COVER

As a result of recent General Conference action, Adventist missionary journals are now available in a new format and in new areas; and the publishing houses have a new theme for their magazine outreach—"together in service." See page 6 for more information.

Our God is preeminently anxious to clearly and completely communicate His message of measureless love, complete forgiveness and rescue from this rebellious planet.

Thus, He is a multimedia communicator.

He has communicated to mankind through personal visits, prophets, the Holy Spirit, angels, Scripture, nature.

His clearest, most concise communication of all time, of course, was Jesus Christ, the Word. In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full grace and truth. John 1:1,14.

The urgency of God to entirely enlighten lost mankind with His plans to save them led Him to use yet other mediums.

He used a sling and a stone to communicate to the Philistine army.

He used the Urim and the Thummim and the fiery serpents to communicate to the children of Israel.

He used the sheep's fleece to communicate to Gideon.

He used lightening and fire to communicate to Jezebel and the prophets of Baal.

He used a donkey to communicate to Balaam.

He used a rooster to communicate to Peter.

He used a burning bush to communicate to Moses.

Moses stood shaking as God spoke from that flaming bush. God assured him that He knew of the pitiful plight of His people in Egypt—their need of rescue. God then told Moses that He was to be His spokesman.

"But I'm not the person for a job like that!" Moses exclaimed.

Then God told him, "I will certainly be with you."

But Moses pleaded, "O Lord, I'm just not a good speaker. I never have been, and I'm not now. . . for I have a speech impediment."

"Who makes mouths?" Jehovah asked him. "Isn't it I, the Lord? Who makes a man so that he can speak or not speak, see or not see, hear or not hear?"

"Now go ahead and do as I tell you, for I will help you to speak well, and I will tell you what to say." Exodus 3:11, 12; 4:10, 12, The Living Bible.

Today, God has chosen US to be His spokesmen to a world in desperate need of salvation. Yet our humanity shrinks back in fear—"But I'm not the one!"

Remember the sling and the stone?

The sheep's fleece?

The donkey?

The speech impediment?

Our God is a multimedia communicator. He can even use YOU and ME. And His challenge also brings assurance—"I will be with you."

'What I want to be doing when Jesus comes'

by Laura Hartmann

"Leona, if something happens to me, always stay in the literature work as long as you are able." These words were spoken to Leona Jaecks by her husband, Lawrence, shortly before he died. Now, six years later, Leona Jaecks is still following that counsel and is one of the very successful literature evangelists in the Wisconsin Conference.

In 1944 Leona and Lawrence were invited to attend an evangelistic meeting. Leona's brother had been attending and he wanted them to hear the messages. They went every evening and at the end of the series were baptized and joined the Seventh-day Adventist Church with their two children, Leonard and Virginia.

In 1964 Lawrence and Leona were on their way to Michigan to demonstrate the fruit and vegetable juicer Lawrence was selling at that time. Their son, Leonard, who was a minister, suggested they stop at the Wisconsin Conference office and have a chat with Elder G. Hixon, the publishing director.

After this meeting Lawrence and Leona were both convinced that they should be selling denominational literature, so they entered the literature ministry as a team.

Leona Jaecks

Laura Hartmann is secretary to the communication director—and five other people—at the Wisconsin Conference office.

Lawrence, who had been involved in sales work for many years, was a natural at meeting people and selling. This was not the case for Leona. She had always been a timid person, didn't enjoy speaking in public, and would rather stay in the background. Yet with her husband's help and many prayers, she soon took an equal part in presenting the canvass to the people they visited.

The years have been filled with wonderful experiences. One day Leona left five units of books in the home of some non-Protestant grandparents. The amount of the sale was $1,249.50. The grandmother walked to the car with Leona and remarked, "I only want to have good books in my families' homes."

Success for a literature evangelist can be measured in two ways: dollars, and number of contacts. In both areas Leona has had great success. Since 1973 her sales have amounted to more than $106,000.

The most important part of being a literature evangelist, however, is not the dollar goal. Leona's main concern is to find people who are searching for a better way of life. Through her ministry 39 people have been baptized.

