You Can Grow at Andrews

Joseph G. Smoot
President
Andrews University

Often a person's outlook on life determines personal growth and development. If he searches for spiritual truth, God will bless that effort. The Prophet Jeremiah declared "And ye shall seek me, and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart." Jeremiah 29:13.

Let me share an experience with you. A few months ago an Andrews University nursing student, Lidia Palcan, wrote a long letter to the Buffalo, New York, Courier-Express. Jack Allen, an Associated Press religious writer, published her remarks. He had observed her in a Sabbath afternoon witnessing visit to a local retirement home and invited her to write about Andrews University.

Lidia wrote that "Andrews is one of the best things that has happened to me, and it has affected my life in many ways." Stating that she had attended public school through the first year of college, Lidia continued, "Now I am a sophomore at Andrews. I am receiving a good education and so much more. The 'more' has made the difference in my life. . . ."

In describing the "more" Lidia observed that while everything wasn't perfect at A.U., "the whole atmosphere on campus is unique. . . ." Strangers smile and speak, faculty members pray and are examples of Christian living, and a "kind word was the rule rather than the exception." Citing prayer in classes, grace before meals, an absence of drugs, smoking, and drinking on campus as refreshing, Lidia concluded that life at Andrews was real. People she was acquainted with who did not know Christ "seemed sad, with no real purpose in their daily doings."

With God's help, the Andrews University family can assist you in your quest for that important "more" in life.

Azael and Herminia Colon

Azael Colon Sr. left Puerto Rico with the intention of attending school in the United States. However, upon his arrival, he began working and later married. He attended Chicago State University for two years but the responsibilities of family and job caused him to postpone his education.

Becoming disillusioned with his life, Azael began working as a disc jockey for a radio station that featured classical music. During this time, he discovered that he had become a totally uninvolved church member. Under conviction, Azael gave up his job and rededicated his life to the Lord. He accepted the responsibility of youth leader for his church and organized a christian radio program entitled "The Voice of Youth."

When the Spanish Northwest Church was formed in the Lake Region Conference, Azael organized group meetings. Holding three meetings a week in different homes for 24 weeks, he was responsible for leading 17 people to Christ.

Meetings were also held in his own home. A woman who attended these meetings decided to give her life to the Lord. This so infuriated her husband that he put her and their three young children out of the home. She moved into an apartment directly under her husband. For two years he refused to visit or support them. Azael began working with the husband and during an evangelistic crusade, the husband accepted Christ and rejoined his family. He is now an elder in the church.

One Sabbath, Azael felt impressed to stop by and see a friend who had recently come to the United States from Puerto Rico. His friend's wife recognized a magazine that Azael was carrying as Adventist literature. She told him that if he had come to talk religion she would throw him out of the house.

Azael changed his conversation and began to ask about their teenage son. He invited the young man to go with him to the YMCA for a volleyball game. He went, and Azael began talking to him about the Lord. The conversation led to Bible studies. Three weeks later the mother called Azael and asked what he had done to bring about such a great change in her son. He continued to study with the youth. Six months later the mother called and requested Bible studies. At the completion of the studies, both husband and wife and a cousin were baptized. Later the son was also baptized.

Azael can relate many experiences such as these. He has a special burden for young people and has organized a variety of sports activities. He is also responsible for organizing an evangelistic team which traveled throughout Ohio, Michigan and Indiana. He is presently organizing a youth federation. He has held counseling sessions in an effort to bridge the gap between parents and young people.

Azael ministers to his neighbors, the needy, anyone he comes in contact with. He supplies food and clothing for those in need or shows them where they can get help and he always directs them to Christ. He even uses his citizens' band radio to compel people to Christ. As of this writing, 15 persons have attended church because of his C.B. invitations.

He loves his church and has seen the hand of God do marvelous things for the Spanish Northwest Church. The church was in desperate need of a building but there was no money. After much prayer, the money was supplied. Then the church needed furniture and again had no means of obtaining it. Once again the Lord answered prayer and the furniture was supplied.

Azael loves his wife Herminia who has been his best supporter over the years. They have three children, Madelyn, who is married and living in Florida; Janice Lynette, 15, and Azael Jr., 8.

