"But ask now the beasts, and they shall teach thee; and the fowls of the air, and they shall tell thee: Or speak to the earth, and it shall teach thee: and the fishes of the sea shall declare unto thee. Who knoweth not in all these that the hand of the Lord hath wrought this? In whose hand is the soul of every living thing, and the breath of all mankind."

Job 12:7-10.

THIS is a story that includes some disappointments but ends in a glorious triumph for God. Most human lives that are transformed by the Gospel follow a pattern similar to that, but many times the disappointments are not mentioned when the stories are told. Biographical sketches in Scripture are true to life. The dark chapters of David's life are laid open to the gaze of all. Those who are fallen in sin are thus encouraged with the hope that they, too, can become individuals after God's own heart by repenting as David repented.

Charlotte was a disappointment to those who were following up the It Is Written Seminar held in Indianapolis in February 1979. There at the Hyatt Regency Hotel she had her first contact with Seventh-day Adventists. She had been watching the telecast, came to the seminar when invited, but did not continue with the Bible lessons introduced there.

Sunday mornings still found her viewing It Is Written on Channel 8. But when Pastor Duane Longfellow delivered the free literature which she requested, she did not tell him that she was eager for someone to come and study the Bible with her or that she was planning to join the Seventh-day Adventist Church someday. No doubt he, like many others making similar visits, wished for more enthusiastic interest.

Charlotte did agree that Bible Worker Ruth Jenks could give her Bible studies, but here again there were disappointments. Somehow circumstances did not seem to be favorable for sustaining a regular pattern of Bible study.

When the Daniel Seminar directed by Evangelist Lester Carney came to the Holiday Inn on the south side of Indianapolis, Charlotte accepted the Bible worker's invitation and attended. Charlotte was disappointed in the difficulty she had in understanding the prophecies, but then a little later in the study of Daniel the truths taught by Seventh-day Adventists began to fall into place. She also became acquainted with some of the women of the church at the seminar.

These women provided transportation for Charlotte so she could attend the evangelistic series at the Convention Center downtown after the Daniel Seminar ended. As Pastor Carney presented the beliefs of the Seventh-day Adventist Church from the Bible from night to night, Charlotte became convicted that she should unite with the church by baptism. She was baptized on April 19, 1980.

And of course, she could not keep her love for Jesus and the truths of His Word to herself. She invited her family to attend the evangelistic meetings with her. On the same day that Charlotte made her decision, her sister also made her decision and is looking forward to baptism soon.

At the time of Jesus' crucifixion the future of the Christian religion looked very bleak. His work for his disciples seemed to be little more than an unbroken chain of disappointments. But by His Spirit they were imbued with power from on high at Pentecost. With great success they led the early church in proclaiming the Gospel to the entire civilized world in their generation. God's power to turn disappointments into triumphs is no less today than it was then. We need the same loving patience and perseverance in working for people that Jesus manifested.

Current director is Joe Sedora, who was baptized less than two years ago in Downers Grove. A graduate of DePaul University, Joe became acquainted with Adventists while teaching a special reading program on Adventist academy campuses. Employed by a private company, he taught briefly at Adelphian, Ozark, Bass Memorial, Forest Lake and Broadview academies.

He was very impressed with the sincerity of the Adventist teenagers and desired to know more about the religion that made such a difference in their lives. The young people gave him The Great Controversy and The Desire of Ages. He read them and soon was convinced that this religion was what he needed.

Joe shares his new-found faith with the 12 to 25 children who come to the story hour each week. At Christmastime the Downers Grove Church donated toys and food which were distributed to the children at a special Christmas program. Eleven of the youngsters were sent to Little Grassy Lake Adventist Camp last summer and more are planning to attend this year.

The children have been taken on outings to the museums, zoo, and for overnight camp-outs. A weekly swimming class for some of the children is held at a local high school. Recently a petition was successfully circulated to encourage the city of Chicago to put up stop signs at the corner of

A Hug and a Smile

by Jeff Wilson

FOR more than two years Seventh-day Adventists from several Chicago-area churches have converged on a tiny pink Pentecostal Church in the Humboldt Park area for a Sabbath-afternoon story hour. Children pour out of the six flats and apartment buildings to sing, hear Bible stories and learn of God's love.

Initially begun by a summer witnessing team from Walla Walla College, the story hour has been continued by members from the Downers Grove, North Shore, Independence Boulevard and Elmhurst churches.

Cortland and Whipple. This had been a dangerous intersection where many children played in the street because it was the only play area available to them. All of the parents have received visits and several are taking Bible studies.

Many people have made the story hour an evangelistic success: Roy and Mary Berg, Martin and Christina Lunt, Evan Peak, Cheryl Miller, JoAnn Nagy, Carlos McFarland and others. More volunteers are always needed and welcome.

