Adventists Witness At World's Fair

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Christ and salvation through His shed blood are being proclaimed at the New Orleans World's Fair through a striking audio-visual presentation.

During the first eight weeks of the fair, 40,000 persons have visited the exhibit, and 80,000 pieces of literature have been distributed, according to Marvel Sundin, executive director.

The exhibit, labeled "Living Water Theater," is plainly designated as being presented by Seventh-day Adventists. The theme of the fair itself is "The World of Rivers—Fresh Water as a Source of Life."

The 13-minute computerized multimedia program is presented in a theater with a capacity of 100 persons, using 20 projectors, a 30-foot screen, and six-channel stereo sound.

The visuals are all taken from the work of Lorenzo Ghiglieri's well-known artwork, "Earth: Theater of the Universe."

The narration, specially written for this project, gives the essence of God's plan of salvation from man's sin to God's remedy in the gift of Jesus on Calvary, and His predicted second coming.

The story is given as the first-person witness of seven biblical persons: Adam, Mary (the mother of Jesus), John the Baptist, Peter, Pilate, a Roman soldier, and John the Revelator.

The recorded voices of professional actors portray the various personalities and the deep feeling of these persons.

The facts of the Gospel are so plainly and forcefully presented that many people are visibly moved as they leave the theater; yet the presentation is made in such an uncontroversial way that people of widely varied religious and cultural backgrounds express great interest.

"You don't just enjoy it—you experience it!" exclaimed one woman. Many visitors call it "the best thing in the whole fair."

Two shifts of volunteers (four in each shift) man the exhibit daily. Henrietta Stumpf of New Orleans is the personnel coordinator. She recruits people who can work for one or two weeks and who are willing to pay their own expenses, although often it is possible to provide housing for them at no cost.

Anyone interested in visiting the fair and giving a week or more of service should phone Henrietta at 504-733-3009 (preferably between 8 and 9 A.M. C.D.T.), or write her at P. O. Box 884, Metairie, LA 70004.

Harris of Pendleton Gives Scholarships to Students

WISCONSIN—The Wisconsin Academy Division of Harris of Pendleton awarded $1,000 in scholarships at the end of the school year.

Al Koehler, plant manager, presented the awards to Janet Booth ($500), Diane Feltman ($250), Doloris Enderson ($125) and Greg Mills ($125).

Winners are chosen on the basis of the quality and quantity of their work, proficiency, initiative, conduct, attendance, interpersonal relations and positive attitude. Students are graded by their supervisors monthly, and points accumulate until the end of the school year when they are totaled.

In addition to a high score, a student must also have a satisfactory citizenship grade from the school in order to qualify for the scholarship awards. A committee from the staff makes the final selections.

Charles Fry, president of Harris of Pendleton, introduced the new award program last fall. The company is pleased to offer exemplary student workers this assistance to further their education.

Since 1955 student workers have earned more than $41.5 million from the company to help defray educational expenses.

Mr. Koehler reported that sales surpassed expectations during 1983-84; 41 students were regularly employed at the Wisconsin Academy Division.

Archaeological Find Confirms Bible Text

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Andrews University's new archaeological excavation at Tell el-Umeiri in Jordan began with an exciting discovery, according to project director Lawrence T. Geraty, professor of archaeology and history of antiquity at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews.

Lloyd Willis of Spicer College in India found the seal impression of the prime minister of Baalis, an Ammonite king, known until now only in the Bible (Jeremiah 40:14). "This is the first extra-biblical reference to this monarch who reigned over central Jordan about 600 B.C.," said Dr. Geraty.

In addition to the seal impression, some pottery, flints and many other objects have been found, including a cylinder seal, a clasp resembling a safety pin, arrowheads, fragments of pottery containing inscriptions, human and animal figurines, and pieces of jewelry.

"These surface finds suggest the probability that Tell el-Umeiri will yield a rich harvest of data as excavation begins in earnest," said Dr. Geraty.

One innovation begun on this site is the computerization of much of the data in the field. Larry Herr, chief archaeologist of the expedition, who is affiliated with the Far East Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, produced a field manual based on the team's previous experience

A preliminary drawing of the seal impression of Baalis, an Ammonite king, recently discovered during an archaeological excavation in Jordan. (Drawing by Peter Erhard, associate professor of art at Andrews) digging at nearby Heshbon but incorporated many advanced methods.

James Brower, programmer and systems analyst for the Institute of Archaeology at Andrews, has helped to produce the forms and software that are being tested for the first time.

Dr. Geraty said, "None of the success so far would have been possible without substantial financial backing of numerous generous donors to the project."

Spiritual Guardians stand with their charges in the sanctuary of the Capitol City Church in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Spiritual Guardians Begin At Capitol City

LAKE REGION—In keeping with the counsel of the Spirit of Prophecy, Evelyn Robinson and her sister Judy Crawford, both Bible instructors, recently formed the "Spiritual Guardians" in the Capitol City Church, Indianapolis, Indiana.