As a Seventh-day Adventist health-care center, Hinsdale Hospital shares the church's commitment to spiritual as well as physical healing.

Entrusted with inspired counsel in the area of healthful living, the hospital has accepted the responsibility of educating people in life-style principles conducive to physical, mental and spiritual health.

It was this commitment, and the hospital's response to community health care needs and recent trends in the practice of medicine, that led to the September opening of Hinsdale Hospital's outpatient cardiac rehabilitation program.

"The program at Hinsdale is the first of such a comprehensive nature in the nation," says Walter Thompson, M.D., medical advisor to the health education department.

Its comprehensive approach to the treatment and rehabilitation of post-cardiac patients includes a battery of well-established programs in health education such as the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking, stress management, vegetarian cookery and others.

The concepts which resulted in the outpatient program were refined over a period of about five years.

Study into existing programs strengthened the belief among physicians and leadership personnel of the feasibility of such a program.

In February 1978 the hospital administration began investigating established inpatient programs such as Nathan Pritikin's in California. In-depth study by the Better Living Advisory Committee, comprised of hospital representatives, led to a vote to proceed with an outpatient program at Hinsdale.

This decision was made in light of counsel given by Ellen G. White. Her writings are replete with counsel concerning the need to help patients recapture lost physical health while providing them with natural surroundings and a Christian atmosphere.

"We should strive to restore to physical and spiritual health those who come to our sanitariums."—Testimonies for the Church, vol. 7, p. 69.

"In our sanitariums the sick and suffering are to be led to realize that they need spiritual help as well as physical restoration."—Testimonies for the Church, vol. 7, p. 68.

"Sanitariums are to be established, and with these institutions are to be connected workers who will carry forward genuine medical missionary work."—Medical Ministry, p. 14.

If this counsel is taken seriously, Seventh-day Adventist hospitals cannot neglect the spiritual dimension to health care.

"I believe that it is amoral for people or institutions to hold within their grasp information that, if shared with the public, would reduce the morbidity and mortality rates of that community," says Roy Wightman, vice president, Great Lakes Adventist Health Services.

At Hinsdale, the cardiac rehabilitation program seemed an appropriate avenue; the community felt the need for such a program and the hospital realized the opportunity for an additional service with evangelistic potential.

Long-term relationships develop between patient and doctor, nurse or health educator as they work together during a period of several months.

"The potential for teaching people the joys of a total life as Jesus intended it should be is unlimited," says Dr. Thompson. Counseling contains a spiritual flavor. Classes which are a part of the total approach include a spiritual dimension.

"Christian personnel who are constantly alert to patients' needs point them to a source of strength outside themselves," says William Hilliard, assistant vice president, Hinsdale Hospital.

"The change required of people through evangelism is immense, involving a totally different thought process. It takes more time than we are often willing to give," says Mr. Wightman. "This program gives that time."

In the area of physical healing, the cardiac rehabilitation program is a major step forward in treatment of the heart patient. Before the outpatient program nothing definitive had been available for the post-cardiac patient.

"In the last few years, the concept has evolved that a damaged heart can be restored through a change in life style," says Mr. Wightman. "The body has wonderful recuperative powers and can often heal itself."

Modern medicine places upon each individual the primary responsibility for his health. To practice the philosophy of prevention in its purest sense, an institution would need to instill in people early in life a respect for their bodies. This is not always possible.

However, in its broader aspect, prevention means intervention in is effective in decreasing a person's risk of heart disease. This data is also important in justifying the existence of the program by showing that people will change their life styles through education.

Exercise and diet are the two major areas dealt with during the rehabilitative process for the cardiac patient. Structured exercise sessions begin at the hospital's health education center under constant nursing supervision and electrocardiogram monitoring.

Periodic retesting of the patient's cardiac capacity is conducted and exercise is increased as needed. Visits to the center are gradually reduced with supplementary exercise sessions completed at home.

Approximately one year after life," says Gerard McLane, D.H.Sc., director of the health education department at Hinsdale.

The fear of a second heart attack has caused many cardiac patients to merely exist rather than live. This is no longer necessary.

