

The cross of Jesus Christ confronts you

Everett E. Cumbo President Illinois Conference

COVER

Lucille A. Doane of Georgetown, South Carolina, took the photograph of this black tern landing on its nest by Lake Noquebay near Crivitz, Wisconsin. The photo was chosen in the 1986 Herald cover photo selection. N the flyleaf of an old, well-worn "preaching" Bible I have written these words: "The cross of Jesus Christ confronts you. The cross stands before you with power to save. If you turn away from it, one day it will condemn you."

These words are powerful. I borrowed them from someone and did not write down the source, but they are pregnant with thought.

It is recommended that every Christian contemplate the cross, its meaning and significance to our spiritual lives, one hour each day. Have you thought what would happen in your life, have I thought what would happen in my life if that admonition was followed?

The cross is the place where unselfish love was lavished upon the unworthy human race. "While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Romans 5:8). The cross is the greatest demonstration of unselfish love the universe has ever witnessed.

Look at the cross—the one hanging on the cross—your Saviour and mine, and you will be changed. You will cry out as did Isaiah when he saw the Power and Majesty of Heaven, "Woe is me! for I am undone; . . . I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips: for mine eyes have seen the King" (Isaiah 6:5). The spirit of true humility swept over the prophet as he realized he was standing in the presence of the Majesty of Heaven.

Isaac Watts wrote, and we sing:

"When I survey the wondrous cross On which the Prince of Glory died, My richest gain I count but loss, And pour contempt on all my pride."

That is what happens when we stand in the presence of the Christ of the cross. We pour contempt on all our pride. And our wonderful Lord gives us humility in its place.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if every church member had that experience? What if we could meditate on the cross more, and on one another's perceived faults less? Look yonder—

> "See, from His head, His hands, His feet, Sorrow and love flow mingled down; Did e're such love and sorrow meet, Or thorns compose so rich a crown?"

or morns compose so fich a crown?

Criticism, gossip, selfishness, pride, all melt and run down our cheeks as we cry out for forgiveness in His presence upon the cross. It is our only safe response. What a revival would move through our churches, our homes, our conferences if we only would look to the cross of Christ. A spirit of love, of forgiveness, a spirit of giving would sweep through our ranks:

"Were the whole realm of nature mine, That were a present far too small, Love so amazing, so divine, Demands my soul, my life, my all."

Building for the future

by Marion Hartlein

THE book of Deuteronomy contains Moses' farewell address to the people he had led from Egypt and through the wilderness for 40 years.

During this time, they had been taught to love and obey God through many experiences—some wonderful and miraculous, others tragic and difficult. Moses, in his final days, was concerned that the people not only remember what God did for them but that they teach their children.

"Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God, the Lord is one. Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength.

"These commandments that I give you today are to be upon your hearts. Impress them on your children. Talk about them when you sit at home and when you walk along the road, when you lie down and when you get up" (Deuteronomy 6:4-7, New International Version).

"Only be careful, and watch yourselves closely so that you do not forget the things your eyes have seen or let them slip from your heart as long as you live. Teach them to your children and to their children after them" (Deuteronomy 4:9, New International Version).

How easily we forget, and how difficult it is to pass on to future generations what we have learned of our God and His plan for our lives.

When God led the children of Israel out of Egypt they had much to learn. Four hundred years of slavery had dulled their understanding of God and their commitment to Him. Through graphic instruction and many hard experiences, God taught them.

There was danger that, in years to come, time would blur the memory of the lessons learned. God gave instruction to Israel as to how the children were to be taught in the home, when they were walking, at night and in the morning.

It appears the children were to be totally immersed in learning about

A special offering on April 26 will enable members to make an investment in Christian education and the future of the Adventist church.

God. This understanding was not just an added feature to be tacked on to the life of the child, but was the framework on which the life was to be built. The same is true today.

Seventh-day Adventist schools are part of that framework. Many of the child's waking hours are spent in school. Church schools are an extension of the Christian home and provide the continuity of teaching suggested by the verses in Deuteronomy. Without the church school, the framework is incomplete.

There are some who feel the cost of a Seventh-day Adventist education is too high. Often they do not see the difference between the work of the public schools and the work of the church school.

It appears to them that if the child has worship in the morning and his parents purchase Bible books for him to read, he has the equivalent of a Seventh-day Adventist education at a much lesser cost.

Nothing can be further from the truth. Although Bible class and worship are essential parts of the church school program, they are by no means the total program.

Other essential elements of Christian education include a committed Seventh-day Adventist teacher, schoolmates who come from homes with similar values and spiritual goals, and a curriculum that recognizes God as the Creator and Jesus as the Saviour of the human family.

New textbooks in the areas of science/health and reading are being introduced in the Seventh-day Adventist schools in the United States and Canada.

Even a brief overview of the contents of these books will convince parents and children that more than reading, science and health are being taught. Perhaps you could arrange with a church school teacher to stop by the school and look through these books.

