Conscience Clause Hearing is Held

A bill introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives by Illinois Congressman John Erlenborn would extend "conscience clause" protection now afforded to employees of certain health-care facilities to include all employment under the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Act.

At a July 28 hearing Erlenborn went on record urging the committee and the Congress to take up this matter without further delay in order to end religious discrimination being suffered by a number of conscientious people across the country.

In 1974 the National Labor Relations Act was amended to include private and nonprofit health-care institutions, making it easier for them to become unionized. At that time Congressman Erlenborn sponsored an amendment that was adopted to exempt individuals whose religious convictions prevented them from joining or supporting labor unions. In January of 1975 he introduced a separate bill (H.R. 1528) to extend this protection to all employees who are covered by the National Labor Relations Act.

Much of the early opposition to such a bill has evaporated. Reasons for this can be traced to the success of the health-care exemption under the 1974 revisions of the NLRA; decisions by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission that employers and labor unions are guilty of religious discrimination when they fire individuals solely because of their failure to join or financially support a labor union organization in violation of deeply held religious convictions; and a recent decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, whose opinion affirmed the decision of EEOC.

In four states (Oregon, Washington, Montana and Alaska) where public employees had been given conscience-clause protection by law, no serious repercussions have adversely affected organized labor. More legislatures on both the state and national levels have become convinced that this is not an anti-labor issue any more than the conscientious objector beliefs of Adventists during World War II were anti-American.

Among those testifying at the hearing on behalf of the bill introduced by Mr. Erlenborn were Congresswoman Shirley Pettis of Loma Linda, California, the only Seventh-day Adventist member of Congress; and Elder W. Melvin Adams, director of the Department of Public Affairs and Religious Liberty of the General Conference.

On behalf of individuals across the country who may lose their jobs because of their religious convictions, Elder Adams said, "I want to thank Mr. Erlenborn and other members of the House of Representatives for their testimony in support of the bill."

Recognized and unrecognized people were all likely to be physically and spiritually benefited at the Sanitarium. One of the most famous was Mrs. Sarepta Myrenda Irish Henry. S.M.I. Henry's career as evangelist for the Women's Christian Temperance Union had been brilliant, but in the late 1880's she fell ill and by 1895 sank into a wheelchair.

At the Battle Creek Sanitarium Dr. Kellogg replaced her drug medication with hydropathic treatments, and at the end of six weeks told her she had an incurable heart condition. Another "heart condition," that of doctrinal fixation, however, was curable, remedied by studying J. N. Andrews' History of the Sabbath and by accepting S.D.A. Christianity. Then one morning while special prayer was being said for an incurable patient, the thought flashed in Mrs. Henry that "it was my privilege to pray for myself." Pastor A. T. Jones and Father Prescott forthwith joined her. Suddenly "a tide of strength rushed in upon me, I knew that the work was done. . . . I leaped from my chair. . . . I felt strong and free, with a peculiar sense of vigor. . . . I was altogether new." Dr. Kellogg happily told the world: "I found her able to talk freely. . . . no symptoms whatever of any heart disturbance. The pulse is regular and strong, and. . . perfectly normal for a person of 58 years of age."

In the four years of extra life vouchsafed Mrs. Henry (she died in 1900 of pneumonia) she shared wisdom with her newly found brothers and sisters. Through the Review and public lectures she furnished "Studies in Child Culture" and the like, allying with Ellen White whose first six volumes of Testimonies for the Church were half filled with similar topics. Here are a few of the precious metals dug from the Henry Lode:

1) Prenatal and infant care: Have the gospel as a foundation of all things. "A child should never be a surprise nor a regret." Follow the health message.

2) Home influence: "Home is that which can overcome an evil heredity, rather than being overcome by it." The urgent need of the home is "a nearer fatherhood and a larger motherhood."

3) Rights of the child: The child needs early to learn correct ways of thought and practice concerning the property rights of others and to do this, the child needs possessions of his own.

4) Discipline: Expect obedience rather than disobedience. Reward is better than punishment; whipping will never reach the seat of the evil. Parents should understand the motive behind the act and should let the child explain without fear—lying should never be confused with imagination.

