established Jesus Christ as a real Savior who accepted human form and came to live a perfect life that the plan for our salvation could be put into effect. The guests were then extended social hospitality at a luncheon especially designed to allow an opportunity for personal contact and friendship.

Into the Community

The light must shine out from the church into the community. So the Glendale members organized two special community outreach programs: A Five-day Plan to Stop Smoking under the direction of Dr. Melvin Lund, temperance secretary; and a Nutrition Clinic organized by Mrs. Jean Brillhart, with Loma Linda nutritionist Ketti Ippisch as the director. The Five-day Plan was given newspaper coverage and WIRE radio carried interview excerpts from Five-day personnel throughout the entire day during their regular news broadcasts. The Nutrition Clinic was reported by all three major city newspapers and the Sunday Star food editor asked for an interview with nutrition school personnel in order to print a Sunday food feature complete with vegetarian recipes.

A Step Further

With the community now more aware of their SDA neighbors, the Glendale congregation felt that the time had arrived to reach past the immediate community farther out across the city and out into the central portion of the state. To accomplish this a radio program, designed to reach the late teen and young married age groups, was created. It is aired each Sunday morning at 9:30 on WIRE. The program is titled "The Way Out," and its message is to point to Christ as a way out of the problems and frustrations faced by today's youth who live in a world of low moral conduct and a drug-oriented society. The $7,000 for the 12-month contract was raised in one love offering appeal to the congregation and funds contributed by Indiana Conference evangelism.

The radio program is produced and directed by Mrs. Cynthia Prime, who is a Glendale member. Mrs. Prime has a degree in communications and has been a TV news reporter, radio reporter, producer, and feature writer. She also has had published a book of original poems.

The format for the program follows this outline: Taped music and music featuring Glendale's New Communion Singers; a personal conversation with the listeners by program anchorman Jim Barnhart, who sets the theme for the week; Assistant Pastor Al Keiser, roving reporter, presents "On Campus Interviews" of college students giving spontaneous answers to questions related to the week's theme; Cynthia Prime interviews persons who have conquered personal traumas in their lives and people of political import about their Christian viewpoint; and Pastor Taylor gives a ten-minute sermonette on subjects related to the conditions of the world today and where we stand in the light of God's great time clock for this world.

A special phone line is open immediately after the program for anyone listening who desires personal pastoral counsel, and a post office box has been established to handle the mail requests for prayer and for literature.

Radio experts warned the "Way Out" staff not to expect any results from their listening audience for at least three months, claiming it takes that long to build an audience. However, the program has already produced surprising results in both mail and telephone contacts.

The command to reach out into all the world is a vast and awesome task. But the Glendale congregation has made a start with Christ opening the doors here in Indianapolis.

Cedar Lake Academy, the denomination's oldest continuously operated boarding academy, was founded December 29, 1898, with the purchase of a two-story public school building and the 250- by 325-foot lot on which it was located. The purchase price was $5. The principal of the new academy was Professor J. G. Lamson, and upon his arrival at Cedar Lake the District School was still in session in what was to be the academy building. Mr. Ferris, the teacher, permitted Mr. Lamson to use a little recitation room for his office in addition to another little room heated by a kerosene oil stove. These two small rooms represented the beginning of the administration of the new academy at Cedar Lake.

The school building held two floors of nearly equal size—about 30 by 48 feet. The first floor was divided into three sections. The two recitation rooms used by Mr. Lamson were two of the parts. There had been no basement beneath the building, so excavation soon began, and with the walls extended downward the new space became a dining room and kitchen for the school.

The second floor was the classroom. Mr. H. W. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Lamson were the academic faculty. Frank Mosebar was in charge of the farm and his wife was matron. School opened January 16, 1899, for about 30 students who were in attendance.

Incorporated under the name Cedar Lake Industrial Academy on March 21, 1902, the school taught a very practical curriculum. Subjects included Bible, printing, tent making, typewriting, shorthand, bookkeeping, mathematics, spelling, English, agriculture, blacksmithing, bee keeping, food preparation, carpentry, and music. Glenn Straight and Ruth Saxby were the first graduates completing the tenth grade in June 1907.