Seen as a stepping stone to a live-in program in the future, the cardiac rehabilitation program at Hinsdale Hospital enables Christian professionals in the field of health care to minister to all areas of a person's being.

The hospital has a history of meeting community health-care needs as they arise. In response to a request for a rehabilitation program for cardiac patients, Hinsdale Hospital has seized the opportunity to satisfy a human need while fulfilling divine counsel.

the progress of disease at any time from birth to death. The person who has experienced a heart attack has the built-in motivation to change; he wants to cooperate.

The outpatient program provides a structured, safe way for the post-cardiac patient or the person at risk of heart attack to rebuild his life style. Information collected for future evaluation includes blood pressure, weight, treadmill test results, cholesterol level and level of exercise capability.

By collecting this information periodically, professionals can determine that a change in life style entry into the program a major portion of each patient's goal has been achieved. Annual tests are given and evaluated at the center to assure that the patient is continuing to follow his new life style and that the desired rehabilitation level is maintained.

Throughout the rehabilitation program the patient is encouraged to attend health education classes relevant to his particular problem.

"Patients who were simply allowed to go home once they had been stabilized in the hospital, may now join a structured program that promises them a return to a full

He has been a Seventh-day Adventist for three years.

HANSON AWARDED DOCTORATE

James D. Hanson

James D. Hanson, assistant professor of music at Andrews University, has been awarded the doctor of musical arts degree from the George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tennessee. He joined the Andrews faculty in 1969 after teaching music at Auburn Academy in Washington. Dr. Hanson received his bachelor's degree in music education from Loma Linda University and his master of music degree from the University of Puget Sound in Washington.

CAMPUS HIGHLIGHTS

● Benjamin Gish, Roy Maki and Irwin James are the first three Andrews students to receive music scholarships from the Twin Cities Symphonic Society in Benton Harbor, Michigan. Dr. Paul Hamel, chairman of the university's music department, said the three received $400 each and are also being paid to perform this season with the Twin Cities Symphony orchestra, a 55-member ensemble based in the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph area. Each year, Dr. Hamel said, four Andrews music students who excel in performance with stringed instruments will be selected to take part in the new program. Because the scholarships were only recently initiated, a fourth musician has not been chosen to fill this year's quota.

● Dr. Jeno Szigeti, principal of the Hungarian Seminary, arrived on campus in November to work on a Master of Theology degree. He holds a Doctor of Theology degree from the University of The Reformed Church of Hungary, and is being sponsored by the Euro-Africa Division to strengthen the Adventist church's work in Europe. Dr. Szigeti is on sabbatical leave from the seminary in Hungary and plans to complete requirements for his degree before returning in September 1980. With a specialty in church history, he has written three books and about 300 articles.

● Honors students from academies in the Lake Union Conference participated in Honors Days on the Andrews campus Tuesday and Wednesday, November 13 and 14. According to Merlene Ogden, director of the honors program, several activities were planned for the students, including campus tours, classroom visits, a banquet, a program of plays and sketches, and musical entertainment.

● Dr. Sandra Camp, associate professor of music, is conducting a series of workshops for several chapters of the Music Teachers Association. Mrs. Camp, president of the recently formed Blossomland Chapter of the Michigan Music Teachers Association, spoke in Kalamazoo, Michigan, on November 14 and has future engagements in Grand Rapids, Michigan; Escondido, California, and South Bend, Indiana.

● During the latter part of October, Dr. Ruth Murdoch, professor of educational psychology, attended three meetings for elementary and junior high school teachers in the Central California Conference, where she spoke on behavioral problems. She also discussed the meaning of leadership at the Pacific Union Conference Education Leadership meetings held near San Jose, California.

● Dr. Harold T. Jones, chairman of the mathematical sciences department, spoke at the Seventh Annual Mathematics and Statistics Conference at Miami (Ohio) University, which was held September 28 and 29 in Oxford, Ohio. Speakers came from all parts of the United States for the meetings, which centered on geometry.

TEAMWORK WORKS

Two years ago assistant publishing director Gene Torres received a letter from a man in Wheeling, Illinois. He took literature evangelist Israel Rodriguez with him and went one night to visit the man.

