

The final climax

John Hayward Secretary Lake Union Conference A few weeks ago, Paul Harvey reported on his newscast that the Adventist Church is the fastest growing church.

We are not sure as to the growth patterns of other denominations, but we do know that the net growth of our church has been escalating at a very rapid pace in recent years. It took more than 100 years to reach the first million in our church membership, but only two and one-half years to add the last one million members to our membership in the world church.

But wait! The objective for baptisms during the present quinquennium is more than 2,300,000. Can it be done?

The Apostle John was given a vision of the final climax of the Gospel to all the world when he said, "I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory" (Revelation 18:1).

A mighty revival and reformation must surge through the camp of modern Israel to prepare the church for its final victory. And it will come! And that time should be now!

Our appeal is that each of us renew our commitment to the Lord Jesus Christ and open our hearts to the infilling of His Holy Spirit and that Harvest 90 may become such a mighty thrust forward in soul winning that it will enlighten the world with the glory of God and usher in the second coming of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

Each one should use whatever gift he has received to serve others, faithfully administering God's grace in its various forms" (1 Peter 4:10, New International Version).

Some of the most vivid memories that we have are those moments when we had the privilege of sharing a meal, enjoying a fleeting moment of awe-inspiring worship or praise, seizing an opportunity to serve others.

There is no greater or more important gift of the Spirit to the church than the gift of hospitality. It is the tool used to impress hearts and lives of the sincerity and depth of the Christian experience.

Our friends and neighbors many times have erroneous ideas about the Seventh-day Adventist Church. They need to see us as we are. They need to have the experience of our worship and Bible study habits. They need to see our deep love and regard for each other that they may know we are truly Christians.

Community Guest Day is one of the most dynamic ways of witnessing, and it certainly can help our friends to know us. On March 22, the churches in the North American Division are once again planning to invite friends from the community to fellowship with us.

Peter says: "Above all, love each other deeply, because love covers over a multitude of sins. Offer hospitality to one another without grumbling" (1 Peter 4:8,9, New International Version). I am sure that if we heed this counsel, God will greatly bless our new contacts.

Let us lay aside every feeling toward our fellow believers that might hinder the demonstration of this love. And let us plan our programs to surround our visitors with the atmosphere of hospitality.

Troy hospitality ministry expands to new outreach dimensions

Two years ago, this quarter, the "No One But You" program centered around the hospitality ministry of the Troy, Michigan, Church.

A new dimension to the team's hospitality outreach begins in April when an evangelistic series opens at the Performing Arts Center in the Troy Public High School.

but one but The Troy hospitality team consists of individuals scoring high in hospitality on a spiritual gifts test administered by their pastor, Armour Potter.

One of the most important activities of the hospitality team includes making visitors feel at home and a part of the church family. A key to the success of this soulwinning ministry are the hospitality families who open their homes each week to visitors for Sabbath dinner.

The 1984 slide/tape program, "By the Side of the Road," featured individuals who are members of the Troy Church today because they were impressed with the warm, Christian friendship extended to them.

What evangelist would not be thrilled to have such a trained, proven, soul winning staff welcoming guests to his series of meetings! Roland Lehnhoff, the newest member of the Michigan Conference evangelism team, will enjoy this blessing when he and his wife, Janice, an accomplished musician, open their "New Dimensions of Living" series April 4 at the Troy High School.

The Troy Church hospitality team will welcome guests to the Performing Arts Center during the first three weeks of the crusade. When the meetings transfer to the Troy Church, they will take their posts there to help make a smooth transition between meeting places.

This series of meetings will be the first conducted by the Lehnhoffs for the Michigan Conference since coming from the "It Is Written" telecast located in California.

Though joining the conference as a full time evangelist, Pastor Lehnhoff will continue taping as associate speaker with George Vandeman on the "It Is Written" program.

Throughout the April 4-May 17 meetings, Pastor Lehnhoff plans to cover two topics per seminar session on Fridays at 7 P.M., Saturdays at 7 P.M. and Sundays at 5 P.M. During the week, the evangelism team will visit interests from the meetings.

Elder Vandeman is scheduled to introduce Pastor Lehnhoff on opening night. Coming from California to serve as crusade soloist for the entire series is Merle Morgan, a Chapel Records artist.

Healthful living—what an experience!

by William E. Jones

OW important is the Seventh-day Adventist health message to you? Is it important enough for you to stay fit? Eat right? Manage stress? Live drug free?

