Oakwood College Offering, August 14

Oakwood Asks Aid for Student Jobs

HUNTSVILLE, Ala.—This year will be a difficult year for many small colleges and universities in North America. There are 1,250 four- and two-year private and nonprofit colleges and universities in the United States. One-third of these have less than 1,000 students.

In 1981 several small colleges were forced to merge or close. It is possible during the next couple of years that one-third of these colleges will be forced out of business. The combination of a steady decline in the number of college-age Americans, high inflation, and government cuts in Federal aid to education adds up to a bleak future for many colleges.

In his first national budget, President Ronald Reagan requested a $1.8 billion slash in Federal aid to all low-income college students. Students at small colleges who get a bigger share of government help would lose three-fifths of their aid.

At some small colleges as high as 70 percent of the student body receives some government assistance. The new government budget reductions to education could put college beyond the reach of several hundred thousand students in the 1982-83 school year.

Oakwood College is one of those 1,250 small nonprofit colleges, and trains the largest portion of black youth for the Adventist Church.

Nearly 1,450 youth were enrolled at Oakwood at the beginning of the 1981-82 school year. The college was able to provide work for 1,000 students.

One of the greatest needs at Oakwood is to provide productive jobs for students when school opens in September this year.

Recently the college board voted to develop an industrial park near the college campus. Some industries have shown interest in establishing plants at Oakwood to provide jobs for students.

The August 14, 1982, Oakwood College Offering will assist greatly in getting this much-needed project started. Please give liberally to make this project a reality.

Oakwood College expects 1,500 students this school year. With government aid cut so drastically, Oakwood will need jobs for these students.

Thank you for your splendid support in years past. The goal for this offering is $300,000.

5-Day Plan Opens Doors at Rice Lake

WISCONSIN—The Rice Lake Church has held Five-Day Plans to Stop Smoking for the past 10 years at a local high school, a vocational school, and other places.

Rodney Olson, M.D., of the Lakeland Family Clinic, thoroughly researched all the materials recently, and he decided the Adventist Church's Five-Day Plan was one of the best plans available in the country.

He agreed to help Pastor Jan Follett hold at least two clinics a year.

About this time the local hospital, the Lakeview Medical Center, became interested in the program, and urged the church to use their facilities. This location has drawn a larger group of people who want to stop smoking.

One outcome of this cooperative venture is that the hospital now allows no smoking in the patients' rooms.

The stop-smoking clinic in April had 31 enrollees and a high

Belleville Woman's Life Spans History of the Church

MICHIGAN—A Seventh-day Adventist woman is the oldest person born, reared and still living in Belleville, Michigan.

Rhea Sobolewsky, 95, of the Belleville Church, remembers when her parents were converted in a tent meeting held by evangelists Bashney and Hughes in 1902.

At that time a church had not yet been built in Belleville, so Mrs. Sobolewsky's parents, the Plagues, and other new converts walked seven miles down the railroad track from the little town of Willis to hear Ellen White preach one Sabbath.

Mrs. White talked to the people of Belleville and told them to build a church there, and that the church in Willis should never have been built, Mrs. Sobolewsky said.

The Belleville members then returned home, motivated to build their own church. The Plagues decided on a plan to raise money for a church.

Mrs. Plague, mother of a large family, took in laundry. She scrubbed on the washboard until she made enough money to have trees, donated by Cylus Coy, cut into lumber.

In 1903, members felled the trees, drew them across the frozen Huron River, and had them sawed into lumber at a local lumber camp. With the help of Mr. Courey, also a new convert, they built the first church, a one-room building, on the lot where the present church stands.

Mrs. Sobolewsky attended this little church until it grew and was expanded to its present size. She celebrated her birthday on April 22, according to Laurie Snyman, wife of the pastor of the Belleville-Plymouth churches.