JoAnn Nagy summed it all up: "The children's basic problem is that they do not know they are cared for. The lack of attention at home shows up when they come to the story hour. It is amazing how they respond to a little hug and a smile."

HELLEN KELLER stood with her hand under the pump spout. Cool water tumbled through her fingers while her teacher, Anne Sullivan, pumped and simultaneously tapped out an alphabet code in Helen's other palm. Then this 7-year-old deaf and blind girl knew! She learned her first word, "water." There must be other words that match objects, Helen thought as she dashed about the yard touching, questioning, sensing the message tapped by her teacher and finally learning the new concept. She learned 30 words that first day. This was only the beginning of a lifetime of learning.

Graduating cum laude in 1904 with a B.A. degree, she was later awarded Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters and Doctor of Law degrees. The Keller home and the water pump are still there, in Tuskumbia, Alabama, reminding mankind of this monumental breakthrough. In this year, 1980, the Helen Keller Centennial Congress is also remembering the exemplary conquest of "America's First Lady of Courage" and the persistent dedication and genius of her friend and tutor, Anne Sullivan.

D. B. Simons is public relations director for the Christian Record Braille Foundation. The Christian Record Braille Foundation also remembers and joins other organizations in showing the gigantic steps taken by blind persons as they live successfully and grow intellectually and spiritually in a sighted society.

In a similar tradition, Christian Record has extended free services to the visually impaired for the past 80 years. It has a large and growing audience of which many Seventh-day Adventists are not always aware.

Pastor Harry Sutcliffe, Ph.D., is director of the Episcopal Guild for the Blind. I met him recently while attending a convention of the American Association of Workers for the Blind in Oklahoma City.

When we met, this minister said he recognized my voice from C.R.B.F. records and tapes. He mentioned that he reads Student magazine (the adult Sabbath School lessons) in braille and listens to the recorded version.

He studies one during the week and the other on Sabbath. "And," Pastor Sutcliffe said, "I do mean the Bible Sabbath!" He expressed appreciation and concern on behalf of blind people generally and blind ministers in particular.

Pastor Sutcliffe values Ministry magazine "with superb articles by such wonderful men as Dr. Siegfried Horn." He spoke of many blind pastors, church leaders and laymen who are crying out for the deeper things in life in addition to the rudiments of the faith.

"As you sit there in Lincoln," he observed, "you may think, 'Who is reading this material? Is anyone out there being reached?' I assure you, souls are being saved; growth in grace is taking place. My prayer is that the Lord will continue to bless you."

Sight-handicapped people cope with some unique problems. Last summer in New England I visited a 75-year-old man who read braille with his tongue. Since his school days at Perkins School for the Blind in Boston, he has had very poor "feel" in his fingers.

From sheer necessity, he began to read braille books with his tongue. But he is a prolific reader. He commends Christian Record for its concerned field workers and the braille reading materials he receives.

John Warner lives in a tiny house near the woods on the outskirts of a small town in Mississippi. He doesn't enjoy the usual benefits of electricity, so there is no refrigeration, nor air-conditioning.

His firewood comes from the nearby woods. To keep himself oriented, he sets a small battery-powered radio on the porch and listens as he gathers firewood so he can find his way home again.

At times the battery power fails and the radio dims. "Have you ever lost your house?" he asked his C.R.B.F. representative. John rejoices in the content of reading material he receives in magazines and inspirational books.

A sighted person recently wrote on behalf of a blind friend. "My friend asked me to write to you requesting recorded Sabbath School lessons. Then she added, "My friend was baptized last Sabbath in a Battle Creek, Michigan, Church."

A woman in Washington, New Jersey, wrote in a similar vein. Her testimony was that "as a direct result of the books and magazines I have been receiving from Christian Record for some 20 years, I accepted the Lord and have been baptized in the Seventh-day Adventist Church."

In the 1980's, Christian Record is undertaking a new challenge of providing needed services to people with hearing impairment.

This segment of society has often been neglected. Thompson Kay, newly appointed coordinator of services for the deaf, brings training, consecrated enthusiasm and dedication to his job.

Anticipated projects for the deaf include a monthly newsletter, informational brochures, Sabbath School quarterlies, pamphlets and tracts, Bible study lessons, worship and seminars, and interpretation for the hearing-handicapped.

Surely the promise of the Lord is reassuring, "And in that day shall the deaf hear the words of the book, and the eyes of the blind shall see out of obscurity, and out of darkness." Isaiah 29:18.

Your generous gifts in the annual Christian Record offering on July 12 will bring blessings on earth and precious fruitage for the kingdom.

From left: The first C.R.B.F. winter camp for the blind was held this year. Harry Sutcliffe, director of the Episcopal Guild for the Blind, is an avid reader of Christian Record materials. Pastor Ronald Schmidt of Poughkeepsie, New York, recently baptized Charles Letizia who first heard about Adventists at a C.R.B.F. blind camp.