Thirty-eight members, half new believers and half established members, held a candlelight service recently initiating the new program.

The idea is very simple: New believers are matched with more mature members in the church; then the established member keeps close to the new believer by showing a continuing interest in the spiritual well-being of that person.

12-Year-Old Joins Paris Church

ILLINOIS—According to Elder Wayne Pleasants, Ronnie Garver, 12, loved studying "Uncle" Arthur Maxwell's Bible Stories in preparation for church membership. Ronnie has presented the mission story and vocal solos for Sabbath School. He is the son of Philip and Evelyn Wilson of the Paris, Illinois, Church.

The Song Goes On

On June 2, Evelyn Kroken was baptized by Elder Dick Morris and welcomed into the Green Bay, Wisconsin, church family.

As a spiritually hungry child, Evelyn often pled with her mother to attend church, but to little avail.

At the age of 11, Evelyn spent 14 months in a Catholic hospital recovering from burns, caused by an exploding stove, to 85 percent of her body. While in the hospital she received religious instruction from the kind nuns who cared for her.

no one but YOU

She recalls that during the time of her extreme pain, when death seemed near, Jesus appeared to her twice, as in a vision, and assured her that she would not die. She believes her recovery was a miracle.

in the removal of 70 percent of her stomach. In April 1983, Evelyn battled with severe iron deficiency and rheumatoid arthritis. Her usually strong-willed nature was at a low ebb.

Emil and Pat Schneider

It was then that she was invited by a friend, Carolyn Schwab, to attend a Bible study on prophecy. Evelyn began to attend studies on the book of Daniel which were held in the back room of Emil Schneider's piano store in Green Bay. The studies were conducted by Emil and his son, Steve.

Evelyn says, "To me the studies were like nectar, and I was thirsty." Before long, Emil's wife, Pat, convinced Evelyn to drink quantities of fruit and vegetable juices, which seemed to improve her health problem of low iron. By October Evelyn was attending church every Sabbath with the Schneiders, and she enrolled her granddaughter in the Green Bay Church School.

By March 1984 Evelyn had discovered a spiritual peace and physical health which she had not dreamed possible. She requested baptismal studies with Elder Morris, which resulted in her recent baptism.

Evelyn's daughter Karen is now a member of Emil Schneider's Bible prophecy classes and attends Sabbath School and church with her three children each Sabbath.

Editor's Note: Emil and Pat Schneider, Evelyn Kroken and Carolyn Schwab are all featured in this quarter's NO ONE BUT YOU slide-tape program, "The Love Song." At the time the program was prepared Evelyn was not yet baptized. As you can see, the song goes on.

Evelyn Kroken

As the years passed, Evelyn endured more physical trials; nine months of hospitalization for corrective surgery when she was 13, and a car accident which caused a whiplash injury to her as a young adult.

Several years later she again came near death during the delivery complications of her fifth child. Again Jesus assured her that she would live because His Father had work for her to do.

Through her trials her faith continued to be strong, and with a nagging unrest to search for His truth she joined one Protestant denomination after another until she was thoroughly disillusioned.

Andrews Graduates 253 At Summer Commencement

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Andrews University held its annual summer commencement on Sunday, August 5. Graduation ceremonies were held in Pioneer Memorial Church on campus.

Donald Welch

it was entitled "Go Ye Into All the World."

During Sunday's program approximately 253 students received degrees, including those on the associate, bachelor's, master's and doctoral levels.

The consecration service was held Friday at 8 P.M. The sermon, given by William E. Richardson, associate professor of religion in the Andrews University Theological Seminary, was "A Ripple is Not Forever."

Candidates for graduation lined the international flag walk on Friday evening before the meeting. The flags represent the nearly 90 countries from which Andrews students come.

Speaker for the baccalaureate service Saturday morning was W. Duncan Eva, former vice president of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. His sermon was titled "Here Am I, Send Me."

Portions of the Mendelssohn oratorio "Hymn of Praise" were performed during the Sabbath evening vespers at Pioneer Memorial Church; Dr. Harold E. Lickey, professor of music at Andrews, conducted.

During the commencement ceremony, diplomas were presented by W. Richard Leshner, Andrews' president, assisted by Richard W. Schwarz, vice president for academic administration, and Norman J. Roy, director of records.

At the end of the program, Willard Mauro, president of the alumni association, welcomed the graduates as new alumni.

Andrews University Offers Administrative Arts Program

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—The Andrews University School of Business is offering a graduate interdisciplinary program this fall in administrative skills called master of administrative arts, according to Robert Firth, acting dean of the School of Business.

"This new program is designed to meet the needs of denominational employees who want to upgrade their administrative skills on a graduate level," said Dr. Firth.

"The program replaces the fifth-year diploma program formerly offered by the school.

"The curriculum is being built entirely on existing courses, therefore requiring no new facilities or faculty. It is a repackaging of existing courses, giving opportunity to those wanting to pursue graduate studies but not interested in the requirements of the master of business administration degree."