In the 78 years since its important beginning, Cedar Lake Academy has continued to grow and develop. Placed as it was in an isolated country setting the school has always held a very special appeal to those who desire to have their children educated in an environment secluded from the busy throb of a hectic urban life.

school buildings have been rebuilt. The girls' dormitory was first to be replaced followed by the boys' dorm, the cafeteria, and finally the school building itself. In 1974 Elder R. D. Moon, then conference president and board chairman, opened the doors to a new and comfortable building containing administrative offices, spacious classroom facilities with important equipment for improved teaching, a chapel, and a new music department.

Two major industries, besides the usual operational departments of the school, provide employment and job-training opportunities for the students.

The Cedar Lake Academy Mill manufactures top quality redwood furniture and the Dakota Bake 'n' Serve factory produces frozen bread dough. Together the two industries employ an approximate total of 140 students.

Cedar Lake Academy has deep-seated traditions of friendliness and spiritual priorities. Its Alumni Association is active and its student body is spirited and loyal. The "School in the Country" with all its age and traditions is vibrant and growing. If you are at that wonderful age, come and join the growing family of Cedar Lake Academy.

F. L. PETERSON ACADEMY

Peterson Academy or Peterson School as it is sometimes called, is located 15 miles southwest of Detroit, at 4000 Sylvia Avenue between Inkster and John Daly Roads, in Inkster, Michigan. The property consists of approximately seven acres of land and a physical plant. The school opened as a junior academy in September 1964 offering the 12th grade through Home Study Institute. It was the consolidation of two separate schools—the Berean School of Detroit and the Sharon School of Inkster—operated by the City Temple and Sharon Seventh-day Adventist churches. At that time the building consisted of six classrooms, library, kitchen, and office area. It served the Detroit area as a day academy.

As the enrollment increased, the idea was conceived of building the school into an academy, grades nine to twelve. This would mean the erection of additional classrooms, a gymnasium, and expanding the curriculum. This enthusiasm swelled among the student body and in 1968 the students undertook a candy campaign and raised $1,000 for the building fund.

Over the years other churches joined in supporting the school. Presently the constituency consists of nine churches. They are the Belleville Heights, City Temple, Conant Gardens, Detroit Center, Ecorse, Maranatha, London, Sharon, and Ypsilanti churches.

In June 1975 construction of the new addition began. The building was completed the following March. The new addition nearly doubled the size of the old building adding four new classrooms including a science room, a home economics room, a gymnasium, and shower areas. In September 1975 an annex to the building was established accommodating grades one to six for Detroit and leaving the building primarily for the academy and grades seven and eight. Last September Peterson became the newest and youngest academy in the Lake Union. The beginning enrollment at the academy was 69.

The school has expanded its curriculum to include college preparatory and commercial arts classes. The coming year will include home economics. A third stage of the building program will include a vocational arts shop with facilities for teaching carpentry and auto mechanics.

During the 1975-76 year the school adopted the theme "Christ in Our School." It was the endeavor of the school to keep Christ in the curriculum, faculty, recreation, student body, and in the hearts of all. It was felt that this theme was quite appropriate for the academy's first school year for truly God's hand is ever present in the development of the F. L. Peterson Academy.

The Shiloh School started in 1913 in a basement with 20 students. The name Shiloh was officially adopted in 1925. The school became an academy for the first time in 1933 and was cut back to a junior high school in 1952. In 1968 temporary approval was obtained from the union to operate a full-scale academy. We received recognition from the state in 1972 and our accreditation from the Board of Regents in 1974.

From June 1969 to June 1976, 116 seniors will have graduated. More than 90 percent of our graduates have attended institutions of higher learning.

