Head, Hand and Heart Education

See Center Spread

Dear Fellow Believers,

With this little letter, I want to share something with you that is on my heart today. I just want to tell you how very proud I am of our education system. And believe me it is a system! We operate a system of education that begins with kindergarten and continues on through university. There is no doubt in my mind that God, Himself, ordained this church-operated education system. "To bring man back into harmony with God, so to elevate and ennoble his moral nature that he may again reflect the image of the Creator, is the great purpose of all the education and discipline of life." Counsels To Teachers, page 49.

We are presently operating, within the confines of the Mid-America Union, 165 church schools. This number includes: eight academies, nine kindergarten through ten grades, 147 elementary schools and Union College. We have one tremendous school system here in Mid-America! Our schools must continue to be an integral part of the mission of the church.

I am so excited about our schools that I really need more time and space to tell you about them. You know, of course, that the Bible is taught every day. Along with this, the students learn by precept and example the principles of Christian living. Even the new reading textbooks feature Seventh-day Adventist history, lifestyle, etc. The elementary reading books are designed to reinforce the principles of Seventh-day Adventist faith and to create in the student a taste for literature that builds character.

We must realize that our schools can't do everything. Our schools need our support and cooperation. We need to be more supportive and less critical of our schools and teaching staff.

Our ministers, teachers and denominational leaders are products of our own system of education. I'm thankful that my parents sent me to church school, academy and college. This provided me with the foundation and sense of mission and dedication needed for my present duties. I'll ever be grateful for my denominational education.

Our own two children are products of our Christian education system. They, with their spouses, are in the church and in the organized work of the church. I'm thankful for the educators who worked with them and who helped to contribute to their maturity.

May God bless our schools, our teachers, our school administrators and our operating boards. May God help us to do all that we can to keep our children in our school where, in addition to the secular, they are taught the things of eternal value.

Yours in the Master's service,

Joel O. Tompkins

The Ole' Camp Meetin'

By S. Haywood Cox

Camp Meetin's over,
Say friend were you there?
Why, the presence of God
Just permeated the air!

To the old auditorium
The people just poured
They filled up the place
Clear back to the door.

Now camp meetin's always fun
With acquaintances to renew
But this year was the best
"Cause our auditorium was cool"!

The saints were all there
As the rafters just rang.
Foot prints of Jesus
The theme song was sung.

God's people were blessed
As they honored the Lord,
His praises were sung
And we heard from His Word.

Camp meetin's over
Now my friend do your part,
Keep camp meetin' alive
All year in your heart.

S. Haywood Cox, President, Central States Conference.

Once Again the Miracle Is Shared

By Willie L. Harper

On Sabbath, May 26, 1984, Mr. Edward Johnson was baptized at the Bethesda Church in Omaha. After receiving Bible studies from Sister Rhonda Davis and Elder Willie L. Harper, Mr. Johnson made his stand for the Lord. Pastor D. B. Simmons was assisted by Elder Arthur Herrington. After a very moving, spirit-filled ceremony, Pastor Simmons spoke from Revelation 14:6-19. The Holy Spirit guided Pastor Simmons through a sermon titled "The Third Angel's Message".

Mr. Johnson and Ms. Deborah Jackson were joined in marriage on Sunday, May 27, 1984. It is with much love, joy and happiness that the Bethesda church family welcomes now Brother and Sister Johnson.

United Youth Congress

The Regional Conferences of North America conducted the largest United Youth Congress in the history of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, where 31,000 were in attendance. The congress convened in Atlanta, Georgia on March 28 and ended the first of April. There were thirty workshops covering all areas of Christian growth and development, conducted by outstanding Seventh-day Adventists. The congress also included a Bible bowl contest; basketball tournament, oration contest, many choirs, singing groups, outstanding preaching and good fellowship.

There were individuals from all 50 states, Canada, Caribbean Islands and Europe. Special guests included The Honorable Mayor, Andrew Young of Atlanta; J. P. Monk, editor of Message magazine; conference presidents, officers and youth directors.

During the United Youth Congress, the Pathfinders of all the regional conferences held their camporee at Camp Arrowhead in Atlanta. Over three thousand Pathfinders enjoyed a beautifully planned camporee. Elder Leo Ranzolin, General Conference Youth director and Commissioner Nappa (chief of police) were among the featured guests. The Pathfinders and the United Youth congress held a Better Living Parade downtown Atlanta involving thousands of participants and onlookers. The theme for the congress was "The Renewing of Your Mind." Everyone enjoyed the United Youth Congress '84. To God be the glory, great things He has done!

Cooks Return to Minnesota

William and Nancy Cook and family recently moved to Mankato where Bill began his ministry with the Mankato and Morgan churches. The Cooks have three sons: Steve, in the academy; Mark, a third-grader; and Tom, a preschooler. In 1981 the Cooks began their ministry in Minnesota in the Hinckley district and served there until the fall of 1983, when they moved to Berrien Springs, Michigan, for Bill to attend the seminary. The Minnesota Conference and his new district welcome Bill back to Minnesota.

Cambodians Welcomed in Rochester

By Kathy Lindemann

For the past couple of years the Rochester church members have welcomed Cambodian refugees into their congregation and into their hearts. The letter below explains the involvement of the Jensen family with these new friends. It was written by Barbara Jensen before she and her husband Merton moved to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where he will be principal and upper-grade teacher of the junior academy there.

"Two years ago this month my husband Mert and I met a family of Cambodian refugees at church who had arrived from Khow I Dong Refugee Camp in Thailand only a few days previously. We took the family home that day after church and visited with them. I use the term "visited" very loosely because while a lot of talking and motioning ensued, we didn't understand one word of Khmer and the Ouk family understood only "thank you".

"From that day onward our lives have never been the same. We have seen much and learned much. We have listened to stories of miracles and how a people who for generations had known only Buddhism have come to know Christ as their personal Saviour.

"We listened to stories of atrocities almost beyond belief, of eating any animal catchable (even snakes) just to stay alive, of drinking putrid water because there was no other, of children being thrown into the air and slashed to death in front of the mother's eyes, of loved ones now dead because of starvation, of husbands beheaded because they were business men or "intellectuals," such as teachers, doctors, or possibly government personnel.

"We have seen permanent physical scars where their arms have been tied behind the person's back for long periods or where unclad feet and legs were badly hurt from rocks, brush, or obstacles under water while fleeing from the enemy bullets.

"We have listened to stories of people fleeing on boats where they were so crowded that about two square feet per person was all the room anyone had. Many floated aimlessly with little or no food or water and no protection from the mercilessly hot sun day after day because there was no fuel for the boat's engine.