"It is important," you might say, "but I do not always do what I know to be best." In other words, sometimes, we are like the farmer who was invited to attend a seminar on better farming techniques. "Oh, I already know how to farm better than I am doing now," was his reply.

Putting into practice proper choices based on Christian principles will help us to enjoy more fully the life which the Lord has entrusted to us.

"Men and women cannot violate natural law by indulging depraved appetite and lustful passions, and not violate the law of God. Therefore He has permitted the light of health reform to shine upon us, that we may see our sin in violating the laws which He has established in our being.

"All our enjoyment or suffering may be traced to obedience or transgression of natural law" (Counsels on Diet and Foods, p. 69).

There should be enough motivation from the statistics alone to encourage our healthy choices. Think of it, surveys indicate an extension of life of five to seven years merely by abstaining from the harmful while partaking of that which is wholesome. It is not just a longer life span but a more complete, active, rewarding extension of a vibrant life.

"God has bountifully provided for the sustenance and happiness of all His creatures; if His laws were never violated, if all acted in harmony with the divine will, health, peace, and happiness, instead of misery and continual evil, would be the result" (Counsels on Diet and Foods, p. 20).

Why has the Seventh-day Adventist Church been so blessed with advanced knowledge regarding the health principles the world is just discovering? In my opinion, there have been two reasons.

First, Seventh-day Adventists who have put into practice a lifestyle compatible with the health message have reaped the harvest of a longer, happier existence. Second, they have experienced something in their own lives to share with others. This sharing of the health message with others has drawn many to God's final message for these closing days of earth's history.

A pitfall we need to avoid is developing a "better-than-thou" attitude.

"There is a real common sense in dietetic reform. The subject should be studied broadly and deeply, and no one should criticize others because their practice is not, in all things, in harmony with his own. It is impossible to make an unvarying rule to regulate every one's habits, and no one should think himself a criterion for all" (Counsels on Diet and Foods, p. 198).

The Seventh-day Adventist health message has been and will continue to be a central part of the church's outreach program. But, before we can tell others, we need to have the experience ourselves. It is our choice! Let us read! Let us study! And let us put into practice what we have learned!

THE Adventist Youth Week of Prayer resources prepared for March 15-22, 1986, are very timely because they reflect the mission of Jesus while here on earth.

Young people, especially, are asking, "What's the best way to live a Christian life?" Clear answers will be found in this week's series: "What Does It Mean to Be a Christian?"; "How to Live the Doctrine of Christ;" "How to Live the Doctrine of Revelation" and the Resurrection, the Church, Salvation, Obedience, Judgment.

These sermons come from a life of experience with the Lord, by Mario Veloso, a minister, teacher, youth director, writer, scholar and secretary of the South American Division. He has been an inspiration to young people while serving as youth director in Chile, the Austral Union and the South American Division.

Dr. Veloso developed the koinonia group fellowship concept during his ministry in the Austral Union and then took it to the whole division. Koinonia is now a familiar word in the youth societies of South America and has helped to infuse new life into the youth ministry and the lives of the young people who are involved in the koinonia ministry.

Dr. Veloso holds a Master of Divinity degree from Andrews University and a Doctor of Theology degree from a Jesuit university in Argentina. He has written extensively and has to his credit more than a dozen books. This week's series was originally written in Spanish and translated into English by Eva Michel.

The plan is for these sermons to be used in every Seventh-day Adventist Church during this week of prayer.

We wonder why so many young people are not interested in church activities. Could it be, we don't give enough attention to them by having special programs for them like the Adventist Youth Week of Prayer?

Every Seventh-day Adventist Church should be open during this week. Invite not only the S.D.A. youth, but invite them to bring their friends. Our young people should be encouraged to present these very timely sermons.

It is recommended that this special week for the youth begin on Friday evening, March 14. A special program which I wrote entitled "Give Praise to God" has been chosen by the North American Division to open the hearts and minds of the youths of the Adventist church to be receptive to the sermons by Elder Veloso.

Adult Sabbath School leaders should be willing to allow the youths of their church to present the adult Sabbath School programs on both Sabbaths, using the specific programs that are provided for this week.

The personal ministries directors should invite two or three young people to share with the church body how they are or have been involved in outreach ministries.

A special social should be planned with the young people and their families for Saturday night.

An extra special prayer breakfast can be organized for Sunday morning at the church for all the church members.

Look through the sermons, activities and instructions that are in a special Adventist Youth Week of Prayer packet, available from your conference youth department. If you have not received it, call or write immediately for one. It is hoped this will be the highlight of the year for the youths of each S.D.A. church and academy.