In the new reading books, you will not only find character building stories but biographies of early church leaders, Bible stories retold, beautifully illustrated quotations from the Bible and the Spirit of Prophecy, as well as an abundance of material on denominational history.

In the new science/health books not only is God introduced as the Creator of the universe, but as the sustainer of life. God's plan for humanity, His work in the lives of humanity as well as in the orderly design of the universe is outlined.

The Adventist health message, the child's opportunity to make good choices for God and for his own life as well as his responsiblity to do so are presented.

It is obvious that weaving Christian concepts into the textbooks and the total curriculum taught by a committed teacher is one way to fulfill God's command to permeate the life of the child with the knowledge of Him.

Of course, a Seventh-day Adventist education costs more than a public school education. It is also expected to do more. A Seventh-day Adventist education is expected to assist the home and the church in providing the instruction God gave to His people regarding the education of their children.

On April 26, a special offering will be taken to help with the expenses of maintaining church schools. The school is the responsibility of the entire church.

The children in church schools today are, if time should last, our church of tomorrow. The offering for Seventh-day Adventist education is also an investment in the future of the Seventh-day Adventist church. Will you be a part of building that future?

Newly elected Lake Region Conference officers greet their constituency. Standing with Donald F. Gilbert (left), General Conference treasurer, and Robert H. Carter, Lake Union Conference president, are Jennifer Stone and daughter Jailyn, Linwood Stone, treasurer; R. C. Brown, executive secretary; Virginia Brown; an unidentified constituent; Vivian Joseph, and Charles D. Joseph, president.

Lake Region holds 18th triennial session

by Vivian Joseph

THE 18th business session of the Lake Region Conference was held on March 23 at the Pioneer Memorial Church in Berrien Springs, Michigan.

We would like to share with you the highlights from the president's report by Charles Joseph and a report of the newly elected officers, departmental personnel and members of the conference committee:

"To the delegates of the 18th conference session, I say Christian greetings and Maranatha. It is a distinct privilege and challenge from Heaven itself for us to be chosen by our Heavenly Father to participate in His directive to finish His work.

"It has been 40 full years since this organized group of Adventist believers began its journey and efforts to do its assigned task of proclaiming and inviting. Here we are four decades later, and we still have a very long way to go.

"Yet, when we view the history of our journey from the perspective of our resources, I do believe that we would have to agree that, 'We have

Vivian Joseph is communication director for the Lake Region Conference. come this far by faith.'

"Let us review together a few of the valleys that we have traveled. We have experienced the deep valley of economic recession here in the Midwest like no other place in our country. Unemployment impacted on our homes and sent our abilities to support vital operations of our conference to an all time low.

"The recession combined with the inability to find new employment has forced families in our midst to give up hope in sending their children to the schools of our conference.

"The enrollment in our schools has been on a steady decline over the past years. This pattern is being experienced in schools all over our land.

"The future when seen from the viewpoint of human ability does not encourage us; but there is a promise that accompanies every effort that we make under the guidance of God. It says, 'Lo I am with you all the way.'

"We have faced the valley of skyrocketing health care costs over the past three years. Our conference has operated under its own health care plan. We had experienced relative success with the plan until the cost of medical care began to increase much faster than we could produce funds to reimburse. "The medical payout over the past three years exceeded $500,000 in just three cases of illness. We owe our employees this support, and we will never abandon their care. But the cost factor has created a valley for us.

"The cost of operating our school system has been a valley experience. This crisis is not unique to our conference alone, and I am quite sure that we have not seen the end of the tunnel yet.

"Over the last three years, the conference has expended more than $500,000 beyond its budget in trying to help our churches keep its school doors open.

"This effort to save our schools has been a herculean one that has placed constant demands upon our resources. We have repeatedly sought solutions to this problem, only to find ourselves hurt again.

"We cannot, however, abandon the task of providing Christian education for our children. We must continue to work for a rational and orderly approach to an equitable solution to the problems we face in education, while we participate in all the financial programs of our church.

"Everything about the way God put us together indicates an almost limitless capacity for struggle and growth. The pieces are there inside us all. The energy is there; it is a part of being alive and being a part of God's program. But we must face some hard difficult facts as we assess our position.

"Reports from the School of Government at Harvard University state the following: 'Black family income in 1984 in constant dollars was $1,500 less than it had been 15 years earlier in 1970.'

"This says to us that equity and excellence are educational imperatives. Education is the preparation for the future; it is imperative that we know our goals.

"Demographic goals show that by 1995, 40 percent to 60 percent of the school population graduating into the work force from high school will be Black and Hispanic. Will ours be trained of the Lord?

"All the journey of the past three years has not been in the valley. We have indeed been to the mountaintop.

"We began this three year period with a membership of 17,195, and our net growth over the last three years has carried us near the 20,000 membership mark. This represents sound growth in our conference of 2,682. And to this we remind you it was, 'This far by faith.'