"We've listened how these boats full of people would be boarded by modern-day pirates, robbing them of what little possessions or food they might have and raping the women in those crowded conditions. The atrocities are now past, but the mental scars are not healed yet.

"Our work with these friends is varied, yet rewarding. We have been invited to weddings, farewells, and New Year festivities, which include their cultural dances. We have learned to appreciate many of their traditional foods, either by home visits or invitations to their banquets.

"These people have needed help with survival English, words like "nose," "door," "toilet," "house." Catalogues have helped a lot for English teaching, as a picture is worth a thousand words. (Incidentally, Mert and I took a course in teaching English as a second language so that we could be more effective in helping the Cambodians.) Other needs may be to provide transportation, get housing, fix cars, find cars to purchase, get insurance, help fill out endless forms, or help get clothing. The Dodge Center community services center was a great help in this area.

"They may need help with landlords, plugged plumbing, distressed washing machines, doctor or dental appointments, and locating furniture. The needs are many.

"Last summer we had a two-acre garden in Dodge Center for the Cambodian families. Transportation has been a problem, so Mert and I picked up an old van to use for our needs with these people.

"For nearly two years now we have had a Cambodian Sabbath School class at church. The materials used in this class are provided by Doctors Beatrice and Ralph Neall, who both teach at Union College. Ralph and Bea have been of great help to us because they read, write, and speak the Khmer language after having spent several years in Cambodia as missionaries.

"On one weekend we had our friends, Eleanor and Clyde Peters, themselves former missionaries to Peru, fly the Nealls to Rochester for a special Cambodian weekend. It was wonderful—thrilling in fact. The Nealls met a lady they had not seen in about twenty years. What a joyous reunion! Elder Neall preached in the Khmer language that Sabbath while Bea interpreted for us into English.

"Last school year we had three Cambodian students in the Rochester church school, all were good students.

"Mert and I have very much enjoyed our work with these friends and we will miss them as we take up our new responsibilities in Milwaukee this fall."

Kathy Lindemann is the communication secretary for the Rochester Church.

Anoka School Begins Second Year

By Marie Messinger

The Anoka church school completed its first year of operation on an optimistic note. "Stepping out in faith" has become a rather trite expression, but accurately describes what took place when the church voted to prepare a schoolroom in the church basement and hire a teacher, Miss Kim Anderson. A church school operating committee, headed by Gene Yocum, Sr., worked long hours to make the necessary provisions and have all in readiness for eight students, scattered among six grades, on opening day.

In January the enrollment increased by three, bringing the total to eleven. More are expected for the 1984-85 school year.

The school had a full year with many extra-curricular activities, including singing bands, a delightful musical Christmas program, preparation of a school yearbook, and participation in health and science fairs.

The pupils, parents, Operating Committee, and the teacher, (who changed her name to Mrs. Nick Wooster last fall), are all of one accord in feeling the school year was a success, filled with many learning experiences for children and adults as well. All have felt the leading and blessings of the Lord in this endeavor, and enthusiasm runs high as the Anoka church looks forward to an exciting 1984-85 year.

P.W. Schwab Honored

On June 9, the first Sabbath of Minnesota Camp Meeting, Phil Schwab was presented the Clark Willison Award, a Mid-America Union award given to those who have given outstanding service in the area of education.

Phil, who will be 82 years old in September, gave 25 years of service and love to Maplewood Academy as maintenance man there. He worked for several principals at Maplewood: Boyd Olson, Lyle C. Anderson, L. E. McClain, and Rick Emery. His consistent Christian example was very evident to students and fellow staff members. With patience and love he worked with the students assigned to his department. It is no wonder that the camp meeting crowd gave him a standing ovation as he received the beautiful plaque from Melvin Northrup, assistant director of education for the Mid-America Union Conference.

All of Phil's children were present for the occasion. This was not easy as his seven children are scattered across the nation: Jean Wehling, Diller Nebraska; Phyllis Wagner, Lincoln, Nebraska; Leland, Hutchinson, Minnesota; Naomi Wilmot, Washington, D.C.; Paul, Loveland, Colorado; Ramona Zeller, Manhattan, Kansas; and David, Holly, Michigan. The Schwabs are a close family and miss wife and mother, Nina, who passed away suddenly two years ago.

Although P. W. is now retired and living in Manhattan, Kansas, students who know him, fellow staff members who worked with him, and the Hutchinson community where he lived for so many years will long remember and admire this man whose daily example shows that he walks with God.

Beverly Dickinson, Communication Director, Minnesota Conference.

Albert Lea News

By Ardith Holstad

In mid-spring of 1984 the Albert Lea church began a Revelation Seminar with 30 non-members and approximately 30 members attending. Pastor Byron Lighthall presented the course in simplicity, kindness and love.

The printed page, It Is Written, family witnessing, prayer for reclaiming Christ through rebaptism and sincere love resulted in four people being baptized in the Albert Lea Church on May 12. ROCKY MOUNTAIN

La Vida Mission

The spiritual growth being experienced by some of those recently baptized is wonderful to observe. We are seeing, both at Waterflow and at La Vida, Navajo people taking hold of the gospel truths and growing like never before. Recently an elderly gentleman who does not speak English wanted to share some of the things he has grown to love with some of his neighbors. He requested that we hold a week-long series in his home and he invited his neighbors to attend. Dick Ryan, with Debbie Nez translating, presented the plan of salvation as Paul wrote it to the Romans. The joy that this man had at being able to share with his friends was very contagious! Those who went from the Mission each night to lead out were blessed as much as those attending. We ask that these lovely people be remembered in prayers throughout the conference.

As the school year approaches, our thoughts turn to food! This year we are in acute need of food with which to begin the school year. Our food supply is as low as it has been during the past 10 years. We are looking forward to the supply that will be sent on the conference truck in November, but we would be most grateful for almost any fresh or canned food at this time. Even our supply of staple foods is low.

We would like to ask that the building project of a home for children and staff be remembered in prayer with funds and help. It began July 2 and is continuing until complete! If anyone has time to help, please get in touch with us: phone (505) 786-5539 or (505) 325-0442; Box 3308, Farmington, NM 87401.

Two Join RM Staff

By Wm. C. Hatch

Pastor Sylvester Case has accepted the invitation to serve as pastor for the Leadville, Salida and Fairplay churches. Pastor Case has just received his Master of Divinity Degree from the Theological Seminary at Andrews University.

The Cases have three sons, Larry 22; Alvin, 19 and Edward, 14. Pastor Case is bilingual, having served as a lay pastor in the Dominican Republic for three years.