Those seeking acceptance into the program must have a baccalaureate degree; a 2.5 entering grade point average and/or successful experience in supervisory, leadership, or management positions; English proficiency for foreign students, and presentation of an acceptable G.M.A.T. score. Each degree candidate will submit a project or professional paper as part of the degree requirements.

Dr. Firth said the School of Business anticipates quick growth of this program because of its wide appeal, and intends that it will further the goals of the school toward eventual accreditation.

Visiting Professor Assists Andrews Architecture Department

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—The developing emphasis on interior architecture at Andrews University has been given new impetus by the addition of Neville Salvador as visiting professor for the 1984-85 school year, according to Neville Clouten, chairman of the department of architecture at Andrews.

Neville Salvador

Mr. Salvador graduated from California Polytechnic State University in 1978 with a bachelor of science in architecture degree. For the past five years he has been a designer with Walker Associates Inc., in downtown Los Angeles.

"During his time with Walker Associates, the firm took a leading role in the nation in interior architecture; designing large commercial interiors for such companies as Mattel, Citicorp Bank, Wells Fargo, and other firms in the United States and abroad," said Dr. Clouten.

In addition to teaching interior architecture studies, Mr. Salvador will be team teaching a new course, Introduction to Architecture and Interior Architecture, with architect Dominique Walmsley, instructor in architecture at Andrews.

Dr. Clouten said that at present there are few interior design degree programs affiliated with programs in architecture. In Europe, architectural studies are in three areas: interior, building envelope, and landscape architecture. Andrews is among the first group of schools in this country to follow this trend.

Dr. Clouten said, "Traditionally, employment for interior designers has been as consultants on residential or small office projects. This new approach sees the interior architect as an integral part of the design team from the very beginning of a project and prepares the student for work in an architectural firm by providing architectural skills as a complement to interior design skills."

A New Approach to Ministerial Training

ANDREWS UNIVERSITY—Pastoral Formation is not just another classroom experience at the Andrews University Theological Seminary. It is a new and challenging approach to ministerial training, according to Clarence Gruesbeck, associate professor of church ministry and director of the program.

Students from around the world and every union of the North American Division of the Adventist Church study for the ministry at Andrews. Each one is assigned to a "growth-action group" which consists of the students assigned to a particular church, the pastor of that church and a faculty advisor.

This group meets every Monday morning from September until May for Bible study, prayer and discussion of ways to better serve the church.

"First-year students are engaged in 'in-reach' types of activities," Dr. Gruesbeck said. "These are programs and events meant to reach or involve church members."

"The students are required to attend as many different committee meetings as possible and any other church functions they can to learn how the church operates."

"Second-year students work with 'outreach' types of activities," he said. Examples of outreach activities are evangelistic meetings, Revelation Seminars, stop-smoking plans, community needs surveys, Bible studies and other programs designed to share the good news of the Gospel and the message of Jesus' soon coming."

Currently 13 students and Elder Don Driver of the Berrien Springs Village Church are working toward establishing a new church in St. Joseph, Michigan. They began last fall by going door to door searching for people interested in Bible studies. In January, six simultaneous Revelation Seminars were held.

"The seminars began with a total attendance of more than 300 people," said Dr. Gruesbeck. "When the seminars ended the first week of May, more than 125 individuals had completed the entire course."

"These people are being nurtured in their newfound faith by the students who are conducting Daniel Seminars. All the students have shown a great level of dedication throughout the entire year."

"Our goal is to send out competently trained workers," says Dr. Gruesbeck. "Of course, there is always more to learn. That's what makes ministry so exciting."

Illinois Action Teams Move Ahead

ILLINOIS—"Action," directed by the Holy Spirit, is the keynote of Illinois laity. Many church members are already committed to participating in the coming statewide training on how to conduct a Revelation Seminar.

Illinois Action Teams grew out of the enthusiastic response of church members who attended a regional stewardship program. Action Teams will be trained for service and witnessing.

The first of the training workshops will prepare members to conduct revelation seminars. A four-hour session will be held to teach members how to plan, advertise and conduct a seminar.

It will instruct members in how to bring people to decisions for Jesus Christ and how to prepare candidates for baptism in cooperation with the church pastor.

The first training workshop is scheduled for September 9 from 10 A.M. to 3 P.M. and will be held in six different locations throughout Illinois. Contact your pastor, head elder, or personal ministries leader for the place of meeting nearest you.

Indiana Conference News Notes

● The Indianapolis Glendale Church held its annual Vacation Bible School June 25 to 29. Forty-nine children registered. On the evening of the last day a program was presented for parents and friends. Mary Perkins, Vacation Bible School director, led the program which was entitled "Jesus is My Friend." She was assisted by 18 other volunteers, reported Beth Schmidt, communication secretary.