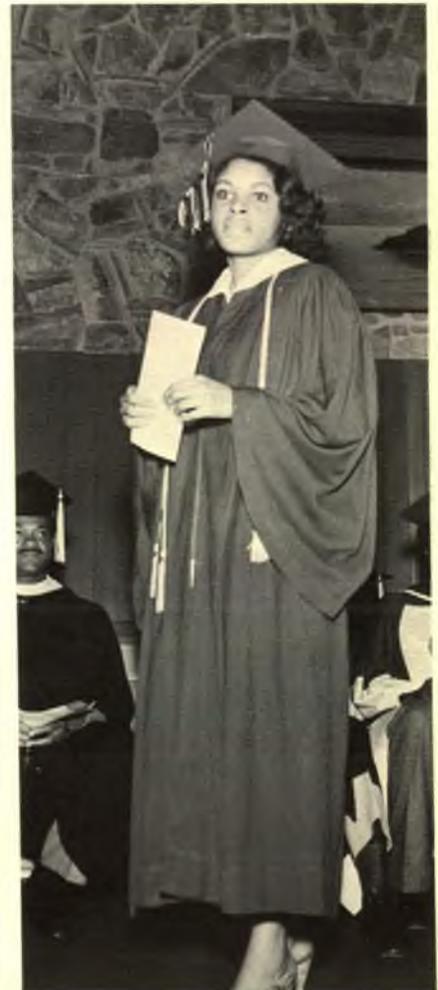

We currently offer about 40 units and sections, including two foreign languages, calculus, computer mathematics, and band as strong areas in our total program.

We are in dire need of additional classrooms and facilities for our expanding enrollment.

WISCONSIN ACADEMY

For those now attending Wisconsin Academy it is easy to take for granted its modern administration building and beautifully landscaped campus, forgetting that it wasn't always possible to have it so. In this Bicentennial year it's good to look back at a few of the mileposts marking the school's progress from its beginning 77 years ago.

In 1899 Woodland Industrial School, soon renamed Bethel Industrial School, consisted of one large T-shaped building containing boiler room, laundry, kitchen, dining room, administration building, boys' and girls' dormitories housing 100 students, post office, and store. Church services and Sabbath School were held here, too.

Elder William Covert, Wisconsin Conference president, and his co-workers had accepted the offer of a local lumber company to give the conference 200 acres about two miles west of Arpin if they would be responsible for selling 800 acres surrounding the area. This wooded plot seemed to be an ideal rural setting for a Christian school.

School opened with Professor J. E. Tenny as principal and six teachers teaching all subjects in grades one to ten. Tuition charges ranged from $1 to $3 per month plus $7.50 for board and room. Students donated two hours of manual labor a day; for addition work they received "just compensation"—5 or 10 cents an hour.

During H. T. Elliott's term as principal (1914-20) the school name was changed to Bethel Academy. Improvements included a chapel, manual training room, a new boys' dormitory, and an electric lighting system which gave about 50 watts of light per student—with bulbs that flickered with every revolution of the generator fly wheel!

In 1924 the school was connected with an electric high line, and now there was central heat, bathroom facilities, and a water system.

In 1949 led by Elder T. E. Unruh, conference president, and the Conference Committee, the loyal church laymen of Wisconsin responded to the need for new buildings. Prayerful planning and work aided by a body of enthusiastic students who carried on a campaign of letter writing afforded the impetus to follow the slogan "Get your dollars in line for the move in '49." And move they did!

In 1950 the first graduating class of 22 used Columbus High School gymnasium for their services.

The new boys' dormitory was finished in 1953 and the library and English classrooms were moved to the basement.

During Elder F. W. Bieber's term as principal (1954) the gymnasium was built by Dwain Ford, science teacher, and his student helpers, and was used as church and auditorium for special school functions.

In 1960 the first graduation exercises were held in the chapel of the new administration building, which had been built during the preceding two years.

The craft shop, which had operated as a department of the academy since 1953, was taken over in 1962 by Harris Pine Mills. It now employs about 50 students. Another 50 students are employed by the Bake-N-Serve plant which began operation in 1972.

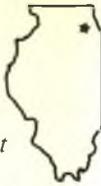

During this period a large, productive dairy farm was purchased. Two new silos and a loafing shed have been added to the original building.

In 1976 ground was broken for a new gymnasium, with plans to build a cafeteria later.

Elder Robert Knutson, principal since 1968, accepted the position of superintendent for Wisconsin SDA schools, K-12, and Mildred Summerton was elected principal. She has served Wisconsin Academy since 1941 as teacher, librarian, registrar, and vice principal. As sponsor of the Badger and ASB, she has organized countless campaigns to improve school facilities. She is loved by students, staff, and the Wisconsin constituency, who will give her loyal support in her new responsibility.

STAFF LEAVING BROADVIEW ACADEMY

After 19 years of serving the young people of Illinois as vocal, choral, piano, and organ instructor, Robert Pound has accepted a position as music instructor at Spring Valley Academy, Kettering, Ohio. Through the years that Mr. Pound has been connected at BVA he has seen many changes in the school plant. He helped move out from the old location at LaFox. The music department moved four years ago into the outstanding music facility now provided and he installed the pipe organ in the chapel.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Staddon have accepted a position at Redding Junior Academy, Redding, California. They have been at BVA for 11 years. Mrs. Staddon has taught biology, home economics, and assisted in the cafeteria, and this year was the laundry supervisor. Mr. Staddon has been a music instructor and during the past two years has taught wilderness living and sponsored the outdoor living club.