AUGSBURGER TELLS GRADUATES 'TO SOAR'

"As you leave here, some of you will be soaring, broadening your horizons and sharpening your skills. Others will be satisfied with creeping, wearily treading the same road with no challenges, no excitement."

Dr. Daniel Augsburger, professor of historical theology at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, presented the commencement address to the 1980 graduating class, June 1. He urged the graduates to continue to improve their intellectual, moral, social and religious awareness.

"Do not listen to the bewitching advice of your culture. Do not start creeping when the road becomes narrow and the burden heavy," Dr. Augsburger said. "Use the knowledge you have acquired, develop the gifts you were given by God and soar on toward the heights eternal."

Among Dr. Augsburger's audience were 484 graduates, including 245 from the College of Arts and Sciences and 34 from the College of Technology. The School of Graduate Studies had 127 graduates, and the Theological Seminary graduated 78 candidates for degrees.

Dr. Augsburger served as chairman of Andrews' modern languages department for 19 years and taught in the religion department before joining the seminary faculty in 1976. During last year's June commencement he became the first recipient of the John Nevins Andrews Medallion for outstanding contributions to knowledge.

During the commencement service the university awarded three honorary doctoral degrees, including an honorary Doctor of Laws degree to Malaikal Eapen Cherian, who has devoted more than 30 years to Spicer Memorial College in India.

He served as professor, dean,

librarian, registrar, department head, president and chairman of the board of trustees during his service to the college.

In presenting the degree, Dr. Joseph G. Smoot, Andrews' president, said, "Dr. Cherian's depth of insight in strengthening the academic curriculum at Spicer Memorial College has done much for meeting the needs of the church in Southern Asia. Under his direction, several innovative programs have been initiated, drawing the attention of leading educators in the country."

John Earl Fetzer, a pioneer in radio and television and an alumnus of Emmanuel Missionary College, also received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree.

While a student at the college, Mr. Fetzer designed and built the school's first radio station. He later purchased it from the college, moved the studios to Kalamazoo, and started a major broadcasting and television corporation.

During World War II, Mr. Fetzer was a leader in mobilizing American radio for victory over the Axis powers. In the postwar period he was active in leading radio to support freedom through international broadcasting.

Since 1962, he has been the sole owner of the Detroit Tigers baseball team.

The third honorary degree was given to Victor Enrique Ampuero

Matta, a teacher, editor, writer and evangelist. Mr. Ampuero Matta, who was awarded the Doctor of Divinity degree, was unable to attend the ceremony because of health problems.

Mr. Ampuero Matta served as editor of the South American Division Buenos Aires Publishing House in Argentina for 20 years, 11 as editor-in-chief. He has also written more than 200 articles, studies and editorials which have been published during a 40-year span. Since 1972, he has been working on a Spanish edition of The Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentary.

The events of commencement weekend began Friday, May 30, at a consecration service. Dr. Raoul F. Dederen, department chairman and professor of historical theology at the seminary, challenged the graduates to voluntarily use their lives for God as Isaiah did.

David Brillhart, pastor of the undergraduate classes, responded to the sermon, saying, "We accept the confrontation that has been presented tonight—that we need to see God in His holiness. And we also accept the commission He has given us. From my colleagues and myself, we respond, 'Here we are; send us.'"

During Saturday's baccalaureate sermon, Max Torkelsen, vice president of the General Conference and chairman of Andrews' board of trustees, told the graduating class to maintain a relationship with Christ and with God's help "be morally responsible and accountable."

LOCAL EDITOR REBUTS FREE PRESS STORY

On April 20, 1980, an article written by religion writer Harry Cook appeared in the Detroit Free Press entitled "Berrien Springs."

The article made reference to Adventists and Andrews University regarding the relationship that exists between the Berrien Springs community and the university.

Immediately after the printing of the article in the Detroit Free Press, the publisher of the Berrien Springs Journal Era, John Gillette, gave a nonpartisan answer to the Detroit article with the following editorial, entitled, "We're not the Free Press' bailiwick."

"Small towns are supposed to be a source of great amusement to the big city folk who write about them. But fortunately for small towns, the writers often come off second best.

"Sunday's Detroit Free Press magazine 'Detroit' carried a two-page story about Berrien Springs and the 'religious conflict [which] can get intense when the super-market has no meat and the hardware stores are closed on Saturday.' The article was by Harry Cook, whom the Free Press bills as its 'religious writer.'

"The poorly researched and, at times, inaccurate story paints a gloomy picture of a town torn by religious dissension between Seventh-day Adventists and non-Adventists. The bulk of the author's research seems to have been in finding individuals who could be duped into saying what he apparently wanted them to say.