● Pathfinders of the Indianapolis Glendale Church staged a pet show June 24 at the junior academy. Pets included birds, cats, hamsters, gerbils and dogs. Judges awarded Pathfinders honors for grooming, obedience, and most entertaining, according to Beth Schmidt, communication secretary for the Glendale Church.

● The Fort Wayne Vacation Bible School, directed by Alicia Sutton, educated and entertained 43 children for five evenings beginning June 25. On June 29 the children presented a closing program for their parents and friends. Twenty-four of the children attending Vacation Bible School were from non-Adventist homes.

Community Guest Day at Capitol City

LAKE REGION—Randolph E. Stafford was the guest speaker for the Community Guest Day at Capitol City Church in Indianapolis, Indiana. Elder Stafford was formerly a pastor in the Central States Conference and is now serving as ministerial director of the East African Union Mission. His sermon was titled "Tomorrow About This Time." The sermon was taken from Joshua 11:1-6, and dealt with God's promise to deliver Israel from the enemy armies. Community Guest Day was sponsored by the Sabbath School department; Loyetta Warren is Sabbath School superintendent. A full day of activities was planned and an afternoon meal was served to the guests.

School Alumni Day Celebrated At Capitol Avenue Church

LAKE REGION—Sabbath, June 16, was Capitol Avenue Church School Alumni Day at the Capitol City Church in Indianapolis, Indiana. The years of the 1930's and 1940's were highlighted.

Former teachers and alumni from as far away as Pasadena, California; Cleveland, Ohio; Inkster, Michigan, and Chicago, Illinois were present.

Elder David Rand, Andrews University chaplain, was the guest speaker. Participants for the day were former teachers and alumni of the West Street, Capitol Avenue, and Capitol City church schools.

During the morning service, Ruby Cartwright, a former student at Capitol Avenue Church School, presented a history of the church school's humble beginning in the early 1930's: eight grades in one room at the rear of the church.

After the morning service a dinner was served. An evening social provided the opportunity for everyone to renew acquaintances and reminisce about old times.

Ann Ross, who headed the planning committee, says future plans are being made for another class reunion in two years; perhaps honoring the classes of the 1950's and 1960's.

Lake Region Conference News Notes

● Phillip Willis, pastor of the Conant Gardens Church in Detroit, was the guest speaker at the most recent Motor City Youth Federation. The City Temple Church served as host for the event.

● Caleb Rosado, pastor of the All Nations Church in Berrien Springs, Michigan, addressed some 80 Roman Catholic leaders at the conference on Hispanic ministry at St. Mary's College June 24 to 29. The conference was sponsored by the Midwest Institute for Hispanic Ministry, a Catholic organization operating out of the University of Notre Dame.

● On June 23 Vaida Smith, soprano soloist, appeared with pianist Carlos Medly in a vespers concert at the All Nations Church in Berrien Springs, Michigan. The near capacity crowd experienced a blend of contemporary gospel, traditional, and black gospel music, according to Ronnie Rosado, communication secretary. Vaida is program director for WAUS-FM radio station in Berrien Springs, and Carlos is minister of music for the Faith Church in Dowagiac, Michigan.

● Beacon of Joy Church recently organized a brand new choir, the Evangelistic Choir, at the suggestion of Pastor Tyrone A. Boyd. The choir is currently accepting new members. The only prerequisite is to love to praise the Lord in song. The first performance by the 16-member choir was on Sabbath, May 19, at the divine worship service. Directed by Lorraine Harris and accompanied by pianist Joyce Hall and assistant pianist Anita Green, the Evangelistic Choir is currently scheduled to sing once a month for Evangelistic Day at Beacon of Joy Church, according to Tanya Williams, communication secretary.

● A special 13th Sabbath Day morning program was introduced at the Ephesus Church in Marion, Indiana, by Robert Casey, Sabbath School superintendent. Titled "God's Creation of Nature," the program opened with verses of God's promises read by Anne Rowe and Mary Carrol. Opening prayer was given by Frank Washington, Sabbath School teacher. Earliteen, junior and primary students also participated in the program. Youths who participated were Johnny Carrol, Karen Woolfolk, Chrissy Washington, Tedra Rowe, Carla Woolfolk and Josh Washington, reported James M. Buford, communication secretary.

● Plans are now in action to form prayer cells throughout the city of Indianapolis. J. David Parker, pastor of the Capitol City Church, envisions numbers of Capitol City members praying at the same time in different homes throughout the city, according to Charli Cartwright, communication secretary.

47 Blind Campers Enjoy Timber Ridge

INDIANA—Eugene Tally and Barney, his seeing-eye dog, enjoyed the annual Christian Record Braille Foundation camp for the blind at Timber Ridge June 24 to July 1. Archie Moore, newly appointed youth leader of the Indiana Conference, and John and Jim Jodie of Christian Record directed the program. Charles Case, Lake Union youth leader, assisted with crafts and served as a devotional speaker for the 47 campers who attended. Campers came from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Kentucky. Many volunteers joined the regular staff to help with the blind camp. Horseback riding, swimming, diving, boating, crafts, talent programs and ideal weather contributed to an outstanding camp. ## Pathfinder Day at Sharon

LAKE REGION—On June 2 the Milwaukee Badger Pathfinder Club celebrated its first local Pathfinder Day of the year.