Nursing Home Celebrates Special Week

PRAIRIE DU CHEIN, Wis.—National Nursing Home Week, May 8 through 15, was established to focus on those special places where aging persons receive the very best care possible during the closing days of their lives. This year, the celebrations at Prairie Convalescent Center included a Mother's Day program, potluck dinners, a wedding anniversary, employee service pins presentation, a visit from Wisconsin State Senator Paul Oftner, and a pie and ice cream social. The week concluded with a gospel music concert on Sabbath afternoon by a singing group called His Country Way of Marshfield, Wisconsin. They are, from left: Larry and Phyllis Huber, and Bret and Clint Shotwell. These young musicians attribute their conversion to the personal interest shown them by Dan Houghton, former administrator at Colonial House of Colby, Colby, Wisconsin. Prairie Convalescent Center and Colonial House of Colby are both Adventist Living Centers nursing home facilities.

Villa Pines Receives J.C.A.H. Accreditation

FRIENDSHIP, Wis.—Villa Pines Nursing Center, Friendship, Wisconsin, was recently awarded a first-time accreditation certificate by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (J.C.A.H.), according to administrator Michael J. Flugstad.

Villa Pines is the latest Adventist Living Centers facility to receive accreditation, the ninth of 11 nursing homes, according to A.L.C. President Gary C. Whitworth, Hinsdale, Illinois. The 10th facility has been surveyed and is awaiting official acknowledgement.

The J.C.A.H. accreditation process, providing consultation, review, and education, is the only voluntary program to assess the care received by the nearly 1.5 million residents in the nation's 19,000 nursing homes. Only about one in 15 of these homes presently receives J.C.A.H. accreditation.

"Adventist Living Centers facilities participate in the accreditation program," said Mr. Whitworth, "as one method of conveying to the community, residents, and employees their commitment to provide professional, concerned, quality care."

Andrews Student Wins Writing Contest

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Randy Fishell, an Andrews University student from Berrien Springs, has won the grand prize in the Insight magazine short story writing contest, according to Dan Fahrbach, editor of Insight.

Mr. Fishell received the $500 grand prize award in early June, and his article appeared as the cover story for the July 6 issue of the periodical.

Mr. Fishell wrote his story as a project for Dr. Joyce Rochat's creative writing class at Andrews. The story centers around a former job Mr. Fishell held as a bus driver for the Blossomland Learning Center, a school for the mentally handicapped.

He said, "My story tells about the way my perspective changed while I worked with mentally handicapped people. At first I thought being around them might be contagious and I was apprehensive. Later, as my understanding changed, it was a great compliment to me when a child told me that I was just like one of them."

Grant Received for Research in Science

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—The National Science Foundation has awarded a grant of $52,431 to Andrews University for a research project, according to Joseph G. Smoot, university president.

The project, directed by John F. Stout, professor of biology, went into effect March 1 and runs for two years. The grant will enable Dr. Stout to conduct research on how behaviorally meaningful sounds are recognized by the nervous system in animals and humans.

Dr. Stout's research involves the use of crickets, since that insect's more simple nervous system is more readily understood than the functionally similar, but more complex nervous system found in man.

Several graduate students will assist Dr. Stout in the research, which will be conducted primarily on the Andrews campus. The project will continue under his direction at the Max-Planck Institute for Behavioral Physiology near Munich, West Germany.

Shultz Named Dean of College of Technology at Andrews University

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Myron Wesley Shultz has been named dean of the College of Technology, according to Andrews President Joseph G. Smoot.

Wesley Shultz

Dr. Shultz, who has a doctorate in educational administration from Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, has most recently been principal and business manager at Cedar Lake Academy. His appointment at Andrews took effect July 1.

Dr. Smoot said, "Dr. Shultz will be a valuable asset to the school's continued growth. We are very happy to have him join the faculty, and we are looking forward to the new skills and ideas he will bring to the College of Technology."

Dr. Shultz replaces William W. Davidson who has been dean of the college since it opened in 1974. Dr. Davidson recently asked to return to a teaching position in the department of architecture.

Dr. Shultz received a bachelor's degree and a master's degree from Walla Walla College in College Place, Washington, where he studied education and school administration. His doctoral dissertation dealt with legal trends in student discipline.

In addition to being principal at Cedar Lake, Dr. Shultz has been principal and business manager at Blue Mountain Academy in Pennsylvania and at Kellogg Mookerjee High School in Bangladesh.