We are glad to welcome the Cases and ask that all the members of one of the most beautiful mountain districts in all America join together to give their full support.

Pastor and Mrs. Sylvester Case and their three sons.

In a recent issue of the Outlook I announced that Pastor Jim Cox from the Potomac Conference had accepted our invitation to become stewardship secretary of our conference. After accepting our call the Coxes found it necessary to decline the invitation.

Our executive committee then extended a call to C. Gerry Fisher, stewardship secretary of the Ohio Conference. I'm happy to welcome Elder and Mrs. Fisher to a conference that has more than doubled in size since they left us in 1975. He was pastor of the Aurora, Colorado church from 1967 to 1972, and a departmental director from 1972 to 1975. Many of you are well acquainted with the Fishers and will join me in extending a hearty welcome to them.

Pastor and Mrs. Gerry Fisher and daughter Dionne.

The Fishers have one son, Elder Jeffrey Jerald Fisher, a pastor in the Indiana Conference; one daughter, Dionne, who will be a freshman at Mile High Academy; and two granddaughters.

Volunteerism At Its Best

Bill Cooper, personal ministries secretary of the Montrose, Colorado church is a very busy man. He believes in reaching out and helping his fellow men in every way he can—he feels that his Master would want him to!

Bill was selected as one of 30 of Colorado's finest citizens, who by their lifestyle and zest for living exemplify Volunteerism at its best! He was selected by Ann Hamilton, Director of the Colorado Office of Volunteerism and honored by Governor Richard D. Lamm.

At a special banquet given in the state capitol for the 30 special guests, the speaker of the evening had this to say about Bill Cooper:

"He presides over the Golden Chain Senior Citizens Legislative Committee and has been an outstanding volunteer leader in many other organizations in Montrose, Colorado.

"He has chaired the American Association of Retired Persons for two years, served as director and planner of a Christmas program for shut-ins and rest homes in Montrose.

Bill volunteers his time to drive an RSVP van for the residents of the Golden Chain and never fails to help in any way he can from assisting seniors in and out of the van to delivering letters to carrying groceries to their doors. Bill is always extremely patient and courteous and goes far beyond the call of duty of being just a good driver. His concern for the welfare of his fellow men and women is shown at every stop he makes. I had to call several times before finally reaching Bill to congratulate him. He was always out on his runs or busy helping others. Finally I reached him and he told me that he retired as postal manager from the Pasadena Post Office in 1979 and decided then to devote his entire life to community service work. He says he's glad he did because it really keeps him going. Bill, Montrose is so proud of you and so are we. Thank you for giving so much of yourself."

Bill Cooper, your fellow members of the Seventh-day Adventist church are proud of you too!!! We thank you for helping your fellow men, your community and your church. We thank you for representing your Lord Jesus Christ as a beautiful Christian.

South Big Horn County Hospital Expansion

By Chet Jordan

South Big Horn County Hospital Board of Management and the Hospital District Board have agreed on hospital remodeling and additions totaling approximately two million dollars. They have begun reviewing for approval plans submitted by the planning committee for the new additions which will add nearly 10,100 square feet to the overall facility. Total number of beds will remain at the currently licensed capacity of 28. The hospital is currently operated by the Adventist Health Systems.

Most of the major changes will be to the interior, with the only noticeable exterior changes being two patient wings and a redesigned front entrance. Plans provide for three ICU beds and a new out-patient and emergency receiving area. Other areas that will be enlarged or remodeled include the business office, medical records, X-ray, kitchen, physical therapy, maintenance department and the medical library.

Application for approval of the changes is currently being sought through the State of Wyoming Certificate of Need Board. The mode of funding is yet to be finalized, but will be a combination of grant funds and a Hospital District Bond Issue.

Three Pastors Retire

By Wm. C. Hatch

Three pastoral couples in the Rocky Mountain Conference have indicated a desire to retire from the active ministry in the next few months. A special service honoring Elder and Mrs. Sid English, Elder and Mrs. Max Ritchie, and Elder and Mrs. David Rose was conducted on Friday night of the Eastern Colorado Camp Meeting.

Elder Max Ritchie was a high school dropout when he found Christ and the Advent message at the age of 17 in Greensboro, North Carolina. He immediately began to witness for the Lord, and even before he was baptized, had won two other young men to the truth, one of whom also became an Adventist minister and dedicated an entire lifetime of service to the Lord.

Max felt a call to the ministry and not having any money to attend school he entered the colporteur ministry and saved enough earnings for an entrance fee to Collegedale Academy where he began a seven-year work program to finish high school. After that he began the ministerial course at Southern Missionary College, now Southern College of Seventh-day Adventists. While at Southern College Max met and married the former Catherine Farrell, of Dayton, Tennessee who has faithfully stood by his side through these many years of service.

Max and Kay began their ministry in the Carolina Conference in 1947. Since then they have worked in the Florida, Georgia-Cumberland and Kentucky-Tennessee Conferences, pastoring churches and doing evangelistic work. They came to the Colorado Conference in 1963 and have served in four districts during their 21-year stay: Delta, Sterling, Cortez and Loveland.

Max says he will not be retiring; he will be working for the Lord right on, just receiving less pay. He and Kay plan to make their retirement home near Dove Creek, Colorado.

Elder David Rose grew up in the Adventist Community of Oak Grove Heights, Missouri. He attended Enterprise Academy in Kansas, Union College and the Theological Seminary. In 1943 he married Dorothy Thrall. In 1945 they moved to New York City and pastored the German language church in the Bronx. The General Conference asked the Roses to go to Berne, Switzerland in 1946 to direct the relief work for war-torn European nations. In 1950 David became the president of the mission in Spain and served until 1962. For 11 years they served in the pastorate of the Chesapeake Conference and then five years in the Wyoming Conference. In 1979 Dorothy and David moved to Gunnison, Colorado and then to the Sterling District of churches. Their first plans for retirement are to return to Spain at the request of the General Conference and strengthen the work in a mission field they love.

Elder Sidney W. English was graduated from Atlantic Union College in 1949 and began his ministry as a pastor-literature evangelist in the New York Conference. He had married Alva in 1943 and reached another important milestone of life when he was ordained to the gospel ministry in 1953. The Englishes have served the church in three conferences. They were in the New York Conference from 1949 to 1958. They served churches in the Kansas Conference from 1958 to 1964, and then came to the Cortez, Colorado district. They served three different districts in Colorado—Greeley, Colorado Springs and Aurora. Sid and Alva plan to make their retirement home near Terryall, Colorado.

We wish God's richest blessings for these three strong pastors and their mates as they continue to serve their Lord in their retirement areas.