Leona attributes her success to dedicated hard work and prayer. If she feels a special need for prayer, she calls her son, Leonard, pastor of the Redlands, California, Church, and his family, or her daughter, Virginia Nephew, whose husband is a pastor in the Michigan Conference, and their family. It is always a joy for her to call back and tell how the Lord has answered their prayers. One of the greatest blessings that Mrs. Jaecks has to be thankful for is that both her children are serving in denominational work.

Working as a literature evangelist is not the only way Leona has given her service. For many years she has served as treasurer of the Wausau Church.

Many people think of retiring and taking it easy when they reach Leona's age—but not Leona. She continues to put in full days. To keep herself in the best possible condition she rides a bike many miles each week. "As long as I have my health, I am going to continue to sell books and that's what I want to be doing when Jesus comes."

Leona says to all church members, "If we knew how short a time we have on this earth and could know how short a time other people have, then we would be more dedicated to finishing God's work in whatever way we can."

Right, Evangelist Robert C. Connor has conducted several campaigns in the Lake Union. The most recent one was in Benton Harbor, Michigan, where 101 people were baptized.

Seedtime and Harvest

by Lowell L. Bock

As a boy reared on a western farm, I learned some of life's most important lessons from nature. With each new spring and the summer, my father plowed the fields, sowed the seed and cultivated the tender plants.

These necessary initial steps completed, the big excitement came when the time of harvest approached. The reaping equipment was wheeled out and readied for action. All else, though important, was prologue. To fail to take in the harvest was to fail utterly.

Is it possible that a farmer so enjoys the functions of seed sowing, watering and cultivating that the harvest becomes only incidental? Not likely, if he is a reasonable man and interested in survival.

Conversely, he would not concentrate on the harvest while neglecting the earlier steps. Each action is dependent upon the other.

To faithfully follow this lesson from nature in the pursuit of earthly and eternal values is to enjoy fulfillment of the promise, "while the earth lasts seedtime and harvest . . . shall never cease." Genesis 8:22, New English Bible.

In the Lake Union Conference we have been emphasizing the plowing, sowing and cultivating, but not without plans to receive an abundant harvest.

Two years ago the executive committee voted approval for the employment of five full-time evangelists to assist pastors and laymen in reaping the harvest sown by them.

To date we feel very fortunate indeed to have secured four men who are now working in this capacity. Plans call for the assignment of one evangelist to each of the local conferences for a full year. In addition, the local conferences are also employing evangelists and soul-winning coordinators so that with the blessing of God a full harvest will be assured.

Robert Connor joined the union staff in October 1977. He has held six major evangelistic campaigns in the Lake Region churches since that date. A total of 612 people have been baptized as the result of these meetings held by Elder Connor and the other members of the evangelistic team furnished by Lake Region Conference.

Elder C. D. Joseph, Lake Region Conference president, is confident that 1979 will be even a greater year for reaping as the members, pastors and evangelists work closely together in seed sowing, cultivating and harvesting.

Lester Carney has been appointed as the coordinator of evangelism in the Indiana Conference. The Lake Union is helping with his salary and expenses in lieu of a full-time evangelist.

Elder Carney is an experienced evangelist himself, and will be holding meetings in Andersen, South Bend and Noblesville, besides helping the pastors hold their own meetings.

Elder Larry Cansler has been called by Indiana to conduct reaping meetings.

Efrain Murillo, a Spanish-speaking evangelist, has pioneered evangelism with Spanish people in the Lake Union, holding meetings in Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan. The church membership was doubled in Milwaukee where Pastor Cesar Puesan and Elder Murillo worked together. He also helped start a new Spanish church in Racine, Wisconsin. In 1979 Elder Murillo will be holding two public meetings in Wisconsin.

Jim Cress is the latest addition to our evangelistic staff. His first series in the Lake Union was held in Chicago's North Shore Church where 101 people were baptized.

This marked a new day for evangelism in Chicago. During the meetings at North Shore, 650 non-Adventists came to hear one or more lectures. The other pastors who came to help with the visitation were overjoyed to see the way God was working through the meetings.