In Bangladesh, at Blue Mountain and at Cedar Lake, Dr. Shultz instituted high school programs in industrial technology.

"At Cedar Lake Academy last year more than 50 percent of the student body participated in some aspect of technology," Dr. Shultz says.

"We had a complete career program in graphics, drafting, auto mechanics, art, photography and welding."

Dr. Shultz continued, "The opportunities for technology in this geographical area are tremendous. There is much industry in close proximity. The challenge for Andrews is to provide the education that will keep graduates up to date in the fields of computer technology, architecture, aviation and other related areas."

Dr. Shultz is married to the former Joan Adell Rader. They have four children.

Andrews Student Receives Detroit Press Club Award

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Karolee Robinson, a June journalism graduate of Andrews University, has received an award of $100 from the Detroit Press Club Foundation.

Karolee Robinson

Miss Robinson placed third in the editorial opinion category in the foundation's 17th annual college awards competition.

Chosen from a field of 500 entrants by a panel of professional Michigan journalists, she is the first Andrews student to receive an award from the Detroit Press Club Foundation. Andrews University is the only private school represented by a winner this year.

The prize, given at the club's annual dinner in Detroit, was awarded for an article Miss Robinson wrote while an editorial intern at Listen magazine in Washington, D.C., during the summer of 1981.

Entitled, "I'm MADD—The Legacy of Laura Lamb," the article was based on an interview with Cindi Lamb of Gaithersburg, Maryland, who is the national vice president of the organization called Mothers Against Drunk Drivers (MADD).

Mrs. Lamb and her infant daughter were involved in a head-on collision with a drunk driver in which Mrs. Lamb was seriously injured and her daughter, Laura, was paralyzed from the neck down.

Miss Robinson begins employment this month as public relations assistant at Shady Grove Adventist Hospital in Rockville, Maryland.

News Notes from the Illinois Conference

● The Burbank/Oak Lawn congregation recently heard the junior Sabbath School class answer questions about the book of Daniel, according to Elsie Zelms, communication secretary. Their teachers are Linda and Gary Zintak. About six months after their baptism, the Zintaks were asked by Pastor Mike Sczekan if they would consider teaching the junior class. Linda and Gary agreed with the stipulation that they could supplement the teaching materials with some of their own ideas. The outcome was witnessed as the 10- to 13-year-olds answered some of the 52 questions on a test they recently took on the book of Daniel. Linda remarked, "You have no idea what a thrill it is to watch those young faces light up when a formerly unknown fact becomes an understood God-given truth!"

● A vegetarian cooking school was conducted by the De Kalb Church in May. Nine non-Adventists participated. The response was favorable. One participant who had also taken part in the recent Stop-Smoking Clinic was so enthusiastic about the cooking school that she asked to be allowed to help with the cooking class planned for the fall. Many people, both members and nonmembers, gave of their time, talent, and food to assist Home Nutrition Instructor Debra Dewey in making the cooking classes a success, according to Charlie Swanson, communication secretary.

● Mark Fox, Bible instructor, is working in the Mattoon area this summer, according to Muriel Phillips, communication secretary. He is visiting church members and contacting persons who had expressed interest in the Prophecy Expo meetings held in Mattoon a year ago. To coordinate his work, foster fellowship, and encourage further Bible study, Pastor Fox is holding a "Walking with Christ" seminar in the church on Tuesday evenings. Periodically during these meetings he shows slides of his trip to the Middle East.

● A "Taste of Nature" cooking school, with class participation, drew 27 non-Adventists on Monday, May 17, to the Quincy Adventist School, according to G. H. Wiemerslage, communication secretary. Participants were first asked to sample the foods prepared by Ginny Olson, Ardyth Parrick, Pam Shelton and Joan Philpott. Ardyth was the director. Dr. Roy Olson gave a lecture on the "protein myth." He said that it was difficult to get fat on a vegetarian diet, and that people will live longer on such a diet. He also said that older people on a high protein diet will suffer more broken bones.