"The year 1983 found us concerned about housing several of our unhoused congregations. We have seen the hand of God move in providing for us a new church in Evansville, Indiana, under the leadership of Alfonzo Greene and a new church in Berrien Springs, Michigan, under the leadership of Caleb Rosado.

"A new church home was purchased in Elkhart, Indiana, under the leadership of Marcellus Robinson and in Dowagiac, Michigan, under the leadership of Emanuel Foxworth.

"Along with the above mentioned new churches, God has blessed us with land and money to build a new church for our Beacon of Joy congregation in Chicago this spring.

"Our Burns Avenue Church in Detroit has purchased a city block of land and plans for building are nearing completion.

"One of our latest additions to the sisterhood of Lake Region churches, Mount Clements, Michigan, has purchased a beautiful building and land to house the congregation.

"Our Haughville Church in Indianapolis bought and remodeled a building into a lovely place for worship. This was done primarily by our laity there, led by Julius Taylor, Nicholas Joseph and Eugene Sapp.

"During this triennium, the following churches have been organized: Southfield, Michigan; South Shore (Chicago), and Kenosha, Wisconsin, Spanish.

"Our church in Peoria, Illinois, under the leadership of Pastor Samuel Thomas Jr., has completed its inside finishing work and is now a place of beauty. The church was originally constructed under the leadership of Hosie Hatchett.

"Completely renovated inside and improved outside, our conference office headquarters is a pleasant place to introduce business relationships to Adventism.

"Our campground has been the site of new cabins, and it is now near the time when we can begin assembling log-styled youth craft building for our campers.

"In Detroit, Peterson-Warren Academy has undergone more than $100,000 worth of renovation. The gym, library, heating system and new parking lot are all a part of the facelift.

"In Chicago, all financing is completed and work on a new $10,800,000 shopping center has begun. The center is leased to nationally named lessors.

"And the potential income from this Chicago project will help to liquidate the cost of an academy in Chicago. It will also provide an additional support system for our educational needs all over the conference.

"The shopping center will be the first of its kind developed by minorities in the city of Chicago.

"Construction will begin this spring on the Shiloh Academy. With these mountaintop experiences, we can say again, 'We have come this far by faith.'

"Looking back, over the past seven years, God has blessed us with 24 congregations. We must say, 'This far by faith.'

"We pause to express a very special word of appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Otis Rupright of Lafayette, Indiana, for donating money to our conference for three churches: Danville, Illinois; Peoria, Illinois, and Elkhart, Indiana.

"God has blessed us in our efforts to develop a medical ministry in our large cities. At Hyde Park Community Hospital in Chicago, we now have a complete Adventist administration.

"Many of our members are employed at the Hyde Park Hospital, and the theme is complete Adventist health care. We could only come this far by faith.

"This triennial period has seen a complete turnover in departmental responsibilities. I must thank everyone for their very fine cooperation. They are all fine men with exceptional gifts and deserve our continued support.

"We grieve the loss of our brother Reginald Barnes. He served this conference from 1968-1985. Under his capable leadership our academies gained accreditation.

"Because of Elder Barnes' dedication to upgrading the teaching staff, most of our teachers are certified and have received master's degrees. For the first time in the history of the Lake Region Conference, all teachers are now receiving salaries equal to the percentage recommended by the Lake Union Conference.

"Reginald will be missed by the Lake Region office staff and the conference constituency.

"Finally, brothers and sisters, we must remain committed to a common goal of using our financial and human resources to their fullest extent to bless the church.

"We need one another. We are all sons and daughters of God who want good things for our Maker here on earth. Stand with us, kneel with us, pray with us and work with us.

"We can reach our goals and challenge the problems. They won't all go away for we 'wrestle not against flesh and blood.'

"The future is one of change. By the grace of God, we can anticipate it and invest the future with His power.

"With God as our leader, there is no reason to be surprised by His power to provide and lead. We have seen the valley and, like wise men and women, we know that those things that hurt, instruct.

"With God we welcome the future, remembering that soon it will be the past. And we respect the past, remembering that it was once all that was humanly possible. The mountain of tomorrow's challenge looms in view—but we need not fear tomorrow when we have come this far by faith."

Office and departmental secretaries who were elected by the constituents of the Lake Region Conference at the 18th triennial session are as follows:

Charles D. Joseph, president; Richard C. Brown, executive secretary; Linwood C. Stone, treasurer.

Also elected were James David Parker, personal ministries, Sabbath School, community services; T. S. Barber, publishing, Home Health Education Service; Ivan Van Lange, education superintendent; Leon Simmons, Adventist Youth, Temperance, National Service Organization; Fred E. White, ministerial; Samuel Flagg, stewardship, religious liberty, wills and legacies, and Vivian Joseph, communications.