Unfamiliar with the area, they were unable to locate any street signs, house numbers, or names on mailboxes. Finally, they prayed and then decided to knock on a nearby basement door. They asked for Heriberto Figueroa, and had their prayer answered.

They presented the Spanish medical set and The Great Controversy. His family was opposed to the purchase of the books, but he said he would take them anyway.

Later Mr. Figueroa bought The Bible Stories, and has already spent more than $400 for other literature. He began to study the Bible with Israel Rodriguez. On August 25, 1979, Heriberto Figueroa joined the Adventist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicolas Almanza were referred to Elder Torres by an alert and concerned church member, Mrs. Van Arsdall, who had done all she could to help them. The Almanzas were given Bible studies by Franco Vega and Mike Quinonez, and were later baptized.

What a team we have! This work will be finished by dedicated team workers. Let us pray for more team spirit.

SPANISH WORK GROWS

The members of the Spanish East Chicago Church have determined with God's help to do their part in hastening the coming of Christ.

After realizing their goal of tripling the membership in one year, their sights were set on improving the church building. They felt it necessary to adequately prepare the structure as a place of worship.

With sacrifice and determination several improvements were made. A new roof, a parking lot and an ornamental fence around the property were added. The air conditioning was improved and new paint applied to the building. Many hours of work were donated by the members.

The dedication date was selected to coincide with the 25th anniversary of the congregation in the area. On September 8 representatives from the General Conference, the union, the local conference and guests from many places were present. Mayor Robert Pastrick of the city of East Chicago expressed his appreciation for the work the Adventist Church is doing in that area.

A message of congratulations came from Otis R. Bowen, governor of Indiana.

A health food center was opened, and there was an exhibition of denominational history and items from the Holy Land.

Other events of the day included a music recital by a group from Andrews University. A plaque, commemorating the highlights of the history of the church was unveiled by Mayor Pastrick and Indiana Conference President G. W. Morgan.

A Bible contest, which for many months had engrossed the church members in a study of the Word of God, was concluded.

Several former pastors of the church were also present. Elias Gomez, associate director of the human relations department of the General Conference, exclaimed, "For years and years I have not seen a spiritual feast such as this!"

At the conclusion of the ceremonies, Victor Schulz, pastor of the church said, "We are not here today simply to look at the miracles that God has done in the past in this place. We are here above all, to look with the eyes of faith, to the greater miracles that God will do in the future with the members so dedicated and consecrated that they put themselves in His hands to work together for the finishing of the work." The members of East Chicago have proposed, with the help of God, to reach 100 new people during the next year.

With this in mind, the Spanish Voice of Prophecy program has been placed in a local radio station. Thousands of invitations to listen to the program and register for a Bible course have been mailed. The church has obtained the use of a large hall for an evangelistic crusade which is now going on.

The Sowers girls gave away bread. . .

CAST THY BREAD

Solomon declared, "Cast thy bread upon the waters: for thou shalt find it after many days." Ecclesiastes 11:1, and the John Sowers family tried the principle at Halloween time with unusual success. John is the church school teacher at Terre Haute, Indiana.

Seventy-five small loaves of homemade bread packaged in individual bags were given to households in Bowling Green, Indiana, where the Sowers live, on Thursday October 25. The Sowers prepared a letter that explained the program of gathering food, clothing and funds for needy people, and stated they would return on Monday to receive contributions. The letter was attached to an empty grocery bag.

On October 29, the four Sowers girls, Leona, 9; Leanne, 8; Leta, 4, and LeEtta, 3, assisted by their parents, collected more than 800 articles of clothing, 282 cans and packages of food, potatoes, onions, apples, and $55.55.

Bread accompanied by willing hearts will make Thanksgiving a blessing to many more because one of God's promises was tried and proved successful.

GREAT JUBILATION

The Maywood Seventh-day Adventist Church members recently celebrated their "great jubilation," with the grand opening of their new church edifice.

In 1968 a group of members from the Independence Boulevard Church in Chicago began the Maywood Community Bible Story Hour with the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Holloman.

The object of this story hour was to present the Adventist message through the children. The group consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Holloman, June Newby, Bessie Abrams, Lucinda Acker and Carrie Anderson.