This is the youth Week of Prayer. Let's plan a special time for them March 14-22. We trust this week will encourage many youths to commit their lives each day to their Master.

Lake Region Conference

Adventist Singles Ministries organized in Jamaica

Lake Region—Delphy Cross, a pastor in Jamaica, dreamed that one day his country might be evangelized by Christian singles organized through Adventist Singles Ministries (A.S.M.).

He prayed for, asked and received the blessings of the Central Jamaica Conference president, Cornelius A. Gray. An invitation was extended, several miracles were wrought and the dream was fertilized. The two men worked endlessly to see the dream become a reality.

The invitation to go to the island of Maica came in mid-November—a virtually impossible time to get airline reservations. Betty Gardner, A.S.M. vice president for leadership training; Diane Butler, vice president for social activities, and Elodia Jones, vice president for minority singles ministries determined to honor the invitation.

Harold and Merle Bennett, who were working with Elodia Jones to establish a singles chapter at West Indies College, made all travel arrangements.

Miss Jones says, "We received the last seat on three different flights that arrived in Jamaica within hours of each other."

After travel arrangements were made, we started seeking travel funds. A collection taken at an A.S.M. retreat netted $480, and a doctor in the group donated $500.

On December 26, A.S.M. officers met with the outgoing president of the West Indies Union, Noel S. Fraser, and the new union president, S. M. Reid, to inform them of our plans. Elder Reid expressed a desire to have someone return in February to explain the program to the conference committee of ministers, conference presidents and school officials.

This meeting was planned to include representatives of the Bahamas, Cayman, Turks and Caicos islands and Jamaica.

On December 28 A.S.M. members presented their program at Camp Verley, the Central Jamaica Conference campground. Five hundred singles expressed an interest in the organization.

Two hundred singles from five parishes attended the Monday workshop. St. Catherine had the largest representation, and a chapter was formed there. Nearly 250 singles attended the meeting in St. Mary Parish the next weekend. Churches with 400 members may form their own chapters.

The ministers in this area embraced the program, and Elder Gray is their prime supporter. Ellen G. White writes that "the secret of success is the union of divine power with human effort" (Patriarchs and Prophets, p. 509). Thus, we feel confident that A.S.M. will succeed, with a little work and many faithful prayers.

City Temple hosts praise service

Lake Region—At sundown, on December 31, members of the City Temple Church in Detroit and their sister churches gathered in the City Temple sanctuary to praise the Lord and seek His blessings.

Prior to the Ordinance of Humility, Charles Drake III, pastor of City Temple, admonished everyone to examine themselves for unconfessed sin. Separate facilities were provided for married participants of the foot washing observance.

A candle lighting ceremony enhanced the service of the Lord's Supper. Every worshiper who partook of the Lord's Supper was given the miniature plastic drinking cup as a reminder of this sacrament.

Elder T. M. Kelly, a Bible teacher at Oakwood College, was the featured soloist.

The local officers elected to serve Capitol City and her sister churches during 1986 were installed that evening. In calling these members to consecrate themselves to the Lord for obedience and service, Pastor Drake said:

"Those who are officers in God's church are doubly blessed. First, they are called out of darkness into the light of heaven. And second, they are officers in the kingdom of grace."

After the benediction, the worshipers gave a thank offering as they left the sanctuary.

Salesman returns 'blessed money'

Illinois—Darrell Hicks, a Bolingbrook Church member, has had a profitable Investment project.

Mr. Hicks is a salesman who travels throughout the upper midwest.

In 1969, Darrell decided to put any money he finds into Investment. He has found from one penny to a $20 bill. "Finding change and bills in parking lots, on the street and in telephone booths are some ways I have obtained Investment money," says Mr. Hicks. "I have found $178.75 thus far."

"I am happy to contribute my finds for the Investment projects of my church which provides for special water systems in Africa, mobile medical vans for inner cities in the United States and educational facilities overseas.

"I believe the money is blessed because of where I find it. My project fits right in with the recycled aluminum cans, old newspapers and garden produce of other investors."

Mr. Hicks puts the money found into a metal petrol bank which he empties each January 1.

Darrell Hicks finds another coin for his Investment project.

Project: Steps to Christ covers complete area zip code

Illinois—For the first time in the history of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, the occupants of every residence in an entire three-digit sectional center zip code have been given the opportunity to learn of the saving power of Jesus Christ.

Within the 629 sectional zip code in southern Illinois, approximately 95,000 residences have been reached with the Project: Steps to Christ packets. These packets contain invitations to write for free books, to listen to Adventist television and radio programs and to request individual Bible studies.