Mr. and Mrs. James Saunders will be moving to Loma Linda Academy after Jim attends summer school at Andrews University. Mr. Saunders will be teaching English at the academy there. He has taught this subject at BVA for six years. His wife has also taught English and secretarial courses periodically at BVA during this time.

Mrs. Carole Chapman will be moving to a new home in Sheridan, Illinois. She has been librarian for two years and most recently was part-time assistant dean of girls. Her husband will continue employment at Harris Pine Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Middaugh have been at BVA for three years. He most recently taught industrial arts, drivers education, and a math course. Mrs. Middaugh taught the home economics courses on a part-time basis this past year.

Miss Norma Velazquez, who taught Spanish, Bible, and English for the past two years, is planning to continue graduate school at Andrews University.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Starr have been on the BVA staff for two years. Mr. Starr has been the food service director and has taught baking and horsemanship. His wife has worked in the business office. They are opening a private bakery and snack shop at Keene, Texas, next year. When Mr. Starr accepted the position as the BVA food service director, the plans for the new cafeteria-dining room facility were just being finalized, so he was able to help plan the building. Then he helped move from the old facility to the new last year just before Christmas.

These folk have served BVA for more than 46 years of total service and will continue serving the Lord in their new positions.

Elder and Mrs. Paul H. Scofield have recently moved to the Evansville, Indiana, District succeeding Elder Eugene Taylor.

Most recently the Scofields have served in the Illinois Conference where Elder Scofield was pastor of the Moline Church for two and a half years.

Prior ministerial duties have included posts in the Michigan, Minnesota, Kansas, and South Dakota conferences.

Both Elder and Mrs. Scofield are natives of Devils Lake, North Dakota.

They have three children, all married and in the Lord's work. Their daughter, Paula, is the wife of Elder Jan Follett, pastor of the Bloomington District.

Walla Walla College is the alma mater of Elder Scofield where he received a B.A. degree in biblical languages.

We welcome Elder and Mrs. Scofield to our Indiana Conference worker family.

Children hold posters displaying what they learned during their six weeks' study of the Bible.

Elder and Mrs. Vern Joyner, pastor, and Mildred Kirk, Sabbath School superintendent, did the bulk of planning and supervising the first Branch Sabbath School for the Reid Memorial Church in East St. Louis, Illinois.

Vernon Taylor, founder and president of the YEWO (Youth Educational and Welfare Organization), asked the pastor if he would conduct a series of Bible studies for the youth.

The youth ranged from six to fourteen years of age. For some, this was the first time they had had an organized study of God's word.

A summation of the six weeks' Branch Sabbath School was given recently during the Missionary Volunteer hour. At that time awards were also given to each child that had attended.

SPECIAL CAMP MEETING NOTICE

The Camp Meeting Management Committee, in studying recommendations of the Conference Laymen's Advisory Committee regarding Sabbath observance, has voted to close down the location office at 8 p.m. Friday evenings and allow the equipment crew to stop work at the same time. This will allow those persons proper time to prepare for the Sabbath.

Therefore, no equipment of any kind will be delivered by camp meeting personnel to any tent or cabin after 8 p.m. Friday evening.

Also all trailers not on the grounds by 8 p.m., on the two Fridays of camp meeting, will not be permitted to enter to find their assigned areas. Provision has been made, however, for them to park in a special area (with no electrical or sewage hookups) and remain there until after Sabbath on Saturday night.

The Camp Management Committee hopes all Adventists will understand and cooperate with them in this endeavor to operate the camp in harmony with Bible principles of Sabbath observance. The committee also reminds the conference membership that THERE WILL BE NO EXCEPTIONS to the above regulations.

SPECIAL FEATURES TO OPEN CAMP MEETING

Michigan Adventists attending the opening Thursday evening session of this year's camp meeting will have the opportunity to enjoy a special multimedia presentation of the work of the church within the Lake Union.

The multimedia production titled Heaven Is Waiting "graphically tells the story of God's miraculous leading of His church in the Great Lake States over the past five years," states Dick Dower, the producer of the program.