In July 1972 Elder Leslie O. Anderson held a successful evangelistic crusade in Maywood which resulted in the formation of the Maywood company with a membership of 29.

On April 7, 1978, the company was organized into a church with H. L. Jones as pastor. The new church continued to prosper and grow during the pastorates of Herman Davis, Raymond Alexander and Barry Brandon.

In January 1979 Pastor Ronald Bell became pastor. With his leadership, the church acquired a loan from the Maywood Proviso State Bank and purchased the present edifice.

The church building was formerly owned by another congregation and came fully furnished, with a seating capacity of 350.

On Sabbath, September 1, 1979, the long-awaited moment arrived. The official opening took place. Lake Region Conference President C. D. Joseph was guest speaker for the worship hour.

Other platform guests were I. R. Palmer, treasurer of Lake Region; H. A. Lindsey, communication and trusts and wills director; L. O. Anderson, former pastor, and the current pastor, Ronald Bell. Sabbath ended with a concert given by Earl Calloway.

On Sunday, September 2, 1979, Elder Anderson concluded the program with a challenging message entitled "The Inner Strength of the Church Lies Within Us."

MASTER GUIDES CERTIFIED

It was a mountain climbed, a goal achieved, a dream come true for the eleven Master Guides who were officially certified recently at the Straford Memorial Church in Chicago, Illinois. Honors were conferred by Conrad L. Gill, youth director of the Lake Region Conference.

These individuals spent their summer months diligently involved in an intensive Master Guide training program. Their instructor, Pastor Eugene Armstead Sr., is a Master of Divinity student at Andrews Theological Seminary.

The course was sponsored by the Straford Church. Participants were members of the Shiloh, Beverly Hills, Hyde Park and Straford churches. The group was made up of Pathfinder leaders and others serving youth ministry.

Guest lecturers who participated in the weekend Leadercraft training session were Conrad L. Gill, St. Clare Phipps and Jason McCracken.

When asked about the most memorable event of the summer, Pastor Armstead remarked that the entire program was a challenging experience but possibly the time he was most proud of the Master Guides was during their camping weekend in Cassopolis, Michigan. A storm came up Sabbath afternoon and lasted until Sunday afternoon—but the campers came through with flying colors.

This investiture was the first of its kind for the Lake Region and Elder Gill hopes this will be a pacesetter for a strong youth ministry within the conference.

MIRACLE CHURCH AT MARION

"It's a miracle of the Lord!" exclaimed Marion Seventh-day Adventists at the dedication of their new sanctuary, Sabbath, August 11.

The Lord answered the prayers of the congregation and provided a readymade church just one-half mile west of the old fieldstone church built in 1934.

Elder Charles Keymer, conference president, referred to the steepled sanctuary in his dedicatory address.

The "miracle church," belonging to a Christian Reformed group, was purchased at an unbelievably low price after negotiations by Don Ealy, local elder. Donations from church members, former members and townfolk cemented the transaction within one month.

In his dedicatory prayer before an overflowing crowd, Pastor Lyle Chamberlain rejoiced in the ways the Lord had so marvelously led.

Myrtle Siewert, wife of the district superintendent, Donald Siewert, directed the act of dedication responsive reading, and teenager

The new Marion Church was dedicated on August 11.

Donald Paul Ealy played special music on the Lowrey organ.

Charter members present at the dedication were 94-year-old Elnora Olds; her son, Donald; Opal Olds of Irons; Harry and Emma Ealy of Eden Gardens, Florida, and 87-year-old Vera Uyterschout of Marion.

Donald Olds presented the Marion Church history. After World War I enough Seventh-day Adventists had migrated to Marion to form a Sabbath School. After meeting in various homes for services, the members rented a hotel and later an upstairs hall, which cost the group 25 cents per week.

The first baptism was conducted by Frederick Wright, North Michigan Conference president, in 1924 in the Middle Branch River. Marion Adventists were members of the conference church until they organized in 1937 with the leadership of Elder Carlyle B. Haynes.

In the 1920's Adventists usually rode to Sabbath services either on horseback or lumberwagons. LeRoy Olds later drove a Model-T 18 miles to conduct Bible studies. The Olds children walked a round trip of 20 miles each week for Sabbath School and church meetings, rarely missing a Sabbath, even in winter.