Just north is the 628 sectional zip code in which only five towns remain to be covered. When these towns are reached, another complete area zip code will have had the message of salvation brought directly to each home through the United States mail service.

But covering the zip code areas in Illinois and throughout the United States can only be accomplished through the generosity and dedication of laymen and laywomen who are willing to make financial sacrifices for God.

Many individuals and churches are becoming involved in the "adopt-a-zip-code" program. Some have been responsible for the zip code in the small town where they were born. Others are sending the Project: Steps to Christ packets to a certain zip code in a large city where they once lived.

Churches are sponsoring zip codes of neighboring towns to prepare the territory for the establishing of new churches or just to proclaim the news of salvation.

If you are interested in getting the message of Christ's soon coming directly into a zip code anywhere in the United States, write for more detailed information to Project: Steps to Christ, P.O. Box 40, Western Springs, IL 60558.

Successful stop smoking session conducted in Springfield

Illinois—The most successful Breath-Free Plan to Stop Smoking to date was held in Springfield, Illinois, in mid-January. Fifty-three persons registered the first night and 38 had stopped smoking by the second night.

At the follow-up reunion, the group requested that a reunion be held three weeks later. They also requested that another Breathe-Free session be held soon so they could invite relatives and friends and gave a generous offering of appreciation.

Ray Simmons, coordinator of the session, worked with Arnold Miller and David Garner. They have been assured of continued assistance from the American Cancer Society, American Heart Association and American Lung Association in future seminars.

Local physicians have pledged their support in presenting talks and providing materials. Several members of the local church assisted in making the program a success.

Lucille A. Trumbo, communication secretary, reports the following record was taken of the means by which each participant was prompted to attend: newspaper ad—32, personal letters—5, contacts by friends—5, radio announcement—4, posters—2, previous sessions—2, an American Cancer Society referral—2, an Adventist host—1.

Wisconsin Conference news note

 On January 30, Gus Ligneel spent a part of his 95th birthday with the boys and girls of the La Crosse Adventist Elementary School. A believer in Christian education, Brother Ligneel was instrumental in getting a church school started in La Crosse about 30 years ago. For several years, he drove the bus to French Island, the school's location at that time. Henry Mattson, La Crosse District pastor, says that Brother Ligneel has consistently provided financial support for the school. His birthday cake, topped by 95 blazing candles, was served by Thelma Clemons, home and school leader, and Frieda Mattson, teacher.

Stevens Point juniors and earliteens study mollusks

Wisconsin—Lottie Menge, communication secretary, reports that the junior and earliteen Sabbath School members of the Stevens Point Church studied mollusks this past quarter and made Christmas wreaths from the shells collected. Jess Jones' Ingathering strategy yields more than $6,500

Wisconsin—More than $500 each year for 13 years is Jess Jones' Ingathering record. "I give all the praise and thanks to God who helps me," Mr. Jones said. "Visit the same territory each year," he urges church members. "Many people will remember you and the Ingathering appeal. They'll thank you for the paper and gladly give an offering." Mr. Jones, age 78, has been a Seventh-day Adventist for 46 years.

Three baptized at Scottsburg

Indiana—On January 18, three believers were baptized in the Scottsburg Church.

Ernestine Katorgan and Amy Richey were immersed in the baptistry, but 90-year-old Harry Aufdenkamp was baptized in his bathtub that afternoon.

Amy had studied the Bible with Violet Davis, a church member, and Pastor Richard Norman. Mrs. Katorgan and Mr. Aufdenkamp's baptisms were the result of literature distribution follow up. Mrs. Katorgan visited the Scottsburg Community Services Center in 1983 and was given "Amazing Facts" folders and Steps to Christ.

Pauline Colwell, center director, supplied more tracts and kept the contact open. One day, Mrs. Katorgan told her, "The Adventists are right."

Mrs. Katorgan had cared for Harry Aufdenkamp for 18 years due to his severe heart problems, and both had kept the Sabbath for several months.

During the summer of 1985, they requested home Bible studies. In response, Clarence and Freida Fahle, Scottsburg Church officers, worked with Pauline Colwell and her husband, William, in presenting Revelation Seminar materials.

Joann Norman, communication secretary, said January 18 activities ended with a communion service that evening in Mr. Aufdenkamp's home. At the service, he said, "I've never been so happy!"

Clarence Fahle, the Scottsburg Church elder who gave Bible studies to Harry Aufdenkamp and Ernestine Katorgan, shares the Ordinance of Humility with Mr. Aufdenkamp as Mrs. Katorgan looks on.