"But the article doesn't come off as intended, if portraying a hotbed of religious prejudice was the purpose. Rather, it is just plain funny, and we found ourselves laughing out loud at much of it.

"While it is certainly true that some manifestations of Adventist religious and health beliefs make non-Adventists uncomfortable and the converse causes concern to practicing Adventists, things just aren't that bad in Berrien Springs. Religion gets blamed for things which religion should not be blamed for and store hours and inventory selection are not splitting the citizenry of this community into two camps. There are still choices on where to shop, just as there are a great many choices on where to worship.

"What differences between the two groups there are, are openly recognized and discussed between their more enlightened members. So much progress has been made toward a social melding of Adventists and non-Adventists in this community that the thrust of Mr. Cook's story places him solidly in second, actually, third place." (Journal Era, April 23, 1980.)

Andrews University is proud to be part of the Berrien Springs and Southwest Michigan community. The university will continue to do all it can to develop a positive relationship with the local community and make Berrien Springs an even better place in which to live.

GREAT LAKES ADVENTIST HEALTH SERVICES, INC.

During their day-long orientation to Hinsdale Hospital, Seventh-day Adventist pastors from the Chicago area toured the hospital's radiology department.

LOCAL PASTORS VISIT HINSDALE HOSPITAL

HINSDALE—Seventh-day Adventist pastors in the Chicago area learned Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital's place in the work of the Adventist Church when they visited the hospital on May 1.

According to Chaplain Willis Graves, "The administration wants to reemphasize the purpose of the medical institution in the organized work of the church and give a brief overview of the history of Hinsdale Hospital.

"Sometimes ministers aren't close enough to an institution to understand the modern challenges and problems of administration," he said. "We want them to realize that we continue in our commitment of restoring people to wholeness."

Pastors were welcomed by Irwin Hansen, president of the hospital and Great Lakes Adventist Health Services. Don Hanson, executive vice president of the hospital, presented Hinsdale's philosophy and outlined the hospital's growth since its beginning in 1904.

The morning's program included presentations by vice presidents Larry Schalk and Charles Snyder on the financial operation and development plans of the hospital.

Gerard McLane, director of the hospital's health education department, gave an overview of the health education center's facilities and emphasized the role the center can play in the pastors' outreach programs.

After lunch, the pastors toured the departments of radiology and pathology and viewed the complex medical equipment that is changing today's health care.

After the tour, Hinsdale Hospital's chaplains conducted a class focusing on effective visitation. The pastors' orientation to the hospital concluded with the testimony of a recovering heart patient and the story of a girl who attempted suicide.

STROKE REHABILITATION AVAILABLE AT HINSDALE

HINSDALE—A comprehensive rehabilitation program at Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital is now available for patients who suffer from paralysis caused by accident or illness.

According to Harry Royal, coordinator of rehabilitation services, "Patients who previously would have been transferred to a rehabilitation center once they had been stabilized medically may now remain at Hinsdale."

Once treatment for the acute phase of the illness is completed, patients begin a rehabilitation program that usually lasts four to six weeks.

The program is patterned to meet the individual patient's needs depending on his illness and response to therapy.

Continuity of care is strengthened by having the attending doctor remain on the case throughout the patient's hospital stay. By not bringing a new doctor to the patient's case, the hospital can save the patient increased treatment time and a larger bill.

Hinsdale Hospital has long served as a referral center for rehabilitation services and has had the facilities to implement such a program for paralysis victims.

However, a physician was needed to coordinate patient care. As medical director for neurological services, Myron Glassenberg, M.D., has assumed this responsibility.

H. G. Frank, M.D., and James Miller, M.D., are neurologists who are also involved in the program along with rehabilitation and nursing personnel, the patient's doctor, representatives from social service and utilization review, dietitians and a chaplain as needed.

The patient's doctor is responsible for initiating the stroke rehabilitation regimen. After consultation, a neurologist then assumes responsibility for the patient's daily rehabilitation.

Medical and paramedical personnel evaluate the patient's progress daily and discuss continuing rehabilitation activities. This information aids the consulting neurologist in giving further instruction and medical orders as needed.

Included in this new program are the social service and pastoral care departments of the hospital. "The emotional aspects of a paralyzing illness often become a hidden obstacle to healing," says Mr. Royal. The comprehensive program also includes general education for the patient's family.