The Lake Region Conference Executive Committee is comprised of the following: C. D. Joseph, R. C. Brown Sr., Linwood Stone, Carlton Campbell, Jerome Davis, Robert Douglas, Ronald Bell, Efrain Perez, Frederick Risker, Charles Drake III, Robert Willis, Festus Valentine, Leroy Logan, Paul Musson, Jose Joseph, Marguerite Dixon, Mayble Craig, Anthony Lewis, Royce Mentor and Werner Lightner.

Miniseries draws 45,000 responses

MORE than 45,000 people requested George Vandeman's book entitled the Rise and Fall of Antichrist during the "It Is Written" miniseries on the book of Revelation.

Callers ordered 21,000 books by calling the 800 number at the Adventist Information Ministry in Berrien Springs, Michigan. Viewers from the Lake Union territory ordered 500 books.

When "It Is Written" viewers called

by Eugene Hamlin

AIM, telephone operators asked the question composed by AIM and miniseries personnel, "If one of Pastor Vandeman's associates were to present a seminar on the book of Revelation in your area, would you like to be informed about the time and place?"

Eighty percent or 17,000 people said, "Yes." These figures include 400 callers from the states of the Lake Union. The question was not asked to viewers who responded to the book offer through other sources. However, based on the response rate of calls to AIM, 19,000 other people might like to attend a seminar.

This means a total of more than 36,000 callers who requested the Rise and Fall of Antichrist might like to attend Revelation Seminars in their communities.

AIM processes information 24 hours a day. For this project, the computer printed out more than 500 request cards for the Rise and Fall of Antichrist. Then, more than 400 of those cards were stamped "URGENT" and Revelation Seminar underlined in red.

When local pastors receive these cards, it lets them know about people in their community who want to attend a Revelation Seminar. And, based on the 80 percent response recorded by AIM, any card from the miniseries records a potential interest for a seminar.

Clergy from other denominations told AIM operators they liked the Revelation miniseries. One clergyman from Tennessee requested information on the Sabbath, and books by Lake Union authors were provided.

He received From Sabbath to Sunday and Divine Rest for Human Restlessness by Samuele Bacchiocchi, and Beyond the Rush of Living by Roy Naden. He also received Day to Remember by George Vandeman.

When pastors receive the specially prepared computer cards from AIM or interest cards from "It Is Written," they should inform these interests of the next local Revelation Seminar.

Lake Union Conference executive committee actions

Lake Union—The Lake Union Conference executive committee met on March 12. Robert H. Carter, president, gave an update on Harvest 90 plans and the quinquennium objective of 18,000 new Lake Union members.

Warren Minder, education director, presented the K-12 objectives for Harvest 90.

The executive committee voted:

 Approval of two business seminars for treasurers and accountants in the Lake Union scheduled for September 29 and 30, 1986.

• Approval that the policy of tithing as a condition of employment be included in each conference policy book (including the Lake Union). After reading the policy book, each employee is to be asked to sign a statement that he agrees with the policies

• Approval of the Lake Union session agenda items.

• Approval of the delegates to the Review and Herald Publishing Association constituency meeting in Hagerstown, Maryland: John Bernet, Don Copsey, George Dronen, Joe Raineri, Harry Straub and local conference delegates. (All members of the Lake Union Executive Committee are ex officio members of the Review and Herald constituency; however, only those on the list will be present.) • Approval of Revolving Fund loans for a total of $511,000 to the All Nations Church, Berrien Springs, Michigan; Broadview Academy housing, LaFox, Illinois; the Bloomington, Illinois, Church; the Independence Boulevard Church, Chicago.

• Appointment of Thesba Johnston of Andrews University to represent the Lake Union Conference at the Women's Commission, General Conference Office of Human Relations on March 24, 1986.

The Lake Union quinquennial session will be held April 13 and 14 in Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

The next executive committee meeting, with the new committee members, will be held May 28, 1986.

Robbi, Fred, Elaine, Kent— A part of the team

Lake Union—With the recent release of "Shining Stars," 17 "No One But You" programs have been produced since the spring of 1982. Featured in these 17 programs is a cast of hundreds—hundreds of dedicated individuals in the Lake Union who make a difference where they live.

Behind the production of each program is a cast of support personnel people whose talents and expertise make each program possible.

Probably the most noticeable support person is Kent Slocum. He has the rich, easy-to-listento voice which provides the narration for each program. Kent is general manager of radio stations WHFB and WHFB-FM in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, Michigan.

During the first two and a half years of program production, Elaine Meseraull was responsible for the thought and pen behind each heartwarming script. She suggested the program title "No One But You."

When her editorial public relations work became full time at the children's radio program, "Your Story Hour," the script writing reins were taken over by Robbi Pierson.

Robbi's writing style matched Elaine's beautifully, making the transition take place without missing a beat. Robbi, who was a media technology student at Andrews University during this time, worked her way through school as a registered nurse. This past month, she joined the Potomac Conference staff to begin full time work in the communication department.