Health Fair, South Big Horn County Hospital

By Chet Jordan

South Big Horn County Hospital, operated by the Adventist Health System, was the major sponsor in the Greybull-Basin area of the annual state-wide Wyoming K-2 Health Fair. Two hundred one persons participated in the free health screening services. This was the fourth year that the hospital has joined area businesses and television station K-2 TV of Casper in providing multiple screening tests in an effort to raise the health awareness level of the general population.

Included in the Health Fair screening at a reduced rate charge was a coronary risk profile test that determined an individual's potential risk for coronary disease, based on over-all lipid (blood fat) values. A knowledge of the ratio of High Density Lipids (HDL) to show Low Density Lipids (LDL) and Very Low Density Lipids (VLDL) is increasingly proving to be valuable knowledge in predicting the possibility of a heart attack.

Evaluation of the coronary screen results will be made by a medical doctor. Participants will receive these results by mail. The hospital provided registered nurses, along with community RN volunteers to summarize the test results and to offer information regarding referral services. The multiple screening tests were not intended to be a substitute for a physician's examination, as only the physician can give a clean bill of health.

This type of educational program is one of several offered to Wyoming residents in which South Big Horn County Hospital participates. Another service actively promoted is the Wyoming State Improved Pregnancy Outcome Program. This thrust has in the past several years helped to lower the infant mortality rate in Wyoming from among the 10 highest states in the United States to the lowest rate and the number one position in the 50 states.

Physicians, patients and medical personnel are working together to make Wyoming a better place to live and raise a family.

Diane's Story

By Roger Baker

"As I was lowered into the water, I remember feeling as though I was in a small, dark place. But coming up, I felt as though I were in a large body of water being flooded with light. Clear, clear water, bright as if the sun were shining right down on me." This is the way Diane Bridger described her baptism after completing the Revelation Seminar conducted by Burton Maxwell in the Piedmont Park Church.

Diane was baptized into the Catholic church as a baby and attended Catholic schools through eighth grade. Although she liked church, she never really believed the stories about Jesus. Her grandparents, who lived in Minnesota, would take her to church on Saturday when she visited them, and she enjoyed Sabbath School.

In junior high, she tried smoking, drinking, and marijuana. She had problems at home and couldn't wait to find a man, get married, and move out. A few months after high school graduation, she did just that. Her husband was very polite and a Catholic. Before marrying, they made a pact that they would never touch tobacco or marijuana again, and Diane has kept that pledge for six years now.

After the first child was born, the marriage started having problems. Diane would visit a girlfriend who always talked about Jesus. At first it irritated her, but finally she started going to a community church with her. She went there for three years. Her husband and family were against her leaving the Catholic church, so she stopped going there and tried several other churches, but none seemed to fulfill her needs. She remembered her mother had been an Adventist and still claimed it was the true church, so she had her contact one of her friends, Gloria Pierce from the Piedmont Park church. Gloria met with her each week for Bible study and then attended Pastor Morris Venden's series, "Pillars of Faith".

About the time her third child was born, her husband asked for a divorce. Diane started blaming God for her unhappiness, but having the baby around helped her realize that wasn't right, and things started to fall in place. She had some Mormon neighbors who started studies with her. She was almost to the point of baptism into the Mormon church and was praying that God would help her to know the right thing to do.

The first thing next morning, Pastor Frank Tochtermann knocked on the door. He said he had a list of people to visit and had asked God to show him who needed visiting the most, and Diane's name came to mind. After more studies, Diane was baptized into the Seventh-day Adventist church. Truly, the Lord led in her life.

Garden City Church School

By Lois Winters

The almost completed Garden City church school building was begun in April by Maranatha Flights, International, and should be ready for occupancy for this coming term. It is located in a lovely residential section with ample playground and kitchen facilities. The new building will allow the school to keep its accreditation and expand student enrollment. Sandra Moutray is the teacher. Garden City is a fast-growing community with low unemployment rate. Families wishing to locate near a church school can send inquiries to 1715 Center Street, Garden City, Kansas 66739.

State Science Fair Winner

Special commendation goes to Randy Dittmar, who was the first place winner in the State Science Fair held recently at Platte Valley Academy. The theme of the fair centered on energy conservation in farming. Randy made a solar powered water pump and attached it to a drip irrigation system. He attends the Valley View church school in Scottsbluff. We believe our schools turn out top notch students, don't you agree?

New Members At Sedalia

Harold Garrett and Antrina Williams have just become members of the Sedalia Seventh-day Adventist Church as a result of a Revelation Seminar held at the Craig Community Center in La-Monte, Missouri. We are happy to report that 12 others are still studying our great message.

Farewell To Wanderslebens

Pastor and Mrs. Walter Wandersleben and son, Keven, are pictured with their cake which was part of the farewell fellowship dinner held in their honor. The Wanderslebens are leaving the Davenport, IA district to fill an appointment at Zaire, Africa. They will be attending the Mission Institute and studying French at Andrews University this summer, then leaving for Zaire in the fall. Pastor Wandersleben climaxed his ministry in Davenport with a baptism of seven precious souls. We pray a special blessing on these seven new SDA's and on the pastor's family.

Substance Of Evangelism Seminar

Pictured above are Ken Adderley, Peggy Geiger, Don Richards, David Penno, Connie Vail. These are five of the 21 participants in the ten-day seminar held by Jim and Sharon Cress at the Oak Park Academy campus. This program presented proved plans, materials and training for pastors to conduct successful 8-week evangelistic series. Watch for reports of results this fall!

Sunnydale Academy

New Staff Member

Donald R. Keele, Jr. has recently joined the Sunnydale Academy staff as chaplain and teacher. Don; his wife, Sandy; and daughter, Andrea, 20 months, came to us from Valley Grande Academy in Weslaco, Texas where Don served as chaplain, Bible teacher, and guidance counselor for the past three years. Mr. Keele holds a B.A. degree in Religion and Communication from Southern Missionary College. Personal interests and hobbies include backpacking, water-skiing, racquetball, flying, music, birding, and helping others see that Christianity can be enjoyable and exciting. We welcome Don, Sandy, and Andrea to Sunnydale Academy.

Garden Project

Approximately four years ago the Rolla Seventh-day Adventist Church provided strawberry plants to cover two and a half acres at Sunnydale Academy. Members of the Sunnydale Seventh-day Adventist Church put the berry plants in the field. This year the plants provided 1,300 pounds of berries for the school cafeteria in addition to just under $1,000 in sales to the staff and public.