NEWS NOTES

• Three Daniel Seminars and one Revelation Seminar have been taught by Pastors Larry Milliken and Richard Habenicht in Hinsdale. Beginning the third week of September, the first two Daniel Seminars attracted 50 people, the majority of whom were not Seventh-day Adventists. The participants—housewives, businessmen, blue-collar workers and professionals—studied and discussed the topics with keen interest. Two women asked if they could buy Your Bible and You and purchased 10 copies for Christmas gifts. One woman who attended on her birthday exclaimed, "I wouldn't miss this for anything." Everyone who completed the first Daniel Seminar voluntarily attended the Revelation Seminar. Many invited friends, so attendance was as high as 70. Many participants have started going to church where a pastor's Bible class is conducted for nonmembers. A woman who read The Great Controversy returned to ask for other books by the same author. She, like others who are convinced of the truth of the messages in Daniel and Revelation, faces opposition from her family. Fifty-six registered for the third Daniel Seminar, and a fourth series began May 6.

• On Sunday evening, May 18, 1980, a banquet was held in the Downers Grove Fellowship Room for the elders who had served during the past year. After a devotional by Pastor Jerry Coyle, Head Elder Charles Newton expressed his appreciation for the elders' work.

• Pastor Bob Fekete spent a day in a high school showing a film and talking to the young people about smoking. He had five classes and met approximately 100 students.

• Children from four families were dedicated at the Downers Grove Church in May. After Pastor Jerry Coyle spoke on child training and the importance of a Christian family, several elders gave a short prayer to dedicate each child. The children dedicated were Chad

ILLINOIS CONFERENCE BAND CLINIC

In March the Illinois Conference Annual Band Clinic was held on the campus of Broadview Academy. Students from grades 6 through 12 participated, representing schools in the Illinois and Lake Region conferences: Aurora, Broadview Academy, Hinsdale Junior Academy, Joliet, North Shore, Peoria, and Shiloh Academy. A total of 105 band members participated. Karl Keller from Andrews Academy was the guest clinician. Dean Boward from Broadview was coordinator. The mass band had several general rehearsals together as well as sectional rehearsals, which were directed by David Haynes of Hinsdale Junior Academy, lower brass; Judy Buck of Aurora; Robert Robertson of Shiloh Academy, percussion; Karl Keller, upper brass, and Dean Boward, woodwinds. The mass band performed for vespers on Friday night, for church on Sabbath, and their final performance was Saturday night, ending with the "1812 Overture."

Annley and Michael Arthur, children of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Neumann; Lisa Dawn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hermann; Sarah Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Allred, and Timothy James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Netzel.

● Pastor Robert Fekete was a recent guest speaker at the Ottawa Professional Women's Association. His topic concerned the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking held in the spring at Ottawa Community Hospital. Fifteen graduated from the program directed by Dr. Dwayne Butcher of Hinsdale and Pastor Fekete. The administrator at the hospital requested two Five-Day Plans per year, one in the spring and one in the fall.

TO ROCKFORD MUSEUM

A treasured photo collage of 91 early settlers of Rockford, dated 1883, was presented to the Rockford Museum Center as an Easter gift from the Seventh-day Adventist Church. The picture, done by C. W. Barnes, was given to the Rockford Museum by the Illinois Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. Pastor Harold Flynt of the Rockford Adventist Church made the presentation on behalf of the church to Stella McCombie, chairman of acquisitions. The collage, a keepsake of the late John Ekanger of Rockton, Illinois, was purchased at the estate sale in December 1979 by Illinois Conference President John Hayward.

BURR RIDGE OBSERVES ONE YEAR

The Burr Ridge Church observed its first anniversary and Visitors Day on May 3, with the Broadview Academy Choir presenting a special musical worship service.

An honored guest was Pastor Dan Stauffacher from the United Church of Christ. During the past year, the Burr Ridge membership grew from 68 to 86, the choir was formed, an active Pathfinder group was started, and a building fund established.

A retreat for leaders of the Burr Ridge Church took place Friday evening and Sabbath afternoon, March 7 and 8. Marion Kidder from the Lake Union Soul-Winning Institute directed prayer and discussion focusing on "God's Plan for His Church"; personal and church evangelism, winning souls, and reviving the church.

Sabbath afternoon, Marilou Kidder led a discussion for the women on the work of women in the church.

Elder Kidder's closing comments were, "God is calling the leadership of the church to lead the way. It is our commitment to His plan that will inspire the rest of the members to respond and make a like commitment. If we earnestly seek revival and reformation, God will bless our earnestness, and its influence will prompt others to seek a like blessing. Is it not time for the church to rise up and respond to God's call?"

● The Bloomington Church held a fellowship dinner on March 15 in honor of the 95th birthday of Della Cain, the oldest member of the Bloomington Church. Family members who attended were: Helen Pauley, her daughter; William, son-in-law; and Anna Neal, her sister. The church gave Mrs. Cain a plant.

● On Sabbath, May 3, the ninth-grade class from South Bend Junior Academy presented a program for the worship service in the Elkhart Church. The program included a children's story, special music and several sermonettes and short talks.