When each script is completed and ready for Kent to narrate, Fred Meseraull is called upon for his expertise to record, edit and mix the master soundtrack. Fred is the producer of "Your Story Hour."

Though this team of professionals is paid a small amount for their time, the Herald staff recognizes their efforts as a tremendous contribution. Since each of the team members hold full time jobs, their part in "No One But You" fits in between regular duties. For this reason, all programs are recorded during the noon hour and the majority of scripts are written on weekends and during late evening hours.

Robbi, Fred, Elaine and Kent have exemplified the spirit of a "missionary band" during the past four years. Theirs is the expertise and talent which helps make it possible to bring the "No One But You" programs to nearly 300 churches in the Lake Union every quarter.

Concert is climax of clinic

Andrews University—More than 200 choir and orchestra students from Lake Union junior and senior academies gave a free public concert of sacred and secular music in Johnson Auditorium on March 1.

"A choral clinic concert featured outstanding musicians from 11 schools located in Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin," reports Zvonimir Hacko, assistant professor of music and choir director at Andrews.

The 75 piece orchestra was directed by Dr. Charles G. Davis, associate professor of music and orchestra director at Andrews. Mr. Hacko led the 130 voice choir. Both the choir and orchestra played separate selections and combined efforts for performance of "Te Deum in C major" by Franz Josef Haydn.

The concert climaxed a four day choir and orchestra clinic that began on February 26. Rehearsals and workshops were offered to Lake Union students to encourage high quality music making and to promote the Lake Union school music programs.

Andrews University, the Lake Union Conference and its schools sponsored the clinic.

A.U. Board of Trustees meet at quinquennial session

Andrews University—A new Board of Trustees was elected at the quinquennial session of the Andrews University constituency held in the seminary chapel on February 23, 1986.

The 15 new members are W. Floyd Bresee, General Conference; Kent K. Bermingham and Conrad A. Reichert, non-faculty alumni; Richard D. Fearing, Joel O. Tompkins, James W. Wilson, Ronald M. Wisbey, union conference presidents, and R. Ernesto Castillo, Jeffrey Des Jardins, Henry Felder, Norman G. Moll, Llewellyn M. Mullings, Dolores E. Slikkers, Marjorie Thomas and Dale E. Twomley, professional/business persons.

The 27 members re-elected to the board are Robert J. Kloosterhuis, chairman; George H. Akers, Charles E. Bradford, Donald F. Gilbert, William L. Murrill, Enoch de Oliveira, Calvin B. Rock, G. Ralph Thompson, Neal C. Wilson, General Conference; W. Richard Lesher, corporation president.

Other incumbents include: Robert H. Carter, John L. Hayward, Herbert W. Pritchard, Warren E. Minder, Lake Union Conference; Glenn A. Aufderhar, Everett E. Cumbo, Charles D. Joseph, John R. Loor, Jere Wallack, Lake Union Conference local presidents; Elsie L. Buck, Elmer T. Carreno, W. Harold Collum, Floyd L. Costerisan, Werner Lightner, R. Ellsworth McKee, Marie Robinson and Lawrence E. Schalk, professional/ business persons.

Advisory members of the board are Bert B. Beach, Walter D. Blehm, Charles C. Case, Wallace O. Coe, Philip Follett, Alfred C. McClure, Cyril Miller, Benjamin Reaves, Cecil Webb, Robert L. Woodfork and Norman J. Woods.

N. Clifford Sorensen was elected special consultant.

Prior to the Board of Trustees election, the 202 members of the constituency in attendance voted to accept the following 24 persons to serve as members of the nominating committee: W. Richard Lesher, Andrews officer; Patrice D. Cruise, Walter B.T. Douglas, Dwain L. Ford, Robert M. Johnston, Patricia B. Mutch, Russell L. Staples and Jerome D. Thayer, Andrews faculty; Charlene L. Vitrano, Andrews alumna. Also elected were Charles E. Bradford, R. Ernesto Costillo, Richard D. Fearing, Donald F. Gilbert, R. Ellsworth McKee, N. Clifford Sorensen, G. Ralph Thompson, Neal C. Wilson and Ronald M. Wisbey, General Conference Committee; Glenn A. Aufderhar, Robert H. Carter, William E. Jones, Charles D. Joseph, Dolores E. Slikkers and Jere Wallack, Lake Union Conference executive committee and local conference executive committees.

President W. Richard Lesher

Neal C. Wilson served as nominating committee chairman and Walter B.T. Douglas was secretary. Student observers were Ronnie Mills and Patrick Thomas.

In other business, members of the constituency voted to approve revisions to Articles V and VII of the Articles of Incorporation. In Article V, the lengthy detailing of corporation membership was replaced with a statement that membership would be specified in the bylaws of the corporation.

Members also voted to approve revisions to the bylaws of Andrews University. One of the major areas of change was Board of Trustees membership.