Oldtimers recalled hauling large fieldstones in 1934 to construct their own church on property donated by Mary Clark from Lansing. They lugged gunny sacks of kindling for the woodburning stove. Kerosene was purchased with ration coupons. Family pews cost $9 each.

A basement was to be built by those who voted for it. The records state, "The others can put their money for upstairs improvements."

Throughout the years painting and decorating committees added songbooks, a clock, a large palm tree, railings, carpeting, window shades, draperies and several murals. A furnace, windows, Sabbath school classrooms and restrooms were added to the basement.

Starting with a nucleus membership of 33, the church struggled and matured as members migrated to and from Marion.

The members "went on the map for a church school." An old one-room schoolhouse was transferred to a lot donated by Flora Cromar.

In 1945 the stone church was dedicated by T. G. Bunch, Michigan Conference president at that time.

Today, visitors to Marion's Sabbath services will enter a lovely sanctuary and will notice an old-fashioned hospitality.

Just as the church steeple points heavenward, Marion members renew their energies to lead the Marion community to the Saviour above.

SHEBOYGAN MEMBERS LEAVE THEIR BIBLES AT HOME

The members of the Sheboygan Church held an unusual weekend worship on September 22. Activities began Friday noon and continued until sundown Saturday.

The members set up their tents in the Kettle Moraine Valley. A special sundown vesper service was held.

Bibles, texts, and songbooks were all left at home for the weekend. Each person had to rely solely on his knowledge and memory. Songs were enjoyed, Bible verses quoted and personal testimonies were shared during this vesper service.

On Sabbath morning the children went for a nature walk. Then they recited Bible memory verses and sang songs for the adults.

During adult sabbath school each adult expressed what Christ had done in his life and what he had learned from the past quarter's Sabbath School lessons.

Church service was held in a field of sunshine. Fallen logs and the ground were nature's provisions for chairs. Members of Sheboygan, Fond du Lac and Plymouth churches attended.

The singing was accompanied by guitars. Denis Wincek, a layman, spoke about "Christ in Nature." He stated that nature is the "second Bible." When you study nature you learn to love its Creator. Everyone participated in the sermon and discussion afterward.

Sabbath afternoon everyone participated in a scavenger hunt. Each group followed marked trails to find 18 items to observe and mark down, but not to pick. After the hunt a song and praise service was held.

Peace, a strengthened spirit, and a closer and deeper love for mankind and God were experienced as a result of the nature Sabbath weekend.

SHEBOYGAN CHURCH MEMBERS SPONSOR FAIR BOOTH

The Sheboygan Church recently sponsored a fair booth at the Sheboygan County Fair. One of the main highlights of the booth was the appearance of "Smoking Sam," who gave first-hand evidence of the dangers of the smoking habit. The Sheboygan Press published a feature story on the booth and Sam. Pictured are Jan Spangle, communication secretary, and Corbin Pitman, pastor of the Sheboygan Church. Seventy-two people signed up for the Five-day Plan to Stop Smoking. Photo courtesy of the Sheboygan Press.

YOUTH RETREAT AT CAMP WAHDOON

On the weekend of August 17 to 19 young people from all over Wisconsin—and a few from Minnesota—gathered at Camp Wahdoon for a retreat.

Coordinator for the weekend was Mrs. Kenneth Nelson of the Frederic Church. Mart Mooers, trust director of the Wisconsin Conference was guest speaker for the weekend. Dale Ziegele, conference youth director, and his family, and Wayne Shepperd, Lake Union Conference youth director, also participated.

Highlights of the weekend included the talk on stewardship by Elder Mooers, and a mission story with slides presented by John and Ruby Stafford of Andrews University who have been missionaries to Africa.

A canoe trip on the Flambeau River on Sunday completed the activities of the weekend.