5) Spiritual growth: The child comes equipped with faith and love and needs to be taught only to stay with Christ rather than be led to Him. Ministers should remember the children in their sermons.

6) Education: The child should be taught to live by principle rather than emotion, to make decisions on the basis of intelligence rather than feeling. Experience, especially the child's own, is the very best method of teaching. Reading matter is of prime importance, but not books unreal in nature. At times children should read to the parents; however, the child should not become habituated to reading but to thinking.

How invigorating it must have been for that generation of Adventists to learn that these two famous women found the strength of the churches derived from the strength of families!

"How remarkable! What an amazing thing the Lord has done" (Matthew 21:42, The Living Bible).

REACHING PEOPLE

From 67 stations strategically located throughout the Lake Union, The Voice of Prophecy is reaching people.

Several powerful stations with a potential of reaching many of the 32 million people who live within the union are included in the church's radio ministry.

Among wide-area stations carrying the broadcast are WJJD Chicago; WMAQ Chicago; WMIX Mt. Vernon; WDEE Detroit; WHSM Hayward; WKTY La Crosse; WYLO Milwaukee.

From offers of free booklets made on the broadcast and through other avenues, a total of 40,000 new names were added to The Voice of Prophecy mailing list during the first half of this year. Thousands of these were from the Lake Union.

Enrollment cards for the Bible correspondence school are sent with every free booklet. Church members generously distribute enrollment cards to friends and neighbors and at doctors' offices, local fairs, shopping centers and other centers of activity.

As a result, 3,000 people living within the Lake Union graduated last year from a Bible course offered by The Voice of Prophecy. One out of 15 of all Voice of Prophecy graduates in this union joined God's remnant church.

In 1975 successful evangelistic crusades were conducted in Coldwater and Jackson, Michigan.

The broadcast ministry will continue to grow throughout the Lake Union as members demonstrate their concern for proclaiming God's Word by their generous support of The Voice of Prophecy.

the voice of prophecy

Dear broadcast friend in the Lake Union:

From our studios and offices in Glendale, the Voice of Prophecy team wants to express appreciation to you for your faithful support of the broadcast ministry.

Did you know that you actually purchase the air time, pay the salaries and meet the monthly expenses for the quantities of printed and recorded materials that make this broadcast ministry possible?

We can continue to serve here only as long as your support allows us to do so.

Last year gifts by members of the Lake Union during the special October offering and throughout the year brought $80,814 into the operating budget for The Voice of Prophecy.

Besides giving to the broadcast through local church offerings, many Lake Union members joined other listeners who sent their contributions by mail.

Your financial help is vital, but your prayers are just as important, and we solicit them. Only as we accept the Holy Spirit as our constant Counselor can we draw others to Jesus.

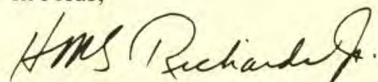

Our most urgent need at The Voice of Prophecy is for more than human wisdom in laying plans for reaching others.

We take courage knowing you're on the Voice of Prophecy team. We appreciate every gift you send to keep the broadcast on the air, every prayer for those who are listening to God's Word.

On October 9, 1976, you can express your belief in the message of hope for this troubled world by your offering for The Voice of Prophecy.

Let's work together to advance the cause of God.

In Jesus,

H. M. S. Richards Jr.

HINSDALE HOSPITAL RECEIVES GIFT FROM JOYCE FOUNDATION

The continuing development program of the Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital has been substantially helped by a major gift of $75,000 from the Joyce Foundation, according to an announcement by L. E. Laurence, administrator of the hospital. This development program is supported by many foundations, corporations and citizens of the community served by the hospital.

Money received is being directed to several special projects at Hinsdale Hospital. All are related to patient care in the hospital's desire to continue to provide excellence in health care delivery systems.

Cortlandt Symonds, president of the hospital's Civic Advisory Board, reports that the Joyce Foundation was founded in 1948 by Beatrice Joyce Kean. Members of the Joyce family owned timberlands, sawmills, and wholesale and retail lumber facilities in the Midwest and Louisiana.