● A Sabbath afternoon literature evangelist "blitz" of Huntingburg took place on May 3 with the direction of Dick Tanner, conference publishing director. Literature evangelists from all over the state came to take part in a house-to-house campaign. They gave out literature, and 62 people signed up for Bible studies.

● A Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking was recently held in the Jasper Memorial Hospital by Carroll Lawson. The invitation to hold the plan came from the hospital directors after they saw advertisements for a Five-Day Plan which Elder Lawson was holding in Evansville. Nineteen people attended the program, and 16 successfully completed the plan. The hospital extended an invitation for another Five-Day Plan in the near future.

HUNTINGBURG COMPANY ORGANIZED

On February 9, 1980, the Huntingburg Company was officially organized in a Sabbath afternoon service, according to Ruth Helzerman, communication secretary for the new group.

Elder G. W. Morgan officiated, and Carrol Lawson, district pastor, was present as the nine church members and thirteen Sabbath School members were given the challenge to spread the third angel's message throughout Dubois County. Until this time, Dubois County has had no organized Adventist work.

Richard Helzerman was appointed company leader, and Carolyn Moore will serve as treasurer and Sabbath School superintendent.

Norman Moore will serve as local elder, Gary Moore as deacon, Marcia Moore as junior leader and Ruth Helzerman as kindergarten leader and communication secretary.

The group is presently meeting in the Helzerman home while permanent facilities are being sought.

YOUTH BAPTIZED IN GLENDALE

Keith Barnhart, a 10th-grade student at Indianapolis Junior Academy, demonstrated his love for God on February 16 in baptism. "I made my decision to give my life to Christ years ago," Keith said, "but I just kept putting off baptism. Two sermons, two or three years apart, by Pastors Robert Taylor and Jerry Lastine made me feel especially close to God." Keith attended baptismal classes at Indianapolis Junior Academy. He says, "I learned new things about Sabbath-keeping." Keith, a junior at Indiana Academy this fall, is an Honor Roll student, the president of his class, and plays trumpet in the band.

YOUTH JUMP FOR HEART ASSOCIATION

Indianapolis Junior Academy students made news in the Indianapolis Star on April 3, 1980, when they jumped rope for three hours to benefit the Marion County Heart Association.

Pledges collected by the students in grades five through ten totaled $1,102.

The six-member team comprised of Mark Pfothner, Richard Zegarra, Lori Bateman, Missy Barnhart, Jon Williams and Susan Leacy had the highest amount pledged, $423.55. They will each receive a warm-up suit from the Heart Association.

Dan Peters, principal and coordinator of the Jump-a-thon, said the students began practicing several weeks before the jumping to develop their stamina.

Joan Barnhart served juice prepared by school cook Ruth Campbell to the thirsty jumpers.

A MIRACLE AT BETHANY CHAPEL

The idea came while reading the book, I'm Out to Change My World, by Ann Kiemel. Why not pray for a miracle for our own church? The idea was presented to the entire church body.

It was decided that the church would fast each Thursday from the end of August until Thursday, December 6, the day chosen for the miracle.

On Thursday, December 6, the church met for a three-hour prayer service. Praises and thanksgiving were offered for the miracle God had performed for the church, though we were not sure at the time what the miracle actually was.

Several weeks later during the service one Sabbath, the question was raised, Whatever happened to the miracle?

The undeniable answer to that question was Linda Lane. She had recently been hospitalized for surgery. Her doctors informed her that she had cancer. However, they are now reasonably sure that all the cancer has been removed in surgery because it had been caught at an early stage.

Had Mrs. Lane waited six to eight weeks longer it would have meant the amputation of her right leg, and a wait of five to six months longer would have resulted in terminal cancer.

When asked what prompted her to go to the doctor in the first place, she replied that she really didn't know. She wasn't feeling sick. She only knew that something urged her to go.

She now knows that God was truly watching over her and her family, and that He in fact had led her to make that appointment with the doctor. The date of the appointment? Thursday, December 6.

● Chesaning members recently built an addition on the back of their church to be used for a community services center. Much of the work was accomplished by volunteers.

● With the leadership of head deacon Lloyd Mickelson, the Lansing Church has had a complete renovation. Outside railings and steps were built from the upper to lower level, parking lot and driveway lights installed, the carport was remodeled, the outside walls sealed and tarred, storm windows have been installed and many other improvements have been made. The youth room and lobby have also been redecorated. "We feel that all of these improvements reflect the respect and reverence that is due our sanctuary, and we are grateful for the efforts of Lloyd and his faithful helpers," Pastor Bruce Babienko commented.

TRANSPORTATION AVAILABLE TO AU SABLE CAMPS

Bus service to Camp Au Sable will be provided for campers desiring it.

Schedules have been sent to all pastors and youth directors, and are to be posted on church bulletin boards, conference youth director Lester Rilea said. If the schedule is not posted, campers should check with the pastor or youth director.