SPECIAL LITERATURE EVANGELIST DEDICATION

On Sabbath, July 28, at 4 P.M. at the Wisconsin Camp Meeting, eight candidates were dedicated to the literature ministry. They are shown here with Elder George Dronen, center, associate publishing director of the Lake Union Conference. Each candidate has served at least four years as a successful and faithful literature evangelist, or has shown outstanding leadership ability as an assistant publishing director. The opening prayer for the dedication service was given by Warren Dick, Wisconsin Conference treasurer, and the welcome was given by Wesley Jaster, Wisconsin Conference secretary. Robert Dale, Wisconsin Conference president, gave a challenging talk on the high calling of the literature ministry. Lowell Bock, Lake Union Conference president, gave the dedication prayer. Elder Dronen charged the candidates to be faithful to the work, to spend time with their families, to guard the home, to search for souls; for the day would soon come when the work would close. Pastor Jim Mamanua sang, "So Send I You." It is hoped that by especially dedicating these people to the literature ministry, God's special blessing will be upon them. One hundred people have already become Adventists as a result of the witnessing of these eight literature evangelists.

World Church News

A SWEET POTATO OR A FISH!

One of the most significant objectives of life is to trust God and develop an active partnership with Him.

When tribute money was needed in Capernaum, Jesus sent Peter to the sea with instructions to catch a fish. Peter opened the mouth of the first fish caught and found a piece of money to pay the tribute fee.

By following the instructions of Jesus, he demonstrated faith. Later, during very difficult times, this experience reminded Peter he could trust God.

In New Guinea pieces of money are not plentiful. A church member determined to give a coin valued at about one dime to help finance God's cause. For several weeks he was able to work or sell some of his sweet potatoes in order to obtain the coin.

One week he was unable to obtain the money. While praying, he was impressed to go dig in his sweet potato patch.

He reasoned, "But I have already dug more than I need and could not sell them." Nevertheless, he followed what he believed was the voice of God. He dug up a large sweet potato with a dirt-filled hole in one side. In the hole was the coin needed.

A sweet potato or a fish? What difference does it make how God helps us to meet our needs and the needs of His cause? His first purpose is not just to provide the money, but to help us trust and form an active partnership with Him.

December 8 is World Stewardship Day. No special offering is requested. Instead, would you reflect on your relationship with God.

Let Him demonstrate His love and ability to supply the needs of His cause. He is not restricted to a sweet potato or a fish. Be prepared for God to do the unusual when you care enough to give Him an opportunity.

WANT YOUR PHOTO ON THE COVER?

The Lake Union Herald staff members were gratified by the response to the request for photographs for the special nature issue. Apparently there are many fine photographers in the Lake Union.

Now we would like to request color slides or black-and-white photos for possible use on the cover of the Herald during 1980. No color prints, please, as they are harder to reproduce.

The Herald publishes 26 issues a year and many of the covers are already planned. But we could still use some nature photos taken in the Lake Union.

Each submission will be examined by qualified photographers and only the best will be selected.

You will be notified if we plan to use your black-and-white photograph or color slide.

We will be happy to return your photos if you include a stamped, addressed, return envelope.

Keep in mind the vertical format of the Herald cover, and the position of the flag.

Payment for color slides accepted for cover use will be $25; for black-and-white photos, $15.

Send your slides and photos to the Lake Union Herald, Box C, Berrien Springs, MI 49103.

NEW HYPERTENSION SPECIAL FROM LIFE AND HEALTH

The newly published Life and Health hypertension special issue is designed for health evangelism outreach.

A concerned Uncle Sam is featured on its cover. His systolic blood pressure is high—illustrating the fact that 25 to 30 million Americans have high blood pressure.

The 32-page issue, priced for mass distribution, tells what to do about high blood pressure and provides current information on this topic.

A fascinating article by Albert A. Brust, M.D., of Wright State University School of Medicine, Dayton, Ohio, tells how the eye provides a wondrous window through which the doctor can see the blood vessels of the retina, an important way to check the extent of damage that has occurred to body organs as a result of high blood pressure.

F.F.T AWARDED "CHRISTIAN OSCAR"

The Academy of Christian Cinemagraphic Arts has awarded the Faith For Today telecast a "Christian Oscar." Faith For Today was recognized by the organization for producing the best series of films in 1978. This is the first time that the A.C.C.A. has honored an Adventist production. The A.C.C.A. is sponsored by the Christian Film Distributors Association.