The Illinois Conference has assigned Pastor and Mrs. Douglas Higgins to assist Elder and Mrs. Cress, and in 1979, four major series are scheduled—Downers Grove (now in progress), Decatur, Elmhurst, and West Central.

Elders Mark Finley and Don Gray are also scheduled for meetings in Illinois later in 1979 to further help Illinois' ambitious evangelistic program.

Elsewhere in the union territories, Elders Robert Carter, Don Copsey and Wayne Shepperd, men from the union office, will be conducting evangelistic campaigns.

A special Pastors Evangelistic Seminar was held February 4 to 8 in Benton Harbor, Michigan. Elders Wiggins, Finley, Cress, Connor, Murillo and Gray served as instructors as 100 pastors gathered to study plans to hold their own meetings or to better assist in the meetings scheduled for their churches.

The seminar proved to be a renewing experience for each person who attended, with a commitment to work for a rich harvest of souls.

In looking to the future and the need for updated evangelistic tools, Richard Dower has been released from a good share of his responsibility as managing editor of the Lake Union Herald so that he and Elder Gray can work together to develop a multimedia presentation of the message.

The plan calls for 25 full-message multimedia presentations to be used by ministers and laymen in sharing the Good News of Salvation.

This is just another step in what we believe is a bold move forward in the Lake Union Conference. We want to leave nothing undone that needs to be done to reach every person living in our territory.

We have saved the most exciting development for next week's report. It involves a new training center in the Chicago area which follows the model developed many years ago by Ellen White for New York City.

You will not want to miss this next step in our BOLD MOVE FORWARD.

Lowell Bock is the president of the Lake Union Conference. This is the third of a series of articles in the Herald telling the exciting story of how God is revealing plans for a bold move forward to finish His work in the Lake Union.

ADVENTIST MISSIONARY JOURNALS HAVE

Something New!

A very bold change—and a very great improvement—has been made in church missionary journals for the coming year.

Friends of These Times will be happy to know that their favorite journal will be available in all Adventist churches in both the East and West for the first time in a quarter century.

Signs of the Times, likewise, will no longer be restricted to the West but will be offered nationwide in all Adventist churches.

And Message will be offered to all congregations, too, not just to the Black ones.

Along with these three great English-language journals, the ethnic missionary periodicals—El Centinela (Spanish), Oznake (Ukrainian), La Sentinelle (French), Sinais (Portuguese) and Israelite (for Jewish friends)—will be promoted in one eight-journal package.

This new plan has met with favor wherever it has been presented. The missionary journals will be offered in all churches together, so that church members everywhere may select the journals they feel will be most effective in converting their friends and relatives.

But this is not all that will be new and better this year.

These Times, winner of many awards, will continue to have 36 pages, and the price will be $4.50 a year, with special rates for clubs.

Signs of the Times will be dramatically improved to meet a very special need. For many years a concerned plea has been heard in churches coast to coast for a missionary magazine designed for discriminating readers, yet priced for mass distribution.

Pacific Press has stepped forward in faith to meet this need by purchasing a brand-new, four-color web press on which to print this full-color Signs.

The price of Signs has been reduced to just $2.75 (and even less than that for clubs). Unbelievable, but true, to help you send the message about Jesus to millions of homes.

The new Signs will be the only missionary journal with 16 pages in full-color. And the editor has promised to make the articles shorter for quicker reading.

This great new missionary-journal concept was requested long ago by the new General Conference President Neal Wilson, and has been urged by the presidents of all the union conferences. The new Signs has been nine years in planning and development.

All of the missionary journals proclaim the love of God. All offer forgiveness through Christ, all announce the imminent return of the Saviour. All of them uphold Jesus on every page. And all are designed to appeal to the secular mind in these materialistic times. Now, for the first time, you can choose the ones which will best meet the needs of each person on your prayer list.

It was the glorious vision of Ellen White that literature might be "scattered like the leaves of autumn." And the angels John saw were carrying the truth about our gracious God to "every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people."

God's message for the millions. What a goal! How important that it be fulfilled now!