Two new garden projects were started last spring. Eight thousand asparagus plants and four thousand Heritage raspberry plants have been put in. It is anticipated that there will be a small yield from the raspberry plants this fall and full crop by next summer. Although the asparagus plants will not produce any financial profit for two years, these projects do provide work for students who are too young to be employed in an industrial job. With the Lord's blessing we look forward to real material gains from these projects in provisions for the school cafeteria, student labor, and sales.

Graduation

Cedarvale Junior Academy held its 20th Graduation Exercises May 21, 1984 as Elder Randall Murphy addressed six 8th graders and eight 10th graders. The 8th-grade class presented the school with funds to buy a Commodore 64 Computer, bringing the total of computers at the school to 4. Among the awards presented were the Presidential Physical Fitness Awards. The Eagle Award, the first in 3 years, was presented to Eric Taylor. Miya Goodwin received the Gold Award with Ramon Haynes and Fermin Fordham receiving the Silver Award. These awards are based on what a student can do in 6 categories: broad jump, sit-ups, chin-ups/flex arm hang, 50-yard dash, shuttle run, and the 600-yard run-walk. Needless to say, we are very proud of our young people.

"Why Spend $1,000 to Send My Child to an Adventist Elementary School?"

That's the question I had to answer this summer. There's a beautiful public school just down the street. And tuition is free. On the basis of location and cost, my choice would be easy. But there are some things about our local Adventist school that my wife and I also considered.

Some Very Special Teachers

First, the teachers. Sure, they're all fully certified professionals. But, more important, each is dedicated to sharing Christ in what and how they teach. And not just during Bible class and worship, but in all classes, including handwriting and physical education. From my visits to Kami's classroom, I know that her teacher also reveals Jesus by the way he talks and lives.

Head, Hand, and Heart Education

Next came quality of education. During parent-teacher conferences, we saw some achievement test scores showing that SDA education consistently outranks the others.

And we're impressed by the completeness of today's Adventist education. From first grade right through college, our schools are preparing young people for tomorrow's world. Just look at an SDA academy bulletin sometime: computer programming, welding, microwave cooking, ceramics, nursing science, band, choir, word processing . . . the list goes on and on. And Kami's looking forward to taking everything!

On-the-Job Training

We found more good news. Next school year, Kami's going to have the opportunity to work in our new school-owned bakery. Which whittles down that $1000 figure. But I'm just as excited about the valuable experience she'll be gaining. She's already planning to be a "millworker" at Harris Pine when she goes to academy, just like her cousin Wesley. "Don't decide too soon," I tell her. She may still opt for becoming a "farm gal" or a nurse's aide, earning tuition and valuable work experience at the same time. Of course, with the way our schools are coming up with new creative and profitable work-study options, who knows what Kami might get into by then?

More Than Dollars

I've shared with you some of the main reasons why we chose an Adventist school for Kami. Still, one thousand is a pretty big number.

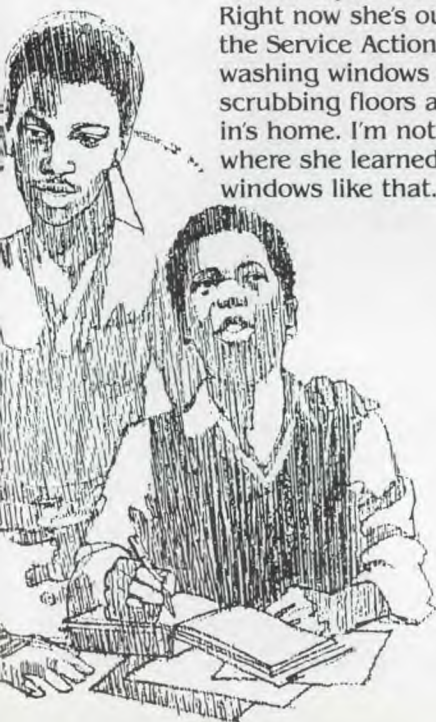

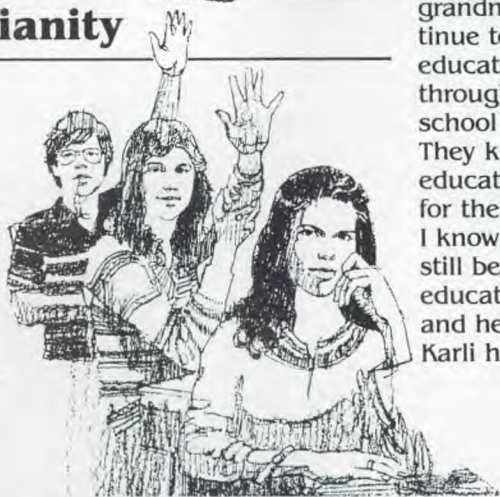

On the other hand, there are some other numbers to consider. For example, the large number of young people who are baptized and continue to be active in the church if they've had the advantage of a Seventh-day Adventist education.

In the end, that was what made our decision for us. We couldn't put a price on our daughter's Christian experience. So we consider the cost our most valuable investment.

That's also why Kami's grandma and grandpa continue to support Adventist education financially through their local church's school subsidy program. They know that Christian education is a responsibility for the entire church family. I know my wife and I will still be supporting Adventist education long after Kami and her two-year-old sister Karli have graduated.

Learning to Share Christianity

One major difference between our SDA school and the public school is that our school doesn't shut down on weekends! Outreach activity is a way of life. And Kami loves every minute. Branch Sabbath School. The witnessing tumbling team. Temperance Club. Adopt-a-Grandparent. Right now she's out with the Service Action Team, washing windows and scrubbing floors at a shut-in's home. I'm not sure where she learned to do windows like that.

One Final Number

With all the numbers we've talked about, there's one more we considered: 4,517. That's baptisms of Adventist students in a single school year. And that number means a lot more to a dad when his own daughter comes to him and says, "Pastor Clark's going to have baptismal classes after school on Tuesdays. Can I go?"

We couldn't think of another school that offered a class better than that!

EDUCATION
An Adventist Essential

Christian Education In Dakota

The Dakota Conference continues to focus its attention on Christian education. Doug Brown, Conference Youth/Education Director explained at the recent constituency session, "Our youth are the greatest asset our church has. The future of the church rests upon our young people."

That Christian education is a priority in the Dakotas is evident from the fact that last year 28% of the total conference budget was spent for elementary and secondary education. Besides Dakota Adventist Academy near Bismarck, the conference operates 21 elementary schools, staffed by 26 teachers with an enrollment of 250 students.

Brown, who joined the conference departmental staff in November, 1983 says, "I have enjoyed the privilege of sitting in the classrooms with our teachers and seeing their love and concern for the young people and their dedication in working untiringly in training them. In our educational system we have committed ourselves to the preparation of our youth for this life and for the life to come."