● Daphne Dimalibot of Hinsdale Junior Academy was the first place winner in a spelling bee sponsored by the Suburban Tribune and DuPage County at the academy. The words were supplied by the sponsoring organizations. The finalist from grades five and six was Denise Geier, who placed fourth; from grades one and two, Beth Ann Whitworth placed third, and from grades three and four, Joli Lindsay placed second. Daphne was the winner for grades seven and eight.

● South Suburban church members gathered for a potluck banquet on March 6 to praise God for blessing their Ingathering program and helping them reach their goal. Ernie Hibbs, personal ministries director for the church, has encouraged the congregation to plan in advance for Ingathering. The children from the church School were active in achieving their part of the goal. Andrew Adams, pastor, expressed his appreciation to the church family, encouraging everyone to be faithful and active in witnessing for Christ, according to Roselyn Ladwig, communication secretary.

Good Books Help Colporteurs Help People

ILLINOIS—Making an appointment with a customer and going door to door recently resulted in good contacts for Illinois literature evangelists Helen Meyer and Jack Stafford.

A lead card took Helen Meyer of Ottawa to the home of a woman who asked Helen to come back another time because she was having her devotions. The woman received Helen graciously on her second visit.

She was interested in Uncle Arthur's Bedtime Stories, and made a down payment with some money she had been given for her birthday. She said, "It will be a good investment." The woman is raising her 7-year-old granddaughter.

About the same time Helen and Publishing Assistant Bill Haper visited another Christian family who had asked for more information on The Bible Story. The husband was unemployed, but he and his wife expressed a great desire for the books. They were anxious to learn and teach their children.

The husband said, "It is strange that you should come today, because my $310 income-tax return just arrived!" After careful thought and prayer they paid for The Bible Story with their tax-return check.

Helen called back later to find out whether the couple were happy with their purchase. The wife said, "Oh, yes!"

Another literature evangelist, Jack Stafford of Decatur, was recently canvassing in Taylorville, Illinois, where there is no Adventist work.

A young man who was interested in the Bible Reference Library asked Jack to return in two hours to pick up the down payment. Instead of leaving the neighborhood, Jack decided to do some door-to-door canvassing.

In one home the woman with whom he spoke had several questions about the Bible because a friend had given her some Bible texts to look up and study. Although she attended church, she was unfamiliar with her Bible. Not only did Jack look up the Bible verses for her, but he also gave her a Bible study.

The woman purchased the Bible Reference Library and Modern Medical Guide. She also requested Bible studies.

After prayer the woman said, "I believe God sent you to our home."

Most literature evangelists have stories to tell like these. They ask for your prayers as they seek to lead people to Jesus through good books.

Huntingburg Church Reports Recent Activities

INDIANA—The Huntingburg Church has nearly completed its "Spring Outreach" program begun in March. In order to raise the public awareness of the church and bring its message to the community, the congregation planned and executed several programs:

A film entitled "Martin Luther" was shown. Several nonmembers attended.

A "Back to Basics" nutrition seminar was taught in the home economics room of the Huntingburg Middle School. Kandi Zollman was coordinator and director. Women from the church gave food preparation demonstrations. On closing night a full dinner was prepared for all the participants and their families.

On Sabbath School Visitors' Day 11 visitors joined the 21 members for services and a fellowship dinner.

A Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking was held in Jasper in cooperation with Jasper Memorial Hospital. Eleven participants attended, including a woman who was under doctor's orders to quit smoking, a staff member of the Dubois County Herald newspaper, and a state trooper. Pastor Franke Zollman directed the plan.

Other church activities include a Mother's Day program presented on May 8. Highlights of the program planned by Shelly Helzerman, Sabbath School superintendent, included poetry, a story, and letters from church members' daughters. Boxes of homemade chocolates were given to the mothers. Pastor Zollman's sermon was about Moses' mother.

The Spring Outreach also included programs for the members. Conference personnel worshiped with the Huntingburg Church for three Sabbaths.

Jerry Lastine outlined the new world budget plan and discussed blessings of stewardship.

Cliff Hoffman, conference youth and communication director, and his family gave the congregation a unique look at religion through the eyes of a teenager on Youth Emphasis Day.