Bus service dates are as follows: June 22 and 29; July 6, 13, 18, 27; August 3 and 10. The July 18 and August 10 dates are for return trips only.

The bus will leave Berrien Springs at 2:15 A.M., follow I-94 and U.S. 27, making stops at Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Lansing and St. Johns.

On the return trip the bus will leave Au Sable at 10:30 A.M. and arrive in Berrien Springs at 5 P.M.

A bus is being provided by the Andrews University transportation department, Elder Rilea said, and restrooms are provided on the bus.

There will be no stopping for meals, so campers should bring a lunch with them for the trip to camp. A lunch for the return trip will be provided by the camp and is included in the return fee.

Reservations should be sent immediately including the full fee as listed on the schedule. There are only 45 seats available, and reservations will be taken on a first-come-first-served basis, Elder Rilea said.

Passengers without reservations will be picked up at each location if there are available seats. The camp cannot be responsible for missed rides; however, the bus will not leave locations ahead of schedule if space has been reserved.

All reservations, with fee, should be sent to: Andrews University Transportation Department, c/o Jim Curry, Berrien Springs, MI 49104.

For further information, call (616) 471-3512 or (616) 471-3817. Information may also be obtained by calling the camp: (517) 348-5491.

Please note that Camp Au Sable registration has been changed this year to 10 A.M. except for the 9-year-old camp. This camp will begin registration on July 27 at 1 P.M. The bus schedule for this camp will be four hours later than the other camps.

KALAMAZOO MEMBERS HOLD COOKING SCHOOL

Class participants prepared entrees, vegetables, salads and breads for a potluck supper at the close of the Kalamazoo Church's spring cooking school. More than 100 people attended the five-week school, said Donna Voth, coordinator for the school. After the evening program, participants had the opportunity to purchase a variety of books on nutrition and vegetarian cooking, and a display of free literature was also available.

NEWS NOTES

● A special Week of Prayer was presented to the Coleman School children by Pastor and Mrs. Dan Towar. During the week Matthew 13 was emphasized. Pastor Towar drew a large mural to illustrate the important concepts. A special vesper service was presented by the school children at the end of the week.

● The Oconto District churches sponsored a Country Spring Banquet. Friends were invited to enjoy an evening of vegetarian food and entertainment.

● Diavola Aude was recently featured in a full-page article in the Wisconsin Agriculturist. The article described the many community services projects that Mrs. Aude was involved in, and gave details of the worldwide community services organization.

YOUTH WITNESS FOR CHRIST

During the 1979-80 school year, Wisconsin Academy initiated a Witnessing Class as part of the curriculum.

Byron Chalker, the academy Bible teacher, began this class by not only leading these youth into a saving relationship with Jesus, but into an awareness of the everyday opportunities to share their faith on campus, or anywhere else they happen to be.

As a result, many students now look to those who have taken the class as trustworthy and as people with whom they can share their problems.

Members of Wisconsin Academy's witnessing class are having a tremendous impact on everyone they come in contact with and that statement is not a result of interview but of encounter.

On May 3, Byron Chalker, seven witnessing class members, and three Task Force staff members, presented a Sabbath School program and an afternoon musical program at the Ashland Church. The members said it was the most inspiring service they had ever attended.

But the major reason the group had traveled 300 miles to Ashland was to join a visiting and witnessing program with people who had recently begun Bible studies.

After prayer a church member felt impressed to phone a college student whom she had met. To her invitation, he replied that he had had to cancel a camping trip because of illness, but at that moment he felt fine and would be happy to meet the group on the campus of Northland College.

The rapport seemed instant as each youth shared, witnessed, and counseled in a natural way.

Several songs were sung and prayer was offered. Walking back to the dorm the young man asked the church member to meet him the next night to study. During the study he told her that he could not get the students out of his mind and wished he could stay with the young people forever. He felt it must be a little of what heaven would be like.

The group's next encounter was with a young woman. The group took her to the church where they witnessed, studied, sang and prayed. This woman is now eagerly looking forward to weekly Bible studies in order to have the quality of life these youth are experiencing.

A man the group had visited gave an offering to send to "those wonderful young people."

The attitude of this group made church members more aware of the importance of Christian education.

MAKING DOUGH AND FURNITURE AT WISCONSIN ACADEMY

Wisconsin Academy has many things to be proud of but one area where the academy really shines is the work program offered to the students.

Students may work on campus, at the academy farm, or at one of the two industries, Harris Pine Mills or Dakota Bake-n-Serve.

Bake-n-Serve, the largest producer of frozen bread, is just across the street from the academy. The Wisconsin Academy plant has been making dough since 1970.

The Wisconsin Academy Farm.

Students are able to work from five to six days a week on different shifts, some working a full-time schedule. Wages are $3.15 to $3.96 an hour.