The 42 persons elected as trustees are now classified as follows: 10 members recommended by officers of the General Conference from which the chairman of the Board of Trustees is chosen, the president of the corporation, two members of the university alumni not members of the faculty or employees of the corporation, the president of the Lake Union Conference, up to four other union conference presidents of the North American Division, the secretary, treasurer and director of education for the Lake Union Conference, presidents of the local conferences of the Lake Union Conference.

The remaining members shall be persons not directly connected with the university and shall represent professional and business interests. Special consideration will be given to assure that persons not employed by the Seventh-day Adventist Church will be part of the business/professional group.

Another significant change to the bylaws combined two sets of officers into one. The person selected chairman of the Board of Trustees is no longer president of the corporation. Instead, the president of the corporation is now chief executive officer of the university.

The vice presidents, secretary, treasurer and controller of the university are all officers of the non-profit, educational corporation.

Rather than accept proposed changes to the bylaws regarding membership, corporation members voted unanimously to retain the old wording and appointed a constitution and bylaws committee to study membership changes during the quinquennium 1986-1991.

The president's report was presented by W. Richard Lesher and accepted by the membership. The financial report and the auditor's report, as presented by Edward E. Wines Jr. and Daniel E. Herzel, were also approved.

Reports from the vice presidents on campus were presented in a multimedia slide program produced by Richard C. Dower of media technology in the Andrews University technology education department.

Svein Myklebust, president of the University of Eastern Africa, was seated as a guest member of the corporation for the day-long session.

Board of Trustees appointments announced

Andrews University—President W. Richard Lesher, was appointed for a five year term by the Board of Trustees at their semiannual meeting on February 24. He was originally appointed in February 1984.

The trustees also appointed those holding vice presidential positions, the deans of the six schools, the director of the University School and department chairman for a five year term.

Vice presidential appointments include: David A. Faehner, university advancement; Richard Huff, general counsel; Richard W. Schwarz, academic administration; Reger C. Smith, student affairs and Edward E. Wines, financial administration.

The deans of the schools are E. Stanley Chace, School of Education; Arthur O. Coetzee, School of Graduate Studies; Gerhard F. Hasel, Andrews University Theological Seminary; Merlene A. Ogden, College of Arts and Sciences; Slimen J. Saliba, School of Business and M. Wesley Shultz, College of Technology Richard Orrison is director of the University School.

At a faculty briefing following the meetings, Dr. Lesher announced the organization of a new Board of Trustees elected at the quinquennial session of the Andrews University constituency on February 23.

He also announced a five percent tuition increase on a full package of tuition, room and board, starting fall quarter 1986. A pay increase of 3.9 percent, forthcoming July 1 for all church employees, will be deferred for university employees until January 1, 1987. These actions were taken in effort to balance the budget for fiscal 1986-87.

Other actions include approval of the concept for a $10 million endowment fund for student scholarships and faculty research. This would represent a philosophical shift in funding for Andrews University. Traditionally, Seventh-day Adventist educational institutions have relied almost exclusively on tuition and subsidies from their sponsoring organizations.

New appointments announced by Dr. Lesher are F. Colleen Steck, professor of home economics education and chairman of the home economics department; John T. Baldwin, associate professor of theology; Jack K. Boyson, associate director of development; Oliver Johnston, part time associate director of development; Cheryl Jetter, instructor in art history; Gary Beagles, instructor in business administration; T. Lynn Caldwell, instructor in communication and John Wesley Taylor, instructor in education.

Seventeen faculty members received promotions in academic rank. Those promoted to full professor are Peter D. Erhard, art; Wolfgang F.P. Kunze, German; Bruce E. Lee, physics; Roger L. Dudley, church ministry; Clarence B. Gruesbeck, church ministry; C. Raymond Holmes, preaching and worship; Garth D. Thompson, pastoral care; Donna J. Habenicht, counseling psychology; Marion J. Merchant, psychology.

Those receiving the rank of associate professor are Joseph W. Warren, English; Selma A. Chaij, counseling psychology.

Illinois is a pocket of growth in the North American Division

Illinois—At the annual financial/statistical review of the Illinois Conference, the conference committee and invitees praised the Lord for growth of the Illinois Conference. Baptisms totaled 4,777 during the past five years. Robert Everett, conference secretary, reports the average net growth was 5.83 percent each year. Thirty-five percent of the baptisms in the Lake Union Conference came from the Illinois Conference, which has 20 percent of the members in the union. Net growth for Illinois is two and a half times the average in North America and four times the majority of conferences in the Lake Union. God is praised for the people who joined His church in Illinois, a pocket of growth.

• When the Aledo laity decided to hold a Revelation Seminar, they reached out to the little town of Joy. The only building they could find to meet was a funeral home. Members sent out 2.000 invitation brochures. Sixteen non-members attended. When the funeral director received a call for a funeral, he directed the individual to another funeral home rather than disturb the seminar. The Aledo Church plans a birthday celebration each month during the seminar for individuals having a birthday in that month. After several seminar meetings, a former member has attended Sabbath School and church services.