Ed Skoretz, conference personal ministries director, presented a seminar on making friends in the community, how to begin a Bible study, and how to lead a person to a decision for Christ.

The Huntingburg Church presented to Elder Skoretz the first Ingathering donation for the year. The $50 check was a result of a letter and literature mailed to all major area factories and businesses asking them to consider including the Huntingburg Church in their 1982 budgets.

Another outreach program was "Miss Ruth's Story Hour," featured at the 800-member Salem United Church of Christ's Vacation Bible School from June 7 through 11. The story hour was also part of the city's summer park program at the Huntingburg Municipal Park, June 28 through July 2.

The church will man a booth featuring the Indiana Conference disaster van at the Jasper Strassenfest.

He urged parents and children to attend Camp Timber Ridge during the summer camping season. Gary Hodge, a parent and Master Guide, assisted Elder Hoffman in the investiture service. Refreshments were served by parents of the school in honor of Cheryl Underwood who will be teaching in Florida next year, according to Helen Greulick, communication secretary.

● Two years ago during Elder Lester Carney's evangelistic crusade in Marion, Harold and Mae Shaw joined the church by profession of faith. During this past year, however, as a result of his electrical work on the new church and involvement in the new church project, Harold asked to be the first one baptized in the new church. He talked it over with Mae, and she, too, expressed a desire for re-baptism. On January 30, 1982, Pastor Rick Blythe baptized Harold and Mae at the first baptism in the new Marion Church, according to Darlene Turner, communication secretary.

Houghton Lake Member Honored

MICHIGAN—How does a small church grow—a church that exists in a community where most of the residents pack up and go home for the winter?

Members at Houghton Lake, a resort town in northern Michigan, will tell you that it grows through the faithful efforts of members like Carrie Kelly.

The Houghton Lake Church was organized in 1959, with 19 charter members. The membership now stands at 49.

The church members gathered on Sabbath, May 1, to honor Carrie and to reminisce. She came to the area about 30 years ago and has been the secretary of communication for the church for 29 years, as well as serving in nearly every other church office during her stay.

Jan Chamberlain, a former pastor's wife, wrote a poem for the occasion naming the various capacities in which Carrie has served. She has cheerfully cleaned the church, filled in for every church office when necessary—she even preached when an emergency kept the regular pastor away. She is now communication secretary and church treasurer and often teaches a Sabbath School class.

At the afternoon service planned by Carl Gair and Anne Purkey, members presented a program especially for Carrie. During the service, she received a plaque of appreciation from the conference communication department and letters of commendation from conference officers.

In her acceptance speech, Carrie said, "I want you all to know that there are many members in our little church who also work. I'm not the only one. It takes many people working together to do the work."

A scrapbook kept through the years by Carrie features special events of the church. At the end of the book there is a page of obituary notices, naming charter members who are asleep until the second coming. Carrie expects to see those members again when the work is finished, she said.

Adelphian Academy has good buildings and Christian teachers.

Students Respond to Christian Education

MICHIGAN—Inanimate objects are not always easy to measure. And so it is with Christian education.

Cindy Tutsch, a Bible teacher at Adelphian Academy, asked her students to write their thoughts on the advantages of a Christian education.

"I praise God for the opportunity of being a part of true education and for having the joy of talking about Jesus with my students," she said.

The following excerpts from some of the students may help others to understand the dividends of a Christian education:

"I have to say that I have definitely walked closer to God this year . . . I came directly from public school . . . at the end of last year I was just like the rest of the guys at school . . . when I came here, my whole life changed."

"I've come to realize that in order to be happy we need God in our lives. I think I've always really known this but never wanted to admit it."

" . . . this year has been a good one for me. It has made me more aware of my abilities and even some of my hidden talents."

"I think I improved in the way I viewed the Bible and religion in general. When I heard that Bible class was required, I about screamed . . . now I've learned it can be interesting."

" . . . I've come a lot closer to Christ. He's helped me overcome certain habits that had taken me away from Him."

"My relationship with Christ this year has grown by leaps and bounds. I came here with a growing friendship with Him, and it has continued to grow."