Bonuses are given to Student Worker of the Month and Worker of the Year. This new incentive plan was recently initiated by Darry Campbell, manager.

Another campus work program is the academy farm. Students make $2.25 to $3.25 per hour. Many academies sold their farms years ago, but Wisconsin Academy farm manager, Dan Patton, his partners, and the Wisconsin constituents firmly believe in agriculture and the farm is thriving.

Many skills, including carpentry, welding and electrical work, are learned by the students along with the regular farm chores. Robert McChesney, dairy manager, has recently joined the farm operation and is looking forward to an even greater success in the dairy operation of the farm.

Harris Pine Mills is another industry on campus. Students may earn $3.10 to $3.90 an hour with extra evening and Sunday work available. Sewing, filling cushions, assembling and packaging the final products are all a part of the jobs available at Harris Pine.

Harris Pine also has an incentive plan for the students and this helps each employee to realize his responsibilities and to put craftsmanship into manufacturing the products.

This could be the reason the Wisconsin Academy Harris Pine Mill has the largest order file of any of the branches. Alvin Koehler, plant manager, attributes this success to God's blessings and to the dedication of the students. A summer work program is also available.

Wisconsin Academy and the school industries have been cooperating with each other over the years. The industries are a vital part of the motto of Wisconsin Academy: Head, Heart, Hands.

Wisconsin Academy*

USED ACCORDIONS NEEDED for missions. Many used piano accordions were donated two years ago for missions according to John Hancock, former General Conference youth director. The inventory of used accordions has now been depleted, but there are still many requests for accordions from countries all over the world. If you have a full-size (120 bass) piano accordion that could be donated for mission work, please send the instrument with its case by United Parcel Service to Elder Hancock, General Conference, 6840 Eastern Avenue, N.W., Washington, DC 20012. The G.C. treasury department will issue a gift donation receipt, and the recipient of the instrument is given the name of the donor. The piano accordions must be in good condition since it is difficult to repair them overseas.

Lake Union Conference

John Hayward

UNION COMMITTEE FILLS THREE POSITIONS

John L. Hayward, president of the Illinois Conference, has been elected the executive secretary of the Lake Union Conference.

The election was held at the Lake Union Executive Committee meeting, May 28, 1980.

Also elected were Horace L. Jones, director of the lay activities and Sabbath School departments, and Warren E. Minder, director of education.

Elder Hayward has been president of the Illinois Conference since February 1971. Before that he was the executive secretary of the Michigan Conference for 1½ years.

He was a pastor-evangelist for 19 years in several areas of the United States. Elder Hayward is a graduate of Atlantic Union College. The

Horace Jones

Haywards have three children.

Elder Jones, a 1947 graduate of Oakwood College, has been the lay activities and Sabbath School director of the Lake Region Conference since 1975.

He was formerly a pastor-evangelist in the Lake Region Conference for 11 years and in the South Central Conference for 15 years.

Throughout his pastoral experience, Elder Jones has trained and used the laity of his congregations in all aspects of evangelism.

The Jones have three daughters, two of whom are married.

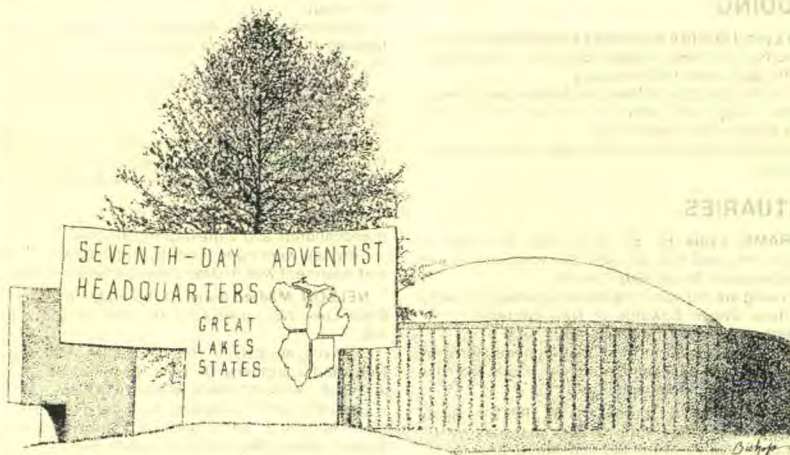

Elder Minder has been the associate director of education in the Lake Union Conference since 1978. He came to Berrien Springs from Ohio where he was the superintendent of education for three years.

Before transferring to Ohio, Elder Minder was a teacher and principal in several California academies.

Elder Minder, a graduate of Loma Linda University with both a B.A. and M.A. in biology, is currently enrolled in a doctoral program at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo.

He is a native of Siren, Wisconsin.

The Minders have four married children.