Today, with the new 8-in-1 package and all-church promotion, the long-hoped-for dream can be fulfilled at last.

Adventist missionary journals in a million homes! Let's pray that we will reach that goal and pass it this year.

ANDREWS TO OFFER M.A.T. PROGRAM ON C.U.C. CAMPUS

Beginning this summer, Andrews University will offer a Master of Arts in teaching on the campus of Columbia Union College, according to Dr. Robert A. Williams, dean of Andrews School of Graduate Studies.

Dr. Williams and Dr. Robert Moon, director of the M.A.T. program at Andrews, are planning the curriculum which will take four summers to complete.

Another master's program will be offered at Atlantic Union College next year. Dr. Williams anticipates the possibility of having similar programs on other campuses in the future.

Andrews University will provide the teachers for the program. If any C.U.C. teachers are used, Dr. Williams said, they will be hired by Andrews as visiting teachers.

HONORS SYMPOSIUM STRESSES CHRISTIAN VALUES

The Society of Andrews Scholars annual honors symposium on February 28 addressed the theme of "Values: A Christian Perspective."

Dr. Roger Hatch, instructor of religion and ethics at Central Michigan University, talked about the moral implications of euthanasia.

Dr. Cedric Ward drew lessons from studying values of people in past ages, showing history as the result of individual choice. Dr. Ward is associate professor of history at Andrews.

Dr. George H. Akers, professor of religious education at Andrews, dealt with incorporating values into the school, the home and the church.

The impact of science and technology on human values was discussed by Dr. W. W. Davidson, dean of Andrews' College of Technology.

Since every invention has the potential for good and bad uses, said Dr. Davidson, the ethical issue is not whether technology is right or wrong, but how it is used.

More than 50 Andrews Scholars attended the symposium, as well as honors students from Carthage College, Central Michigan University and Western Michigan University.

Andrews students who maintain a grade-point average of at least 3.25 are eligible for membership in the Society of Andrews Scholars. Dr. Merlene Ogden, assistant dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, is director of the honors program.

Dr. Samuele Bacchiocchi, left, and Dr. James Wesberry, executive director of the Lord's Day Alliance.

BACCHIOCCHI ADDRESSES LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE

Dr. Samuele Bacchiocchi, associate professor of religion, addressed a group of about 100 ministers at the annual meeting of the board of managers of the Lord's Day Alliance in Atlanta, Georgia, February 14. The ministers represented about 30 denominations.

Dr. Bacchiocchi was asked to share a synthesis of his research on the origin of Sunday observance in early Christianity and to outline ways to make Sabbath keeping an enriching experience for Christians today.

Several people in the audience expressed an interest in re-examining the Sabbath question.

ANDREWS EXPLORES MARKET FOR ADVENTIST M.S.W.

The social work department at Andrews University is scouting for people interested in its proposed master's program, according to Dr. Reger C. Smith, department chairman.

Andrews presently offers a bachelor's degree in social work which has been approved by the Council for Social Work Education, and plans call for the master's program to begin operation in the near future.

"We need to identify the market for a Master of Social Work degree within the denomination," says Dr. Smith. "If the response is encouraging, we hope to move ahead right away."

Many Adventists in the United States and Canada are presently in social work, says Dr. Smith, and he feels the time is right to offer them an opportunity to advance their education on an Adventist campus.

FOOD SERVICE WORKSHOP SCHEDULED FOR JULY

The 1979 Food Service Workshop at Andrews University will be held July 8 to 26, according to Dr. Fonda L. Chaffee, chairman of Andrews' home economics department.

This year's program will present such subjects as principles of food preparation, purchasing and service. Lectures and demonstrations also cover nutrition, modified diets, menu planning and special functions.

Laboratory activities in food preparation will take place in the university's food service facilities and other related institutions, says Dr. Chaffee.

Individuals employed or planning to be employed in food service production for schools, hospitals, extended care facilities and other institutions may apply to attend the workshop. It may also be taken as a refresher course.

The program is particularly applicable to food service supervisors, but also applies to bakers, cooks and salad preparers.