After Beatrice Joyce Kean, the last member of the family, died in December of 1972, the estate sold the family businesses for cash which eventually found its way to the foundation. Most board members, officers and employees of the foundation were associated with these companies for many years.

Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital's continuing development program enables interested citizens, as well as businesses and foundations, to contribute funds so that excellence in health care can continue to be provided for the communities the hospital serves.

AUTHOR AND WIFE VISIT KOKOMO CHURCH

Elder and Mrs.
Ray Holmes

Shirley Holmes gives thanks for the prayers and love of the many people who brought her through the most difficult three years of her life. All through her trying experience she kept thinking "Jesus only" and "all the way for Christ." An additional inspiration to her was the story of Lot's wife—"do not look back."

Her husband, who first fought her conversion bitterly, eventually joined her in her new found faith and authored the book, Stranger in My Home.

Elder Ray Holmes commented, "Now that the anguish is past, Shirley and I look forward to the coming of our Master and Savior, Jesus Christ."

Elder Holmes has since received Master of Theology and Doctor of Ministry degrees from Andrews University. He was formerly an ordained minister in the Lutheran Church where he pastored a congregation of 600 members. Today Elder Holmes pastors the Benton Harbor, Michigan, Seventh-day Adventist Church.

The new cafeteria at Indiana Academy helped start the school year on a cheerful note.

NEW CAFETERIA RAISES MORALE AT INDIANA ACADEMY

A yellow-ribbon-bedecked cafeteria door marked the entrance for about 100 faculty, summer students, and guests the evening of August 10. Once the speeches, prayer and scissor ceremonies were over, people found many different kinds of delicious salads to tempt their palates.

How wonderful it would have been if every Indiana Conference member who has so faithfully contributed to the One Percent Plan for Academy Development could have been there to enjoy it. Our minds were filled with gratitude for the Lord's rich blessings that have made the strong building program for the academy possible.

A special guest for the evening was Elder Vern C. Hoffman, I.A. principal from 1945 to 1948, and his wife. They were pleased to see such a nice facility at a place which meant much to them.

The work area of the air-conditioned cafeteria includes new equipment, stainless steel decks and cooking island, a bakery with a large rotating oven, two freezers, two refrigerators and a large storage room. The floor is of easy-to-clean quarry tile. Trays, dishes and juice dispensers are also included in the new furnishings.

The dining room is furnished with a patterned carpet in avocado, golds, and browns. Light gold draperies are tied back at each window. Walnut-grained formica tables with avocado-colored chairs and wall-hung decorative lights with dimmer switches complete the scene. There were also several special gifts: a baby grand piano from the old conference office, two large baskets of live green plants from the girls' club and three framed oil paintings painted and given by Mrs. Lavon LaPlant. The one most outstanding feature in the lovely atmosphere is the fireplace. It came about through a memorial fund and a gift from the senior class. A plaque there bears this inscription: "By the warm glow of this fireplace, may I.A. students through the years remember that life is precious. In memory of Earl Kitzerow, a member of our class who died May 18, 1974. Class of 1976."

OUTDOOR LAKE IS SCENE FOR PLYMOUTH BAPTISM

Elder R. E. Stutz of the Elkhart District baptized three new members into the Plymouth Church on Sabbath afternoon, August 7. They are Delmae Heinlein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Heinlein, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Barenie. The baptism took place at a beautiful lake located at the Heinlein home northwest of Plymouth.

HANNA STREET CHURCH HOSTS LADIES CHOIR

It was a big day in Fort Wayne when the Hanna Street Church was host to more than 60 members of the Burns Avenue Church of Detroit, Michigan.

Visitors also came from the Fort Wayne area, the Pioneer Memorial Church at Andrews University, and the Marion and Muncie churches of Indiana. The occasion was a musical given by the Burns Avenue Ladies Chorus, directed by Alice Strawbridge.

The proceeds of the program went toward the new choir robes purchased by the Hanna Street Youth Choir.