The Badgers were in charge of all the Sabbath services. Acting superintendent for the day was Cheryl Blue.

An inspiring joint Sabbath School lesson study was led by Gerald O. Harvey, deputy director for the Badger Club.

Special music during the divine worship service was presented by the Strings of Harmony, a singing group from Saint Louis, Missouri. The sermon was given by Norman Usher, principal and teacher at the Sharon Junior Academy in Milwaukee.

Pathfinder of the Year trophies were awarded to Yulonda Blathers and Francesca Muiff.

The Strings of Harmony, consisting of young people ranging in age from 10 to 23, were in charge of the Adventist Youth Hour in the afternoon. The program was in the form of a skit and a mini-concert.

The closing event for the day was a fellowship social.

Michigan Conference News Notes

● John Swanson, health-temperance director of the Michigan Conference, conducted a nutrition and cooking seminar on June 10 from 1 to 5 P.M. in the Detroit Spanish Church. More than 20 persons attended the seminar and indicated interest. Natalie Weaver, veteran health educator in the metropolitan area was the chief instructor.

● Workers at the Muskegon Community Services Center recently sponsored "Nutrition to Prevent Disease," a series of health and vegetarian cooking classes. Forty-five people completed the course. Wanda Schrebe demonstrated the cooking and Pastor Norman Yeager presented the lectures.

Baptism Follows Crusade At Burns Avenue

LAKE REGION—James C. Wray, personal ministries director of the Lake Region Conference, conducted a crusade at the Burns Avenue Church in Detroit. At the conclusion of the meetings, 80 new believers were baptized. Above, Pastor Zadock Reid prays for Verneatha Roberts before her baptism. Joseph Cummings, a local elder of the church, assisted Pastor Zadock with the baptism.

Women's Day At Burns Avenue

LAKE REGION—The Third Annual Women's Day program was held at the Burns Avenue Church in Detroit. The program was dedicated to the memory of the late Ann Broughton, previous church treasurer. Guest speaker for the divine worship service was Beatrice Morgan, above, an educator from the Romulus, Michigan, school system. The Women's Day program was spearheaded by Alene Cantrell, current church treasurer. As a result of the program, $8,175 was raised for the building fund.

Preaching Helps Youth Decide For Baptism

MICHIGAN—Jeff Collett of Madison Heights, Michigan, recently became a member of the Troy, Michigan, Church. Jeff was raised in an Adventist home and attended Northfield Junior Academy until the ninth grade. He is now a senior in a local high school. Recently Jeff asked Pastor Armour Potter to baptize him and said that his decision was partly prompted "because of your preaching." Pastor Potter baptized Jeff following a series of Bible studies.

Jennifer Schwab, standing, and Cindy Quion were recent winners in a "Your Story Hour" writing contest. Larry Gatewood, left, their sixth-grade teacher, submitted the stories to "Your Story Hour" for consideration.

"Your Story Hour" Contest Has Three Young Winners

MICHIGAN—Cindy Quion, Jennifer Schwab and Katrina House were winners in a recent "Your Story Hour" writing contest, according to Elaine Meseraull, editor of the program's Clubhouse magazine.

"Your Story Hour" is a nondenominational Christian radio program based in Berrien Springs, Michigan.

The winning stories will appear in upcoming issues of Clubhouse magazine to promote "Clubhouse Writers," an opportunity for readers to share their personal experiences of how they know God cares for them.

Cindy, Jennifer and Katrina were sixth graders at Ruth Murdoch Elementary School when they wrote their stories.

According to Larry Gatewood, their teacher, his whole class wrote stories as a class assignment. He then selected the 10 best stories and sent them to Mrs. Meseraull. Cindy, Jennifer and Katrina each received $10 for their stories.

Cindy, daughter of Dr. Rudolfo and Annie Quion of Berrien Springs, wrote about their family motor home being hit by a semi-trailer while they were on vacation. Because none of her family were hurt in the accident, it proved to Cindy that God cares for her.

Jennifer, daughter of Dr. Robert and Susan Schwab, wrote about being run over by two bicycles and not being hurt. She also told how God answered her prayers for her brother when he was in a bicycle accident.

Katrina, daughter of Colin and Angela House of Berrien Springs, wrote about God's protection of her family through an accident on their way to camp meeting.

Each week "Your Story Hour" airs on more than 500 stations in 48 states and in Guam, Puerto Rico, Newfoundland, the Virgin Islands and the West Indies, according to Mrs. Meseraull.

Its declared objective is "building a better nation by 'bending the twigs' (the youth) toward high moral principles, spiritual development and selfless service for humanity."