AIM aids prisoner's lifestyle change

Indiana—Baptisms take place in rivers, lakes, swimming pools and church baptisteries.

When Ronald Whitehead requested baptism, it was not easy to fulfill his request. Normal facilities are not available in the Indiana Reformatory.

Mr. Whitehead had completed a Bible correspondence course from "Faith For Today" and began the New Life Bible Guides offered by the "Voice of Prophecy." When nearing completion of the guides, he called the toll free number at Adventist Information Ministry (AIM) at Andrews University and asked to have a Bible instructor visit with him.

Within 24 hours, an AIM chaplain called Lyle Davis, a pastor in Anderson, Indiana, about Mr. Whitehead's interest.

At their first meeting in the prison visitation room, Pastor Davis learned that Mr. Whitehead had been an atheist, however, as he faced some difficult problems in his life, he had met Jesus during his study of the Bible. As the studies progressed, Mr. Whitehead expressed a desire to become a Seventh-day Adventist.

He filed a petition with prison officials requesting baptism. The request was approved. However, prison regulations required that the rite be performed by a prison chaplain.

No facilities were available to fulfill such a request but, after some delay, a portable baptistery was set up in the prison chapel. Chaplain Grahm, the prison chaplain, baptized Mr. White-head on August 24, 1985.

After his baptism, Mr. Whitehead had to file another petition to receive vegetarian meals and, in time, this request was also granted.

On November 9, 1985, Ronald Whitehead was voted into membership of the Anderson Church on profession of faith.

New camera increases usefulness of the Heritage Room

Andrews University—Dr. and Mrs. Willard D. Regester of Saratoga, California, recently donated a Polaroid MP-4 Industrial View Land Camera to the James White Library.

A former student of Andrews University, Dr. Regester observed a need for the gift while recently visiting the library's Heritage Room.

Louise Dederen, curator of the Heritage Room, said that the camera produces much more precise full-color copies than a photo copier. The camera will be used primarily to preserve and increase the collection of old manuscripts, documents and photographs housed in the Heritage Room.

"When the owner of treasured photos or documents wishes to retain their original, we will be able to make copies for our archive with this camera," said Mrs. Dederen. "We feel this ability will increase our usefulness as a Seventh-day Adventist archive and research center."

Polaroid copies of pieces already in the Heritage Room will be more accessible to patrons and will save a tremendous amount of wear and tear on valuable documents.

Located on the lower level of the James White Library, the Heritage Room contains collections of Millerite and early Adventist publications, periodicals and rare books; the private papers of former and present church leaders, historical collections and artifacts.

Indiana Conference news notes

- Students in the Scottsburg Adventist Elementary School attended a spaghetti dinner in the church basement. Joanne Norman, communication secretary, said the meal and fellowship are part of a program to encourage Christian education.
- The Scottsburg Church hosted the January "Scott County Hymn Sing" on January 28. Joyce Johnson was hymn sing coordinator. Pastor Richard Norman welcomed the more than 70 people who participated in the congregational singing and quartet, solo and duet renditions. Children from the church-operated school participated. The program is held in a different church each month.

Meredith Jones earns doctorate

Andrews University—Meredith Jones, assistant professor of English at Andrews University, has completed a doctorate in English language and literature at The University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Jones, also of Berrien Springs. Miss Jones said her research on the Harley manuscript strengthened her own interest in English literature and will help her convey this enthusiasm to her students.

Andrews hosts meeting of research societies

Andrews University—The Institute of Archaeology hosted the annual meeting for the midwestern branches of the Society of Biblical Literature (S.B.L.), the American Oriental Society (A.O.S.) and the American Schools of Oriental Research (A.S.O.R.) February 9-11.

David Merling, assistant curator of the Siegfried H. Horn Archaeological Museum, reports that 100 scholars from Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan attended. The three societies are involved in Biblical studies and research in the Near East, and the meetings opened with a session in the seminary chapel on Biblical archaeology.

A reception was held for members of the societies at the Berrien County Courthouse Museum in Berrien Springs.

Lawrence T. Geraty, former director of the Institute of Archaeology and midwestern S.B.L. secretary presided at a presidential banquet held in the campus center dining room on February 10. Dr. Keith Schovill, A.O.S. president, gave an informative and entertaining speech titled, "Why Are Ancient Fortifications?"

"Greco-Roman Culture and Early Christianity" was the topic of discussion at a special breakfast Tuesday morning.