FIRST SENIOR ACADEMY STUDENTS GRADUATED FROM FRANK L. PETERSON

The date was Sunday, June 6, 1976. The occasion—a commencement exercise. Nothing extraordinary to the casual onlooker, just another graduation. But to the aware, keen-eyed spectator something more was observed. The eighth-grade graduates were radiant in their blue and white; the seniors were resplendent in their shades of green.

Parents were aglow and rightfully proud of their task well done. Faculty and administration alike were also enthusiastic because this was the first graduation exercise in the long-awaited gymnasium. Also Frank L. Peterson School was graduating its first class of seniors as a full-fledged senior academy.

The commencement address was ably rendered by Conference President J. R. Wagner. He challenged the seniors to match the mountains they will be sure to meet in life. Parents, teachers and all concerned were also challenged to meet the mountain of securing Christian education for all of our children.

Elder Reginald Barnes, superintendent of education; Nathaniel Higgs, principal; Elder Eric S. Dille, pastor; Ollie Jefferson, school board chairman; and Inez Shelton, eighth-grade teacher, gave remarks and presented diplomas and certificates to the graduates.

Special recognition was paid to John B. Brown, valedictorian, and Donna L. Phipps, salutatorian, of the senior class.

The motto chosen by the seniors, "Forward With Christ in Our Career," is definitely one we at Frank L. Peterson want to match as we continue our career of providing quality Christian education.

STATE FEDERATION OFFICERS HONORED

Awards for faithful service were presented during the Community Services rally at camp meeting to the retiring State Federation officers. Edna Garrison and Elder W. M. Buckman examine the special plaque presented to her for ten years of service while Cindy Jablonski receives her five-year service plaque from Elder Charles Keymer.

CONFERENCE PERSONNEL CHANGES

At the August meeting of the Conference Executive Committee the following changes in personnel assignments were made.

Elder Clarence Larsen, who has been serving as pastor of the Midland Church and the superintendent for that district, has been assigned to the Jackson Church. Because of the exceptional work he did this year as camp meeting superintendent it was also voted to name him the general superintendent of the Grand Ledge campgrounds with Harold Stout serving as manager. In addition, Elder Stuart Snyder of South Haven has been asked to pastor the Holt Church and to serve as assistant manager of the campgrounds.

Since the duties of the campground management require year-round attention, it was decided to free Elder Larsen of the duties of supervising the Jackson District. The responsibility for churches in District 11 have been divided between Districts 10 and 12 under the guidance of Elders Melvin Clemons and Bruce Babienco.

Two changes have been made which affect the Battle Creek Tabernacle. Don Eckenroth, pastor of the Cedar Lake Church, has been asked to fill the position of associate pastor. He replaces Elder LaRue Cook who recently joined the Trust Services department of the conference.

Don Williams, assistant pastor of the Tabernacle, is now in charge of the Mount Pleasant and Clare churches. This opening came when Elder William Brown accepted the call to the Sault Ste. Marie and Newberry congregations.

The members of the Lawrence Church will be enjoying the help of Elder Tom Ludowici at least through March of 1977. He will be giving this assistance to the church while concluding his studies for a doctorate at Andrews University. Another Seminary student, Colin Rampton, has been assigned to help the Troy Church. This will be a full-time duty until next May when he will return to the Seminary to continue his formal training.

Carl Riebow of Cadillac who has served as a literature evangelist leader, has accepted the invitation to be the conference builder, effective September 1. Before entering church work Riebow was involved in construction, and his background will be of great value to the conference in its needs for constructing new parsonages and other buildings.

RALPH VERLEYS CELEBRATE 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Verley of the Iron Mountain Church celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on June 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Grenfell, who attended the couple at their wedding, were present for the occasion.

A resume of their life, several musical selections and a token gift were presented.

Verley was employed by the Ford Motor Company for 20 years, self employed for a while and then moved to Grand Ledge where he managed the Craft Shop. He retired from that position five years ago, and they moved back to their home in Quinnesec.