"Adelphian Academy and the faculty have helped me straighten up my act. Just knowing that the faculty cared for me did a great deal. . . ."

" . . . About a half year ago I was rebellious to my mom. I felt I had an excuse for being rebellious. But I have learned there is no excuse for sin and hatred . . . I have learned so much about Jesus and strive to have a personality like Him."

One student summed it up by saying, "This year I have really come closer to Christ . . . Before, I thought it would be such a long time before Jesus comes, but now I see that all the things we have been talking about this year are coming true."

Parents, where are your children? Where will they be when school begins this fall?

Jay Ayers of Holly not only received a Christian education, but when he graduated this year he had worked enough to pay all his tuition.

Partners Needed for Michigan Advance

MICHIGAN—"Let not the line be broken here," are the words that speak to my heart today.

The year 1979 gave birth to a dream of how every man, woman, and child in the Michigan Conference could unite in a program hitherto untried. This program would touch on five key areas:

EVANGELISM through public meetings, through Daniel and Revelation Seminars, and through one-to-one Bible studies, would take top priority.

NEW CHURCH and SCHOOL BUILDINGS must be built to house additional members.

SPECIAL PROJECTS might be agreed upon by the Laymen's Advisory Council and Michigan Conference.

EDUCATIONAL opportunities would be a must for every worthy student; equipment to enhance the learning process is essential and necessary.

The last area would be a continued upgrading of the PHYSICAL FACILITIES of Camp Au Sable and the Grand Ledge campgrounds—where the central theme is a renewal of friendship of fellow believers and more, a renewed commitment to our best friend, Jesus.

Since 1979, more and more of the family of Michigan Adventists are sharing the joy of clasping hands with God and with one another in giving one percent of their income to MICHIGAN ADVANCE—partners with God and with one another!

Thank you for your commitment of brotherly support, co-laborers for God.

Treasurer*

Put God First In Giving

Wisconsin Conference News Notes

● Pastor Paul Scofield of the Wausau Church gave the commencement address at graduation for four students of the Wausau Church School on May 27. Graduating students were Wendy Miller, daughter of Wayne and Ellen Miller; Todd Raddatz, son of Fran Siemers; Ken Throson, son of Jim and Barb Throson, and Michelle Wenzel, daughter of Lenis and Gloria Wenzel. The class motto was "We are the light of the world." The presentation of diplomas was made by Diane Seiler, school board chairman, and George Fullerton, teacher. A reception was held after the program for students, parents and guests, according to Sally Westman, communication secretary.

● Sharon Cottrell, Joseph La Fave, Jodi Gay and Brendan Hornick, recently graduated from the eighth-grade at Green Bay's 10-grade Adventist Junior Academy. Representing the missionary outreach and influence of Adventist education, 50 percent of this graduating class were not Adventists. Several other students helped to make up this year's total enrollment of 46, according to Gloria Wilde, communication secretary.

● The Stevens Point Church School, which has operated for the past seven years, had its first eighth-grade graduation this year. Annette Lemon and Sheila Cottrell were the graduates.

Wisconsin Academy Finishes the Year

WISCONSIN—Students and faculty at Wisconsin Academy enjoyed the final countdown for another school year.

Special May programs included Academy Day on May 3 when approximately 120 students, their drivers and chaperones, visited the school; a concert by the Academy Band on May 8, and a visit by the Singing Men of Andrews University on May 15. The Choralaires also made their final trip of the year to assist in the district meeting at Rice Lake.

Graduation weekend included Leon N. Spears Jr., risk manager for Gencon Risk Management Service, as speaker for the Friday night consecration service.

James Hayward, president of the Wisconsin Conference, delivered the baccalaureate sermon, and the music department presented a sacred program on Sabbath afternoon.

The class night program followed the traditional "Hallowed Moments" held at sundown.

Sunday morning, Joseph G. Smoot, president of Andrews University, gave the commencement address.

Fifty-four seniors graduated; 27 with honors. Eighteen of these young people have attended Wisconsin Academy all four years.