Clubhouse magazine is free for the first year to children between the ages of 8 and 14. Approximately 16,000 young people subscribe to Clubhouse, which is produced at the home office on West Ferry Street in Berrien Springs.

This new flying saucer-like building at Camp Go Seek was used for small group meetings.

17 Baptized During Wisconsin Camp Meeting

WISCONSIN—"I've been to a lot of conference gatherings," said one new worker at the close of Wisconsin Camp Meeting. "But this is a real camp meeting."

During the week-long gathering with speakers such as Elder Bill Lehman, LaVerne Tucker of "The Quiet Hour," Royce Williams of "It Is Written," and H.M.S. Richards Jr. of "Voice of Prophecy," many decisions for Christ were made. In addition to commitments, 17 persons joined the church through baptism.

Youth speakers included Elder Al Kaiser, a doctor of ministry student at Andrews University, and Elder Norman Kinney, newly appointed Bible teacher at Wisconsin Academy. Children's divisions enjoyed a colorful variety of carefully prepared programs, including a special Noah's ark display and program at the kindergarten tent, prepared and written by Julie Randall and Kenene Wrangell of Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin.

The Wisconsin Adventist Book Center was the scene of heavy activity as campers stocked up on missionary books and literature as well as food items. Kurt Bandel, manager, says camp meeting sales amounted to about $107,000.

Rain during the week dampened tents, but good weather and moderate temperatures predominated as campers enjoyed Camp Go Seek with its pine and oak groves and two lakes.

A new addition to the camp buildings this year was a large rounded flying saucer-like building with encircling windows. This structure was used as a meeting place for smaller groups, and is being prepared for computer camp this summer.

Donated by Century 21 of Sun Prairie, Wisconsin, the former beauty parlor shell (28 feet in diameter) is newly carpeted. One little boy who surveyed the interior for the first time, commented, "I've never ridden in one of these before."

Baptism Follows Revelation Seminar

Decisions for Baptism Made At Wisconsin Camp Meeting

WISCONSIN—Baptisms at Wisconsin Camp Meeting this year included two couples from Green Bay who didn't really plan to be baptized just yet.

It wasn't until the afternoon of the second Sabbath at camp meeting that Bob and Pam Williams and Chet and Joyce Langemak finally realized that circumstances pointed to that day as their day of complete commitment to God.

Both couples have attended the Green Bay Church regularly for some months. The Williamses became acquainted with church members Bob and Cele Wery and Roland Bruntz more than a year ago. Bob Williams, a marketing executive with Schreiber Foods of Green Bay, soon recognized that the Seventh-day Adventist Church was what he had been looking for, and he and his wife and daughter became a part of the congregation.

Joyce Langemak had Bible studies with Green Bay member Colleen Frank. Both Joyce and her husband, Chet, attended a vegetarian cooking school; they had been vegetarians for some time. Chet, who heads the food service program in Green Bay's public schools, has a career background in foods and nutrition.

When a Daniel Seminar was advertised, the Langemaks were the only nonmembers to respond.

"Don't be discouraged," said the Langemaks to the seminar organizers, "we want to continue this study." So the class was moved to the Langemaks' home. It eventually developed into a Revelation Seminar conducted by Pastor Dick Morris.

The Williamses joined in the study of Revelation, and, before the seminar had ended, the Langemaks assumed leadership of the Green Bay Church's next vegetarian cooking school.

Bob became active in promoting the stop smoking and weight control classes and began arousing interest in local programming of Adventist television broadcasts. Pam and Joyce developed a fund-raising program for the Green Bay Church School which was in need of educational computers.

The Williamses had attended Wisconsin Camp Meeting last year and were looking forward to this year. They had discussed the possibility of baptism, but Pam wasn't sure she was quite ready for a full commitment.

The Langemaks had never been to camp meeting before, but, having heard so much about it, didn't want to miss the experience. They had no thought of being baptized at camp meeting, but had been working toward baptism for some time.

Chet, previously baptized by immersion in another communion, thought he would join the church by profession of faith, while Joyce, like Pam, was working her way through some final hesitations.

On the first Sabbath afternoon of camp meeting, Bob and the Langemaks were introduced at the main tent and shared their testimony with the congregation.

Chet shared his personal testimony and then told how he and his pastor had worked together in a prison ministry. Many who heard him were deeply moved by the testimony.

On that last Sabbath of camp meeting Bob decided to be baptized, but Pam decided to wait. Then at dinner Pam told her friends she had put aside her last doubts and she and Bob would be baptized together.

Chet and Joyce, having discovered that there was such a thing as camp meeting baptism, looked at one another and said, "Should we?" In a last-minute discussion with Pastor Morris, Joyce decided to be baptized. As Chet joined the discussion, he too decided to be baptized as a symbol of his recommitment with a fuller understanding of God's message.