Sectional meetings were held throughout the event. Participants shared ideas on such topics as New Testament literature, Old Testament history, Near Eastern archaeology and the Hebrew language through panel discussions and papers. Dr. Adam Zertal and Dr. Anson F. Rainey, two scholars from Israel, were among those reading papers.

New computer saves money for Andrews students

Andrews University—The Whiz Kid computer program at Andrews University saves students time and money by letting them know overnight if their Guaranteed Student Loans applications have been accepted.

Esther Hare, director of financial aid, said the Whiz Kid software package developed by the United Student Aid Fund enables loan applications to be processed by telephone. This process eliminates mail correspondence between the applicant, the bank, the guaranteeing agency and the university.

The complete loan process now takes as few as 10 days from time of application to receipt of funds. Formerly, the process took six weeks.

Getting the applications processed more quickly will help students avoid service charges on outstanding bills. It will enable them to keep loans they might otherwise lose by receiving their money after the enrollment time for the loan period. "When that happened, we had to return the money even though the student still needed the loan," said Mrs. Hare.

"Andrews University is the first school in Michigan and one of only a handful of universities in the nation using this new program," said Al Grashuis.

New Michigan evangelist

Michigan—Roland Lenhoff, a new evangelist for the Michigan Conference, conducted a revival series in the Troy Church February 8-15. The meetings were part of the preparation for an evangelistic crusade to be held in the Detroit area in March. His wife, Janice, is an accomplished pianist. The Lenhhoffs come to Michigan with evangelism experience in the United States and Europe. Roland will continue taping "It is Written" telecasts with George Vandeman.

Lake Union Conference

Lake Union Executive Committee report

Lake Union—The Lake Union Conference executive committee met on January 29 for the first meeting of the new year in Berrien Springs, Michigan.

Elder Robert Carter, president, presented the plans for Harvest 90. The following actions were taken:

- 1. Approval of the 1986 budget for a total of $2,800,000.
- 2. Approval of the delegates-at-large for the union session in April.
- 3. Approval of the updated policy of the union revolving fund.
- 4. Revolving fund loans totaling $357,500 were approved for the Plymouth, Michigan, Church; the Saginaw, Michigan, school; the Conant Gardens Church, Detroit, Michigan; the Michigan Conference Lakeland Mills; the Noble, Illinois, Church; Reedsville, Wisconsin, Church; the Collinsville, Illinois, Church, and the Wisconsin Conference.
- 5. Ordination candidates were approved and will be announced by each conference.
- 6. Approval of a new trust services director—Attorney Vernon Alger who is already on the Lake Union staff. Mr. Alger assumes this duty in addition to the religious liberty program which he presently administers.
- 7. A recommendation to the General Conference that Health Ventures, Inc. and the Hinsdale Hospital Foundation be accepted for denominational status.

The next meeting of the Lake Union executive committee will be March 12. 1986.

Bruce Nicola Jr. ordained in Sabbath service at Battle Creek

Michigan—Bruce Nicola Jr. was ordained to the Gospel ministry on Sabbath, February 1, in the Battle Creek Tabernacle.

Robert Carter, president of the Lake Union Conference, delivered the ordination message entitled "Watchman, What of the Night?" The ordination prayer was given by Herbert Pritchard, Lake Union Conference treasurer.

Following the charge administered by Arthur Carlson, ministerial director for the Michigan Conference, the address of welcome was given by Elmer Malcolm. He is pastor of the Battle Creek Tabernacle. and is currently under appointment as president of the Northern New England Conference.

Elder Nicola received a Master of Divinity degree from the Andrews University Theological Seminary in 1977. He has pastored in the Northern California and Michigan conferences. His outreach activities include service as a student missionary in Liberia, West Africa, and chaplain for a substance abuse program at Loma Linda (California) Community Hospital.

In December 1985, Elder Nicola received approval for certification in the College of Chaplains and, in March, will be certified as a Fellow in a ceremony in Denver.

Elder Nicola is married to Virginia Dittberner Patton. The Nicolas have four sons, Eric, age 16; Garrett, 11 and Ryan, 8.