The course leads to a certificate from Andrews University and eligibility for membership in the Hospital, Institution and Educational Food Service Society sponsored by the American Dietetic Association.

The completion of two summer workshops and nine months of in-service training in the participant's own institution qualifies him for membership.

People attending the workshop can earn four quarter hours of college credit each summer session, provided they meet requirements for college entrance and apply through the workshop director.

If you are interested, write to Dr. Fonda L. Chaffee, Department of Home Economics, Andrews University, Berrien Springs, MI 49104.

TRI-COUNTY HOSPITAL CORPORATION MEETS

EDMORE, MICHIGAN—The Tri-County Community Hospital (T.C.C.H.) held its annual corporation meeting on Monday, February 19, at 7:30 P.M. The following people were elected to the T.C.C.H. Board of Directors: Robert Bishop, Edmore; Michael Bildner, Edmore; Ashok Sonnad, M.D., chief of staff at T.C.C.H.; and Irwin Hansen and Lawrence Schalk of Great Lakes Adventist Health Services, Inc., who were appointed last October to fill the unexpired terms of Merton Hicks and Beatrice Doser. Helen Sack was re-elected.

Retiring from the board were Myron Becker, M.D.; John VanCoevering, and Carlton Diehm. The corporation wishes to express their appreciation to these men for their many years of faithful service.

PASTORAL CARE EXTENDS SERVICES

HINSDALE—The department of pastoral care at Hinsdale Hospital recently initiated a program which allows one member of the staff to be available in radiation therapy 2½ hours each Friday to provide support to patients and their families who are suffering from the trauma of cancer treatment.

Lucille Maxian, chief technologist in radiation therapy, approached Willis Graves, chaplain at Hinsdale Hospital, with the idea after seeing the success of a similar program at Loyola University Hospital.

A meeting with Drs. Feinstein and Fischer, hospital based radiologists, culminated with their support. Physicians and departmental personnel were aware of the need for someone to visit with these people, yet they recognized the time limitations imposed by a busy schedule for treatment.

According to Elder Graves, those chaplains who have completed their rotation in radiation therapy report a positive reaction from relatives and patients. They also note that their conversation often serves to encourage a feeling of rapport among those in the waiting area who may be going through similar difficult experiences.

Mrs. Maxian states that "By giving patients an opportunity to vent their feelings prior to treatment, the chaplains are contributing to the healing process."

Chaplain Marty Feldbush reflects upon his time in the department of radiation therapy:

"While talking with a patient or family member in the waiting room, I have seen other waiting patients join in the conversation. It is a joy to see these people then begin talking, deriving mutual support from their sharing of experiences. It is a privilege to be the catalyst that helps two other hurting people find support and caring in their relationship.

"One of the women I spoke with the first day I was in radiation therapy freely shared with me her husband's story—when he contracted cancer, the history of his radiation treatments, his and her fears of the disease and hopes for the future. I simply listened and provided a supportive presence. She said, 'I think it's wonderful that you folks are doing this now.'

"Availability is a key word in our radiation therapy ministry. The patients and their friends and family members are receptive to the availability of a chaplain whose presence represents a caring God."

As part of the seminar a vegetarian meal was served to the participants. After the meal Nellie Vandeman discussed the menu and Doctors Ray Smith and Harold Hebard gave additional information about the virtues of a vegetarian diet.

The seminars continue in the surrounding areas close to Fort Wayne and Indianapolis with local pastors serving as instructors.

Pastor Randall Murphy and the girls quintet from the elementary school took part in the victory celebration.

23RD INGATHERING VICTORY

The Cicero Ingathering Victory Banquet was held in the Indiana Academy cafeteria on February 4, 1979.

"This just had to be the greatest!" was the way Pastor Randall Murphy described the 23rd consecutive victory. With the cooperation of all segments of the church including the elementary school, the academy and community, the goal—with an overflow of $1,000—was reached in just six nights.

All three churches in Pastor Murphy's district were Vanguard churches. Their significant contribution helped the Indiana Conference become the first Vanguard conference in North America in 1978.

NEWS NOTES

- Students in Michigan's S.D.A. elementary schools will participate in Investiture programs during April and May. Lester Rilea and Merrill Fleming, conference youth directors, will each participate in 30 programs.