77 Attend Hylandale Vacation Bible School

WISCONSIN—Last year the Hylandale Church had the first Vacation Bible School in the history of the little town of Rockland, Wisconsin; Rockland has a population of only 383. The attendance in 1983 was 59; this year attendance reached 77. At the closing program 75 children and 43 adults were present. Judy Olson and Sue Bonjour led the songs for half an hour each day and the nature study centered around chickens, wild edible plants, wild flowers, a lamb, a gerbil, two horses, and one mule. The nature study was conducted by Janie Hallock, Carole Pratt, and Bessie Everson. Others who assisted with Vacation Bible School were: Twyla Hallock, Pat Findlay, Norman Lampman, Marilyn Brown, Rosemary Nelson, Carol McKee, Sue Lawrence, Bill Boehm, Pastor Henry Mattson, Duane Bennett, and Darrell Brown. A follow-up program is planned as a Village Missionary Club with similar activities to those conducted during Vacation Bible School.

Wisconsin Conference News Notes

● Richard Knapp, pastor of the Bethel Church, presided at a baby dedication held Sabbath, May 12. Those participating were Mark and Kerri Castleberg, their son, Hans, and their daughter, Brooke; Leroy and Yvonne Wienke with son David; Michael and Shirley Castleberg with sons Shawn and Shane, and Philip and Geneva Castleberg with their daughter, Erin, and their son, Erik.

● Eighty-one children were enrolled in the Vacation Bible School sponsored by the Marshfield and Bethel, Wisconsin, churches for children aged 4 through 12. Bible study was centered on "Jesus Is My Friend." Storytellers were Leah Graham, Gail Livingood, Gary Hixon and Pastor Richard Knapp. Director of the program was Maureen Hixon of Bethel. She was assisted by Rosie Schroeder of Marshfield. The commencement program was held on the evening of June 8. Each class participated with songs, recitations, Bible memory work and a display of crafts. Pastor Knapp awarded the graduation certificates, and refreshments were served.

● Sabbath, July 7, Pastor Dan Towar baptized David Koeffler and Nicholas Conner during church services at the Appleton Church. David is married and the father of two children. He felt the need for rebaptism and a renewed commitment to Christ, according to Elaine Lorenz, communication secretary. Nicky, 11, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Conner. He studied both at home and at church school with Pastor Towar in preparation for baptism.

● A Revelation Seminar is being held by members of the Racine Church. This seminar began July 7 and will be held five days per week until August 17. Ardis Burke is conducting the seminar in a local Methodist church. Twenty-five persons attended the first meeting; 11 of those attending were non-Adventists, according to Charlotte Lindstrom, communication secretary. Ardis contributes the success of the seminar to Charles McMorris of the Franklin Church who had been invited by a number of community churches to speak to their congregations about the Revelation Seminar. Those assisting with the seminar are Vivian and Howard Roberts, Audra Burke, Jessica Jamieson, Karl and Carol Christensen, Cindy and Bob Hiles and Annie Todd.

● According to Dan Towar, pastor of the Appleton Church, Jessica Schaufel, Darla Wallenfang and Susan Laha were baptized during camp meeting, June 23.

● On April 21, 1984, Carol and Bob Conners were baptized in the Rice Lake Church as a result of a Revelation Seminar held in February. On the same day, three church school students, Shannon Fisher, Sharilyn Follett and Shannon Ritchie were baptized along with Norma Hom, who had been studying with Pastor Follett for some time. On June 2, Philip Galvin was baptized, and on June 23 at camp meeting, Eric Finch and Donald Beyreis were baptized; they are church school students. Robert Simenson joined the Rice Lake Church by profession of faith on June 30. His decision for baptism was made as a result of attending a Revelation Seminar, according to Ann Tachenko, communication secretary. Pastor Jan Follett is anticipating more baptisms this fall.

● Lola Bryant, communication secretary of the Waukesha Community Church, reported a church open house was held on May 19 to celebrate the completion of the new sanctuary. In April 1980 land was purchased by the members of the church to construct the new church and, in April 1982, ground was broken for the project. Volunteer services of the congregation, friends and some members of Maranatha Flights International raised the building.

Juniors Display Sanctuary at Camp Meeting

WISCONSIN—The sanctuary was displayed in actual size by the junior department at Wisconsin Camp Meeting this year. Pastor Ken Peters of the Tomah and Wisconsin Rapids churches was responsible for the construction. The sanctuary furniture was designed as near as possible to the likeness of the original; however, it was made of cardboard rather than wood, brass and gold. The curtains of the outer court, holy, and most holy places were outlined by juniors standing in place. Both juniors and adults were surprised by the vastness of the outer court area (75' by 150'). Presentations by Pastor Peters helped the junior boys and girls better understand the meaning of the sanctuary as a whole and the symbolism of each item within the sanctuary, according to Henry Mattson, Pastor La Crosse, Wisconsin District.