Michigan Conference news notes

- Connie Ross, communication secretary for the Vassar Church reports that Diana Hughes was baptized on February 1 by Pastor Will Peterson. Diana's parents are Mark and Arlene Hughes.
- The Houghton Lake Church members report that their two oldest members are Arthella MacDonald and Maysie Wolverton. Carrie Kelley, communication secretary, reports that Arthella is 94 years of age and Maysie is 92. Both are mildly active. Maysie attends church each Sabbath, does some sewing, reading and housework where she lives with her daughter, Donna Wallace. Maysie has a twin sister who lives in Florida.
- The Fairplain Church in Benton Harbor distributed holiday gift books in their community during the latter part of December. Members of the church personalized 1,500 copies of the book, Bible Powers, and gift wrapped each one. Evelyn L. Sonneberg, communication secretary, reports that the project was directed by Kavin Bishop and Ernest Tarzwell. Church members said the gifts developed bonds of trust between the church and the community.
- Pastor Will Peterson conducted a dedication service for Amy Michelle Spencer, on December 7, 1985, in the Vassar Church. Amy is the daughter of Leon and Michelle Spencer.
- Pastor Paul Gates of the Wright Church recently dedicated Clifford Yonkers, the son of Karen and Russell, and Kim Hill's twins, Matthew and Megan.
- This year, camp meeting at Grand Ledge will be earlier than usual. The dates are June 20-28. Prices for cabins and conference tents have not increased. Tents brought by campers and pitched for their own use will cost less this year than before. The Michigan Conference officers want to encourage as many members as possible to attend camp meeting and receive spiritual renewal. Early morning devotionals will be given each day by Mel Rees, a retired but highly active' minister from Washington State, whose emphasis is holistic stewardship. It is time to firm up plans to attend Michigan's annual camp meeting-"the granddaddy of them all."

One hundred forty-five break free

Michigan—January 2 was the opening night for the Breathe-Free Plan to Stop Smoking at city hall in Livonia.

Expected attendance was 65 people; 210 people attended. Some came along to encourage a friend or spouse; 151 came to quit smoking. At the end of the program, 145 participants graduated with the Bachelor of NonSmoking degree.

Dr. Arthur Weaver, professor of surgery at Wayne State University in Detroit, and John Swanson, Michigan Conference health and temperance director, were instructors.

Comments included: "You've got an excellent and valuable program going. Keep up the great work!"

"Our doctor told us you had the best program. That's quite a compliment when other physicians recognize your work and recommend it."

"In my opinion, the program is fantastic. I am sending four friends to the March 13 session."

The Michigan Conference will host a health program at Camp Au Sable May 18-25, in Grayling, Michigan. It will feature the Breathe-Free plan, stress and weight management, graduated and modified exercise classes, and nutritional instruction. For more information and a brochure, call the health and temperance department, 517-485-2226.

"Faith For Today" received the 1985 International Film and Television Festival of New York award in November.

"Faith For Today" wins award

Newbury Park, Calif.— 'Christian Lifestyle Magazine," the new "Faith For Today" program, was recently recognized for excellence with the winning of a Bronze Award at the International Film and Television Festival of New York.

The award, for a religious broadcast series, is the most prestigious award the new series has yet received and continues the broadcast's 35-year tradition of award-winning religious programming. The New York competition is the largest film and television competition in the world, with more than 5,300 entries in eight major categories from 44 countries.

Dan Matthews, director of "Faith For Today" and host of the program, says: "This award represents significant recognition of the quality of programs we are producing. We've felt all along that we had an outstanding program and this award confirms our feelings as fact."

The award was presented during a banquet at the Sheraton Centre Hotel in New York City on November 15, 1985. Program emcees were Louis Gossett Jr., Oscar-winning actor, and Phylicia Ayers-Allen, television star.

On hand to receive the award for "Faith For Today" was Connecticut attorney, Glenn Coe, a longtime supporter of "Faith For Today."

Adventists address needs of homosexuals

Reading, Pa.—Homosexuals Anonymous Fellowship Services (H.A.F.S.) and Quest Learning Center are ministries developed to help people come out of the homosexual lifestyle.

The H.A.F.S. and Quest programs are partially funded by the North American Division of Seventh-day Adventists.

Recently, Colin Cook, co-founder of H.A.F.S. and director of Quest, was on the "Phil Donohue Show" with leaders of similar Christian ministries. H.A.F.S. had enlisted the services of Adventist Information Ministries (A.I.M.) of Andrews University, and the 800 number was announced on the show.

Gene Hamlin, a communications intern at AIM, said calls began coming in at 9 A.M. and continued solidly until 2 A.M. More than 1,500 calls were received within the first few days, and an average of 40 calls come in each week.

One caller said, "I have been to so many specialists and psychologists who tell me there is no hope, but your program showed that it can be done."

Each caller is given the phone number of the nearest chapter of a Christian Homosexual Anonymous group and the names and addresses of local Christian organizations prepared for this ministry. There are chapters within the territory of each union conference. Literature is provided upon request.