- The religious liberty department reports that funds received in January for Liberty magazine increased more than 100% over last year's offering. In 1978 the churches raised $13,647, while this year's total for January was $30,291.

- Gladwin and West Branch members are currently looking for a parcel of land as a possible location for a church school. They currently have a student potential of about 15.

- The pastor of the Bad Axe Mennonite Church has requested a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking for his church. Dr. Edward Elmondorf of Vassar is joining William Hafner, local Adventist pastor, in conducting the stop-smoking clinic.

- The Bay City Church is planning to build a new community services center on church property. They hope to complete the building this year.

- The Vassar Church is sponsoring story hour at the church in Unionville. In May they plan to begin a regular Sabbath School and worship service. Vassar members living in the Unionville area will be the nucleus for this new group.

- Saginaw church members voted in January to proceed with phase two of their building program—the construction of the sanctuary complex—as soon as weather permits. Projected cost for this phase is $125,000. Completion is planned for the summer of 1980.

- A Pathfinder club for youth of the Mendon, Sturgis and Three Rivers areas has been formed with the leadership of Leonard DeYoung.

TRAINING COURSE FOR YOUTH MINISTRY SCHEDULED

A youth ministry training course is scheduled to be held in the Ithaca Church the weekend of March 23.

The course is designed to develop local church youth leaders. It also fulfills a major requirement for becoming a Master Guide. Don Williams Jr., a new associate in the conference youth department, will teach the course.

The meetings will begin Friday evening at 7 and continue at 9:30 Sabbath morning. A potluck dinner is planned and supper will also be provided. There will be a charge of $2.50 for the training manual.

For further information, contact the conference youth department.

FARWELL PARTY FOR LONGTIME MEMBER

Eighty years of attending the Mesick Church ended last fall when Emma Paul, 83, moved to the state of Washington to live with a niece. She was faithful in attending church services and activities and camp meeting each year, and remembered hundreds of her friends with an annual birthday card. Many contained a snapshot of special interest, for Emma has been a "shutterbug" for some time. She is shown with her niece, Joyce Brown of Cheney, Washington, at the farewell potluck dinner.

CAMP AU SABLE IS GREAT SUMMER OR WINTER

Neither snow nor low temperatures prevent some Adventists from mid-winter camping at Au Sable.

On a recent weekend three different groups enjoyed the 840-acre facility. The hardy Gaylord-Grayling Pathfinders camped in the open fort area, students from Andrews University occupied the main facilities, and the Lansing Pathfinders were housed at Cedar Village.

Sabbath brought relaxed fellowship and ample time for enjoying the nature center and bird watching. Some enjoyed chasing field mice through the snow.

The rest of the time was spent enjoying winter sports at the camp and nearby ski slopes.

Michigan Adventists are invited to relax and worship the Creator year-round at Au Sable. Those who haven't enjoyed such an experience should plan to do so. Write to the Michigan Conference youth department.

AUC's Adult Degree Program Has Unique Advantages:

1. You can get college credit for experiential learning.
2. You can study in areas not included in conventional courses.
For example, you might structure a unit's work around the work you are currently doing, or around travel plans.
3. You do not work in isolation, as in correspondence school programs.
You have a study supervisor whom you know well, and who is always within reach of your telephone, willing to give you any help you need.

The Areas You Can Get a Degree In:

An accredited B.A. or B.S. is possible in most areas of college study. Among the many degrees already granted in the ADP have been majors in the following areas: Behavioral Science, Elementary Education, Religion, Theology, Business Administration, Health Science, English, Mathematics, Interior Design, Humanities, Art Education, and others.

The Seminar Experience:

The Seminar, a two-week session at the beginning of each unit's work, gives you an intense group experience. Mini-courses, presentations by students finishing units, library work, the preparing of a proposal and getting started on the unit's work are all part of the two-week program. The Seminar experience, say students in the program, carries them through the months of working in a more individual way off-campus.

Requirements:

8 units required for graduation; a unit equals one semester's work. Students must be 25 or over. Some previous college work is desirable, though exceptions are sometimes made.