Wisconsin Academy Farm Named Farm of the Month

WISCONSIN—The Wisconsin Academy farm was chosen as Farm of the Month for the annual June Dairy Month activities. An article in the local paper, the Journal Republican, featured pictures of the modern dairy parlor during milking time; hungry heifers at feeding time; and Dan Patton, the farm manager, pointing out production progress of the Academy herd, as well as an explanation of the farm and school program.

Special mention was made of the efficient dairy parlor where two students utilizing the automatic milking equipment can milk a dozen head of cows at one time and complete milking of the entire herd in 2½ hours. The herd averages 17,000 pounds of milk per year, with an average 616 percent butter fat annually.

The article also mentioned the work-study program at Wisconsin Academy, which enables students to gain practical experience in farm work, woodworking at Harris Pine Mills, or dough production techniques at Dakota Bake-N-Serv.

Sterling Nelson is manager of the dairy, and Leslie Messersmith is in charge of maintenance.

A Search Begins for Hymn Poems

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif.—At the first meeting of the Church Hymnal Committee on April 1, 1982, it was voted to conduct a New Hymn Poem Search.

A recent pastor's survey pointed up the need for more noble hymns about distinctive Adventist beliefs. One pastor said, "The most prominent of our church beliefs, such as the second coming of Jesus, are not given justice in the words and music which represent these awe-inspiring Bible beliefs. We need more contemporary verse and music for these."

Areas of greatest need include: the second coming, righteousness by faith, the Sabbath, Christ our High Priest, love in the family, the brotherhood of man, the gift of prophecy, being ready for the second coming, concern for the cities, concern for God's world, communion services, the Bible, the church triumphant in heaven, and witnessing.

Winning entries will receive a $50 honorarium, and become the property of the Review and Herald Publishing Association.

The deadline is November 15, 1982. For further information, write to Wayne Hooper, Hymnal Coordinator, 2876 Rockridge Place, Thousand Oaks, CA 91360.

Investiture Held at Wausau

WISCONSIN—An Investiture Program was presented by the Pathfinders and school children of the Wausau Church on Thursday evening, May 13, 1982, with the direction of Gloria Wenzel, Pathfinder Leader; Barb Thorson, assistant Pathfinder leader, and George Fullerton, Wausau school teacher.

The Pathfinders and school children gave a health and healing honor class demonstration on how to treat colds by using the hot foot bath method, and how to treat sore throats by using the heating compress method.

The seventh- and eighth-grade boys gave a slide presentation on nine ways to a healthier life style.

A skit was then presented, showing the youths' knot-tying skills and first-aid techniques.

The children sang two songs, directed by George Fullerton.

Dale Ziegele, youth director of the Wisconsin Conference, was on hand to give out honors, scarves, pins, and Adventist Youth Book Club Certificates, according to communication secretary Sally Westman.

Descendant of Pioneers Celebrates 100th Birthday

MICHIGAN—Allegan members held a special church service to celebrate Otto Buck's 100th birthday on Sabbath, April 17.

Mr. Buck has close family ties with the early pioneers of the Adventist Church. His grandfather, Harry Buck, was baptized at Buck's Bridge, New York, by John Byington, the first president of the General Conference. Otto's father consequently bore the name, John Byington Buck.

Otto Buck's own baptism occurred when he was so sick the family thought he would not live. But his desire for baptism was so strong that a neighbor's watering trough was brought to the house and used as a baptismal tank. Otto was 10 years old at the time.

Instead of dying as had been expected, Otto recovered fully and became somewhat of a legend because of his prodigious capacity for hard physical work. He has been known to husk a hundred shocks of corn a day, compared with the normal 60 to 70 of a good farm hand.

Mr. Buck gives the glory to God for his long life, and for sparing him during his sickness and numerous other brushes with death. He has lived a frugal life with vigorous physical activity.

Because of his gratitude to God, he finds his greatest pleasure in giving almost all of his meager income to God's work. He faithfully supports the local church program as well as regularly sending money to various broadcast ministries.

Friends and relatives have suggested that he be more "reasonable" with his giving, but his usually mild manner becomes transformed at the suggestion. He says he will not be deprived of that joy!