JACKSON LAYMEN CONDUCT 5-DAY PLAN TO STOP SMOKING

A Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking was conducted in the Jackson Community Services Center by laymen of the Jackson Church assisted by O. S. Erhard, M.D., of Eaton Rapids, guest for the first program. Dan Erhard, D.D.S.; Jean Bermingham, R.N.; Pauline Hoag, R.N.; and Marvin Spilovoy, X-ray technician, took the medical part of the remaining evenings. Laymen who led out in the psychological part were Kent Bermingham, Welton Ingram, Brian Strayer, Rex Waters and Robert Marsh. Wayne Hyde, church temperance secretary, was the coordinator. Other laypersons took care of other necessary details.

BROWNS CELEBRATE 50TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Brown recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Friends attended a reception held in their honor in the Monona Civic Building. The Browns have lived in Madison 36 years. Mrs. Brown taught church school for 14 years and was elementary superintendent for the Wisconsin Conference from 1957 to 1972. She has taught nature classes at summer youth camps for 36 years. The Browns built a new nature center at Camp Wahdoon, donating a large part of the finances. Mr. Brown has built several buildings for the Wisconsin Conference. He is currently circulation manager for the Wisconsin Audubon Society to which he and his wife have belonged for 25 years.

The Rice Lake Seventh-day Adventist Church was recently dedicated free of debt.

RICE LAKE CHURCH DEDICATED

Members of the Rice Lake Church had a mortgage-burning ceremony and formal dedication of their church after ten years of struggle to pay off the debt. Happily the congregation watched as Harold and Miles Johnston held up the mortgage and touched a match to it.

Elder Robert Dale, president of the Wisconsin Conference, and Elder Warren Dick, conference treasurer, led the congregation in formal dedication services. The service included the ordination of two elders and a deacon and the baptism of seven persons. Elder Dave Masterjohn, former pastor of the church, preached the morning sermon.

The history of the Rice Lake Church begins in 1951 when a Sabbath School was organized at the Clarence Mattson home. In 1952 a small church building was purchased from the Church of the Brethren. There were 33 charter members when the church was formally organized.

The membership grew rapidly, and in 1966 land was purchased for a new building. By October 7, 1967, the congregation moved into the present building and held open house for the community. At the time of the dedication there were 120 members. It is heartening to see God's work growing in this important community.

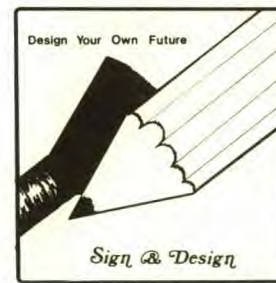

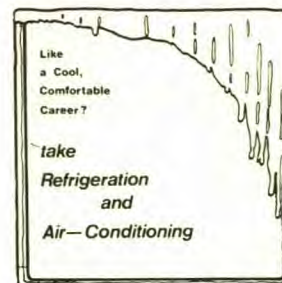

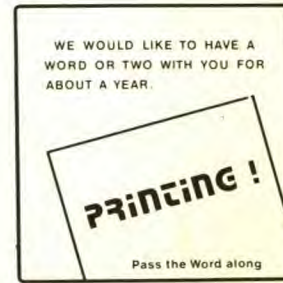

NEW CHURCH SCHOOL IN SHEBOYGAN

After years of waiting the Sheboygan Church will have a church school beginning this fall. Frank Ahlers will be the teacher, and the members are very enthusiastically supporting the new project.

Sheboygan is a progressive city on the shore of Lake Michigan. Many employment opportunities exist there. The church members hope that many S.D.A.'s elsewhere, who have employment problems, will consider the opportunities Sheboygan has to offer.

Wilson McAlpine would be happy to correspond with anyone interested in the Sheboygan area. His phone number is (414) 285-3570 and his address is Route 1, Box 60, Belgium, WI 53004.

RELIGIOUS RITE IMPORTANT

Scholastic Magazine's survey of teenagers has found an 86 percent majority affirming that a religious ceremony is important to a marriage. That figure breaks down to 43 percent agreeing that a religious ceremony is very important and an equal percentage stating that it is fairly important. Only 14 percent thought it was not important. One respondent differed conservatively from her mother. Seventeen-year-old Cheryl Birch said her mother favors changing "till death do us part" to "until love no longer endures." Cheryl's reaction: "Too many people are trying to change the words and make them perfect...so they don't get overly trapped. Maybe they should really be making sure of what they're doing before they get into a marriage."