Nutrition evangelism for Harvest 90

Michigan—There is a need for nutrition evangelists for the Harvest 90 thrust.

Another opportunity for church members to learn how to teach healthful cookery and nutrition to friends in their community will be available June 8-13 at Adelphian Academy in Holly.

The Vegetarian Cuisine Instructor and the Vegetarian Nutrition Instructor workshops will be given during this time, under the direction of Dr. Irma Vyhmeister, a former General Conference nutritionist.

The workshop is co-sponsored by the Michigan Conference and Andrews University. Dr. Vyhmeister will be assisted by other nutritionists secured through the university.

These workshops lead to General Conference certificates which authorize the laity to give community or home-based classes in foods and nutrition. During June 1985, a similar training opportunity prepared 10 persons in Michigan for these roles.

Some comments made about the workshops include: "I enjoyed the participated by attaching love offerings of money on the "caring tree" or by placing food items under it.

A portion of the money offering was used to buy oranges for the elderly in three nursing homes in the Midland area.

entire session for its professionalism and the fellowship with teachers and other participants."

"The total picture was presented in all the information given. It was very informative and worthwhile."

"It was a great workshop!"

The cuisine workshop prepares individuals to teach good cooking techniques by demonstrating recipes in homes or in community programs and to lead out in planning fellowship meals.

The nutrition workshop prepares individuals who have already had a college course in nutrition (a prerequisite) to be leaders of cooking schools and to lecture about nutrition. Both men and women will find the training sessions valuable.

For more information and preregistration, contact John Swanson, Michigan Conference, 320 West St. Joseph Street, Lansing, MI 48933; 517-485-2226. Workshop costs cover tuition, housing, meals and textbooks. Arrangements should be made now because enrollment will be limited to the first 30 registrants.

Southside Indianapolis pastor, Carroll Lawson, selected to Who's Who in Religion

Indiana Conference

Indiana—Carroll Lawson, pastor of the Southside Indianapolis Adventist Church, has been honored by the Marquis Who's Who Publications Board.

He was selected as a subject of biographical record in Who's Who in Religion. This recognition is given to those who have contributed to the betterment of contemporary society. Pastor Lawson is active in public seminars and in community activities.

dren and adult divisions participated in musical programs at each of these nursing homes on Sabbath afternoon. After the formal program, Sabbath School members walked up and down the hallways singing Christmas carols and handing fruit to each resident.

The balance of the money offering and the gifts of food were given to a new friend met through the church's Jail Band Ministry. This person is studying and regularly attending Sabbath services and midweek prayer meetings.

Fuel costs reduced 90 percent

Michigan—William Edsell, pastor of the Wilson Church reports drastically reduced fuel costs for heating Wilson Junior Academy in the Upper Peninsula.

In 1980, the academy purchased a sawdust burner designed by Gailyn Messersmith, an Adventist in the Wilson Church. Members had been paying $6,000 per year for utilities; they are now paying $600 per year.

Gordon Rhodes, who was then pastor of the church, says initial cost for the burner was $1,200. Modifications have cost another $800. But the nearby Robinson Furniture Factory supplies their sawdust free of charge.

The factory even hauls the sawdust to the school where it is stored in a metal silo. There, an auger automatically moves the sawdust into the furnace hopper on demand.

Wilson Church members are scattered and many are self employed. The Michigan Advance funds enabled the Wilson Church congregation to purchase the sawdust burner for their 10 grade school.

Mother overcomes obstacles son gains Christian education—

Wisconsin—Four years ago, Florence Lundeen faced the breakup of her marriage of almost 30 years.

Her son, Jim, was ready to enter high school, and she dreaded sending him to the public school in her town. Both of Florence's older children had attended school there, both had become involved in drugs.

Florence had wanted a better education for her children, but her husband had strongly opposed sending Jim Lundeen is at work for the Wisconsin Academy maintenance department. He became the "right-hand man" for his supervisor, LeRoy Rappette.

Astronaut's widow interviewed

Hagerstown, Md.—The May-June issue of Message carries the story of Ronald McNair—husband, father, astronaut and Christian.

Delbert Baker, editor of Message magazine secured a personal inter them to a Christian school. Now, Florence was alone and faced the decision regarding her youngest son's future.

Florence had heard from several friends that Wisconsin Academy was a place where Jim would be able to gain spiritual strength. Relying on her belief that Jesus was leading, Florence left her home and friends and moved 500 miles to be near the academy.

So, plans were made for Jim to become a dorm student in the fall of 1982. There he would have the Christian influence of the boys' dean. He would also have a chance to take part in the many school activities. Jim took advantage of these opportunities. Soon, he was participating in sports, religious activities, the tumbling team and Choralaires.