The 36-minute presentation will be shown on a 30-foot screen utilizing three projectors. It was produced for the Lake Union quinquennial constituency session in April.

Elder Charles Keymer, conference president, urges all to attend this special feature which is scheduled to start at 7 p.m.

A call-in program to record prayer requests during camp meeting will again be established, reports Elder Oliver Johnston, chairman of the prayer and counseling committee.

Persons with special requests can have them remembered during the regular prayer sessions by calling the information center at the campgrounds. The number is (517) 627-2730.

Those who are on the grounds will have access to help for their problems not only from the ministers on duty but also from trained counselors. These will include a number of female counselors who can serve persons with problems best handled by women.

The special prayer tent will be staffed daily from 9:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. There will also be a special 1:20 p.m. mass prayer meeting each day, consisting of a 10- to 15-minute talk followed by prayer in one of five special interest groups. Each prayer group will emphasize one of the following general areas: personal victories, needs of others, healing, anointing, or family problems.

Elder Johnston also suggests that letters can be sent to the prayer and counseling committee addressed, Prayer and Counseling Committee, c/o Elder Oliver Johnston, Seventh-day Adventist Campgrounds, Grand Ledge, Michigan 48837.

Participants in the Ionia Church dedication are from left: Elder and Mrs. Gordon Stecker of the Bunker Hill and Morrice churches; Elder and Mrs. Robert D. Moon of Berrien Springs, former conference president; Elder and Mrs. Gordon Frase, the current pastor; Elder and Mrs. Lowell L. Bock of Berrien Springs, Lake Union Conference president; Elder and Mrs. Clarence Larsen, superintendent of the Midland District; and Dr. and Mrs. Jonathan Hamrick of Lansing, director of the religious liberty department.

IONIA CHURCH DEDICATED

The Ionia Adventist Church constructed in 1968 was dedicated in special weekend services on May 7 and 8.

The history of the church, presented by George Balli and James Stevenson, revealed that the first pastor, Elder George Hosford, was assigned to Ionia in 1920. His widow of Gowen, Michigan, was able to be present at the afternoon dedication services.

A special service of music, testimony, and personal consecration was held Friday evening with the current pastor, Elder Gordon Frase, in charge.

Sabbath School featured a special mission report by Joao Dos Santos of Angola, Africa, and the lesson study was presented by Elder Gordon Stecker, pastor from 1970 to 1975. The Sabbath morning sermon was given by Elder Lowell L. Bock, Lake Union Conference president, and Elder Robert D. Moon, former conference president, presented special music. Moon also had the dedicatory sermon at the afternoon service when the mortgage was burned.

Other guests from the Michigan Conference office who participated in various ways were: Elders Charles Keymer, president; Gordon Carle, treasurer; and Ernest N. Wendth, director of the communication and health services departments. A special musical program was presented by duo pianists Jonathan and Winifred Hamrick. Dr. Hamrick is the newly elected director of the religious liberty department.

Another former pastor and his wife, Elder and Mrs. Clarence Larsen, of Midland were on hand and also had parts in the programs. The Larsens were pastoring the Ionia Church when the current building was erected.

ESCANABA HOLDS 5-DAY PLAN

"I have never tasted toothpaste before," was the excited comment of a three and a half-pack-a-day smoker at the end of a recently held Five-day Plan to Stop Smoking in Escanaba. Eighty-five eager-to-quit smokers attended the clinic conducted by Eugene Hildebrand, M.D., of Munising and Elder Paul Howell of Escanaba. Sixty persons left with their I.Q. (I Quit) pins on the last evening, and several indicated an interest in Bible studies and cooking classes. The picture shows part of the crowd indicating their success in quitting smoking.

EASTER BOOTH USED AT PONTIAC MALL FOR WITNESSING

The Pontiac Church experienced a first this spring when they had an Easter Booth at the Pontiac Mall during Easter week.

Students from Pontiac Junior Academy helped man the booth and helped adult members distribute about 3,500 pieces of literature. The young people expressed deep satisfaction in passing out literature and having an opportunity to share their faith with youth from the community.

A taped recording of the resurrection story was enacted with puppets through the week attracting many "small fry" and their parents to the area. The church was permitted free access to the recording and amplifying equipment from the Grinnell store in the mall.

It was interesting to note that another denomination who had a booth nearby moved to another area "because everyone was stopping at the Adventist booth."