MANY RELIGIOUS AGENCIES CONDEMN I.R.S. PROPOSAL

Still not good enough. That's what many religious organizations are saying about proposed Internal Revenue Service regulations directed at private schools. Under heavy criticism, the I.R.S. has already revised the proposal. But at public hearings before a congressional subcommittee, representatives of religious organizations said the proposed measures still entangle government with religion in the case of parochial schools.

None who testified were in opposition with the stated aim of the I.R.S.—to end racial discrimination in private schools. But they don't want the I.R.S. examining Christian schools. Among those who testified was Charles Hirsch, executive secretary of Seventh-day Adventists' K-12 schools. He summed up the feelings of many by saying, "With its threat of removing tax exemption, the I.R.S. is not only attempting to have a voice in the admissions policy of private schools, but is actually interfering in the affairs of the church."

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY SPOKESMAN OPPOSES CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

In the wake of Proposition 13, there has been a vigorous drive to rewrite the U.S. Constitution to mandate a balanced federal budget. Already, 27 state legislatures have called for a constitutional convention. Only seven more are needed before Congress must convene such a gathering. Church-state authority Melvin Adams says the risk of tampering with the constitution is too great to warrant a convention. Many experts doubt whether a convention could be limited to a single topic. Therefore, Elder Adams opposes the idea. As director of public affairs and religious liberty for the Seventh-day Adventist Church, Elder Adams fears that changes in the constitution might weaken provisions for religious liberty.

JUDGE RULES IN FAVOR OF ACCOMMODATION

A Federal District Court in Portland, Oregon, has ruled that labor unions and employers should include provisions for accommodating religious convictions in collective-bargaining agreements.

The case involved a Seventh-day Adventist truck driver who decided that he could no longer conscientiously be a member of the Teamsters Union. Upon demand of the union, he was fired for nonpayment of dues, even though he had offered to pay the equivalent of dues to a nonreligious charity.

The court found that his proposal would have been a reasonable accommodation under Title Seven of the Civil Rights Act. This is the third recent case where a Federal Court has handed down a decision favorable to the charity-substitute method of accommodating religious objections to financial support of labor unions.

BILL WOULD PROTECT SABBATARIANS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Legislation has been introduced in the Pennsylvania Senate that would prohibit discrimination in employment of private employees because of their observance of the Sabbath or holy days. The bill would amend the Pennsylvania Human Relations Act by making discrimination unlawful and by providing that employees must be given time off to observe their religious days.

PEACE CHURCHES: TO PAY TAXES OR NOT?

The 400,000 members of historic American "peace churches" have been challenged to renew their witness with radical acts, including civil disobedience and tax resistance. In a statement issued at the end of a national conference, Mennonites, Quakers and Brethren were urged to seriously consider refusing to pay "the military portion of their federal taxes." The conference was the culmination of a two-year process in which Mennonites, Brethren and Quakers explored the meaning of their historic peace witness and sought new forms for that witness today.

CHRISTIANS BELONG IN JAIL

"Christians belong in jail," says psychiatrist Karl Menninger. An advocate of prison reform for more than 50 years, Dr. Menninger is only suggesting that church members should visit their local jail and become better informed about crime control. Dr. Menninger urges Christians to learn the facts about crime today, visit local jails, and then do something constructive to improve the present "chaotic" system. He makes these suggestions in the February issue of A.D. magazine, the publication of the United Church of Christ and United Presbyterian Church.

ARCHEOLOGIST SAYS BIBLE IS RELIABLE AND INSPIRED

Dr. Donald Wiseman says the Bible is still his best source book for what took place thousands of years ago. An archeologist and linguist who has spent his life digging among the ruins of ancient civilizations, Dr. Wiseman says that in 30 years of study and working in the field, he has never found that archeology has clashed with the clear statement of Scripture. According to the University of London professor, "Archeology only illustrates the world of the Bible. . . . Archeology demonstrates the reliability and relevance of the Bible." Dr. Wiseman has recently completed work on a new translation of the Old Testament.