A POPE FOR ALL CHRISTIANS?

Seven Protestant, Orthodox, and Roman Catholic theologians have written a book envisioning the possibility of a reunion of Christian churches that would acknowledge the Pope as its chief leader. Believed to be the first volume in which representatives of more than two Christian denominations offered an opinion on papal authority, A Pope for All Christians? was published by the Paulist Press in Paramus, New Jersey. The six non-Catholic contributors who believe their churches could accept the papacy in a modified form include a Lutheran, Presbyterian, Methodist, Episcopalian, and an Orthodox priest.

A.U. OFFERS WIDE VARIETY OF STUDENT EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

A bindery employee puts a new cover on a well-worn Bible. A sander smooths the surface of a bedroom dresser. A flight instructor trains a novice pilot in a small plane. What is the common purpose of each employee? He is earning funds at Andrews University to meet the cost of Christian education.

These students may seem to hold unusual campus jobs, but theirs are just part of the wide spectrum of employment made available to students at A.U.

In fact last year 1,500 student workers were employed in such varied endeavors as lab assistant and snow shoveler, dorm adviser and plumber. In these jobs from A to Z they earned a total of more than $1 million.

All this goes a long way toward reducing the cost of Christian education. That is exactly what the university has in mind when it hires such a large percentage of the student body.

"Our major reason for existence is to provide student labor opportunities," explains Garth Christoffel, manager of College Wood Products (CWP). Part of the auxiliary enterprises of the university, CWP is one of the largest employers with more than 130 student workers.

Paul Price of Marion, Indiana, a former student missionary, works 20 hours a week at CWP to earn a large part of his tuition. Mervyn Joseph, a native of Trinidad-Tobago, is studying for a master's degree in music with the intention of teaching in his homeland. During his stay at Andrews he has earned about three-fourths of his school expenses at CWP.

While these students are producing furniture for community sales, others employed in the auxiliary enterprises gain profitable experience in such places as the bookstore, bindery, laundry, dairy and farm. At the press students help conduct an operation with a capacity to do a million dollars' business annually.

Many students each year are employed in the more usual campus positions of reader, janitor, lab assistant and monitor. A large group prepares, serves and cleans up after meals in the food service department. "Macaroni and cheese?" "Cabbage?" the servers inquire as hungry students pass through line. Their pleasant smiles do not reflect the fact that they have dished up dozens of servings since supper began. Not far away, the dish crew begins the monumental task of washing the 600 or more plates which, if placed in one stack, would make a column at least 36 feet high.

Engaged in a different form of food service are the student workers at the Apple Valley Market complex. Some of them stack the shelves and load groceries for customers. Others prepare loaves of sprouted wheat, rye, and other breads for the ovens.

The airport with its flight school and airplane-sales operation, is located near the campus. The students employed there are professionals as well, teaching would-be pilots.

Tom Roy, junior business major, teaches flying and sells aircraft at the Andrews University Airport. Tom's love of flying began when he was 3 years old, but it blossomed while attending A.U. "I have an opportunity to fly, so I have decided to make it a second profession," he says. Tom now holds a commercial pilot's license as well as Certified Flight Instructor status.

These employment opportunities are just some of those available to the A.U. student desiring work. The most important qualification for one seeking a campus job, according to Dan Dorchuck, acting manager of College Student Finance and Labor, is a willing attitude. Important also, he continues, are character, prior work record and finances.

Students who have acquired skills through previous jobs or schooling are often in demand on campus. Especially useful, says Dorchuck, are secretarial skills such as typing, Carpentry, masonry and machinist skills are also useful.

"A student who is willing to work 12 to 15 hours each week can expect to earn $250 to $300 per quarter," says Dorchuck. If the student also works during the summer he could earn up to $1,600.

Carpenter, baker, pilot, secretary, technician—these are not only careers for which one can train at A.U., but they are also campus employment opportunities. In a multitude of ways and with an assortment of skills, one can help meet the financial obligations of obtaining a Christian higher education.