Jim worked in the maintenance department and became the "righthand man" for his supervisor, LeRoy Rappette, while earning a large portion of his academy expenses. This year, he is a resident assistant in the boys' dorm and is counseling younger students this year.

In May, Jim will graduate and plans to attend one of our Christian colleges. He and his mother believe God's promises to lead and guide them.

Cheryl McNair said that, after looking at the magazine and investigating Adventists, she came to the conclusion that Message was the vehicle to tell her husband's story honestly—to Florence Lundeen and her son, Jim, believe that "all things work together for good to them that love God" (Romans 8:28).

Florence wrote to Principal Dave Penner recently and stated that she had felt dorm life was indeed the best choice for Jim in their special circumstances.

And she testifies that in spite of the ugliness of a broken home, God has worked a miracle to enable her son to attend a Christian school where he has discovered Jesus as his Saviour. She and Jim can say that "all things work together for good to them that love God" (Romans 8:28).

• The Eternal Word Catholic Satellite Network, with more than a million subscribers nationwide, began releasing "Christian Lifestyle Magazine" on January 21. They have carried "Westbrook Hospital," the "Faith For Today" series, at no cost for several years. Because of the unique qualities of the series and the spiritual benefits to their Catholic audience, the network asked for the privilege of airing both series at no cost to "Faith For Today."

• As part of a planned expansion, Loma Linda Foods, Inc. acquired Millstone Foods, Inc., a 10-year-old, Seventh-day Adventist, family business based in northern California. "It is our intent to utilize Millstone's 27 products as a foundation for a complete line of wholesome and simple natural foods," says Glen Blix, vice president of development. Loma Linda Foods, Inc. is distinguished as the only denominationally-owned food manufacturer in the United States.

• A 12-program series on aging produced by the "Voice of Prophecy" are being sent to all of the 8,985 radio stations in the United States and Canada. These are a follow-up to a series on aging presented 18 months ago. "Each spot attempts to model an effective behavior or attitude to keep the series from becoming too general or moralistic," says John Robertson, producer. The General Conference provides funding for three or four sets of radio spots each year. Radio stations provide the air time without charge.

"Let's Talk," the "Voice of Prophecy" Saturday night, live-bysatellite, interview and call-in program has expanded in its first year from 8 stations in 5 states to 26 stations in 17 states. The "Voice" began the hourlong public service broadcast in January 1985 to reach listeners who may not tune in to the Sunday and daily programs. Radio stations provide air time without charge, and the "Voice of Prophecy" pays only the production costs. Co-hosts for the program include H.M.S. Richards Jr., his brothers Kenneth and Jan, and Bob Edwards. John Robertson is producer. Each week a quest is interviewed and listeners are invited to phone in their questions on toll free WATS lines. Many episodes of "Let's Talk" deal with health and medical issues, such as heart disease, diabetes, multiple sclerosis, schizophrenia and bioethics. Other topics have included child abuse, the search for Noah's ark, world hunger, abortion, substance abuse, Christian music, archaeology and religious liberty. Two-thirds of those responding by phone or letter to "Let's Talk" have never before contacted the "Voice of Prophecy," even though the stations carrying the program also air these daily or Sunday broadcasts.

Announcements for publication in the Herald should be received by YOUR LOCAL CONFERENCE office at least FIVE weeks before the scheduled event. Readers may want to verify dates and times of programs with the respective sources.

I just discovered a news item in the back of your January 14 issue that announced the demise of the newsprint edition. That's good news! Though we all realize the ongoing budget struggles, it is important that we package the Gospel news in the most attractive format possible. Certainly, the value of a magazine's editorial content is often directly equated with the quality of its wrapping. And the news of the Lake Union was worthy of more than the newsprint wrapper. A job well done.

When you perform at Andrews University you're rewarded with more than compliments. You're rewarded with money.

Introducing the Andrews University $15,000 Performance Scholarships.

Talent is talent.

And with young people, talent comes in different ways. At Andrews, those different talents are acknowledged not just with compliments, but with scholarships.

It's all part of the Andrews University Performance Scholarship Fund where $15,000 worth of scholarships and honorariums are issued to deserving students in the categories of Wind Ensemble, Men's Chorus, Women's Chorus, University Singers, and Gymnics.

It's not unusual for Andrews to be offering so much for Performing Arts. Just as it's not unusual to hear of the other scholarship plans and financial aid programs offered here at the University.

Our goal is quite simple: offer the student the chance for a "total education." The University consists of six different schools where students can choose from a variety of degree programs and curricula.

So if you're looking for a school where your talent will be recognized, then you just might be looking for Andrews. Find out more by calling one of our Admissions Counselors toll-free: nationwide, call 1-800-253-2874. For Michigan residents, dial 1-800-632-2248. Or, mail in the coupon.

You'll discover, that in more ways than one, it pays to go to Andrews.