Mr. Buck lives alone and takes care of himself and his home, including the shoveling of snow when necessary.

Participants in the birthday service were Richard Schwarz, vice president for academic affairs at Andrews University who presented the morning message, and James Hanson and Ralph Coupland, also from Andrews University, who presented special music.

One Man Raises $3,000 During Jogathon

WISCONSIN—At the annual Honors Day Chapel at Wisconsin Academy on May 24, Dan Patton, farm manager for the Wisconsin Academy dairy, received a plaque for raising $3,000 in the recent Jogathon campaign. Mr. Patton was severely wounded in his right leg during his service in Vietnam, and doctors said he would probably never walk again. He did not practice for the Jogathon, but says he has been "very active chasing cows on the academy farm." He felt participating in the Jogathon would be "a good way to praise the Lord" for healing him. Funds raised during the Jogathon will be used for improvements at the academy.

'Movie Movie' Discusses Movies and TV

LAKE UNION—"What's wrong with it?"

"Why can't we?"

"Well, my parents watch them on TV!"

"Everybody does it!"

Ever heard those questions and observations before?

Because of the increasing desire of young people—and older people—to attend the theater and watch movies on TV at home, and because many questions are asked about this subject, the North American Youth Ministries directors decided to study the situation.

How can people be helped to make Christian decisions about movies (even those shown in the academy or college gym) and TV?

Cliff Sorenson, president of Walla Walla College, began the study with the North Pacific Union Youth Director Jere Patzer. A committee was formed, and the result was a movie—called "Movie-Movie."

This 20-minute multimedia film addresses some of the most difficult issues: What is the difference between seeing a movie in a theater or in the school gym? Is there a difference between television and the theater?

Young people and adults who have seen the film agree that it is "humorous, upbeat, and positive."

The film can be used as a

Christian Record Sets Up Gift Bible Fund

LINCOLN, Nebraska—A gift Bible memorial fund has been established at Christian Record Braille Foundation in honor of the late C. G. Cross, who served as manager and editor at C.R.B.F. from 1958 through 1974.

Wendell Carpenter, coordinator of reading services at C.R.B.F., said the foundation has had to deny some requests for gift Bibles or postpone sending them because of limited funding.

"We're confident this memorial will benefit the blind who long to study the Scriptures," he added.

In Times Like These

Robert A. Thompson
President
Indiana Conference

"In Times Like These" was the theme for the 1982 Indiana Camp Meeting. What a timely topic for these troubled times. In times like these, we all need a Saviour. God's people were again reminded that Jesus loves us and is directing our lives.

When we are faced with economic insecurity, we need a Saviour, and He is there to help. There is no crisis that He has not seen and prepared for. He will care for our temporal needs as well as our spiritual needs. He notices even the sparrow that falls. He knows all about us and will help us because we are of more value than many sparrows.

When trouble comes into our family circle through serious accident, sickness, or the death of a loved one, we need a Saviour, and can be assured of His presence. He walks with us in times of joy and happiness but also through the dark valleys. "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me." Psalm 23:4.

When the tempter comes in like a flood and tries to confuse us about the fundamental beliefs of our faith, we need a Saviour, and He is always there. Jesus says, "I am the way, the truth, and the life: . . ." John 14. 6. He has given us the promise that the Holy Spirit will be with us to guide us into all truth. How good it is to know that He stands ready to help us not only find truth but to live its principles in our lives.

When everything is going great and those around us have nothing but praise concerning us, we especially need a Saviour. Satan tries to cause our pride to grow and our humility to shrink. He knows if we begin to depend more on self and less on Christ, he can destroy us sooner or later. Yes, when men speak well of us, we need a Saviour.

When it seems like no one understands or cares about us or what happens to us, we need a Saviour, and praise God, He is always available. He says to each of us who may be weary of our sins and shortcomings, "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light." Matthew 11:28-30.

For any situation, whether it be joy or sorrow, we need a Saviour, and what a wonderful Saviour we have. Especially in times like these, the closing days of earth's history, let's open our hearts and receive Jesus as our Saviour, Lord and King.