The H.A.F.S. number is 1-800-253-3000. Pastors, counselors, homosexuals and their friends and family are invited to call. Absolute confidentiality is assured.

The names are accessible only to H.A.F.S. to provide information that callers request. No denominational employer, including the General Conference president, is privy to these names.

Lindy Chamberlain released from prison after new evidence

Wahroonga, Australia—Several years ago, Michael Chamberlain, a pastor in Australia, and his family went on a camping outing. The youngest child of the Chamberlains disappeared.

The Chamberlains said a dingo (wild Australian dog) carried off their child. The government presented evidence which convicted Lindy Chamberlain of murder, and convicted Michael as her accomplice. Lindy was sent to prison for life, and Michael was given custody of their children.

For several years, Michael and the children visited Lindy in prison which is about a five-hour drive from their home.

There was so much contradictory evidence reported in the press in Australia that this was a highly publicized case.

A hiker in the area where the Chamberlain baby disappeared, fell from a rock and was lodged in a crevice. Rescuers had to be lowered by rope to reach the hiker's body. At that time, the Chamberlain baby's jacket, which had disappeared at the time of the baby's disappearance, was found.

The following telex was sent from Australia to the General Conference office on February 10:

"South Pacific Division officers confirm news that Lindy Chamberlain has been released unconditionally from her Darwin jail and has been reunited with her husband, Michael, and their three children. The life sentence is completely remitted and the Northern Territory government has announced the opening of an enquiry as a result of the discovery last week of baby Azaria's jacket and mounting evidence.

"Adventists throughout Australia rejoiced this Sabbath and are grateful to God for this turn of events. Media coverage is again enormous but is mostly positive. The Chamberlain family is somewhat protected within the Avondale College campus. Although the matter of guilt or innocence has not been resolved, it is hoped that a judicial enquiry will clear her."

Church members in Australia and around the world have prayed for the Chamberlains and that the truth would be found.

Donations were given by the church organization and individual members to help with legal fees.

Roy Allan Anderson dies at 90

Washington—A man who touched the lives of thousands around our planet passed to his rest on December 12, 1985, in Loma Linda, California.

Roy Allan Anderson, affectionately known to many as "The Chief," was an active evangelist, teacher, editor, author and pastor for 67 years. Forty-three of those years were mainly spent in training ministers, either in classes or in field schools of evangelism in many major cities of the world.

Dr. Anderson served as the association head and Ministry magazine editor for 16 of the 25 years he spent in the General Conference ministerial association.

The second of five children, he was born in Melbourne, Australia, on March 15, 1895. In 1930, after an evangelistic career in Australia, he went to England at age 34.

In 1938, he was appointed chairman of the La Sierra College religion department.

His musical talents were exhibited at the age of 17 when he organized his first band of over 50 members. He compiled several songbooks.

He was granted a Doctor of Divinity degree by Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Michigan, in 1963. Upon his official retirement in 1966, he taught in the division of religion at Loma Linda University until 1980.

Then, at the age of 85, he retired fully from teaching and began concentrating on his writing. The most influential work from his pen was The Shepherd Evangelist. He took a leading role in compiling the book Evangelism.

"The Chief" is survived by his wife, Myra; his son Allan; his daughter Hilliary; his brother Ormand; his sister Doris; one granddaughter, three great-grandsons and many nephews and nieces.

When you perform at Andrews University you're rewarded with more than compliments. You're rewarded with money.

Introducing the Andrews University $15,000 Performance Scholarships.

Talent is talent.

And with young people, talent comes in different ways. At Andrews, those different talents are acknowledged not just with compliments, but with scholarships.

It's all part of the Andrews University Performance Scholarship Fund where $15,000 worth of scholarships and honorariums are issued to deserving students in the categories of Wind Ensemble, Men's Chorus, Women's Chorus, University Singers, and Gymnics.

It's not unusual for Andrews to be offering so much for Performing Arts. Just as it's not unusual to hear of the other scholarship plans and financial aid programs offered here at the University.

Our goal is quite simple: offer the student the chance for a "total education." The University consists of six different schools where students can choose from a variety of degree programs and curricula.

So if you're looking for a school where your talent will be recognized, then you just might be looking for Andrews. Find out more by calling one of our Admissions Counselors toll-free: nationwide, call 1-800-253-2874. For Michigan residents, dial 1-800-632-2248. Or, mail in the coupon.

You'll discover, that in more ways than one, it pays to go to Andrews.