Doug Brown

But there are challenges to be faced. The ever rising costs of Christian education make it more difficult for the conference, local churches and parents to find adequate resources to support the program. It is amazing, though, how the Lord often blesses those who see the value of Christian education and provides the means to obtain it. "It costs but it pays in benefits on the other end," says Brown. Many of the costs are fixed costs and more of our youth could be taking advantage of it. This leads to another challenge.

In recent years there has been a decline in enrollment both on the elementary and secondary levels. The challenge is to raise the consciousness of the benefits of Christian education. We must realize that we are building characters for eternity not just for the present world. There is a unique difference in Christian education—an entirely different emphasis.

Robert LeBard, new principal of Dakota Adventist Academy says, "We have a large number of young people who ought to know about this school and ought to be here." LeBard and his wife Nita have come to the Dakota Conference from Santa Cruz, California. The LaBards have served in the education field for 27 years, 17 of which have been spent in academy administration. He replaces L. E. McClain who retired at the close of the 83-84 school year.

Reporting to constituents on May 27, 1984, McClain stated that young people who come to D.A.A. from our church schools come well-prepared. When they arrive at D.A.A. they find a broad selection of course offerings. A curriculum is available to prepare the students for college entrance, but practical courses are also available to meet the needs and interests of the non-college bound student. These course offerings include advanced math, biology II, journalism, accounting, office procedures, photography, auto mechanics and welding. The school provides a number of music opportunities through its excellent band program and various choral groups.

Before the last school year ended, LeBard made a special trip to D.A.A. to meet with a committee of students to discuss their concerns and the things they like about their school. "We plan to develop and build on the positive things," he said. "There will be frequent and regular meetings with faculty and staff so that our faculty sense that they are working together as a unit. We like to have our students close to us. For that reason, we've always entertained a great deal in our home. Our home is open to the students at any time. Both Mrs. LeBard and I like to cook and kids like to eat. And so that gives us at least a beginning channel to their hearts. And that's actually what it's all about. We want to find a way to their hearts."

LeBard is committed to running a sound, strong academic program as well, so that our young people who leave this school will leave knowing that they carry with them the best preparation possible for whatever direction they want to go. At the same time, the program will be well disciplined.

Church school bells will ring on August 27 across the Dakotas. For information about enrolling your child, contact your pastor or Dakota Adventist Academy, (701) 258-9000.

Seminar On Alcoholism

By Berniece Lunday

Dick Elefson, master addiction counselor

from Heartview Foundation, an alcoholism information and treatment center at Mandan, conducted a seminar at the Bismarck Seventh-day Adventist church to give Adventists better insight into how to help those with an alcohol problem.

Elefson shared the 12 steps Heartview uses to help people overcome alcoholism which include admitting they are powerless to deal with the problem, and completely surrendering to a higher power for help.

Another point is to make a search, a fearless self inventory. The next point requires admission of these inner faults to God, to self and to one other individual. Elefson challenged, "How many of us as Christians are ready to admit our shortcomings. Most non-alcoholics don't have the guts to do what alcoholics have to do regarding this step."

Surprisingly the Center has more success with people who have been admitted by their loved ones than those who have admitted themselves.

Elefson recommends that rather than confronting a person about how, when and why he drinks, confront him regarding specific behavior. He says we need to open our arms to his and support him.

Heartview is starting a new facility for 9-to-15-year olds which will be the only such facility west of Minneapolis. Elefson stated today's adolescent drinks to get "wasted". The Seventh-day Adventist denomination has a prevention program through Narcotics Education Listen magazine, which is a journal geared to educate young people against the use of drugs, etc. which are damaging. Members can subscribe for complimentary issues to schools, individuals, and their own family members.

Mrs. Berniece Lunday is the communication secretary for the Bismarck Church.

Medi-Mate Available At BCH

Brighton Community Hospital now has a personal emergency response system called Medi-Mate. Especially designed for the elderly, handicapped or functionally impaired, this device provides instant contact between the participant and the hospital.

When the button on Medi-Mate is pushed, a signal is sent to the hospital emergency response station via telephone. Trained staff respond by calling the participant. If there is no answer, the hospital phones a previously selected responder who goes directly to the home and determines if medical help or an ambulance is needed.

Medi-Mate is available to the community at a fee of $15.00 a month and is providing the emergency response twenty-four hours a day.

Boulder County Volunteers Recognized

Boulder County Volunteers were officially recognized at the Annual Volunteer of the Year Awards reception. Of the 31 volunteers nominated for the award, five were individuals who volunteer their time at Boulder Memorial Hospital also. They are: Betty Berger, Pauline Pegram, Charles and Helen Poston and Dale Querfeld.

BMH Treats Chondromalacia (Runner's Knee)

One of the most prevalent conditions seen in the physician's office today is chondromalacia, or "runner's knee." This is an overuse injury of the knee as the result of activities such as running, aerobics, skiing, and cycling. Symptoms include pain in or around the knee which increases with such activities as knee flexing, stair climbing and hills.

Boulder Memorial Hospital has thus developed a non-traditional group program in treatment of chondromalacia with the specific goals of early intervention to prevent further problems, education to outline the causes of problems and treatment options which can be carried on at home, adapted aerobics or cycling activity classes.

Hubbard To Leave Union

On June 25, 1984, Union College President Dean L. Hubbard announced to Union College faculty that he plans to take up the position as president of the Northwest Missouri State University at Maryville.

Hubbard has been at Union College for eight years. His first four years were spent as academic dean, and he has been president during the last four years. In these eight years, he has brought about many innovative changes which have helped the school maintain a progressive attitude toward education. Primarily, these included reorganizing the college into a divisional structure, developing a full-scale development and alumni program, increasing community awareness and implementing a new comprehensive curriculum mode for the college.

"Let me assure you that this has not been an easy decision," says Hubbard. "Since we have known for several months that our name was on the list of candidates being considered, we have spent hours of time prayerfully considering what course of action to follow if the invitation ever came. As you can imagine, there have been many variables to consider: What is best for Union College? What is best for our family? What is best professionally?"

"Our eight years at Union have been the most rewarding and satisfying of our entire lives. We've had a wonderful team of committed, competent and genuinely supportive colleagues to work with. Additionally, we have had a marvelous board. Witnessing your enthusiasm for this institution and your willingness to work on its behalf has been one of our greatest thrills. We have great confidence in the future of Union College and want you each to be assured of an interest in our daily prayers as you continue to provide guidance and support."

This move into a state school is also seen by Hubbard as a new challenge which will add breadth to his professional career. Hubbard's name was suggested to the university by Ron Roskins, president of the University of Nebraska.