World Church News Notes

● Pastor and Mrs. LaVerne Tucker of "The Quiet Hour" radio broadcast recently returned from a month of evangelism in Sabah (formerly North Borneo) and the Philippines. They report 158 baptisms in Sabah and 106 on the Palawan Island. Concurrently with the Tuckers' meeting in Palawan, 15 satellite groups met nightly in the outlying districts. Baptisms totaled more than 300.

● Pathfinder clubs across the division will benefit from the newest journal to be published by the Review and Herald; Pathfinder. This four-color, 24-page journal will be published every other month, offering adventure stories, nature stories, camping tips, craft ideas and local news from various Pathfinder clubs across the division. Kris Coffin, a recent graduate of Pacific Union College, is the managing editor of Pathfinder.

Adventist Parents Fight Against Drugs

WASHINGTON, D.C.—General Conference President Neal C. Wilson will be the keynote speaker at the third meeting of Seventh-day Adventist parents and educators who are becoming personally involved in fighting drug use among young church members.

Scheduled for 2:30 P.M. September 29 at the Takoma Park, Maryland, Adventist Church Center, the meeting will offer dialogue among those who are dealing with this problem.

According to the National Institute on Drug Abuse, parents themselves are the best protection young people have against involvement with drugs. And Seventh-day Adventist parents are beginning to organize themselves into parent-support groups around the North American Division.

Since the first such meeting in Washington, D.C., last year, the parent-support movement within the Adventist Church has blossomed into active programs in several places, including Berrien Springs, Michigan; Calgary, Alberta; Loma Linda, California, and Kettering, Ohio. At the Atlanta meeting in March, where representatives gathered from 10 states and provinces, these groups voted to join into a loosely organized national group.

The meeting in September will follow a three-day convention in Washington, D.C., of the National Federation of Parents for Drug-Free Youth. The Sabbath afternoon meeting in Takoma Park will discuss the unique problems that drug use is making within the Seventh-day Adventist Church and will offer solutions that parents can implement themselves.

Among other topics, attendees will discuss progress on a survey of drug-abuse problems in Adventist schools, support of the newly formed Institute of Alcoholism and Drug Dependency at Andrews University, and possible establishment of a program on Adventist college campuses similar to Alcoholics Anonymous.

Letters

Letters on nontheological topics are welcomed by the editors. We appreciate your thoughtful reaction to articles printed and your suggestions and questions. Right is reserved to edit for continuity and space limitations. Your name, address and the name of home church are required, but will not be published if you request anonymity.

I wanted to write to let you know how I appreciate the articles, pictures and human interest stories you are putting in the Herald. The color pictures on the outside cover are very eye-catching. The June 19 issue was especially interesting to me. The stories "Drawn by His Love," "Fathers are Special," "He Treated Her Like a Lady," "Pastors Are People, Too," and "A True Success Story" were all so outstanding! It is great to know how the Lord is working in many people's lives. The Herald surely isn't boring; it is getting better!

A Time for Everything

Charles Joseph
President
Lake Region Conference

"There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under heaven" (Ecclesiastes 3:1, New International Version).

It was December 1983. The temperature had dipped to a new low. The chill factor made it virtually impossible to heat the church. A few saints gathered to worship, but finding the temperature of the church sanctuary at 48 degrees, the minister shared a few words of comfort and dismissed the members with these words, "Maybe this time next week we will have better weather."

The whole ancient world believed that for everything they did there was an appropriate hour. If you wanted to build a house or to marry; if you wanted to travel or to begin a war; if you wanted to work or rest, they felt you must move at the right moment. The greatest people of the past waited for words announcing the hour and timing of great events.

Jesus Himself had said that his "hour had not yet come"; and He went to Jerusalem when He felt that His hour had come.

Successful business people say that the first step to a successful action is the right timing. Modern man has a clock in every home, on every street, and more important, in his mind and in his nerves. It determines our daily timing. Without it we could not plan for the next hour, we could not time any of our activities. But the clock also reminds us that we are timed.

What does the clock tell you? Does it point to another day to awake, get up, work, eat, relax and go back to sleep. Does it point to the next appointment for a serious discussion with someone about his soul? Does it point to the next opportunity to do it again? Or does it show that another day, another week has passed; that we have become older; that better timing is needed if we are to ever become involved in God's great plan of soul-winning.

Sooner or later the voice of the clock will not speak to you anymore. It will tick for its last time or it will outlast your own earthly time.

I returned a phone call last week and heard a familiar voice say, "Hello, Dr. Joseph, I just thought I would let you know that I plan to join the Adventist Church this coming Sabbath."

"Tell me," I inquired, "how did you come to this place in your thinking?"

"Well," he said, "I mentioned to you long ago that I like what I see and hear in the Adventist faith, and now I have decided that it is the fellowship that I want to enjoy. I want to learn in depth the position of the church on all issues that will have an impact on my relationship with Christ."

"But why are you now sure that this is what you want to do," I asked.

He answered in clear, certain words, "It is time."

For everything there is a time. Now is the time for _____. You fill in the blank that indicates time for what.