At the Board of Directors meeting on July 25, the process for selecting a new president will be determined. Joel Tompkins, chairman of the board, says that he is anxious to put together a search committee with elected representatives from the board, faculty and students. "We have many fine programs going at Union," said Tompkins,

"and we are committed to seeing them continue. Consequently, we intend to prayerfully and thoroughly review a full slate of possible candidates. While the search process is proceeding, an interim president is a possibility," concluded Tompkins.

Union To Offer Credit In Marine Studies

Union College recently received affiliation status with the Walla Walla College Marine Station near Anacortes, Washington, according to Dr. James Hayward, associate professor of biology at Union.

Walla Walla College, like Union, is operated by the Seventh-day Adventist Church, and offers other SDA colleges affiliation with its marine teaching and research facility. In return Union is obliged to send a faculty member every three years to teach at the station during the eight-week summer session.

The new relationship between the colleges involves several benefits for students and faculty.

- Students will have the opportunity to broaden their perspective through interaction with students and faculty from colleges and universities across the nation.
- Students will gain exposure to the marine ecosystem, a benefit mid-westerners rarely experience.
- Students may attend the station while receiving credit at Union.
- The program gives Union an opportunity to expand its course offerings.
- Science faculty members will receive the chance to expand their professional horizons through interaction with students and teachers from institutions across the country.

The marine station's primary function is to train undergraduates in marine oriented topics. As such, courses offered include: marine ecology, general biology, oceanography, ichthyology (the study of fish), and marine invertebrates.

Retreat for L.E's

By Ron Ihrig

The Minnesota Literature Evangelists and the Union College Student Literature Evangelists met at North Star Camp for a retreat. Except for a Sabbath afternoon rain, the weather was conducive to out-of-doors recreational activities.

Dan Jones, right, and Neil Wallace, center, discuss a new idea for literature distribution with Thomas Hord, Minnesota district director.

George Taggart, Minnesota Adventist Book Center Manager, gave four evening lectures on Revelation. Those in attendance realized again the wealth of information contained in Revelation that leads to salvation, and considered the message a real blessing.

Bob Belmont, Home Health Education Service manager, and associate director of the Mid-America Union Publishing Department delivered the Sabbath sermon. Ron Ihrig, Field Associate for the Mid-America Union Publishing Department, lead the Sabbath School lesson discussion.

Glen Stofer, who serves in the south Minneapolis area.

Thanks to the good cooking, the hospitality of Larry Kromann and his fine camp staff, the fellowship, and the spiritual refreshing, the Minnesota Literature Evangelist team returned to their territory with a renewed commitment to share the gospel in print, and witness to God's love more faithfully.

Bob Belmont delivered the Sabbath sermon.

George Taggart presented lectures from Revelation.

Ron Ihrig, Field Associate, Mid-America Publishing Department.

I-MLAC Holds Meeting At End Of Camp Meeting

When the last day of camp meeting was ended and the last good-byes were said, Elder Doward's words were ringing in the minds of many. He had left us with ideas and thoughts making us look inward and ask if our friends haven't joined the church because they don't see Christ in us.

With these thoughts still in our minds the Iowa-Missouri Lay Advisory Committee, (I-MLAC) met early Sunday morning. The Kirksville pastor, David Penno, was kind enough to let us use their church. This meeting was for the main purpose of electing officers. The regular spring and fall meetings will be working meetings.

Many have expressed concern in the past that little gets done. Well they may have been right, but through a learning process and better participation from members we are improving.

There were several items taken care of during this special session.

Elder Gilbert could not attend because of Conference Committee meeting, however, he sent along a short and concise update since the Constituency.

We had a request from Sunnydale to assist them in getting a "Berry" patch going. We will follow up and you will be hearing about this soon.

The new officers will hold forth for two years. The term runs from October 1, 1984 through September 30, 1986.

The officers are: chairman, Larry Bucher of Nevada, Iowa; vice chairman, Walt Johnson; secretary, LaVerne Zumbaum, Sedalia, Missouri; treasurer, Norma Petersen, Goldsberry, Missouri; Conference Committee representative, Bill Stokes, St. Louis, Missouri.

The next meeting will be held at our Camp Heritage, the date in October to be announced later.

We would ask that every church take an active part in this committee. We are attempting to serve the church and need all of the insight and direction we can get.

If you are a member and are not receiving letters, please send your name and address and where your church membership is to: LaVerne Zumbaum, 202 Prospect, Brookfield, Missouri 64628.

Together with Christ we will overcome our adversary who is attempting to tear us apart from the inside out.

In August Issue Of SIGNS

The church—even the Seventh-day Adventist Church—can no longer point to alcohol as a problem for those in the world, but not for those within its fold. Practicing Christians can, and do, become alcoholics.

The August Signs spotlights this issue in an interview with Dr. Anderson Spickard, Jr. that suggests specific ways church members can help those in their midst who have alcohol problems. Dr. Spickard, a frequent speaker on the subject of alcoholism at medical schools and churches, is the director of general internal medicine and a professor of medicine at Vanderbilt University Medical Center. He says, "Even well-meaning Christians tend to beat alcoholics over the head with a Bible, warning them to repent of their sin, and telling them not to come back to church until they can stop drinking."

Alcoholism is a sin, the doctor believes, that affects the physical, mental and spiritual aspects of life. But it is more, and recovery is not possible without treatment in all three areas.

In spite of growing alcoholism, most people actually understand very little about it. In two hours, says Dr. Spickard, the person who really wants to learn can know more about alcoholism than 90 percent of all physicians! Start your education with this informative interview in the August Signs. Then follow up with these articles in the same issue:

Rosalyn Carter, Honorary President Of International Religious Liberty Association

Rosalyn Carter has accepted an invitation to be honorary president of the International Religious Liberty Association. The former First Lady of the United States, who has been a strong advocate of human rights around the world, pledged to help build "a more caring society" and sense of world community which will encourage religious liberty around the world.

Rosalyn Carter accepts the invitation to be honorary President of the International Religious Liberty Association. The former first lady is welcomed by Dr. Robert Maddox (left), executive director of the Americans United for the Separation of Church and State, and Dr. Bert B. Beach (right), director of the Department of Public Affairs and Religious Liberty for the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, and Secretary General of the International Religious Liberty Association.

The International Religious Liberty Association, which was incorporated in 1946, encourages governments in various countries to support and protect the right of individuals to believe or disbelieve; to have a religion or not to have a religion; and to practice their religion without fear of repression.

The association this year will sponsor the second World Congress on Religious Liberty in Rome, Italy, September 3-6. Americans United for Separation of Church and State, Liberty magazine and Association Internationale pour la Defense de la Liberté Religieuse are collaborating with the association in sponsoring the Congress.

According to conference coordinator Mitchell Tyner, the congress will also discuss ways to promote United Nations' Resolution 36/55; (1981) which calls for the elimination of religious intolerance and discrimination around the world. Some controversial issues that will/may be discussed at the congress include:

1. What are the legitimate limits of governmental regulatory powers over religion?
2. What is the status of religious liberty in international law?
3. What areas of accommodation to religion should be made by a state?

4. What problems do religious people face from official atheism in socialist countries, and from unofficial secularism in North America and Western Europe?
5. Does fundamentalism, whether Christian or Moslem, threaten the rights of religious minorities?
6. What is the status of religious freedom in Latin America? Asia? Africa?

Among the speakers are: Professor Abdul Salaam, Pakistan, winner of the Nobel prize in physics.

Tuckers Baptize 264 In Overseas Evangelism

Recently returned from a month of evangelism in Sabah (on the old island of Borneo) and the Philippines, Pastor and Mrs. LaVerne Tucker report 158 baptisms in Sabah and 106 in Palawan.

Concurrently with Pastor Tucker's meetings in Palawan, fifteen satellite groups met nightly in the outlying districts. The baptisms for that reaping crusade totalled more than 300.

The Tuckers rejoice at the Holy Spirit's work as they continue their appointments into the fall this year. During June and July, Pastor Tucker met with camp meetings across the country. August will find him in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, conducting a crusade. In September he'll be in Victorville, California, for one week, and October calls him to Redding for a month of meetings and outreach.

The Quiet Hour staff joins Pastor and Mrs. Tucker in thanksgiving for the wonderful power of God in the lives that have discovered Him!

Coming In The ADVENTIST REVIEW

In the August 2 Adventist Review, Bert Beach, director of the General Conference Department of Public Affairs and Religious Liberty, discusses church organization. He concludes with a call for members to "close the windows of organizational vulnerability and build up the church organization in the Biblical image."

The entire August 9 issue is devoted to North America. The issue looks at the Caring Church, how North American money fits into the world church's financial picture, what groups in the church are growing fastest and the implications of such growth, and much more.

Do Christians profane the name of the Deity when they employ the terms "Lord," "God," or "Jesus" in prayer and speech? Is it preferable to use the Hebrew terms Yahweh (to designate God the Father) and Yahshua (for Jesus)? Frank Holbrook, of the Biblical Research Institute, answers these questions in an article entitled "How Should We Address God?" in the August 16 Review. The Adventist People section of that issue features Virginia-Gene Rittenhouse, conductor of the New England Youth Ensemble.

AHP Negotiating For Miller Property

Negotiation for the acquisition of the Low Hampton, New York homestead of Baptist farmer-turned-preacher William Miller, whose 1844 movement resulted in the beginning of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, is now at an advanced stage, according to Paul A. Gordon, trustee of Adventist Historic Properties, Inc., and undersecretary of the Ellen G. White Estate at the General Conference.

AHP was founded as a non-profit corporation three years ago by 16 concerned church leaders and laymen who saw the need of acquiring sites of significance in early Seventh-day Adventist history. It raises its own funds with denominational approval, and Vice President Francis W. Wernick represents the General Conference on AHP's Board of Trustees.

A selling price of $110,000 has been placed on 25 (of 167) acres of the old Miller homestead which will be turned into an early Advent museum if the purchase price can be raised within the next 60 days.

Included in the acquisition will be land on both sides of the road where Miller lived, his old house, the barns, and the rocky outcropping of granite nicknamed "ascension rock" because a number of local Millerites gathered to pray there October 22, 1844.

Immediately adjacent is the William Miller Memorial Chapel, where Seventh-day Adventists from all over New York and New England gather for a special commemorative service on a special Sabbath each August. Miller's grave is in a nearby rural cemetery.

"We are not interested in creating a mystical shrine out of the Miller homestead," Elder Gordon affirmed in announcing this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. "Rather, we seek to preserve the artifacts of our spiritual ancestors in a museum-like setting so that modern Adventists in search of their 'roots' may be able to learn more of our uncommon heritage."

The Miller property is a regular stop on denominational history field tours each year. Like many other sites significant in Seventh-day Adventist church history, it is at present privately owned. Today the Miller house itself is "off-limits" to tourists, though they presently are allowed to visit "ascension rock" and the Miller chapel.

With private ownership, visitation rights—even when granted—are always subject to the whim of the current owner, and, therefore, revokable at any time. Acquisition of this site by AHP would guarantee unhampered access to Miller's home to the hundreds of Adventist tourists who annually visit the area.

Contributions toward the cost of purchase and restoration of this property are tax-deductible, and official receipts will be sent to all who send checks or money orders to: Adventist Historic Properties, Inc., 165 North Washington Avenue, Battle Creek, MI 49106.

Reactions like these boost our stock in any relationship we count special. The Greeks had a word for it—epieikeia (pronounced epee-ay-kay'-a). It's a difficult word to translate into our English language. In short, it means "moderation." But the Greek word encompasses much more than our English one.

A family member extends epieikeia if he or she knows just when and how to "relax justice and extend mercy" in a particular family situation. Epieikeia knows when not to apply the strict letter of the law. It resists exacting the last pound of flesh, even when "legally" you could.

Not bad, this old Greek solution. Epieikeia, a gracious gentleness in a strained situation, a moderate reaction in a sensitive moment.

The Greeks Had A Word For It

It was bad! A $50.00 repair bill on the damaged lawn mower and $150.00 for the fender and door job on the Chev. To make matters worse, with a little more care it could all have been avoided. Evelyn just hadn't looked before she slipped the car in reverse.

But Evelyn's feelings and person were more precious to Dan than a new Chev or his lawn mower. "It's all right, Honey," he comforted. "The car and the lawn mower can both be repaired. I'm pretty sure our insurance will care for most of it. I'm just so glad you weren't hurt," he added as he drew her close to him.

Spanish Book Is A Success

The initial printing of 50,000 Spanish CONFLICTO COSMICO, CONFLICTO COSMICO, has already been sold. A new printing is being rushed through Pacific Press's factory to meet the demand. Introduced in early 1984, CONFLICTO COSMICO was an instant success. This special newsprint edition of the Ellen G. White favorite, THE GREAT CONTROVERSY, was developed specifically for the 1,000 Days of Reaping program. Since its introduction CONFLICTO COSMICO has become an important part of the Hispanic SDA witnessing program.
